MOORE REPLACES TINY THOMPSON IN DETROIT NET

IN TOUGH SPOT

Will be Remembered for Fine Play With Hawks in Championship Series

(By The Canadian Press)

Bushy-haired Alfie Moore, who has stepped into National Hockey League breaches before, enters the nets for Detroit Red Wings when they oppose the Bruins at Boston tonight in just the sort of setting the Toronto goaltender likes.

Everything happens to Moore and this time he has been called from the shadows to substitute for the great Tiny Thompson, who is out of action with a strained back. Few would rate Alfie in a class with the veteran Thompson, but he still might bring some sort of incentive to the failing Red Wings.

Twice in the past Moore has been called in to tend goal for New York Americans, first in place of Roy Worters and then for Earl Robertson. His greatest bit of pinch-hitting, though, came in the Stanley Cup finals of 1938, when he replaced the injured Mike Karakas in Chicago's nets for the first game with the Maple Leafs at Toronto.

The Hawks wanted to use a major league goalie but, when they were ordered to use Moore, they got so tough and Alfie got so tough that Chicago won the opener 3-1. The rest is history. The Black Hawks went on to win the world championship in four games of the best-of-five series.

Again on the Spot

Again Moore is on the spot—this time because the Red Wings are tied for last place with the Americans and because the Bruins are fighting to gain the top. He might make the Red Wings as fighting mad as he made the Black Hawks that spring evening in '36.

Toronto or Boston, or both, can leap into a first-place tie with the idle New York Rangers. The Maple Leafs play the Americans at New York in their first test without both members of their high-scoring combination, Gordon Drillon and Sylvanus Apps.

Examination showed yesterday that Drillon may not be out for another 10 days, as feared when he was injured Saturday night. His foot injury may heal sufficiently to let him play against the Bruins at Toronto Thursday.

Montreal Canadiens, who broke a losing streak of nine games by winning at Chicago Sunday, will play the Black Hawks again tonight in Montreal.

After Surprise Marriage

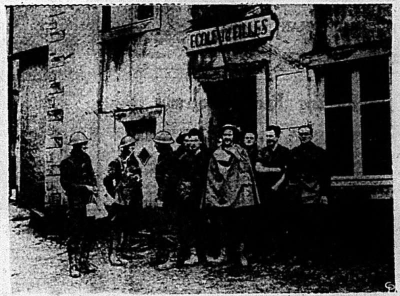
SWISS MISSES GET WAR TRAINING

Young women of Switzerland who have volunteered for service as chauffeurs in the Swiss army ambulance corps, are shown attending an outdoor instruction session. They wear field gray uniforms, steel helmets and special heavy shoes with thick, woollen stockings. They carry the regulation army gas mask.

BRITISH TOMMIES "GO TO SCHOOL"



The billet outside which these British Tommies are shown, somewhere in France, was a girls' school until the outbreak of war. It now houses a detachment of infantrymen, who haven't bothered to take down the sign.

FRESH MILK — CAFETERIA STYLE

A Finnish soldier in a rest camp behind the lines is shown getting a helmet full of milk from a very patient cow, which had evidently been drafted into the army.

Friends

By JOE BEAVERS

Ada Lush had a great gift with plants. Where scant geraniums bloomed for her neighbors, Ada contrived an artist's paradise. Accordingly, when the South Moulton Horticultural society held its show Ada was persuaded to show some of her pets. She did not like it very much, for Ada belonged to a past generation and hated publicity. Her father, sometime rector of St. Thomas had declared that "no gentlewoman should get her name in the papers." Ada secretly considered herself very much of a gentlewoman, and she saw little difference in a scandal and a flower show.

But she allowed herself to be persuaded. Six fine pots of varied blossoms were entered. Ada herself invested in a new dress—lavender.

The day dawned in beauty. The great tents looked like giant mushrooms as Ada timidly, approached the exhibitors' entrance. She would have liked to tremble a little, only she was not the trembling kind. Therefore, she smiled, showing such pretty, sound, white teeth that a man standing by a superb orchid exhibit lifted his hat and asked her the nature of her own competitors.

"Just geraniums," she said shyly. "I think they must be in this tent somewhere."

"Yes. I guess they are," smiled the stranger. "I don't believe even South Moulton would place geraniums among the vegetables."

Ada allowed herself a slight laugh. She laughed charmingly, like a young girl of about the Jane Austen period.

"My name is Jack Durham," said the stranger. "I belong here by birth, but I have been away, in the tropics, for some years, and—"

"I am afraid South Moulton will seem very quiet to you," ventured Ada. As a native of South Moulton surely it would be correct for the late rector's daughter to extend some kind of welcome. Besides, his eyes were her favorite shade of brown.

"Been getting orchids. D'ye like them?" rather eagerly.

"I think they're perfectly lovely.

"They grow on one. At first they seemed uncanny to me. Now I look on them as you do on geraniums. I believe. Friends." He smiled again, more with the brown eyes than the lips. Ada was glad to note his hair was as white as her own. How foolish to be glad Ada blushed.

"You may recall my dear father, the Reverend Dr. Lush?"

"He was my father's closest friend. Say, you're not by any chance little Ada—no, no! I guess she married years ago."

"I have never married. But I am Ada Lush. And I remember you used to pull my pigtails."

"I must have been a loathsome little pest," he said, "but, you see, I had no parents. Father and mother drowned together on their yacht, when I saw only two. Never yacht had many advantages. Living in South America now for two years, done a little exploring. Botanical stuff. May I call on you —Ada? Or must it be Miss Lush?"

"I suppose you may call me Ada —er—Jack, since we have been friends, though distant, for so many years, and since we are no longer young, and everything."

"I confess I felt a pretty old man when I entered these plants. So many changes in South Moulton. But now, seeing you, still such a young lady . . . you'll pardon me for saying you are the first person I have seen blush for ten years."

"They're painted so much, the poor, silly dears, they just can't," said Ada, "and also I have a silly way of blushing all the time—for nothing at all, you know." Her cheeks were like the roses they were scrutinizing on their slow passage to the geranium exhibit.

"First prize!" cried Ada (she hoped she wasn't being unlike a gentlewoman!) "Oh, I have tended them so! You know," timidly, "you said they seemed like friends. Well, that is how plants seem to me. I have very few friends here now. So many dead, and so many gone away. This is no place to bring up a family. Even our schools are said to be old-fashioned."

"I like it" said Jack firmly. "It suits me. Now I've found a friend —I hope I may count on you to second that—I intend to settle here. I'm getting too old a man to continue fighting malaria indefinitely in the South American forests. I had intended this last trip to be my last. Now I have finally made up my mind to remain in South Moulton. That is, if one plan I've made comes through."

"I hope you do stay. And that your, er, plan is successful.

"It rests with you Ada. As you said we aren't as young as we once were, although we are what horse doctors call 'sound in wind and limb. If you are willing to forget the pain of those pulled pigtails and put up with an old fellow who knows more about orchids than about making delightful little ladies happy well?"

"I am willing to be your—friend —anyway you want," said Ada faintly.

And it seemed as if all the blossoms in the great tents danced quaint minuets in honor of their courting.

HUSBAND AND WIFE IN JURY

St. Clairsville, O., Jan. 8—(AP)—Asked if there were any reason he couldn't serve on a jury, F. D. Kirkpatrick said his wife was in the panel. "Well," smiled Judge C. L. Belt, "you two could agree for once, couldn't you?" So Kirkpatrick joined his wife in the box.

Madoc

Madoc—The January meeting of St. Peter's Presbyterian Church, Madoc Women's Missionary Society was held on Thursday afternoon, Jan. 4th at the home of Miss Muncey with a very fine attendance. The meeting was in charge of the President and took the form of a New Year prayer service. A hymn was sung and the call to worship theme with Scripture passages was given, followed by Mrs. Sharp's reading. Mrs. Hunter led in prayer of thanksgiving for joys, happiness and love of friends, then silent prayer on selected topics. A beautiful poem "I know not" was given followed by prayer by Mrs. Armstrong.

Mrs. Lester O'Hara gave a very fine poem on New Year's Day followed by prayer. A hymn was sung and a short poem "The blotted page" was read. Mrs. Johnson read an article on "Our systematic giving for this year." A short poem "Only this I ask" was read. The collection was taken and the president then took the business.

The treasurer gave the report for the year and also the expense fund report. The Mission Band report for the year was also read and the resignation of Mrs. K. Nicol as leader was accepted. Mrs. Hunter agreed to act as leader. Sixteen visits were reported to sick and shut ins. Mrs. Hallstone agreed to act as assistant to the Expense Secretary, Mrs. Armstrong. Some New Year's thoughts were read in closing and the president closed a very fine meeting with prayer. The hostess was assisted by Mrs. Curry and Mrs. Hallstone in serving lunch. Mrs. Hunter presented Mrs. McCaffrey with a beautiful book for "Clippins" as an appreciation of her work for the auxiliary.

The January meeting of the Women's Missionary Society of Trinity United Church was held at the home of Mrs. T. E. Burnside on Thursday afternoon, January 4th, with the newly appointed president Mrs. Manley Fox in the chair. Thoughts of the Old and New Year were presented in song and poems. Reports of the year's work were given by the various secretaries. Mrs. M. Fox was appointed representative to the Official Board of the Church. The installation service of the newlyelected officers was conducted by the pastor Rev. A. Poulter. Mrs. Earl Bernside gave a brief sketch of the first chapter of the study book. A vocal duet "Tis Jesus" was rendered by Mrs. Poulter and Mrs. L. Ashley. Devotional exercises conducted by Mrs. Wickham closed the meeting. A social half hour was enjoyed by the members.

The Alert Fire Company of Madoc met in the fire hall for their annual meeting and the following officers for 1940 were elected:

Chief—Leonard Mulrooney.
Asst. Chief—Percy Phillips.
Captain—Robert Comerford.
Lieutenant—Percy Gunn.
Secretary—Will R. Gray.
Treasurer—John Kincaid
Foreman of Hose—Arthur Bird.
Branchmen—The company.
Instructor on New Pumper—Wesley Hulin.
Assistant Instructor—John Hallstone.

Frankford

Frankford — The funeral of the late Mrs. Kravacek was held on Saturday at 2.30 from her late residence in Frankford. The service was held in the St. Francis church at three o'clock by Father Le Sage. Music was supplied by the Czech choir. Interment was made in the Roman Catholic cemetery. She leaves to mourn her loss; her husband one son aged 9 years, residing in Frankford and two daughters still in Czechoslovakia.

Miss Ruby Hadley has returned to her home after spending some time in Rochester, New York.

Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Tripp have moved in with Mr. Wm. Tripp, as he was left alone following the death of his wife a short time ago.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Loney have moved into the residence formerly occupied by Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Tripp.

Mr. Wilbert Rogers has returned home from Belleville hospital much improved.

Miss Helen Walls is spending some time in the Glen Ross school doing some observation teaching under the guidance of Mr. L. Bird.

Three Pairs Trousers Yield Sum of $4,197

Davenport, Ia., Jan. 8 (AP)—With the weather below zero, hospital attendants here weren't surprised when they received a patient wearing three pairs of trousers. It's the $4,197 they found in the various pockets that bowled 'em over. The patient was Herman Arp, 67, a retired farmer. He was treated for stroke.

TORONTO STOCKS.

Toronto, Jan. 9 (CP) — Stocks slumped on Toronto Exchange today in quiet trading during the first three hours and the dullness persisted into the early afternoon.

Industrial, base metal indices lost about .60 and the golds were down .30 at noon while the western oils held steady.

Secondary golds weakened 10 to 10 cents in spots but parts of the recessions were recovered before noon. East Malartic, Kerr-Addison, Aunor, Preston, San Antonio and Pickle Crow were among the soft spots.

Senior oils, papers, implements and building issues lost ground. Afternoon trading brought losses of a few cents for Home Oil and Okalta while other western oils held up.

WALL STREET

New York, Jan. 9 —(AP)—Efforts to give the stock market a mild life met with a cool reception today and leading issues generally stumbled into lower territory. Small gains in most cases were converted into declines of fractions to more than 2 points. Few plus signs were in evidence near the fourth hour.

Hiram Walker, in the Canadian group, advanced a fraction while Distillers Seagram dipped as much and Canadian Pacific and Lake Shore Mines held unchanged. In the Bond Market Canada 4s improved 1-2 point.

Among resistant shares was Studebaker. Rails were less vulnerable than several other groups, being aided by indications traffic was continuing at a highly satisfactory rate.

LIVESTOCK

Toronto, Jan. 9.—(CP) — Cattle sales were active at firm prices up to mid-session on the Toronto Livestock Market today. The calf and sheep sections were steady while no sales were recorded on lambs. No price was established on hogs.

Receipts reported by the Dominion Livestock branch were—Cattle 1,510, calves 570, hogs 1,180, sheep and lambs 570.

Weighty steers sold at $7 to $7.75 and butcher steers and heifers at $6.25 to $7.60 with a few at $7.75. Butcher cows brought $4.25 to $6 with canners and cutters at $3.25 to $4. Bulls ranged from $5 to $6 and fed calves sold at $8 to $9.

Choice veal calves sold at $12-$13 with the bulk of vealers selling between $10-$13. A few grass calves sold at $5.75 to $6.

Hogs closed yesterday at $9 to $9.15 off truck and $12 25 dressedweight.

Sheep sold from $3 to $6.

Montreal, Jan. 9—(CP) — Receipts: Cattle, 146; sheep and lambs, 45; hogs, 937; calves, 286.

Cows were in good demand. Good ones made $5.50.

Good veals brought $11.50. No tops. The bulk of veals were of common to medium quality and sold between $10-$11.

Lambs sold on a flat basis at $8 to $8.50 and sheep $3 to $5 according to quality.

Hogs were steady at $9.50 for bacons fed and watered. Selects drew $1 premium with regular cuts on off grades. Sows made $6.50 to $7. Hogs sold on rail grade brought $12.60 hot weight.

Hog Quotations

Toronto, Jan. 9—(CP)— Price advances of from 10 to 25 cents were recorded at Barrie, Brantford and Stratford in bacon-hog markets reporting today. Other markets were unchanged.

Liveweight: Brantford $8.65, Chatham $8.75.

Dressedwei-hts: Barrie $12.00, Brantford $11.75, Chatham $12.oo, Hamilton $11.50 plus transportation, Hull $11.75, London $11.50 plus transportation, Peterborough $11.50 plus transportation, Stratford $11.50 plus transportation.

Riotous Scene As Session Opens In French Parliament

Paris, Jan. 9 (AP)—A fight between Rightist members and a handful of former Communist Deputies today marked a riotous beginning of the 1940 session of the French parliament.

The Communist party in France was outlawed shortly after the start of the war.

Few Price Changes In Toronto Produce

Toronto, Jan. 9—Price changes were few on the Toronto open produce market yesterday. Buying interest in eggs was fairly good, but trading in butter was hardly sufficient to establish representative prices.

Top-grade eggs opened the week on a steady note, due to improved trading and a consequent clean-up of supplies at the week-end. In spite of a good enquiry, however, undergrades declined slightly. In the graded section Grades B and C eased to 20c and 19c, respectively, down 1c from Saturday. Top-grades were unchanged in price.

The butter market was dead. Only the odd sale of first-grade Ontario creamery stock was made at 27 3-4c lb. But while buying interest was slight, offerings were not heavy and there was no real pressure on holders to sell.

Montreal Produce

Butter — First grade creamery prints, jobbing price, 29c; first grade solids jobbing price, 28 1-2c.

Eggs graded shipments in used free cases, selling price, A-large, 24c; A-medium, 22c; A-pullets, 20c; B-large and C, unquoted. Receipts, 567 cases.

WAR BRIEFS

Washington, Jan. 9—(AP)—Admiral Harold R. Stark, Chief of United States naval operations, disclosed today that present studies "indicate" that the navy will built 50,000 or 52,000-ton battleships, which would be the world's biggest. Larger vessels, he said, are not indicated.

Stark gave this information to the House of Representatives Naval Committee in response to questions as to what he thought of talk in Congressional circles about building superbattleships of 70,000 or 80,000 tons.

Berne, Switzerland, Jan. 9—(AP)—A naturalized Swiss arrested while doing military service hange dhimself in his cell and the General Staff announced he had confessed his connection with a foreign power.

A carefully worded communique gave no hint as to the previous nationality of the prisoner or the country he was alleged to be serving.

Liverpool, aJn. 9—(CP) Cable)—Raleigh Frobisher Drake — yes. that's his name —ahd a pub in Liverpool but the licence was relinquished today. The bearer of these famous naval names quit rolling out the barrels to join the army.

London, Jan. 9—(CP)—The admiralty announced today that British warships had convoyed 5,911 allied and neutral ships since the start of the war, with the loss of 12 by enemy action.

Shipping fared better during the first week of 1940 than in any other previous week of the war, the admiralty said. Only two British ships, the steamship Box Hill and the trawled Eta, were sunk by mines. Three neutral ships, one Sorwegian and two Swedish, were lost.

LIKELY TO EXTEND

There were reports that a new Ministry of Imperial Defence would be created with Winston Churchill, First Lord of the Admiralty, as coordinator of the army, navy and air force.

The diplomatic correspondent of the Daily Mail said that Viscount Gort, Commander-in-Chief of the British Expeditionary Force, had "triumphed again" in having the Royal Air Force placed under the Army High Command. This was one of the issues which were said in some quarters to have brought about a rift between Mr. Hore-Belisha and the army command preceding the war secretary's resignation.

Report Not Verified.

The Authoritative Press Association said, however, that the Daily Mail report could not be verified. It added: "R.A.F. circles in France have learned with some relief of the signs that the controversy whether the R.A.F. will control its own destiny or come partly under the army, is ending satisfactorily."

The Daily Mail report said an air officer commanding - in - chief in France is to be appointed shortly and "will be directly answerable to Lord Gort."

It was learned that the Royal Air Force has chosen a staff of instructors to go to Canada to assist in the Empire Air Training Scheme there. Flying instructors, engineering officers, equipment officers and staff officers will leave in a comparatively short time to man the service flying schools constructed by the Canadian government, it was learned.

To Reimburse B.E.F.

Reinforcement of the British Expeditionary Force in France was predicted by the Daily Express.

"Heavy reinforcements are to be sent to the B.E.F.," the paper said. "More and more front line duties are likely to be taken over by our fighting men, so that soldiers over 30 might return to their peacetime employment.

"France, eager to restore her industrial machine to full activity, pointed to our army of unemployed and asked to send her 200,000 or more of our workers.

"But the cabinet did not regard this as feasible. There are important differences between French and British wages and working conditions, and other complications. So younger Britons will take the place of older Frenchmen at the front as an alternative. At the same time the cabinet are considering plans to absorb unemployment in this country."

WAR WITH NAZIS

to treat the British people as they are treating "their conquered people".

"But we on our side have no such vindictive designs," he said.

He labelled as a "vicious invention" of German propagandists the thought that Britain would attempt to annihilate the Germans. He described Germany's policy as a threat and a menace "to the moral standards on which western civilization is built".

Britain Still Master of the Seas.

Mr. Chamberlain declared that Britain's mastery of the seas was unimpaired and that Britain was ready to repel any invader from the air.

"Four months have gone by and the air raids have not come," he said after mentioning blackouts and other precautions.

He drew laughter a moment later when he said:

"Some people are disappointed, perhaps."

"I do not consider that the risk of air raids is over or diminished," he said, "and I am certain that we should make a capital mistake if we became lax in our policy or changed it.

"It is only on the sea," the prime minister said, "that England can see the trend of hostilities.

"If we take a survey we can look upon it with satisfaction. The oceans of the world have been swept clear of German shipping."

German Shipping Bottled Up.

German shipping is either bottled up or confined to Baltic ports, he declared.

"If we subtract from our losses by enemy action our gain by capture from the enemy or by new ships or by transfer from foreign flags we have last 132,000 tons, less than one per cent of our merchant fleet.

"Every day, every day now there are passing 11,000,000 tons of British shipping over the several oceans of the world.

"In this period we have lost two large warships, the Royal Oak and the Courageous, and several smaller vessels."

Mr. Chamberlain said "our command of the sea is unimpaired and the defeat of the Graf Spee in one of the finest naval actions in all our history, followed by her self destruction rather than face a renewal of the fight, has not only cleared the South Atlantic of that raider but it has inflicted irreparable damage upon German naval prestige in the world.

"Meanwhile inexorable pressure of sea power upon the enemy has added to her difficulties to carry on the war."

Signs of Pressure on Germany

If the results are not yet visible at home, the Prime Minister continued, the people should head the Christmas orations of the German leaders to guess their state of mind.

"Germany used her brute force upon unhappy Poland and today we can see how she is treating the Poles and the Czechs—starving and shooting the people, tearing and uprooting them from their homes forcing them to leave the lands where their families have been settled for generations.

"And today it is the turn of Finland."

He referred here, he said, to the pact Germany made with Soviet Russia.

Finns Fight Against Violence

"Finland is fighting against the forces of unscrupulous violence just as we are."

He spoke of Finnish "heroism" and of the gallant fight the smaller country was putting up, calling the Finns a "valiant people."

"There is another country to whom our sympathy goes out today—Turkey, a new Turkey, which is not at war but which in a few days through floods and earthquakes has suffered more casualties than the be'ligerents have suffered in the war.

"Even today we do not know the extent of the casualties."

Then he spoke of the relief work and declared the Turks are taking their tragedy with "the stoicism that has always characterized them as a nation."

Deep Friends With France

Turning back to the west, he went on:—

"I can't help thinking that our experience of this association with France will be so valuable that neither of us can give it up.

"It might even develop into something wider and deeper because there is nothing which would do more to precipitate the start of peaceful reconstruction which would make permament its results" than such a union.

Such an Anglo-French union wou'd benefit the whole world, Mr. Chamberlain declared amid cheers.

He spoke of the French "readiness to accept any hardship" in the face of national danger.

"I am confident that we in this country will not lag behind the French in our resolution in the inevitable hardships of war."

British Registration

Switching his topic to "the home front", Mr. Chamberlain spoke of the conscription of British citizens and declared that "the total number of men registered since the introduction of compulsory service amounts to between 2,500,000 and $2,750,000."

Added to the regulars, he said, the number is "prodigious".

Then, speaking of aerial defence, he said Britain was ready to repel any invader from the air. He enumerated the various branches of this service, spoke of the balloon defences, anti-aircraft guns, the blackouts.

"Four months have gone by and the air raids have not come', he said. A moment later he drew laughter when he said—

"Some people are disappointed, perhaps".

He could not agree with the view of some eople, he said, that Britain has gone too far in her preparations.

Risk of Air Raids Not Over

"I do not consider that the risk of air raids is over or diminished. And I am certain that we should make a capital mistake if we became lax in our policy or changed it."

Mr. Chamberlain said he regretted that "some of the evacuated children have returned to London," not merely because their presence in the city might be perilous in times of air raids.

These children, he said, had benefitted enormously in the country, growing in height and weight, and expressed the hope that parents would consider that the "sacrifices" they were making were necessary.

Reserves Necessary

The Prime Minister said he was certain the British people were "united in their determination" to end the war and so end the spirit of German policy which we shall miss".

Because of the necessity of producing arms, Mr. Chamberlain said, fewer men are available to produce civilian goods.

He spoke at length of the production of goods and their importation and of the difficulties of shipping from foreign ports

Must Increase Exports

"Since our supplies of gold and foreign securities are limited—and we must keep reserves of these since this may be a long war—we are driven back upon exports, and in order to do our job successfully we must increase the exports and lessen the imports, doing without the things we might do without."

He was confident, he said, that Britons would not complain, remembering as they must the hardships of the men in France, on the sea, and in the air.

Take Profits Out of War

Turning to taxation, Mr. Chamberlain said the government was doing its utmost to take the profits out of war.

"The government is trying to show that in this democratic country we can carry out the plans necessary to insure our victory," he said.

"What I want the country to realize is that the war is going on, though in a form that is unfamiliar and that the restrictions imposed on the people are necessary to make victory certain."

"Efforts Will See us Through"

If everybody makes sacrifices "our combined efforts will see us through."

"It is becoming increasingly clear that the German government had long planned the successive stages and its appetite grows upon what it feeds upon."

The German leaders, he said bitterly, would like to treat "the British as they are treating their conquered people."

"But we on our side have no such vindictive designs."

Residents Tyendinaga Indian Reserve To Get Short Course in Agriculture

A challenge to residents of the Tyendinaga Indian Reserve to show their interest in securing further practical education in their business of farming and homemaking a short course in Agriculture and Home Economics will be held in the Reserve Council Hall from January 22nd to Feb. 2nd inclusive.

Authorized by the Indian Affairs Branch of the Department of Mines and Resources, the course will include studies of Live Stock, Feeds and Feeding, Poultry, Field Crops, Vegetables and Small Fruits, Weeds and Weed Seeds and Soils and Soil Fertilizers in the Agricultural Division, while the Home Economic Course will include Foods and Cookers, Laundry, Household Management and Kitchen Planning and Clothing.

The courses will be conducted by E. J. Sexsmith, Agricultural Representative, Indian Affairs Branch, Department of Mines and Resources, Ottawa, Elliot Moses, Tyendinaga Reserve, Miss M. A. Clarke, Superintendent, Women's Institute, Toronto; Mrs. Ethel Monture, Institute speaker, Hagersville, H. M. Jones, local Indian Agent, and the local Agricultural Society.

Special speakers who will address students during the courses will include H. W. Whiteside, B.S.A., O.A.C., Guelph; Dr. W. J. Stevens, Crop, Weed and Seed Dept Toronto; Professor Geo. Rush, Dept. of Agriculture, Toronto; Prof. H. G. Bell, O.A.C., Guelph; Dr. Marcellus, O.A.C. Guelph; Prof. John Simmons, Reforestation Branch, Toronto. Special motion pictures will be shown on various subjects, and special lectures will be given during the courses.

Residents of the Reserve, some of whom are noted as being among the best agriculturists in the district, have been invited to attend, and in all likelihood, these scions of proud Indian races will avail themselves of the opportunity to absorb the knowledge that is being placed at their disposal by the

The thought that Britons would attempt to annihilate the Germans was branded by Mr. Chamberlain as "a vicious invention" made for German consumption.

German Threat is Moral Standards

Germany's policy, he declared, is a threat and a menace "to the moral standards on which western civilization is built."

He referred to President Roosevelt's message to Pope Pius XII—the plea for peace—and said "I profoundly agree" with the President.

"In our determination to achieve our purpose we are united . . and supported by the moral approval of all who realize that the fate of civilization is bound up with our success."

Thus, he said, Britain will await the future "with faith in our arms and our cause."

CAMPBELLFORD WINS FROM BATA

Shoe Company Team Defeated 6-2 at Frankford on Monday Night

Frankford, (Special)—The third league game of the season was played on Frankford ice on Monday evening when Campbellford came down to play their first game with Bata. Despite the extreme cold weather many of the fans of both teams turned out to see them play. The boys put on a game that was well worth seeing, Campbellford leading by a score 6-2.

In the first period Bata met the visiting boys in a very even game and at that stage of the game it was hard to say which team would win, although at the end of the period Campbellford had scored 3 and the Bata boys 2. Scores were made on the Campbellford team by Blake, Hendy and D. Free, while Hanna, assisted by Reid and Mayette scored for Bata.

During the second and third periods, Campbellford players had it much their own way. The Bata boys held them down fairly well although no more scores were made by them for the remainder of the evening.

In the second period Hendy made a solo play and Wilks from Blake, making two more for Campbellford. In the last minutes of the second period F. Free was carried from the ice as he crashed into the boards.

During the third period there was only one score, and that was made by Hendy for Campbellford. The entire game was rough with several penalties but no serious accidents. The teams:

Campbellford — Goal, Donalds; defence, Wilks, D. Free; centre, Hendy; wings, Blake, Aitcheson; alternates, Nichos, Kelly, Tucker, F. Free.

German Patrols 'Easily Repulsed'

Paris, Jan. 9 —(AP)— French military sources said today German patrols attacked French advance posts west of the Vosges Mountains and the Saar River during the night with machine-guns and hand grenades, but were "easily repulsed."

These sources asserted British forces sank a German submarine yesterday, but did not give the place of the action.

The French Army Command's communique today said:—

BRITISH TANKER SINKS

London, Jan. 9 (CP)—The British tanker British Liberty, 8,485 tons, sank in the North Sea over the week end and 20 crewmen are missing and believed lost, it was announced today. It was believed the vessel struck a mine. The Captain was among the missing. Eighteen survivors arrived at a French channel port yesterday. They said one of the ship's lifeboats capsized.

Fire Destroys Plant Of Paper Company

Toronto, Jan. 9—(CP)— A two-alarm fire destroyed the $150,000 plant of the Dominion Corrugated Paper Company in the northwest part of Toronto last night, starting shortly before midnight in a storage room, the flames roared through the one-storey building, jumping two fire doors and burning through the roof.

Handicapped by near zero temperature, which transformed them into walking glaciers, firemen fought the stubborn blaze for four hours before bringing it under control. Three firemen were slightly hurt as they made their way through the burning building, carrying hose pipes to the heart of the fire.

Lieut. Sam Gaston crawled out of the smoke-filled building, his face covered with bloor pouring from a deep cut over his eye. He said he struck his head against a pipe. He was given first-aid and returned to his position.

The freezing temperature turned the streams of water played on the buildings into columns of ice as they smacked against the walls. The area surrounding the large building became a skating rink.

An official of the company set the value of the building at $30,000, the equipment at $100,000 and the stock at $20,000.

Cause of the outbreak was not determined immediately.

Report Denied

Dublin, Jan. 9—(CP Cable)—The publicity department of the Irish Hospital Sweepstakes last night issued a flat denied that sweepstakes would close for the duration of the war after the scheduled January 16 draw.

The publicity department statement said—

"Joseph McGrath, managing director of the Irish hospitals' Sweepstakes, emphatically denied a report appearing in some papers today to the effect that the Irish sweepstakes are to close down and that the Grand National Sweestake will be the last".

The newspaper reports claimed that foreign exchange restrictions of many countries were said to have reduced support for the lottery below a profitable level.

BRIDGE STREET YOUNG PEOPLE'S UNION

Bridge Street Young People's Union held their regular weekly meeting last evening in the ladies' parlours with a splendid attendance.

The meeting opened with a sing song led by Doris Williams after which the remainder of the evening was in charge of the Christian Missions group.

Gkh?beSsci 'Tngs..'G o..—d..

A short worship service was conducted by Albert Watson, the theme being Christian love. A very pleasing instrumental was rendered by Theda Foster.

The society was fortunate in having as guest speaker for the evening Dr. Lynn, a medical missionary from China and a nephew of the eminent child specialist, Dr. Allan Brown. Due to the war crisis in China. Dr. Lynn had been forced to return home.

After a duet by Hilda Reisor and May Tilley the meeting came to a close by all repeating the Mispah benediction.

G. Clifford Baragar New Chairman of Public Utilities Com.

Commissioner G. Clifford Baragar, was elected to the chairmanship of the Belleville Public Utilities Commission at the inaugural meeting of the 1940 body held today, General Manager O. H. Scott announced this morning.

The new chairman was elected to a two-year term with the commission in the 1939 elections. Previous to his election he had served on the city council for a number of years.

The election of the new chairman featured the meeting today. Routine business was conducted with nothing of an important nature developing. The report of the commission for the year just passed will be presented to the commission by General Manager Scott at a meeting to be held in the near future.

R. S. Shortt and Not Frank Harris Charged With Careless Driving

Subsequent to an automobile accident that occurred on the Belleville-Foxboro highway during the week between Christmas and New Year's Day, R. S. Shortt will be charged with careless driving, and not Mr. Frank Harris, R.R. 5 Belleville, as was formerly reported.

Fire Destroys Home Of Delos Fox

Fire, believed to have started when sparks from a chimney started a blaze inside wooden partitions, completely destroyed the large frame dwelling house of Delos Fox, farmer residing at Remington, yesterday afternoon.

Neighbors raced to the scene of the blaze and succeeded in retrieving the most of the furniture of the ground floor of the structure, but dense smoke drove them back when they attempted to save that on the second floor of the house.

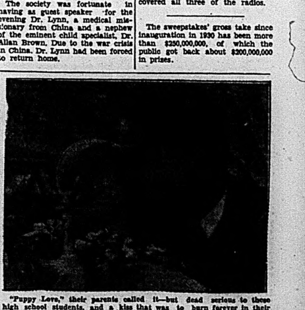
Mr. Fox and other male members of the household were away at the time. Mrs. Fox was the sole occupant of the house when the fire started. The flames gained rapid headway as they swept through the partitions to the main part of the building, and within a few minutes the entire structure was a mass of flame and smoke.

YOUTH IS CHARGED WITH THEFT OF RADIOS

Belleville police arrested a local youth yesterday and today charged him with the entering of Hitchon's radio store and the theft of three radios, two of which were today recovered by local authorities. The lead to the apprehension of the lad was gained by Eugene Hitchon, proprietor of the store, and was gained when Mr. Hitchon was endeavoring to sell a mantel model radio in a Belleville home yesterday.

Prior to Christmas the Hitchon radio store, Victoria Ave., was entered and three mantel model radios stolen. Yesterday Mr. Hitchon was soliciting a sale in Belleville when the prospective customer stated she would like to purchase a radio of the same model received by a neighbor for Christmas. When Mr. Hitchon visited the neighbor to ascertain the make of radio in question he was surprised to find the machine was one which had been stolen from his store recently. Today Detective Fred Isard recovered all three of the radios.

The sweepstakes' gross take since inauguration in 1930 has been more than $250,000,000, of which the public got back about $200,000,000 in prizes.



"Puppy Love," their parents called it—but dead serious to these high school students, and a kiss that was to burn forever in their memory, now showing at the Capitol Theatre with an added attraction "Private Detective," starring Jane Wyman and Dick Foran.

10 AMBULANCES RED CROSS GIFT TO FINN GOV'T

Gifts of Canadian Sympathizers to Relief Work in Finland Reach $50,000

(By Fred Backhouse)
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

London, Jan. 9.—(CP Cable) Ten ambulances of the same type used by the British army are being prepared for shipment to the Finnish Government as a gift of the Canadian Red Cross Society.

The total contribution of Canadian sympathizers to relief work in Finland has now reached $50,000, Dr. F. W. Routley of Toronto said. Of this amount, $3,500 will be devoted to Finnish child refugees.

Mrs. G. A. Gripenberg, wife of the Finnish Minister in London, told The Canadian Press that "Finland, struggling for existence, never will forget the noble help Canada has given".

Canadian Girl to Drive

Six of the ambulances will be manned by women of the First Aid Nursing Yeomanry under the command of Mary Runciman, on whose staff will be Lilian Krans of Calgary, formerly of St. Armand, Que.

The other four ambulances will be included in the friends' ambulance unit organized by Paul Cadbury of the famous Quaker family.

The ambulances are all of the latest design. It is understood that the British authorities, despite the demand for ambulances for the forces, have allowed the order to be rushed through.

The women drivers are all over 25 and are volunteers skilled in nursing and the treatment of gas cases. They will wear heavy sweaters and flying boots—the clothing designed by Surgeon-Commander Murray Levick for use by Grenfell workers in Labrador.

LICENCE PLATES SELLING SLOWLY

Issuer in District Urges Motorists to Buy Early and Avoid Congestion

Out of a city and district allotment of 5,500 sets of motor vehicle license plates, only four hundred have been sold to date, City Issuer Edgar Vermilyea stated today.

"The public generally have the same idea about the purchase of plates as it has about doing its Christmas shopping—always waiting until the last minute," Mr. Vermilyea smiled.

Last year when the expiry date for old licences drew near, and on the last day too, there was a rush for Mr. Vermilyea's office, with the result that a waiting line had to be formed, and only a few people admitted at a time.

Urging the motoring public not to wait until the last minute, Mr. Vermilyea stated that less congestion will result on March 31st, the last day for 1939 plates, if the public will but make up its mind to procure its licences early.

"It is just as easy to buy now as then, especially for those people who have to buy two dollar licences," he said.

REPORTS HANDED TO COUNTY POLICE

Attorney General Answers Charges Levelled by Minister in Service

Toronto, Jan. 9 (CP) — Since March, 1939, the Provincial Police have forwarded to the municipalities around Toronto thirteen reports they have received about gambling houses in those districts. No request has come from the Chiefs of Police or the Municipal Councils for the Provincial Police to take any action.

This statement was made by Attorney-General Gordon D. Conant today as the result of the attack by Rev. C. E. French on the department for not closing up gambling places around Toronto, and also the suggestion by Mayor Jackson, of New Toronto, that the Provincial Police should police these clubs because they had provincial charters.

"This is a democratic country and the municipalities do not like the Provincial Police going in on their territory," said the Attorney-General. "We have dozens of instances when there has been a complaint when we did step in.

"At the last session of parliament, I introduced a bill to coordinate the police forces ,and there was such a furore raised that the bill was dropped. Now it is up to the municipalities to ask us for help before we will act."

On May 19, 1939, the Attorney-General sent a letter to the Warden of York County offering to put five Provincial Police officers and one officer to act as high county constable for the county. On June 14, the department received a letter from the York County Council declaring the suggestion was not acceptable and declining the offer. It is a matter of record that York County and Lanark County are the only two in the province which did not pass a by-law to have a Provincial Police officer as high county constable.

Chamberlain's Speech

(Partial Text)

London, Jan. 9 (Via Radio) — (AP)—Following is a partial text (1,500) of Prime Minister Chamberlain's speech:

Before coming to the subject of my address this afternoon I should like first of all, my Lord Mayor, to thank you very sincerely for the kind and appreciative words that you have said about my city.

The burden of a Prime Minister in peace time has been enough to break up many of my predecessors.

In war time they are necessarily even more exacting. I had hoped that in my time, at any rate, war might have been averted. But since that day when war was declared, my sole thought and all my actions have been directed to one purpose only—namely, to do all I could in the closest conjunction with our staunchest French Allies to bring this war to a successful conclusion. To that purpose, I have subordinated everything else. . . .

Will Not Shirk Responsibilities

From that purpose, so long as I hold my present office, and until the war comes to an end, I will not be deflected. Nor will I shirk my inevitable responsibilities in what I feel to be right, no matter how difficult or even disagreeable they may be. . .

Once again, as 26 years ago, the historic buildings and the ancient streets of Britain are looking upon the faces of the King's subjects who are here from all parts of the world of their own free will, far away from their homes and their families, to take their part side by side with us in the great struggle that is before us. . .

This new year, which will probably be a fateful one in the history of the world, has opened quietly, but it is the quiet of the calm before the storm. We are at war, and vast numbers of men, armed with the most powerful weapons of destruction that science can devise, are watching one another from behind their defences.

Greater Activity in Air

We do not know how long that will last. In the air there is greater activity. There are individual combats which bear full witness to the gallantry and the daring of those young men who take part in them. There are daily reconnaissances far out over the sea into the enemy's territory or territorial waters, running the gauntlet of fire from the ground or of aerial attacks, and those expeditions are a high test of courage and endurance. But in the air, as on the land, we know that what is happening is merely the preliminary to the main struggle.

It is only on the sea that the war may be said to be in full operation. And it is on the sea that we can discern most clearly the trend of hostilities in the first four months of the war.

German Shipping Swept off Seas

"Well, if we take a survey, I think we shall find that the result is not unsatisfactory. The oceans of the world have been swept clear of German shipping. The German fleet which at the beginning of the war was less than a quarter of our own, has lost by capture, by sinking, and above all by scuttling, 228,000 tons. And most of it is either bottled up in foreign ports or is confined to the Baltic.

On the other side, attacks upon our fleets which of course present much more extensive a target whether by U-boat, by mine or by raider, have produced but meagre results.

British Losses Small

If we subtract from our losses by enemy action or by the ordinary marine casualties, our gains, by captures from the enemy, by new ships or by transfers from foreign flags, we have lost up to date 122,000 tons, less than one per cent of the Merchant fleet that we possess. And every day, every day now, there are passing to and fro upon the several oceans of the world no less than 11,000,000 tons of British shipping. In this period we have lost two large warships, the Royal Oak and the Courageous, and a certain number of smaller vessels.

Losses of Life at Sea

What is much more serious, more painful, is that we have also lost a number of valuable lives, in the Royal Navy, in the Mercantile Navy, in unarmed and defenceless commercial vessels.

And yet, ladies and gentlemen, our command of the seas is unimpaired and the defeat of the Graf Spee, in one of the finest naval actions in all our history, followed by her self-destruction rather than face a renewal of the fight, has not only cleared the South Atlantic of that raider but it has inflicted irreparable damage upon German naval prestige throughout the world.

Meantime, inexorable pressure of sea power acting upon the enemy is producing ever-increasing difficulties for her own economy and her ability to carry on the war. The net results are not yet strikingly visible and you may be quite sure that every effort is being made to conceal them.

You have only to read the Christmas orations of the German leaders to see that they are very present to their minds.

Germany's Brute Force

When I look forward beyond the boundaries of this country, we cannot fail to observe how easily, how rapidly those evil things of which I have spoken before would spread unless they were checked. Germany used her brute force upon unhappy Poland. Today we can see how she is treating the Poles and the Czechs.

Now it is the turn of Finland to be attacked by that power with whom Germany made an unholy pact and for whom she set the example of aggression.

Finland today is fighting against the forces of unscrupulous violence just as we are, ourselves. She is fighting for the same things— for liberty and for justice—and her marvellous successes fill us with admiration for her heroism, whilst her need calls for our sympathy and our aid. That valiant people can rest assured that our response to that resolution which was passed so recently at a meeting of the League of Geneva will be no mere formality.

Disasters of Flood and Quake in Turkey

There is another country, another valued friend, to whom our sympathy goes out today. I mean Turkey, Turkey who is not at war, but who in a few days by floods and earthquakes has suffered more casualties than have been sustained in many weeks of war by all of the belligerents together. Even now we do not know the full extent of the calamity of which every account brings us fresh stories to illustrate the horrors of the situation.

The British and the French governments have already contributed sums of money for the relief of the victims.

You know, ladies and gentlemen, this collaboration between France and ourselves is another instance of that close, that intimate association between us which now covers every aspect of the war—military, political, financial and economic. I can't help thinking that our experience of this association during the war will prove it to be so valuable that when the war is over neither of us will want to give it up.

Potent Force For Future.

And it might even develop into something wider and deeper because there is nothing which would do more to facilitate the task of peaceful reconstruction which has got to be undertaken sometime.

There is nothing which would contribute more toward the permanence of its results than the extension of Anglo-French collaboration in finance and economics to other nations in Europe and indeed perhaps to the whole world.

I am confident that we in this country will not lag behind the French in our resolution or in our cheerful acceptance of the inevitable hardships of war.

British Resources In Man-Power.

Let me now turn for a moment to the home front. In the very first day of war, parliament passed the National Service Armed Forces Act, which replaced the military training of last spring and which gave power to make liable for service by Royal proclamation all men between the age limits of 18 and 41. Under the first and the second proclamations which took place in October and December, respectively, nearly 500,000 men were registered. This year, we began on the first day of it with a third proclamation which renders liable to service 1,900,000 men between the ages of 19 and 28; so that if you include the numbers who are registered last June under the Military Training Act, some 240,000, we find that the total number of men, who, since the introduction of compulsory service have been registered or become liable to be called up under the proclamation, amounts to between 2,500,000 and 2,750,000.

Mobilization "Prodigious".

And if you add to that those who are members of the regular reserve and auxiliary forces before the war, and the very large numbers of volunteers who entered the army since the war and the great and growing forces of the Air Force and the Royal Navy, it can't be denied that the mobilization of the man-power of this country for military purposes is already on a prodigious scale.

Then, after all, four months have gone by and the air raids have not come. Some people think it really is very disappointing. And it is perhaps not surprising that others should ask whether, after all, these precautions were necessary, and whether we have not gone a great deal too far in the direction of safety.

Risk of Air Raids

Well, I wish I could take that view, but all I think I am going to say now about it is this: That whilst we have already reviewed all our different precautions, modified them where we thought we could do so without disregarding the important factor of safety, I do not consider that the risk of air raids is over, or even that it is diminished, and as long as that is so I am certain that we should make a capital mistake if we were to reverse the policy that we have hitherto followed.

And I must say I do regret that some of the evacuated children have returned to the town, not only because they add to the problems which would arise if air raids began, but also because thanks to the kindly spirit and the unselfish devotion of the dwellers in the country who have taken them in, they have very considerably benefited in health as is conclusively proved by their increase in height and weight.

Man-Power to Produce Armaments

Well, briefly, then, my theme is this: We mustn't think because this war has not taken the form hitherto that it did in 1914, that we can carry on our lives as if we were still at peace. We have got to do without a lot of things that we shall miss very much, and I am going to try to show you what. Although we are not yet actually fighting on land, we are making preparations to enable us to do so with the greatest effect whenever the right moment comes, and for that purpose we are devoting more and more of our manpower to the production of armaments. That must mean that there is less and less of our manpower available to produce civilian goods. And you may say to me, "But, haven't we got a great army of unemployed? And why can't they be used to produce these goods?"

Well, my answer to this is, first of all, that the figures of unemployment are, to some extent at any rate, misleading. They include quite a large number of people, perhaps 500,000, of those who are merely passing from one job to another.

Work In Arms Plants.

And as to the rest, well, the situation is only temporary, because the great bulk of those who can be usefully so employed will gradually be absorbed as we go on extending the number of firms who are engaged upon armament work, while in the engineering industry alone, including in it aircraft or air engine factories, we shall want hundreds of thousands more.

My point is that this demand for labor, for the purposes of armaments, is going to make it impossible for them at the same time to be producing civilian goods in the quantities which we have enjoyed hitherto. Even supposing, even supposing we had ample supplies of labor, we should still have to curtail our imports of goods which are not necessary for the prosecution of the war in order to leave available our resources of foreign exchange and of shipping, to purchase and to bring home in ships the imports of those things that we cannot do without.

Warns Against Pacifist Propaganda

Edinburgh, Jan. 9.— (CP) Warning against "Pacifist Propaganda". Home Secretary Sir John Anderson declared here today that peace at the present moment would mean nothing but "war postponed".

Sir John, who is also Minister for Home Security, referred to the absence of sensational developments on the fronts. That, he said, "is perhaps responsible for the feeling here and there that war is not worthwhile. There is no widespread feeling of this kind, but I would like to utter a warning against pacifist propaganda.

"It can be very subtle and its origin is at least suspect. This country has shown in a hundred ways that it is resolutely behind the government in its determination to put an end to the rule of jungle law in international affairs."

COOK ON VESSEL SUES CAPTAIN

Says Company Owes Her $472 in Arrears and $2,000 for Wrongful Dismissal

Toronto, Jan. 9 (CP)—Stating that while first cook on the S.S. City of Windsor she had been struck and injured by the master of the vessel, Mrs. Mary B. Robinson in assize court today sued Captain Alfred Francis and the Canada Steamship Lines for $472 arrears of salary and $2,000 for wrongful dismissal. Chief Justice Rose and a jury heard the case.

Plaintiff claimed that the master "proceeded to 'log' plaintiff over the incident and discharged her, depriving of the balance of the season's wages and giving her a wrongful certificate of discharge."

Witness said that when the ship docked at Kingston she consulted a doctor. She had a blackened eye, bruised nose and a bruise over the eyebrow, she testified.

"You 'signed off' at Picton?" questioned J. H. Corrigan, Counsel for Captain Francis.

"Yes, but the articles were not read to me."

Canadian Dollar Hard to Spend in United States

Toronto, Jan. 9—The Canadian dollar, to those who try spending it in Canada, is still worth 100 cents, but across the border in Niagara Falls, N.Y., or Buffalo, it is something else.

The other day a Toronto man in the United States reported he had tried at five banks to obtain United States currency for Canadian money. The banks refused him. even when he offered $20 in Canadian funds for $15 of United States money.

Faced with starvation, he travelled to his sister's home in another part of the United States where he was taken in and fed.

In Buffalo yesterday a Toronto reporter went to gasoline stations, restaurants and tobacconists, offering a handful of Canadian silver money in return for enough to eat, enough gasoline to return to Canada and a couple of packages of cigarettes. The reporter got nothing but the reply that "Canadian money is no good."

FRENCH CITIZENS CALLED

Montreal, Jan. 9 (CP)—All male French citizens in Canada of the military classes from 1920 to 1930 have been called to the colors, A. Amfoussy, Manager of the French Consulate General here, said last night.

Mr. Amfoussy said the call had been issued by the home government some time ago and possibly a "few thousand" men between the ages of 30 and 40 were affected.

THIRTY-THREE WOUNDED BY MACHINE-GUN FIRE

11 British Merchantmen Attacked Off Britain's Coasts by German Planes

CROWDS SEE FIGHT

London, Jan. 9 (CP)—Thirty three men were wounded, mostly by machine-gun fire, and one Danish vessel was bombed and sunk as German warplanes were reported to have attacked 11 ships off Britain's coasts today.

Crowds on the cliffs of the northeast Scottish coast saw a bomb hit the stern of a Danish vessel which sank in about three hours. The crew of this ship, the name of which was not disclosed, was rescued by nearby vessels.

So near the coast was part of the counter that onlookers heard the rattle of machine guns.

One of the vessels attacked, it was reported, was a lightship which was machine-gunned intermittenly for half an hour. This vessel was relieving another lightship off the east coast of Scotland when attacked.

German planes also were reported to have machine-gunned five fishing smacks off the east coast of Scotland. The boats were said to be returning to shore safely.

TROUBLES REACH DEPT. OFFICE

Opponents of Mayor Croll Balked by His Worship and Supporters

Toronto, Jan. 9 — (CP) — The troubles of Windsor's 1940 city council with a procedure bylaw passed in the dying days of its predecessor 1939 council reached the Department of Municipal Affairs today.

The 1940 council seeks to unmake some appointments of the 1939 council but finds itself balked by Mayor Croll and four supporters, their five votes making it impossible to have a two-thirds vote to repeal the appointments. The 1940 council wants a simple majority to suffice for ousting appointees.

At a meeting Jan. 5, unattended by the mayor and his supporters, the 1940 council passed a new bylaw. Approval of this is sought. Hon. Eric Cross, Minister of Municipal Affairs, promised early consideration.

Bancroft Masons Instal 1940 Officers

Bancroft, Jan. 9—Friday's snow storm in the Bancroft district was comparatively light to that received in other localities as only three inches of snow fell.

Sunday morning hit the lowest mark for the year to date when the mercury dipped to 27 below.

Masons Instal 1940 Officers

The officers of Bancroft Lodge A.F. & A.M. No. 482 were installed by Wor. Bro. W. E. Wiggins and assisted by Wor. Bro. P. J. Stringer director of ceremonies, and Wor. Bro. J. L. Churcher.

The following were the officers installed: Immediate Past Master Wor. Bro. Reginald Wiggins; Wor. Master John Wiggins; Senior Warden R. W. Blatherwick; Junior Warden George Davy; Chaplain Rev. G. A. Gordier; Treasurer F. A. Towle; Secretary Wor. Bro. J. L. Churcher; Senior Deacon Robert Kellar; Junior Deacon E. Manuel; Director of Ceremonies Wor. Bro. P. J. Stringer; Inner Guard O. Woodcox; Senior Steward Cecil Wiggins; Junior Steward J. D. Deyell; Tyler R. W. Robison.

Wor. Bro. W. E. Wigigns expressed his pleasure in again assuming the offcie as installing officer for the year 1940 as in last year his son Reginald was installed as Master for 1939 and this year his son John as Master for 1940. Also Wor. Bro. W. E. Wigigns installed his son Cecil as Senior Steward and his sons-in-law R. W. Blatherwick and Robt. Kellar to the offices of Senior Warden and Senior Deacon respectively.

Following the installation of officers and closing of lodge a dainty lunch was enjoyed by the members present.

The Sunday School children of the Brethern Church of Bancroft enjoyed their annual treat when the congregation tendered them a supper at their hall which was followed by a short entertainment. A very pleasant evening was reported.

Bancroft

At Bancroft the mercury dipped to 18 below this morning.

BICYCLIST'S HEAD CRASHES WINDSHIELD

Toronto, Jan. 9—(CP)—Although his head crashed through the windshield of a car with which he was in collision at Sunnyside today, Peter Mackie, Mimico, asked police to telephone his employer to say he would be a "little late for work." Mackie was treated at St. Joseph's Hospital.

Riding his bicycle Mackie collided with a car driven by George Akehurst, Mimico, police reported. Akehurst said he was blinded by the sun and didn't notice the cyclist.

MATTHEW KOLBUC IS SENTENCED

Given Two and Half Years in Kingston Penitentiary

St. Catharines, Ont., Jan. 9 (CP)—Matthew Kolbuc, 19, was sentenced to 2½ years in Kingston penitentiary today by Magistrate J. H. Campbell when he pleaded guilty to five charges which occurred in Toronto and St. Catharines.

Kolbuc's companion, Kenneth Green, 18, Toronto, was sentenced to two years less one day in the reformatory when he admitted one charge. This afternoon he will be transferred to Niagara Falls, Ont., to face further charges there arising out of robbery in December.

Green pleaded with the magistrate to send them to penitentiary for, he said, "they will either break or make me there." He said he had been to reformatory and preferred a try-out at Kingston. Magistrate Campbell refused to add another day to the penalty to qualify him for a penitentiary term.

Russian Paper Charges 'Three Imperialist Countries'

Moscow, Jan. 9.—(AP) The newspaper Godak, organ of the Soviet railways, apparently referring to Great Britain, the United States and France, declared today that "The Governments of the three Imperialist countries have devoted themselves to the erection of fortifications against the U.S.S.R." in Finland in recent years.

"Death dealers such as Armstrong (British), Dupont (American) and others have organized munitions factories much in excess of Finland's needs," the paper said.

"In recent years they have erected more than 40 airdromes which are expected to serve as military bases but not for Finnish planes".

6th Tyendinaga

Sixth Tyendinaga, Jan. 9. — The condition of Mr. C. Goodman is not improved. His father, Mr. Fred Goodman and Benton and Mr. Herman McQuaid of Picton spent Wednesday with him.

There was no school Friday afternoon owing to the teacher, Mrs. A. Boldrick, attending the funeral of her grandmother, the late Mrs. Hannah, Belleville.

Mrs. Harry Swan and Gerald were callers at Mr. C. Goodman's, New Year's.

Friends of Lieut. Clifford Holmes are glad to hear he has arrived in England safely with the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Bates and Mrs. E. Bates, Belleville, spent the tea hour at Mr. J. P. Treverton's, Sunday.

Mr. Percy Lancaster visited friends at Crookston one day last week.

Centenary

Centenary—The Y. P. U. were entertained at the parsonage, Bayside, by the Rev. Mr. and Mrs. Mercer on Tuesday evening, Jan. 2nd. All report a jolly time.

Sincere regret was felt by the people of the community and surrounding countryside when it was learned that Mrs. Halliday had passed on to her reward, after a short illness. Having lived in Sidney for twenty-five years, she attended Centenary Church and when health permitted took an active part in the W.A. and W.M.S. work where she will be greatly missed. Her Christian influence, kindness and understanding won for her many warm friends in whose memory she will live for many years to come.

The church service on Sunday morning was in charge of the Y. P. U. Mr. Gordon Garrison took charge of the service, Miss C. Calvert read the Scripture lesson. Miss Hazel Keene led the responsive reading of the Psalm. Mr. Charlie Elliott of Bayside delivered an inspiring address, taking as his theme the word "Look Up; Lift Up." The young people are doing a good work and deserve great credit for the splendid service on Sunday.

German People Held Responsible by Chamberlain

London, Jan. 9 (CP)—Prime Minister chamberlain, who in the past has been careful to differentiate between the Nazi leaders of Germany and the German people today declared that part of the responsibility for the prolongation war will rest on the shoulders of the latter.

In his speech at the Mansion House on the progress of the war, the Prime Minister said "The German people must realize that the responsibility for the prolangation of this war and all the suffering that it may bring in the coming year is theirs, as well as that of the tyrant who stands over them."

DRAFT TREATY ON WATERWAYS IS CONSIDERED

Various Engineering and Financial Problems Are Clarified at Conference

MEETING CONCLUDED

Ottawa, Jan. 9—(CP)—Officials representing the governments of Canada and the United States today concluded a two-day discussion of the Draft Treaty relating to the Great Lakes-St. Lawrence Waterways Project which was transmitte to the Canadian Government in May, 1938.

A statement issued after the close of the conferences said the "discusions resulted in a clarification of the various engineering and financial problems involved."

During the next fortnight it is expected that the various aspects of the question will be considered by the Federal Government and by the interested provincial and state authorities of both countries.

It is planned, the statement said, that a further meeting will take place in Washingon beginning Monday, Jan. 22.

The United States delegation will leave for Washington this afternoon.

A. A. Berle, Jr., Assistant United States Secretary of State, headed the United States delegation which included Leland Olds, chairman of the Federal Power Commission and J. D. Hickerson, assistant chief of the division of European affairs.

600 MEN RESPOND AT MONTREAL

French - Speaking Recruits Answer Call of the R.C.A.F.

Montreal, Jan. 9.—(CP) Officers at Royal Canadian Airforce headquarters here disclosed today that 600 men have responded in the last few days to a call for "general duty" French-speaking recruits.

"Out of this number it was comparatively easy to fill our needs", said one officer. "The applications of the remainder, however, have been filed and they will get first call when the need arises".

Wellington, Jan. 9. (CP-Reuters) —Peter Fraser, Minister of Education, in a speech today appealed to able-bodied New Zealanders to enlist for service in the armed forces.

"Let us each and all play our part", he said. "Our promises and commitments to Britain must be honored. We must do all we can to help achieve victory, nationally and individually".

6th SIDNEY

Sixth Sidney, Jan. 9. — Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Lott have returned home from a two weeks' visit with friends in Flint, St. Louis, Detroit, Hamilton and Toronto.

Mr. and Mrs. Carman Frost celebrated the 19th anniversary of their wedding at their home, fifth concession of Sidney on Friday, Dec. 29. Their dinner guests were Mr. and Mrs. Howard Dafoe, Mr. and Mrs. Perry Sine, Mrs. Geo. Frost and Mrs. McLean, Mrs. William Moon and Mr. and Mrs. R. Read.

Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Rose and children spent New Year's Day in Foxboro guests at the home of Mr. C. C. Davis.

Mrs. Gerald Sine and children spent New Year's with Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Bush, Frankford.

Supper guests of Mr. and Mrs. Carman Frost on Wednesday night were Mr. and Mrs. Albert Caskey. Mrs. George Frost and Mrs. McLean, also Mr. and Mrs. Claude Tucker.

Mr. and Mrs. Orloff Pearson and children spent New Year's Day with Mr. and Mrs. S. Johnston, Foxboro.

Mrs. M. Park and son Roswell of Hamilton and Mrs. W. D. Ketcheson of Toronto were recent guests of Mr. and Mrs. M. B. Scott.

Mr. and Mrs. Alton Sine were recent guests of Mrs. B. Morton, Belleville.

SENTENCED FOR HOLDUP

Montreal, Jan. 9.—(CP)—Henri Lariviere, 20, was sentenced today by Judge Gustave Marin to five years' imprisonment for conspiracy and armed hold-up. Two companions Roger Lalonde, 199, and Rene Renaud, 21, were sentenced to three years on the same charge. The trio held up J. E. Poirier's grocery store and escaped with $95.

TWO OFFICIALS SHOT

Shanghai, Jan. 9 (AP)—Domei (Japanese News Agency) reported from Amoy today that two Chinese officials of the Japanese-dominated local government had been shot and wounded, one seriously, in Kulangsu, Amoy's International Settlement.

Domei said the Japanese navy, which controls that south China port, was taking a serious view of the shooting.

LULL INDICATES RUSSIAN ARMY IS EXHAUSTED

Finnish Officials Believe Army Gathering Strength for Another Assault

LITTLE ACTIVITY

Helsingfors, Jan. 9 (AP)—A high Finnish official said today that a lull on all fronts indicated the invading Russian forces were "momentarily exhausted" and were gathering strength for a new assault.

Today's army communique was the shortest thus far issued by the Finnish command and said:

"Land: Except for patrol and artillery activity on both sides Jan. 8 passed quietly everywhere.

"Sea: No operations.

"Air: On the air front nothing worth mentioning."

"We can't have a victory like yesterday's every day," the official said, "but today's communique is very significant."

Yesterday the Finns reported smashing the Russian 44th division, killing thousands of Red troops and capturing 1,000.

100 Localities Bombed.

President Kyosti Kallio received the foreign press and told the correspondents that the Russians had bombed about 100 localities during the first month of the war and dropped nearly 4,000 bombs.

"Although the losses caused are relatively slight, they are of dreadful nature," Kallio said. "In one month 234 civilians have been killed, 269 seriously injured and 210 slightly wounded.

The president disclosed that anti-aircraft weapons captured from the Russians were being used to strengthen Finland's air defence.

Prime Minister Risto Ryti said Finland's national income is "sinking rapidly", and she must have foreign credits to finance her defence.

WAR BRIEFS

Berlin, Jan. 9 (AP)—The German High Command morning communique today said:

With the exception of local scouting activity and reconnaissance flights by the air force in the northern North Sea, no special events."

Copenhagen, Jan. 9 (CP-Havas)—Danish authorities investigating a beached German mine near Hjoerring found it filled with stones instead of explosives, the National Tidende reported today. Naval circles here believed it either indicated sabotage in German munitions factories or that part of the German mine fields were filled with "dummies".

Brussels, Jan. 9 (AP)—The Belgian cabinet ordered today the mobilization of 8,000 unemployed men to make possible the release of 7,500 fathers of three or more children from the army. Belgium has about 27,000 unemployed.

Copenhagen, Jan. 9 (AP)—Reports from Helsingfors today said the Bristol Hotel there burned before dawn. Finnish authorities are investigating the possibility of incendiarism.

Hong Kong, Jan. 9 (AP)—British police, forewarned of a raid by Chinese bandits on British-leased lands near Hong Kong, killed three and wounded several of the marauders in a one-hour gun battle today.

The skirmish occurred in territory vacated by the Japanese yesterday ostensibly in a gesture friendly to Great Britain, but which some sources said was intended to release troops for use in northern Kwangtung.

Calgary, Jan. 9 (CP)—When the army reinforcement training centre opens here in ten days it will "move in" at Currie Barracks, extensive military property southwest of the city, it was learned yesterday. The property has accommodation up to 275 men.

Hong Kong, Jan. 9 (AP)—New air raids on the Haiphong-Kunming railroad, China's supply line from French Indo-China, were reported today by the Japanese army. The Japanese command said railway bridges and tracks were "damaged greatly."

Meanwhile extensive Japanese aerial operations were indicated in a Japanese dispatch which said planes flew across the Ordos plateau in Mongolia and bombed Wuyyuan, described as a Chinese base.

Rome, Jan. 9 — (CP-Havas)—The full text of the French Yellow Book on events leading up to the outbreak of war, was published today in a special edition of Relazione Internnazionali, semi-official organ of the Italian Foreign Office.

SALVATIONIST RETIRES

Toronto, Jan. 9.— (CP)—Canadian officers of the Salvation Army received word today that after 58 years with the Salvation Army Commissioner David C. Lamb has retired from active service and been awarded the order of the Founder.

Commissioner Lamb was in charge of the army's emigration and settlement work for nearly thirty years.

Hungary Seeking A Common Front In the Balkans

WANT TRANSYLVANIA

If Rumania Ignores Invitation for Settlement, Italy and Hungary Will Leave Country to Its Fate—Ultimatum Issued.

By EDWARD KENNEDY
Associated Press Staff Writer

Budapest, Jan. 10 (AP)—Apparently united with Italy in a determination to block any Russian expansion in southeastern Europe, Hungary sought today a settlement of her differences with Rumania for a common front in the Blakans.

Informed persons said King Carol would be pressed for a speedy reply to Hungarian overtures for settlement of territorial questions. Foreign Minister Count Stephen Csaky reported yesterday to the Crown Council on his weekend talks with Italy's Foreign Minister Count Galeazzo Ciano.

Hungarian and Italian sources made it clear that should Rumania act to remove the 21-year old bitterness over her acquisition of Transylvania, she could be assured of full support from both nations against any possible thrust into Bessarabia.

Bessarabia went from Russia to Rumania and Transylvania from Hungary to Rumania in territorial changes following the first Great War.

If Rumania ignores an invitation for a settlement with Hungary, these sources indicated, Italy and Hungary are prepared to leave her to her fate. Moreover, Hungarians said that should the Red army penetrate the Rumanian frontier, Hungary would enter Transylvania.

It was not disclosed whether Hungary would press for immediate cession of a part of Transylvania, or be content with a promise to transfer of territory after the war.

Some informed persons said Ciano had brought pressure on Csaky to be content with a promise backed by an Italian guarantee of its fulfillment.

Why The Weather?

By Major A. H. Thiessen
Science Service Meteorologist

Winter thunderstorms! While thunderstorms are essentially warm weather phenomena they do occur in winter. The necessary condition for a thunderstorm is a rising column of moist air. In winter the air lying over a cold land surface becomes itself cold and hence very stable and does not rise. However, in winter there are occasionally conditions when relatively warm air is forced to rise, as when a cold air mass underruns a warmer mass; or when a cold overrunning mass traps a warmer mass which then becomes unstable and is forced to rise. In both cases snow flurries and lightning may result.

LEAGUE PRAISED FOR AID GIVEN

Finnish Delegate Stated Aid Received "No Dead League Could Give"

Geneva, Jan. 10—(AP)— The League of Nations, 20 years old today, has won the thanks of Finnish delegate Rudolf Holsti for its "practical aid" to Finland which he said "no dead league could give."

"We know it still lives," said the Finnish representative in a statement.

The anniversary of the "Family of Nations" found fully half the staff of permanent experts engaged in facilitating financial and material aid for Finland from nations both in and out of the League.

52 Old Members Still In

All but 10 of the 62 nations which have been members still are on the rolls, but the league's staff has been reduced from its 1933 peak of 725 to 303. The league's budget and staff has been reduced by a series of wars in the last decade, culminating in the present conflicts.

After praising the "aid which comes to us from outside the league as well as from league members," Holsti declared,

"The next 20 years will be the years when the league comes of age. The last score were the years of bitter experience and growing pains which many thought wrongly were death agonies. We in Finland have practical aid today which no dead league could give. We know it lives."

"The world only will know how much help we are receiving when our war is ended," he added.

SHIP ATTACKED FROM THE AIR

Steamship Oakgrove Sinks With Undetermined Number of Casualties

London, Jan. 10—(CP)—The admiralty announced today that the 1,985-ton British steamship Oakgrove had been attacked from the air and sunk with an undetermined number of casualties.

A communique said 20 of the Oakgrove's crew were believed to have landed safely.

The announcement added that the Danish ships Ivan Kondrup, 3,369 tons, and Feddy, 955 tons, which were reported sunk by German air raiders yesterday, were still afloat and probably would be brought into port.

The admiralty said no information was available on the casualties on the Danish ships.

The Oakgrove was presumed sunk in a series of German air attacks announced yesterday.

British Warships Seeking U-Boat Headquarters Near the Canary Islands

London, Jan. 10 (CP).—The Royal Air Force carried the war to Germany's shore today in an outburst of renewed air and sea warfare coming only one day after Prime Minister Chamberlain's warning that grim days are ahead.

The R.A.F. sent warplanes over Germany's northwest coast in repatrols" over German mine-laying patrols' 'over German mine-laying bases in the Frisian Islands.

Dispatches from Copenhagen indicated the Britons ran into battle. Vivid flashes through the early dawn and the rumble of cannonading along with the sighting of numerous aircraft indicated an air battle over the Island of Sylt, German air base.

This followed a sudden bomb and machine-gun attack by German war planes upon twelve ships in British coastal waters yesterday.

The 10,002-ton passenger liner Dunbar Castle of the Union Castle Line struck a mine and sank off the southeast coast of England. Three persons were known dead and two missing of the 196 passengers and crew aboard.

Gananoque Secures Large War Order

Ottawa, Jan. 10 (CP)—An order for the manufacture of machine gun clips has been placed with the Parmenter and Bulloch Company of Gananoque, Ont., it was learned today from reliable sources.

Details of the order, in some quarters said to be the largest such order ever issued in Canada, remained closely guarded. The policy of the War Supply Board is to make no announcement in regard to such contracts until after the Board holds its weekly meeting and gives formal approval.

This week's meeting will probably be held tomorrow, with the usual weekly list of contracts being issued Friday.

Insurance Companies Recognize Claim

New York, Jan. 10 (AP)— Two insurance companies finally have accepted the claim of Mrs. Stella Crater Kunz that her first husband, Justice Joseph Crater is dead, her lawyer said today, and agreed to pay her a full and final indemnity of $20,561.

Crater disappeared Aug. 6, 1930, and was declared legally dead June 6, 1939.

The Attorney, Emil K. Ellis said Mrs. Kunz had dropped her claim for double indemnity because the law requires medical proof of violent death in accepting the settlement. Mrs. Kunz sought for years to obtain double indemnity totalling $60,000.

Germany Wants Quick Soviet Victory So She May Obtain Finnish Nickel

By MAURICE SCHUMANN
(Havas Staff Writer)

Paris, Jan. 10 (CP Havas) — French observers believe that Finland's Canadian-controlled nickel deposits are the key to Germany's impatience for a speedy Soviet victory in the Finnish campaign.

These observers point out that of the 120,000 tons of nickel produced annually, the Allies control about 92 per cent. Canada's International nickel interests have major control of this ore. Canadian owned mines account for 102,000 tons of the world's total annual production. French New Caledonia, in the South Pacific, yields another 9,000 tons a year.

No war machine can run long without nickel, these sources point out. It is a required alloy in a large part of the steel which goes into the making of airplanes, tanks, warships, submarines and other armaments.

Greater Germany's peacetime consumption of nickel was approximately 14,000 tons. At least another 6,000 or 7,000 tons must be added now to cover the needs of war.

To meet these vast requirements the Reich must look to foreign sources, as its own mines produce at the most 300 tons annually.

Observers claim the Nazis saw three paths of partial solution open to them:

1. In the months just before the war they built up the largest possible reserves. They could hardly have been extensive, however, or International Nickel would have known about it.

2. They estimated that by withdrawing nickel coin from circulation and melting it down they could obtain 2,500 tons.

3. They hoped through the Russian conquest to share in deposits discovered a few years ago in Lapland.

An International Nickel subsidiary holds concessions for the latter mines from the Helsingfors government. Sampling began four years ago and experts did not count on any important yield before 1941.

Even if the Russian victory over Finland develops as the Nazi-Communist partnership hopes, Germany must be content with inferior steel in its armaments production for at least another year.

During the first Great War the Imperial Reich, which had much bigger reserves than Nazi Germany, had to send the commercial submarine Deutschland to the United States to purchase nickel. Today such an exploit is regarded as being out of the question.

FINNISH AID NO MYTH, DECLARES PRIME MINISTER

Prime Minister Chamberlain is pictured here as he made his speech on Tuesday declaring that Britain's aid to Finland was no myth. During this speech the Prime Minister rallied the Empire to more vigorous prosecution of the war with the warning that "grim" warfare lies ahead. This picture was flashed to New York by radio and then transmitted by Phonephoto.

Press Praises Chamberlain For the Firm Tone of Speech

London, Jan. 10 (CP).—The British press commended Prime Minister Chamberlain today for the firm tone of his Mansion House speech yesterday.

"The public rejoice at his vigor, his high spirits, his determination, his firmness and his realism.

"The premier says he has only one purpose in high office—to bring the war to a successful conclusion. He has the will to win quickly. That is a heartening message to the nation."

"Yesterday the premier warned us that the risk of air raids has not diminished. But Goering's bombers in 1940 may have no more success than the zeppelins in 1915. A worse fate awaits them. Defence will master attack. A fighter will beat a bomber."

Speech of Leader.

The Daily Telegraph in another tribute to the Prime Minister called his address the 'speech of a leader, not a demagogue." "The road we have to tread is that of stern service and sacrifice. But the evidence is that the first phase of the war has gone better for us than any rational expectation," the Telegraph said.

The Times said the identity of policy now established between the allies "is unique in the history of national states, and its benefits are likely to be so far reaching that Mr. Chamberlain was justified in letting his mind range forward and speculate on the hope of carrying it into world peace."

"Without doubt there is a large and growing body of public opinion ready to sustain any effort that may be made in this direction," the paper said.

Plenty of Common Sense.

New York, Jan. 10 (CP).—Prime Minister Chamberlain showed "plenty of common sense, and vision as well", when he spoke of Anglo-French co-operation after the war in his address at the Mansion House in London yesterday, the New York Times said editorially today.

"If the prime minister had talked only of a union to win the war, there would have been nothing especially new or significant in his words," said the newspaper. "The real strength of Anglo-French unity will only be seen, however, when the Nazi danger has been destroyed.

"If, this time, the leaders and peoples of post-war Britain and France can live up to Mr. Chamberlain's hope, there will be some reason to look forward without dread to the Shape of Things to Come."

FIRST NATIONAL WAR LOAN OF WAR OPENED MONDAY

Actual Details of Interest Rates, Maturity Value and Volume Available Friday

BONDS DOWN TO $50

Ottawa, Jan. 10—(CP)—Subscription books for Canada's first national war loan of the second World War will open next Monday morning and Canadians in every walk of life will be given an opportunity to participate.

Finance Minister Ralston announced the date of the loan at a press conference here last night and said that actual details of the interest rate, maturities and total volume will be made public Friday morning.

The National War Loan Committee of more than 225 leading Canadian industrialists, businessmen and publishers has been working for some time along with the National Subscription Committee, headed by Hon. Charles Dunning, former Minister of Finance, and Col. Ralston said he anticipated the issue will be well received.

FRENCH REPORT ACCELERATION OF PATROL ACTIVITY

Activity Centres Along Two Widely Separated Fronts

NIGHT FORAYS

Paris, Jan. 10 (CP-Havas)—Sharp acceleration of patrol activity by both the allies and Germans was reported today from the western front.

Most of the activity, which has gained impetus over the past 48 hours, centred along two widely separated sectors—in the zone between the Moselle and Saar rivers and in the wooded stretch of "no man's land" to the west of the Vosges foothills. The first zone saw action during the daylight hours of yesterday, with the latter sector taking the centre of the stage at night.

German patrols attempted two night forays against French outposts, but were turned back after losing a number of men. This morning's official communique said there had been "local activity of contact units in the region west of the Vosges."

Continuing bad weather and poor visibility kept air operations almost at a standstill, possibly explaining the increase in overland patrol work.

Finnish Troops Disperse Soviet Battalion and Take 40 Prisoners

DIVISION THROWN BACK

Russia Acknowledges That Red Army Has Withdrawn in Central Region

Helsingfors, Jan. 10 (AP) — Two hundred Russian dead were left on a battlefield north of Lake Ladoga today when Finnish forces dispersed a Soviet Battalion and took 40 prisoners, a Finnish communique announced.

Finland also reported that remnants of the Russian 44th. Division, which was routed in fighting several days ago, had been thrown back across the Soviet frontier in the vicinity of Raate.

It was the fourth point on the border where Finland said the Red invaders had been pushed back to their own soil.

FARMERS ADVISED ON WAR PLANS

Only by United Effort Can Success be Achieved, Says W. C. Barrie

Guelph, Ont., Jan. 10 (CP)—Farmers may have to make drastic changes in their plans, and may be called upon for many sacrifices as the war progresses, but they must not lose sight of the fact that only by united effort can success be achieved, W. C. Barrie, of Galt, declared in his presidential address at the opening of the two-day conference of the Ontario Agricultural and Experimental Union at the Ontario Agricultural College today.

"The members of the Experimental Union, equipped with the valuable information gathered through many years of experimenting, are in a position to do their part in any production program they might be called on to take part in," he said. "As yet, the government has not advised us as to the line of production most essential to the furtherance of our war efforts." It is expected, however, that as the war progresses, calls will be made of us for certain lines of production which all should be ready and willing to accept.

CHILDREN KEEP LONELY VIGIL

Thought Mother Asleep When Actually She Had Died From Heart Attack

New York, Jan. 10 (AP)—Seven-year-old Anthony Pizarro and his five-year-old sister, Judith, thought their mother was asleep Sunday when she lay still on her bed in the tiny East Second street apartment after complaining of a pain in her chest.

Keeping a lonely vigil—their father, Fernando, is on a freighter bound for Manilla—they played quietly in the kitchen, met callers with a whispered "mama's asleep", and slept in the bed beside their mother for two nights. They prepared their own scanty meals of milk and cereal, and Anthony stayed home from school.

His teacher, worried over his absence, went to the apartment yesterday. When she and a neighbor entered the Pizarro apartment yesterday they found Mrs. Pizarro dead. A physician said she had died of heart disease at least 48 hours before.

Baltimore, Jan. 10 (AP)—Judge George Solter was impressed with the candid story told by a prisoner pleading guilty to burglary.

"As a prudent and intelligent man," the Judge said, "how much time do you think a Judge should give for the crime you have committed?"

"At least a year," the prisoner said.

"I can't quite agree," Judge Solter replied. "Nine months."

Reference May Be Forecast of Ontario Assisting in Seaway

Speech Says That Mortgagors and Purchasers Relief Act Will be Extended—Succession Duty Act to be Amended

INDUSTRY ACTIVE

Steps Will be Taken to Get Adequate Financing at Low Rates — Strict Economy Will be Practised With "Virtual Holiday" on Capital Expenditures

Toronto, Jan. 10—(CP)—Ontario has adequate power resources for "any present wartime needs and plants that will take care of possible future demands are underway", said the Speech from the Throne delivered by Lieutenant-Governor Albert Matthews today in his throne speech at the opening of the Fifth Session of Ontario's 20th Legislature.

Many interpreted the reference as a forecast of Ontario's participating in power developments that will be part of the St. Lawrence River Deepening plan.

The speech was largely a review of 1939 and references to coming legislation were brief. The Mortgagors and Purchasers Relief Act will be extended. The Succession Duty Act is to be amended to overcome difficulties that the government has met in collections.

Government's Steps

"Since the outbreak of war my Ministers have pursued a vigorous policy within the scope permitted to them by the British North America Act", the speech said. This policy included:

Steps to get adequate financing at low interest rates.

A Special Labor Department committee is co-operating with manufacturers working on war orders.

Industry More Active

Increased activity in Ontario industry was shown by the growth in Hydro loads, the speech continued. Extension of Hydro services to domestic consumers continued and the aggregate load supplied rural power districts increased 15 per cent in 1939. Adequate steps were taken to safeguard Hydro properties.

Ontario's mining industry registered an all-time high record in 1939 with production estimate at $237,000,000 against $220,000,000 in 1938, the speech said. The year also saw the resumption of iron mining in the province when the Helen Mine, near Sault Ste. Marie, was re-opened. The mine is producing 1,200 tons of ore daily and this will shortly be increased to 1,800.

The speech noted that more than 170 members of the Ontario Civil Service have enlisted for active service. All new appointees to the service are being required to sign a declaration that their services are to be of a temporary character.

CANADIAN TROOPS NOT IN FRANCE

Reports Denied That Regiments Have Taken Position on Western Front

London, Jan. 10.—(CP)—Major-General A. G. L. McNaughton and his Brigadiers of the First Division of Canada's Active Service Force are in France, but no detachments of the rank and file have left England, it was stated authoritatively here today.

General McNaughton's arrival in France was announced last night. Today both the Havas News Agency and The Associated Press said the arrival of "several detachments" of Montreal and Quebec regiments had been reported—the reports possibly growing out of General McNaughton's landing with his staff.

The stories brought quick denial from London and Ottawa that Canadian troops had reached France. At Ottawa a Defence Department official said there was "no truth" in the reports.

Italy May Retaliate

London, Jan. 10 (CP-Cable)—The Evening Standard in an editorial today discussed the possibility that Premier Mussolini may cut off the transit of war supplies to Germany in retaliation for the Reich's withholding of Italian armaments bound for Finland.

"The Nazis hoped to possess Russia and Italy as granaries for the German machine," the newspaper commented. "They may now be disappointed in both."

NO GUNS TO BOOM AS LEGISLATURE DECLARED OPEN

Legislation Respecting St. Lawrence Deep Waterway Likely to be Brought Down

Toronto, Jan. 10 (CP)—No guns will boom this afternoon when Hon. Albert Matthews, Lieutenant-Governor of Ontario arrives to open the fifth session of Ontario's 20th Legislature. His Honor will be escorted by a company of the Royal Canadian Dragoons. The usual gun salute has been eliminated as a war-time economy measure.

The House may receive early from Premier Mitchell Hepburn's government a measure to enable the Province to enter into an agreement with the Federal government, and indirectly with the United States, for the St. Lawrence River deepening project. A share of the cost will be borne by Ontario's Hydro-Electric Power System should the project get underway.

War Will Have Effect

The war will have a direct influence on the heavy legislative program expected to be outlined in the Speech from the Throne. Falling revenues from some sources are attributed to the war, chiefly the decline in liquor sales since the Federal government imposed heavier Excise taxes.

The province is expected to anticipate also heavier Federal taxation on incomes. Such an increase would reduce the net available to Ontario for taxation and to meet the deficiency Ontario is likely to impose higher rates on what is left, or else lower the exemptions, now $2,000 for a married man without children and $1,000 for an unmarried man.

Caucus to Discuss Question

Probably the greatest pre-session public interest has been in the government proposal to extend to two years the term of all elected municipal bodies in Ontario. General length of these terms is now one year and the doubling of the term is planned as a war-time economy measure.

There have been ballot expressions of popular displeasure with the two-year proposal in some centres and the Liberal caucus will go into the question. It is possible, though not regarded as likely, that the two-year term may be made optional instead of mandatory.

THREE CANDIDATES MENTIONED FOR POSITION OF WARDEN

With the approach of the opening date of the January session of the Hastings County Council, interest is being centred on the election of the warden for 1940. According to county council officials today, a new possibility for the wardenship is seen in Reeve George Spencer of Frankford. Other names prominently mentioned for the highest office the county can bestow are those of Reeve J. L. Churcher, of Dungannon Township and Reeve W. J. Davis of Bangor, Wicklow and McClure.

MAYOR AND COUNCIL TO BE GUESTS OF C. OF C. ON THURS.

Mayor Glencoe E. Thompson and members of the 1940 City Council will be the guests tomorrow noon of the Belleville Chamber of Commerce at the annual luncheon tendered civic officials by that body. The new city fathers will give individual addresses as is the custom at these functions. The luncheon will be held in the Chamber of Commerce building.

If you haven't procured that radio licence yet, you had better do so right away. For government inspectors are in the city to continue the check-up of radios, and delinquent licencees.

The officials yesterday urged the public to procure licences as soon as possible and thus avoid any contact with the forces of law and order. A number of prosecutions have already been made, the inspectors stated, and no excuse for the nonpossession of the licences will be tolerated.

"We do not wish to prosecute the public, but if some people insist on refusing to secure the proper licence, then we have no other alternative. It is the law, and we cannot do much about it," one official said.

'Chin Up' Forerunner Of Stage Shows If Public Demands

Remember "Red Newman" in "O, it's a luvly 'Far"; Ross Hamilton as "Marjorie." Al Plunkett the acme of personality, singing "K. K. K'ss Me Again." Captain Plunkett and his versatile band, Johnny Good, the "Cu'lud Preacher," Pat Rofferty and all the lads ins the wartime edition of the famous " Dumbells."

Those who saw the famous Canadian soldier troupe still thrill with the memories of their sterling performances as they swept to and fro across a continent riding on a wave of footlight popularity.

Not one whit less entertaining, in fact a little more so if anything, plus the addition of a bevy of pulchritudinous chorines, who have grace, beauty and ability, and a show that is the hit of the new wartime theatrical season, is the new 1940 Revue "Chin Up", which plays at the Capitol Theatre tomorrow night.

Twenty years have added a few grey touches to the veterans of the cast, but their ability has but broadened with the passing years. They naturally are the nucleus of the show that press reports have hailed as on of the hits of the current season. Music, mirth, melody, dancing and hi'arious comedy, sung and acted as only the "Dumbells" can do it, will be here again after two decades of resting on laurels accorded them by the people of two great nations.

The "Chin Up" show inaugurates what the management of the Capitol hopes will be a new era of legitimate presentations. The answer of course rests with the theatre-going public of the city and district in that, if it shows by its patronage that stage shows are what it wants, then the Capitol management wi'l endeavour to provide for it, the best in this sphere of theatrical entertainment.

Those who have not yet secured their tickets for "Chin Up" are urged to do so right away as they are selling like hot cake.

Fire Marshal Praises Chief Lynch and Members of Fire Department for Proficiency

Commendation for the proficiency of the Belleville Fire Department during the year just past, and the high standing obtained in the judging of Fire Department standards throughout Ontario and Canada, is included in a letter received by Mayor Glen Thompson from W. J. Scott of the Ontario Fire Marshal's Department, Toronto, today.

A copy of the letter was received by The Ontario Intelligencer from Fire Marshal Scott with a request for publication.

The letter which follows, speaks for itself.

Mayor Glencoe Thompson,
Belleville, Ontario.

"Dear Mr. Mayor: The results of the Fire Prevention Week Campaign activities have just been announced by the International Committee of Judges judging the fire department standings throughout Canada and the United States, and I have great pleasure in informing you that your fire department in Belleville have succeeded in winning thirty-third place in the All-Canada standing and also obtained honorable mention among cities in Ontario with a population of 10,000 to 25,000. These awards are made on the basis of work done throughout the year, with special emphasis on the program for Fire Prevention Week early in October last. The competition is exceedingly keen, a very high standard of proficiency is set, and accordingly Chief Wm. Lynch and his Department deserve great credit for their splendid showing."

W. J. Scott, Fire Marshal.

'QUESTION BOX' AT KIWANIS CLUB

Dr. J. R. Lind Answers Questions of Members on China

A "question box" on China conducted by Dr. J. R. Lind at the weekly luncheon of the Kiwanis Club at the Queens Hotel was most interesting and instructive. The talk was a continuation of the subject given by Dr. Lind to the club some weeks previous. President Bill Anderson presided at his first luncheon since installation and a large number of the members were out to greet him. George Lee was sergeant-at-arms but finally lost the fine box, while Harold Carruthers conducted the community singing with Leo Riggs at the piano. The president welcomed back Ivan Scott and Bernard Collins, who have been on the sick list for some time. Cliff Baragar was congratulated on his election to the chairmanship of the Public Utilities Commission. Joe Shortt, secretary of the "Y" and interested in the Ki-Y hockey league told the members that only two series would be operated this year namely Bantam and Midget with the Juveniles being occupied in the new league, which has been formed. The club promised their usual support to this venture.

Parts Differ

Dr. Lind was introduced by Dr. "Dick" Flynn and in opening his remarks stated he was not going to give a set talk but would answer any questions and the members were eager to find out about this old but wonderful country. Dr. Lind told the club that north and south China were entirely different in religion, actions, and language, in fact members of the north part not being able to understand those of the south. He stated the spoken language of China was more expressive than ours but the written language was all characters but that the National Government was trying to simplify this difference. Dr. Lind told of the cholera epidemics that had swept China, he being in the one of 1937, when literally thousands died of the scourge but that a cure was effected by a salt solution given through the veins.

Asked if China would join Russia the speaker answered "only from necessity." "Japan" said the speaker has eyes on China, India more than Russia."

Dr. Lind stated that resources of the country were not well worked because the government immediately took charge of anything of importance that was developed. The speaker told the club that the Chinese could tell the agriculturist of this country quite a lot about farming. "The farms in China are very small," said the speaker, "but they grow a tremendous lot of produce, in some cases getting three crops a year off a piece of land not bigger than a bedroom. Anyone making a cheap fertilizer will make a million dollars in China."

An insight into the inveterate habit of gambling among the Chinese was given by the speaker and when asked about Chinese making their fortune here and going back to China to live, Dr. Lind stated that many of them lost all their money on the boat going home and again [illegible] told of the opium trade and the met[illegible] used by the government to stop the practice.

OBITUARY

MRS. ROBERT SHARP

Rawdon, (Special) — Following an illness of several years' duration the death of Bertha Totten, beloved wife of Robert Sharp, occurred at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Will Locke, Oshawa, on Sunday, December 31, 1939. She was born at Wellman's Corners in Rawdon township in August, 1866, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. John Totten. In 1887 she married Robert Sharp and in 1937 they celebrated their golden wedding anniversary.

Mrs. Sharp was converted in early life and was a staunch supporter of the Methodist church until church union. A few years ago when they came to Mount Pleasant to reside she and her husband had their membership transferred to Mount Pleasant United Church.

This union was blessed with six children, three of whom survive together with her husband, namely, Willoughby of Toronto, twin daughters, "Ila", Mrs. Will Locke, Oshawa and "Ida". Mrs. Robert Stewart, Oshawa. The deceased are Mrs. Allen Watson, Blaine Totten Sharp, Gunner John Selbourne Sharp, who was killed in the Great War in 1917. There are also nineteen grandchildren and nine great grandchildren. She was one of a family of twelve and nine brothers and sisters survive — William Totten, Bakersfield, California; Andrew Totten, Houston, Texas; Morley Totten, of London, Ont.; Calvin Totten, Lethbridge, Alberta; Rev. John Totten, Hornby, Ont.; Mrs. John Reid, Mount Pleasant, Rawdon; Mrs. (Rev.) W. E. Honey, Cavan, Ont.; Mrs. James Royce, Guelph, Ont.; Mrs. Charles Stephen, Campbellford.

The deceased are Mrs. Charles Stewart, Campbellford, Mrs. W. P. Smith, Guelph and Malcolm of Rylestone who died early in 1939.

On Tuesday, January 2nd, a short service was held at the chapel at Oshawa and the funeral cortege proceeded to Burnbrae Presbyterian Church where a large number of relatives and friends were in attendance. The service was conducted by her pastor, Rev. J. E. Beckel of Mount Pleasant United Church and he brought a comforting message based on Proverbs 4: 18. But the path of the just is as the shining light that shineth more and more unto the perfect day.

Rev. A. W. Harding of Springbrook who had been her brother's pastor at the time of his death at Rylestone and Rev Beaudreau, pastor of Burnbrae Church assisted with the service.

Mrs. Allen Watson, Campbellford rendered very acceptably "It's Good Night Here But Good Morning Up There."

The interment was made in the adjoining cemetery beside her son.

Mrs. Sharp was well known in Rawdon township and a host of relatives and friends will mourn her passing.

LATE MRS. MARGARET A. MacKILLICAN

The funeral of Mrs. Margaret Agnes MacKillican took place from her late residence, 139 Pinnacle St., on Tuesday afternoon, Jan. 9. The service in the home was conducted by the Rev. W. J. Walker, minister of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church.

The deceased was a member of Quintena Rebekah Lodge, No. 133, and the last rites of the Order were conducted in the home by officers of the lodge.

At the close of the service in the home the funeral party left for Eldorado where service was conducted in Fox's United Church by the Rev. W. J. Walker, assisted by the pastor, the Rev. G. Crabbe.

Interment was made in Fox's cemetery. The bearers were Messrs. Albert Wheeler, William Tice, Michael Murphy, Charles Murphy, Emille Strebe and Arthur Fitzgibbon.

LATE PATRICK O'BRIEN

Frankford, (Special)—The funeral of the late Patrick O'Brien was held from St. Francis' Church, Thursday morning, January fourth, Rev. Father S. Lesage officiating at Requiem Mass.

The bearers were Jos. Mulvihill, Jas. Mulvihill, Thos. Murphy, John Armstrong, Wm. O'Rae and John Bosheau, all members of the Holy Name Society of which Mr. O'Brien was a member.

Mr. O'Brien was born at Peterborough about 69 years ago and leaves to mourn his widow, Leona O'Brien.

R.C.A.F. OFFICERS TO STUDY ENGLISH AIR TRAINING PLAN

Group Captain McEwen of Trenton Station Included Among Three Now in England

J. A. SULLY ACTING O. C.

Ottawa, Jan. 10 (CP). — Three senior officers of the Royal Canadian Air Force have gone to England to familiarize themselves with recent training procedure in the Royal Air Force in order that it may be adopted in Canada under the British Commonwealth air training plan, the National Defence Department announced last night. The officers are: Air Commodore G. O. Johnson, air member of the Air Council for Organization and Training; Group Captain C. M. McEwen, Commanding Officer of the R.C.A.F. station at Trenton, and Group Captain L. F. Stevenson, Commanding Officer of the R.C.A.F. station at Camp Borden.

"Under the British Commonwealth air training plan, instruction will be provided for pilots, air observers and air gunners, the majority of whom will enter the Royal Air Force," the announcement said. "It is desirable, therefore, that the fullest information concerning requirements of the R.A.F. be secured by officers who will be largely responsible for training activities in the various schools."

While in England, the officers will visit schools operating there and obtain all available information that may be utilized in Canada.

During their absence, Air Commodore L. S. Breadner, air member of the Air Council for Air Staff, will act for Air Commodore Johnson. Wing Commander J. A. Sully will be acting Commanding Officer at Trenton and Wing Commander F. S. McGill will act as Camp Borden O.C.

Universal Church Is Theme Of Meditations And Intercessions

The Universal Church, one though divided, was the theme of the meditations and subject of intercessions at the week of prayer service at St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church last evening in the series of meetings held under the auspices of the Belleville Ministerial Association.

Rev. Dr. J. Semple of Bridge Street United Church led in the service and Rev. S. R. Foreman, rector of Emmanuel Reformed Episcopal Church, conducted the meditations and led in the prayers, stressing the view of the church as one in thought, faith and action, though divided.

The attendance at the meeting was very gratifying.

The choirs of Bridge Street and Emmanuel Churches led in the singing.

Several Men Escape Injury When Ensilage Machine Breaks Up

Picton, —(Special)— A group of men who were engaged in operating an ensilage machine on the farm of Herbert McQuaid, west of Picton, miraculously escaped injury when knives from the machine and other parts were hurled past them with great force. The machine went to pieces while in operation and fragments were hurled a distance of fifty feet. The blower of the machine was thrown to the top of the barn.

Mrs. K. E. McQueen was hostess of a tea at her home in Bloomfield yesterday with proceeds for the Bloomfield War Committee. She was assisted by Mrs. Donald Baxter and Mrs. L. C. Williams.

Bank Manager Moved to Toronto

J. K. Patterson, who has been manager of the local branch of the Canadian Bank of Commerce for the past seven years has been transferred to the Yonge and Adelaide branch in Toronto and will assume his new duties next month. He will be succeeded here by O. A. Sharp of the Brighton branch. Mr. Patterson has been prominent in the business life of the town, active in the Anglican church and in golfing circles. He is a veteran of the Great War and was wounded in the battle of the Somme.

Rest Room Popular

The rest room which was opened in the Maher block last week end is proving very popular. It is operated by the town and county councils, and equipped with tables, chairs and a counter where lunch may be had and parcels checked.

To Elect Warden

Prince Edward County Council meets next Tuesday and the first business will be the election of a warden. Reeve J. H. Rutter of Wellington is favored for the position. Two other members of the council, Reeve Howard Weese of Ameliasburg and Deupty Reeve D. O. Reynolds of Hallowell are the only other members with experience who have not been wardens and it is not considered likely that the newcomers will be selected.

Mrs. W. G. Gosline is visiting relatives in Toronto for a time.

Miss Freda Newman has returned to Toronto after several days' visit with her brother, C. A. Newman and Mrs. Newman.

Some of Canada's foremost fancy and figure skaters will appear in the Hume Arena this winter during the presentation of the annual V.O.N. ice carnival, that is sponsored each year by the Belleville Y's Men's Club, President Harold Vaughan announced at the initial meeting of the club held in the Y.M.C.A. this week.

President Vaughan further announced that some of the premier skaters of the world from the Toronto Skating Club and the Minto Skating Club of Ottawa had agreed to appear for this charity ice presentation, which will be held in the Hume Arena on Jan. 26th in aid of the Victorian Order of Nurses.

At the initial Y's Men's Club meeting of the year Mr. C. E. Argue, well known Belleville financier spoke on the subject of municipal financing leading up to the forthcoming Dominion Government war loan. Mr. Argue's discourse was exceedingly timely and resulted in some concrete information on the subject of financing being afforded the club by one so well versed in the matter.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE—

The liver should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily. If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas bloats up your stomach. You get constipated. Harmful poisons go into the body, and you feel sour, sunk and the world looks punk.

A mere bowel movement doesn't always get at the cause. You need something that works on the liver as well. It takes those good, old Carter's Little Liver Pills to get these two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up". Harmless and gentle, they make the bile flow freely. They do the work of calomel but have no calomel or mercury in them. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills by name! Stubbornly refuse anything else. 25c.

A Call TO SERVICE on the Economic Front

"Materials and money count for so much in this war that a resolute, loyal and enthusiastic economic front line may be the determining factor."

MINISTER OF FINANCE

To your restless question "When can I help win this war?"—the answer is NOW. On Monday next, the Government of the Dominion of Canada will offer the First War Loan. The purpose of this Loan is to provide money to carry on the war, not only on the battlefields, but all along the Economic Front.

Let us explain what the Economic Front means. It means a war in which the entire natural, industrial and financial resources of the country are used to defeat the enemy. It means a "total war" in which every citizen takes a part, in which his personal resources must support those of the Nation.

In such a war, one of the chief weapons is money. Where is this money to come from? There is only one answer. It must come—and come voluntarily—from the savings of our people. The difference between us and the Germans is that we, of our own free will, lend our money—it is not ruthlessly taken away.

This is your opportunity to do your part in this struggle against Hitlerism. The eyes of the world are upon you, upon Canada, one of the strongest members of the British Commonwealth. Canadians must show that their strength, their courage and their resources are all in this fight against "brute force, bad faith, injustice, aggression and persecution."

Be ready to buy War Loan Bonds. They will have the proven safety and salability of Dominion of Canada obligations. Any Investment Dealer, Stock Broker or Chartered Bank will take your subscription. The quicker the economic war is won, the greater will be the saving of human lives . . . the swifter the collapse of the enemy.

SPORTING EQUIPMENT FOR H. AND P. E. DEPOT

An appeal has come for co-operation by the Belleville people in helping to fill the want of athletic supplies for the young recruits which are stationed at Picton.

"Good soldiers all, they need an outlet for their high tension and spirits and controlled athletics appear to be the answer," says a note signed by Sergeant James Donahue, former member of the editorial staff of the Ontario Intelligencer, who is now with the Hastings and Prince Edward depot at Picton.

This appeal should not go unanswered. Everyone knows the zeal and the spirit of these young men who are the very fabric out of whom Canada's armies are being made.

Sergeant Donahue mentions the fact that the battles of England are said to have been won on the playing fields of Eton and other schools. If they were won by the spirit of the boys who went to these schools in other days they are to be won today by the same spirit, for true sportsmanship is what one expects to find in any British soldier.

For these boys as the Sergeant says, it will be the playing floor of the Picton armouries where they will have the opportunity to develop muscle and that coordination of body and mind which means so much in the effectiveness of soldiers.

Nothing is too good for these young men and there is no doubt that there will be a hearty response to the call for sports equipment for the boys of the counties.

In many homes there is unused sporting equipment which would help the recruits of the H. and P. E. depot.

WHEN BRITISH PREMIER SPOKE

Prime Minister Chamberlain's address to the Empire at a banquet in London yesterday served as a very useful summary of the state of the progress of the war as it came from the man who knows most fully what is taking place. He naturally has a better opportunity to know the exact value of various events which have occurred.

He declared that Britain is still ruler of the seas, that German shipping has been driven off the seas and that the losses of shipping are less than one per cent of British shipping after more than four months of war. The blockade is having its effect upon the enemy as the recent holiday speeches of the Nazi leaders reveal. 11,000,000 tons of British shipping daily sails the several oceans.

Mr. Chamberlain was careful to warn against undue optimism, such as in the matter of air raid precautions. He expressed the belief that the danger from air raids was not yet over, and he regretted that numbers of children had returned to London, and said that in the country they were growing in weight and height and health.

He thinks that the war on land against Germany is so far only in its preliminary stage.

The Graf Spee's scuttling he said, had done irreparable damage to German naval prestige throughout the world.

In speaking of Poland and Czecho-Slovakia, Mr. Chamberlain did not mince words as he revealed the brutalities of the Nazis who are starving and shooting the people and forcing them to leave ancestral homes.

One of the fine spots in the address was the tribute to the French - British solidarity, so happy an augury of the successful end of the war with the triumph of liberty and democracy against brute force. This association of the two great free races may go far by becoming the first step in the creation of that healthier state in Europe when war shall, men hope, have been eliminated.

Britain's whole - hearted action is indicated by the vast numbers of men she is calling up, and by the intensification of war industries.

War is exacting and Mr. Chamberlain made it clear that sacrifices are necessary for victory and that there must be greater exports and less imports, which means doing without many things people are accustomed to.

The Prime Minister was stern in his denunciation of the Nazi propagandists who claimed that the annihilation of the Germans was the object of the British people. This is not the intention of the British for they are not vindictive as the Nazi propagandists would make out.

"The fate of civilization is bound up with our success." Every nation knows those words of Mr. Chamberlain to be true. Britain and France with the remnants of the Czecho-Slovaks and the Poles are fighting for civilization. Germany is fighting for the subjugation of the human race to Nazi terrors and for destruction of morality and the moral basis on which western civilization has been founded.

GREAT EPIC OF FREE PEOPLE IS BEING WRITTEN

Finland is fighting one of the most spectacular wars in history. Using the giant powers and forces of nature she is not only defending herself but is invading Soviet territory.

Few as the Finns are in numbers and small as their country is, they take terrific toll of the enemy by using nature, which is their ally at this season while the Russians are unable to utilize the forces of winter and cold.

Two "Red" divisions annihilated in about ten days tell a story. Large trained armies could hardly inflict such losses as the Russians are suffering from the small Finnish forces.

So great have been the losses of the Russians, reaching as high as 130,000 men in five weeks, that some persons have been inclined to believe the figures are exaggerated.

The fact remains that the Russian army is demoralized. Winter fighting is enough to demoralize an enemy which is not well equipped and which is the aggressor. Only perfection of arrangements could assure victory for the best trained of invaders.

Legends will grow out of this winter's campaign. Never have Finnish soldiers executed more daring movements, because they are masters of themselves and do not defy nature but use her forces wisely. The destruction of the 163rd division and the 44th division of the Russians surely tells a tale of fine strategy and courage under the most awful hardships of winter which should rival the greatest stories of history.

Where the war of invasion will lead, time alone can unfold, but the Finns have proven their right to liberty and to make their own way in the world. It would be a great pity were they to even temporarily be overrun by the Russians. Ultimately of course there is no doubt that Finland will be free as she is today when Russia is defeated and the German Nazis are given their punishment.

Yesterday Prime Minister Chamberlain said British aid to Finland would not be a mere formality. That is because Finland is fighting the same vicious principles of aggression and brutality as Britain and France are fighting against.

CANADIAN SOLDIERS ARE CHEERFUL

A writer who was recently in Germany says he did not see a smiling face among all the German soldiers he saw.

What a contrast is served by the pictures of British soldiers, Canadians among them, who are full of the spirit of gaiety and the spirit of life. This gay, free spirit which one sees on every hand must be a product of the freedom they enjoy, and the proof of the justice of their cause. The deep gloom which has settled on the young Germans must have its source in something that is radically wrong in Germany. Nazi leaders would not allow such gloom and grimness if they could help it, but to make their soldiers feel care free and to make them smile is too great a task for Hitler and his group.

The British soldier goes to war with the conscience of his country with him. The German probably feels that Hitler has done him wrong and has headed Germany for calamity.

Sulfanilamide Used In Fracture Wounds

Minneapolis — The Minneapolis Tribune says in a copyrighted story that another use for sulfanilamide, prevention of gangrene and tetanus in compound fracture cases, was revealed publicly after the Marlborough Hotel fire her last Wednesday, when nineteen persons died.

Two residents of the hotel who leaped to escape flames and suffered compound fractures have received the treatment, which consists of placing sulfanilamide in the open wound after cleaning by surgical removal of contaminated and soiled tissue. The wound is then closed and treated as an ordinary fracture.

The treatment, now routine at the city's General Hospital here and at the University of Minnesota Hospital, was developed by Dr. N. K. Jensen, Dr. Luverne Johnsrud and Dr. M. C. Nelson, surgical fellows of the university on service at General. They were aided by Dr. A. A. Zierold, Professor of Surgery at the university and chief of surgical service at General.

In seventy-six cases so treated with the drug since March, 1938, only four infections, all of minor character, followed the compound fractures, it was reported, whereas prior to the use of sulfanilamide more than a fourth of the compound-fracture cases developed infection.

20 YEARS AGO

JAN. 10th., 1920.

In an Intermediate O. H. A. match here last night between Belleville and Trenton the former team won, the final score being Belleville 23, Trenton 1. In the first period Arnott had 3 goals to his credit, Finkle 4, Symons 2, Whalen, Marshall and McGorman 1 goal each. Marshall in scoring took the puck from behind his own net and carried it to the end of the rink and placed it safely behind the Trenton goal guardian. In the second period Belleville secured 5 goals, 4 of which were scored by Arnott; Whalen scored the fifth goal. In the third and final period Belleville made six goals, of these Whalen made 3 goals, Finkle 2 and Arnott 1. The following composed the teams: Belleville,—Clapper, Marshall, Finkle, Arnott, Whalen, Symons. Subs. Weir and McGorman. Trenton,—Bowen, Bowler, Curry, Schlinzen, Palmer, Anderson. Subs. 30 YEARS AGO

JAN. 10TH, 1910

The inaugural meeting of the city council for the year 1910 was held this morning and the public benches in the chamber were filled with citizens. The Rev. R. C. Blagrave, rector of Christ Church offered the opening prayers. Alderman Chown and Canning escorted Mayor Lorne W. Marsh (returned by acclamation) to the chair. All the aldermen elected were present, namely, Messrs. Ackerman, Vermilyea, Thomas, Green, Sills, Parks, Knox, Carlaw, Wallbridge, Canning, Chown, Lott, Thompson, Wallace, Robinson, Bogle, Fairfield and Woodley. The council this year is composed of twenty one members and only eighteen were elected. Owing to the dropping out of a candidate in Bleecker Ward an election will have to be held to fill the vacancy and as sufficient candidates were not nominated for Baldwin Ward, two aldermen were appointed by the council. After considerable discussion a vote was taken on the following nominated in council: McCroden, Templeton, Adams and Taylor. Messrs. McCrodan and Adams were elected after two votes had been taken. A by-law was passed ordering a new election in Bleecker Ward for one alderman. The following chairmen of committees were elected: Executive, Ald. Ackerman; Public Works, Ald. Thomas; Fire, Ald. Fairfield; Market and City Property, Ald. Lott; Water, Ald. Vermilyea, Gas, Ald. Wallbridge.

The Lie Absurd

—A blatant example of the crookedness of Germany's propaganda methods was effectively shown up by the French wireless. The French "traitor" on the Stuttgart station had announced on the previous night that a French lieutenant, Robert Meliande, of Mont-de-Marsan, had been taken prisoner; and he was even permitted to saw a few words on the wireless about the good treatment he was receiving in Germany.

The real Robert Meliande — there is only one man of that name at Mont-de-Marsan — testified in person on the French wireless that he was still happily in France.

An even sillier piece of German propaganda was contained in a tract dropped over France. It opened with "a statement made by Winston Churchill at the meeting of the secret War Cabinet on September 2", in which Mr. Churchill was alleged to say that: "England would fight to the last Polish soldier, or, if Poland was destroyed, to the last French soldier." What the German writer of the tract overlooked was that on September 2 Mr. Churchill was not even a Cabinet Minister. — London Sunday Times.

A Word for "Thank You"

A United States newspaper syndicalist declares there wouldn't be very many people in this world doing things for others if the "Thank you" didn't keep working all the time. At the close of a year it is well to review it, and think of all those who have been outstanding in their thoughtfulness of you — and just thank them again! There are so many people who are forever doing kind and helpful things—not knowing always how much they have been appreciated. To give thanks to such a person is like throwing a fresh log upon a slumbering fire. It brightens and warms that life anew.

No matter how small a purchase one may make in a store, the simple "Thank you" may bring that customer back for a larger purchase. Appreciation and courtesy are no small investment. They are foundation stones in the very structure of success.

"Thank you" is but one of the simple costless phrases that help to make this world a good one in which to live. It is one, however, that smooths out the rough spots in one's daily life. It gives cheer to the lonely and humble. Its use marks one as kindly and genuine. Every service deserves a "Thank you." Payment otherwise often descends into cheapness and is unworthy of its giver. Much of our effort in life is given for no other reason than to get an earned "Thank you." — Brandon Sun.

Alberta Farmers, Business Men Organize To Plan $15,000,000 Water Storage And Irrigation Facilities

Central Press Canadian Writer

Lethbridge, Alta., Jan. 10.—Organized recently at a representative gathering in this city of farmers and business men, the South Alberta Water Conservation council has embarked on a development program calling for the expenditure over a period of years of $15,000,000 of federal funds for water storage and irrigation facilities for this region.

This is the most important forward step in irrigation taken since those pioneer days 40 years ago when the first water ditch was built by the Mormon settlers from Utah. This was the Alberta Railway and Irrigation Company project, financed in London, Eng., by Sir Alexander T. Galt and his son, Elliott T., who also opened the first major coal mines in Alberta. Their land superintendent was a young surveyor named C. A. "Charley" Magrath, later first mayor of Lethbridge, member of parliament, chairman of the Ontario Hydro commission, member of the international joint commission and otherwise prominent in Canadian affairs. He directed the first irrigation development in western Canada.

Large Sums of Money Needed

That was at the turn of the century. Today 300,000 acres of land "under the ditch" surround Lethbridge. The new water conservation council want to see another half million acres irrigated, an entirely feasible proposition according to engineers. But to do this large sums of money will be needed.

Development of the water resources of southern Alberta has reached a new phase. Up to now, to a large degree, the water feeding the various irrigated units has been taken direct from the rivers rising in the Rocky Mountains to the west. This has been satisfactory when the rivers had sufficient flow to meet the farmer's needs, but in seasons of drought the supplies have been inadequate.

This has meant serious inroads on farm production, a condition calling for a remedy especially in war-times when the maximum products of western farms will be needed by Britain and her Allies. This wartime situation has stimulated the demand for water conservation against these dry years, bringing a specific appeal from the farmers for storage dams. These dams would trap flood water, now wasted, insuring an even flow to the thirsty farmlands during the critical growing period of May, June and July and perhaps August.

Water Must Be Used

Much of the water for southern Alberta irrigated lands comes from streams rising in the United States and flowing into Canada. The water of these streams, the St. Mary and Milk rivers, is divided between the two countries by treaty. The basic principle of the agreement on these boundary streams is use, hence it is feared if Canada does not make greater use of these water supplies by reservoiring, as in the case south of the border, the whole question might be reopened by the United States. This might jeopardize Canada's share of these valuable waters.

To meet this danger the new water council is making one of its first objectives the building of a large, earthen dam across the St. Mary river at Spring Coulee, 30 miles southwest of Lethbridge. This dam would cost $3,500,000, store 250,000 acre feet of water, conserve flood waters of the St. Mary, Belly and Waterton rivers and provide farmers in the Magrath, Raymond, Stirling and Coaldale areas with an abundance of water even in the driest years. It would require three years to build.

Another smaller scheme is projected for the Milk river diverting water to Jerdigris coulee and other natural storage basins with which nature has liberally endowed this area. Yet another development calls for the extension of the Taber-Barnwell scheme eastward supplying water to Purple Springs, Grassy Lake and Burdett. Other projects in the general program are the South Macleod, Little Bow, Sundial-Retlaw and Suffield-Redcliff carrying water rights to the door of the city of Medicine Hat.

Seek Federal Aid

These men admit it is a large order, but encouraged by the Prairie Farm Rehabilitation Administration at Regina, reclamation agency of the federal government, they are pressing vigorously for action. Recently a deputation met Hon. J. G. Gardiner, minister of agriculture, at Regina, placing before him the whole scheme. The conference was favorable, the minister promising that P.F.R.A. engineers would draw maps and gather necessary data.

The policy of the federal government respecting water development now calls for the expenditure of federal funds in the building of dams and canals. These projects are looked upon now as public works of national importance. Hence the government will be asked to furnish the capital costs with the farmers handling the maintenance charges. This new policy has greatly encouraged the farmers.

Philip Baker, president of the Alberta Co-Operative Sugar Beet Growers' association is president of the water council, and J. I. McDermott is secretary. All interested areas are represented on the council which has already enlisted both provincial and federal government encouragement.

"Save the water, stabilize our agriculture," is the cry heard across the sami-arid plains of Alberta's southland. The beet growers are specailly anxious for more water as this is vital to the expansion of their industry.

Delirium and Confusion in Old Age May Be Due to Infection

It is but a short time ago since it was considered normal for middle-aged and older persons to lose their teeth, develop rheumatism, and stiffness of joints. Today it is known that proper diets, regular visits to the dentist, and a little daily exercise such as walking or a few holes of golf will keep our older folk limber and more youthful.

However, the idea still persists that it is 'natural' for older people to become forgetful and confused; that nothing can be done about it.

In speaking about acute confusion states of old age in Southern Medical Journal, Dr. G. Wiltse Robinson, Jr., Kansas City, says that delirium and confusion in old people are many times brought on by low grade infection and there seems to be no direct relation between the degree of mental disability and the actual organic change of advancing years. Direction of treatment toward these toxic (poison) states by the use of injections of glucose into the veins gave pleasing results.

There is sufficient evidence that in old people delirium and confusion are reactions to general disease, just as they are in younger people.

In a series, 10 patients had delirium as their only nervous reaction, and 6 had delirium as a complication of another nervous or mental condition. The 10 patients with delirium only, had an average age of 63. In only one case was there a history of marked difficulty of adjustment with other people and ordinary everyday circumstances. All the other cases had lived stable, successful, middle-class lives. Seven of the patients had been under the care of physicians for chronic disorders of the body—arthritis, high blood pressure, cataracts and digestive disturbances; three had nervous ailments. All these patients had periods when their minds were clear.

In the six cases with cloudiness of consciousness and confusion, the onset came unnoticed. They had their symptoms for a much longer period and rarely were their minds clear.

What was the result of treatment by glucose injection? Of the ten cases of delirium and confusion due to infection, 9 cleared up completely when infection was removed. Of the six cases (nervous), all were relieved of their delirium but their underlying nervous ailment remained.

"A recovery rate of 14 out of 16 cases offers convincing proof that damage to the brain or body is not the sole cause of the delirium and confusion. Delirium in old people often develops because infection is added to an individual with a poorly adjusted background."

Daily War Survey

By The Canadian Press

Finland's triumphant fighters enjoyed some needed rest today as operations in their defensive war against Soviet Russia slowed to a stand-still.

How long the lull will last depends on decisions which may be reached at Moscow and the speed with which Russia may be able to move new and fresh troops to the front from the all-but inexhaustible store of Russian man-power.

The longer the lull, however, the better for the Finns, even though later Russian attacks may be more formidable by reasons of more careful preparation. The Finns will have a chance to relieve some of their hard pressed front-line troops and the strain on their lines of communication will be eased.

Perhaps more important, they will be able to organize the foreign volunteers entering the country in large numbers and arrange for the transport and utilization of supplies from outside the country.

Should the Russians delay further offensive operations until spring the war would then involve entirely new tactics. Finland, like northern Ontario, is a country of countless lakes. Transportation across country is simpler in winter than in summer.

A summer campaign on the Finnish border would probably involve more of the hit-and-run type of fighting by small detachments rather than mass movements of large forces but the Finns have already displayed a superiority over their enemies at this kind of warfare.

Air operations on a grand scale might be expected but the use of heavy artillery and tanks would be slight, except where roads and open country make their movement practicable.

Crew Works With Courage To Save Passengers as Liner Splits in Two on Striking Mine

Captain and Two Members of Dunbar Castle Killed in the Explosion

SINKS IN 20 MINS.

London, Jan. 10 (CP Cable)—The 10,002-ton liner Dunbar Castle, sunk by a German mine off the southeast coast of England, was in an outward-bound convoy, it was learned today.

Although the liner foundered in 15 minutes, only three were known to have been killed out of the 198 passengers and crew aboard. They perished when the "murder mine" explosion split the ship in half. Two other members of the crew were believed to be missing.

Passengers praised the feats of heroism by the crew and the officers said the calm courage of the passengers enabled the boats to get away in the choppy sea.

Captain H. A. Causton and two members of the crew were killed in the explosion, which crumpled the decks and blew out the foremast of the Union Castle liner shortly after it had left a British port for Cape Town. Two other crew members were missing.

Although the liner sank rapidly, there was no panic. Witnesses said the crew worked with cool courage to save the passengers, among them nine children.

It was believed that all 48 passengers got away in two of the ships boats. After drifting about in the channel, they were picked up by a coastal motor barge and brought ashore.

A British business man passenger who withheld his name gave the following account of the Dunbar Castle sinking:

"We were having a smoke after lunch and naturally were discussing the war. Suddenly it was brought home to all of us.

All Lights Out

"There was a loud, dull roar. The vessel seemed to stop and appeared to be listing. All lights below went out.

"The force of the explosion threw us on the floor with chairs and tables piled on top of us. It was a terrible melee.

"Then someone shouted, "keep calm and don't make any noise,"

"We obeyed the first order all right, but it was another matter trying not to make noise."

"Everywhere there was smoke, which was almost suffocating.

"Assisting one another as best we could, we groped our way to the decks and daylight. The ship was listing badly and water was rushing in as we put on lifebelts and got into lifeboats without panic.

"The ship sank in 20 minutes."

Ninety crewmen were landed in six boats at one southeast port. The others were put ashore at the same port as the 48 passengers.

The ship's galley blew up and the cook and his mate were burned and scalded. One of the crew said he saw the Captain dead outside his cabin. Apparently the skipper tried to reach his quarters after the bridge had crumbled. The bodies of the Captain, an engine storekeeper and an able seaman were brought ashore.

Stayed With Ship

Chief Officer Roberts was the last person to leave the ship.

Another said he saw a stewardess running through the flames of the galley with her apron afire.

Another survivor said there was a racehorse on the foredeck. When the topmast crashed down, the horse was thrown into the sea.

The cooks apparently suffered the most of all. The explosion set fire to fat, and blazing oil was sprayed through the galley. Several members of the galley staff came running out on deck with their clothes burned away.

When the members of the crew arrived in London early today, some of them were wrapped in blankets, as they had lost most of their possessions.

The Dunbar Castle was built in the Harland and Wolf Glasgow yards in 1930. Her home port was London. She had accommodations for 200 first class and 260 third class passengers.

Bravery is Praised

Miss Nora Bunny, hoarse and pale after her ordeal, praised the bravery shown by Second Officer Saunders, who set his own broken leg in their lifeboat.

"He was obviously suffering great pain,' she said, "but he set it with splints which had been dropped into the lifeboat while we were tossing in the choppy sea.

"He never complained, but went grimly along with the job, at the same time giving instructions and directions to the crew who were rowing.

"I was huddled near to my mother and we were both frozen. Somebody tried to cover us with a blanket. We couldn't see very far, as it was misty, and the last we saw of the ship was her mast and funnels leaning badly on one side.

Sister Phyllis, recently of St. Mary's convent of Wantage, Berkshire, expressed concern today for the safety of two colleagues who were en route with her to the diocesan school for girls in Pretoria for a five-year stay.

At Stern of Vessel

"I was at the stern of the vessel when we were mined," said Sister Phyllis. "I have not seen them since and have heard nothing of them, although I have been inquiring of the police and all the other authorities here."

Among the passengers landed in one boat were a husband, wife, and two children—a boy of four and a 10-week-old girl, who were on their way to make a new home in South Africa.

Rev. G. S. Ferguson, who had been on furlough with his wife, was returning to Nyasaland to take up his missionary duties as a member of the Zambesi mission.

"You must emphasize," he said, "that no words are too high to commend the splendid behavior of the crew. It all happened very suddenly and the emergency brought to the surface the finest qualities. Everyone behaved amazingly well."

PIONEER MERCHANT DIES

Campbellford, Ont., Jan. 10—(C.P.)—Edward J. Nancarrow, 85, pioneer merchant of this town who retired some years ago, died Monday. He was a resident of Campbellford for more than 70 years, coming from nearby Stirling. He is survived by one son and three daughters.

ALL IS BRIGHT

By Eleanor Browne

"We'll find him." Kent's quiet assurance helped Barton a little. But Star wondered if Kent was quite as confident as he appeared to be. His mouth was pressed into a thin line. He took out a notebook and turned to Elise. "Miss Cattrell, where did you go? Tell me as exactly as you can remember."

It seemed to take a long time for Elise and Mrs. Jenkins to give a coherent account of their movements. Star was impatientto be off, but she realized that Kent was doing the wise thing. When he had information he quickly mapped out a plan.

"Miss Cattrell and Mr. Underwood will follow her route. Here it is, written out. I'll speak to the Captain and have some of the seamen detailed to cover the water front. Star and I will go over the ground Mr. and Mrs. Jenkins covered. Wait here a minute. Return to the pier in an hour, no matter what. Meanwhile listen for the ship's siren. Three blasts will mean that the boy's found."

It did not seem strange to Star that she and Kent should be paired off in the search. She was scarcely conscious, in fact, of anything that took place in the next half hour. She only knew that every time they looked over the high wall surrounding the city she expected to see a tiny bundle lying inert at the bottom. She breathed a prayer of thankfulness when there was nothing.

She was frantic when they stood in front of the Palace of Inquisition. Its entrance yawned at them with grim secrecy as if it rejoiced that a more subtle torture than its room had ever known was tearing at her soul.

"Stuart! Stuart!"

She stood in the middle of the court and called despairingly. Kent disappeared into the next chamber his footsteps echoing hollowly.

Star had a sensation that she was being watched. She turned swiftly and saw a pair of dark eyes gleaming at her. Suddenly she saw a little girl. Appearing not to notice her at all Star circled the courtyard, gazing intently at the flagging as if she had lost some small piece of jewelry. As she approached the darkened stairs she wheeled quickly and darted into the shadows. She came out holding the pitiful ragged child, whose thin hand was like a claw in hers.

"Where's the little boy?" Star demanded. "About so high." She put her hand a few feet from the ground. "Just a little boy. Where is he?"

The child shook her head sullenly, but Star had a conviction that she understood well enough. Star gazed at her in despair, and saw her eyes fastened on a bracelet—a narrow silver chain hung with dangling charms. Without letting her go, Star worked at the clasp until it opened. The child stared fascinated, as she dangled it in front of her. Experimentally she put up her hand to touch it. Star moved it just out of reach.

"Get boy?" For a fleeting second she let the cool silver rest against the child's arm.

There was a moment of indecision while the little girl looked from her to the bracelet and back again. Star literally held her breath, wondering if the bribe would work.

Then the child gave an almost infinitesimal nod, and Star knew she had won.

CHAPTER XVIII

Star let the little girl go and stood quietly, hoping. She heard Kent's footsteps, faint at first, come nearer. Still she waited.

"Well, he doesn't seem to be here." Kent sounded weary for the first time.

"Shh-hh." Star motioned him back. "Stay in the other room just a second."

Astonished, Kent drew back to the other side of the open doorway The next minute the little girl's bare feet pattered on the stone. Other steps sounded, and Stuart appeared.

But such a Stuart His face was streaked with dirt and dust. His once white linen suit was bedraggled and torn. But it was Stuart, and he looked beautiful to Star when she knelt in the courtyard and held out her arms to him. The little girl paused warily under the porch.

"Stuart—oh, darling! Why did you do it?" Star exclaimed. Stuart drew away and surveyed her practically.

"Do what?"

"Run away. We've all been so worried, dear. We've looked everywhere for you."

Star remembered the little girl and held out the bracelet. A skinny arm stretched out and snatched it away. Then the child vanished as quickly as she had appeared.

Stuart was looking with interest from Star to Kent, who now stood in the doorway. "I wasn't running away," he explained. "I was just playin' with that little girl— her name's 'Lores. There's a long sort or cave back there with iron and things in it."

"But didn't you know your father and Kent and I—and everyone would miss you, Stuart?"

"Daddy? He doesn't want me around." Stuart lifted his head defiantly. "He wouldn't mind if I didn't come back."

"You're wrong, young fellow." Kent's expert hands travelled swiftly over the sturdy little frame and he nodded reassuringly at Star. "Your father is about ready to call out the army and declare war because you're missing. Hustle now, we've got to get back to the ship."

"And when we do get back, the Captain's going to blow the whistle three times to let everyone know you're safe," Star added.

Stuart beamed with pleasure. "All right. Let's hurry!" he agreed, but the next minute he hung back. "Unless—we could wait for the soldiers?" he asked hopefully.

x x x

Star lay on the top deck, the sun warm on her back, to think the thing through. Tomorrow she would have to give Barton Underwood his answer. She sighed. Life had seemed so clear and uncomplicated when she came aboard. Just take a cruise, she had told herself. Make "Uncle" Ezra's son realize that he had been a perfect cad—store up a few memories and then return to the library at Milford.

It had been so easy to plan. But now everything had changed. She did not want to go back to Milford. She was no longer the same person. The girl who had been content with a colorless existence had been replaced by someone who knew that life could be exciting and gay outside the dusty covers of library books.

And she need not go back! The way out had been opened for her with Barton Underwood's proposal. And he was nice, too. But was he in love with her? Star suspected he was not. Of course he was no young romanticist. Without doubt his interest had been aroused by watching her with Stuart. That, set against the romantic background of the cruise, had made him propose.

But was that enough? Star turned over, carefully protecting her eyes from the sun with a handkerchief. It might be enough if she were in love with him. But she wasn't. Was she in love with someone else?

It had taken her quite a while, Star reflected grimly, to realize the full meaning of her interest in Kent. It was not, as she tried to pretend, because she hated him. She had felt that she should hate him. She had tried to. But from the first she had liked him. Now—she might as well face it — she was in love with Kent Barrett.

Star sat up, aware that she had had plently of sun. Her skin was already a golden tan that made her eyes look bleur than ever. Even her hair was tipped with gold where the sun had reached the upturned ends. She made her way to her cabin.

With a gesture of greeting to Gloria Star stepped into the bathroom for a shower. She had promised Barton she would meet him on deck for tea. There was still time to lie down and talk to Gloria for a while. And Gloria, it seemed, wanted to talk to her. Probably she was worried about Kent. Well, no matter what Kent said, Gloria expected to marry him. Her own feeling for him would have to be smothered. But there was pleasure in even hearing his name.

Gloria watched the bathroom door. Her eyes were gleaming with anger. She wanted to tell Star what she thought of her tactics — pretending to be interested in her cabin mate's love affair with Kent —and then encouraging him herself! Gloria did not believe any man would become interested in a girl without definite encouragement. And it never occurred to her that any man would prefer another girl to herself.

"Get a good sunburn?" Gloria had a moment of envy as she looked at the radiant, suntanned girl before her. "I'd like to take a sun bath too," she said peevishly, "but I just burn."

Star fastened her terry robe and lay down, stretching luxuriously. "I had to be alone for a little while. But I have things straightened out now—with myself, I mean. Really," Star added shyly, "I'd like to talk to you."

Gloria, avid for her confidences, managed a creditable sob. "I— I suppose it's about Kent."

Star blushed. "No—not about Kent," she answered. "Unless you have something to tell me."

"He's been with you practically the whole trip," Gloria said pettishly. "Just to make me jealous, I suppose."

Star was looking at her roommate thoughtfully. Gloria was afraid from the girl's expression that she had put her on her guard. Instead, Star was thinking of that moment at the swimming pool in Kingston. Of Kent, rising bronzed and lean from the water to say earnestly, "I'm going to marry Gloria."

It was hard for any girl to come away on what she expected to be her honeymoon trip and then have the man behave as Kent had. She could even understand Gloria's pitiful subterfuges. But Kent Barrett would never be true—even to himself. Star knew that. And knowing it she still loved Kent. Gloria must love him the same way. So Star said: "I know you haven't been happy lately. Do you want to tell me about it?"

But Gloria did not want to do the confiding. She said with sincerity, "There's nothing to tell. Kent has made it clear to the whole ship that he would rather be with anyone else than his fiancee." A note of bitterness crept in and she tried to cover it. "Is that what you were thinking about?"

WEDDINGS

RORABECK—CHAPMAN

With the families of both the contracting parties witnessing the ceremony, a very pretty wedding was solemnized by Rev. L. W. Scott at 11 o'clock on Saturday, January 6th., at the United Church parsonage, Sidney, when Miss Mary Eleanor Chapman, elder daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Chapman, 6th Con. Sidney, became the bride of Harry Lloyd Rorabeck, Milford, Ont., third son of Mr. and Mrs. Malcolm Rorabec, Picton, Ont.

The bride who was given in marriage by her father was very becomingly attired in harvest wine silk velvet with matching accessories and wore a shoulder corsage of roses. The bridesmaid, Miss Mabel Chapman, sister of the bride, wore Queen's Blue alpaca, with corsage of roses. The groom was attended by his brother Mr. Lewis Rorabeck of Milford.

The wedding music was played by Mrs. L. W. Scott, who also sang "O Promise Me", during the signing of the register.

Following the ceremony the wedding party motored to Belleville and partook of a sumptuous wedding dinner at the Queen's Hotel where covers were laid for fourteen.

The groom's gift to the bride was a gold locket, to the bridesmaid, also a locket, to the groomsman, a key-case and purse, to the pianist a gold brooch.

Following their honeymoon to Toronto, Niagara Falls and other western points, Mr. and Mrs. Rorabeck will reside at Milford.

McKAY—MERRITT

In Knox Presbyterian Church at Oshawa, at two o'clock, Monday, January 8, Rev. W. Harold Reid officiated at the marriage of Dorothy Marie, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Merritt, to Mr. Wilfred John McKay of St. Thomas, formerly of Oshawa, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. J. L. McKay of Oshawa.

The bride's floor-length gown was of latour blue velvet made with fitted shirred bodice and bracelet-length sleeves. She wore a small draped turban to match, long white kid gloves, silver slippers and carried red roses with white satin ribbon. Her father gave her in marriage. Mrs. J. P. Dale of Belleville, was matron of honour and she wore a long gown in plum shade with metallic trim, miniature hat in matching material and carried a bouquet of Talisman roses. Mr. Arthur McKay was groomsman, and the ushers were Mr. Harold Merritt and Mr. Harold McKay.

Forty guests were received at the home of the bride's parents, 574 Simcoe Street South, the bride's mother wearing a street frock of wine crepe with lace, black accessories and a corsage of Talisman roses.

For a wedding trip to Detroit and Pontiac, Michigan, the bride wore a marsh rose crepe dress with bracelet sleeves and bustle back, black fitted coat with Persian lamb trim and matching hat. The couple will live in St. Thomas, Ont.

Quaternion Y. P. Hold Inaugural Meeting of 1940

The Quaternion Y.P.U. met last night in Tabernacle United Church, with a good attendance. Miss M. [illegible] and Miss Helen Brown as sided. Miss Burke, Miss Matthews and Miss Brown conducted the devotions. After transacting the business in connection with the closing of the year the newly elected officers were called to the front and installed by Rev. R. E. Newman who addressed them briefly on "study to show yourselves approved of God workmen that needeth not to be ashamed". Miss Helen Thompson, president for 1940, replied for the new officers in a carefully prepared and excellent address calling for the co-operation of all in carrying forward the work. Delegates were appointed to the Winter School.

As no meetings of the Society could be held for the next two weeks they decided to attend in a body the Sunday evening service next Sunday in Tabernacle United Church and in Holloway United the following Sunday night. The Young People will have charge of these services and next Sunday night the address will be given by Rev. D. T. McClintock on "The Seconc Coming of Christ". In Holloway two of the Young People will give the addresses.

It was unanimously decided to accept a very gracious invitation from the Y.P.U. of Bridge Street United to be their guests next Monday night. Miss Jean Matthews the new convener led the young people in games and after light refreshments the meeting closed in the usual way.

Beauty Under the Chin

DOROTHY LOVETT . . .avoids n eck lines by carrying head erectly.

By HELEN FOLLETT

ONE WAY to keep the neck smooth and youthful is to carry the head beautifully, chin on the level. Lower the chin, throw the head forward and see what happens to your poor neck, lady. Muscles haven't a thing to do, so tissues soften. After that appears a fiddle-string condition, or necklace lines do a ring-around-a-rosy. A little heavy thinking will avoid many beauty griefs that are of your own making.

Under-nourishment will show in the throat. Always we get back to that important matter of stoking up on good chow. Not too much chow of course, because an excess of padding leads to wrinkles.

If time has clutched you at the throat and made ugly marks, get busy. Try this exercise, Place the hands flat on either side of the jaw, finger-tips up toward the ears. Stretch the neck slowly, gradually sending the head backward. Still place, turn the head slowly from side to side, with a strong muscle pull. Casual movement does nothing. Fibres must tighten and relax. That process strengthens them, sends blood streams scooting about their business.

The high moguls and mogulesses of fashion believe that blondes should employ only the most delicate perfumes, like jasmine, lily of the valley or gardenia; that the heavier and more exotic scents do not suit the fragile loveliness of light-headed lovelies. Brunettes can get away with fragrant essences that have more body.

Suitable for the out-of-doors girl, who skates in the winter season, sails, swims and plays tennis when the good old summer time is here, are woodsy scents; there are many of them that carry enchantment.

Despite these ideas advanced by knowing authorities, the average girl will use what tickles her nose

Advice to the Lovelorn

Objects to Husband's Housekeeping Dole

Did you happen to read in the papers the other day about the woman of 58 who sued her husband for maintenance? The man proved to be something of a museum piece in the way of tightwads.

He had an income of about $6000 a year. He gave his wife about $20 a week for all household expenses, and if he dined out he docked her for the meals. She had put up with this bitter economy, but told the judge that she couldn't stand it another day.

The judge granted her maintenance of $175 a month, which I fear she may find hard to collect. It's no longer easy to collect maintenance or alimony, and several states have crossed it off their statute laws entirely.

That lady needn't worry about getting a job. Anyone able to keep house as well as she did on $20 a week is in the Alexander Hamilton class of financiers. The tightwad husband made no complaint of her housekeeping, the meals she served, the terrific hair-splitting she exercised to pay utility bills, the hourly scrimping was all to his taste.

Passionately enamored of saving, he continued to dock his wife every time he spent a cent outside of pinch-penny house.

How did she stand it? Like the constant dripping of water on rock destroys it, love, respect and endurance had long since worn away. The power to endure seemed all she was able to salvage from life. And after a while that went too. A man who loves money better than he does his wife is a subject for the psychiatrist.

With a family eking out an existence on a starvation wage, or no wage at all, any decent woman will help fifty-fifty, and even farther. She will not grudge economizing to the last cent, and if it's possible for her to earn even a little, she will work for her family uncomplainingly.

But this is no reason why a woman should add to her husband's miserliness when he is well able to provide. She is only making easier one of the most unlovely of human qualities. Carried to the limit, your thirty-third degree miser has often been found starved to death with his filthy rags full of hoarded money.

The papers told of one such recently, who was found dead in his garret with more than $50,000 in bank deposits and securties, the bank notes hidden behind pictures on the wall. Another, on old woman miser, who lived entirely on food provided by charitable neighbors, was found dead on Thanksgiving Day by a neighbor's daughter who brought her a meal. In this latter case, the woman left no will, had no known relative. If no relatives are found, the money she had hidden in her hovel will revert to the state.

Miserliness is a jealous mistress. Once given the whiphand, the joy of saving seems to exceed all other delights. If misers save for the purpose of leaving a monument to their own egoism, their scrimping is understandable. The joy of seeing their names in a public building, or connected with some institution, outweighs every other consideration and is for the good of all. But the scrimper and saver who is found dead of starvation, in filthy rags and with enough to keep him in comfort, is a victim of insanity.

It's hard to understand why the wives of well-to-do misers continue to minister to this passion of niggardliness. And why a woman, who is a past mistress of economy, does not get herself a job.

She might at least let the kitchen fire go out, and quit the endless round of shopping from one store to another to save a penny here and there.

Dessert-and-Coffee Parties Provide New Economic Entertainment

It's no wonder that dessert-and-coffee parties are winning in the popularity sweepstakes. It's no wonder they have become a social institution. It's no wonder we like to give them and it's no wonder we like to go to them.

If you have not tried entertaining in this easy way, perhaps these are the best of all weeks in the year to think about it. The holidays are over, the Christmas trimmings are down,—and so, undoubtedly, are the contents of your housekeeping pocketbook! But in spite of the depleted budget, you want to have parties, the simpler, the better.

Bridge-and-dessert parties are the answer, for they delightfully combine practical qualities and friendly hospitality.

The practical qualities? Let's say that you can't go to the expense of inviting a group of friends to dinner, but that you would like to have them come to your house fairly soon after dinner to start an early evening of bridge. You call up (the morning of your party, or a few days before, as you wish), invite six guests to make two tables of bridge, or increase this number as you wish and find convenient. Even twelve at table for coffee and a delicious dessert are easier than four guests for an entire meal!

The dinner for your family that evening should be a simple one, minus the dessert. At eight o'clock the baby will be asleep, the other children will be tucked in bed, the dinner will be cleared away.

Then, in a jiffy (because you have planned everything ready) your dining-table will be set to make as charming a picture as possible. Your "party" linen, your loveliest china and glass and silver. A decorative centrepiece. Dishes of mints or other kinds of candies on each side of the centrepiece. Candles to glow their welcome.

Your table is, of course, set for the dessert course only. The simplest way to set the places is to put a plate (a dessert plate or any medium-sized plate) at each place; a dessert fork at the left of the plate, a dessert spoon at the right of the plate; a napkin either on the plate or at the left of the fork. If you want to be more "stylish", you use a glass dessert plate on a china plate, and on the dessert plate a fingerbowl, perhaps with a few flowers floating in it.

So that you won't need to leave the table to do the serving, have the coffee tray all equipped (except for the percolator) and ready before your place, and, on the serving table or tea cart at your side, the dessert.

It's a good idea to have, if possible, two sizes of coffee-cups, for your guests' preference: the regular size and the after-dinner coffee size.

For the dessert? Here's your chance to serve a culinary triumph. If you're proud of your lemon meringue pie or chocolate cream pie or hot pumpkin pie with whipped cream, serve one of these specialties. If these are too time-consuming to prepare, serve a fruit compote or a selection of two or three kinds of cheese and heated French bread or crackers, or cream cheese and Guava jelly or your pet preserve or marmalade.

Dessert and coffee over, you can close the dining-room door with the comforting thought that there won't be heaps of dishes and a kitchen in disorder.

DR. DAFOE'S COLUMN on the Quintuplets and the Care of Your Children

More About Sinusitis

From time to time this column has been devoted to sinus trouble. I think it is an important subject to talk about regularly because so many people develop it at some time or another.

It is important for a doctor to be consulted when any symptoms appear. Unless it is properly diagnosed and treated when it occurs, it may never clear up but will become chronic.

In the diagnosis for sinusitis, the X-ray is probably the surest test. Ordinarily, the sinuses are merely empty cavities and if they are healthy they will have a clear outline on an X-ray plate. When there is pus of inflammation in them, the outline on the plate will be cloudy.

However, an X-ray machine isn't always handy to help in such a diagnosis. So we have evolved other tests to help us locate the trouble. For instance, if the infected sinus is discharging pus, it will be draining into the nose and to discover which of the sinuses it is draining from, doctors often use an apparatus invented by a Dr. Sondermann. This sucks out the nasal passages like a miniature vacuum cleaner. Then the nasal passages are examined and as the different sinuses drain into different parts of the nasal system, your doctor can soon tell you which sinus is giving the trouble.

If it is a maxillary sinus—the antrum, that the doctor suspects, he will have the patient bend down with the head between the knees and the affected side uppermost This will drain the pus from that sinus and the doctor will be able then to see it in the nasal passage.

These tests I have been describing are usually made in the morning, for during the night as the patient sleeps the pus has a chance to collect. During the day a person's normal movement will cause the pus to drain out by itself.

Sometimes when sinusitis becomes chronic none of these tests show us which sinus contains pus. Then the doctor may make a further exploration by puncturing the wall of the suspected antrum with a needle. Air is then blown through the needle and if pus is present, it will then be forced out through the passage into the nose. Sometimes the needle is introduced through the nose, but if it happens that there is a decayed tooth beneath the antrum, this is often removed and the needle inserted through the hole left by the roots of the tooth.

Before the Quintuplets had their tonsils out on November 1938, they were subject to colds again and again. Each time they got the infection we had to watch carefully to see that the infection didn't spread to other parts of the body, and the sinuses in particular. When we had the tonsils taken out and the colds stopped, it was a great relief for all of us.

For there are more than two dozen diseases that may be caused by this infection, sinusitis. For instance, there are at last a dozen abnormalities of the eyes that may result from the spread of infection in a sinus. Pneumonia may develop from it, so may laryngitis, tonsilitis, asthma, gastro-intestinal indigestion, anemia, abcesses—particularly of the brain. All these things may be brought on by neglect of sinus in an adult or a child.

You see how important it is to discover which sinus is diseased and to clear it up at once. The pain the patient suffers is really only a minor reason for hurrying a cure. If an acute attack of sinusitis is attended to immediately, if doctor's orders are followed, then the disease may never recur. If not, if the diseased cavity is allowed to go on discharging pus indefinitely, it follows that the trouble will become chronic. Then every time the person gets a cold, everytime he gets run down, he has an attack. These attacks come with other infections and other complaints when the system is least able to cope with them.

Form Woman's Group Of College Hill

In connection with the New University Sunday School at College Hill, a woman's group has been organized known as the Woman's Group of College Hill. It is non denominational and will help promote the work of the Sunday School and do social work in the community. The sick will be visited and help given where there is need. It is under the supervision of Rev. E Farnsworth and welcome will be extended to all to assist in the good work. It is felt that much good will result from the co-operation of Christian women of different denominations.

The following officers were elected at the organization meeting held at the home of Mrs. Robert Brown, North Front Street.

President, Mrs. Fred Burley; Vice President, Mrs. Jack Thompson; Secretary, Mrs. Fred Cook; Treasurer, Mrs. Robert Brown; Visiting and Flower Committee, Mrs. J. Brown, Mrs. Hunter and Miss Barriage; Buying Committee, Mrs. Thompson and Mrs. Robert Brown.

Two quilt covers have been donated and quilted and found ready sale.

The January meeting was held at the home of Mrs. Fred Burley with fourteen ladies present and took the form of a quilting. Another quilt will be done at the next meeting and further plans made.

Proper Lighting for Homes and Schools Discussed in Talk

The Home and School Club of Queen Alexandra School held an interesting meeting in the school last evening when the guest speaker was Dr. A. C. Locke. The meeting which opened with community singing was in charge of the President, Mrs. Ralph Morden, who presided for the business part of the evening. Dr. Locke gave a splendid address on the subject "Illumination of the Home and School" in which he discussed the proper lighting, and decoration of rooms, for the conserving of vision. Slides illustrated the words of the speaker. The club was most appreciative of the very interesting and informative talk.

tA the conclusion of the meeting refreshments were served by Mrs. Barclay and the members of her group.

FRIENDS HONOR CANADIAN POET

Sir Charles G. D. Roberts Best Loved and Most Renowned Figure in Canadian Letters

Toronto, Jan. 10 (CP)—Sir Charles G. D. Roberts, New Brunswick poet and author, was honored last night by the Canadian Literature Club as the "best loved and most renowned figure in Canadian letters" on the occasion of his 80th birthday.

And to prove to the litterateurs gathered at the Heliconian Club that he was also one of the most sprightly, Sir Charles walked briskly to the platform at the close of the evening and read several of his poems which tell lyrically the beauty of Canada.

His biographer, Miss Elsie Pomeroy, spoke of Sir Charles as an whatever clime his pen sought ink his song was always of Canada—of the lumber camps in New Brunswick or the vivid seascapes of the Maritimes.

The Stars Say

For Thursday, January 11

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

MODERATE opportunity and accomplishment are presaged by the fairly favorable lunar transits. With the ambitions under mild stimulus, both in business and all pertaining to writings, publishing and promotion, cleverness and resourcefulness may prove profitable. However, there is some menace of treachery, intrigue or secret undermining from a source little suspected. Keep alert, astute.

Those whose birthday it is may enjoy a year of moderate success. Business should move at a fairly active pace, and matters of a literary, advertising, publicity or transportation nature should thrive, providing there is sufficient stability and application. There are dangers by secret underminings, intrigues or treacheries, which are best met by strategy or diplomacy.

A child born on this day may be versatile and resourceful, having fine mental equipment and moderate ambition. It may enjoy fair success in life, despite secret enmities or its own subtleties.

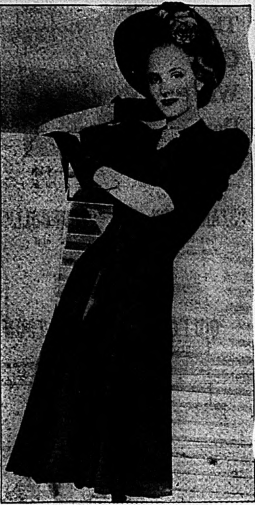
SKIRTING THE STYLES



By ALICE ALDEN

SKIRTS aren't as simple as they used to be. Some are balloon, full above the knees in daytime styles and above the ankles in short, dancing-length dresses. The hobble, split and harem skirts are other newcomers, the last being a feature of the very wearable crepe pictured. It's a modified adaptation at that, giving more of an impression of front fulness than of the harem hem. Bands are criss-crossed for pretty sleeves, a narrow girdle, wrapped twice and tied at the waist, contributing further softness. Such frocks for afternoon and cocktails cry for uplifting hats like the rose-trimmed model shown.

Three-Minute Journey to.. VENEZUELA

By TEMPLE MANNING

THE RECENT disastrous fire near Maracaibo served to spotlight Venezuela in the headlines. But those who know this fabulous republic need no such happenings to remind them of Venezuela. They know that it is one of the potentially richest lands on earth, and that it is one of the Latin American republics owing its development to American enterprise and capital. This republic is a land of untold natural resources, with mines producing not only gold but silver, copper, iron, lead, marble, diamonds, opals, amethysts and garnets. We are concerned, of course, with travel, but these resources enter into the picture, for they are responsible for opening up the country and the development of towns.

Climate Varies

Venezuela is the northernmost country of South America, bounded by the Caribbean, the Atlantic Ocean, by Colombia, Brazil and British Guiana. As in countries near the equator, Venezuela climate varies with the elevation, which is considerable. Some spots are beastly hot, while others are temperate and lovely, ideal spots in which to linger.

Coming in by sea at La Guaira, about 23 miles by train from the capital, Caracas, is interesting but not exciting or spectacular from the travel viewpoint. Much nicer than the port is Macuto, some six miles away, which has an especially nice hotel, with dining terraces offering beautiful vistas of the sea.

If La Guaira isn't particularly exciting, the trip from there to Caracas is. The route leads up to Pedro Garcia, providing a wonderful panorama of mountains and sea. Everywhere there is flaming tropical vegetation, giant ferns and plants, bright-hued flowers and fantastic orchids, with here and there weird and grotesque cacti.

In Honor of Liberator

Caracas is interesting, really a monument to the greater liberator, Simon Bolivar. In the lovely Plaza Bolivar, rich with trees and paved with rich mosaics, is a statue of Bolivar. The plaza, in true Spanish style, is the setting for the evening promenade or paseo. There is a band concert, so one promenades, flirts and enjoys a life set to music. On the square is the cathedral, the Casa Amarlia, once the President's residence, now the home of the foreign ministry. Then there is the new very modern Governor's palace and the palace of the archbishop.

Meat Loaf Mashed Potatoes
Baked Squash
Celery and Cabbage Salad
Raisin Honey Pound Cake
Coffee or Tea

MEAT LOAF—Ingredients: one and one-half pounds ground beef, one pound ground pork butts, one large slice bread, one-fourth cup milk, one egg, one small chopped onion, some chopped green pepper if liked, two teaspoons salt, one-eighth teaspoon pepper, prepared mustard. Soak bread in milk until very soft, mix thoroughly with meat, adding salt and pepper. Beat egg light and add to mixture. Form into loaf and put in greased pan to bake. Spread prepared mustard over top and bake in moderate oven (350 F.) for one hour.

Raisin Honey Pound Cake — Ingredients: One cup (one-half pound) butter, one cup honey, four eggs, three cups sifted all-purpose flour, three teaspoons baking powder, one-half teaspoon salt, one teaspoon vanilla extract, three-fourths cup chopped walnut meats, one cup raisins. Rinse raisins and dry on towel, slice or chop fine. Cream butter, add honey and cream thoroughly. Add beaten eggs and blend. Add flour sifted with baking powder and salt and beat. Add flavoring, raisins and nuts, and stir to blend. Pour into wax paper-lined loaf pan and bake in slow oven (300 F.) about two hours, or until cake tests done.

Have a Date With These Recipes

By ALICE LYNN BARRY

CHART your salad course by stuffing pasteurized dates with cream cheese, then pop them into the "hold" or halved canned pears, top with your favorite dressing and surround all with a "crow's nest" of salad greens. Put big fat juicy dates in the bottom of your muffin pans before you pour in the batter and there'll be cheers.

Here's a fruit cake for any gala occasion. It is made with one and one-half cups (one-half pound) raisins, one package (seven and one-fourth ounces) pitted dates, four packages (three-ounce size) mixed diced candied fruits and peels, two cups sifted flour, one-half teaspoon soda, one-fourth teaspoon salt, one-fourth teaspoon each cinnamon, nutmeg and cloves; one-half cup firmly-packed brown sugar, one-half cup honey, one-third cup orange juice, two unbeaten eggs. Slice dates in large bowl with other fruits and peels (packaged mixed diced fruits and peels need no preparation). Sift flour with soda, salt and spices over the fruits; mix until pieces do not cling to one another. Cream shortening, add sugar gradually. Beat in the eggs one by one, then add the honey. Stir in the fruit mixture alternately with the liquid. Line with waxed paper a greased loaf pan (8x4x3 inches) or two small ones. Fill pans two-thirds full of batter, bake cakes two to three hours in a 275 F. oven. Place a shallow pan half full of water in the base of the oven. If cakes brown at end of first one and one-half hours, cover tops with greased brown paper. Makes two and one-half pound cake.

Cream Puff Recipe

Bagdad Cream Puffs are delicious. If the shells are very small (about two dozen to the recipe), they are just right for afternoon tea service. Shortly before serving, make a slit in the bottom of cream puff shells fill with Date Marshmallow Whip. To make this use one cup dates, one cup (two ounces) marshmallows, one-half cup nutmeats, one up heavy cream, one-half teaspoon vanilla, few grains salt. Cut the dates and marshmallows with wet scissors. Chop the nuts coarsely. Beat the cream, add vanilla and salt and fold in the dates, marshmallows and nuts. This mixture will fill 12 large or 24 small cream puffs.

Treasure Islands are made with six slices sponge cake, two egg whites, one-fourth teaspoon salt, two tablespoons confectioners sugar, one-half cup cases (finely cut) and one-fourth cup chopped nutmeats Cut sponge cake into one-half inch slices. The slices may be cut in circles with a round cutter. Beat the egg whites with the salt until stiff; beat in the sugar, fold in dates. Pile the mixture lightly on the pieces of sponge cake. Sprinkle with chopped nuts. Bake in a 300 F. oven until the meringue is delicately brown, about 15 minutes. Serve warm or cold. Six servings.

BRIDGE STREET W.M.S.

The regular monthly meeting of the Woman's Missionary Society of Bridge Street United Church was held in the ladies' parlours, Friday, January, 5th at 3.00 p.m. with Miss Lazelle Brown presiding. Annual reports were given by all secretaries and group leaders. Both number of members and financial receipts were slightly ahead of last year. A short memorial service was held for the following members who died during the year—Mrs. Vivian, Mrs. Walker, life members; Mrs. Bonter, Mrs. Scantlebury, annual members and Mrs. Sullivan and Mrs. Smith, former members.

Dr. Semple took charge of the installation service of the officers for the coming year.

Mrs. Morrison presided at the Worship Service, the subject being, "The World Outlook of Jesus". Those taking part in this service were—Mrs. Ross, Mrs. Broad, Mrs. Cook, Mrs. Finkle, Mrs. Truman, Mrs. Mosher, Mrs. Pearsall. Mrs. Price and Mrs. Semple led in prayer.

Young With Acne Suffer Torture

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M.D.

ONE OF the torturing things about adolescence occurs to that unhappy minority which suffers from pimples or acne. While this may be a joke to other people, it is not only serious but tragic to the young victim.

It is no comfort to him to tell him that the condition will wear off; that when he gets to be 25 or 30 years old, he will look like everybody else. He realizes in his heart that it is his birthright to have a peaches and cream complexion, and the sight of crops of ugly pimples engenders a feeling of deep resentment against the powers of the universe. It interferes with his appearance, his dignity and his lovemaking, which are the principal preoccupations of the youth, male and female, from the age of 13 to 18.

Inasmuch as at this period of life all the endocrine glands are in a lather of activity, it is natural to conclude, theoretically, that there is a relationship between the skin infection and some disturbance of the glands.

Gland Extracts Used

On this basis treatment with thyroid extract and with pituitary extract has been extensively carried out. In some cases very striking and brilliant results have been obtained. There is, however, no way of telling exactly which case is going to respond. It may be put down as a truism that there certainly is no successful treatment which will apply to all cases of acne.

Attention to the diet is also a method of treatment which has been tried out very thoroughly. Patients are advised to abstain from sweets and fats. I have never seen the slightest result from such restrictions, and I think that it is time that it should be said quite definitely that it is cruel to impose these unnecessary restrictions on young people at the time when they most crave these articles of diet.

Certain dietary indulgences, however, do cause acute outbreaks of acne. The person who has it usually knows what these foods are; he finds them out by experience and very sensibly avoids them. There is no food, however, which applies to all cases.

Removal of Grease

Local treatment of the skin includes the removal of grease. There is no doubt that this occurs in greasy skins and that the infection invades the oil glands of the skin. It is in those crypts that the pustules occur. Treatment with strong soaps and frequent cleansings are a natural and sensible procedure.

Local treatment also includes the removal of the blackheads with a comedone extractor. A comedone extractor is a small celluloid instrument, on the end of which is a cup-like depression with a hole in the bottom. This is placed exactly over the blackhead and pressed down and the contents of the blackhead are expressed. The blackhead is simply a plugged up sebaceous or oil gland of the skin and invites infection.

Drainage of the pus in the pimples that come to a head, the use of vaccines and the use of the x-ray—one of the qualities of which is to kill infection — are all established accessory methods of treatment.

ALLURING TOYS RIGHT AT HOME

By Garry Cleveland Myers, Ph.D.

Parents are reminded that there are many things around the house with which small children enjoy playing.

The child beginning to creep finds his most alluring toys in the kitchen. The pots and pans and lids hardly have an equal in allurement. Such toys cost nothing. They easily can be thrown into a cauldron of boiling water to be sterilized.

Fasten a string to a pan that has a handle, and watch the tot's delight when he drags the thing around.

Most homes have spools. Put a good number of them on a string for the baby. Have plenty of wrapping cord and rope saved from packages, where the child can use them. Long before he can tie a knot he will fasten toys together in his own crude way. A few blunt sticks or pieces of board tied together make an attractive train for the toddler.

Containers Good

Coffee cans, cereal boxes, large and small shoe boxes—all sorts of containers which are not dangerous to the child prove to be good toys. As the tot grows older he will learn to make a variety of toys with scissors, paste, glue and brads.

Don't throw away magazines. The child of one or two likes to leaf through them, looking at the pictures. At three or four he likes to cut pictures from them and paste them in a scrap book. You can make paste out of flour and water. He should have blunt-nosed scissors of his own. Put away the plain wrapping paper for him to draw or scribble on. For a few cents you can buy for him remnants of wall paper or large sheets of unprinted news print paper.

Give him colored crayons rather than dangerous wooden pencils. Let the toddler have a pail or two in which to carry the blocks about the house. When he can be out-of-doors, give him the fire shovel and a small hoe to dig and shovel sand or dirt or snow.

Let Him Drive Nails

As early as the age of two or three the child can learn to drive a nail into soft wood. Give him soft boards or boxes and let him pound to his heart's content. You can get a coping saw for him for a few cents; also a vise which can be fastened to the kitchen table. At four or five he can use a saw, plane, gimlet.

When provisions are brought home, leave the packages, such as soap, cereal and canned goods, on the floor for the toddler to play with. You won't need to show him what to do. He will invent and be engaged in real education.

You can make a good set of blocks. Mrs. Myers and I have devised such a set.

Solving Parent Problems

Q. Would you use rewards to get a child to eat certain foods he does not like?

A. No; nor would I resort to telling stories, making music, or to doing antics, to this end. Such devices might help for a short while, but they always wear out in their pull. Neither is any eating situation a matter for punishment.

Q. Please suggest a few good rules for cultivating an appetite in the child.

A. Don't push food into the baby against his will. Encourage him to feed himself as early as possible. Manage yourself so as to show no emotions whatsoever over his eating. Serve very, very small helpings, one food before him at a time. Don't tell a child he must eat a particular food, but let him choose between that or nothing.

No Unsolved In-Law Problems in Home Where Husband and Wife See Eye to Eye

Happily, when a wife and her husband see eye to eye on the subject of in-laws, their in-law problems can be solved as easily as ice is melted. A little warmth and a little time, that's all. Here is something that every wife should have firmly fixed in her mind the day she's married: namely that so long as her husband is on her side, she can't be licked by in-laws. How much grief could be avoided if every man and woman understood this!

Yet tragically enough, many a wife who has loved her husband to distraction has turned on him in loathing because she has felt the sympthy she counted on shifting from her side to the other side. However wrong she may be she expects her husband to stand by her. However wrong she may be, he can usually right her, if he does stand by her.

A man with a dependent parent or sister to whom he must give a home is caught in a jam and nobody can fairly criticize him for fulfilling obligations incurred before he took a wife. But only when it is financially necessary for him to keep two warring women under the same roof can he make a good case with his wife, which is the price of peace.

"Miss Chatfield: My husband's sister kept house for him for ten years before we were married. Apparently she liked me and approved our marriage. My husband had a clear understanding that I was to be the housekeeper and she was to have a home with us as long as she lived.

"The day we returned from our honeymoon she began her campaign to show me that it was her house, her brother, and that I was a third party. She didn't criticize the way things were done but she sat in tight-lipped disapproval which was more insulting than words. She didn't carry tales to her brother but she got in catty cracks meant to put me in a bad light.

"She's a big Christian in the community but in her heart and home she's a big hypocrite. I'm on the point of telling my husband that one of us is getting out and I don't much care which one. I am beginning to hate my husband when I see him with her. I really feel like a third party nowadays. What on earth can I do?

Put on a play act, sister, be sweet and agreeable, get your husband's sympathy. If you can reclaim what is rightfully yours, the rest will be easy. Can you do it?

Caroline Chatfield.

Home Mirror Tricks

By ELEANOR ROSS

There's scarcely a room that could not be improved and made to look larger and brighter. Like many conjuring tricks, it can be done with mirrors.

The thing to do, when approaching the question of mirrors, is to abandon the old idea of the mirror as something handy in which you can gaze while applying make-up. One of the real tricks in using mirrors is to place them in such a position that the reflections highlight the most attractive features of the room. Thus, a mirror placed at the side of a window which looks out over trees or gardens, will catch their beautiful reflections and bring more outdoors into the room. A chair at one side and a suitable table beneath the mirror will make an harmonious grouping, and a practical one, especially if the table holds sewing or knitting materials or books.

Mirror on Door

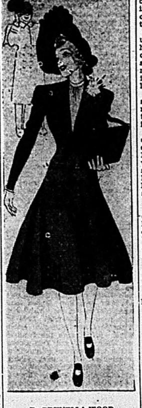
If a room has too many doors, it is a good idea to select one door, say one in the centre of a wall, and cover it with mirror glass. Attach the mirror by screws at the corners and use an unobtrusive glass handle in place of the knob. For even finer effect, cover the door frame with narrow strips of mirror glass, especially if the door is a narrow one. This treatment will do away with the look that a broken-up wall space gives to a room, and will create a restful, beautiful vista, especially if furniture is placed so that it will be reflected in the mirror-covered door.

Pick your loveliest lamp and place a mirror behind it to reflect its beauty. We have a really beautiful lamp of cream, blue and gold Lenox ware which is placed on a satinwood table and in front of a round unframed mirror that is decorated with a laurel wreath in gilt. These make a graceful and attractive grouping.

Window Treatment

It is a good idea to use a mirror, or cover the wall next to a window with mirror glass, to give the illusion of a wall of glass or to give a sense of more space. This is doubly nice when the mirror glass reflects say, a fireplace, row of books at the side, or a flower table. Mirror glass also works wonders with windows that are too low or too narrow. Mirror strips set on the frame at each side will increase the apparent width of a window, and a mirror glass cornice on the frame above will make it seem higher. Curtains should be hung at the outside of the mirror side strips and under the cornice. A mirror glass-covered window box will add another gleaming touch.

Echoes From Paris



By PRUNELLA WOOD

THE RATHER tailored though soft frock of black or navy wool is getting to us in mid-winter this year, instead of waiting for spring days and the first trip out for the fur neckpiece. Reason for it, the war. In Paris, as well as in England, of course, houses are not quite so generously central heated these days, and a warmish utility frock is indicated. White accessories are likewise indicated, for they serve as headlights during blackouts, probably preventing many a painful traffic accident.

This frock sketched here today is American designed, but it has a white chemisette beneath its black wool sleekness, quite in the Paris current vogue. Incidentally, this guimpe is merely tacked in, for easy grooming, and although the effect of the model is of coat and skirt, it actually is a one-piece affair. The model has two pockets, another wartime must abroad.

DOCTORS CHECK KIDNEYS FIRST

Because they know that healthy Kidneys remove from the blood the waste matter—the excess acids and poisons, formed by the ever-changing human body as it decays and rebuilds itself. But if the Kidneys fail, illness surely follows. Backache, Rheumatism, Impure Blood, Lack of Energy, Too Frequent Urination, Sleeplessness, Headaches—all may result from faulty kidneys. GROWING IN STYLE

By ALICE ALDEN

WHEN mother was young and grew out of her clothes, she wore big sister's. One manufacturer of today has a much better idea, and that is to make a dress so that it may be snipped here, fitted there, as the little girl requires. Inverted pleats down the sides and in the sleeves and shoulders are sewed together with a few stitches which may be snipped in a moment to allow more room. Best of all, the hem may also be let down. We show one of these inexpensive frocks in printed poplin with a lace-edged collar, easy to launder and becoming, too.

Success With Children By Following Rules

By Garry Cleveland Myers, Ph.D.

I believe in celebrating successes. Therefore, I present below some statements from the wife of a coach and manual training teacher in a high school. They have two children — Janice, seven; Rodney, three.

"I never miss reading your column and my husband and I try hard to follow your good advice. Of course, I fall down in many instances ... Then somebody will remark how well the children are being brought up and I take a new lease on life ...

"We make our children understand which are our rooms and to respect all property of others, and try to teach them the art of sharing with others...

"My husband and I never discuss our views in their presence, if we don't agree, which is very seldom. I have a wonderful helpmate....If we are going away, he cleans their shoes and dresses the boy, besides helping with dishes, etc. If I have had a hard day, he bathes Rodney and puts him to bed...

Planned Together

"Janice was four before Rodney came, but we planned together on his arrival, and she picked the clothes she wanted him to wear home from the hospital. We also got her a doll and bottle and she did exactly as I did for brother....

"I strive to make her independent. When she was six, she could do all my shopping in a cash and carry store, wash all our lunch dishes, and I have let her bake plain cakes.

"I spanked each of them when they first ran into the street and that problem was quickly solved... When they tease each other, I put them both on chairs if I have not been present to see who was at fault. Am I doing right?"

My answer was: "You certainly are."

A Sunday school teacher writes: "About two years ago I was asked to take a class of boys and girls between the ages of seven and eleven. I got many a word of pity from the other teachers.

"One of the boys was a great torment...Thinking the matter over, I noticed that he wanted attention. The next Sunday I gave him a leading part in the lesson, asking him what he thought of the lesson, and sought his advice whenever the opportunity came up. Later the children learned to get all they could out of the lesson and have 10 or 15 minutes for play. We made scrap-books and had Bible stories. I would often ask this particular boy to help the other children with their work. The time came when he was the best behaved boy in the class...My idea is to give them something to do and make them feel important."

I consider the foregoing account by this Sunday school teacher worth more than several columns I might write on the subject. While I regret that so many little hellions from homes of church members come to Sunday school, I rejoice that there are some Sunday school teachers like the one who wrote me that letter. I wish I had the space for a number of other letters from teachers who succeeded in a similar fashion.

Solving Parent Problems

Q. Suppose your child (of any age) asks you if you like him as much as his brother or sister.

A. Merely answer, "of course." If you suspect that he believes you don't, don't try to prove with words that you do, but with deeds. Remember, so long as a child thinks something is so, it is so for him.

Q. In a family of boy and girl it usually is mamma's boy and daddy's girl. What is the preferred relationship?

A. Mother's girl and daddy's boy, especially from the beginning of early adolescence. The mother-daughter and father-son banquet ought to be encouraged.

WAR MAY SAVE ICE GAME FOR OLD COUNTRY

Conditions at End of Last Season Seemed to Have Hockey on Skids but Revival Now on Way

(By Jack Brayley, Canadian Press Staff Writer)

London, Jan. 10—(CP)—To anyone liking his hockey neat the wartime English brand, blacked out and tied up with restrictions, leaves much to be desired. But there is a growing belief the war may prove the salvation of the game which has cost millions of pounds to introduce.

It has been argued hockey started here the wrong way—promoters transplanting shiploads of expensive Canadian experts in an effort to consolidate patronage overnight. It is now believed they schemed without consideration of a doughty English sports world which has a reputation for loyalty and patience with anything which appears struggling hard for recognition.

So hockey never did get a chance to develop the natural British way—perhaps because it has been steered by Canadian officials since its birth here. It started with a diamond-studded ten-team flash and ended last season with a six-team squabble.

Talent Cost High

Only the local Maple Leaf Gardens and Forums—Harringay and Wembley—showed slim profits. The smaller rinks couldn't stay in the race for high-priced Canadian imports. Dunbar Poole, whose Streatham rink will seat only 2,500 led the small rink campaign against increasing overhead, got it whittled down and then got kicked out of the league because his team played rough. He charged it was a big rink persecution and unless something was done the game would die a natural death. Attendances were falling off from lack of interest in watching a competition restricted to the big rinks and their powerful teams.

Rink managers decided at the end of the season to try and foster, with subsidies, provincial teams to put a keener edge on competition, and with this in mind both Wembley and Harringay scouted the Dominion for talent. This material was to be used in building provincial teams.

But the war and its accompanying blackout precautions prohibiting, at first, night-time hockey, and ARP restricting crowds to less than a third of seating capacity, put the damper on the new season before it had time to get going. Many of the Canadian veterans left the war zone taking their families to safety. Others went back to Canada, because, under the compulsory military service residence clause, they qualified for conscription in England and they preferred to serve with Canadian regiments. Those who remained took up ARP volunteer work in their spare time.

Players in Jobs

So the November London Cup competition, opening the season, had only four teams, two from Harringway and one each from Wembley and Streatham, made up of a players' pool with clubs retaining old favorites like Walter Monson at Harringay and Lou Bates at Wembley. Each team inserted four English players to bring their rosters up to full strength.

Most of the Canadian players found jobs, some in aircraft factories, and they assumed the status of work-by-day-play-by-night player of most Canadian towns. In this way the pay roll was cut. Between period exhibitions were cut out and the all around saving shared with the fans in reduced admission prices.

Now, despite the lower standard of play, all the rinks have been turning away fans and the game is said to be showing a profit. More important, the injection of Englishmen proved a master stroke as reflected in the cheers from fans when their compatriots were on the ice.

Club Revived

After the November Cup tourney the December National competition found an increased popularity for the new Anglicized brand of play. So much so that Wembley has decided to revive its second club—Monarchs—and Brighton and Earl's Court have decided to form teams for the National League opening in January. There is a chance Nottingham and perhaps Bristol may also be represented in this less formal circuit. Meanwhile the game is strong in Scotland, where a seven-team league hopes to produce a threat for the British title.

Right now however, the Scots are under a cloud, being accused by the British Ice Hockey Association with "poaching" players and are being criticized for refusing to affiliate. Conferences are being held in the hope of settling the argument so that the English and Scottish leagues may mingle. The game has also caught on in Ireland. After an exhibition at a new Belfast rink a league was formed in Ulster and patronage has been increasing.

Here's how Charles Graves, who conducts the widely-read Daily Mail column, "I See Life," described his first game recently: "Hysterical yells, furious clapping, occasional boos and sustained applause proved conclusively that ice hockey has as big a following as in peacetime. It made one remember too that the Canadians who make the best hockey players also provided some of the best R.A.F. pilots in the last war. The speeding puck, flashing sticks and crazy speed must provide the perfect training on ground for aerial dog-fights."

SUBSTITUTION IN NEW YORK BOUT

Henry Cooper Will Trade Punches With Billy Conn Instead of Dudas

New York, Jan. 10—(AP)—Watching Billy Conn, the Pittsburgh sock maker, in his Madison Square Garden fight tonight will be something like seeing Hamlet in a tuxedo.

The melancholy Dane could be just as unhappy in evening clothes as in a toga, and similarly, Conn is still Conn—even though this time he's a heavyweight.

Having climbed the light-heavyweight ladder until there were no more rungs left, the Pittsburgh powerhouse decided to become a heavyweight. Not because he liked to fight bigger guys, but because there's more money in that division.

So Billy, who is the light-heavyweight king, signed, as a heavyweight, to meet Steve Dudas, a veteran trial horse but that worthy caught an attack of La Grippe and so Billy must try out his heavier artillery on Henry Cooper of Brooklyn, a husky 190-pounder who possesses a very good straight left hand punch.

DYKES PROMISES TO BE GOOD BOY

White Sox Pilot Says He Still Likes Umpires in the Wintertime

Chicago, Jan, 10—(AP)— James J. Dykes, the bad boy among American League managers, has promised to be good.

That may not be big news to the public generally, but it is no less than that to the umpires harassed by the roly-poly White Sox pilot in seasons past.

Suspended, fined and banished many times last season for backtalk to the men in blue, Dykes made a public confession last night at the annual dinner of the Chicago Chapter of the Baseball Writers Association of America.

"Yes, I've turned over a new leaf," said Dykes. "The umpires are nice fellows. I like them very much—in the wintertime. But I'm going to get along with the umps next season—I've even made a few wagers with the baseball writers that I won't get tossed out more than four times all year."

CENTRE HASTINGS HOCKEY LEAGUE WELL BALANCED

Glenn Ross Downs Foxboro While Zions Hill and Ivanhoe Play to Draw

FORMALLY OPENED

League Gives Opportunity for Players and Fans of District to Get Together

Central Hastings Rural Hockey league got underway to what looks like a real successful season. Glen Ross took their first game from the Foxboro "Fox" by a score of 3-1 in a game that had plenty of what makes hockey thrilling. The southerners were first to go to the front, when after six minutes of play Grant Wright foiled Hagerman from close in at the twelve minute mark. Russell Pyear tied it up for Glen Ross. Doug. (Pepper) Martin got the winners' second tally three minutes later and as the period ended Russell Pyear got his second goal to make the score 3-1 for Glen Ross.

Foxboro pressed hard throughout the middle period to haul down the two-goal lead of the "Riversides" but Bert Hagerman in the Glen Ross nets was enjoying a perfect "on" night and nothing passed him but he stopped plenty or rubber. It was the first game for the season and from their performance throughout the last two periods the league followers will see some real classy hockey, when the boys get into real playing trim. "Silent" Jack Stewart shouted the orders to the Foxboro lads, who incidentally sported new uniforms for the opener which would make a rainbow look drab and faded. Seriously, these snappy togs are really worth looking at and add greatly to a smart team that not only look good but are good. Guay brothers, "Gordie" Walt and Grant Wright along with Carl Thompson, were the pick of the Foxboro team with their second string also showing plenty of "Ummmph." These lads will be easy to watch in their new Gurnseys. Russell Pyear, and cousin "Gerry" Pyear, along with Doug. Martin were the stalwarts of the Riverside's attack, while Brown and "Gerry" hampered the bombardment of Hagerman in the nets very effectively.

Zion Hill and Ivanhoe draw 2-2

In the second half of the twin

In the second half of the twin bill fans were all agog to see for the first time the new entry into the league from Ivanhoe and when they came out there were many old friends of the league in the line-up. Wright, Cook, Reid, Thompson and Thomlison former hustlers on the popular West Huntingdon crew of a few years ago were happy to be back with their former playmates of the loop and with these lads in there, the new entry will be a continual threat. Opposing them were the fighting Irish from "Zion Hill" under the direction of Roblin Dulmage, who is determined to direct them up the right alley to the championship. This group of real sports have gained the popularity bouquet of the entire league for sheer gameness. They give everything they've got and go away happy win or lose.

Both these teams gave evidence of lack of practice but also evidence of real plays that will present problems to their opponents before the finals are reached.

After a scoreless period of well matched playing Ray Dickey lifted one from centre ice that caught goalie Delve cold and fifteen seconds later Jack Ray flipped one passed him to put the "Irish" two up. A passing play from Reid to Wright to Cooke with the latter beating Gifford gave the Ivanhoe crew their start and Dan Cooke got the tying counter with only a few minutes left to play, taking the pass from "Chuck" Wright. Ray Dickey, Ed Simms, Brough and Ray led the "Irish" attack and looked best for their teams in that order. Cooke, Wright, Reid and Thompson, were the pick of the Ivanhoe crew.

FIGHT AT NEW YORK

Goodman Scores Second Shutout Since Coming to Black Hawks

(By Robert Clarke, Canadian Press Staff Writer)

The fellow trying to evade the process server hasn't a thing on New York Rangers. The Manhattan blues are just about ready to seek legal advice on how to skip away from Boston Bruins and Toronto Maple Leafs.

All three clubs are grouped at the top of the National Hockey League standing today with 33 points, far ahead of the four remaining "second division" teams. The one advantage in which the Rangers can take pride is the fact that they have played one game less than the Bruins and have two games in hand over the Leafs.

The Rangers, boasting an unbeaten string of 17 straight games, were idle last night as the Bruins took advantage of this to score an easy 3-1 victory over Detroit Red Wings and the Leafs came from behind twice to edge out New York Americans 3-2. In the only other game of the night the hapless Montreal Canadiens went down 2-0 before Chicago Black Hawks.

Hawks in Fourth Place

The way things stand now the Hawks hold down fourth place in the standing a full dozen points behind the three leaders, while Canadiens are next three points behind the Chicago Club. The Americans and the Wings come last, tied with 15 points.

Goalie Frank Brimsek, judged the best netminder in the league last season, missed turning in his third shutout of the season by less than a minute against the Wings. Only 49 seconds of play were left when Ebbie Goodfellow, big Detroit defenceman, parked the puck behind him for a score. Before that the Bruins, in control almost all the way, found the range for scores by Woody Dumart, Herbie Cain and Red Hamill.

Guarding the Detroit cage was slender Alfie Moore, the league's spare netminder who tends goal regularly in the International-American League. Moore had to be called up by Manager Jack Adams because of an injury to Cecil (Tiny) Thompson.

Score Three in Second

All the Leaf scores came in the second period with Bob Davidson getting the winner on a pass from Billy Taylor with a little less than three minutes left in the session. Other Toronto scores went to Pete Langelle and Gus Marker while Harvey Jackson and Murray Armstrong counted for the Amerks.

New York fans were treated to more than just goals in the second period of the Leafs-American affair. The fireworks started when referee Ted Graham ruled that a Leaf player was in the crease when Langelle shot the puck home. Captain Red Horner argued so loudly that he was given a misconduct. Murph Chamberlain of the Leafs also was given a misconduct later in the same session for pushing around Graham.

Goodman Earns Shutout

The blanking of Canadiens meant the second shutout for Goalie Paul Goodman since he replaced Mike Karakas in the Chicago nets six games back. Goodman, with a lot less work to look after than Claude Bourque at the other end, still turned in a nice effort as Bill Thoms and Doug Bentley supplied second period scores for victory.

It was the 12th defeat in 14 games for Canadiens and there were indications of further shakeups in the team which recently added three new faces after a five-player lop-off.

BILL SUMMERHILL LEADING SCORER

Although Called Up to N.H.L. Player Still Best Sniper in Int.-Am.

New Haven, Conn., Jan. 10—(AP)—Bill Summerhill, star of the high-flying New Haven Eagles until his transfer to Montreal Canadiens last week, held the scoring honors in the International - American Hockey League in statistics issued at headquarters here today.

His running mate, Tony Hemmerling, however, fell to third place having been replaced by Ronald Hudson of Indianapolis in the second top spot.

Summerhill gained two points for a total of 37, Hudson was credited with 32 and Hemmerling followed one point lower.

PAIR OF ISSUES FACE GOVERNORS

PAIR OF ISSUES J:h9

New York, Jan. 10—(CP)—A pair of troublesome issues face the Board of Governors of the National Hockey League today when they meet for the second time this season in New York.

Two severe arguments, one over Ernie Savard's set-to with Referee King Clancy and the other a charge by Art Ross, manager of Boston Bruins against Toronto's Conny Smythe, are expected to be thrashed out when the Governors assemble.

Savard, Montreal Canadiens President, is accused of mauling Referee Clancy in a game at Montreal Dec. 28. While Ross has demanded the Governors place a fine of $1,000 on Smythe for issuing statements which he says are detrimental to the Boston hockey attendance.

The Savard issue is considered pretty important because it may bring about new legislation governing attacks on referees arising out of disagreeable decisions.

Ross bases his claim to the fining of Smythe on a league rule that establishes an automatic fine of $1,000 for statements harmful to hockey attendance. Ross said that Smythe's advertisement in a Boston newspaper carried statements telling the public to come and see Toronto play fast hockey. Smythe claims the ad packed in the crowds.

ONLY TWO GROUPS IN KI-Y HOCKEY

Bantam and Midget Groups Will Operate in the Near Future

The Belleville Ki-Y hockey groups will operate only Bantam and Midget groups this season, leaving the Juvenile section to the activities of the newly formed Belleville Juvenile Hockey Association, Secretary J. E. Shortt of the Y. M. C. A. announced today.

Registration forms for the Bantam and Midget series are now available at the "Y", where officials are ready to receive entries of interested groups of teen-aged boys. The Bantam series includes boys 11 years of age and under on Jan. 1st of the playing year, while Midgets must be 14 years of age or under on the same date.

As soon as sufficient team entries have been obtained to complete compact groups the playing schedules will be drafted and announced, Mr. Shortt stated as he urged interested groups to apply for registration and affiliation as soon as possible. Hockey sticks and goaltenders' equipment is supplied by the Ki-Y league.

CALLING 'EM

Between the Lines

Ken J. Colling

The phrase "now is the time for all good men to come to the aid of their party," is universally used by telegraph and teletype operators while testing, but today we are going to change that phrase somewhat to read—"Now is the time for all good men to come to the aid of their country." Although the Sportsmen's Patriotic Association is endeavouring to supply the Canadian troops with sporting equipment as rapidly as possible, naturally it is a difficulty to meet all of the continued and increasing demand for such paraphernalia. Wherever a military unit is stationed throughout Canada today there is an emergency need for sporting equipment and the Hastings and Prince Edward Depot Regiment at Picton is no exception to the rule. Today's mail brings a letter from our old contemporary, Sgt. James Donahue of the H. and P. E. Depot, who is seeking discarded sports equipment for the soldier boys now stationed in Picton.

Whenever an appeal is made to the sports public of Canada, they never fail and we hope Belleville fans will respond to Sergeant Donahue's appeal. The type of sports equipment needed by the soldier boys in Picton is of the indoor variety, mainly softballs, bats, boxing gloves, a punching bag or any gymnasium equipment that might be lying idle in the attic or cellar. Sports and recreation are accepted as the best form of entertainment for large bodies of men who need some outlet for their tension and spirited feelings. Surely in Belleville there should be an abundance of used sports equipment that has been discarded and no longer of any use to the owner. It is this type of equipment that the Picton soldier lads would appreciate, but they would not reject new equipment, if some patriotic persons provided the same. We feel sure that Frank "Duke" Smith, a local sportsman himself, would see to the transportation of any such equipment gratis to Picton, so come on you Belleville sports fans and let's make the respond one to be proud of.

A press dispatch from England today announced that the Royal Canadian Horse Artillery "Gunners" would play two games of hockey versus the Wembley Monarchs on Jan. 20th and 27th. This is the same team which played in the Van Horne Memorial Cup series a little over a month ago versus the Belleville Redmen and the Air Force "Flyers." Other Canadian military hockey teams will engage other English hockey teams also. When the "Gunners" left for overseas they took along their entire hockey equipment, it was announced by the Kingston sports scribe at the time.

Do you remember when a crowd of 16,000—largest to watch a tennis match in the United States—turned out six years ago tonight for Ellsworth Vines' professional debut in New York. He was no match for 41-year-old Bill Tilden, who scored a dazzling three-set victory. In 1937, Vines, then regarded as the best pro in the world, was beaten by England's Fred Perry in the latter's pro inaugural.

A phenomenon in the sport world over the past few years has been the growth in popularity of skiing. It is a sport that goes back centuries and even in Canada has been going on for years, but it is only comparatively recently that it has caught the public fancy. For the benefit and education of interested skiers this newspaper will publish a series of six illustrated articles on our sports pages that will commence on Monday next. The series will inform ambitious skiers what they desire to know of skiing without using technical terms and language to describe advanced technique of the sport. The lessons should prove highly valuable to beginners, as they are not meant to tell how to go out to the nearest hill and start "gelandesprunging". and slalom racing the first day, but just how to go about moving along a level surface or down hill correctly. To interested persons we would suggest each lesson be clipped and studied carefully in order to gain the most from them. They commence in Monday's issue.

Intermediate "B" hockey, a new series to appear in the puck annals of a Belleville sport program will take the spotlight at the Hume Arena tonight when the Air Force "Bees" meet the Napanee intermediates. It is impossible at this time to comment as to the relative strength of the two squads simply because the Napanee team has not engaged in any hockey games thus far this season, with the exception of a few junior games in the Kingston pre-season league. This district intermediate "B" group in the O. H. A. includes Gananoque, Queens seconds, Napanee and the Air Force "Bees," which should be productive of some good hockey in the lower brackets. The "birdmen" boast of several good pucksters, including Don Crawford and Jack Lafferty, who played for the Kingston championship junior team of two years ago.

The Kingston sports scribe says: "Harold McNamara, the Montreal Gazette's pleasing columnist, reports a rumor that Ted Reeve can have the job of coaching Toronto Argonauts next fall if he wishes as Lew Hayman will not be offered another contract. There is no doubt that Ted Reeve would like to coach in his home city as he dislikes travelling every week during the fall to train distant grid troops. He liked coming to Kingston because it was not too far from his home and many friends, but the long haul to Montreal last fall had him discouraged."

Sport Spice—Thanks to W. B. Tingle, we are in receipt of a copy of the recent issue of the Sweet Caporal Major League Hickey Guide, which is a meaty publication that is well worth attention, as all hockey statistics are included .... They're beginning to churn up ballhoo for a Billie Conn-Joe Louis bout .. .. Gananoque edged the "Signals" 5-4 in an exhibition game last night with Bill Hastie and Tabby Gow playing with Gan. Several other Kingston players were with Aubrey Lott's pets as well....A three-way tie for the N.H.L. exists between the Rangers, Leafs and Bruins.... Queen's and Varsity are leading the International Intercollege hockey league with two wins and no losses each....H. P. "Bouncer" Holway is slated to referee tonight's Napanee at Air Force game here, while Red Townsend will toot the whistle in the Trenton at Picton tussle.

WAR BRIEFS

San Diego, Calif., Jan. 10—(AP)—Captain Louis Camillo reported today a mysterious armed steamship trained her guns on his tunaboat, Yvonne Louise, near Panama Dec. 10.

The fishing vessel showed her United States flags and the stranger departed to the Northwest.

Sweet Grass, Mont., Jan. 10 —(AP)—Nineteen bombing planes have been towed across the international boundary for delivery to the Canadian Air Force.

Rome, Jan. 10—(CP—Havas)—Soviet Russia has "morally" lost her war against Fin and as a result of the Red Army's defeat at Suomussalmi, the Fascist newspaper Messagero said today.

"The Soviet defeat at Suomussalmi has reached the proportions of a veritable disaster," the newspaper said. "It is undoubtedly not the first, nor probably the last, but it is certainly more than sufficient to permit declaring that the Kremlin has morally lost the war."

Paris, Mo., Jan. 10—(AP)—Paris Legionnaires are sending a Monroe County cavalry horse and $51 to Finland. The Under-Secretary of the Finnish Legation in Washington, notified by telephone, accepted the gifts.

Reno, Jan. 10—(AP)— Reno drinkers can aid Finland and at the same time satisfy their thirst. A large hotel bar is giving all its receipts from noon to midnight tomorrow to the Finnish relief fund.

AT THE BELLE

"Remember?" Clever Comedy

Robert Taylor and Greer Garson with Lew Ayres in "Remember?' (Lovely Mrs. Chips.) This is the season's most popular and timely romantic teaming of stars in a gay comedy of married life today, which opens today at the Belle Theatre for an engagement of three days. Ever since her introduction to motion picture audiences in "Goodbye, Mr. Chips," a search has been made for a story that would reveal Miss Garson's talent for comedy as well as drama. It was found in an original story by Corey Ford, national magazine writer, and Norman Z. McLeod who also directed the film.

Brightly modern, with New York as its action background, it was written especially for Taylor, Miss Garson and Ayres. While it is highlighted with sparkling dialogue and amusing comedy situations, the picture has a serious and warmly human theme running through it. Briefly, it deal with two young people who fall in love "at sight." Married in haste, their romance is threatened by misunderstandings. Too proud to admit that they are still in love, they are divorced. Then by a surprising twist of the plot, they get a second chance and this time make the most of it.

The picture is brought to the screen by Milton Bren who with McLeod formed the successful producer-director combination that made the hilarious "Topper" pictures. Surrounding the stars is an outstanding supporting cast, featuring Billie Burke, Reginald Owen, George Barbier, Henry Travers, Laura Hope Crews, Richard Carle and Sara Holden.

"Our Neighbors—The Carters"

With Fay Bainter, Frank Craven, Edmund Lowe and Genevieve Tobin in the featured roles, and a supporting cast which includes five of Hollywood's most talented youngsters, Paramount's stirring drama, "Our Neighbors—The Carters" is announced as the added feature attraction at the Belle Theatre. This is the poignant story of a typical American family, the sort of people who are just plain folks. But it is frankly not a "family" picture. The action takes place in a small Ohio town where "Doc" Carter, Frank Craven, has long been the local druggist. His wife, Fay Bainter, has saved $1,000 secretly, and when she goes to Chicago to visit old friends, the real reason for her visit is to arrange for an operation for one son—who has been lame since birth. But "Doc" loses his store to a chain drug outfit, precipitating the family into a crisis which is only weathered by real sacrifice and understanding and true friendship.

AT THE McCARTHY

"The Amazing Mr. Williams"

Meet "The Amazing Mr. Williams".

Said to be as amusing as he is amazing, Mr. Williams is a super-sleuth who solves murder mysteries on the run, even while he is desperately struggling to reach the altar and marriage to Joan Blondell. He is Melvyn Douglas, and he comes to the McCarthy Theatre next in what has been hailed as a merry melange of comedy, thrills, mystery and romance.

As fans will instantly notice, Miss Blondell and Douglas are teamed together for the third time in recent months. Each has always been a top-flight funster, but Columbia was the first to sense their potentialities as a pair. The result was "There's Always A Woman", which created a clamor for more, a clamor answered by the combination's second picture, "Good Girls Go To Paris".

The story, briefly, concerns "The Amazing Mr. Williams" and his fiancee, Maxine Carroll, two hearts which beat as one. Kenny Williams is a police lieutenant and a good one — in fact, too good, for he is constantly sleuthing after malefactors when he should be devoting some time to Miss Carroll. He spends far more time in a squad room or in a careening police car than in her company.

When his fiancee rebels, Mr. Williams really has a "tough case" on his hands, one far harder to "crack" than the robberies and homicides he takes in daily stride.

Alexander Hall's deft direction is said to exceed his best work in "There's Always a Woman" and "Good Girls Go To Paris". The story is brilliantly enacted by a supporting cast which includes Ruth Donnelly, Clarence Kolb, John Wray and Edward Brophy.

Three Stooges Comedy.

On the same program in their latest slap-stick comedy riot, the Three Stooges, Larry, Moe and Curly, will also be presented in "Oily to Bed and Oily to Rise". They are America's funniest comedians and always create more laughs than a barrel of monkeys. A clever cartoon in technicolor is also playing entitled "Graduation Exercises".

"Winter Carnival."

Ann Sheridan and Richard Carlson in "Winter Carnival" also Rita Hayworth and Charles Quigley in "The Game [illegible] packed hockey story, in addition to "City of Rome", one of the most beautiful technicolor subjects ever produced is the current program playing at the McCarthy Theatre and for an evening of splendid screen entertainment we urge you not to miss this offering.

JUNIOR HOCKEY IN WEST CANADA IS RATED HIGH

No One Team Has Shown Championship Qualities But it is Still Early

SASKATOON STRONG

Dodgers Not in Any League But Have Defeated Best Teams in Exhibition

Winnipeg, Jan. 10 —(CP)— The calibre of junior hockey in western Canada is rated high again this season but so far no one team has gained prominence as a probable championship aggregation.

Only three of the western leagues—the Manitoba north and south divisions and the Edmonton loop—have seen much action. In the other districts, the Lakehead, Southern Saskatchewan and British Columbia, competition has barely started.

The Maple Leaf Athletic Club has proved the big surprise of the Edmonton league. Maple Leafs, who raise their own players through midget and juvenile ranks, have more than held their own with the habitually strong Edmonton Athletic Club, last year's western junior champions. After seven games for each, the Leafs are leading the E.A.C.'s by two points.

Monarchs Top Schedule

Tight struggles are going on in both Manitoba loops.

Winnipeg Monarchs top the south division with a one-point advantage over Brandon Elks, runners-up to the E.A.C.'s last year, and Kenora Thistles. All have played eight games.

Winnipeg Elmwoods have won three of four games to gain a two-point lead over the other three entries in the north division. St. Boniface and St. James have played five games and Canadian Ukrainian Athletic Club four.

Of the three games played in the Saskatchewan junior league, Moose Jaw Canucks, the provincial champions, Regina Abbotts and Notre Dame Hounds of Wilcox have each won one. Notre Dame, who play their home games at Weyburn, have lost twice and Regina once.

Saskatoon Quite Strong

Although without league competition, Saskatoon Dodgers have proved themselves a team to be reckoned with by their showings in a pair of exhibition games with E.A.C.'s and Regina. They won both.

Fort William Columbus Club are standouts at the Lakehead with three victories and no losses so far against Port Arthur and West Ends.

Four teams intend to enter the British Columbia play-offs. No league has been formed and their contests have been mere exhibitions. The teams are located at Trail, whose Tigers were provincial champions last year, Kimberley, Cranbrook and Nelson.

N.H.L. STARS

(By the Canadian Press)

Bill Thoms and Paul Goodman, Chicago—former got a goal and an assist and the latter turned in his second shutout in six N.H.L. appearances as Black Hawks defeated Canadiens 2-0.

Frankie Brimsek, Boston, missed his third shutout of the season by seconds as Ebbie Goodfellow of Detroit scored in the last minute of play. Bruins won 3-1.

Alterations at County Home About Finished

Final phases of the completion of the new entrance and repairs to the verandah of the Hastings County Home will occupy the attention of the House of Refuge Advisory Board of the Hastings County Council when that body meets tomorrow in the County Buildings for its final session of its year of office.

The entrance and repairs to the verandah, which will cost in the vicinity of $1,000.00, requires but little work until completion. This work and plastering of the entrance will be turned over to the new Board which will be selected at the inaugural session of council next week.

ARRANGEMENTS MADE FOR SNOW REMOVAL IN NORTH MUNICIPALITIES

Arrangements for snow removal in various northern municipalities were concluded at the final meeting of the 1939 Hastings County Roads and Bridges Committee held in Shire Hall yesterday. Payment of accounts and other routine business connected with the conclusion of the Committee's activities for the year, rounded out the session. Chairman James E. Moore, Elzevir presided.

Picton Juveniles Defeat Wellington In Opening Game

Picton, Jan. 10—The Picton Juvenile hockey team swung into action for the first time this season when on Tuesday evening they clashed with the Wellington team. The game was a close fought affair but the home team managed to get two goals near the end of the game to win 5 to 3. In the first game of the league, Wellington had defeated Bloomfield 2-1, so that Picton and Wellington are now tied for the first place.

The first period saw Jimmie Clapp score on a long shot but this was soon tied by Billy Slaven, who took a pass from MacDonald. Keith Woodward took Frederick's pass to put the town team ahead, the period ending 2-1 in favor of Picton.

The second period saw S. Phillips score for Wellington to again knot the count, and this was the only scoring in the period, though both teams tried hard to bulge the twine.

Frederick scored to put Picton in the lead again but Vernon MacDonald came right back to even it on a pass from Cunningham. Frederick's long, rolling shot proved another counter for Picton and it was his pass that Ackerman took for the final tally, making it 5-3.

There were but three penalties. Each team is allowed two junior players and these proved a tower of strength to both teams. Frederick was outstanding for the locals, who are coached by Herbie Hyatt. Leon Channell of Hillier was referee.

The line-ups—Wellington— Jimmie MacDonald, goal; defence—B. Slaven, N. Maybee; C. S. Phillips; wings, Vernon MacDonald, L. Cunningham; alternates—E. Lavender, B. Van Dusen, D. Bovay, B. Fritz.

Jackie Cooper faces the music and the principal in this critical moment from Paramount's "What a Life," which opens soon at the Capitol Theatre. That's Vaughan Glaser making judgment and Janice making notes. The film, describing the pranks, perils and pangs of high-school life, is based on the two-season Broadway hit. Betty Field, John Howard, Lionel Stander and Hedda Hopper are seen in the comedy.

Scratched Entry

By THAYER WALDO

Garrison rapped once on the door, heard, "Come!" and entered. In a chair across the one-room apartment Lamour sat. His feet were on the window sill and a bottle of cheap whiskey was beside him.

Seeing Garrison, he jumped up and started forward, exclaiming:

"Well, well! This is a pleasant surprise, Louis."

"Never mind that," the publicity man said bluntly; "I'm not making a social call."

Unruffled, Lamour pursued: "All right; if it's business, so much the better. Have a chair."

Garrison tossed his hat on a table and sauntered over, eyes narrowly scanning the other man's face.

"How much you been drinking?" he demanded. Hurt dignity came into Lamour's expression.

"Really, my dear fellow! Can't a chap have a little liquor in evidence without being accused of sousing?"

Garrison nodded shortly and sat down.

"Okay—guess I caught you in time, at that," he remarked.

Lamour remained standing and the publicity man went on: "Listen I'm going to talk straight; I'd like the same from you. Exactly what's your game with Beth Marvin?"

"Game?" The question came after a brief pause and its tone was blank. "Afraid I don't quite follow you."

Garrison smiled with one side of his face and said:

"Yeah—I expected that. Well, we'll try it another way then. But suppose you plant yourself first. This may take a little time."

Lamour bowed slightly and went to the chair he had previously occupied. The publicity man continued:

"Look here, Rolf—what I want to know is how much good do you think it'll do you to get her in a mess? She's twenty and just starting; you're fifty and finished. Oh, wait a minute—" as Lamour scowled and began to cut in—"lay off the posing. That isn't my idea. Everyone in Hollywood knows it, except you.

"Ten years ago you were big and pulled down big money. But you got rid of it fast, and today you're lucky to land enough bits to hang on in the game. Beth Marvin's just got a nice contract, she's in a romance with Don Orlando that gets plenty of front page and that the public likes. Within a year she'll have star billing—if she stays out of trouble. Apparently you're not going to let her. Now come on —what's the answer?"

In an indolent drawl Lamour told him:

"Sorry, I'm still at sea. Just why you should assume that my close friendship with the young lady has an ulterior motive is beyond me. And—pardon the frank confession—I'm also somewhat at a loss to fathom your concern with all this."

Garrison leaned suddenly forward, rasping:

"Cut that! You know damned well why I'm in it. This Marvin-Orlando thing's all my work. I started it—built it up—made it famous. They're an ideal match, too. Youth, looks, future—they've got everything in common. Why—"

"Did it ever occur to you," the actor broke in smoothly, "that perhaps Beth had a right to live honestly—to take my love when she found it, because she wanted it?"

With a snort of disgust Garrison was up, towering over him.

"Listen to me, you cheap slicker," he shot; "I've heard all the lies I'm going to. Love—nuts! You've schemed a young, impressionable kid into infatuation, hoping you can use her to help get yourself back to the top. Lamour, there's only one word for a guy like you—rotten!"

The actor shoved the chair back and rose. His tone was cool.

"I really see no point in prolonging this interview. Moreover, I've a pressing engagement. You'll excuse me?"

"All right—you've called me and I'm caught short. There's no way I can make you leave her alone, if you won't." He straightened, gaze steady, and went on. "But I'll take one more play. Rolf, she can't pull you up, but you'll drag her down. Sooner or later there'll be scandal, wrecking her career—probably her whole life. And you're washed up; you have nothing to offer her. If you actually care a hoot in hell about the girl, you'll consider those things before it's too late. I suppose it sounds like I'm asking you to be noble or something but it's not all that; there's nothing but grief in it for you either. When we come right down to facts and truth, I think you must know that, too."

"Putting it that way," he said at last, "is a little different I didn't mind your prattle about Orlando, because he's—well, it doesn't matter. But this other notion. . ."

He broke off, was again briefly silent, then glanced at his wrist watch and added:

"I must go now—half an hour late already, don't know what to say to you, I—"

"Who is it?"

"Beth! I waited so long, dear, I was worried."

Just an instant the man stayed rigidly still. Then his arm flung out, sprawled Garrison into a chair. Grabbing the bottle, he took one long drink and stuck it into the publicity man's hand, muttering:

"Just sit there and don't say anything."

In three strides he was across the room. He stopped, unbuttoned his collar, mussed his hair, and yanked the door wide. A slight fresh-looking girl with chestnut curls stood framed in the opening. Lamour lurched against the wall and stayed there.

"Well, whadda y'want?" he demanded thickly. "Wha's idea uh chasin' after me? Cantcha take th' hint when a man stands y'up?"

"Rolf!" she cried. "Are you ill? What—"

"Aw, scram!" He flapped one hand almost in her face. "Get wise t' y'self, baby, get wise. This's gonna be a swell party, soon th' dames get here. 'S no place for brats who ain't weaned yet."

With a rough shove he sent the girl backward, reached for the door and slammed it. A second of dead silence was followed by a sob from beyond the panels that had agony in it.

Garrison put the whiskey down and got to his feet. Lamour hadn't moved. The publicity man took his hat and went slowly over to him.

"Old boy," he began, "that was one damned fine—"

"Skip it, will you!" Abruptly the actor swung around and stalked to the windows. Garrison shrugged, mumbled an uncertain, "Well, adios," and went out.

When the latch clicked, Lamour walked to the telephone, picked it up, and dialed HO 1789. After a moment he said:

"Hello—Lamour speaking. Your job's done. I'll expect you this evening with the five hundred—in cash. . . Yes, decidedly thorough! . . . what? . . . Oh, I'm sure to be home. Absolutely. Just walk right in, Orlando; don't bother about knocking."

He replaced the instrument, gazed thoughtfully down on it, and then chuckled. The sound was rather dry. After that, Rolf Lamour crossed to the chiffonier near the door, took a blue-steel automatic pistol from its top compartment, and shot himself exactly in the temple.

WALL STREET

New York, Jan. 10—(AP)—The Stock Market worker over shaky ground today and while some shares improved fractionally others dropped a bit.

Disinclination on the part of traders to make commitments was apparent from the moderate opening and the ticker tape continued at a slow pace. Near the fourth hour a few Rubber, Metal and miscellaneous manufacturing shares had added a trifle.

Steel, favored at first, were inclined to retreat under light selling pressure as did the Rails and some of the Utilities.

Foreign markets tended lower. Bonds were uneven and commodities mixed.

In the Canadian group Hiram Walker, Distillers Seagram and Lake Shore Mines dipped fractions. Dome Mines inched forward while Canadian Pacific held unchanged. In the Bond Market Canada 4s dipped 1-2 points.

TORONTO STOCKS

Toronto, Jan. 10 —(CP)— Buyers on Toronto Exchange today were conspicuously light in their demands. Only 246,000 shares changed hands with prices drifting lower.

Several of the cheaper Golds accounted for the bulk of the turnover and losses were posted by Malarctic Gold Fields, Upper Canada, Senator Rouyn and Naybob. Broulan and Francoeur were firmer.

Nickel weakened a full point and Noranda dropped a fraction. Prices were off a few cents for Steep Rock and Pend Oreille. Eldorado dropped 4 cents.

Losses were limited chiefly to minor fractions in the Industrial section. Foods, Papers, and miscellaneous issues were soft. Home Oil touched 2.80 before recovering about half the loss of 13 cents. Calgary and Edmonton lost 10 cents.

Hog Quotations

Toronto, Jan. 10 (CP) — Liveweights were down five cents and dressedweights down 15 cents at Brantford, in bacon-hog markets reporting today. Other markets were unchanged.

Liveweight — Brantford $8.60, Chatham $8.75.

Dressedweights — Brantford $11.60, Chatham $12.00, Hamilton $11.50 plus transportation, Hull $11.75, London $11.50 plus transportation.

Egg and Butter Prices Lower

Toronto, Jan. 10 — Lack of demand sent egg and butter prices lower yesterday on the Toronto open produce market.

Egg receipts were in excess of buyers' requirements and a slight accumulation developed. With trading quiet, A-large eggs eased to a range of 22 cents to 23 cents doz., and A-medium to a range of 20 cents to 21 cents. Other grades were unchanged in price.

Dwindling sales volume gave the butter market an easier undertone. First-grade Ontario creamery solids eased to a nominal price range of 27 1-2 cents to 27 3-4 cents lb. and retailers' prices on No. 1 prints also were down at 28 3-4 cents to 29 1-4 cents. Although buyers showed little inclination to bid, there seemed to be no real pressure on brokers to sell.

Montreal Produce

Butter: First grade creamery prints, jobbing price, 29c; first grade solids, jobbing price, 28 1-2c.

Farmer Loses Fortune of $48,000 When Drought Hits the West

C. W. May Now Living Here Formerly Tilled 800 Acres Near Saskatoon

9-YEAR CROP LOSS

Severity of western droughts and the hardships the farmers of Saskatchewan experienced during the "lean years" of 1929-1938, were told yesterday by Mr. C. W. May, now residing at the corner of Herkimer Avenue and Bridge Street and formerly of a small farming community near the city of Saskatoon.

"Three years before the drought struck the west, I was worth forty-eight thousand dollars," Mr. May said. "Nine years later, I had not a cent to my name. For that number of years, we had not a stalk of wheat on the eight hundred acres that we owned a few miles north of Saskatoon. Our neighbors gradually gave up the agricultural ghost, parked what few belongings they had and disappeared."

"Then I too, became disappointed in the west. I placed what I had saved out of the wreck, about two freight-loads of effects, in a railway car and came east to Belleville. Now instead of the majesty of eight hundred acres of wheat every autumn, I get my living from two acres on which I raise hogs and poultry."

Mr. May stated that he had leased part of his section of land in the west to a tenant this year. A letter received last Autumn stated that rust and other banes of the western farm had effected the crop to such an extent that his tenant "had not placed a binder in a field."

Italy Makes Promise

The newspaper Uj Magyarsag (New Hungary) said Italy was prepared to protect southeastern Europe against a Soviet attack, and that Rumania, as well as Hungary, could count on her support.

"This Italian support, however, has an ideological basis, and consequently Italy could not support a goal of selfishness," the newspaper said. "Revisionism remains a basis of Italian policy, and Rome continues to support Hungarian legitimate national claims."

Rumania has refused to yield any territory heretofore, but the Bucharest press has taken a friendly attitude toward the Venice conversations of Ciano and Csaky. This was regarded in Budapest as an indication an agreement could be reached.

Meanwhile, Rumania was expected to discuss Bulgaria's territorial claims on Rumania with her Balkan Entente allies—Turkey, Greece and Yugoslavia—at a Belgrade meeting called for Feb. 2.

Germany Put On Spot

The Italian-Hungarian defensive alliance reported agreed on at Venice was seen by foreign observers as forcing Germany to make a choice between her new friendship with Russia and, on the other hand, older ties with Hungary and Italy.

The newspaper Magyar Memzet put the situation thus:

"Before the German-Soviet game becomes definite, Rome wishes to assure herself of certain positions. For that she has the support of Hungary. In case of a German-Soviet military alliance, Italy and Hungary face a completely new situation which might force them in their own interests to take a definite position."

SHIPS ASSAULTED

Another major loss—due to the hazards of navigation rather than to enemy action—was the 7,016-ton liner Rothesay Castle, which struck a reef off the west coast of Scotland on Jan. 4. The liner was expected to break up. No lives were lost.

A lifeboat which answered distress signals stood by two days before it was able to take off the crew, the whole of which was rescued and transferred to the tug.

20 of Crew Lands Safely

The Admiralty announced the Danish ships Ivan Kondrup, 3,369 tons, and Feddy, 955 tons, reported sunk yesterday, were still afloat and probably would be brought into port. The British steamship Gowrie, 684 tons, was sunk by German warplanes off the east coast.

Altogether 11 small merchant ships were attacked by Germon aircraft yesterday.

Captain H. A. Causton and two of the Dunbar Castle's crew were killed; two others were reported missing. Huddled in blankets, the 48 passengers and remainder of the crew of 150 were brought to London early today by rescuers. Nine children and several women were among them.

Starting on Voyage

The Dunbar Castle, which just had begun a voyage for South Africa, was the largest liner mined in coastal waters since the 11,930-ton Japanese ship Tarukuni Maru was sunk Nov. 21.

Many of the survivors were injured. The rush of water into the hole in the side made launching of boats difficult and the ship broke in half within 20 minutes, just as the last boat got away.

The Admiralty announced the Danish freighters Ivan Kondrup, 3,369 tons; Feddy, 955 tons, and the British steamship Gowrie, 689 tons, were sunk by German warplanes off the east coast. Ten were missing from the Ivan Kondrup, and the fate of the Feddy's crew was unknown.

Aimed at Unescorted Ships

A lightship tender, five fishing boats and two unidentified craft also were attacked by planes. The raids were aimed at unescorted ships and were carried out under cover of fog.

From Rio De Janeiro came a report three submarines attacked the British steamship Avila Star near the Canary Islands, but were beaten off by convoying cruisers, with one submarine sunk.

The Royal Mail liner Highland Patriot arrived in Rio De Janeiro Monday with a story of escaping a submarine after a two-hour battle in the vicinity of the Canaries on Dec. 29.

Similarity and strength of the attacks were reported in the Brazilian capital to have led British warships to search for a German base near the Canaries, Spanish-owned isles off the African coast.

Only One Commander

An official communique disclosed last night the British cabinet had decided early in December to place a single air force officer in charge of the Royal Air Force in France. Air Marshal Arthur S. Barratt was disclosed in the communique as the Royal Air Force commander-in-chief in France, responsible to the Air Ministry. It added that the R.A.F. would continue to consult with the army to coordinate operations.

bers of the Subscription Committee. A similar meeting will be held in Toronto tomorrow.

Newspaper advertising and screen presentations will acquaint the public concerning the loan. Col. Ralston and Mr. Lapointe will broadcast Sunday night and next Wednesday Mr. Dunning will make a speech over the air.

The issue is designed particularly for wide distribution among small investors and will not be largely taken up by financial institutions as in the case with most government loans. It will be a strictly domestic issue offered only to Canadian investors, repayable as to principal and interest in Canadian funds.

Not a "Forced Loan"

The government has made an arrangement with the banks to enable persons without ready cash to be able to borrow money to participate in the loan. Bonds may be subscribed to in as small denominations as $50.

Col. Ralston said he wanted it to be a national loan in the widest possible sense. "It is to represent the real savings of the people and we are arranging for the widest possible distribution so that all may participate," he said.

It is not a "forced loan" in the sense that certain classes of investors have been told to subscribe the minister added.

Mr. Speaker and Gentlemen of the Legislative Assembly:

Less than four months have passed since I opened the September session of this assembly. At that time my remarks were confined to the urgent measures then before you, and I refrained from commenting on the recent visit to this chamber of Their Majesties, King George VI and Queen Elizabeth. It is only fitting that this historic event should be recorded in the journals of this assembly. Most of you were privileged to meet Their Majesties and I am sure that their lively interest and constant graciousness will live always in our hearts.

Strict Economy Laid Down

Since the outbreak of war my Ministers have pursued a vigorous policy within the scope permitted to them by the British North America Act. Immediate steps were taken to secure adequate finances which, due to succession of balanced budgets, were immediately available at a favorable rate of interest. A policy of the strictest economy was laid down and a virtual holiday on capital expenditure was declared. Except where absolutely essential, capital commitments will be reserved for the war period, when they will be most needed. The province placed immediately at the disposal of the Dominion government all its resources. The new hospital at St. Thomas has been turned over to the Royal Canadian Air Force and Provincial Highway Engineers and the Forestry Patrol Service have been engaged on Dominion projects. I am particularly proud of the way in which Ontario once again demonstrated its loyalty. Men enlisting over-taxed the capacity of the recruiting stations and contributions to the Canadian Red Cross Society exceeded the amount asked for.

It is apparent that economic warfare will be a vital factor in the present conflict, and it is gratifying to know that the field crops in Ontario during the past year were above normal, with a consequent increase of livestock on the farms.

Maximum Crop of Feed for Livestock

A recent agreement calls for the delivery of 5,000,000 pounds of Canadian bacon weekly to the British Government, and it is confidently expected that Ontario production will be increased to supply half of this total. With this end in view, the Department of Agriculture is endeavouring to secure a maximum crop of feed grains. At present we have an ample supply of excellent seed grain which, with better methods of cultivation, should produce an increased yield per acre. There has been a much greater demand recently for assistance in combatting animal diseases, and the willingness of stock owners to cooperate is a promising feature of the broader plans now being laid. A better understanding has also developed between organized fruit producers and processors.

In the Industrial field a special committee has been set up within the Department of Labor, to cooperate with employers engaged in the manufacture of war materials. All applications for overtime permits are dealt with by the committee and, in many instances, employers have been persuaded to employ a second and even a third shift with the result that more people have been put to work and relief rolls reduced. All civilian employees required in Ontario by the Department of National Defence will be obtained through our employment service and close contact is being maintained with all firms manufacturing war supplies, in an effort to provide them with the skilled labor that is needed.

Schools For Air Mechanics

In this connection the training schools that have been established for aircraft mechanics, welders and machine shop work will be of particular value. A marked improvement in industrial relations is indicated by the fact that loss of time due to strikes is only half that of 1938 and one-eighth of the year previous, due, in large measure, to the government conciliation service.

Increasing activity within the province is shown in the aggregate primary loads of the co-operative systems of the Hydro Electric Power Commission which increased from 1,340,000 horsepower in October, 1938, to 1,500,000 horsepower in October, 1939, a gain of 12 percent. The total load, including the Northern Ontario properties, is close to 2,000,000 horsepower, which is the highest ever carried. Adequate power resources are available to meet any present war-time needs and plans that will take care of possible future demands are under way. During the year, more than 13,000 new rural customers were added and 2,300 miles of primary lines constructed. This makes a total of 18,000 miles of rural lines serving 113,000 customers. The aggregrate load supplied to the rural power districts increased by over 15 percent during the year.

Vital Places Guarded

The question of safeguarding vital Hydro properties became urgent when war broke out, but as the result of previous preparation by the Attorney General's Department there was no delay in providing effective protection. The Provincial Police Force has been augmented.

Provincial Police

These guards, armed and uniformed, are now in a commendable state of efficiency. As a further measure of co-ordination the motorcycle patrol has been merged with the Provincial Police.

The Department of Health, since the summer of 1938 when new legislation became effective, has made considerable progress in the fight against tuberculosis. There is now a marked shortening of the interval between discovery of a case and admission to sanatorium, while after-care has made possible a shorter stay. This has resulted in greater numbers passing through the various sanatoria. Milk pasteurization is now effective in all but smallest communities. This will result in lasting benefit to both children and adults. Legislation will be submitted to you for licensing and regulating diagnostic and public health laboratories, some of which are operated privately; and also for controlling fresh air camps with respect to sanitation, water and food supply.

All-Time High Registered

The mining industry of the province registered an all-time high record in 1939, with a production estimated at $237,000,000 as against $220,000,000 in 1938. It is confidently expected that the production for 1940 will be still higher.

Eight new gold producers were reported in 1939, bringing the total number of active gold mills to 66, from which over $109,000,000 was recovered. The nickel-copper industry also showed marked improvement, the output value being estimated at more than $100,000,000 an increase of nearly eight per cent over 1938.

The year 1939 also marked the resumption of iron mining in the province, when the Helen mine was reopened. This is the first production of domestic iron ore since 1924 and it was made possible by the passing of the Iron Ore Bounty Act of 1937 by the Legislature. It is of interest to note that recently the War Supply Board summoned the president of the mine to Ottawa and he informed the board that at present 1,200 tons of ore are being produced daily and this will shortly be increased to the huge total of 1,800 tons daily. As practically all ore used in Canada was previously imported, the beneficial effect of this development cannot be overestimated, both with respect to our war effort and our internal economy.

For the present fiscal year the revenue of the Department of Game and Fisheries is expected to reach a record high of $1,000,000, leaving a balance over current expenditure of approximately $400,000, which is a substantial increase over previous years.

The development of hatcheries and rearing ponds has been steadily pursued and the restocking programme has produced extremely satisfactory results. These activities play an important part, along with our excellent highway system, in attracting tourists to Ontario and it is worthy of note that despite the war there was an increase in visitors with extended permits. It is estimated that tourists spent approximately $100,000,000 in Ontario last year and, with overseas travel suspended, Ontario should benefit correspondingly during the present year.

Replacements Only on Highways

Considerable new construction was carried out by the Department of Highways last year, particularly in northern Ontario, and the maintenance of existing highways must be continued. It will be necessary, however, to limit capital expenditure to replacements which are essential if salvage value is not to be lost, and to the rebuilding particularly in northern Ontario, of bridges which are worn out. Prisoners from provincial institutions are at work on the highway out of Long Lac and this has made available the industrial farm at Langstaff for use as an Ontario hospital.

The Department of Education is directing its efforts to maintaining the normal activities of the schools and is co-operating with various agencies to provide educational facilities for young men who have enlisted.

Municipal Default.

Marked progress has been made in dealing with municipal default. Of the $104,000,000 in default in 1934 over $92,000,000 has been refunded and plans for refunding an additional $10,400,000 are now before the Ontario Municipal Board. The Municipal debt which amounted to $494,000,000 at the end of 1933, was reduced by the end of 1938 to $404,000,000. During the same period the per capita levy was reduced from $36.97 to $34.24. It can be asserted, therefore that Ontario municipalities are now in a sound position. Assumption by the province of all payments formerly borne by the municipalities with respect to provincial highways, mothers' allowances, old age pensions and indigent patients in sanatoria, together with increased aid to township roads and the one and a half mill subsidy have undoubtedly played a large part in this improvement. Legislation will be introduced providing for the payment of this subsidy on the basis of equalized assessment for county purposes and not on the basis of local assessment, as at present.

As a measure of war-time economy legislation providing for a two-year term for municipal councils will also be placed before you.

Unemployment Relief Down

During the calendar year 1939 there was expended in Ontario approximately $21,470,000 for unemployment relief of which the Province paid $9,50,000 and the municipalities $5,150,000. In 1936 the municipal share was 27.64 percent. Since April 1, 1939, this has been reduced to 18.50 percent with increased employment relief expenditures continuing to fall steadily.

The Temiskaming and Northern Ontario Railway reports improved earnings during the year just closed, freight traffic being much higher since the outbreak of war. Exploration of the lignite deposits at Onakawana has been carried out in recent months and further development of this important asset will continue in 1940.

hear, that Pilot D. A. Willis, who
The Assembly will be pleased to recently had the honor of describing to His Majesty the first British flight over Berlin, was formerly employed at Queen's Park.

In addition to the legislation already mentioned, bills will be introduced to extend the Mortagors and Purchasers Relief Act, and to amend the Public Health Act, the Public Hospitals Act, the Fire Insurance Act, the Highway Traffic Act, the Highway Improvement Act, the Succession Duty Act, the Assessment Act, the Municipal Act, and various other statutes.

In conclusion, I trust that Divine Providence will guide your deliberations to the promotion of the public welfare.

Because Finland has put up such an amazing defence against Soviet aggression, Sweden is fearful that Germany may come to the aid of her new-found ally, attacking Scandinavia from the south, thus enabling Russia, ultimately, to sweep down with overwhelming manpower from the north. Consequently, Swedish forces are on the alert, with crack units particularly active in the Arctic region where Sweden and Finland have a common frontier. RALPH HARRIS GIVEN PROMOTION

Salesman for National Cash Register Will be District Agent at Kitchener

Popular member of the Belleville Kiwanis Club for the past two years, Mr. R.W.S. Harris, 314 Dufferin Avenue, salesman for the National Cash Register Company has received well-merited promotion in his appointment as head of the agency of the firm for Kitchener, Ontario, and vicinity.

Mr. Harris has been connected with the Belleville staff of the company for the past three years as a salesman. He has been associated with his firm for the past fourteen years, and his elevation to a position of greater responsibility climaxes many years of faithful and efficient service.

Mrs. Harris will join her husband in his new environment in the latter part of January.

OBITUARY

GEORGE A. MAIDENS

After an illness of two months' duration in the Shawville Private Hospital at Shawville, Que., George Arthur Maidens, eldest son of the late Mr. and Mrs. John Maidens of Belleville, died in that institution on Monday morning, Jan. 8.

The late Mr. Maidens was born in Havelock, Ont., and the greater part of his life was passed as a prospector in the mining fields in northern Quebec. For the past 25 years he made his headquarters at Campbell's Bay, Que. Friends in this city will regret to learn of his death.

Surviving him are three sisters, Mrs. Della Warren, Belleville; Mrs. Leah Wright, Havelock, and Mrs. D. L. Bennett, Belleville; four brothers, Messrs. Earl Maidens, Trenton; Foy Maidens, Belleville; Ewart Maidens, Stamford Center, Ont., and Grant Maidens, Belleville.

The funeral took place this Wednesday afternoon from the Martin Funeral Home, Church street. The private service in the chapel and at the graveside in the family plot in Belleville Cemetery was conducted by the Rev. D. T. McClintock, pastor of the Tabernacle United Church.

LATE MRS. SUSAN W. BOYD

Tuesday afternoon the funeral of Mrs. Susan Wark Boyd, late residence in the 3rd. concession of Thurlow township, and widow of James Boyd, took place Tuesday afternoon from the residence of her daughter, Mrs. P. G. Denike, 303 Ann Street. The service in the home and at the graveside in the Belleville Cemetery was conducted by the Rev. A. Armstrong, pastor of the Cannifton United Church, assisted by the Rev. Dr. James Semple, pastor of Bridge Street United Church.

CREW PERMITTED TO LEAVE U. S.

All of Military Age Off Scuttled Columbus to Leave by Way of West Coast

New York, Jan. 10.—(CP)—The New York Herald Tribune says today it has learned that all the officers and crew members of the scuttled German liner Columbus who are of military age will be released from Ellis Island Sunday and taken to Pacific coast ports where they will be permitted to sail on Japanese and other foreign ships.

The newspaper said those members of the crew who are not of military age will be detained at the immigration centre until accommodations for them to sail for Germany from New York on neutral ships can be completed. Of the 575 stranded seamen, more than 400 will start for the West coast, Sunday, it said.

"A report, not confirmed, was that the seamen leaving the United States on Japanese ships eventually would reach Germany by way of the Trans-Siberian railroad through the Soviet Union", the Herald Tribune said.

Capt. Wilhelm Daehne, commander of the 20,000-ton luxury liner, scuttled the Columbus December 19 on orders from Adolf Hitler some 400 miles off Delaware Bay to avoid capture by a British destroyer. Picked up by a United States cruiser, all but two members of the crew were brought to New York and treated as distressed seamen.

JUDGMENT RESERVED IN T. CAIN CASE

Magistrate E. J. Butler, K.C., reserved judgment in the case of Thomas Cain, Jr., who appeared in the Trenton police court yesterday charged with reckless driving. The charge arose out of an accident, just east of the town of Trenton, some weeks ago during which George Lesperance, R.C.A.F. fireman employee, suffered fatal injuries after allegedly being struck by a motor car driven by Cain. The complete evidence in the reckless driving case was heard by His Worship yesterday and the matter of judgment reserved for one week. Lesperance was walking along the side of the highway when he was struck, it is said.

Hydro Workman Suffers Unusual Accident Near Tweed

Tweed — Mr. Ray Thompson of Lodgeroom, while working on the new Hydro line near Lodgeroom, met with an unusual accident on Monday. With another workman he was engaged in shovelling earth when in some way the end of the handle of his companion's shovel struck him in the eye. The eye, an artificial one, was shattered by the blow, cutting the eye socket and requiring the services of a surgeon to remove several pieces of broken glass. Several years ago while working on Highway No. 7, during the construction period, Mr. Thompson sustained facial injuries and the loss of an eye when a delayed blast was discharged when he was investigating the cause of the delay.

Clear Reception for CBL Listeners Assured

Interference from a powerful radio station just south of the Mexican border, which has greatly handicapped reception from CBL, the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation's key station in Ontario, has been eliminated. Ontario listeners are now assured of clear reception, day and night on the 840 k.c. channel.

This news — the most important in years from the viewpoint of Ontario listeners—has just been announced by W. E. Gladstone Murray, General Manager of the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation. Mexican radio authorities, it is explained, have moved the interfering stations to other channels where they will not affect the Canadian outlets. CBF (910 k.c.) the Corporation's key station for the French network in the Province of Quebec, will also benefit from this change.

For the past six years—ever since a key station for the national network was established in Ontario—interference from Mexico has been a serious problem. In many parts of the Province, the interference has been so bad that good reception from CBL has seldom been obtainable. XERA, the Mexican station at Villa Acuna which was broadcasting on 840k.c., the same wave-length as CBL, is the most powerful transmitter in the Western Hemisphere (250,000 watts). It will now use another channel.

Discussion on Seaway Moves to Washington

Ottawa, Jan. 10—(CP)—Moving towards a basis for agreement on the St. Lawrence Waterway and Power project, Canada and United States will resume discussions in Washington next Jan. 22.

A two-day conference on the scheme concluded yesterday and United States delegation left for Washington. It was reported progress had been made in the negotiations with the Dominion government officials.

The Dominion Government now probably will consult the Ontario and Quebec governments before any formal negotiations are launched with Washington because Ontario is the province most vitally interested in the construction and power development and Quebec is involved through the navigation aspects of the plan.

Quebec also would have to be consulted because the seaway proposal would affect the Beauharnois Power Development and possibly power production at Lachine, both in Quebec province.

Police Blotter

Belleville police yesterday recovered two bicycles, which had been stolen at intervals in Belleville and repainted, and later arrested 20-year-old James Miller of 44 Great St. James Street charging the lad with the theft.

The bicycles recovered had been stolen from off the market square and a second from the Collegiate grounds some time ago. One of the bikes had been repainted and allegedly sold by Miller for $7.00, Chief Alexander Kidd revealed after he and Plainclothes Constable Fred Isard had questioned the lad at the police station. Both bicycles recovered were later identified by their respective owners. Miller was remanded until Friday for trial.

City police also reported the recovery of three mantel model radios, which were stolen from the Hitchon radio shop, Victoria Ave., before Christmas.

A minor motor accident, that resulted in fender damage, saw two vehicles collide at the intersection of Front Street and Victoria Ave., yesterday. No injuries resulted and the matter was amicably settled. Nine transients were given lodgings at the police station last night.

Provincal Constables Change Positions

Inspector Frank Gardner, of the Provincial Police headquarters here announced today that a change of the personnel of the local detachment of the O.P.P. would be made Monday. Provincial Constable Wm. H. McBrien, who has been stationed in Belleville for many years, will be moved to Lindsay, where he will assume charge of the Lindsay Provincial Police post. Constable David Adair, who is now stationed at Lindsay will assume the post made vacant by the departure of Constable McBrien, who leaves Belleville where he made many friends during the past few years [illegible] think that the "unofficial" war in China could have much to do with the very official war on the western front, but it has—as a glance at this map will show you. There have been whispers of a "deal" between Soviet Russia and Japan which, should it go through, would permit the Soviet to divert vital supplies, now poured into China, in the direction of Germany. It would also permit the Soviet to give its full attention to the conquest of Finland and it would force Great Britain to take more extensive measures for the defence of her Indian Empire, which could be reached through China, either by the Japanese or the Russians—provided that Marshal Chiang Kai-Shek could be won over by the Soviet-Japanese bloc. But Chiang has a pro-British leaning and much of his war material comes by way of the new "road from Mandalay." Some prophets predict that eventually the Soviet will endeavor to sweep the Japanese out of all that conquered part of China north of the Great Wall. This, of course, after the Soviet had aided Chiang in driving them out from below that historic barrier.

Decision as to Whether Quints Appear at World's Fair Up to Board of Guardians States M. F. Hepburn

Toronto, Jan. 10 (CP)—Reports that the Dionne quintuplets may appear at the New York World's Fair have brought comment from most parties interested—but the possibility appears today to be just that.

"The decision is up to the quints' board of guardians and their doctor, Dr. Allan Roy Dafoe," Premier Mitchell Hepburn said.

At Ottawa, Henri St. Jacques, Oliva Dionne's legal representative said he believed the Ontario government would agree to the parents' wishes and allow the quints to leave the province for the first time.

"I think the showing of the quints at the fair is a likely thing," he said. "But it will have to be done by a pact between New York State and the Ontario government. The girls would be kept in a specified area of the fair ground and not allowed to go beyond those bounds."

Dr. Dafoe Declines Comment

Dr. Dafoe declined to comment until a definite bid had been received from the World's Fair.

"The World's Fair is nibbling, but we have no direct proposition yet," declared Percy D. Wilson, official guardian for the Ontario Government and a guardian of the quints.

The quints' parents are both reported to be in favor of the idea, but Judge J. A. Valin of North Bay, strongly opposed it.

"They won't go to New York with my consent," Judge Valin declared. "It's too risky. We shouldn't let them out of the country."

Norman Sommerville, president of the Canadian Red Cross, said that the Red Cross—which was reported due to receive part of the quints fair pay—naturally welcomed any financial assistance but added "I wouldn't presume to offer an opinion on the reported proposition until it was laid before us, which hasn't happened yet."

If the appearance is made, it is believed it would take place between mid-May and mid-June. Otherwise it would affect the annual tourist rush to Callander, which usually does not become large until July. The quints would then escape the mid-summer heat of New York.

CANADIAN NAVY GROWS RAPIDLY

Increasing Number of Men Come From Shores of Inland Lakes

(By Frank Flaherty Canadian Press Staff Writer).

Ottawa, Jan. 10 (CP)—Expansion of the Royal Canadian Navy goes on apace and, as the navy broadens its wartime task of guarding Canadian ports, coasts and shipping, it attracts increasing numbers of men from shores of inland lakes and rivers and even areas far removed from water of any kind as well as those familiar with the sea.

While no figures are available it is unofficially and roughly estimated that at least half of the present personnel of the Royal Canadian Navy never saw salt water until they donned the uniform.

They entered the service through units of the Royal Canadian naval volunteer reserve, scattered across Canada from Atlantic to Pacific. These units learn about sea-faring in their barracks and, in peacetime, their members enjoy an annual trip to the sea-coast for a brief stretch of training.

Now, with the navy requiring more men to man more and more ships, they have been called up for active service and will lead the life of the sea for the duration of the war.

While the naval service has more than doubled its personnel since the start of the war further expansion is likely as the war proceeds. More ships are being built and more men are in training to man them. Canada's present fighting fleet of six destroyers and one flotilla leader may receive additions.

$2,000 FUR COATS STOLEN

Woodstock, Ont., Jan. 10.—(CP)—Twenty fur coats, some neck pieces and jackets, the lot valued at more than $2,000, were stolen from the premises of Earl Reed, Dundas St., furrier, during the night. Entrance to the shop was gained by forcing the bars on a rear window.

100 Men Apply for 75 Vacancies in Essex Scottish

Windsor, Ont., Jan. 10 —(CP) — Essex Scottish Regiment will encounter no trouble in bringing the unit up to strength, officers said today as they viewed more than 100 applicants for the 75 vacancies in the regimental ranks.

New recruits will be taken on all week until the required 75 have been obtained. Additional men are required to replace the 91 men who have been transferred to depot because they have not reached the age of 19. They will remain the reserve until that time.

Because the regiment has been slightly over strength, only 75 men will be added.

Further U.S. Aid to Finnish People is Considered

Washington, Jan. 10 — (AP)—President Roosevelt is talking over with the State Department the question of extending further United States aid to Finland.

In response to questions at his press conference yesterday about Congressional proposals for such help, Mr. Roosevelt said he probably would have something to say on the subject next week. Among the proposals are one for a $60,000,000 loan to Finland and another to make available to her the United States army's new Garand automatic rifle.

CANADIAN SCOUTS PREPARE FOR PUB LIC SERVICE WORK

Living up to their motto, "Be Prepared," these scout leaders of the Toronto Centre area have completed a course in ambulance work as part of their training in public service work as a war measure and are now qualified to give instructions in first aid work. Similar instructions are being given to scouts all over Canada as they prepare themselves for whatever public service they may be required for. Standing, LEFT to RIGHT: H. Power, R. Duke, F. FINNS ESTABLISH BATTLE LINE ON RUSSIAN BORDER

Ski Troops Complete Work of Mopping Up Fleeing Russians of Two Divisions

FIGHT CONTINUES

Victory Achieved Through Superior Strategy With a Measure of Luck

By THOMAS HAWKINS
(Associated Press Staff Writer)

With the Finnish Army at the Russian Frontier, Jan. 10 (AP).—Finnish troops established positions along a 30-mile stretch of the Russian border in central Finland today after fourteen days of heavy fighting in which two Russian divisions were smashed.

Ski troops were completing the work of mopping up the fleeing Russians of the 44th and 163rd divisions of the Red Army, which were routed and thrown into retreat after thousands of them were killed.

The area directly east of Lake Kianta for some distance north and south is in Finnish hands.

Fighting is continuing with reports that another Russion division is being surrounded at Kukkammo to the south.

Evidence of Battle Visible.

The biggest victory of the war for the Finns was the rout of the 44th division southeast of Suimussalmi along a 4½-mile stretch of highway.

Evidence of the fierce three-day battle which began Jan. 5 could still be seen in scores of trucks scattered along the highway and cannon with piles of hundreds of shells and shell-caps still beside them.

A Finnish general revealed that victory might have belonged to the Red army if it had counter-attacked strongly. He expressed belief that the counter-attack was not made because of lack of reinforcements and disoranization.

Finnish losses were small in the three days of fighting, a Finnish colonel in the Raate sector said, compared with the thousands of Russians killed and more than 1,000 taken prisoner.

In comparing the battles against the two Russian divisions, the Finns said the fight with the 163rd division was a rout while that with the 44th was bitterly contested.

Superior Strategy.

Victory came, they declared, through superior strategy with a measure of luck. The turning point in the bitter battle was at the frontier when Finnish ski patrols succeeded in destroying a highway bridge which kept the Russians from bringing up reinforcements.

Fighting against the 44th was said to have started Dec. 23 when the Finns learned the Russians were ready to attack and in a surprise assault killed 200 Russian horses and took some prisoners. The major battle developed two weeks later.

Travelling through the battle area this correspondent could see abandoned Russion equipment stretched out along the road. There were 260 trucks — all with new tires — some driven off the road into a large square clearing in the forest.

There were tanks, some of which weighed ten tons and carried crews of four.

Important Changes in Administration of Justice Proposed

Toronto, Jan. 10.—(CP)—Important changes in the administration of justice in Ontario are to be proposed to the Legislature, the Throne Speech at House opening today said.

It was learned Attorney-General Conant plans legislation to implement some of the recommendations of the Barlow report for a general overhauling of Ontario's court procedures. Text of the Throne Speech reference was

"For several months past, the Attorney-General's department has been carrying out a survey of the Administration of Justice, and Legislation will be submitted to you containing some important proposed changes".

Huge Waves Damage California Coast

Los Angeles, Jan. 10.—(AP) — Damage estimates approached the $100,000 mark today after waves as high as 25 feet, stirred up by some mysterious submarine force, battered Southern California's coastline for nearly 100 miles.

Heaviest loss, estimated unofficially at nearly $50,000, was reported from the Santa Barbara sector, where beach homes were pounded and in some cases destroyed, a pier collapsed and a $15,000 oil derrick tumbled into the sea. A $100,000 mansion was undermined and cracking.

The great combers climaxed a seven-weeks' ocean disturbance for which weather experts were unable to account.

British Planes Drop Bombs Near Island of Sylt

London, Jan. 10 (CP)—The Air Ministry announced tonight that Royal Air Force planes had dropped bombs near the German Island of Sylt while "on patrol" over enemy seaplane bases last night.

The announcement did not mention whether the British planes met any German opposition.

Danish reports of heavy firing and glimpses of searchlights before dawn had indicated there was aerial fighting near Sylt.

The air ministry said that damage to Danish property near the frontier was reported in Copenhagen dispatches.

"Should it be established that British aircraft were responsible for damage, full restitution will be made the Danish government," the ministry declared.

Berlin Version.

Berlin, Jan. 10 (AP).—German officials tonight claimed three British Blenheim planes out of nine attackers were shot down today over the The German version of the raid Heligoland Bight. was that four German pursuit planes drove off the British squadron.

Reports From Copenhagen.

Copenhagen, Denmark, Jan. 10 (AP).—Vivid flashes, the rumble of cannonading and the distant glare of searchlights, followed by the southwestward flight of numerous aircraft, indicated a battle over the island of Sylt, northern German air base, Danish observers reported today.

They said the activity was noted off the southwest Danish coast just before dawn and that about 9 a.m. (3 a.m. E.S.T.) the planes, of undisclosed nationality were seen heading in the direction of Heligoland Bight.

(The British Air Ministry reported today the Royal Air Force had made reconnaissance flights during the night over northwest Germany and Heligoland and maintained "security patrols" over German mine-laying bases in the Frisian Islands).

An unidentified plane dropped three bombs on the southern part of the Danish island of Roem last night, but no damage was done, reports reaching here today said. Roem is north of Sylt.

Commander-in-Chief of Home Forces 'Drops In' on First Canadian Division

3 1-2 HOUR TOUR

(By Edwin Johnson)
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Aldershot, Jan. 10.— (CP Cable) General Sir Walter Kirke, Commander-in-Chief of the Home Forces "dropped in" to day on the First Canadian Division for an informal tour of inspection and to meet the officers and men.

He was accompanied by Lieut.-General Charles Broad, Commander of the Aldershot area, and a group of Staff officers, including Viscount Dunsford.

In the absence of Major-General A. G. L. McNaughton, General Officer commanding the Canadian Active Service force, and his brigadiers, who are now in France, General Kirke was officially welcomed by Colonel E. W. Sansom. With him was Lieut.-Colonel A. E. Walford.

An escort of four sturdy officers of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police, who were mounted on drab colored motorcycle, preceded the party as it moved off from Canadian Divisional headquarters.

No Pre-arranged Program

At the wheel of General Kirke's car was pretty Elspeth Ironside, daughter of General Sir Edmund Ironside, chief of the Imperial General staff.

General Kirke met the Canadians without fanfare or ceremony apart from the guard of honor which greeted him at each brigade headquarters. At his special request there was no pre-arranged program. He preferred to see the men engaged in their everyday drill and that is what the Canucks gave him.

In a 3 1-2 hour tour he visited most of the Divisional units. He saw men moving smartly across the parade grounds in response to crisp, efficient commands. Men of the Royal Montreal regiment gave him a businesslike demonstration of machine-gun drill with the men wearing gas masks. Another company of the same regiment was out on signal practice.

Watches Men At Gun Drill.

At the First Divisional Artillery headquarters the general watched men from Kingston, Brantford, Winnipeg and Moncton concentrating on gun laying and standing gun drill.

General Kirke spotted Second Lieut. Edward McNaughton, the Canadian Commander's second son, who is serving as intelligence officer at artillery headquarters. He shook hands with the young subaltern and asked him to convey his personal respects to his father.

At one of the infantry brigades General Kirke listened with interest to bilingual commands to men of the Royal 22nd Regiment. He also saw the West Nova Scotia and the Carleton and York Regiments in a workmanlike display of musketry and bayonet drill. Then he moved to Morval Barracks wheer the Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry, under Colonel Calhoun, was going through full training.

Compliments Troops.

As companies of an Edmonton Regiment lined up he passed along the ranks chatting to officers and men. Addressing the boys, he complimented them on the progress they achieved in training.

"I am pleased to see you in the old country," General Kirke said, "and I know you will be a credit to the British Empire, to Canada, and to the regiment which enjoyed such a glorious record in the last war. Good luck to you!"

Prior to lunch with General Broad and Colonel Sansom, General Kirke inspected a typical privates' mess and kitchen. He saw the men enjoying a hearty meal of Irish stew, bread, prunes and custard, and tea.

General Kirke previously had seen the first contingent of the Canadian Division and was struck by the smart appearance of the more recent arrivals.

"The Canadian division, forming as it does a cross section of the population of the Dominion, is wonderful testimony to the virility of this young nation," General Kirke remarked.

"A more soldierly community it would be hard to find anywhere in the world. The commander who has the privilege of leading such men may count himself fortunate indeed."

LONE GUNMAN SECURES $916

Enters Canadian Bank of Commerce at Baden and Locks Manager in Vault

Baden, Ont, Jan. 10—(CP)—A lone gunman entered the Canadian Bank of Commerce Branch in this village today and escaped with approximately $916 after tying up the manager Gordon Miller and locking him in the vault. No one else was in the branch at the time.

The bandit was armed with a revolver. Police believe he escaped on foot. Baden is approximately 15 miles west of Kitchener.

THIRTEEN INCHES OF ICE IN BAY

Maurice Callaghan, local Bay of Quinte water authority and ice dealer, today stated that there was 13 inches of ice in the bay immediately south of the hospital. "Last week's sub-zero weather made a considerable amount of ice in the bay," stated Mr. Callaghan, who has tested his ice beds for thickness in preparation for the ice harvest, which will commence in a few weeks.

SURGEON COLLAPSES DURING OPERATION

Orange, N.J., Jan. 10—(AP)—In the midst of an operation on a woman patient in St. Mary's hospital yesterday Dr. Allton K. Sherman, 51, staggered, grasped his chest and whispered to an assistant to "carry on".

Dr. Joseph Bove completed the operation for removal of a tumor successfully and then went into an adjoining room to see Dr. Sherman. "Don't mind me, go back to the patient", Dr. Sherman said in a barely audible voice. Before Dr. Bove could tell the older surgeon the operation was finished, Dr. Sherman died of a heart attack.

300,000 CORDS PIT PROPS TO BE SHIPPED

Saint John, N.B., Jan. 10 (CP)—About 300,000 cords of pit props, requiring more than 100 freighters to transport, will be shipped by New Brunswick to the United Kingdom this year under contracts with the British Timber Control Board, it is estimated in lumber circles here.

50 INJURED WHEN ELEVATOR CRASHES

Birkenhead, England, Jan. 10—(CP-Havas)—Fifty persons were injured today when an elevator in which they were riding at Birkenhead railway station plunged to the bottom of the shaft after a cable snapped.

SOLDIER DIED OF HEART FAILURE

London Jan. 10 (CP Cable) — A verdict of death due to heart failure was returned today at the inquest into the edath of private James T. Cocklin, 24, of the Toronto Scottish, who dropped dead while on leave in London. Cocklin was buried with military honors in the Canadian war cemetery at Brookwood, Surrey, Jan. 4.

SIX TYPES OF AIRCRAFT FOR AIR TRAINING

Finns Attacking Well-Equipped Red Army Division

HOLD 30-MILE LINE

Frontier Strip Free of Russians for First Time Since War Began Nov. 30th

Copenhagen, Denmark, Jan. 11—(AP)—Reports were received here today that more than 100 Soviet Russian officers had been called back from the Finnish front, some of them to face trial before special courts.

The reports, which reached Norwegian and Finnish quarters from numerous sources, said the officers would be tried before courts consisting of people's commissars.

The Russian commissariat dealing with supplies was reported especially to be under a penetrating inquiry, which, it was said, already had led to executions.

Advices from Finland said the Finns today were attacking a well-equipped Red army division which they surrounded south of Lake Kianta on the eastern front.

Immediate verification of the reports was lacking.

Observers here were inclined to link the reports with the Moscow announcement that Mikhail Kaganovich had been relieved as Commissar for the Soviet aviation industry and "transferred to another post".

Kaganovich held a key post, and one of his duties was to supply materials to plane factories.

There were persistent reports that the Russian forces were being reorganized because of weaknesses shown up in the invasion of Finland. These reports reached not only Helsingfors but several other Scandinavian capitals.

Military dispatches meanwhile reported the Finnish army was attacking a well-equipped Red army division surrounded south of Lake Kianta.

Why The Weather?

By Major A. H. Thiessen

Science Service Meteorologist

Gusty winds! All winds are more or less gusty at the surface because flowing air becomes gusty due to the friction of the ground and to standing objects. These cause the blowing air to tumble about, rise ,fall and be diverted sideways, giving very unsteady speeds. Gustiness becomes less and less with elevation and disappears at about 600 feet. Wind speeds are generally given as averages for five-minute periods, but during that time the wind may have instantaneous speeds of 50 per cent. higher or lower. Builders should, therefore, erect structures to withstand winds 50 per cent. greater than the highest speeds as published.

Canadian Soldier Meets Relative On English Train

London, Jan. 11 (CP Cable)—The strangest of the army meetings between Canadian soldiers and English relatives was on a westbound train out of Paddington, London, last night.

A Canadian private entered a compartment of the train when it was halted at Reading. Handing round cigarettes he mentioned he was going to see relatives at Painswick, Gloucestershire.

"It's a long way from London, Ontario," the private remarked.

To which a fellow passenger, Mrs. Kathleen Knight of Harpenden, rejoined:

"If you come from there, I think you must be my cousin."

The soldier, driver Frank Capener produced a list of addresses which included that of Mrs. Knight's parents in Painswick. None of private Capener's English relatives knew he was here.

DODGE FAMILY GOING TO APPEAL COURT'S DECISION

Daniel Dodge's Widow Given $1,250,000 of Estate by Probate Judge on Wednesday

VISITING IN MIAMI

Detroit, Jan. 11—(AP) — The fight over the $11,000,000 estate of Daniel Dodge, with the ink hardly dry on one court's verdict, headed toward an appeal tribunal today and a new chapter in the family dispute over its automobile fortune.

Counsel for two of Daniel's sisters—Mrs. Isabel Sloane and Mrs. Winifred Seyburn—prepared to appeal to circuit court the verdict yesterday of Probate Judge Thomas C. Murphy under which Daniel's widow, Annie Laurine, one time Gore Bay, Ont., switchboard operator, receives $1,250,000.

Laurine Dodge is visiting in Miami.

She arrived here Jan. 5th with Mrs. Fred Holmes of Windsor, Ont. and expects to return next week to her school work at Alma College at St. Thomas, Ont. She injured her back while engaged in athletics shortly before Christmas and has been spending her time sun-bathing on the beach.

Charge is Laid At Bancroft

Bancroft, Jan. 11 (Special) — Provincial Constable Palmateer and County Constable G. P. Wells conducted a search at the home of Ben D. Roberts at this village last night and made, it is stated, a seizure of 12 bottles of alleged liquor. Roberts is charged with illegal possession and will appear in police court at Bancroft on January 16th.

JAPAN AGAINST NAVY EXPANSION IN UNITED STATES

Spokesman Predicts Expansion Would Precipitate a Building Race

TREATY EXPIRES

Reappearance of Proposal for Improvements at Guam Called "Not Graceful Attitude"

Tokyo, Jan. 11—Expansion of the United States Navy would precipitate a building race with Japan newspapers predicted and a Japanese navy spokesman hinted today. One newspaper called expansion "the American menace."

"Naturally the Japanese navy feels great concern," the navy spokesman said of the $1,300,000,000 United States Naval program now before Congress.

"Apparently it is designed to maintain the United States' superior ratio even after lapse of the Washington treaty."

This treaty, which expired Jan. 1, 1937, fixed the United States' naval ratio to Japan at 5 to 3. It granted the United States parity with Great Britain.

May Take Action

Asked if he meant that the Japanese navy would be increased, he said, "You can imagine what action would take place."

The spokesman said construction of 52,000-ton United States warships, mentioned as a possible early development by Admiral Harold R. Stark, Chief of United States naval operations, would "concern all naval powers."

Reappearance of the American proposal for naval improvements at the Island of Guam was characterized by the spokesman as "not a graceful attitude," in view of the Congress' previous rejection of it.

He declined to amplify his comments, but Tokyo newspapers were more forthright.

"If the United States, in disregard of the fundamentally peaceful program of the Japanese navy, seeks to main its unjustifiable superiority," said the newspaper Asahi, "Japan, in accordance with her policy of permitting no aggression, obviously would be compelled to strengthen her fleet sufficiently to meet the American menace."

Might Seize Island

Washington, Jan. 11 —(AP)— A suggestion Japan might settle the controversy in the United States Congress over improving Guam by seizing that strategic Pacific Island came today from a naval officer, Lieutenant Commander Frederick Nelson. Nelson said that "unless some steps are taken soon, it is not at all impossible that a 'temporary occupation' of the island similar to that of French Hainan might occur."

The idea was advanced in the proceedings of the semi-official United States Naval Institute while a house committee was scanning the navy's budget request for $4,000,000 to develop the harbor of the island, about 1,500 miles from Japan. A request for $5,000,000 was rejected last year, and objections already have been raised to the new proposal.

Lieutenant Commander Nelson, who has served in the Far East, expressed belief it was "highly unlikely" Japan would go to war over Guam, regardless of the suggested "temporary occupation."

(Japanese naval forces risked France's displeasure last year by occupying the Island of Hainan off the coast of French Indo-China).

Dr. Maud Slye Holds That Cancer Can be Bred Out of a Human Family

Urbana, Ill., Jan. 11 (AP).—Dr. Maud Slye, noted research authority on the factor of inheritance in cancer, said today "all diseases, including cancer, can be controlled by scientific handling of environment and heredity."

Dr. Slye, Associate Professor of Pathology at the University of Chicago, spoke at the University of Illinois College of Agriculture.

Dr. Slye holds that cancer can be bred out of a human family. She bases her conclusions on the study, begun in 1908, of the family trees of 140,000 mice under controlled conditions in a laboratory.

"The offspring of two individuals will be free from cancer if the families of both parents are entirely cancer-free, the immediate offspring are themselves free, she continued.

But these offspring can transmit susceptibility to cancer to some of their offspring, if mated with individuals who also carry cancer susceptibility, she said. If both parents are cancerous, the offspring inherit the tendency to be susceptible.

"By the Genetic method cancer can be wholly eliminated from the entire family," Dr. Slye contended. "The matter of what kind of children shall be born can be controlled just as surely as can the matter of what kind of animals and grains shall be produced."

In regard to environment she said there were two fundamental necessities—complete sanitation at all times and the avoidance of all injuries, single or repeated. No injury or disorder of the body, internal or external, should be allowed to become chronic, she said.

GERMANY ADMITS SECTOR OF FRONT BROKEN BY FRENCH

Claim is Made That Counter Attack Forced French Troops to Withdraw

ACTION AT FORBACH

Berlin, Jan. 11 (AP).—A French company in a surprise attack today broke the German line on Kreuzberg, east of Forbach. Later the Germans counter-attacked and the French withdrew.

The German News Agency said the French left dead and wounded and that a few French prisoners were taken. No intimation was given as to the extent of German casualties.

The high command in its daily communique claimed that two allied planes, which the news agency identified as French, were brought down in air battles yesterday with the loss of one German plane.

The Communique.

"In the border region south of Saarbruecken, the advance of an enemy company was repulsed immediately by a counter thrust. The opponent sustained losses by death and capture.

"Repeated air encounters took place on the western front in connection with border patrol and reconnaissance flights in the course of which two enemy planes were shot down.

"A plane was destroyed by crashing to the ground during pursuit of the enemy in the Colmar sector.

"During a renewed attempt to attack airports along the German coast with bombs, nine British bombers of the Bristol 'Blenheim' type were met in the German (Heligoland) Bight by four German planes. During progress of the fight, three British planes were shot down and a fourth so badly damaged presumably it failed to reach its home base.

"The German planes returned without losses from this fight against an enemy more than doubly superior."

(The British Air Ministry announced yesterday that one British and one German plane were shot down and one German plane forced to land in Denmark. This morning's Paris communique said two German planes were brought down yesterday within the British-French lines.)

Two German Planes Shot Down.

Paris, Jan. 11 (AP).—Return of clear weather has brought renewed aerial and land fighting on the western front, latest reports showed today.

Numerous clashes of small bodies of troops and several air battles were reported.

BRITISH ACCEPT FOOD RATIONING WITHOUT MURMUR

Nation is Stolid in 'War of Nerves' and People Remain Steadfast, Calm

NO GROUSING

By SAM ROBERTSON

(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

London, Jan. 11 (CP-Cable). — Cracks are not showing in traditional British stolidness as a result of the current "war of nerves". The people are accepting rationing of basic foods without a murmur of discontent and if it were not for the nightly blackout that is as inescapable as the income tax collector it would be difficult to realize a war was on.

The matter-of-fact way in which calm Britons are tackling the job of trying to rid the world of Hitlerism was brought pointedly home today by a Daily Telegraph dispatch from Amsterdam reporting the Nazis are launching campaign against grousing and gambling. As part of the campaign German shopkeepers are instructed to report customers complaining about their inability to obtain their needs.

Germans Must Not Grouse.

"This is a tacit admission that all is not well with the morale of the German people," the correspondent said.

In my first fortnight in the United Kingdom I have not heard a single complaint about the privations the people of the old country are facing.

Discussing the reaction toward rationing, a grocer said the customers "know there is a job to be done and they are anxious to do their bit." A butcher doling out a limited supply of beef, bacon and ham philosophically: "My folks feel their lot is not so hard as that of the fighting men and they are glad to give a lift."

Not even the black, velvet-like blanket of darkness the men and women of the Air Raids Precautions Organization draw over the British Isles each night dulls the good humor of the people. The difficulties and dangers of night prowling might depress others but not Johnny and Jenny Bull. You have to book weeks ahead to see the better plays. Seats are hard to find at the movies.

And they talk not of war but rather of their lives, loves and laughs.

RESCUE WORKERS STRUGGLE TOWARD 89 TRAPPED MEN

Rescue Work Slowed Up by Dead Air in Shaft Where Explosion Occurs

FEAR MANY DEAD

Two Bodies Found Quarter Mile From 620-Foot Shaft

(By Leo Disher)

(Associated Press Staff Writer)

Bartley, W.Va., Jan. 11.—(AP)—Rescue crews found a third body today in the blast-torn Bartley No. 1 mine of the Pond Creek Pocahontas Coal corporation and struggled through debris to within a few hundred feet of "65 or 75" of the remaining 88 trapped men.

Company officials clung to the hope that some survived yesterday's explosion, but experienced miners in this squalid southern West Virginia coal community shook their heads and expressed fear all perished.

The known dead were

Roy Evans, 41, motorman, married, four children.

Charley Moffitt, 42, negro, married, four children.

One man still unidentified.

Statement Issued

The body of Evans was discovered as rescue workers advanced to within 1,200 feet of the estimated centre of the explosion which tore through three sections of the pit.

R. E. Salvati, vice president of the company in charge of rescue work, issued this statement at 8 a.m.

"If we have luck, we should reach 65 or 70 men in a matter of hours".

He said those men were believed to be in the third and fourth left entries. Crews have penetrated more than 6,000 feet since they started, Salvati added.

Wives and children of the trapped miners and hundreds of curious who gathered near the mine stood dumbly in a cold, sleety rain waiting for word from the eight rescue crews.

Rescue Worker Carl Dickenson, emerging from the workings, said: "It looks bad. I don't think there is much chance."

Many Gather At Mine.

More than 2,000 persons gathered about the mouth of the mine greeted news of company vice president

London, Jan. 11 (CP).—German planes appeared over Newcastle on the northeast coast of England today and were driven back to sea by anti-aircraft fire and British pursuit ships.

No bombs were dropped and no alarms were sounded as the renewed flights of the German Air force over the British coast met quick resistance from British fighters and anti-aircraft batteries.

Notorious Career of Mail Robber Roy Gardner Closed in Suicide

San Francisco, Jan. 11—(AP)—The notorious career of mail robber Roy Gardner, who boasted that he could escape from the law, was closed in suicide today because he could not escape from the stigma of ex-convict" after nearly 20 years in prison.

Fashioning a lethal chamber in the bathroom of his hotel headquarters here, Gardner, about 56, breathed deadly fumes which he created last night with chemicals, and died quickly, "old and tired" but bearing "no malice toward any human being."

Since his release from Leavenworth Federal Penitentiary in June 1938, he has tried to rebuild his life in the world outside bars, trying the motion picture business, writing and lecturing.

"All men who have to serve more than five years in prison are doomed," he said in a note, "but they don't realize it. They kid themselves into the belief that they can 'come back,' but they can't. There is a barrier between the ex-convict and society that cannot be levelled."

Gardner, whose final capture in Arizona came about because he refused to shoot at his captor—he never fired a shot in a long series of robberies—was solicitous to the last.

On the door of the bathroom, he posted a note which said "Do not open this dcr. Poison gas. Call the police."

Fleet Trainers, Tiger Moths Used For Instruction

These Planes Will be Built in Canada With Engines Coming From United Kingdom

ASSEMBLED IN CANADA

Ansons, Harvards, Selected for Advanced Training With Faireys for Bombing and Gunnery Schools

Ottawa, Jan. 11—CP)— Decision to standardize on six types of aircraft for us at various schools and thus add efficiency in promotion of the British Commonwealth Air Training plan was made known today by the Defence Department.

The six types of planes are Avro Anson, North American Harvard, Fleet Trainer, de Havilliand Tiger Moth, Fairey Battle and Noorduyn Norsemen.

Fleet Trainers and de Havilland Tiger Moths, built in Canada, will be used almost exclusively for instructional purposes at the elementary flying training schools, the Department said.

As indicated by Transport Minister Howe last Sunday, 1,282 training aircraft will be manufactured in Canada, the engines being imported. It is intended, the Department said, to achieve economy in engines by standarization of type.

Anson, Harvards Selected

Avro Ansons and North American Harvards have been selected for the more advanced type of instruction at service flying training schools while the Ansons also will be used at the air observers' schools and the air navigation schools.

The flying instructors' school will be supplied Fleet Trainers, de Havilland Tiger Moths, Avro Ansons and North American Harvard Trainers in order that instructors may be familiar with all types of craft to be used.

Bombing and gunnery schools and the air armament school will be provided with a number of Fairey Battle aircraft, 870 of which are now on order in England.

Special provision, the Department said, has been made for wireless instruction and Noorduyn Norsemen planes, designed and manufactured near Montreal, have been selected for this branch of the training plan in which Canadian, Australian, New Zealand and United Kindom men will learn air force duties in Canada.

Largest number of any type of aircraft to be employed for instructional purposes will be Avro Ansons 1,622 airframes for which are to be shipped to Canada by the British Government, the Department said. Wings for these ships will be made in the Dominion where complete assembly will be undertaken.

Roosevelt Favors 10% "Super-Tax"

Washington, Jan. 11 (AP).—President Roosevelt looks with favor on a 10 per cent "super-tax" on the income levy to pay emergency defence costs, United States government officials said today, but he wants congressional leaders to take the initiative in framing proposals.

The "super-tax", although still an informal idea, might be applied retroactively to 1939 income as well as to 1940 income. A taxpayer would compute his levy in the usual way and then add 10 per cent to the total.

These sources predicted that the response to Mr. Roosevelt's budget message request for $460,000,000 in additional taxes probably would be developed after the President and Treasury Secretary Henry Morgenthau confers with House and Senate Finance Committee heads.

HINDENBURG DAM DAMAGED BY RAID

Traffic Across Breakwater Roadway Suspended Since Yesterday

Copenhagen, Jan. 11—(CP-Havas)—The newspaper Politiken reported today that train traffic across the Hindenburg Dam, the breakwater roadway between German Jutland and the Island of Sylt, has been suspended since early yesterday.

The dispatch, from Danish Slesvig, said suspension of railway service appeared to confirm the belief that British bombers damaged the dam in the raid yesterday.

The paper also announced that the pilot of the German plane which made a forced landing in Slesvig yesterday with a bullet-pierced gasoline tank, will be interned. The plane was a Messerschmidt and the pilot was 25-year-old Corporal Melschert.

An attack by three or four British planes on two German minelayers four miles off Ringjoebing, on the west coast of Danish Jutland, was reported here today.

MESSERSCHMITT SECRETS KNOWN SAYS REPORT

British Authorities in Possession of Detailed Information Says London Paper

FLY 365 M.P.H.

Lnodon, Jan. 11 (CP).—The Daily Express today reported British authorities are in possession of detailed information concerning new German Messerschmitt fighting planes.

"Plans have been smuggled to London from the drawing offices of the Messerschmitt factory near Augsberg, Bavaria, and Messerschmitt secrets known to only a handful of experts in Germany can now be revealed," the Express said.

"The plans disclose three facts which may influence German air tactics.

"1. Destroyer planes would be capable of convoying German bombers to any part of Britain and back and would use speeds up to 365 miles an hour to defend them.

Twin Cannon Aboard.

"2. They possess twin cannon with which they could attack bombers, while remaining out of range of the bombers' defensive machine guns.

"3. But poor manoeuvrability and comparatively weak gunpower would make them easy prey for Spitfires and Hurricanes.

"The Messerschmitt-110 has a crew of two. The pilot can fire automatically—the twin cannon and twin machine guns through the nose. There is a gunner with twin machine guns just behind the pilot.

"The twin Daimler-Benz engines are 12-cylindered of 1,159 H.P. each. The petrol tanks, which are bullet, fire and crash proof, will hold 400 gallons."

STOVEPIPES FALL

Stovepipes falling apart in the dining room of a house at 20 Pine Street last night sent city firemen racing to the scene. Smoke filled the house but otherwise no damage was done. Repairs were effected by the fire squads.

Enroute to the station, a ladder truck of the Fire Department broke down on the Albion Street Hill and had to be towed to a garage for repairs.

NO EXPLANATION FOR CURIOUS ACTION

It may have been the result of a wager, or just mere curiosity on the part of the city dweller, but his actions in producing a thermometer at intervals from his pocket while walking along Front Street during the recent cold snap furnished amusement to pedestrians of that thoroughfare.

Approximately every twenty-five feet the curious one hauled the instrument from his pocket, studied the readings, shook his head and moved further along the street where the performance was repeated.

Frankford Council Names Committees

Frankford. (Special) —On Wednesday evening the council of Frankford held their first meeting for 1940 in the Council Chambers with all members present.

The committees for the New Year were as follows—Finance Committee—C. R. Turley, G. G. Montgomery; Publicity Committee—Gerald Dixon, G. G. Montgomery; Municipal Bands and Parks Committee—C. R. RESCUE WORKERS

R. E. Calvati that rescue crews were progressing "in good shape" and that "the mine is not torn up at all as one would think from an explosion of this kind."

Workers said they were handicapped considerably by dead air. Expectations were that it would be at least mid-day before the three blast-wrecked sections in the western part of the mine could be reached.

State Mine Department officials said the ventilating system had to be rebuilt as the crews moved ahead. The main ventilating system continued in operation but H. G. Houts, State Chief Engineer, reported the chances "slim" that the trapped men had been able to build barricades and conserve what pure air remained in the affected areas.

Cause Not Determined.

Cause of the blast was not determined immediately. District Mine Inspector W. C. Sturgiss theorized it might have resulted when the men cut through to some long unused, gas-filled entry.

While rescue workers dug below, 300 men stood by above ground to help when needed. Some 1,000 to 2,000 persons stood outside all night, warming themselves at bonfires. More than 200 wives and relatives of the trapped men gathered about 75 feet from the tipple.

Men's Club Hears Address On One of World's Most Mysterious Elements—Radium

Dr. W. R. Horn, Scientist, Tells of the Origin, Properties and Uses to Which the Element is Put

REFINING COMPLICATED

High up on the rim of the Arctic Circle, where the midnight sun shines for six months of the year, a band of miners are extracting a pitch-black ore from the rocky terrain in the wooded fastnesses on the shores of the Great Bear Lake.

Across frozen wastes the "black gold" is transported. Down the Mackenzie River to Edmonton, thence to Port Hope, a distance of four thousand miles the pitchblende is brought until it comes to rest in the Radium Refineries at Port Hope, Ontario.

Veins of solid silver streak the ore. A number of by-products are manufactured from it. But deep within its black depths is another wealth that scientists and research experts have been working on for years. It is worth $750,000 an ounce. To the world at large it is known as radium.

Wide-eyed at times, tense with interest at others, members of the Bridge Street United Church Men's Club listened to a highly informative and educational address on radium, its production and all its mysterious elements and phases in the Sunday School auditorium last night, given by Dr. Wallace R. Horn, Head of the Research Department at the radium refineries of the Eldorado Gold Mines at Port Hope.

He told them of the discovery by a French scientist years ago, of a piece of ordinary appearing ore that gave off constant rays of energy. Chemists such as Madame and Pierre Curie and others became interested and through scientific research and intense study extracted enough of this strange energy that could be placed on the point of a needle. They discovered that here was a substance that gave off rays, a form of energy at a constant rate, unaffected by temperatures, and without man first placing energy in it.

Radium is only one of a number of substances doing the same thing, Dr. Horn said. Rays given out are of three types, two of which are not strong but the third the Gamma Rays, used in the treatment of cancer, are very powerful.

Obtained from Uranium

Active elements of pitchblende are three in number, Uranium, Thorium and Artinium. The former is the father of radium, which, it was discovered, not only gave off rays but was constantly breaking down and changing into a lighter metal. This in turn would give off rays and change, and so on down the series. When the last ray is given off there is nothing left but solid lead. Thousands of years constitute the total period of transmutation.

"A popular misconception," Dr. Horn said, "is that there is sufficient radium stored in Port Hope to blow up the entire universe. That is not correct. The radium is constantly giving up its energy. If it was heated to 3,000 degrees above zero or cooled to 300 degrees below it would not be affected in the least."

The radium used in the treatment of cancer is not true radium, but a child of it, or in other words the radium from metal which has already broken up several times. It is known as Radium C, and before it arrives at this stage, has passed through a gas stage which is one of the most hazardous parts of radium work.

"If this gas is inhaled," the speaker said, "it has a peculiar tendency to concentrate in the marrow of the bones. The gas finally breaks down, and becomes metal, which in turn gives off violent rays. These rays affect the blood and the victim begins to show symptoms of pernicious anaemia. Nothing can be done about it."

Polonium, a brother of radium was discovered by Madame Curie who named it after her native country, Poland. It is used extensively in industry, especially in the manufacture of spark-plugs.

Extraction Process Expensive

Referring to the extraction processes the speaker said that ten tons of ore were necessary in order to extract one dram (a thirtieth of an ounce). Seventy tons of various chemicals are used, for this amount of ore. That is the reason, Dr. Horn pointed out, the refineries were built at Port Hope, where chemicals are easily accessible, instead of at the mine at Great Bear Lake.

It would not be possible to extract sufficient radium to place on one's thumbnail from ten tons of pitchblende ore, if it were not for the common element of barium used to discover the presence of radium and, which is, in a chemical sense, a brother of radium, the speaker declared. "It is so similar that if treated with the same process, the same thing happens. It is so similar in its reactions that it is a problem to separate them," the speaker said.

"Now come the longest stage of the extraction process. It is called fractional crystallization. We now have one gram of radium which is in the form of a white salt similar in appearance to table salt, and worth $25,000.00. It is good for two thousand years," the speaker said, "and at the end of that time it will have lost approximately one-half its power."

Several tons of Uranium are also extracted from the pitchblende, Dr. Horn said "for which we have found a sale. It sells at roughly two dollars the ton and is used in coloring plates, porcelain, tiles, etc."

Dr. Horn showed a number of lantern slides that brought out in detail the process of extraction, the various phases of chemical work conducted at the refinery, scenes of the mine at Great Bear Lake and the various methods of cancer treatment such as needles and the "radium bomb."

Demonstrates Radium Detector

A highly interesting part of the address was the demonstration of a radium detector, a box-like machine that clicks and flashes a light when in the vicinity of the element. A small glass phial three-sixteenths of an inch in diameter and approximately two inches in length, that contained radium valued at $2,500.00 was produced by Dr. Horn from a leaden cyclinder that measured four inches in diameter. The glass cylinder occupied a tiny slot in the centre of the leaden container. He demonstrated efficiency of the lead as a resistant against the radium rays by the difference in the number of clicks registered by the detector when inside the cylinder, and held in his hand by means of an instrument.

Another interesting experiment was the emanation of rays from small phials of uranium when held close to a pale bluish electric light bulb. The uranium glowed a ghostly greenish red color as the light was brought near it. The speaker suggested that British authorities were considering the use of uranium paint on automobiles which when approached by other vehicles using pale bluish lights, would glow sufficiently, without detection from above, to prevent the many accidents that are now occurring in the "blackouts."

Port Hope Refinery Largest in World

The Port Hope Refinery was the greatest producer of radium in the world, he said. "We have radium valued at between five and six hundred thousand dollars on hand, which is stored in a safe that has doors of solid lead ten inches in thickness. We process 90 tons of ore per month which gives us 9 grams of radium."

Miss Irena Curie, daughter of the famous scientist of radium fame, Madame Curie, visited the refinery last winter, Dr. Horn said, "where she saw more radium than her famous mother ever dreamed of."

Dr. Horn was introduced by Mr. A. Morrison while the appreciation of the club was expressed by Public School Inspector J. F. Pickering. The banquet which preceded the address took the form of an oyster supper.

OBITUARY

STEWART F. GARRISON
(Thurlow Township)

After a lengthy illness Stewart Franklin (Frank) Garrison passed away at his late residence in the 4th concession of Thurlow Township on Wednesday, Jan. 10th.

The late Mr. Garrison, who was in his 75th. year, was born on the farm where he died and where he resided all his life. His parents were the late Mr. and Mrs. William Henry Garrison. In religion he was a member of Bethany United Church and in the community he was held in high regard.

Surviving him are four daughters, Mrs. Stanley MacDonald, Shannonville; Mrs. F. M. Carscallen, Belleville; Mrs. Neva Horton, Stratford; Mrs. A. M. Balcanquel, Corbyville; three sons, Mr. George Garrison, Bancroft; Mr. Frank Garrison, Latta, and Mr. Fred Garrison, who resides on the old homestead in Thurlow Township. His wife passed away six years ago.

The funeral announcement is made elsewhere in this paper.

LATE DAVID G. HUBEL
(Tyendinaga Township)

The funeral of David Gibson Hubel took place from his late residence in the 5th. concession of Tyendinaga Township, on Wednesday afternoon, Jan. 10th. The service in the home and at the graveside in St. Andrew's cemetery, Thurlow Township, was conducted by the Rev. A. Armstrong, the United Church minister on the circuit.

The bearers were Messrs. B. Welsh, H. McWilliams, W. O'Sullivan, E. Leqvens H. Swan and F. Balcanquel.

During the service in the home a vocal duet in keeping with the occasion was rendered by Mrs. E. Yorke and Mrs. Ralph Lawrenson.

MRS. MAUDE (LUSCOMBE) DARLINGTON

Mrs. Maude Mary Darlington, widow of Howard Darlington, passed away at her late residence, 254 Coleman Street, early this Thursday morning. She had been in failing health for some time.

The late Mrs. Darlington, who was born fifty-five years ago in Devonshire, England, was the daughter of Mrs. Elizabeth Luscombe of this city, and the late John Luscombe. At an early age she came with her parents to Belleville and resided here for fifty years. By many friends she was held in high esteem and to them her passing has brought sincere feelings of regret. In religion she was a member of Victoria Avenue Baptist Church and fraternally she was a member of the Eastern Star No. 56.

Surviving to mourn her passing are one son, Mr. Jack Darlington, Belleville; her mother, Mrs. Elizabeth Luscombe, Belleville; two sisters, Mrs. Ed. Britton, Rochester, N.Y., and Mrs. Basil Ainsworth, Allisonville, Ont.; four brothers, Mr. John T. Luscombe, Chicago, Ill.; Mr. Alfred P. Luscombe, Belleville; Mr. Walter R. Luscombe, Belleville, and Mr. William O. Luscombe, Trenton.

Resting at the Pinkston Funeral Home, Church Street. The funeral announcement is made elsewhere in this paper.

BEATRICE M. RUSHLOW

Beatrice Marylin Rushlow, the six-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Stanley R. Rushlow, 56 Foster Avenue, died in the Belleville General Hospital this Thursday morning after an illness of six weeks' duration. She attended Bridge Street United Church Sunday school.

Surviving her besides her parents are one sister, Faye; two brothers, Joe and Donald, all at home.

The funeral will take place Saturday afternoon at two o'clock from the residence of her grandmother, Mrs. John W. Benn, 15 Pinnacle Street.

HUMANITARIAN AID ONLY FOR FINLAND

King Gustaf of Sweden Makes No Mention of Military Assistance

Stockholm, Jan. 11 (AP).—King Gustaf, in a speech from the throne, said today the Swedish people's desire to help Finland was "manifested unmistakably" in humanitarian aid, but he gave no suggestion of possible military assistance in the war against Soviet Russia.

"Finland's involvement in armed conflict touches the Swedish people in the deepest way," the king said.

"The willingness to hurry assistance to a brother people is manifested unmistakably. Sweden feels an obligation to give Finland's brave people every material humanitarian help which is possible while heeding its own position."

This last phrase was regarded as an allusion to Sweden's official attitude to neutrality.

Will Defend Independence.

Sweden is determined to defend her independence under all circumstances, the king said, a sentiment voiced also by Prime Minister per Albin Hansson, who spoke later.

As members of the Riksdag met in the throne room to hear the king and prime minister, they learned that Sweden's record budget of 800,000,000 kroner (about $200,000,000) for military defence in the next fiscal year would cause a deficit for the first time in many years.

The budget for ordinary expenses was placed at 1,457,000,000 kroner (about $366,000,000), with an estimated income of 1,692,000,000 kroner (about $423,000,000), but the military budget was set up as a special item outside this.

Follow Instructions And Mail Will Reach Troops Without Delay

Free Postal Privilege for Troops in Theatre of Actual War

Canadian soldiers when serving in a theatre of actual war will be able to send their correspondence free of postage, the Honourable Charles G. Power, Canada's Postmaster General, announced today.

This privilege is likewise extended to members of British, Dominion, Colonial and Allied Forces also serving in a theatre of actual war and to officers and men serving in His Majesty's Warships or Allied Warships afloat.

Such correspondence received in Canada will, on arrival at destination, be delivered without the collection of postage charges.

Soldiers who are not in a theatre of actual warfare and who have full mailing facilities at their disposal do not come within this arrangement for the present at least, and British postage is required on correspondence from members of the Forces in Great Britain addressed to Canada.

As the result of arrangements made with Great Britain, the Postmaster General has authorised special rates on parcels mailed in Canada addressed to Canadian troops serving in Great Britain and France.

Commencing January 1st, parcels addressed to troops overseas will be accepted at a rate of 12 cents a pound, with a weight limit of 11 pounds. This is an appreciable reduction from ordinary parcel post rates.

Base Post Office Established

To expedite the despatch of mails to the troops, a Base Army Post Office has been established for the centralized control and handling of mail for Canada's overseas military forces. This Base Post Office is manned by experienced Post Office personnel regularly enlisted in the Canadian Active Service Force. The Base Post Office is the Home Depot and Training Centre for the entire personnel of the overseas units of the Canadian Postal Corps.

At this Base Post Office mails are separated according to formations going forward in bags labelled to the respective units. On arrival overseas this mail will be handled by members of the Divisional Unit of the Canadian Postal Corps which also comprises experienced officials trained in the Canadian Postal Service.

The volume of mail handled is steadily increasing. Already one-half ton of mail passes daily through the Base Post Office for the officers and men overseas.

Although the Post Office Department is doing its utmost to facilitate the despatch of mails to and from troops of the Canadian Active Service Force serving overseas, there is still room for improved co-operation on the part of the mailing public.

This is particularly the case in regard to the packing and addressing of parcels. A number of parcels and letters already sent will not reach their destination intact owing to loose and careless packing and faulty addressing.

The need for proper packing cannot be too strongly emphasized. Flimsy cardboard boxes and thin tissue paper are entirely inadequate. Strong containers and thick wrapping paper are essential. The parcel should be firmly wrapped and well bound with strong cord or other equally suitable binding material.

Considerable time has been devoted by the staff of the Base Post Office, endeavouring to repair and repack improperly prepared parcels.

A broom wielded by an Army Postal Corps member was required to "mop up" the debris of a faultily packed fruit cake. In another instance a search was made through the mail to find a handful of marbles broken through the packing of a game of "Chinese Checkers". The goods in another parcel were damaged by the contents of a broken container. These contests spread not only through the original parcel but also damaged the contents of other parcels.

Write Legibly

In conclusion it is desired to again accentuate the necessity of all mail being legibly and completely addressed. Many items are at present being held in the Base Post Office because of incomplete addressing. Abbreviations cause unnecessary delay and should be avoided.

Be sure that all your overseas letters and parcels are addressed as follows:-

Regimental No.
Rank and Name
Full name of Regiment or Unit
C.A.S.F.
c-o Base Post Office, Canada and also place your return address in the upper left hand corner.

If these simple instructions are followed your mail will reach the troops with a minimum of delay.

RELIEF ROLLS IN PROVINCE SHOW DECREASE

Chief Leaders in Race to Recovery Are Steel, Textiles, Electrical and Accessory Firms

MECHANICS NEEDED

Toronto, Jan. 11. — (CP)—Relief rolls in Ontario are decreasing as manufacturing steps up its pace under the impetus of war orders, according to the weekly report of labor conditions issued today by Hon. Norman Hipel, Minister of Labor.

Brantford reported registration of unemployed is over 500 less than a year ago. Raw products are arriving and with primary departments of local iron and steel establishments showing increased activity, higher production and staff levels can be expected shortly. Supply of skilled and unskilled labor is available in the area to meet needs. Number of relief recipients shows a 40 per cent. decrease over last year.

Tobacco companies in the Chatham area have hired a number of men, and one firm expects to have a run that will last them until April. Factories dealing in automobile parts are busy.

At Guelph, textile companies in some cases are working 20 hours a day. One hat company has taken over a new plant and a felt company is also busy. Dress and iron companies are running steadily.

All steel companies in the Hamilton area are running full time, as are textile companies and a uniform cap company. Orders for domestics exceed the supply of applicants.

Skilled mechanics are in demand at a Kingston locomotive concern, while one biscuit company has also increased its staff.

Industrial conditions in some aspects are much brighter than at this time last year in the Kitchener area, with several metal working firms much busier working on indirect war orders. Difficulty in export is still hampering the rubber industry.

London reported liquid air, steel and textile companies are all busy, while shoe factories are working full time. Relief rolls show a decline of 40 per cent. over December of last year.

St. Catharines reported electrical firms busy on transformers, meters and equipment, while iron and steel concerns show improvement. Paper industries are very active, while tools and equipment required for bush, mines and automobiles are in demand.

Furniture manufacturers from Stratford have been busy preparing for the annual furniture show. One steel company has completed a carload of roller skates for England and have orders for two more carloads.

Steel mills in the Windsor area are reported quite busy but awaiting raw materials. A few highly skilled mechanics are wanted by one steel company.

A cotton mill in the Woodstock district has the highest staff in years, while textile companies are all busy. A large rubber company has ceased operations and is believed to be moving to Toronto.

Finn Machine-Gunners Safe In Pill-Boxes, Says Builder, Reap Harvest of Russian Lives

Brussels, Jan. 11—(CP Havas)—General Emile Badoux, Belgian military expert who since last April has been employed by the Finnish Government in strengthening the Mannerheim line, today described in the newspaper Le Soir the wholesale slaughter inflicted on attacking Russians by modern Finnish armaments.

"The Russian hetcatombs described every day in the Finnish communiques are real," said the general who has just returned here. "In the very modern pill-boxes I ordered constructed an observer armed with a machine gun sits in his shell. With his comrades beneath, he is invunerable. Concrete protects him as armor never protected knight. He can see but cannot be seen. He shoots through a loophole which shells cannot reach. Two flanking machine guns co-ordinate their fire with his and that of nearby blockhouses.

"All fortifications of the Mannerheim line are surrounded by very thick barbed-wire barricades. The Finnish machine-gunner lets the Russians approach, and only at 300 or even 200 yards does he open fire. It is a real harvest of human lives."

Bonarlaw

Bonarlaw — The dance held at Springbrook Orange Hall on Friday last, under the auspices of The I.O.O.F. Lodge No. 420, was well attended. Excellent music was supplied by Miss. Dorothy, Wickett, piano, and Mr. Maurice Bell, banjo. Mr. Ritchie Mason acted as floor manager. Both round and square dancing was enjoyed until about 2 a.m. An excellent lunch was provided at midnight.

The officers of Keystone Chapter R.A.M. No. 72, Stirling, were installed on Monday evening of this week by Rt. Ex. Comp C. F. Walt, assisted by Rt. Ex. Com. C. B. Bedford and Ex. Comp. G. W. Bailey. VICTORIA AVENUE BAPTIST CHURCH HAS GOOD YEAR

Rev. C. T. Olmstead Gratified With Co-operation Shown Him in First Year of Ministry in Congregation

FINANCES EXCELLENT

Spiritual as well as financial stability was evidenced at the annual business meeting and supper of Victoria Avenue Baptist Church held in the church parlors Wednesday evening.

The minister, Rev. Claude Troupe Olmstead, in reviewing the progress made during the past year and the gratifying reports from all departments, sounded a note of optimism for the year 1940. He stressed the need, during these trying times, for still greater effort along spiritual lines. The minister was appreciative of the excellent co-operation he had received from the Board of Deacons and all officers and organizations of the church during his first year as minister.

The treasurer's report showed that an amount of $6,281.94 had been raised and expenditures had been $5,890.80, leaving a balance to carry forward into 1940 of $391.14. Substantial donations were made to foreign and home Missions, Board of Religious Education, relief and other branches of Christian endeavor. It was decided to include in the budget for 1940 a maintenance item of $400 in order to completely modernize and electrify the church organ.

Several candidates for baptism and subsequent church membership were favorably received and it is expected that an additional number of young people from the Sunday school will shortly submit their profession of faith. The Sunday school superintendent, Mr. H. O. Trusdale, was lauded by the pastor for his deep concern in the spiritual welfare of the pupils in the Sunday School.

The nominating committee's recommendation covering new officers for 1940 was submitted by Mr. H. O. Trusdale and unanimously accepted by the church body, as follows:

Deacons, G. E. Dixon (chairman), R. L. Orr, F. Cook, A. Fox; Clerk, Miss C. Hitchon; Assistant Clerk, Miss E. Nurse; Corresponding Secretary, Mrs. Merry; Treasurer, Miss Mary Cook; Treasurer Parsonage Fund, Miss A. Lounsberry; Financial Secretary, Miss Lounsberry, Miss Handley; Assistant Financial Secretary, Miss Helen Thompson, Miss Dorothy Lemmon, Miss Anna Hogle; Fellowship Treasurer, Walter Neal; Decoration Committee, Wm. Hales, Mrs. Wells, Frank Cook, Violet Grant, Verna Fox; Baptismal Committee, Mrs. J. Lloyd, Mrs. E. A. Hogle, Mrs. F. Cook, Mr. C. Franklin, Mr. Ed. Burn; Sunday School Superintendent, Mr. H. O. Trusdale; Financial Board, Joe Blackburn, Stanley May, Walter Neal, Mrs. Campbell; Mission Treasurer, Mr. Ross Bush; Missionary Committee, Mrs. F. Cook, Mrs. Hogle; Com. Stewards, Arnold Wessels, Art Wynne; Chairman of Ushers, Mr. Howard Hall; Organist and Choir Leader, Mr. and Mrs. John Deacon; Music Committee, Mrs. B. Doolittle; Trustees, Stanley May (end of 1942); Visiting Committee, Mr. E. A. Hogle, Mr. Campbell, Miss F. Hitchon, Mrs. F. Cook, Miss E. Forman; Auditors, Miss Dorothy Aselstine, Mr. John Jury; Representative to V.O.N., Mrs. Burton; Publicity, Mr. Alan Haw, Mr. Geo. Dixon; Envelope Secretary, Miss Lounsberry.

RAILROADS DISORGANIZED

Cernauti, Rumania, Jan. 11 (CP-Havas).—Continued disorganization of railroads through Russian-ocupied Polish territory has caused serious difficulties for Rumanian business men.

Only four trains of goods have crossed the border since the middle of December, despite a previous agreement between Rumania and Russia allowing five trains daily to leave this country for Germany via Polish Galicia. It is not known if these four trains have yet reached their destination in the Reich.

RECRUITING SCENES TELL STORY

Recruiting scenes as enthusiastic as the greatest scenes during the first war with Germany have been observed in Toronto for the past few days. Tuesday as many as three thousand young men and some somewhat older sought entry into the army. There was a demand for a limited number of men but the would-be recruits swamped the armouries. An officer of one regiment said they could have recruited a battalion of 800 men with ease.

Never had soldiers a more righteous cause than in this day—moral cause against an enemy who stands for Nazism, the most pernicious political theory or doctrine which has been developed in centuries. It is no wonder that young Canadians flock to the recruiting depots to join in the holy war against the Nazi spirit of evil and destruction. If ever there was a just crusade it is today for Nazi principles are opposed to everything which the great mass of humanity holds dear or to which developing nations aspire.

Such scenes as witnessed at the Toronto depots are a symbol of the gathering forces of the British Empire and of the Allies. These youths represent the very soul of young Canada which abhors every semblance of tyranny, despotism, brutality, slaughter which are the marks that Nazism leaves wherever it goes.

FINLAND HAS FAITH IN LEAGUE

From one of the small nations which has the courage of a David against a Goliath comes one of the finest expressions of faith in the League of Nations. Finland's faith in the League was not misplaced for aid comes now not only in words and resolutions, guns and ammunition, to fight the aggressor and medical supplies to heal the wounded. "The world will only know how much help we are receiving when our war is ended." So spoke the Finnish representative to the League.

Though the League has been attacked in the past, it must be remembered that what was done by the main body of the League members was done sincerely in the interests of maintenance of peace.

Through the battle smoke and the roar of planes and the explosion of bombs in the two theatres of war and through the anxiety of the nations, there still looms the structure of the League. That League recently by the voice of humanity bravely declared itself when a declaration meant action in a time of war. It was no hesitant League that spoke.

Whatever comes after this war, whether it is a European federation or not, there will be trace in the world of the League of Nations, probably in a modified form after the experiences of the two decades of "peace" and the second war.

ARMY MULE AGAIN TO BE SEEN IN WAR

Once again the humble mule has been called upon to play his part in war. In spite of the fact that modern mechanized transport has been largely responsible for the movement of troops and supplies in the various war zones, the long, lop-eared friend which played such a valiant part in the conflict of 1914-18, has been found to be indispensable even in this mechanical age of speed and efficiency.

These unsung heroes of many a military campaign, faithfully plodding their way over mountain pass and through marshy morass, a bit stubborn at times, it must be admitted, but none the less efficient in their humble niches in the corridors of war, will again take their places on the chains of communications that are the lifelines of the Allied armies.

True, they will be the object of good-natured derision on the part of Tommy Atkins as he whizzes by them in tank, tractor or mechanized artillery. They will be the butt of many army jokes. But they will plod along country roads, shell-torn from bombardment and over which mechanical transport of supplies and munitions will at times be difficult.

Back in the ammunition and supply dumps they will do their part. At railheads they will tug and toss their roman-nosed heads, and at times refuse to budge, but by nightfall the army will have been served.

They will tax the tempers of their drivers. Wisdom such as the mule alone knows, will be the cause of many newly invented "army cusswords." But when the book of history is written and the names of war heroes are inscribed therein, the humble mule, no matter whence he comes, will be shown to have "done his bit" as nobly and efficiently as the latest model transport, or the most high-spirited charger.

What the mule has done in wars is a matter of history. They have been used from time immemorial and again, in this war of all wars, they will fit into the machinery of transportation, an indispensable cog. The part they will play will be no mean one in the strategy and hard work of the Allied armies.

Last week a shipment of mules for the B.E.F. arrived 'Somewhere in France'.

THE SUBJUGATOR SUBJUGATED

Russia's great army of subjugation has been subjugated by the Finns' bravery, strategy and the weather. It admits defeat and utter exhaustion in its campaign. The Soviets naturally are not very communicative in their communique.

The world waits the next act by Stalin or will it be by Hitler trying to take a part in the Scandinavian situation but with his hands full of the western front plans, the ocean warfare, his east front marked by the tracks of the Russian bear and the southeast front with the Baltic nations preparing to look after their own safety, as indicated by reports that Hungary and Rumania may compose their differences as to territory to put a crimp in any Russo-German spirations down the Danube.

The Germans are using every effort but with lack of success to break the grip of the ocean blockade. Britain is mistress of the waves.

The war is getting well on into the fifth month and soon it will be half a year since Adolf Hitler took destiny in his hands, outraged the moral tone of the world by his brutal invasion of Poland and started the train of events which have since absorbed mankind.

PRESENCE OF MIND OF A CHILD

Presence of mind is one of the greatest of possessions. It belongs to no particular age or stratum of society. The other day a boy of tender years proved a hero with presence of mind to save his mother and sisters and to drop out of the window first two more children and then himself with the baby in his arms.

There is a lad who will when he grows up be able to take care of himself. Such a youngster has the qualities which make for the real successes of life. He was practical enough and self-sacrificing enough to risk his life but he achieved his job and saved the entire family.

His main thought was the safety of those whom he loved, not of himself.

Many adults who have made success of their lives might envy with reason the rare possession this boy enjoys of the quality of being able to hold his head in times of peril. Some persons "go to pieces" when it comes to a desperate situation but others like this lad are steady.

Whence comes such inspiration? Is it due to conditions or surroundings that it is developed, is it hereditary, or is it the result of the fine example of parents? Perhaps it is a product of all these factors.

FROM FOUR CORNERS OF THE EARTH

From the four corners of the earth they come—units to fight for Britain in the war against the Nazis.

Canadians came, Australians came, then now it is Cypriot drivers and their mule transports that have come. This is the first time Cyprus units have taken positions alongside the British army.

The coming of these forces should tell the Nazis how fruitless is their war for denial of every good principle which western civilization has developed.

Daily War Survey

By The Canadian Press

If Rumania and Hungary, under the impetus of Russian threats and Italian promptings are able to settle their long-standing dispute over the province of Transylvania one of the trouble spots of the Balkans will be removed.

Hungary's grievance dates back to the settlement which followed the First Great War when its territory was reduced to one third its pre-war size, the largest loss being Transylvania. Rumania supported the Allies in that conflict but was defeated and forced to make a separate peace with Germany and Austria-Hungary. Strange though it may appear Rumania acquired territory from both its former Allies and former enemies.

In the German-dictated eastern peace pact early in 1918 Rumania was forced to give up some territory to Bulgaria and in return obtained Bessarabia from Russia. After the war ended and the Austro-Hungarian empire was broken up Rumania regained the territory surrendered to Bulgaria and acquired Transylvania from Hungary.

Hungary suffered greater territorial losses than any other country following the First Great War. Austria, Italy, Czecho-Slovakia and Yugo-Slavia, as well as Rumania obtained slices of Hungarian territory and ever since the Hungarians have kept up their demands for revision of the treaties.

A deal by which Hungary and Italy would guarantee Rumania against the loss of Bessarabia to Russia in exchange for the return of part or all of Transylvania to Hungary might go a long way towards ensuring peace in the Balkans by satisfying Hungarian national aspirations.

How the Spies Do Their Work

Governments at all times are on the alert against spies of other countries, whether potential enemies or not. In wartime not the officials of government alone but entire populations take up the watch and ward, and the lot of the spy, in the period when he is most needed, is the hardest.

In this war, as in others, the utmost ingenuity has been practised by spies in transmitting their messages. Methods do not change greatly and indeed, it sometimes happens that the simplest means prove the safest.

The only spy that is at all safe is the one who is unknown to any but a very small circle of his employers. Once a spy has become known, his every action is watched by all governments and his personal effects are subject at all times to examination.

All governments are included in this statement because it is notorious that professional spies often are devoid of patriotism and willing to work for any employer, and sometimes for two opposing camps at the same time.

x x x

Some of the ingenious systems which are being used show the tedious care with which spies attempt to make their communications. A favorite device is to use an unsuspicious container for a message. Spies adopt all manner of disguises from that of the bum and the beggar to that of the dandy and man about town.

Methods employed are suggested by the current personal character of the spy. For example, the dandy would be expected to have in his baggage elaborate toilet articles. Thus messages have been found hidden in bottles of hair lotion and in containers of face powder. The spy travels with such articles in his baggage and, when opportunity arrives, hands them over to his accomplice.

It is, for instance, a simple matter to hollow out a cake of soap and hide a message within, the soap being used meantime—but not too much.

An ingenious communication system has been uncovered whereby messages have been exchanged between the German command and spies abroad through the medium of a tradesman's catalogue.

The one discovered is the catalogue of a Dutch cigar manufacturer. The fact of Holland's neutrality is an added cover. In advance a code has been agreed upon with names of cigar brands, prices and the like standing for certain words. Marks with invisible ink are placed against these names and prices and when they are arranged they constitute the secret message. When the catalogue moves through the mails it is a wholly innocent-seeming tradesman's bid for business.

Invisible ink long has been the spy's chief ally. The ink can be carried in a tiny phial or, if even that risk is feared, it can be made on the spot with a few simple ingredients obtainable at any drug store without suspicion. What is not used can be thrown away.

An elaborate conveyance of messages is the ordinary coin. A coin is cut in two and the insides hollowed. A message on thin paper may be inserted and the coin screwed together again. The coin then may be spent at a shop, kept by a forwarder of messages, and change may be received, a coin in this change containing another message. Of course, the coin also is weighted so that no one is likely to notice any difference in weight should it fall into alien hands.

Spies have crossed borders carrying messages without number, although they have been thoroughly searched. Now it has been found that the soft collar is an excellent medium for transmitting messages written in invisible ink. The collar looks innocent enough, but, when it is subjected to heat or other proper treatment, the message appears.

One of the most fascinating secret transmissions ever discovered was that of the botany enthusiast in the last Great War. The German spy in this case posed as a naturalist. He had a correspondent in neutral Holland. The letters exchanged were apparently wholly innocent, filled with gossip about the botanical hobby which captivated both writers. The man in England would inclose in letters leaves of trees, and, more often, sketches of leaves for the instruction of his Dutch friend.

Meantime, the British were greatly perplexed by the steady leakage of important military information, particularly concerning naval bases. Purely by chance, guided by some sort of hunch, a leaf inclosed in one of these letters and a sketch of another were subjected to especially close scrutiny. The sketch purported to show how insect pests preyed on the leaf. It was revealed that the shape of the leaf was almost exactly the shape of an important harbor and that the insects drawn on the leaf represented warships, while marks were mines.

Though censors closely examine mail coming from and going to all countries in wartime, and scrutinize with special care the mail of persons suspected in the remotest degree, messages constantly are slipping through. The examination of mail is a stupendous task at best and it is hardly to be expected that the postage stamp of every letter will be removed, especially if there is no reason to suspect the missive. Yet it has been found that spies have written messages, in invisible ink, on the small space to be covered by the stamp.

Spies are eminently clever and counter-spies must be even more so to be successful. The secret services of all principal European nations boast many experts and the game goes now to one side, now to the other. In time of war there is almost universal suspicion, most of it misplaced as against the suspected individuals, and yet there is no doubting the existence of many secret agents.

THAT BODY OF YOURS

By James W. Barton, M.D.

Your Liver Has Many Jobs to do

For a number of years I wrote about the liver almost once a month because it is rightly called the 'king of the organs'. I tried to point out how the liver filtered poisons out of the blood, helped to make blood, manufactured bile which is a natural purgative, and stored sugar for future use. I tried to point out also that if anything interfered with any of these jobs done by the liver, the whole body would suffer.

As we think of the heart we realise that it has but one job—pumping the blood, the stomach rolls the food around so it can mix with the stomach digestive juice, the kidneys take wastes out of the blood and pass them down in the urine to the bladder, the small intestine absorbs nourishment from the food and passes it into the blood stream. That is, every organ has one or two jobs to do. Dr. Robert G. Contrell, Englewood, N.J., in Clinical Medicine and Surgery says

"Not so with the liver for there is hardly a part of the body that is not directly or indirectly affected by the functioning or working of this large gland."

"It is conservatively stated that the liver has from sixty to one hundred distinct activities, and that every other important system—circulation, digestive, nervous and others—is definitely influenced by the activities of the liver."

All the blood from the digestive apparatus—stomach and intestine—is carried to the liver to be filtered and cleared of harmful substances before it goes back to the heart to be sent to lungs and thence to the heart to be sent to all parts of the body. The blood must not only get rid of carbon dioxide and be enriched with oxygen by means of the lungs but before it can do all its work of building and maintaining the various tissues, it is made fit by the liver to destroy harmful products in other fluids of the body.

It has been long said that life depends upon the liver; it might well be said that "your everyday health depends on the liver".

Importance of Pasteurization In Cheese-Making Stressed

Important Point in Preventing Fruity or Off-Flavor Cheese Says Dairyman

PRODUCTION DOWN

London, Ont., Jan. 11—(CP)—Importance of pasteurization in cheese-making was stressed today by Frank Herns, Secretary-Treasurer of the Dairymen's Association of Western Ontario, in an address to delegates attending the association's 73rd annual convention.

Eighty-five per cent of the 79 factories operating in Western Ontario are now pasteurizing whey, said Mr. Herns, who is also Chief Provincial Dairy instructor for the territory.

"Pasteurization is an important point in preventing fruity and off-favor cheese," said Mr. Herns. "It has been noticed each year that where, even for a short period, the whey which is to be returned to the milk cans, was neglected to be pasteurized, objectionable flavors were soon noticed in the cheese."

When tanks were cleaned thoroughly and pasteurization resumed, he continued, flavor difficulties usually disappeared "except when cans were at fault or there was gross carelessness in the handling and cooling of milk at farms."

Chief defect in Western Ontario cheese in 1939 again was "flavor," he said, adding that the flavor defects were confined to few factories. Last year, Western Ontario produced 14,807,000 pounds of cheese, a decrease of about 9.5 per cent from 1938. High mark of the last four years was 17,383,000 pounds in 1937.

Mr. Herns said that Western Ontario's record of producing 2,081,572 boxes of cheese graded from 1928 to 1939 inclusive, was "excellent, but it is imperative that we keep this high standard for 1940."

The Federal Graders' report showed Western Ontario graded 150,151 boxes of cheese in 1939, of which 96.21 per cent was first grade. Cheesemakers' clubs were organized in two more centres in 1939, Woodstock and Listowel.

Mr. Herns estimated the value of improvements to Western Ontario cheese factories last year at $63,000.

BASKETBALL

In an exhibition basketball game played at Albert College last evening the Air Force intermediate "A" quintette of the O.B.A. defeated the "Collegians" 51 to 14.

Fortified by additional playing strength from other R.C.A.F. units, players who have arrived at the Trenton Air Base of a recent date, showed much cage knowledge as Coach Cross' Flyers took an early game lead and mounted the score in a practice game. The Flyers' O.B.A. schedule opens with the Air Force at Queens on Friday night.

The line-ups: Albert College — Woolley, Partridge 2, Moulden 6, Powell 2, Hetherington, Weaver 4, Christian Pascoe, Burley, Jones, Chamberlain and Hawkinson. R. C. A. F. "Flyers"—McCann 6, Pallis 2, Bailey 7, Power 4, Carson 10, VerKerk, Cutting 4, Snow 4, Williams 2, Irvine 10, Barrett and Monson 2.

MEMBERS EXPECT LONG SESSION OF LEGISLATURE

Administration of Timber Resources Now Being Probed by Committee

CROLL WELCOMED

Toronto, Jan. 11—(CP)— Members anticipated a long session of the Ontario Legislature today as, the formalities of opening over, they buckled down to work.

The committee appointed to investigate administration of timber resources in the Province began sessions with Hon. Peter Heenan, Minister of Lands and Forests, as a new member. Mr. Heenan was named by Premier Mitchell Hepburn yesterday to succeed Hon. Colin Campbell, Minister of Public Works, who has joined the Royal Canadian Engineers as a lieutenant.

The only other Member of the Legislature who has joined the army, Mayor David Croll of Windsor, was congratulated by the Premier as the House opened. Mr. Hepburn coupled his wishes to the Member for Windsor-Walkerville with a belief that the Canadian people are not "taking the war seriously enough."

"I look for a long war—a horrible, bloody, brutal war—and I look for more vacant seats when this House meets again," Mr. Hepburn said.

Ontario Ready

The Premier said it was needless to pledge Ontario's wholehearted effort to the war cause.

"So far as the leader of the Canadian Government is concerned," the Premier said in reference to Prime Minister Mackenzie King, "I have not yet been able to provoke him into an open quarrel, although I have tried to do so with great dexterity on several occasions."

Replying to the Premier's allusion to the Prime Minister, the Conservative Leader, Lieut.-Col. George A. Drew, said his "only regret" was that Mr. Hepburn had not succeeded in "arousing the Prime Minister of Canada."

The first bill before the House, now standing for second reading, was brought in by Attorney-General Gordon Conant. It would extend to members of the Royal Canadian Air Force the immunity from jury service that is granted soldiers and sailors.

Early Legislation Expected

It is expected the House will receive early legislation to empower the government to enter into an agreement with the Dominion Government for the St. Lawrence seaway and power development project The legislation will not, it is expected, deal with specific details of the project, but will simply give the government power to go ahead. The seaway is now the subject of negotiation between Canadian and United States Governments.

Tabled after the speech from the throne was read by Lieutenant-Governor Albert Matthews was an interim report by the Ontario Cancer Commission. While unable to make a finding that any substance or method of treatment investigated has been proved to be a cure or remedy, the Commission recommended particuarly that investigations of "Ensol" under Doctors W. T. Connell and E. P. Johns at Kingston be continued.

BLOW-FOR-BLOW STRATEGY TAKEN BY GREAT BRITAIN

Swift Retaliation for German Air Attacks on British Shipping

London, Jan. 11 (CP)—A strategy of blow-for-blow aerial warfare was seen today in Great Britain's swift retaliation for German air attacks on her shipping.

Accounts of the large scale Royal Air Force raid on the German island of Sylt yesterday still more incomplete, but observers regarded them as a sign of Britain's readiness to strike back hard against Nazi bombings.

London newspapers said up to 50 British and German warplanes engaged in a day-long fight over the fringe of islands on the northwest German coast yesterday but official sources said these reports exceeded the facts.

Observers noted, however, that the big sea-air battle over Heligoland last December 18 was not recognized as "the greatest air battle in history" until some time later when the air ministry disclosed that 80 to 100 planes were involved.

The ministry confined its account of yesterday's aerial operations to a terse communique reporting another North Sea battle with one British and one German plane shot down and another German plane forced to land in Denmark.

These operations were acknowledged generally as a direct reply to the German air attack on merchant ships and fishing boats along the English east coast Tuesday.

On Reconnaisance Flight.

Amplifying the sketchy communique, an informed source said the British planes were on a reconnaissance flight over the North Sea about 200 miles from home when German fighters dived in an attack with the sun at their backs.

"Even the heaviest close-range attacks were successfully beaten off by our aircraft keeping 'shoulder-to-shoulder' in tight formation," it was revealed.

After about half an hour of fighting the British fliers pressed on 130 miles further—exactly the distance to Sylt.

It was disclosed that the Royal Air Force bombers struck at the Sylt seaplane base first about 1 a.m. on Wednesday, after a lapse of time hardly more than that needed to fly there after the full extent of the German air attacks on shipping became known.

The same thing happened in the Dec. 18 fight when a mass air raid on Heligoland was prompt British answer to German air attacks on North Sea trawlers.

Met Four Times.

Apparently British and German fliers met four times, at least, yesterday—three times between dawn and dusk over Sylt and once at sea, above Heligoland Bight.

The Air Ministry said one British plane was lost in a 30-minute running fight "far out over the North Sea" when an R.A.F. formation drove off a number of German long range fighters and continued "to the easterly limit of its reconnaissance" and back. The Germans said three out of nine British planes, Bristol "Blenheim" bombers, had been shot down.

The Air Ministry said it could not confirm reports from southwest Denmark that a bomb had struck the seven-mile-long Hindenburg dam causeway connecting Sylt with the mainland.

An Air Force official, however, said it was "quite possible".

Little Benny's Note Book

After supper ma was walking around pushing crooked things straight and straight things crooked, and she looked out the bay window, saying to pop, Willyum come here and look at this moon.

Wich one? pop said without getting out of his private chair, and ma said, Now Willyum dont be cynical. I remember a certain moon not even as bewtiful as this that you wrote a pome to me about, once upon a time. I even remember the first 2 lines and how they went, it started, Abashed before my fair one's face, the moon hides her own in a fleecy cloud, ma said.

That's right, by gollies, I remember the next 2, pop said. The next 2 went, Dont move the benches from their place, and picking the flowers is not allowed he said, and ma said, Nothing of the kind and you know it. I'll never forget that moonlit night on Lake Russet. We were in a canoe, you and I and Horace Entwhisle, he was playing his guitar, and you were trying to drown out his effect by pretending to sing grand opera. You wanted me to think you were clowning but what you really were was just jelliss, she said.

What, of that frizzy headed palooka, if I'd been jelliss of him I'd of overturned the canoe and saved your life and left him to his own devices, because he couldn't swim a stroke, pop said, and ma said, His hair was naturelly wavy and not frizzy thank you, and if he couldn't even swim how did it happen he took all those meddles for perfect diving?

Because he was a naturel crook, pop said, and ma said, Now just for that I'll tell you some news. Horace Entwhisle in person is right here in town on a business trip and he telephoned today and he wants to come up for dinner any night that's convenient to us.

There's no such night on the callender, pop said, and ma said, Now Willyum yes there is and you might as well reconcile your mind to it.

Wich he proberly might as well.

Mrs. T. H. Crozier, Forin St., entertained at a delightfully arranged trousseau tea yesterday in honour of her daughter, Miss Athol Crozier, bride-to-be of this week. Mrs. Crozier received with her daughter. The living room was beautiful with pink and white carnations and the same dainty color scheme was caried out in the decoration of the dining room. The tea table was centred with pink and white snapdragons and matching tapers. Mrs. Arthur May poured tea Miss Helen May and Miss Jean Crozier assisted in serving. Mrs. E. Black of Toronto, and Miss Helen Chant showed the trousseau to the guests.

Mr. Thomas Ford of Milton, Ontario, father of Mr. Elgin Ford, manager of the Walker Stores, Belleville, passed away on Sunday after a brief illness, in his 79th year. Mr. and Mrs. Ford and Miss Isobel went to Milton for the obsequies, returning to Belleville on Wednesday afternoon.

WEDDINGS

WORSICK—TICE

A very pretty wedding took place at Maple Street Church parsonage Halifax, on December 30th., 1939, when Evelyn, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Tice of Belleville, Ontario, became the bride of Sergeant George Roger Worsick, R.C.A.F., son of Captain and Mrs. W. Worsick of Winnipeg. Rev. Neary officiated at the ceremony in the presence of a number of friends of the young couple.

The bride was a charming picture in a street length dress of teal blue and wine-berry accessories. She wore a corsage of Talisman roses and sweet peas. Attending her was Mrs. Reah Nickolas wearing a grey dress with black accessories and corsage of roses. The groomsman was L.A.C. Harry Dole, R.C.A.F. of Winnipeg.

Sergt. and Mrs. Worsick will make their home at 4 Sinclair St., Dartmouth.

SALEM W.M.S.

The January meeting of Salem W.M.S. was held on Wednesday, 10th., at the home of Mrs. James Cole with a good attendance. The president opened the meeting with a hymn followed with the Lord's Prayer in unison. The Scripture Lesson was read by Mrs. T. Leslie Mrs. Sills read the annual report. The allocation of $80 was met with free-will offering. Plans were made for the S.S. convention to be held in the church.

The theme of the program was, "The World's Outlook for Jesus", with Mrs. L. McLaren as leader and responses by Mrs. Milligan, Mrs. Haight, Mrs. O. Hagerman, Mrs. B. Sherman and Mrs. J. Sills. Mrs. Helen McKeene expressed appreciation for the remembrance sent during her illness.

Mrs. Clifford Hagerman then took charge of the program. Readings were contributed by Mrs. B. Sherman "A Clean Heart". Mrs. Sills—"A New Year's Message" Hymn 86 was sung. Readings "A Mother's Prayer" by Mrs. S. Haight and Mrs. Cole followed. After the closing hymn was sung, the Benediction was pronounced by the president.

ST. JOHN'S MISSION

The ladies of the Guild held their weekly meeting at the home of Mrs. Gannon. The president was in the chair. The meeting opened with the hymn "O Jesu, I have Promised", followed by prayer and collect The Epistle was read in unison.

The afternoon was spent in sewing and a dainty lunch was served by the hostess and her daughter. The meeting closed with a hymn and prayer. The ladies thanked their hostesses for a pleasant afternoon.

Evening Branch, Christ Church W. A., Elects Officers

The annual meeting with election of officers of the Evening Branch of Christ Church W.A., took place in the vestry, Monday evening, January eighth. The meeting was opened by the President, Mrs. E. Smith.

The Red Cross group, of which Mrs. W. I. Cole is president, is greatly pleased with the fine success of the concert. It is interesting to note that one of the ladies taking part, Mrs. Putnam had formerly been active in war work in England for which she received her service medal.

ENGINEER ESCAPES WATERY GRAVE FOR SECOND TIME

Hamilton, Jan. 11 (CP) —The second time since war broke out, Alex Kinnaird, aged 28, brother of Mrs. George Thevithick of Hamilton, has escaped a watery grave due to a combination of good fortune and British seamanship.

Second engineer aboard the Rothesay Castle, which struck a reef of fthe west coast of Scotland today, and is believed to be breaking up, he was rescued along with other members of the crew and the passengers. The 7,016-ton liner was pursued for four hours by a German submarine last October on her trip back to Britain from South Africa, after a tanker that had been proceeding alongside her had been sunk by torpedoes.

Advice to the Lovelorn

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

All She Needed Was a Little Indifference

Dear Miss Fairfax

I cared for a certain boy, but he showed his affection for me so openly that I soon tired of him and gave him back his ring. I did not see him for a week and then I went ice-skating, and saw him at the rink. He was with one girl all evening, and didn't pay a bit of attention to me, and now I find that I am very much in love with him. The only time I see him is on the night I go skating, which is once a week.

What can I do to win him back? He has my photograph; do you think I should ask him to return it?

Waiting

The old, old story "Blessings brighten as they take their flight". Perhaps if you have patience, this young man may get over his 'mad' But going out steadily with the other girl doesn't look wholly favorable.

And then, do you really care for this boy, when your only reason for dropping him was because he showed his affection so openly? Isn't it just a flash of jealousy that makes you confuse your feeling for him, when you see him with another girl?

There is a tremendously valuable lesson to all girls in this one's experience. Be sure of your feelings before you give back the ring. You may ask him to give back the photograph, if you're sure he does not wish to become reconciled.

He'd Like to Get Acquainted With a Certain Girl

Dear Miss Fairfax

I'm still in high school, 16 years old. My worst fault is that I'm very bashful when around girls. I've met a very nice girl about my own age, who interests me greatly. I met her at a school affair, and a week later called her on the phone and we had the nicest conversation and I liked her immensely.

I closed our talk with "I'll see you at school tomorrow and we'll finish our conversation," but when I saw her next day I became tongue-tied and passed by her as if I had never seen her before. I'd really like to get better acquainted with this girl —just a plain friendship. But how can I do it? Don't you think it's just bashfulnes swhich makes me act this way?

That's all it is, my dear, one of those little complexes that cause so many lonely hours. The worst part of it is if you don't conquer it while you're young, it may spoil much happiness. And it's so easy to snap out of bashfulness. All you have to do is have a straight "heart-to-heart" talk with yourself and say that the next time you meet this young lady you are going straight up to her, with a confident smile, and say you've been hoping to see her again. Ask her how she made out in her tests, for instance. That will be a good ice-breaker and you might even suggest taking in a movie, or a football or basketball game. Best of luck to you.

Ignored His Girl Friend at the Outing

Dear Miss Fairfax

The other evening I went to a party at the ice-skating rink with a lot of other boys and girls who are somewhat older than I am, My boy friend was there too. Before the affair was over he completely fell for the older set and ignored me. There was no reason for him to act that way. I haven't seen him since.

Do you think I ought to drop him and get interested in someone else? I have plenty of dates or chances for dates. I believe his conscience is hurting him now, from what my girl friends tell me. How can I win him back, if you think I'd better not drop him?

Marvel

Boys are like that, sometimes. An under classman at college is often honored if a junior or senior will condescend to snub him. At least, the snub conveys that the mighty senior is aware that there are such things as freshmen. It must have been something like that which impelled your boy friend to ignore you for the older members of your party. If you have heard that his conscience hurts him, why not let him do the 'winning back?' It's up to him, rather than to you.

Mother and Daughter

Including $50 First Prize at Orillia

● They're a hard team to beat, these Osmonds. Mrs. Bert has been famous around Beaverton for years and daughter Dora follows right in her mother's footsteps. Last year they won a total of twenty-three prizes for baking and the big thrill came when Dora captured the $50.00 first prize for bread at a contest sponsored by Robin Hood Flour Mills.

"We're particular about our flour," says Mrs. Osmond

"We tried about every brand of flour there is before we discovered Robin Hood. But that first baking with Robin Hood was a revelation! Better flavoured bread—better texture—beautiful colour—and one whole extra baking from a 98 lb. bag. Robin Hood was our flour from then on."

With Robin Hood the Osmonds have won prizes for bread, chocolate cakes, angel cakes, pies, shortbread and all kinds of fancy baking. This great flour milled from washed wheat is All-Purpose—best for everything you bake. And in every bag there's a guarantee that if Robin Hood doesn't please you better than any other flour milled in Canada, every cent you paid will be refunded—with an extra 10% for your trouble. Once again I urge you—use Robin Hood and find out how good a cook you really are!

Sincerely,
Evangeline

KISS YOUR TIRED FEELING GOODBYE!

Pepless Many Suffer Low Blood Count—And Don't Know It.

The baffling thing about low blood count is that you can weigh about as much as you ever did — even look healthy and strong, yet — you can feel as if you had lead in your legs, dopey, tired and pepless.

Low blood count means you haven't got enough red blood corpuscles. It is their vital job to carry life-giving oxygen from your lungs throughout your body. And just as it takes oxygen to explode gasoline in your car and make the power to turn the wheels, so you must have plenty of oxygen to explode the energy in your body and give you going power.

Get Dr. Williams Pink Pills today. They are world-famous for the help they give in increasing the number and strength of red corpuscles. Then with your blood count up, you'll feel like bounding up the stairs as if you were floating on air. Ask your druggist for Dr. Williams Pink Pills today.

40 BOMBS FAIL TO HIT SHIP

Nazi Fliers Machine-Gun Survivors of Another Ship When They Take to Life Boats

London, Jan. 11 —(CP)— Forty bombs were aimed at the 1,146-ton British steamship Northwood in the North Sea Tuesday, it was announced yesterday.

The German bombers did not score a singe hit. The attack was one of more than a dozen on British and neutral ships during the day.

Another vessel attacked was the 1,000-ton Upminster, three of whose crew of 10 were killed. Survivors said they were machine-gunned when they took to the lifeboats. The ship was kept afloat by her bulkheads.

AUSTRALIANS ORGANIZE FOR EMPIRE AIR PLAN

First Recruits, Wireless Operators, Will Begin Training Next Week

By J. E. Holdsworth
(Canadian Press Correspondent)

Sydney, Australia, Jan. 11 — (CP Cable)—The Australian organization for the Empire Air scheme is rapidly taking shape in the field personnel.

The first recruits, who are to be wireless operators, begin training next week. They will be followed after a short interval by another batch while by March it is expected that scores of pilots, observers and gunners will be in training.

Two officers are leaving shortly for England to expedite the delivery of aircraft which it is believed are held up by a shortage of shipping space.

It is understood that a £1,000,000 ($3,500,000) company is being formed to manufacture aircraft of British and American design in Sydney. The company, which anticipates full production by the end of the year, expects a government contract for trainers to be used in Empire scheme.

Industrialist's Son Suffers Loss of Eye In Hockey Match

Boston, Jan. 11 (AP) — Pierre Amyot, of Quebec, wealthy Canadian industrialist's son, who suffered the loss of an eye and a serious brain injury in a Harvard University intramural hockey game Monday, was in critical condition today at Massachusetts General

In a desperate effort to save the 19-year-old athlete's life, two specialists removed the eye and performed the brain operation. Hospital attaches said the youth was semiconscious at times, but could not talk.

Movie Shorts Will Illustrate Canadians' Duty

Ottawa, Jan. 11.—(CP)—First of a series of motion picture shorts designed to bring home to Canadian people the responsibilities Canada has taken up as a belligerent nation was given a preview today and will be exhibited in 700 theatres across Canada starting Friday.

Primarily an invitation to Canadian people to invest in the first National War Loan which opens Monday, the theme of the picture is "Modern War is Total War."

"Make your dollars fight for freedom" is the slogan of the government.

Laborers, farmers, woodsmen, skilled craftsmen and business men are pictured as they go about their daily tasks and make their plans for participation in the loan.

ALL IS BRIGHT

By Eleanor Browne

Star shook her head. Perhaps she could make it easier for Gloria by telling her about Barton Underwood. She had an intense desire to talk it over with someone. Surely Gloria would understand.

"I was thinking about someone else entirely." She smiled at her roommate. "Barton Underwood."

Gloria was astonished at Star's answer. Instantly her mind flashed back to Star's interest in Stuart—to the day she had seen her with Barton and Elise in Cartagena.

"Yes?" Her voice was encouraging.

"You—you see," Star said hesitantly, "he asked me to m-marry him. I haven't said yet whether I will or not."

Gloria's mind was working swiftly. Alternately she reproached herself for wasting time on Kent, a penniless doctor, and gave Star grudging credit for winning Barton Underwood. Star had been after bigger game—and had captured it.

Gloria asked cautiously, "Of course you're going to accept?"

"I—I haven't decided," Star said untruthfully. Gloria was no longer jealous; Star's purpose was accomplished. But she wasn't going to say that she would marry Barton.

"But, Star, I'm sure you'd be happy. He's really terribly wealthy." To Gloria a happy marriage meant plenty of money.

"I suppose so," Star said indifferently.

"But don't you care? No, I suppose you don't. When you have a fortune yourself—"

"I haven't, Gloria. I haven't any money, not really. I said that because— Well, it doesn't matter now. Anyway, I was just pretending. At the time I really had a good reason for saying what I did."

"If it isn't so, what do you do? How did you come to take this trip? Where did you get the money and the clothes?"

"Oh, it isn't that bad. I—I'm just a small-town librarian," Star explained. "A children's librarian. That's why I found Stuart so interesting. I really like children. And I came on this trip because—well, because my uncle had died. That part of what I said was true. And I had saved a little money."

"You said you knew Kent before," Gloria remembered. "I suppose you made that up too," she added.

"I knew of him," Star admitted. "And I had met him when we both were quite young. You see, it's rather complicated. Kent's uncle adopted me. Naturally, staying at home I heard about Kent. But I guess he never heard about me. Anyway, he doesn't know who I am and you won't tell, will you?"

"Of course not," Gloria promised absently.

CHAPTER XIX

Gloria's mind was already far from Star and her problems. She was wondering how she could turn Barton Underwood's attention to herself. How foolish she had been! She had accepted Star's statement at face value. Now that she knew the girl was not wealthy it all became clear. Star had deliberately hooked Barton Underwood. Star Sandringham—a pauper, an acknowledged pretender—was on the point of marrying the most eligible man on the boat!

But Gloria was not one to let a little thing like that discourage her. It was never too late to try. If Barton Underwood was looking for companionship she would see that he got it. Not from a silly small-town librarian, but from a sophisticated woman of the world.

She must see Kent and tell him he was free. She smiled as she thought of how glad he would be to hear that. She could even afford to be sweet and resigned about it. No need to make an enemy of him. Gloria arched an eyebrow carefully, feeling happier by the minute. Let Kent have his fun. Let him make love to the simple small-town librarian. It would leave Barton Underwood all the more willing to seek the company of a sympathetic and lonely blonde.

"I'm getting passes to the Strangers' Club," Coates said briskly. "I thought you might enjoy seeing that. Afterward we can look in at the various cabarets."

"Am I invited to accompany you?" Star's eyes were dancing as she looked at the slim foppish man beside her. She found his assumption that they would go ashore together quite amusing, since he hadn't mentioned it to her before she was dressed and ready to go. Coates tried to match her lightness of tone although he had been increasingly serious of late.

"It's customary in Cristobal for a charming and beautiful lady to have some gentleman with her when she visits the night spots," he announced.

"Indeed!" Star said in mock surprise.

"Oh, yes indeed! I meant to have engraved invitations sent to you asking if I might have the honor of your company—"

"It's too bad you didn't."

"Too bad? You mean you aren't going ashore?"

"I didn't say that," Star explained. "I am going ashore to the Strangers' Club. I believe, and the night spots, as you call them. But I have already accepted Mr. Underwood's invitation to do the town. As a matter fo fact here he comes with Elise."

The two were chattering together like old friends and Star smiled up at them as they joined her. Elise was dressed in a grey chiffon that was pleated in soft folds to the waist, and then billowed out in great circular petals to the floor. She looked completely happy; her eyes, as they rested on the tall distinguished man beside her were bright and sparklig. Barton looked please, too. Star had a momentary pang of regret that she would have to spoil his evening.

"This isn't fair," Coates was protesting. "You contract to escort the two smartest looking women ashore and I have to barge around alone."

"They do look pretty, don't they? Barton's eyes rested appreciatively on the two smiling women beside him. "Well, that's life, my boy. You have nothing, I have everything, that's the way it goes."

Star laughed. She had never seen Barton in a more jubilant mood. But Elise said quickly. "It does seem a shame to leave Mr. Coates here alone."

Barton put a hand on an elbow of each and started toward the ladder. The other passengers were already filing down, the women's jewels sparkling and the men's shirt fronts gleaming in the light. Star felt again that thri she had had the first night aboard. It was so gay, such a glorious adventure, and best of all, she was part of it.

She caught a glimpse of Gloria and Kent already walking down the concrete pier below. Gloria's lavender dress was blowing in the wind—she looked very pretty. For the first time during the trip Gloria seemed to be her old self, smart and poised and attractive. Star wondered what had caused the change, and sighed as she realized it was probably because of their talk yesterday afternoon.

Coates, dogging her footsteps, almost stepped on a fold of her dress. "I'm not going to let you out of my sight," he threatened. "I'll just trail right along and sit at the next table."

"Is that man here again?" Barton asked impatiently. Elise gently disengaged her arm.

"I think we've treated him shamefully," she declared. She stepped back and laid her hand on Coates' arm. "After all, he's a fellow passenger."

Star found everyone in the same holiday mood. She mentioned it to Barton, wondering if it was because of the Christmas season. But Coates assured that Cristobal was the playground of the Caribbean and that everyone always "made a night of it" in this port.

"It's the only one where the ship stays overnight,, you know," he added. "You can sleep late tomorrow morning unless you're going to drive over to Panama to see the Canal."

Star had already decided she couldn't afford that part of the trip. She had suddenly realized that her glorious three weeks were half over and that in a little while she would be returning to Milford, or looking for another job. Besides, distance had lent enchantment to "Uncle" Ezra's relatives and she wanted to buy each one of them a little gift before she returned home .

As they drew up before the Strangers' Club, Elise gave a little cry of dismay. "Is this it?"

Barton turned questioningly to Coates who nodded and helped Elise from the car. They looked at the frame building—not very different, Star thought, from some of the larger houses in Milford. Elise voiced her thoughts.

"But we've seen such grand hotels in the most unlikely places. It's odd that the one you hear most about should be so unpretentious."

Inside, the place was even more like a private residence. There was carpet instead of the usual tile and a staircase rose steeply in front of them. Coates led them up to a huge room open on all sides to soft summery night. An orchestra played provocatively and the large dance floor was a shifting sea of color against the background of the men's summer dress suits. It wasn't what they had expected, but it had a charm of its own, Star decided.

They found a table, but Star was not allowed to sit down. Barton liked to dance and the orchestra was good. They laughed together at the difficulty of finding their "land legs" on the dance floor.

"It just doesn't seem right to dance without having the floor heave under you, does it?"

Barton smiled down at her. "Do you know that this is the happiest night I've had in a long time?" he asked. "And you're the most beautiful person on this floor. You look lovely in white. You ought to wear it always—or no," he contradicted himself, "every color you wear seems to be your best when you have it on."

Star blushed and smiled at him. He was so charming and gay tonight. She wondered if any girl had ever been so happy before. But she did not want him to go on hoping. He deserved to know her answer at once. "Barton—I—we've got to talk somewhere."

He glanced down at her suddenly serious face and nodded. "Later. We'll leave Coates and Elise to strike out for themselves."

Kent and Gloria danced past them and called a greeting. Kent seemed to be having a good time and Gloria was all smiles, especially when she looked at Barton.

"She's a friendly little thing," Barton commented. Star was amazed, but she nodded in agreement. She would never have thought of describing Gloria in just that way. But she gave it only a passing thought. Kent and Gloria had evidently settled their misunderstanding at last.

The misunderstanding, if Star had only know, had been settled by Gloria's statement that she was not going to marry him. Kent, too, had stared at her for a moment as if he could hardly believe his ears. "You don't want to marry me?"

"No, my precious lamb." There was a shade of irritability in Gloria's voice. "Don't act so surprised. It isn't the first time that I've de- Oh, Kent, don't think too harshly cided against it, but it is the last. of me." Her voice trembled effectively. "I came on this trip expecting it to be our honeymoon. Naturally I was disappointed and—and upset to find you no longer cared. I—I didn't know what to do. I wanted to hurt you."

She smiled at him with eyes that were misted. He reached over and patted her hand. "You're a grand girl, Gloria," he admitted generously. He looked across at Star. The desire to get up and go to her at once and say, "I'm free!" was hard to conquer.

Gloria followed his glance, but she looked instead at Barton. He didn't seem particularly attentive, she mused. There must still be time to turn his need for feminine companionship to her own advantage. "It's Star?" she asked.

Kent nodded. "You're her roommate," he said eagerly. "Why doesn't she like me? Do you think there's someone else? Has she talked about anyone?"

Gloria had no intention of making the road easier for her rival. Her reply was a vague, "She's hard to understand."

HEATING HINTS

by James Stewart

IN A recent letter a reader asks: "What is the most important thing to look for when the furnace has a good fire in it but the rooms are not warm enough?"

There is one "thing" that will always account for such a condition, but there are at least thirty "things" that may be wrong in a case like this. Some of these things may be quickly and easily remedied by a man who is handy around the house; others require more specialized skill. Some of the faults may be easily located, while others may pass unnoticed unless the man seeking them is familiar with heating systems.

Sometimes the Check Damper is in the wrong place; or the Turn Damper handle may have slipped, giving a false position of the damper; or the regulator may be improperly adjusted; or there may be an excessive amount of fly ash in the smoke-pipe or on the boiler surfaces; or the radiators may be improperly pitched; or the draft may be impeded. Perhaps a loose bolt, or rusty joint may be the cause of wasted heat. All of these things can be quickly adjusted by a competent service man. (13

Leukaemia in Children

There are a few diseases that strike children about which we can do very little, and one of these is leukaemia.

Leukaemia is an infection of the blood sometimes referred to as cancer of the bloodstream. It is much more common among adults than among children, but when it does strike a child there is less chance of recovery.

As you most likely know, there are two types of cells in the blood, the red cells and the white. Red cells are more numerous in the blood, about five million per cubic millimetre of blood. They give that fluid its color and their function is to see that adequate oxygen is carried from the lungs to the tissues.

The white cells are much less numerous, five to ten thousand in a millimetre of blood. They have to do with control of infections and in some infections, these cells increase to five or ten times the ordinary number. White cells are of several different types, chief among them being the polymorphonuclear, or large cells with more than one nucleus, and the lymphocytes—smaller cells with only one nucleus.

In leukaemia it is these white cells that are stricken. It may affect the lymphocytes and then it is called lymphatic leukaemia, or it may be the larger cells in which case it goes by the unpronounceable name, splenomyelogenous leukaemia. Stripped of their formidable names, both of these means that the cells have lost control. More and more cells are produced, and they are often irregular in shape and size and they lose the function for which they are intended.

When this condition occurs, a healthy person will become pale and wan within a couple of weeks and he will have no energy. In a child this is followed quickly by haemorrhages. The bleeding may be from the nose, or the throat, or from almost any part of the body. This bleeding, together with the destruction of the red cells by the rampaging whites, naturally makes the patient paler and more anaemic than ever.

At this stage blood transfusions are given, often in great number. This is done in an attempt to keep the blood cells up somewhere the normal number, but it is well to keep in mind the fact that in most cases the only use of these transfusions is to keep the patient from dying of anaemia for it is extremely rare to find that they have any curative effect.

In older persons, it has been found that X-ray treatment can be used to help conquer the anaemia. But if the patient is a child who has an acute case of the disease, the X-ray treatments may do harm. In the last few years there have been a variety of extracts developed that have been reputed to help in cases of leukaemia. It is unwise to place too much trust in any of them because none of them has proven helpful in all cases.

In the case of the young child, there isn't much you can do. In fact it is almost a foregone conclusion that a child with an acute attack of leukaemia will not live for more than a month after the symptoms are capable of being diagnosed, and doctors should so inform parents. I know this is a dificult duty for a doctor to do, but I am convinced that it is more humane than to attempt to cheer up parents with false hopes about miracle cures. I know of no more pathetic sight in conection with the practise of medicine than the sight of the distraught parents of an incurably sick child going from one unproven remedy to another, their hopes alternately lifted and dashed, their hearts broken a dozen times instead of once.

Lew Ayres, Greer Garson (lovely Mrs. Chips), and Robert Taylor in the uproarious romantic comedy, "Remember" now on the Belle screen with Fay Bainter, Edmund Lowe and Genevieve Tobin in "Our Neighbors The Carters."

William Lavender Appointed Constable Of Marmora Village

Marmora, Jan. 11.—William Lavender was appointed village constable at the meeting of Marmora Village Council held on Monday evening. He succeeds Percy Gray who has enlisted for military service. There were eleven applicants for the position.

Mrs. Hamilton Crawford left on Thursday for a visit in Florida. She will be accompanied by her daughter, Mrs. T. Bridges of Boston.

The regular monthly meeting of the Holy Name Society, held in the Separate School on Monday evening, took the form of a farewell party to one of the members, Kevin Cummings, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Cummings. Kevin has joined the Royal Canadian Navy and leaves on Wednesday morning for Vancouver, B.C. The largely attended meeting opened with prayer led by Rev. H. J. Farrell followed by roll call and the reading of the minutes of the last meeting. The members joined in singing "O Canada", and other songs followed by a very interesting talk by J. A. Paquet on "Stellite". A prayer book and Rosary were presented to Kevin by members of the Holy Name Society, and a pair of gloves from Rev. Father Farrell. After more singing, bingo was enjoyed for a short time after which the meeting was brought to a close with prayer and singing of "God Save the King". Mr. Percy Gray and Mrs. J. W. Hickey, representing Marmora Legion No. 237 then presented Kevin with a wrist watch. Lunch was served and the gathering dispersed, all wishing Kevin good luck. On Tuesday evening Kevin and a number of his friends were entertained at a dinner party at the home of Mr. and Mrs. T. J. Byrnes. An enjoyable social evening was spent and Kevin was presented with a fountain pen from his associates. A set of military brushes from Mr. and Mrs. T. J. Byrnes. A gift of money from the Altar Society of Sacred Heart Church and a sweater and socks from the War Workers Committee of Marmora. Kevin will take with him a host of good wishes from his many friends in Marmora.

Marmora Council No. 279 Chosen Friends met on Tuesday evening at the home of Friend Mrs. A. Gano. Following the business session, cards were enjoyed and the hostess served a delicious lunch.

For Friday, January 12

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

THE LUNAR aspects for this day may be read as holding conflicting experiences. There is a sign of a surprising about-face in certain situations, demanding a change of plans, interests and probably surroundings, with more or less disturbance and confusion. There also is promise of a very definite stabilising of the affairs especially in reconstructing old or lagging circumstances, with the solid support or endorsement of elderly persons or old-established institutions. Lively affectional or romantic engagements are indicated.

Those whose birthday it is may anticipate a year of much progress in stabilizing the affairs, probably through sound plans, application and the friendly offices of elders or old institutions. Change of plans, place and objectives may be involved, with some turmoil and anxiety. An element of romance or sentiment is of major importance, and there is prospect of courtship or matrimony to enhance the stabilization.

A child born on this day may have many solid and enduring factors for a successful and happy life. It may be steady, studious, faithful and dependable winning the preferment of its elders and superiors. Affection, graciousness and kindness also predominate.

Tweed

Tweed—The mercury dipped to a new ow on Saturday night when a temperature of 25 degrees below zero was recorded on the Forestry Department's thermometer.

A school of religious education will be held at Tweed United Church beginning on Wednesday, Jan. 10th. Two courses of five lessons each will be given. A course in "Principles of Teaching" will be given by Mrs. (Rev.) H. L. Morrison. Rev. H. B. Herrington will have the course on "The Message of the Bible." Sessions will be held on Jan. 10, 12, 17, 19 and 26. Roslin, Thomasburg, Sulphide Actinolite and Tweed will be represented at the school.

Several flocks of Evening Grosbeaks have made their appearance locally. Their cheery robin-like whistle may be heard as they feed among the branches of the trees. These handsome birds have been regular visitors to this district during the winter season for a number of years.

Tweed T. V. hockey team suffered its second defeat on Monday evening in Norwood by a score of 5 to 4 in overtime. Joe Cournyea with three goals and Harold Elsbury with one notched all of the locals' goals. Tweed has only one victory in the past three games.

Tweed's line-up was — Reeves, goal, Tummon and Orr, defence; Cournyea, centre; Elsbury and Marsh, wings; Lea, Wagar, Cournyea, Woodcock, Long, subs.

FLYER "BEES" WIN OPENER OVER NAPANEE

ALWAYS ON TOP

Napanee Lacked Practice but Showed Some Promising Players

The Air Force "Bees" opened their O.H.A. intermediate "B" schedule with a 4 to 2 win over Napanee pucksters before a mere handful of patrons at the Hume Arena last night. The Flyer "Bees" notched the only counter in the opening stanza. They tallied twice in the second frame and each scored one in the last period with Napanee getting one in the second.

With the opposing goal-keepers apparently the leading forces on repeated sensational saves, the game progressed rapidly into a driving splurge and saw speedier hockey displayed as the game progressed. Skipper Walt Gerow iced an untried sextette, practically all of whom were 1939 junior players, but they continued to improve with the pastime. Manager Sgt. Webb and Coach Burns, of the Air Force "Bees" were blessed with four players relegated from the "Flyers" ace squad, who actually showed more inclination to play combination hockey.

Sigurdsen opened the scoring for the Air Force when he rifled a loose puck behind Curry in the Napanee net, as the result of some rather poor clearing on the part of the visitors. Moffatt evened the count for Napanee early in the middle session when he whipped home Houle's corner pass out, but the tie score was short-lived when Ullyott carried the rubber behind the Napanee net and slipped the puck past Curry on a lone effort. Ullyott scored an Air Force third counter on a four-man attack, that saw some rapid combination play to notch the counter and put the Air Force 3-1 in front at the end of the middle period.

Game Very Clean

The third period saw the only penalties necessary, both against Napanee in the early stages. During the second Napanee penalty Harrison scored for the Air Force on a power play with Lafferty getting an assist, but the courageous Gibbardville lads battled back strongly to have Houle whip home Leary's pass as the visitors finished somewhat the stronger, despite their apparent lack of practice and condition.

The combination of Lafferty, Harrison and Lockyer, of the Air Force "Bees" showed more finish while Don Crawford, former Kingston junior, and Pichard carried well as defencemen. Moffatt, Napanee's youthful defenceman who was playing his first intermediate game, stood out as the driving force for the visitors, as Leary Houle and Barrett carried much of the offensive play. Skipper Walt Gerow introduced a rather youthful and promising player in a teenaged lad named Moore, with the veteran Ted Bentley steadying the defence.

The game was the opening tusale in the district intermediate "B" game of the O.H.A. in a group that includes Air Force "Bees", Napanee, Gananoque and Queens "Seconds."

The line-ups: Air Force "Bees"—goal, Drisoll; defence, Crawford, Jamieson; centre, Hunt; wings, Sigurdsen, Ullyott; subs, Lafferty, Harrison, Lockyer, Pichard, Shriner and Granger. Napanee—goal, Curry defence, Bentley, Moffatt; centre, Houle; wings, H. Leary, Barrett; subs, Regan, D. Leary, Curry, Moore and Coakwell.

Referee—H. P. Holway, Belleville.

Letter to Sports Editor

Picton, Jan. 8, 1940.

Dear Sir: We have here at the present time an Armory comfortably filled with a small army of high pressure young recruits with an amazing amount of effervescence and steam.

Good soldiers all, they need an outlet for their high tension and spirits, and controlled athletics appears to be the answer.

However, the Depot is woefully short of sports equipment of any nature, and it was suggested that a few of the good citizens of Belleville may have some of this stored away forgotten in some dim attic.

The boys, I know, would be extremely grateful for any gift of used soft balls and bats, boxing gloves, punching bags or any outmoded gymnasium equipment.

You know battles are won on the playing fields of Eton . . or would it be the floor of the Picton Armory this time?

Best of luck.

NICK METZ

Toronto Maple Leafs.

Nick Metz

A good steady, and at times even spectacular forward with Toronto Maple Leafs is Nick Metz, who was joined temporarily by brother Don from the amateur ranks this season. Nick is in his sixth season as a major leaguer, all spent with the Leafs, which team he joined straight from junior ranks. One of the National League's smoothest and fastest skaters, Nick can stickhandle and shoot well, but all through his career has just missed being outstanding. In his four full seasons with the Leafs his point totals have been 20, 20, 22 and 21, consistency personified. His entire N.H.L. mathematical output stands at 51 goals, 36 assists for 87 points. One hour and four minutes of his time has been spent serving penalties. Wilcox, Sask., claims him as a native son, and St. Michael's College, Toronto, as a hockey product. He played with St. Michael's Memorial Cup winners of 1933-34. Turned pro the next fall, first going to the Toronto International League farm team at Syracuse, moving up to stay near the end of the season. He's a red head—not flaming red, but just red. Plays left wing sometimes, centre sometimes. His biggest night was March 14 of last year when he rapped in four goals against Americans.

TINY THOMPSON

Detroit Red Wings.

Tiny Thompson

One of the National League's veterans is Cecil (Tiny) Thompson, who guards the much-harrassed goal of Detroit Red Wings, after a decade of starring with Boston Bruins. His name first graced an N.H.L. summary in the 1928-29 season when he took over the netminding chores for Art Ross' team, a post he held until shortly after the start of the 1938-39 season when Boss Ross startled the hockey world by selling him to Detroit and bringing in the sensational Frank Brimsek to take his place. He's one of the oldest players in point of service in the league and dean of the twine-leaders. In his first year at Boston his net-minding played no small part in aiding the team to a Stanley cup triumph. He kept up his consistently brilliant work and four times has won the Vezina trophy that goes to the goalie with the fewest goals scored against him in the course of the season. Every year he's been at or close to the top in the race for shutout honors. Born at Sandon, Alberta, he played his first amateur hockey as a defenceman with Canmore, switching to goal-keeping the following season, and getting to the major league via Bellevue (Alta.), Duluth and Minneapolis. He'll be 35 years old come May 31.

VERDUN COACH KNOWS VALUE OF HOCKEY PLAYERS

FIGURES IN WIN

Scores One Goal and Assists in Another to Defeat Cornwall 5-1

Montreal, Jan. 11—(CP)—Dave Campbell is a canny coach who knows hockey players when he sees them and who goes out of his way to keep these players once he has them.

A week or so ago when Montreal Canadiens of the National Hockey League were beginning to feel the pressure of a losing streak, there were reports they planned to sign up Smiley Meronek, one of the main cogs of the Verdun Maple Leafs team that Campbell hopes to guide to the Quebec Senior Hockey League Championship.

Campbell said no, however. Meronek, the league's second leading scorer and in the opinion of many observers its best centre, was going to remain with the Leafs. And remain he did. Meronek figured prominently last night as the Leafs beat Cornwall Flyers 5-1 in one of three senior games in the province. Montreal Concordia beat Quebec Aces 3-2 in another Q.S.H.L. game here while St. Hyacinthe Gaulois upset Lachine Rapides 4-2 in a provincial senior league game at nearby Lachine.

Meronek Figures Prominently

Meronek scored one goal and assisted in another to lead the Leafs to an easy victory. Bruce Crutchfield, Mickey Moynihan, Hubert Hardy and Hugh Tracey scored the other Verdun goals while Fred Gardiner saved Cornwall from a shutout.

In the other Q.S.H.L. game Quebec held the lead twice but the Civics rallied for two goals in the second half of the third period for the victory, Laurent Laframboise scoring the winning goal on a solo rush a little more than four minutes from the end of the game.

A rookie goalie, playing his first game in an organized league, sparked St. Hyacinthe to its victory over Lachine. Paul Leclerc held the Rapides scoreless in two periods while Albert Lemay, with two goals, and Frank Mailley and Fernand Ranger, with one each, piled up a working margin for him. Joffre Seguin and Henry Hayes scored for Lachine.

Cleveland Hurlers Think Indians Have a Chance

Cleveland, Jan. 11—(AP)—Many a baseball pennant, won in the effortless security of the Hot Stove League, is fumbled away in the summer. But a pair of Cleveland pitchers refused today to concede anything to New York Yankees in the 1940 American League race.

The veteran Mel Harder, afflicted with a lame salary wing the first two months last season, and Al Milnar, then just an untried southpaw with lots of stuff and no control, pointed to themselves as two of the reasons.

Other factors, the hurlers said, are Lou Boudreau, a newcomer making the grade in the Indians' perennial gap at shortstop; Oscar Grimes, infield handy-man and Ray Mack, second baseman.

"We have a good chance of winning if we get a few breaks," declared Milnar. "I have more confidence this year."

CONNY SMYTHE IS CENSURED

Does Not Have to Pay Fine for Putting Ad in Boston Paper

New York, Jan. 11—(CP)—Having disposed of one case presented against a governor, the National Hockey League will take up the case of President Ernie Savard of Montreal Canadiens at its next meeting next month.

Savard could not attend yesterday's gathering of governors here and the league did not want to take any action until he was avaiable to answer for himself. He faces censure for having shoved Referee King Clancy because of what he considered a bad decision in a recent game and also for statements he allegedly made in which he charged New York Rangers were the poorest-paid team in the N.H.L.

Lester Patrick, Ranger manager, said he presented the meeting with documentary evidence that the Rangers were the highest-paid team in the league.

The governors voted a motion of censure on Conny Smythe, Manager of Toronto Maple Leafs, for making "statements considered by Boston Bruins as detrimental to their interests." The action followed a complaint by Art Ross, Boston manager, that Smythe inserted an advertisement in a Boston newspaper recently, claiming the Bruins played poor hockey and inviting fans to watch the Leafs play a better brand.

RANGERS HOTTER THAN LIVE COALS, READY FOR HAWKS

Can Equal Record Set 10 Years Ago by Beating Chicago Tonight

NOT SUPERSTITIOUS

Team Has Not Been Beaten Since Last Mid-November and Still Going Strong

(By Sydney Grason, Canadian Press Staff Writer)

New York, Jan. 11 — (CP)—In their dressing room the other night New York Rangers made it clear they weren't a superstitious lot and, anyway, what was there about a 17-game unbeaten streak to make them jittery?

But today, on the eve of Rangers' National Hockey League game with Chicago Black Hawks, there were reports of young men looking for rabbits in Central Park and other young men knocking on every piece of wood along the streets. No one said so but the intimation was that these fellows were Rangers.

A record that has withstood every assault for ten years—the 18-game unbeaten streak of Montreal Canadiens in the season of 1927-28 is within the Rangers' grasp, and strain has been telling recently. It affects them until they step on the ice where they don't know the meaning of the word jitters.

"I don't know how long it can last but we play them all the same way and we'll play tonight as if there wasn't any record in sight," said Manager Lester Patrick. The jitters had spread to him too, for the "knock, knock" behind him was Patrick touching the wood table, a little covertly.

If they tie or defeat Chicago the Rangers will equal the mark set by a Canadien team propelled by the late Howie Morenz, who led the league in scoring that season, and backed by Goaler George Hainsworth, who allowed only 48 goals in 44 games. Providing they get by tonight, the Rangers will have a chance of setting a record against the Maple Leafs in Toronto Saturday.

Hotter than live coals since they last lost a game in mid-November, the Rangers have uncovered tremendous power and remarkable defensive ability during the streak. Their forwards—and it has been a case of every forward doing his share—have fired 64 goals. Dave Kerr has been beaten only 25 times in 17 games.

CONN SCORES AN EASY WIN

Light Heavyweight Champ Gives Henry Cooper a Boxing Lesson

New York, Jan. 11—(AP)—Billy Conn, Pittsburgh light heavyweight champion, has started on the road he hopes will lead to the heavyweight championship. But like the road to Tipperary, it's going to be a long and winding trail.

He has had two bouts with the big boys. Last night he took an easy 12-round decision from Henry Cooper of Brooklyn in Madison Square Garden and last August he scored a technical knockout over Gus Dorazio in Philadelphia.

Cooper, called in on 10 days' notice to substitute for Steve Dudas, was no match for Conn. Everybody sensed it in advance and a crowd of only 5,658 was on hand, paying a gross gate of $14,400.

Conn gave Cooper a boxing lesson, dancing, jabbing and rolling up so many points that there wasn't any use keeping count.

Flyers Defeat Queens 2-1 In First Game of Playoffs For Van Horne Memorial Cup

"Stew" Irwin, Veteran Ottawa Player, Scores Both Goals for Winning Team

STRONG DEFENCE

Gibson in Goal and Higgins and Dreyer on Defence Make Road Rocky for Opposition

Icing a sturdy defensive team that repeatedly hurled back the surge of speedy Queen's attack, "Toots" Holway's Air Force "Flyers" drew first blood in the George Van Horne Memorial Cup finals when the "birdmen" triumphed 2-1 over Queen's seniors in the first game of the Kingston pre-season loop in the Limestone City last evening. The second game of a best-in-three series will be played in Kingston a week from Friday.

Gibson, in the Flyers' net, turned in a sterling effort between the gaspipes and was afforded a strong defence headed by Higgins and Dryer. Despite the fact the "tri-color-clad" Queen's speedsters, who had just returned from a triumphant hockey tour of the eastern U.S.A., maintained a steady and concerted attack, their efforts were thwarted by the strong Air Force blockade.

"Stew" Irwin, veteran Ottawa puckster, accounted for both of the Flyers' goals, one on a lone effort and the winning counter on a pass from "Simon" Legris. Both teams scored in the initial period, while Irwin's winning tally came in the middle session. The Air Force set up a strong defence to protect that advantage in the third period that saw the "Presbyterians" toss caution to the winds and launch a five-man attack in a last-period futile effort to at least knot the count. The Flyers are now engaged in their fourth consecutive Van Horne Memorial Cup finals series, having won the previous three in succession.

METZ AND GOLDUP ASSIST HORNETS IN BEATING EAGLES

Toronto Youngsters Show Promise of Becoming Regular Leafs

CLEVELAND WINS

Syracuse Stars Lose to Philadelphia by 2-1 Score

By The Canadian Press

Toronto Maple Leafs have struck pay dirt again in a couple of youngsters named Don Metz and Hank Goldup. Members of Toronto Goodyears of the Senior Ontario Hockey Association last season, Metz and Goldup aren't yet Leaf regulars but they definitely are on the way up.

They showed this last night as Pittsburgh Hornets of the International-American league, to whom they have been loaned, trounced New Haven Eagles, the league's eastern division leaders, 9-1. Between them they figured in six goals.

By their victory the Hornets joined Cleveland Barons and Hershey Bears in a three way tie for second place in the western section. Cleveland blanked the Bears 3-0. Syracuse Stars lost 2-1 to Philadelphia Ramblers.

Babe Tapin Real Star

Babe Tapin was the star for Pittsburgh despite the points the Toronto rookies gained. He scored four goals and assisted in a fifth. Metz had two goals and two assists and Goldup a goal and three assists.

The Barons counted three times in the last period to beat the Bears. Joe Jerwa got the first goal while Jeff Kalbfleisch of Hershey was serving a penalty and late in the game, while Shannon of the Bears and Hanson of the Barons were off the ice for roughing, Robertson and Bob Gracie got two more goals to make the victory certain.

Stan Smith's 40-foot shot less than two minutes from the end of the third period gave the Ramblers their victory over Syracuse. Allum sent Philadelphia into the lead in the first period but Eddie Convey evened the score in the second session.

Only one game is scheduled for tonight but it should be a good one, bringing together the Eagles and Indianapolis Capitals, leaders of the western section.

Horsemen Looking Forward to 1940

By DUNBAR BOSTWICK
Treasurer, The United States Trotting Association

New York, Jan. 11—(AP)—Owners and breeders of harness horses are looking forward hopefully to the 1940 racing season.

The Grand Circuit should have a better year than ever, due to the fact that the Trotting Horse Club of America is sponsoring 10 new stakes for second flight two and three-year old trotters and pacers. Without a doubt the peak of the season again will be at Goshen on Aug. 14, when the $40,000 Hambletonian for three-year old trotters will be renewed.

A new type of barrier was introduced last year by Leo McNamara of Indianapolis. Since it does away with the lengthy delay at the post, it was received with great acclaim.

The new United States Trotting Association was able to establish itself in 1939, sanctioning 90 per cent of all harness racing in the country. It now is in a position to go forward stamping out any infraction of the rules or indecorum in the sport. A new circuit is being formed with headquarters at Washington, Pa. and will offer 10 weeks of good racing in that area.

Six illustrated articles entitled "basic skiing" will commence on our sport pages on Monday next. The series is being written by Tom Murstad, outstanding European skier, who has won practically all the major amateur ski titles on the other side of the Atlantic in recent years. We believe this series will materially assist the beginner-skier as the articles will not deal with the complicated phases of this rapidly growing winter sport, but will stick primarily to the fundamentals—the things people want to know when they first take out the wooden runners and decide to risk life and limb on a slanting landscape. Each article is illustrated and makes clear to the pupil how to go about bending, turning, standing and the other elementary features of the sport calculated to bring the beginner back from a ski outing in one piece at least. As we announced yesterday, this series of six illustrated articles commences next week in this newspaper.

Tonight Belleville's "little big league" assumes the spotlight at the Hume Arena with a double-header in the Belleville Juvenile Hockey Association when the Black Hawks meet the Maple Leafs in the opener and Les Canadiens clash with the Americans in the nightcap affair. Last week two tie games were played when the Leafs and Americans tied at 2-2 to be followed by the identical same score between the Black Hawks and Canadiens. These juvenile kids play a surprisingly fast game of hockey and there is never a dull moment from the time the puck is faced. Some 64 Belleville kids are included on the rosters of the four local juvenile clubs. These energetic kids are the future hockey players of Belleville, who today need the moral support of the fans with their attendance.

Secretary Joe Shortt, of the Y.M.C.A., called to tell us that registration forms for the Ki-Y hockey groups are now available at the "Y". The Ki-Y league will only sponsor Midget and Bantam groups this season leaving the juveniles to the City League. Interested groups of bantams or midgets should register soon.

Do you remember when professional hockey's most durable partnership was broken seven years ago today when it was announced Howie Morenz and Auriel Joliat would no longer team up on Montreal Canadiens' front line. They had been the principal marksmen and mainstays of the Habitants for years.

Some of the best fancy and figure skaters in Canada will assist in this year's Belleville V.O.N. ice carnival sponsored by the Y's Men's Club, President Harold Vaughan announced this week. Clifford Sifton, President of the Toronto Skating Club, assured the Y'smen of Belleville that eight or ten of the top-flight Toronto skaters would be glad to assist in this charity project, while six equally as good skaters from the Minto Skating Club in Ottawa will also perform at the Hume Arena. The annual V.O.N. Charity Ice Carnival will be held on Friday, Jan. 26th, President Vaughan added. With such a splendid array of talent available, the annual school speed-skating races will have to be limited to the minimum, while doubtless the fancy dress part of the carnival will be abandoned for this year's show.

Sporte Scribe Bill Walshe, of Kingston, writes to inform us we are "all wet" pertaining to the Van Horne Memorial trophy being a three year mug. Bill says the Van Horne cup is a challenge cup and cannot be held permanently by any clubs regardless as to how many times it has been won by the individual team. Mr. Walshe also says we were in error, when we announced the Flyers had only won the Van Horne series twice before, they've won it three times and are now engaged in their fourth consecutive final series in the Van Horne series. "Thanx pal, to error is human etc."

But when talking of the Van Horne series, the "Flyers" took a firm set towards their fourth Van Horne title when "Toots" Holway's "birdmen" triumphed 2-1 over Queen's in the first game of the Kingston pre-season league last night. The "Airmen" played a sterling type of defence to stop the speedy "Presbyterians," who have just returned from a triumphant tour of Intercollege hockey in the U.S.A.

Intermediate "B" hockey was introduced to Belleville hockey fans last night at the Hume arena and apparently it isn't as popular as our current Juvenile loop, that is judging from the attendance, which we hope is increased tonight. However, the Air Force "Bees" were supplemented with the services of four players, who had seen service with the "Flyer" top-notch team and last night's sextette failed to impress us as they were playing against a team, that had practiced exactly twice. Our information for the latter statement came from Coach Walt Gerow himself and knowing that the Napanee team boasted of exactly two players over the voting age it is hard to get exactly enthused over last night's local win. Both goalies stood out, as it was either a case of good goal-keeping or rather a low ebb in scoring ability. The Flyers' line of Lockyer, Lafferty and Harrison carried much of the Flyers' mail, with Crawford and Pichard protecting Driscoll, while Moffatt of Napanee looked the best on the ice, although Don Leary, Barrett and a kid named Moore showed much promise for the Gerow-led losers.

Sport Spice — There is an outside chance that Buffalo may soon be included in the N.H.L. set-up....There is being erected a new arena in the city across the Niagara River and all that is needed to iron out some territorial rights between the International loop and the major hockey league before N.H.L. hockey will become a reality in the Bison City...."Stew" Irwin, former Ottawa senior, scored both goals for the Air Force last night.... Irwin might have slowed up, but he is exceedingly accurate these days...."Toots" Day notched a goal for Camp Borden in his first appearance with the northern Flyers last night, but his team lost 5-4 to Gravenhurst....Trenton juniors staged a garrison finish to beat Picton 8-5 in a third period rally.

GIVEN MEMORIAL MEDAL

New York, Jan. 11—(AP)—For capturing the public's fancy as well as the lightheavyweight championship of the world, young Billy Conn of Pittsburgh tonight will be awarded the Edward J. Neil Memorial Medal by New York boxing writers as the man who did the most for boxing in 1939.

The Boxing Writers' Association established the award a year ago in memory of Neil, a former Associated Press sports writer who was killed while covering the Spanish civil war.

FLEET TRAINERS

Ltd., is a two-seat tandem cockpit biplane, equipped with transparent sliding hoods as protection from winter winds. It has a welded chrome - molybdenum steel - tube fuselage, fabric coverel. Maximum speed of this aircraft is 113 miles an hour, while cruising speed is 98 miles an hour, and landing speed 45 miles an hour. The service ceiling is 14,000 feet, and the cruising range 320 miles.

The De Havilland Tiger Moth, built near Toronto by the De Havilland Aircraft of Canada, Ltd., is a two-seat light training biplane, with a rectangular, steel-tube fuselage, fabric covered. The instructor and pupil are accommodated in tandem cockpits, fitted with complete dual control. Maximum speed of this aircraft at sea level is 109 miles an hour, and its stalling speed 45 miles an hour. Absolute ceiling is 16,000 feet.

Special Facilities.

The Avro Anson was designed as a twin-engined coastal reconnaissance monoplane, but it will be provided with special facilities for training.

A crew of three in this aircraft are responsible for the occupation of five stations, depending on their respective functions and the occasion. The pilot is seated well forward. Behind him is the navigator who in action, becomes the bomb-aimer, and takes up a position in the extreme nose, lying full length on the floor. The wireless operator is stationed behind the navigator. A small door at the after end of the cabin communicates with the rear gun position in the extreme nose, lying full length on the floor. The wireless operator is stationed behind the navigator. A small door at the after end of the cabin communicates with the rear gun position, where the wireless operator takes up his station as air gunner, and mans a machine in a revolving turret.

Maximum Speed 188 m.p.h.

The maximum speed of the Avro Anson at 7,000 feet is 188 miles an hour, while the cruising speed at 6,000 feet is 158 miles an hour. The service ceiling is 19,500 feet.

The North American Harvard Training Aircraft, manufactured in the United States also will be produced in Canada for the various training schools, the department said. It is a two-seat general purpose low-wing monoplane. Tandem cockpits are provided. That in front is supplied with a complete set of blind-flying instruments, and provision is made for duplication of instruments in Bock cockpits. Oxygen equipment, flare installation and wireless apparatus may also be carried, together with bombs. Maximumb speed at 8,700 feet is 258 miles an hour, and the cruising speed at 15,000 feet is 204 miles on hour. The service ceiling is 27,000 feet with bombs aboard, and the cruising range 582 miles. With additional fuel and no bombs this may be increased to 1,300 miles.

Made in Great Britain

The Fairey Battle, manufactured in Great Britain, was designed as a two-seat medium bomber. It is to be used in Canada for training purposes, and also for towing targets.

Speed of this aircraft at sea level is 210 miles an hour, increasing to a maximum of 257 miles at 15,000 feet. The service ceiling is 25,000 feet and the range at 16,000 feet is approximately 1,000 miles.

Belfast, Jan. 11—(CP)—There's a parcel of trouble awaiting the Nazis from Wellington, Prince Edward County, the Press Association reports.

It consists of nine brothers named Reilly, all in the same regiment, who were among the first contingent of Canadians to cross the Atlantic.

Corporal William Reilly, visiting Belfast with two of his brothers, said their family emigrated to Ontario seventeen years ago.

"We are known as the 'Flying Reillys'" he said. "Any one who interferes with one of us must deal with the lot."

They call them "The Reilly Expeditionary Force."

Egg Accumulation Lowers the Price

Toronto, Jan. 11—A noticeable accumulation of receipts caused a downward revision of egg prices in all sections of trading yesterday on the Toronto open produce market. Butter remained nominally unchanged.

With demand too weak to absorb all offerings, quotations declined on all grades of eggs. There was a decidedly quiet tone to the market, A-pullet eggs enjoying the best inquiry. In the graded section A-large eggs sold at 21 1-2c to 22c, A-medium at 20c, Grade B at 18c to 19c and Grade C at 17c to 18c. Prices to retailers also dropped.

Both buyers and sellers on the butter market were cautious pending release of the monthly storage stocks report, and trading was extremely quiet. First-grade Ontario creamery solids remained nominally unchanged at 27 1-2c to 27 3-4c.

Montreal Produce

DODGE FAMILY

Charles Wright, Jr., counsel for the two sisters, announced he would appeal within 20 days. Renville Wheat, attorney for a third sister, Mrs. Frances Johnson, was undecided whether to appeal.

Suit Will Involve Months

A new suit thus will involve mother, daughter-in-law and two daughters in the continuing series of court fights over the $40,000,000 left by the late John F. Dodge, pioneer motorcar manufacturer.

A disinherited son, John Duval Dodge, twice has gone to court to break his father's will. On the first occasion he received a $1,600,000 settlement. A second suit is pending.

In his verdict yesterday Judge Murphy, while making no mention of sums for each beneficiary, ruled that the $11,000,000 belonged to Dodge's estate and should be distributed in accordance with his will.

State Gets $6,000,000

The verdict, in effect, gives Annie Laurine Dodge, 21, who met Daniel while he was holidaying in her home town, the sum of $1,250,000 and Daniel's mother, Mrs. Mathilda R. Wilson, approximately $3,500,000. The state and federal governments receive $6,000,000 in taxes.

The $11,000,000 was accumulated income from Daniel's share in the $40,000,000 trust fund set up by his father. He died when he was 21, four years before he was to have received the money.

In view of this, the three sisters had contended that the income should be divided among them, instead of being considered Daniel's estate.

FINNS ATTACKING

The division was described as the third and last of a Soviet Russian army corps, the two others, of 15,000 or more men each, having been shattered previously in the same general vicinity, with thousands reported slain.

Finns say that this army corps, the Ninth, has been taking a terrific beating for the past two weeks in its attempt to sever the country at the narrow "waistline."

Following destruction of the 163rd division, which the Finns described as a rout, they said the 44th division was decimated and its remnants were driven back across the border.

The Finns reported they now hold a 30-mile frontier strip east of Lake Kianta, free of enemy troops for the first time since the war began Nov. 30th

They said the last division of the army corps was trapped at Kukkamma, south of the scene of the other victories at Suomussalmi.

A Finnish communique also announced that a Russian battalion was dispersed north of Lake Ladoga with 200 killed and 40 taken prisoners.

A communique of the Leningrad military headquarters described merely scouting activities and artillery fire at some places and said "nothing of importance" occurred in the campaign against Finland.

NOTORIOUS CAREER

inal career began with an $80,000 mail robbery in San Diego in April 1920, said he would have "checked out" then had he known what the future held "and saved my loved ones the disgrace and shame that they have had to endure these many years."

He added that every convict on Alcatraz Island, where he served about five years, "would be better off if they woud jump in the bay and start swimming for China."

Gardner, who was sentenced to 25 years imprisonment at McNeil Island, Wash., for the San Diego robbery, escaped from the train en route there near Portland, Ore. He was recaptured in Roseville Calif., May 23, 1921 and in the interim he robbed a mail train of $117,000 in securities.

Made Threat Good

He told the Federal judge who resentenced him to McNeil for 50 years, that he would escape again, and he did en route to the prison, this time near Castle Rock, Wash.

Recaptured at Centralia, Wash., and finally placed on the Pudget Sound Island, he bolted from it in a sensational break Sept. 5, 1921, while one companion was slain by guards and another wounded.

In November, 1921, he tried to rob a mail car in Phoenix, Ariz. but Herman Interlied, the clerk, overpowered him.

ENEMY PLANES

German air visits of the war to the Tyneside, important shipbuilding and shipping centre.

The Air Ministry said German planes attempting to bomb a merchant vessel off the Norfolk coast were intercepted and driven off by defence fighters.

Its communique said "considerable air activity off the east coast of England and Scotland" occurred during the morning and listed raids at Newcastle-on-Tyne, the Firth of Forth and the Humber and Thames estuaries.

Appears Over Tyne

One plane appeared over South Shields on the south bank of the Tyne. One report said three raiders reached the region and six British fighters went up to chase them away.

Fragments of anti-aircraft shells fell in the streets of South Shields during ten minutes of firing. Spectators over a wide area were endangered, but rushed out nevertheless to pick up the bits for souvenirs.

Windows of a bus were shattered.

After once being driven away, a raider circled and returned above South Shields and again was fired upon.

Three large black planes believed by observers to be German were chased to sea by British fighters over the southeast coast of Scotland.

East of London heavy anti-aircraft firing was heard in a Kent Town about 1 p.m. (8 a.m. E.S.T.) and shell bursts high in the sky were seen in the direction of the Essex coast, north of Kent, although no planes were seen and no warning was sounded.

The planes which drew the fire of the Essex coastal defences were flying eastward over the Thames Estuary.

Crowds on the cliffs of an east coast resort watched a bomber attack a small ship about seven miles from shore. Explosions were heard and the vessel was seen to be blazing. A lifeboat put out while British fighters drove off the attacker.

Subsequently another steamship, believed to be Italian, struck a mine off the east coast. The crew took to lifeboats and awaited a tug to pick them up as the regular lifeboat on the shore had gone to the aid of those from the bombed vessel.

Numerous heavy explosions were heard off the southeast coast, beginning with a terrific blast at 6.30 a.m (1.30 a.m. E.S.T.)

Ship Breaks in Two

London, Jan. 11.— (CP)— The 4,191-ton French steamship Mantauban was reported to have run aground and broken her back off the northeast coast of England yesterday. Her crew was reported safe.

Fire Chief, Wm. Lynch Made Deputy Fire-Marshal of Province

Fire Chief William Lynch studied with pride today a small orange colored card sent him by the Fire-Marshal's Department of Ontario. The small pasteboard conferred upon Chief Lynch, a deputy fire-marshalship for the province which gives him the right to enter any house, store, shop or factory in the city for the purpose of fire-hazard inspection.

Members of the Department likewise held their heads high today following the letter of commendation received yesterday from the Ontario Fire Marshal's Department relative to the splendid work done by them during the past year, and especially during the week of Fire Prevention held last October.

CONSTRUCTION OF NEW BRIDGE AT PRESCOTT MAY BE IN OFFING

Ground work on what may result in the construction of a $4,000,000.00 international bridge between Prescott and Ogdensburg, was begun this week by engineers to the St. Lawrence River Bridge Commission, according to the Brockville Recorder.

Raymond Tyo, an engineer with the consulting firm, together with John Giese, arrived in Ogdensburg over the week-end to begin a survey of the proposed sites. After discussing the construction with members of the commission, the two engineers began actual survey work.

Germans Applaud As Danish Ships Are Bombed

Authorized Sources Say Any Neutral Ship Accepting British Convoy Deserves to be Attacked

Berlin, Jan. 11 (AP)—Bombing of two Danish merchant ships by German planes Tuesday won praise today from authorized sources, which said any neutral vessel accepting a British convoy deserved to be attacked even more than British ships that were only doing their wartime duty.

These sources said the German planes attacked the Danish ships only after obtaining proof that they were convoyed.

(In reporting Tuesday's series of attacks on merchant vessels in the North Sea, the British Admiralty said the German policy was to attack unescorted ships. It said two Danish vessels, first reported sunk, later were found afloat and would be brought into port.)

The German sources said that any neutral ship which accepted a belligerent convoy both endangered the neutrality of its country and gave proof of intending to help Germany's enemies.

Frank McGee, District Master Of Centre Hastings Orangemen

Meeting Held at Ivanhoe With Banquet Provided by L.O.B.A.

LARGE ATTENDANCE

West Huntingdon, Jan. 11 (Special)—Orangism was given a prominent place in Huntingdon Township on Tuesday, when the annual district meeting of District No. 3, Central Hastings met in the Orange Hall of L.O.L. No. 300. In former years this meeting was held in the afternoon, but the past two years a new venture was established when a banquet was held at noon when not only members of the order were present but also many other citizens who were sufficiently interested to attend. Last year, this meeting was held in Stirling and was such a success that the members agreed to have a similar event each year.

Central Hastings comprises the lodges of Stirling, Halloway, West Huntingdon, Ivanhoe and White Lake, and many delegates were present from all of these lodges. The wives of the members of L.O.L. No. 300 made possible the excellent banquet served in the Orange Hall.

District Master Chairman

District Master Mr. Morley Haggerty was toastmaster for the dinner hour program, when the following program was greatly enjoyed. Community singing led by Rev. Samuel Delve and Mr. Frank Palmer of Ivanhoe; toast to the King, proposed by the chairman and responded to by all singing the National Anthem; toast to our Grand and County lodges proposed by County Master W. J. Morrison, responded to by Rev. W. H. Walker minister of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, Stirling. Mr. Morrison, in his remarks, gave the gathering a review of the work of the Grand Lodge.

Need of Spiritual Awakening

Rev. W. H. Walker gave a fine address, stressing the great need of a spiritual awakening in our lodges, churches and community life. He referred to the world conditions as they are today. This address was listened to very attentively and made a great impression on those listening.

At the conclusion of this toast Mr. Delve and Mr. Palmer conducted some more community singing as a special feature of this year's banquet the three L.O.B.A. lodges of the district (White Lake, Halloway and Stirling) were invited as guests and at this time a toast proposed by Mr. Arthur Wilson and responded to by Mrs. E. T. Sarles was given our guests the ladies of the L.O.B.A.

The toast to the primary and district lodges was proposed by Past District Master Mr. Philip Carr and responded to by Past District Master Mr. Clinton Townsend.

The last toast was to the ladies who prepared the banquet and was proposed by Mr. Elmer Post and responded to by Mrs. Thomas Elliott. The singing of "O Canada" closed this most inspiring and helpful gathering.

District Meeting Held

Following the banquet the district meeting was held in the auditorium of the lodge room. Mr. M. Haggerty presiding. All the officers and Past Masters of primary lodges gave encouraging reports. Much regret was felt because of the absence of two distinguished members who were detained on account of illness, Mr. W. S. Martin of Stirling, and Mr. Samuel Kilpatrick of Ivanhoe.

Past District Master, Mr. Samuel Twiddie conducted the election and installation of officers for 1940. Those elected were: District Master, Frank McGee, L.O.L. 110; Deputy Master, Arthur Jones, L.O.L. 425; Chaplain, Philip Carr, L.O.L. 300; Rec. Secretary, Arthur Wilson, L.O.L. 300; Finance Secretary, Sam Donnan, L.O.L. 300; Treasurer, Milton Reid, L.O.L. 435; Hon. Treasurer, W. S. Martin, L.O.L. 110; Marshal, Geo Morgan, L.O.L. 425; 1st Lecturer, John Geen, L.O.L. 435; 2nd. Lecturer, Sam Twiddie, L.O.L. 435.

WINDSOR COUNCIL STILL DEADLOCKED

Opponents of Mayor Croll in Majority at Board of Control Meeting

Windsor, Ont., Jan. 11 —(CP)—Machinery of Windsors civic administration today appeared to be jammed, with the council's two factions remaining far from agreement.

The city's business remained tied up following a Board of Control meeting last night at which opponents of Mayor David Croll were in the majority.

Controllers Norman Eansor and W. H. McCreedy insisted that proposals of the group headed by Mayor Croll, absent in Toronto for the opening of the Ontario Legislature, be held up if proposals of the anti-Croll group are to be so treated.

The two controllers were able to outvote acting mayor Arthur J. Reaume, a supporter of the mayor. The board's other member, Cyril Copper of the anti-Croll faction, did not attend the meeting.

Insisting that things "are going to be at a standstill and we will have a showdown," Eansor took exception to a proposal that E. J. Langlois be appointed acting city treasurer during the illness of city treasurer A. E. Cook. Signature of pay cheques was the only authority Eansor agreed to grant Langlois.

PRIVY COUNCIL TO HEAR APPEAL

Windsor, Ont., Jan. 11 (CP). — Probably supported by other Boards of Education, the Windsor Board of Education will carry to the Privy Council in London its appeal against allowing the Windsor Separate School Board a share in the school taxes of the Ford Motor Company of Canada.

The Board of Education decided last night to reject a compromise offer from the Separate School Board, which would have done away with the expense of a Privy Council appeal. Several Boards of Education have indicated their willingness to support the Windsor Board and an organization meeting for that purpose was held last fall in Toronto.

A ruling by the Supreme Court of Canada has given the Separate School Board the rights to 18 per cent of the Ford assessment in Windsor, which in effect is the annual taxes on $1,250,000. With this as a basis, the Separate School trustees estimated their Board was entitled to the taxes on $6,000,000 worth of property in the city, since corporate assessments in Windsor total $35,000,000.

SPEAKS NIGHTLY AT BETHEL HALL

Evangelist Taylor continues nightly discourses at Bethel Hall. The subjects discussed, thus far, come under, what Mr. Taylor has been pleased to term, "Gems from Genesis".

Subjects which seems obscure or which have been lightly passed over are made clear and illuminating.

The Toronto Telegram requested his sermon "The Aim of The Allies in the light of Divine Prophecy" for publication. This sermon was preached last Sunday evening at Bethel Hall. The comments this sermon provoked were such that it was suggested that Mr. Taylor preach it again.

Out of the Fog

By GREGORY JONAS

Barry Stuart, bachelor, was driving his high-powered roadster over the country roads at a pace quite inconsistent with his ability for speed. Barry was drinking in the beauties of the moon-flooded night. A fog rose from the river and floated lightly above the lowlands, wandering clouds touched by the magic of the moon. Like a huge, disgorged feather-bed the bank of white awaited Barry's dip into the valley only to disappear upon his advent.

"Like all my troubles," mused Barry. Now and then oblongs of yellow light showed through the blur of white and Barry knew there was a home—and he wished vaguely that there were a yellow light beckoning him. With these vague wishes was mixed the shadowy dream of a girl's face, her blue eyes and her bright hair as soft and intangible as the feathers of fog about him.

Barry had been unable to forget this particular girl for one moment after meeting her; and now he was running away from her; she threatened to crystallize his vague dreams into reality; she imperiled his celibacy, and he wasn't ready—not yet. His memories of her mingled so enticingly with the night that he was startled, as his car rose to the hilltop, to see a slight figure hurrying along ahead of him.

"Won't you ride?" asked Barry, sensing that there must be some reason for a girl's treading this lonesome road so long after teatime. Her voice sounded sharp and there was recklessness in her acceptance of his invitation.

"Yes, I'll ride," she answered, and slumped down into the seat beside him.

"On your way to Moorestown?" he asked.

"As well as anywhere," she replied, and Barry was silent. His dreams were lost in the fog as he puzzled about the girl beside him. They drove along quietly, dipping into the valleys and rising to the hilltops with a swift, clean motion that was worthy of his car. When they ahd gone another ten miles the girl spoke suddenly:

"I'm leaving my husband!"

"Indeed!" ejaculated Barry, and added: "How old are you?"

"Twenty-four and I'm tired of drudgery and tending babies and having nothing!"

"I see," commented Barry softly. "Husbands and babies aren't much compensation unless they're nice," he added tentatively.

"My babies are adorable!" she flashed.

"They must be unusual then," he observed. "Most babies are pests!"

"Have you any?" she demanded.

"Good Lord, no—I'm a bachelor."

"Then you don't know a thing about it. They're so soft and adorable and—and cute! Twin girls. But his mother is always there—making trouble. She'll take care of them."

"Of course," agreed Barry. "In another six months they'll probably think she's their mother—they're unfeeling little brutes, at best."

"Mine are not! They know me—they cry when I leave them!" Silence enveloped them, when suddenly the girl's voice broke it.

"I've got to go back! Take me to the next bus stop—you'll think I'm crazy!"

"What difference does it make what I think? I don't even know your name. But you're foolish to go back. We could go to the show and have a good time—" He turned and caught the appeal in her upturned face.

"Honestly, I didn't mean that!" he said contritely, turning the car about. "I'm going to take you home." The car flew like a live thing.

"Tell me the house," said Barry.

"I will." He could feel her tenseness, once she put out a small hand and laid it over his on the wheel.

"I don't know how to thank you."

"Your husband won't — abuse you?" he inquired.

"Phil? Good heavens, no!"

"Men do—"

"Not mine—it's just that his mother bosses me so—"

"I know—I have a boss myself and some day I'm going to wax independent and fire myself—but not till I see that it won't ruin my own happiness," he told her.

She touched his arm when at last two rectangles of light gleamed through the lifting fog.

"Atmosphere has cleared," remarked Barry, drawing up to the house and sounding his horn. The door opened and a frenzied young man stood outlined—behind him a woman twisting her apron.

"I've brought back your wife," he announced, handing her out of the car. "Wives are hard to get," he observed, "and harder to keep, I'm told. When I find one I'm going to make it my business to keep her!"

The young man, with his arms about his wife, tried to thank Barry, but with a wave of his hand Barry was gone; not toward Moorestown, but in the other direction where the girl with the blue eyes and lovely hair must be sitting somewhere behind oblongs of yellow light—waiting!

RUSSIAN ATTACKS IN TWO SECTORS SMASHED BY FINNS

Red Troops Driven Back on Salla and Petsamo Fronts

FEW BOMBS DROPPED

Helsingfors, Jan. 11 (AP).—The smashing of Russian attacks in the Salla and Petsamo sectors was reported in the Finnish army's daily communique today.

Salla is on Finland's eastern front. Petsamo, where Canadian nickel properties are located, is on the extreme northern corridor to the Arctic Sea. The Russians were thrown back, it was said, after an attack for which they had prepared by artillery fire.

These were the only developments reported in the communique.

The communique said:

"Land: On the isthmus (of Karelia) and on the eastern frontier there was nothing new. In Lapland the enemy launched attacks preceded by artillery fire on Jan. 10 in the direction of Salla and in Petsamo, but was repulsed.

"Sea: On the naval front there was nothing important.

"Air: On Jan. 10 enemy aircraft dropped a few bombs in the Tammisaari and Ruotsinpyhtaa districts. In the latter locality six women were wounded. So far no loss of human life has been reported."

Salla is in eastern Finland just above the Arctic Circle, north of the region referred to in the communique as the "eastern frontier".

Tammisaari is a port in southwest Finland, and Ruotsinpyhtaa is a town in South Central Finland near the coast.

Inaugural Appeal For Loan Support Launched at Montreal

Montreal, Jan. 11—(CP)—Promise of strength in Canada's warfare on the economic front grew today from enthusiasm with which Quebec province's business leaders greeted the inaugural appeal for support of the Dominion's first war loan.

Representatives of finance and industry whose voices carried the weight of almost half Canada's business wealth cheered and cried "Hear, hear" when Dominion Government leaders launched the appeal here yesterday.

The 200 business men and the government spokesmen brought together by a luncheon meeting held by the Quebec Provincial Loan Subscription Committee.

Though the Quebec chairman, Provincial Treasurer J. Arthur Mathewson, K.C., was unable to attend because of provincial affairs at Quebec, a telegram he sent to Hon. Charles Dunning, chairman of the National Subscription Committee, spoke eloquently:

"Please assure your associates that the people of Quebec will again do their full share as in the past."

Speakers at the luncheon besides Mr. Dunning, former Dominion Finance Minister, were the present Finance Minister, Hon. J. L. Ralston, and Justice Minister Ernest Lapointe.

RUMANIA READY FOR SETTLEMENT

Officials Declare, However, That No Territory Will be Ceded

Bucharest, Jan. 11 (AP)—Rumanian officials declare that short of any cession of territory, Rumania is ready for settlement of long-standing differences with Hungary.

Biggest bone of contention, however, is Hungary's wish for return of Transylvania, gained by Rumania in the breakup of the Austro-Hungarian Empire.

Officials assert they would not even discuss a transfer of territory but the feeling grows among foreign diplomats that King Carol shortly might yield to a reported Italo-Hungarian proposal that Rumania promise territorial revision, effective after the European war.

In return, it has been reported, Italy and Hungary would support Rumania against any Soviet Russian attack on Bessarabia, a Russian province before the last war.

GUELPH'S FIREMEN FIRST IN ONTARIO

Guelph, Ont., Jan. 11 (CP) — Guelph's fire department stood first among Ontario cities with a population of 10,000 to 25,000 for its fire prevention week activities, it was announced today by W. J. Scott, Fire Marshal. The department placed 13th in the all-Canada standing.

"Competition is decidedly keen and a very high standard of proficiency is set," the Fire Marshal stated. "Accordingly Chief Sutton and his department deserve great credit for their splendid showing."

Expect Full Debate On Resignation of Leslie Hore-Belisha

London, Jan. 11 (CP).—Political correspondents of morning newspapers today predicted the House of Commons will have a full dress debate on the resignation of Leslie Hore-Belisha after the former war secretary has made his own statement when parliament reconvenes next Tuesday.

It was said such a dbate would depend in a measure on what the resigned minister says. If he is content to explain why he could not accept the "important post" offered him in place of the war office, the debate will be short, it was predicted; if he attacks the government, Prime Minister Chamberlain undoubtedly will reply and respond to the views of members of parliament later.

John Marchbank, general secretary of the National Union of Railwaymen, today wrote in the Union's official newspaper that the "dismissal" of the war secretary was a shock to public confidence.

Mr. Chamberlain's action, he wrote, "reflects the gravest discredit upon his judgment as Prime Minister."

NEW U.S. MINES MAGNETIC IN TYPE

Passage of Ship Causes Mines to Float Toward Surface

Washington, Jan 11.—(AP)—The United States Navy's Bureau of Ordnance revealed yesterday that it has been experimenting since 1920 with magnetic mines, similar to those reported in use by Germany.

Commander James B. Glennon, mine expert, patented what was probably the first successful magnetic mine in 1925, Admiral W. R. Furlong told the House of Representatives subcommittee on appropriations, but it has never been used by the United States.

The device is not a floating mine which would be attracted magnetically toward the hull of a ship and explode when it touched the ship's side.

The mines are designed to be anchored at the bottom of the sea or in narow channels. Then when a ship passes near them the magnetic current trips a delicate electrical latch on the anchoring cable, allowing the mine to float toward the surface.

A timing mechanism inside the mine, similar to those used in artillery shells, fires it automatically when it reaches a point about 35 ft. below the surface.

If the depth of the water and the timing mechanism are properly guaged the mine should explode just about the time when a ship is passing over it.

New York, Jan. 11—(CP)— The New York Times says today in a special dispatch from Washington that the British government is discussing with United States officials the purchase of American Mines for the large mine field in the North Sea which is nearing completion.

"It is not known whether actual orders have been placed, but a list of American manufacturers who can supply mines rapidly has been available officially to the British purchasing mission", the dispatch says.

"The United States Navy has a full supply of mines for its own purposes, and the British will find no difficulties with regard to priority if they undertake purchases here officials said. Repid and large-scale production by American plants is available, it was disclosed.

"American naval circles are extremely complacent about German magnetic mines and the devices they contain, as disclosed by the recovery of several mines used in the German attempt to disrupt British shipping. The impression is prevalent that the United States has mines superior to any the Germans have produced, but details about them are a closely guarded secret."

SEES POSSIBLE LABOR SHORTAGE

President of Royal Bank of Canada Believes Dominion Faces Period of Maximum Employment

Montreal, Jan. 11 (CP).—Belief that Canada faces a period of maximum employment—and possibly a labor shortage—due to the war was expressed today by President Morris W. Wilson at the annual meeting of the Royal Bank of Canada.

He expressed the hope that under such circumstances labor and wage disputes would be avoided. "Those who are fortunate enough to remain at their regular employment in Canada must not exploit the situation for their own ends."

But capital, too, must play its part added Mr. Wilson. "Some industries, of course, will be adversely affected by the war but the majority will undoubtedly experience a great stimulus," he said. "The benefits therefrom must not be retained by stockholders except to a normal degree."

The president said profiteering should be "ruthlessly suppressed and our taxing system should be constantly under study and applied to direct our efforts to those activities essential to giving the maximum economic assistance in winning the war."

SPRINGER SPANIEL IN DOG POUND

A fine specimen of a Springer Spaniel puppy is in the custody of the city dog pound, Thomas Thorne, pound custodian, announced today. The canine will be destroyed tomorrow evening unless claimed in the meantime. No dog tag was attached the animal.

JAP BOMBINGS ARE INCESSANT

Further Crippling of China's Communication is Reported

Shanghai, Jan. 11 (CP)—Authoritative foreign reports today told of further crippling of China's communications with the outside by incessant Japanese air bombing of the French-owned and operated railway between Kumming, capital of Yunan Province, and Haphong, French Indo-China.

This railway was an important route for Chinese war supplies and its crippling, coming a few weeks after the fall of Nanning, Kwangsi Province, cutting the highway route through that province, was regarded as constituting a severe blow for the armies of General Chiang Kai-Shek.

ICEBERG WRECKS GERMAN SHIP

Crew of 62 Rescued Off Coast of Iceland Wednesday Night

Copenhagen, Denmark, Jan. 11—(AP)—The German steamship Bahia Blanca, 8,500 tons, was wrecked and presumably sank after striking an iceberg off the coast of iceland last night, marine authorities said today. The crew of 63 was reported rescued by the Iceland trawler Hafstein.

The Bahia Blanca sailed several weeks ago from Rio De Janeiro, where it arrived Sept. 11 disguised as a Greek vessel after a 32-day trip from Hamburg.

SAYS GIRL TOTED GUN, ROBBED HIM

Clearwater, Ont. Man Says He Gave Lift to Couple Who Tied His Hands

Toronto, Jan. 11. —(CP)—L. A. MacDonald, 51, Clearwater, Ont., told police of suburban East York Township today that he was held up late last night by a gun-toting girl and a youth and robbed of everything except the clothes he wore.

MacDonald said he was driving home through Bradford, 35 miles north of here, and stopped to give the couple a lift. He said be "believed" the girl drew a revolver. The couple then tied his hands and placed him in the back seat of his car.

He said they drove for an hour and that he then was removed from the car and tied and locked in an East York shack. Some change was taken from his pockets and the car in which they drove away contained two fur coats and an evening dress.

MacDonald said he escaped from his prison by kicking through the walls. He walked to a garage and telephoned the police.

"If you're going to drive my car to Montreal, put some oil in it", MacDonald said he told the pair when they began discussing plans to head for that city.

'Survivorship in Common Disaster' Act is Submitted

Toronto, Jan. 11—(CP)—The result of a double fatality several years ago is an act submitted to the Ontario Legislature by Attorney-general Gordon A. Conant. The act is entited "Survivorship in Common Disasters."

The measure provides that in cases where a husband and wife meet death together in an accident, and where there is no evidence as to which of the two perished first, the younger of the two shall be presumed to have survived the other, for purposes of inheritance.

An exception is made in cases where the life of one of the victims is insured in favor of the other. Insofar as the insurance claim is concerned the beneficiary is to be presumed to have died first.

RECIPROCAL TRADE EXPANDS MARKET HULL DECLARES

American Tariffs Lowered Only Where They Are 'Unduly Burdensome'

DEFENCE OF EXPORTS

Washington, Jan. 11—(CP)—Ascribing "flagrant and unscrupulous and misuse of material facts" to critics of the reciprocal trade program, State Secretary Cordell Hull declared today that it had expanded markets for United States farm and manufacture products.

He appealed to the House of Representatives Ways and Means Committee to renew the expiring Trade Agreements Act in order to aid in worldwide economic readjustment after the war.

"The choice before us", Hull said, "is whether we shall lead the way toward the slough of despair and ruin for ourselves and for others, or toward the heights of economic progress, sustained prosperity and enduring peace for our nation and for the world."

Method Democratic

He took issue with members of Congress who are demanding Senate ratification of each agreement, by asserting that the method followed in State Department negotiations "is democratic in every sense of the word".

Hull said American tariffs were lowered only where they are "unduly burdensome", and where other countries have agree to accord better treatment to United States exports in return for tariff adjustments.

"Some light is shed on the present situation by the fact that many of those who are now insisting upon advising American agriculture in opposition to the reciprocal trade policy, which has demonstrated its benefits to agriculture, were among the identical persons who advised the farmers in 1930 that the Smoot-Hawley Act would bring them permanent prosperity, whereas under such advise the farmers of this nation were piloted straight into unprecedented bankruptcy.

Tariff Barriers Decried

"I dare say that the farmers will now will have in enormous influond time such reckless advice, supported by still more reckless statistics".

During the war, Hull argued, the present trade agreements are of inestimable value in defending American Export Trade from the inroads of wartime controls and dislocations.

"The scope for going forward during the war is naturally restricted," he said. "But the need for facilitating trade and for keeping alive the principles which underlie the trade agreements program is of crucial importance. For our actions now will have an enormous influence upon the problems of economic reconstruction when hostilities have ceased".

The background of his argument was the theme which he has reiterated in and out of Congress for years—that tariff barriers choke world trade channels, create economic depression for surplus-producing agriculture and industry, and constitute a threat to lasting peace.

NEW COMMISSAR FOR AVIATION

Mikhail Kaganovich Transferred to Another Post and M. Shakhurin Appointed

Moscow, Jan. 11—(AP) — Soviet Russia has a new commissar for her aviation industry.

The Soviet News Agency, Tass, announced last night that Mikhail Kaganovich had been relieved as commissar and "transferred to another post." His successor, M. Shakhurin, is a newcomer to high Russian officialdom.

No reason was given for the change. Kaganovich, brother of Lazarus Kaganovich, a confidant of Joseph Stalin and administrator in several successive key positions, formerly was assistant commissar of the defence industry.

As administrative head of the defence industry Kaganovich planned assembly production of planes and sought to step up and improve manufacture of tanks and guns.

A year ago the administration of the defence industry was divided into departments for aviation, shipbuilding, ammunition and armament. Kaganovich took the aviation commissariat.

'Stalin's Secret Weapon' Sled Tank Taken by Finns

Copenhagen, Denmark, Jan. 11—(AP)—Finnish troops credited with destroying two Russian divisions recently on the Suomussalmi front were reported today to have captured a "sled tank" which the Scandinavian press characterized as "Stalin's secret weapon."

The machine, consisting of an armored body mounted on skis and driven by an airplane propeller, was said to be capable of amazing speed over snowy open spaces. The armament was said to include machine guns and a light cannon.

The Finns reported its weakness were its light armor, difficulty of steering and unsuitability to broken, wooded country.

WOMAN BRUTALLY ATTACKED BY MAN AT HAMILTON

Mother of Three Children in Hospital for Leg and Mouth Injuries

NEAR CITY LIMITS

Hamilton, Ont., Jan. 11 (CP).—Provincial and City Police united forces today in the search for a man who late last night brutally attacked a woman—mother of three children—while she was waiting at the city limits for a street car. Two similar episodes that occurred in the township east of the city within the last year still are unsolved.

Victim of last night's attack was in hospital today undergoing treatment for leg bruises and a severe mouth injury caused by a blow from her assailant's fist. The blow forced a tooth to cut through the flesh of her cheek.

After visiting a relative, the woman sought the shelter of the tin chalet at a street railway stop.

Without warning, a man stepped into the chalet behind her, grabbed her by the throat and brutally punched her in the jaw. She was thrown to the floor and her clothing was torn. The man fled across a field and ran along Burlington street.

Dazed and shaken, the woman gained strength enough to appeal for assistance with the result police were summoned. The woman was taken to hospital and is expected to and a gray fedora.

W. H. WORMWITH DIES AT KINGSTON

Born in Hudson River district where his family, descendants of an old Dutch family, had settled, he came to Kingston when a youth and resided here since. At the age of 14, he became interested in piano making and later headed the Wormwith Piano Company, remaining as its head until 1910, when the late Senator H. W. Richardson and G. Y. Chown became associated with him. He remained as superintendent until 1918, when he retired.

Mr. Wormwith was for 15 years a member of the board of education and also served as alderman for several years, he was an enthusiastic bowler and curler.

Surviving are two daughters, Mrs. H. V. Finnie of St. Catharines and Mrs. Michael J. Rodden of Toronto and one son N. B. Wormwith of Toronto.

Martial Law Proclaimed in Sudeten City

Komarno, Hungary, Jan. 11 (CP Havas)—Reports reaching here from Germany today said martial law had been proclaimed in Reichenberg, big industrial city in the former Sudetenland.

Another report said that most members of the Nazi elite guard had been sent from their Prague garrison to Vienna to quell serious disorders resulting from an acute food shortage.

Police Blotter

An electric bicycle generator and other accessories were stolen from a parked bicycle left on the Belleville Collegiate campus yesterday, local police were informed by a lad named Evans, who owned the bike.

Residents at 44 Great St. James Street, informed city police today that James Miller, who was arrested yesterday on a charge of the theft of two bicycles, did not reside at 44 Great St. James Street, as was reported by police yesterday. Miller resides at 42 Great St. James Street, they told authorities.

Despite the intense fog, one of the worst and most dense fogs of the year no serious motor accidents were reported by Highway Traffic officers Ervine and Caldwell today. "Actually the fog was so dense that traffic was slowed down to the proverbial snail's pace, which no doubt accounted for the fact that no accidents resulted," Constable Ervine stated today. Visibility was practically nil during last night's heavy fog, the strongest motor car headlights only penetrating the density for a mere few feet.

FOG BLANKETS CITY AND DISTRICT

Traffic Forced to Slow Down to Mere Crawl During Last Evening

Reminiscent of London Town a fog of pea-soup density dropped over the city and district last night like a blanket, impeding traffic and turning highways and byways of the surrounding countryside into dangerous driving hazards.

Shortly after nine o'clock the heavy vapor, appearing from apparently nowhere settled down. The city hall clock was not visible and streetlights shone wanly through the ghostly vapor.

Travellers from outlying districts reported the fog to be as far north as Madoc and as south as Picton. One "knight of the road" said he had travelled about five miles en route from Madoc to Belleville when without warning the fog" settled about the car like an old blanket. I was forced to drive at ten miles an hour and at no time could see any more than twelve feet ahead of my car, despite the fact that I had foglights."

Harold Thompson, Picton transport driver, told the Ontario Intelligencer that "it took me two hours to negotiate the distance between Picton and Belleville. The fog was thick and opaque. Our lights could not penetrate the mist and the road showed about the length of a car ahead of us."

Lasts Three Hours

For upwards of three hours the fog hung over the city like a pall. Traffic was slowed to a practical standstill in the city, while transport drivers and travellers congregated in hotel lobbies and restaurants waiting for it to lift.

Shortly after midnight, the fog began to thin out and sometime after visibility was clear enough for motorists and truckers to continue their journeys. No accidents were reported by traffic officers of the district.

The fog, however left in its wake heavy moisture, that clung to trees and buildings like a sticky substance.

Temperatures dropped during the early hours of the morning and when citizens awakened today they were confronted with a miniature winter fairyland. Moisture had frozen to trees and shrubbery converting them into pretty things of crystal beauty.

Five Residents Of Tyendinaga Reserve Jailed for Theft

Five residents of the Tyendinaga Reserve were jailed here today by Magistrate E. J. Butler, K.C., as they appeared for sentence after pleading guilty to breaking and entering the Mohawk Reserve council house and stealing therefrom 14 bags of barley. The quintette pleaded guilty to the charges one week ago and were remanded for sentence at that time.

John Sero, 33, who was named the ringleader by Crown Attorney B. C. Donnan, K.C., after he had entered Sero's list of previous convictions before the court. Sero was sentenced to serve not less than six months nor more than year in the Ontario Reformatory. "I feel you have been exceedingly lenient with this man as I was about to recommend a penitentiary term', added Mr. Donnan. Donald Brant and Garnet Lewis, other members of the quintette were sentenced to one month in the common jail while Albert Culbertson and Robert Lewis were given three months in the same institution.

The convicted men were charged by Provincial Constables McBrien and Smith with the theft of the grain, which was later sold by the accused men, the authorities stated.

STONE CATAPULTED THROUGH WINDOW

Catapulted from the tire of a passing motor car, a stone was shot through a large plate glass window in Ciceri's store at the corner of Victoria Ave. and Front St. yesterday. For a few moments mystery surrounded the sudden crash and breaking of the window as passersby and store employees were suddenly startled by the crash. Later a pedestrian, who had seen the accident, revealed that a passing motor car tire had driven the stone through the large plate glass window.

EMPLOYEE FRUSTRATES BREAK-IN ATTEMPT

Efforts to gain entrance to the Cities Service Oil Company warehouse, John St. were discovered by Mr. Wm. Hopkins, company employee, early last evening. Sergeant Arthur Booth and P.C. Arnott investigated and found the panels of a rear partition leading into the company office had been removed in an attempt to gain entrance. The marauders had entered the rear of the building through a window but had apparenty been disturbed by Mr. Hopkins in their efforts to continue their entrance into the company office. Tracks were also seen in the snow and leading from the rear of the building.

DISTRACTED WORLD THEME OF MEETING

At the week of prayer service at St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church on Wednesday evening under the auspices of the Belleville Ministerial Association, the Rev. R. E. Newman conducted the worship and the Rev. W. D. Harrison spoke on the theme of the meeting "The Distracted World of Nations and Their Rulers". He referred to conditions in Europe, Asia and elsewhere and made the spiritual application at the close.

Tonight, Thursday evening, the meeting place of the services is changed to Christ Church where they will be held tonight and Friday.

POLICE COURT

Charged With Turkey Theft

Three Tyendinaga Township youths appeared in County Police Court here today charged with the theft of two turkeys, while the third member of the trio also faced a charge of receiving stolen goods. Fines and restitution were levied by Magistrate E. J. Butler K.C., who presided.

Mr. Charles A. Cameron K.C. appeared on behalf of the lads and spoke in mitigation of sentence, pointing out that all were first offenders. One of the lads was assessed $20.00 and cost amounting to $45.85 in all. The three lads bore a good name in this community previous to this trouble, Mr. Cameron added.

"Where are the turkeys in question?" asked His Worship.

"They were eaten by these men", revealed Crown Attorney B. C. Donnan K.C., amid the laughter of the largest police court seen in Belleville in many years.

Appears on Four Counts of Theft

James Dunlay, Thurlow, appeared on four counts of theft, including one of the stealing of grain. Dunlay was not represented by counsel and asked for a week's remand during which time he hoped to engage a lawyer to defend him.

Charge Dismissed

A charge of careless driving was dismissed against one E. C. Turner who had given a Toronto address at the time of his apprehension two months ago. "We can't locate this man now", revealed Motorcycle Patrolman Sam Ervine, which prompted the court to dismiss the charge.

Failed to Get Dog License

Although he was not present to answer to his name, Cornelius Hamilton, Thurlow, was convicted of harboring a dog and failing to procure a township dog licence.

When the name of G. H. Stoliker, Thurlow, was called on the same charge Mr. Donnan examined the summons and turned to the court to say that no affidavit of service had been made. "We can't expect the man to appear if he wasn't properly summoned", added the Crown Attorney.

Two H.T.A. cases terminated a lengthy proceedings.

WAREHOUSE ENTERED AND OIL IS STOLEN

Marauders entered the Supertest Gasoline Company warehouse on George street during last night and stole a quantity of sealed oil and other smaller articles, Alfred Foster, a company employee, informed city police early today. Sergeant Arthur Harman investigated and found that entrance had been gained through a side window into the warehouse proper.

Two cartons of quart-sized cans of oil were stolen along with a 25-foot tape measure and a flashlight.

"SHOEMAKERS" DEFEAT MADOC

Rolling Along at Top of Trent Valley Hockey Loop

Foxboro, Jan. 11 (Special). — Climb-ing right back onto the band-wagon again after suffering a decisive 6-2 drubbing at the hands of the Campbellford sextette earlier in the week, the Bata "Shoemakers" are rolling merrily along at the top of the Trent Valley League this morning as the result of their routing the Madoc lads by a 5-1 score at the Frankford arena last evening.

After the first few moments of the first period when the Madoc team applied the pressure long enough to score their lone counter of the game, the lads from the northern village faded rapidly and before the initial stanza was completed were trailing 2-1. Only a few shots had been exchanged when the Madoc lads ganged up on Rogers, in the "Cobbler's nets, and Akey banged the rubber disk home shortly after one minute of playing time to put the homesters one down. Both teams were back-checking well and most attacks were broken up at the blue line with rival goalies only being called upon to make the occasional save. Finally at about the three quarter mark, Mayette, shifty little left winger for Bata, slipped through to get the equalizer and a couple of minutes later Hubert Foster put the homesters ahead as he banged in Reid's pass at the 18-minute mark.

Tripping Penalty.

Foster went off for tripping just as the second canto got under way but the Madoc lads could not get organized and while the homesters were still short-handed, Stojan went through on a beautiful solo effort to put his team two up. Mayette duplicated the feat a couple minutes later when he scored his second goal of the night to make the score 4-1. Reid took a nice pass from Mayette from inside the defence early in the last period to bat the Madoc goalie for the final score and although the northern lads pressed hard they could not dent the stout defence set up by the homesters.

The game was slowed up considerably as Referee Watson and Linesman Finnigan closely checked all off-sides and rough playing with five penalties being handed out — three to Madoc and two to Bata, and all for minor infractions of the playing rules.

Stojan proved a stonewall on the defence for the winners, coming through with a nice goal and breaking up many plays at the blue line with his sweeping check. The front line of Reid at centre, flanked by Mayette and Foster accounted for the balance of the scoring with Reid's puck-carrying ability making him a constant threat all evening.

Bata—Goal, Rogers; defence, Stojan, Quay; centre, Reid; wings, Mayette, H. Foster; subs, Lawrence, Hannah, Harod Foster, Brydon.

Referee—Watson (Madoc), Finnigan (Frankford).

5—Bata, Mayette 5.00
Penalties—Foster, Heyworth (2).

Third Period.

6—Bata, Reid (Mayette) 4.00
Penalty—Reid.

PROPOSES TUNNEL UNDER CHANNEL

French Editor Would Start Operations Under English Channel Day Peace is Signed

Paris, Jan. 11 (CP Havas) — Wladimir D'Ormesson, editor of Le Figaro, proposed today that the Allied Supreme War Council solemnly endorse at its next meeting a project to start building a tunnel under the English channel the very day peace is signed.

Such an announcement, M. D'Ormesson said, would forever give the lie to the Nazi-circulated thesis that Britain is only awaiting achievement of its own selfish objectives to abandon France and return to its age-old "balance of power" policy.

It would prove that the Anglo-French collaboration attained in the war will survive after the fighting is over, and it would serve as well to give badly needed work to demobilized soldiers, he said.

FOREIGN EXCHANGE BOARD'S RULING

The following wire was received by Messrs. Biggar and Crawford, Bridge Street:—

"Non-residents with dollar balances in Canada may hereafter buy securities and revert to their cash position at will according to an announcement by the Foreign Exchange Control Board at Ottawa. Up until now if a non-resident got into securities he could not regain his cash position but could only make switches. The permission to revert to cash applies only to securities purchased after January 8 and only to purely Canadian securities. The new ruling is intended to stimulate trading and increase import of capital".—Dow Jones.

AT THE BELLE

"Remember?" Funny Film

Tie a string around your finger as a reminder if you must, but don't forget to see "Remember?" starring Robert Taylor, and Greer Garson, with Lew Ayres, which is now on the Belle Theatre screen.

It's a tonic for every member of the family, one of the gayest romantic comedies of modern married life that has come to the screen in many a month, with a hundred smiles, chuckles and laughs in every reel.

Taylor tops any past performance in the action role of a young advertising executive who falls in love with his pal's fiancee at first sight, marries her after a whirlwind elopement, and then has to call for help. In the role of Linda, Miss Garson, the charming Kathie of "Goodbye, Mr. Chips," proves that she is every bit as versatile and appealing in comedy as she is in drama. Completing the happy threesome is Ayres as Sky Ames who loses his best gal to his best friend and then brings them back together when their marriage fails through misunderstandings.

Corey Ford, national magazine writer and humorist, wrote the original in collaboration with Norman Z. McLeod, who also directed. They missed no opportunity for sparkling dialogue and comedy situations which are played to the fullest for every laugh by the stars and a capable supporting cast headed by Billie Burke, Reginald Owen, George Barbier, Henry Travers, Laura Hope Crews, Richard Carle and Sara Haden.

"Our Neighbors—The Carters"

Seldom, if ever, has a picture been directed as cleverly at the heart as "Our Neighbors—The Carters" which is the added feature attraction with Fay Bainter, Frank Craven, Edmund Lowe and Genevieve Tobin in the top featured roles. Without becoming saccharine, the story of the Carters takes audiences right into the lives of a typical American family, shows them standing together to face difficulties presents them in their many moments of happiness, and gives a clear picture of each member of the family from the head of the household down to the smallest tot.

From the outset then, it is obvious that "Our Neighbors—The Carters" is not just another "family" picture. Rather it is a dramatic and honest probing of the Carters' reaction to life.

From that point the picture progresses to a tender and poignant climax highlighted by the failure of ultimate success of business, the visit of the old friends from Chicago to celebrate the Carters' twentieth wedding anniversary and the offer of the Carters' friends to adopt one of the children to help out.

The performances of Miss Bainter and of Frank Craven, who scored so sensationally on the stage in "Our Town" are keyed sympathetically to the picture. Lowe and Miss Tobin are fine as the couple who have gone to the big city, tasted success, yet found something lacking in life without children. And the Carter children are all excellent, especially little Joyce Arleen, who is a discovery of Charles R. Rogers, producer of the picture, the man who discovered Deanna Durbin. Ralph Murray has directed the picture with an eye for a well-timed balance between pathos and humor.

AT THE McCARTHY

"Amazing Mr. Williams"

Now playing at the McCarthy theatre is a laugh show from first flash final fadeout starting with the technicolor cartoon entitled "Graduation Exercises," after which comes the three stooges Larry, Moe and Curly in their new and hilarious howl, "Oily to Bed, Oily to Rise" and then Melvyn Douglas and Joan Blondell in Columbia's fast and furious delightfully different comedy feature presentation "The Amazing Mr. Williams," which for two solid hours is the most fun-provoking combination of uproarious entertainment this reviewer has had the opportunity of enjoying in a long, long time. Take a good 'tip' folks, see the above program now at the McCarthy, it is well-balanced, wholesome entertainment and as above mentioned, a laugh show from first to final fadeout.

"Tower of London"

A year in the making and from advance reports said to be one of the mightiest achievements ever accomplished "Tower of London" which has a cast of thousands, including such well known stars as Basil Rathbone, Boris Karloff, Barbara O'Neil, Ian Hunter, Vincent Price, Nan Grey, John Suttan and Rose Hobart comes next week to the McCarthy theatre. One of the few Canadian theatres so far able to book it, coming here direct after it's premier showing in Ottawa, Ontario.

Madoc

Madoc, Jan. 11.—Madoc hockey team went down to defeat on Monday night at the Madoc arena when Marmora carried off the honors, 7-3. All through the game Marmora seemed to have all the luck on their side. Penalties were plentiful and occasionally sticks flew high, but the referees intervened and the players got down to business.

Marmora—Goal, Callery; defence, C. O'Neill, N. O'Neill; centre, G. Leonard; wings, E. Reynolds, E. Leonard; subs, Johnston, Buskard, Kerr.

Madoc—Goal, G. Martin; defence, Embury, Hailstone; centre, Keller; wings, Akey, Owen; subs, Hayworth, P. Gillman, G. Gillman, Larone, MacGibbon.

Referees—J. Watson, Madoc; Cousins, Marmora.

SUIT DISMISSED

New York, Jan. 11 (AP).—The suit brought against Henry J. (Bob) Topping by a private detective for $5,236 he claimed the tin-plate heir owed him for obtaining divorce evidence against Topping's first wife, Jayne Shadduck Topping, was dismissed today in federal court.

Air Ministry Discloses New Super-Fighting Plane of Long-Range Type of "Very High Speed" Now in Production

London, Jan. 12—(CP)—For the fourth successive day German scouting bombers cruised above British ports today, meeting anti-aircraft fire in clear skies over the Thames Estuary over the Suffolk coast and off Yorkshire.

The Air Ministry announced Royal Air Force scouts flew over west and northwest Germany and the German seaplane bases in Heligoland Bight last night.

There was also new activity at sea. German bombers sank the British steamship Keynes, 1,705 tons, in the North Sea yesterday, it was announced, and mines in the last 24 hours have sunk the British steamship Granta.

Landed at British Port

Survivors of the Keynes landed at a British port by a naval vessel today said the ship was attacked in the morning but dodged the bombs. The attack, renewed in the afternoon, finally resulted in five direct hits. Only one member of the crew was injured. L. Fisher, mate of the Keynes, said he saw another ship apparently bombed and a third ship standing by.

One crew member of the El Oso, which went down off the west coast of Britain, died in a hospital today as result of his injuries. Three other members of the ship's crew disappeared after the explosion. The El Oso carried a crew of 36, of whom 26 escaped unhurt.

Why The Weather?

By Major A. H. Thiessen
Science Service Meteorologist

Sunshine and water vapor! Water vapor helps to keep us warm preventing, to some extent, the heat of the earth from escaping. Pure dry air allows the sunshine to go throough unhindered, but the water vapor, ozone and carbon dioxide absorb some of the radiated heat. In this way the air becomes heated by direct radiation. Since water vapor absorbs radiated heat fairly well, it is clear that the earth cools most rapidly on clear nights when the air is dry. This condition is found over the deserts, where during the day the temperature may be unbearably high and at night uncomfortably low. Water there if properly exposed, may freeze before morning.

FEARED 91 MEN TRAPPED IN MINE NOW ALL DEAD

23 Bodies Already Recovered the Last Nineteen Being Badly Mangled

SHAFT INSPECTED

(By Lee Disher Associated Press Staff Writer).

Bartley, W. Va., Jan. 12 (AP) — Recovery of 23 bodies from the blast-torn Bartley No. 1 mine shattered hope today for the safety of 68 other miners trapped behind twisted timbers and other debris by Wednesday's explosion.

The last 19 bodies—all badly mangled—were found as rescue crews stumbled through the wrecked tunnels 600 feet underground to the very centre of the explosion area.

Rescue workers reported the men probably had been killed instantly and saw little chance miners in other entryways had escaped. Mine company officials and mine inspectors shared that belief.

"I am afraid that finding of the bodies means the other men in the mine also will be found dead," said G. J. Stollings, general manager of Pond Creek Pocahontas Coal Corporation which operates the workings.

38 Hours of Tunnelling.

It took approximately 38 hours to tunnel through tons of slate, rock and coal to where the 91 men were caught 600 feet underground by a blast mine inspectors said might have resulted when the miners cut into some abandoned gas-filled entry. Forty-seven diggers in the eastern section of the mine escaped.

Four bodies were recovered before rescuers reached the explosion scene.

Hope of finding some of the men alive brightened early today when weary workers finally dug into a right entry, finding dinner buckets and machines where an estimated thirty men had been working. Belief was expressed that the men had made their way to another section and successfully barricaded themselves against gas. These hopes were dashed with the finding of the five bodies in a passageway leading off from the entry.

The bodies were approximately 8,000 feet from the shaft and some 2,400 feet away from another group of workers that might be alive.

Evidence Indicates Men Doomed

E. L. Chatfield, State Mine Inspector, after talking with the rescue crews, said, "the evidence of the violence indicates that every man in the mine is doomed."

He reported one of the crews found a two-ton loading machine blown 60 feet from the face of the coal. The track on which it ran was twisted and warped.

"After damp", the mixture of gasses which is left after all oxygen is burned out in an explosion, would have killed many of the men instantly, Chatfield declared, if they were unable to shut themselves off.

DOMINION SEEKS $200,000,000 IN FIRST WAR LOAN

Investors Will Receive 3 1-4 Per Cent for Their Money But Will Not be Tax Free

BONDS MATURE IN 1952

Finance Minister Empowered to Accept Application to Convert Maturing Bonds in 1940

Ottawa, Jan. 12 (CP)—The Dominion government will seek $200,000,000 at 3 1-4 per cent interest from Canadian investors when it launches its first war loan next Monday morning in the initial "big push" on the economic front.

The proceeds from the loan will be used to finance expenditures connected with the war, estimated to cost $1,000,000 a day for the first year. The bonds will be offered at par and will not be tax free as were most Victory bonds of the first Great War.

Explaining details of the loan in an announcement made on behalf of Finance Minister Ralston here last night, the Finance Department said the bonds, dated Feb. 1, 1940, finally will mature Feb. 1, 1952, by a new callable system used for the first time in Canada.

Beginning Feb. 1, 1948, and on the two following years at the same date, 20 per cent of the loan will be redeemed at par each year. On Feb. 1, 1951, another 20 per cent will be redeemed at 100.50 and the final 20 per cent on Feb. 1, 1952 at 101.00.

Can Convert Bonds.

In addition to the cash subscription of $200,000,000 being sought, the Finance Minister also is empowered to accept, at his discretion, applications to convert Dominion of Canada three-percent bonds which mature on March 1, 1940, into an equal par value of the same issue.

The bonds turned in for conversion will be valued at 100.17 per cent and accrued interest to date of delivery. A cash adjustment in favor of the applicant will be made at time of delivery. The issue of three-per-cent bonds maturing next March 1 was for $115,000,000.

The Finance Department made it clear that the government desired the first loan to be supported by the people as a whole with a large number of subscriptions from ordinary wage earners. Allotments will be for the Finance Minister to decide.

Available Two Ways

The bonds will be available in either bearer form with interest coupons attached or in full registered form in which case interest will be paid by cheque. The bearer bonds will have denominations as low as $50 and other denominations of $100, $500, and $,1000 while registered bonds will range in denomination from $500 up.

The announcement said interim certificates in bearer form will be delivered in the first instance in respect to all allotments of this loan, pending preparation of engraved definitive bonds. Registration as to principal in the case of bearer bonds or principal and interest in the case of fully registered bonds may be effected when the definitive bonds are ready for exchange on or about May 1, 1940.

Subscription books will open at nine A. M. Monday morning at the Bank of Canada and the loan will be handled by a widespread selling

By CHARLES E. HARNER
(Associated Press Staff Writer)

New York, Jan. 12 (AP).—Women (what won't they think of next?) will do a lot of swimming this summer in the closest thing to a corset you ever saw.

The creation, called a "swim suit" but not in any respect resembling the conventional middy blouse and bloomers, was displayed "to the trade" on four blondes and two brunettes.

"No more need the fastidious lady wear a rubber girdle under her bathing suit," explained one of the hired help. "We've combined the works into a thing of beauty."

What they've actually done is weave tough rubber into the cloth so that the suits will stretch in one direction and not in the other.

Fifty experts tried to look blase while the models paraded among them on wooden clogs.

A sales manager declared: "These suits are designed so that the feminine form is accentuated along the most flattering lines with the contour of the body gracefully feminine."

He pointed out what he meant. He was right.

One of the observers, commenting on a sleek white suit, said: "There is a little more to this than meets the eye—but not much."

Four or five blue suits attracted the most attention. They were worn by a blonde. She also could have appeared in an ulster, with earmuffs and galoshes and still have attracted attention.

One of the suits she wore was the color of a tropic night, studded with stars. Closer examination disclosed the stars actually were the blonde herself showing through eyelet embroidery.

"Indeed it is not embarrassing," she said. "It makes life more interesting."

Britain Purchases All of Canada's Exportable Surplus of Aluminum

Col. Llewellin Sec'y. of Ministry of Supply States All Surplus Lead and Copper Also Taken

HUGE LUMBER ORDERS

By HAROLD FAIR
Canadian Press Staff Writer

London, Jan. 12—(CP Cable)—Britain has purchased Canada's entire exportable surplus of aluminum and has a man in Canada "who is making an arrangement to expand production there," Colonel J. J. Llewellin, Parliamentary Secretary to the Ministry of Supply, disclosed today.

Colonel Llewellin, speaking at a press conference on purchases of raw materials, gave no figures or details of the arrangements.

In addition to take the exportable surplus of Canada's lead and copper ,the Ministry of Suppply also has bought immense quantities of British Columbia lumber.

There is "an acute shortage" of timber in Britain, Colonel Llewellin warned, and it was "no good encouraging people to think that a vast amount of timber will be imported in the next five or six months."

An order has been given for 2,000,000 yards of linoleum. This will replace wood as floor covering in army huts and ordnance factories.

Colonel Llewellin gave what he described as a "good picture" of the Empire's supply position. It has most of the world's rubber and tin. Copper production has jumped from 86,000 tons annually in 1914

JAPAN'S PREMIER, NOBUYUKI ABE, MAY RESIGN POST

Expected to Make Announcement at Special Meeting of Cabinet on Sunday

FALL PREDICTED

By RELMAN MORIN
(Associated Press Staff Writer)

Tokyo, Jan. 12 (AP). — Premier Nobuyuki Abe announced today he would resign Sunday, bearing out predictions his government would fall if the United States failed to react favorably to Japanese proposals for reopening the lower Yangtse to third power trade.

The entire cabinet was expected to resign and there were indications a "stop-gap" cabinet would be chosen because of the inability of the military and civilian factions to agree on a strong premier.

May Appoint Nomura.

Sources close to the government, however, said that Foreign Minister Kichisaburo Nomura might be reappointed because of the progress he is considered to have made toward improving Japan's relations with the United States.

General Abe announced he would file his resignation at a special cabinet meeting Sunday morning.

Domei, quoting well informed sources, said the Diet either would be suspended or recessed to allow the prospective new government to examine the budget. In either case the session is likely to be postponed at least a week after the scheduled re-opening of Jan. 22.

Informants close to the Japanese government predicted on Dec. 20 that the Abe cabinet might fall if the United States did not react favorably to a Japanese proposal for reopening of the lower Yangtse to third power trade.

Fall Predicted.

They admit privately that Japan seen as an overture to the United States for a trade understanding after Jan. 26 when the present commercial treaty expires as a result of Washington's six-month notice of abrogation.

Forecast of the government's fall came while Japanese officials were voicing suspicion of the renewed United States navy proposal to improve harbor facilities at the Pacific island of Guam. The Japanese saw the project as another link in a chain of "unfriendly gestures".

They admit privately that Japan had counted on having virtually a free hand in the western Pacific after 1946, the date now set for Philippine independence. In their view, the 180th Meridian, the international dateline, is the natural boundary for the United States naval sphere of action.

New Ambassador To Canada to Fly to Post in 10 Days

Washington, Jan. 12—(AP)—James H. R. Cromwell, new United States minister to Canada, will fly to his post in ten days convinced that he has work of great significance and responsibility cut out for him. The Senate confirmed his nomination yesterday. In an interview at the state department today the economist and friend of President Roosevelt set forth these reasons for his belief:

"First, Canada is at war and her position as a belligerent will give rise to many problems.

"Second, she is our neighbor to the north, and our relations with her under the Neutrality Act will call for constant study.

"Third, Canada is becoming a great manufacturing depot for the British Empire during the war. This is especially true in aviation.

"Fourth, Canada is our second largest customer and we are Canada's largest customer."

Cromwell wants to be in Ottawa on Jan. 22 and present his credentials before the opening of parliament Jan. 25.

Canada, to Cromwell, is "becoming the heart of the British Empire."

He admitted he had not had any training in diplomacy, but hoped his attention to public affairs would stand him in good stead.

"I am going to Canada convinced I shall like the Canadians," he said, "and believing they will like me."

KING CAROL AND PRINCE PAUL HOLD SECRET MEETING

Report Says Balkan Problem Was Discussed by Monarch and Regent

QUESTION OF SUPPORT

Bucharest, Jan. 12—(AP)—King Carol of Rumania and Regent Prince Paul of Yugoslavia were reported in official circles today to have held a secret conference two days ago at Vrsao, near the frontier.

Crown Prince Michael of Rumania and Premier Dragisa Cvetkovic of Yugoslavia were said also to have attended the meeting.

It was understood King Carol sounded out Prince Paul on Yugoslavia's attitude toward the Italian-Hungarian offer of support of Rumania in return for a Rumanian promise of territorial revision with Hungary after the war.

It was believed he also tried to ascertain what support Rumania could expect from Yugoslavia in her negotiations with Italy and Hungary and also in the event of Russian attack.

Italy and Hungary are understood to have agreed to a defensive alliance in anticipation of a possible Russian thrust in the Balkans. Yugoslavia, it was believed, has been asked to approve the passage of Italian troops over her territory in such an event.

OFFICER SHOOTS ALLEGED BANDIT AFTER CAR CHASE

Everett Himes Hit in Head and Dies in Hospital Two Hours After Shooting

FLORIST ROBBED

Toronto, Jan. 12—(CP)—Eighteen-year-old Everett Himes of Toronto wounded by police last night following an automobile chase from the scene of an armed robbery, died in hospital today. Held on charges of armed robbery are Charles Raspoli and Albert Hurst, alleged companions of Himes.

Police said the three obtained $27.50 in an armed robbery of H. E. Reed and Sons florist shop in the city's east end. When police cornered the three in a stolen car, Himes who first was identified under the name of Edward Dorland, ignored a police warning and attempted to escape. He was shot by Detective George Holmes, the bullet lodging in the skull.

Early today Himes' parents identified their son in hospital while he was unconscious. They said he left home a week ago and rented a room in another part of the city.

"That's my boy," said the mother. "Oh, the poor lad. He wouldn,t listen to us. He wanted to go his own way."

Just fifteen minutes after police received the holdup call, they captured the men and called for an ambulance. Surgeons at St. Michael's Hospital performed an emergency operation on Himes a short time after he was admitted.

Leslie Ellis, florist clerk, said that the moment the three men left the shop he telephond police. A police radio car received the call and minutes later spotted a car travelling at a terrific rate on the slippery street. They chased the car several miles, dodging traffic and crossing against signal lights.

Crashed Into Pole.

At King and Sherbourne streets in downtown Toronto the driver of the stolen auto attempted to turn and the car crashed against a telephone pole. The driver, Himes, began running and continued despite police shouted warnings.

"He kept on running and I fired low, intending to cripple him," Holmes said. "Just as I fired he stumbled and the bullet hit him in the head."

Hurst and Raspoli remained in the back seat of the auto, stolen in Toronto Wednesday, and surrendered without a struggle. Police said a loaded revolver was found on Hurst.

Ellis said the bandits, one armed, pushed him into a small office, then returned and forced him to open the cash register. Police said they believed the men may be responsible for four holdups in recent nights.

Allies Plan Purchase of 12,000 Planes Produced in United States

By DEVON FRANCIS.
(Associated Press Aviation Editor)

New York, Jan. 12.—In preparation for a long war, Great Britain and France are arranging for the purchase of as many as 12,000 United States warplanes in the next two years, authoritative sources said tonight.

Moreover, with steady shipments of American military planes on contracts signed since the start of hostilities last Sept. 3, the allies expect to exceed the German production rate by the middle of the coming summer.

For several weeks representatives of the British Air Ministry have been surveying individually the potential production capacity of every United States aircraft plant turning out military planes.

While the British and French actually have collaborated only on the purchase of aircraft engines and plane accessories, it was understood that in the near future they either will buy jointly or so dovetail their purchases as to avoid conflicts in contracts.

To release United States aircraft factories manufacturing for export from large-scale commitments on anything but combat types—particularly bombers and pursuits—the British will make training planes in Canada under United States licenses, it was reliably reported.

The first increment will comprise 1,600 trainers of a type already ordered in some quantity by the British. They will be made by the Noorduyn Company of Montreal.

The long-range buying program in the United States was described as still being in a "liquid state", though verbal assurance has been given American manufacturers of large additional contracts. In some instances the Allies have underwritten the cost of aircraft plane expansion to assure themselves a continuing supply of machines.

It was emphasized, however, that no contracts as yet have been signed for warplanes other than the approximately 4,000 which were ordered before the war and up to Jan. 1. Of that number, 1,500 were contracted for prior to last September.

Finnish sources in New York said representatives of their country had been negotiating this week in London for the purchase from the British of "several squadrons" of American-made bombers for use against Russia.

Prior to the war the British contracted for 230 of the bombers, the last of which are now being delivered. Recently they ordered 200 more.

Indicative of a rapid rise in productivity, the Aeronautical Chamber of Commerce today set at $20,000,000 a month the dollar value of American aircraft and engine production on Jan. 1. The chamber estimated this would be boosted to $50,000,000 by July 1.

Amsterdam Story Says Russia Ready To Talk Peace

London Daily Express Publishes Story From Correspondent Who Says it is Reported Russia Might be Willing to Give Up Plan of Complete Conquest

RUSSIA WANTS BASES

Soviet Anxious to Use Petsamo, Northern Port, and to Have Frontier With Finland in East Readjusted

London, Jan. 12.— (CP) — The Amsterdam correspondent of The Daily Express today reported Adolf Hitler has offered to act as mediator in efforts to bring about peace between Russia and Finland.

"Russia, it is believed, said she is willing to talk peace and might be willing to give up plans of complete conquest if she were assured of naval and air bases in the Baltic, the right to use Petsamo, northern ice-free port, and adjustment of her frontier with Finland in the east," the correspondent added.

Hitler Ignores Puppet Government

Amsterdam, The Netherlands, Jan. 12—(CP Havas) —Far from recognising Joseph Stalin's Puppet Finnish government at Terijoki, the German government is still accepting consuls appointed by the Finnish government at Helsingfors, it was learned here today. The appointment by Heinrich Waldmann as new Finnish consul at Essen has been agreed to by the German government.

Marksmen Pick Off Red Parachutists Before They Land

Copenhagen, Denmark, Jan. 12—(AP)— Finnish marksmen were reported today to have picked off groups of Soviet troops in the air as they attempted to land by parachute from planes behind the Finnish lines on the Karelian Isthmus.

The Stockholm newspaper Tidninten said several groups of 50 men in parachutes were "virtually annihilated" as they floated to earth at dusk yesterday.

Some Finnish riflemen shot the descending troops while they still were in the air and others were quickly rounded up after landing, the paper said.

BAR NAZIS, REDS IN CIVIC OFFICE, DREW PROPOSES

Attorney General Sympathetic But Doubts Legislature Can be Passed

DEBATE THRONE SPEECH

Toronto, Jan. 12 (CP).—Attorney-General Gordon Conant, at the prompting of the Conservative leader, Lieut.-Col. George A. Drew, will explore the possibilities of legislative action to bar Communist and Nazi party members from Ontario Municipal Councils and School Boards.

Col. Drew asked in the legislative yesterday that the government seek action that would place Boards of Education out of access to Communists and others subscribing to "foreign subversive doctrines".

Sympathy Declared.

Mr. Conant declared his sympathy with the proposal, promising investigation, but expressed doubt that the provincial government action alone could be effective.

"I have real doubts if this province can act," he said, "unless the program is instituted and made effective by the federal government.

The attorney-general said he had spent considerable time in the last four months in a study of subversive influences and organizations in the province. He cited the ban placed on a "certain publication" but said that another similar publication had been distributed in the province after the ban.

First Legislation Approved.

Approval of the first legislation of the current session was due today. Four government bills were on the order paper for second reading and they were expected to pass to the committee stage without contention.

The bills are titled:

The Mortgagors' Purchasers' Relief Act, 1940;

An act to amend the Insurance Act;

An act respecting survivorship in common disasters.

Says Soldiers Caused Resignation Of Hore-Belisha

Detroit, Jan. 12.— (CP)— Hon. Alfred Duff Cooper, in an interview here today, said that it was the private soldier who put Leslie Hore-Belisha, his successor as Secretary of War, out of office.

"The men in the ranks did not like Mr. Hore-Belisha", he said. "He was not the type a soldier admires. He likely publicity, to be photographed and talked about. He was always doing things to make a sensation".

Oliver Stanley, who succeeded Hore-Belisha to the war post, will be popular with the soldiers, he predicted, as he is clever, efficient and popular with the soldiers.

Mr. Duff Cooper spoke only briefly of Canada's participation in the war efforts, saying the work the Dominion is doing "is marvelous". He stressed especially Canada's aviation efforts.

Why The Weather?

By Major A. H. Thiessen
Science Service Meteorologist

Sunshine and water vapor! Water vapor helps to keep us warm preventing, to some extent, the heat of the earth from escaping. Pure dry air allows the sunshine to go through unhindered, but the water vapor, ozone and carbon dioxide absorb some of the radiated heat. In this way the air becomes heated by direct radiation. Since water vapor absorbs radiated heat fairly well, it is clear that the earth cools most rapidly on clear nights when the air is dry. This condition is found over the deserts, where during the day the temperature may be unbearably high and at night uncomfortably low. Water there if properly exposed, may freeze before morning.

FEARED 91 MEN TRAPPED IN MINE NOW ALL DEAD

23 Bodies Already Recovered the Last Nineteen Being Badly Mangled

SHAFT INSPECTED

(By Lee Disher Associated Press Staff Writer).

Bartley, W. Va., Jan. 12 (AP) — Recovery of 23 bodies from the blast-torn Bartley No. 1 mine shattered hope today for the safety of 68 other miners trapped behind twisted timbers and other debris by Wednesday's explosion.

The last 19 bodies—all badly mangled—were found as rescue crews stumbled through the wrecked tunnels 600 feet underground to the very centre of the explosion area.

Rescue workers reported the men probably had been killed instantly and saw little chance miners in other entryways had escaped. Mine company officials and mine inspectors shared that belief.

"I am afraid that finding of the bodies means the other men in the mine also will be found dead," said G. J. Stollings, general manager of Pond Creek Pocahontas Coal Corporation which operates the workings.

38 Hours of Tunnelling.

It took approximately 38 hours to tunnel through tons of slate, rock and coal to where the 91 men were caught 600 feet underground by a blast mine inspectors said might have resulted when the miners cut into some abandoned gas-filled entry. Forty-seven diggers in the eastern section of the mine escaped.

Four bodies were recovered before rescuers reached the explosion scene.

Hope of finding some of the men alive brightened early today when weary workers finally dug into a right entry, finding dinner buckets and machines where an estimated thirty men had been working. Belief was expressed that the men had made their way to another section and successfully barricaded themselves against gas. These hopes were dashed with the finding of the five bodies in a passageway leading off from the entry.

The bodies were approximately 8,000 feet from the shaft and some 2,400 feet away from another group of workers that might be alive.

Evidence Indicates Men Doomed

E. L. Chatfield, State Mine Inspector, after talking with the rescue crews, said, "the evidence of the violence indicates that every man in the mine is doomed."

He reported one of the crews found a two-ton loading machine blown 60 feet from the face of the coal. The track on which it ran was twisted and warped.

"After damp", the mixture of gasses which is left after all oxygen is burned out in an explosion, would have killed many of the men instantly, Chatfield declared, if they were unable to shut themselves off.

New Styles of Women's Swim Suits Creations of Beauty, a Joy to Behold

By CHARLES E. HARNER
(Associated Press Staff Writer)

New York, Jan. 12 (AP).—Women (what won't they think of next?) will do a lot of swimming this summer in the closest thing to a corset you ever saw.

The creation, called a "swim suit" but not in any respect resembling the conventional middy blouse and bloomers, was displayed "to the trade" on four blondes and two brunettes.

"No more need the fastidious lady wear a rubber girdle under her bathing suit," explained one of the hired help. "We've combined the works into a thing of beauty."

What they've actually done is weave tough rubber into the cloth so that the suits will stretch in one direction and not in the other.

Fifty experts tried to look blase while the models paraded among them on wooden clogs.

A sales manager declared: "These suits are designed so that the feminine form is accentuated along the most flattering lines with the contour of the body gracefully feminine."

He pointed out what he meant. He was right.

One of the observers, commenting on a sleek white suit, said: "There is a little more to this than meets the eye—but not much."

Four or five blue suits attracted the most attention. They were worn by a blonde. She also could have appeared in an ulster, with earmuffs and galoshes and still have attracted attention.

One of the suits she wore was the color of a tropic night, studded with stars. Closer examination disclosed the stars actually were the blonde herself showing through eyelet embroidery.

"Indeed it is not embarrassing," she said. "It makes life more interesting."

DOMINION SEEKS $200,000,000 IN FIRST WAR LOAN

Investors Will Receive 3 1-4 Per Cent for Their Money But Will Not be Tax Free

BONDS MATURE IN 1952

Finance Minister Empowered to Accept Application to Convert Maturing Bonds in 1940

Ottawa, Jan. 12 (CP)—The Dominion government will seek $200,000,000 at 3 1-4 per cent interest from Canadian investors when it launches its first war loan next Monday morning in the initial "big push" on the economic front.

The proceeds from the loan will be used to finance expenditures connected with the war, estimated to cost $1,000,000 a day for the first year. The bonds will be offered at par and will not be tax free as were most Victory bonds of the first Great War.

Explaining details of the loan in an announcement made on behalf of Finance Minister Ralston here last night, the Finance Department said the bonds, dated Feb. 1, 1940, finally will mature Feb. 1, 1952, by a new callable system used for the first time in Canada.

Beginning Feb. 1, 1948, and on the two following years at the same date, 20 per cent of the loan will be redeemed at par each year. On Feb. 1, 1951, another 20 per cent will be redeemed at 100.50 and the final 20 per cent on Feb. 1, 1952 at 101.00.

Can Convert Bonds

In addition to the cash subscription of $200,000,000 being sought, the Finance Minister also is empowered to accept, at his discretion, applications to convert Dominion of Canada three-percent bonds which mature on March 1, 1940, into an equal par value of the same issue.

The bonds turned in for conversion will be valued at 100.17 per cent and accrued interest to date of delivery. A cash adjustment in favor of the applicant will be made at time of delivery. The issue of three-per-cent bonds maturing next March 1 was for $115,000,000.

The Finance Department made it clear that the government desired the first loan to be supported by the people as a whole with a large number of subscriptions from ordinary wage earners. Allotments will be for the Finance Minister to decide.

Available Two Ways

The bonds will be available in either bearer form with interest coupons attached or in full registered form in which case interest will be paid by cheque. The bearer bonds will have denominations as low as $50 and other denominations of $100, $500, and $,1000 while registered bonds will range in denomination from $500 up.

The announcement said interim certificates in bearer form will be delivered in the first instance in respect to all allotments of this loan, pending preparation of engraved definitive bonds. Registration as to principal in the case of bearer bonds or principal and interest in the case of fully registered bonds may be effected when the definitive bonds are ready for exchange on or about May 1, 1940.

Subscription books will open at nine A. M. Monday morning at the Bank of Canada and the loan will be handled by a widespread selling

Col. Llewellin Sec'y. of Ministry of Supply States All Surplus Lead and Copper Also Taken

HUGE LUMBER ORDERS

By HAROLD FAIR
Canadian Press Staff Writer

London, Jan. 12—(CP Cable)—Britain has purchased Canada's entire exportable surplus of aluminum and has a man in Canada "who is making an arrangement to expand production there," Colonel J. J. Llewellin, Parliamentary Secretary to the Ministry of Supply, disclosed today.

Colonel Llewellin, speaking at a press conference on purchases of raw materials, gave no figures or details of the arrangements.

In addition to take the exportable surplus of Canada's lead and copper ,the Ministry of Suppply also has bought immense quantities of British Columbia lumber.

There is "an acute shortage" of timber in Britain, Colonel Llewellin warned, and it was "no good encouraging people to think that a vast amount of timber will be imported in the next five or six months."

An order has been given for 3,000,000 yards of linoleum. This will replace wood as floor covering in army huts and ordnance factories.

Colonel Llewellin gave what he described as a "good picture" of the Empire's supply position. It has most of the world's rubber and tin. Copper production has jumped from 86,000 tons annually in 1914

JAPAN'S PREMIER, NOBUYUKI ABE, MAY RESIGN POST

Expected to Make Announcement at Special Meeting of Cabinet on Sunday

FALL PREDICTED

By RELMAN MORIN
(Associated Press Staff Writer)

Tokyo, Jan. 12 (AP). — Premier Nobuyuki Abe announced today he would resign Sunday, bearing out predictions his government would fall if the United States failed to react favorably to Japanese proposals for reopening the lower Yangtse to third power trade.

The entire cabinet was expected to resign and there were indications a "stop-gap" cabinet would be chosen because of the inability of the military and civilian factions to agree on a strong premier.

May Appoint Nomura.

Sources close to the government, however, said that Foreign Minister Kichisaburo Nomura might be reappointed because of the progress he is considered to have made toward improving Japan's relations with the United States.

General Abe announced he would file his resignation at a special cabinet meeting Sunday morning.

Domei, quoting well informed sources, said the Diet either would be suspended or recessed to allow the prospective new government to examine the budget. In either case the session is likely to be postponed at least a week after the scheduled re-opening of Jan. 22.

Informants close to the Japanese government predicted on Dec. 20 that the Abe cabinet might fall if the United States did not react favorably to a Japanese proposal for reopening of the lower Yangtse to third power trade.

Fall Predicted.

They admit privately that Japan seen as an overture to the United States for a trade understanding after Jan. 26 when the present commercial treaty expires as a result of Washington's six-month notice of abrogation.

Forecast of the government's fall came while Japanese officials were voicing suspicion of the renewed United States navy proposal to improve harbor facilities at the Pacific island of Guam. The Japanese saw the project as another link in a chain of "unfriendly gestures".

They admit privately that Japan had counted on having virtually a free hand in the western Pacific after 1946, the date now set for Philippine independence. In their view, the 180th Meridian, the international dateline, is the natural boundary for the United States naval sphere of action.

New Ambassador To Canada to Fly to Post in 10 Days

Washington, Jan. 12—(AP)—James H. R. Cromwell, new United States minister to Canada, will fly to his post in ten days convinced that he has work of great significance and responsibility cut out for him. The Senate confirmed his nomination yesterday. In an interview at the state department today the economist and friend of President Roosevelt set forth these reasons for his belief:

"First, Canada is at war and her position as a belligerent will give rise to many problems.

"Second, she is our neighbor to the north, and our relations with her under the Neutrality Act will call for constant study.

"Third, Canada is becoming a great manufacturing depot for the British Empire during the war. This is especially true in aviation.

"Fourth, Canada is our second largest customer and we are Canada's largest customer."

Cromwell wants to be in Ottawa on Jan. 22 and present his credentials before the opening of parliament Jan. 25.

Canada, to Cromwell, is "becoming the heart of the British Empire."

He admitted he had not had any training in diplomacy, but hoped his attention to public affairs would stand him in good stead.

"I am going to Canada convinced I shall like the Canadians," he said, "and believing they will like me."

KING CAROL AND PRINCE PAUL HOLD SECRET MEETING

Report Says Balkan Problem Was Discussed by Monarch and Regent

QUESTION OF SUPPORT

Bucharest, Jan. 12—(AP)—King Carol of Rumania and Regent Prince Paul of Yugoslavia were reported in official circles today to have held a secret conference two days ago at Vrsao, near the frontier.

Crown Prince Michael of Rumania and Premier Dragisa Cvetkovic of Yugoslavia were said also to have attended the meeting.

It was understood King Carol sounded out Prince Paul on Yugoslavia's attitude toward the Italian-Hungarian offer of support of Rumania in return for a Rumanian promise of territorial revision with Hungary after the war.

It was believed he also tried to ascertain what support Rumania could expect from Yugoslavia in her negotiations with Italy and Hungary and also in the event of Russian attack.

Italy and Hungary are understood to have agreed to a defensive alliance in anticipation of a possible Russian thrust in the Balkans. Yugoslavia, it was believed, has been asked to approve the passage of Italian troops over her territory in such an event.

OFFICER SHOOTS ALLEGED BANDIT AFTER CAR CHASE

Everett Himes Hit in Head and Dies in Hospital Two Hours After Shooting

FLORIST ROBBED

Toronto, Jan. 12—(CP)—Eighteen-year-old Everett Himes of Toronto wounded by police last night following an automobile chase from the scene of an armed robbery, died in hospital today. Held on charges of armed robbery are Charles Raspoli and Albert Hurst, alleged companions of Himes.

Police said the three obtained $27.50 in an armed robbery of H. E. Reed and Sons florist shop in the city's east end. When police cornered the three in a stolen car, Himes who first was identified under the name of Edward Dorland, ignored a police warning and attempted to escape. He was shot by Detective George Holmes, the bullet lodging in the skull.

Early today Himes' parents identified their son in hospital while he was unconscious. They said he left home a week ago and rented a room in another part of the city.

"That's my boy," said the mother. "Oh, the poor lad. He wouldn,t listen to us. He wanted to go his own way."

Just fifteen minutes after police received the holdup call, they captured the men and called for an ambulance. Surgeons at St. Michael's Hospital performed an emergency operation on Himes a short time after he was admitted.

Leslie Ellis, florist clerk, said that the moment the three men left the shop he telephond police. A police radio car received the call and minutes later spotted a car travelling at a terrific rate on the slippery street. They chased the car several miles, dodging traffic and crossing against signal lights.

Crashed Into Pole.

At King and Sherbourne streets in downtown Toronto the driver of the stolen auto attempted to turn and the car crashed against a telephone pole. The driver, Himes, began running and continued despite police shouted warnings.

"He kept on running and I fired low, intending to cripple him," Holmes said. "Just as I fired he stumbled and the bullet hit him in the head."

Hurst and Raspoli remained in the back seat of the auto, stolen in Toronto Wednesday, and surrendered without a struggle. Police said a loaded revolver was found on Hurst.

Ellis said the bandits, one armed, pushed him into a small office, then returned and forced him to open the cash register. Police said they believed the men may be responsible for four holdups in recent nights.

Allies Plan Purchase of 12,000 Planes Produced in United States

By DEVON FRANCIS.
(Associated Press Aviation Editor)

New York, Jan. 12.—In preparation for a long war, Great Britain and France are arranging for the purchase of as many as 12,000 United States warplanes in the next two years, authoritative sources said tonight.

Moreover, with steady shipments of American military planes on contracts signed since the start of hostilities last Sept. 3, the allies expect to exceed the German production rate by the middle of the coming summer.

For several weeks representatives of the British Air Ministry have been surveying individually the potential production capacity of every United States aircraft plant turning out military planes.

While the British and French actually have collaborated only on the purchase of aircraft engines and plane accessories, it was understood that in the near future they either will buy jointly or so dovetail their purchases as to avoid conflicts in contracts.

To release United States aircraft factories manufacturing for export from large-scale commitments on anything but combat types—particularly bombers and pursuits—the British will make training planes in Canada under United States licenses, it was reliably reported.

The first increment will comprise 1,600 trainers of a type already ordered in some quantity by the British. They will be made by the Noorduyn Company of Montreal.

The long-range buying program in the United States was described as still being in a "liquid state", though verbal assurance has been given American manufacturers of large additional contracts. In some instances the Allies have underwritten the cost of aircraft plane expansion to assure themselves a continuing supply of machines.

It was emphasized, however, that no contracts as yet have been signed for warplanes other than the approximately 4,000 which were ordered before the war and up to Jan. 1. Of that number, 1,500 were contracted for prior to last September.

Finnish sources in New York said representatives of their country had been negotiating this week in London for the purchase from the British of "several squadrons" of American-made bombers for use against Russia.

Prior to the war the British contracted for 230 of the bombers, the last of which are now being delivered. Recently they ordered 200 more.

Indicative of a rapid rise in productivity, the Aeronautical Chamber of Commerce today set at $20,000,000 a month the dollar value of American aircraft and engine production on Jan. 1. The chamber estimated this would be boosted to $50,000,000 by July 1.

Amsterdam Story Says Russia Ready To Talk Peace

London Daily Express Publishes Story From Correspondent Who Says it is Reported Russia Might be Willing to Give Up Plan of Complete Conquest

RUSSIA WANTS BASES

Soviet Anxious to Use Petsamo, Northern Port, and to Have Frontier With Finland in East Readjusted

London, Jan. 12.— (CP) — The Amsterdam correspondent of The Daily Express today reported Adolf Hitler has offered to act as mediator in efforts to bring about peace between Russia and Finland.

"Russia, it is believed, said she is willing to talk peace and might be willing to give up plans of complete conquest if she were assured of naval and air bases in the Baltic, the right to use Petsamo, northern ice-free port, and adjustment of her frontier with Finland in the east," the correspondent added.

Hitler Ignores Puppet Government

Amsterdam, The Netherlands, Jan. 12—(CP Havas) —Far from recognizing Joseph Stalin's Puppet Finnish government at Terijoki, the German government is still accepting consuls appointed by the Finnish government at Helsingfors, it was learned here today. The appointment by Heinrich Waldmann as new Finnish consul at Essen has been agreed to by the German government.

Marksmen Pick Off Red Parachutists Before They Land

Copenhagen, Denmark, Jan. 12—(AP)— Finnish marksmen were reported today to have picked off groups of Soviet troops in the air as they attempted to land by parachute from planes behind the Finnish lines on the Karelian Isthmus.

The Stockholm newspaper Tidninten said several groups of 50 men in parachutes were "virtually annihilated" as they floated to earth at dusk yesterday.

Some Finnish riflemen shot the descending troops while they still were in the air and others were quickly rounded up after landing, the paper said.

BAR NAZIS, REDS IN CIVIC OFFICE, DREW PROPOSES

Attorney General Sympathetic But Doubts Legislature Can be Passed

DEBATE THRONE SPEECH

Toronto, Jan. 12 (CP).—Attorney-General Gordon Conant, at the prompting of the Conservative leader, Lieut.-Col. George A. Drew, will explore the possibilities of legislative action to bar Communist and Nazi party members from Ontario Municipal Councils and School Boards.

Col. Drew asked in the legislative yesterday that the government seek action that would place Boards of Education out of abcess to Communists and others subscribing to "foreign subversive doctrines".

Sympathy Declared.

Mr. Conant declared his sympathy with the proposal, promising investigation, but expressed doubt that the provincial government action alone could be effective.

"I have real doubts if this province can act," he said, "unless the program is instituted and made effective by the federal government.

The attorney-general said he had spent considerable time in the last four months in a study of subversive influences and organizations in the province. He cited the ban placed on a "certain publication" but said that another similar publication had been distributed in the province after the ban.

First Legislation Approved.

Approval of the first legislation of the current session was due today. Four government bills were on the order paper for second reading and they were expected to pass to the committee stage without contention.

The bills are titled:

The Mortgagors' Purchasers' Relief Act, 1940;

An act to amend the Insurance Act;

An act respecting survivorship in common disasters.

Says Soldiers Caused Resignation Of Hore-Belisha

Detroit, Jan. 12.— (CP)— Hon. Alfred Duff Cooper, in an interview here today, said that it was the private soldier who put Leslie Hore-Belisha, his successor as Secretary of War, out of office.

"The men in the ranks did not like Mr. Hore-Belisha", he said. "He was not the type a soldier admires. He likely publicity, to be photographed and talked about. He was always doing things to make a sensation".

Oliver Stanley, who succeeded Hore-Belisha to the war post, will be popular with the soldiers, he predicted, as he is clever, efficient and popular with the soldiers.

Mr. Duff Cooper spoke only briefly of Canada's participation in the war efforts, saying the work the Dominion is doing "is marvelous". He stressed especially Canada's aviation efforts.

AUXILIARY BRANCH CANADIAN LEGION ELECTS NEW OFFICERS

Mrs. George Ellarby was elected president of the Canadian Legion Auxiliary Branch 99, B.E.S.L., at the annual meeting of that organization held in the Imperial Veterans' Clubrooms, Front Street, last night.

Other officers elected include: Past-President, Mrs. F. Ashmore, 1st. Vice-Pres., Mrs. D Bradford; 2nd. Vice-Pres., Mrs. Taylor; Secretary, Mrs. Hanks; Treasurer, Mrs. Bean.

Mrs. J. Semaine and Mrs. W. Styles were appointed auditors while Mrs. Fisher and Mrs. Dolder were placed on the Sick Committee.

Looking after the entertainment for the ensuing year will be Mrs. D. Bradford and Mrs. F. Ashmore. The meeting was well attended and plans for the year's activities were laid down.

CHIMNEY BLAZE SUBDUED BY FIREMEN

Fire squads raced through a heavy snowstorm a few minutes before six o'clock this morning to Bettes Street where a blazing chimney threatened to get out of control. Smoke seeped through the house but no material damage was done before firemen finally put a quietus on the blaze.

ABOUT SIX INCHES OF SNOW FALL DURING EARLY HOURS

What threatened to be, in the earlier hours of the day, a heavy snowstorm, eased off toward noon, but not before approximately six inches of wet snow had covered the city and district in a white mantle. Eager snow-shovellers were out bright and early making house-to-house canvasses, in the hope of making a few nickles with their shovels.

TWENTY PAY FINE FOR NOT SECURING RADIO LICENCES

Twenty Belleville citizens, who had received court summonses to appear in Police Magistrate E. J. Butler's local court today charged with failing to obtain their 1939 radio licences, contrary to the Radio Act, of 1938, all entered pleas of guilty in writing before Chief Kidd and paid $1.00 fine and 75c costs to avoid appearing before the court and in admission of their delinquency in the matter.

The charges were preferred by E. W. Humphries, Kingston radio inspector, who also signed 24 additional informations charging a further two dozen local radio users with failing to procure their 1939 radio licence, contrary to the articles as laid down in the Radio Act of 1939, under the Dominion Department of Transportation.

No comments were heard in court today as all persons charged paid the assessed fine previous to the proceedings.

Girls' Athletic Society

On Monday, January the eighth, a meeting of the Girls' Athletic Society was held—the first of the new year.

Those who belong, or wish to belong, to the Badminton Club must have their fees paid by Monday, January the fifteenth. The first twenty-four to apply will be admitted; the number will be limited because of accommodation. The members will play doubles on the usual "ladder" plan to find their rating; then the tournaments will be played off for the school championship.

Grade X basketball series will begin next week.

Now to disclose the real importance of the meeting—Girls' Hockey!

Oh yes! We know girls' hockey is a sort of mythical game played in "Ye Olde England," but like cricket, not played in Canada. What we propose to do is to try to start several hockey teams in the school. We can obtain a good rink. All we need is your support!

The girls in Grades IX, X, and XI to whom we have spoken are very enthusiastic; and with all the facilities at hand, we believe that we ought to make a success of this sport in the school.

A meeting will be held shortly to discuss hockey more thoroughly. We expect you to turn out.

POLICE COURT

A 19-year-old boy of this city, was sentenced to serve two months in the common jail after he had pleaded guilty to two charges of the theft of bicycles when he appeared before Magistrate E. J. Butler, K.C., in today's local police court.

The boy elected summary trial and pleaded guilty to both charges. "This boy stole the bicycles and repainted them and even sold one," revealed Crown Attorney B. C. Donnan, K.C., as he requested a prison term be imposed. "This boy has been in trouble before," added Chief Kidd who stated that previously every consideration had been given to help him. The sentences will run concurrently, His Worship directed.

Robert Gannon, Belleville, appeared on a charge of vagrancy and his case was adjourned for one week pending further police investigations.

A local lad appeared charged with the theft of three mantel model radios from the Hitchon radio store, Victoria Ave. The lad admitted the theft as he pleaded guilty as charged. Judgment was reserved by His Worship and the lad remanded in custody.

CITY COUNCIL TAKES NO ACTION ON PETITION

Majority of Members Felt Reduction of Membership of Council to Six and Mayor Too Drastic

MOTION PASSED

A short session of the city council was held last evening, the only business being the discussion and action on a petition presented to the council on Tuesday night last by Ex-Ald. Thomas Marshall asking for the implementation of a plebiscite passed by the citizens in 1937, asking for a reduction in the council membership to six. The matter was thoroughly discussed in committee with every member expressing his opinion on the question and in reporting to Council the report of Committee, Alderman Haig, explained that in the discussion in Committee the Alderman stated, that while they did not wish to bind themselves on any future action they felt at the present time, that a reduced Council would function satisfactorily. However, since this petition confined itself to a specific request for a reduction to six aldermen and a Mayor that they felt they had no alternative but to reject it, as a majority felt, that such a reduction would be too drastic. Some of the new members of Council also felt, that since they had no previous experience in the workings of Council they were not qualified to form a competent opinion but that if an immediate decision were to be forced no action should be taken.

Another factor affecting the decision was the uncertainty surrounding the term of office of the present Council on account of the Bill to be presented to the Provincial Legislature at the current session. If it is the intention to extend the term of two years plenty of time remained for the Council to discuss the problem before another municipal election and take whatever steps are considered advisable. The following recommendation was passed in council.

"Whereas a petition was presented to Council at its Inaugural Meeting on January 8th., 1940, requesting an immediate application to the Provincial Legislature for enabling legislation permitting the reduction of the members of Council to six aldermen and a mayor in accordance with an affirmative vote on a question submitted to the electors on January 4th., 1937, and whereas there exists considerable uncertainty as to the probable duration of office of the present Council on account of a possible change in the Municipal Act in this regard by the Provincial Legislature as an economy war measure:

THEREFORE be it recommended that no action be taken on the said petition at the present time."

MacDonald Automobile Left Near Trenton

Seized from Clearwater Resident After Hold-up by Youthful Hitch Hikers

Trenton, Ont., (Special)—Apparently the two-youthful hitch hikers who held up L. A. MacDonald, Clearwater, Ont., at the point of a gun on Wednesday night near Bradford, Ont., and took his car away from him as well as forty-seven cents, decided not to drive the vehicle to Montreal after all. For yesterday morning, an automobile described as being that belonging to MacDonald was found abandoned in a ditch on Highway No. 2 two miles west of Trenton by Clarke Bedal, farmer residing in that vicinity.

The car apparently had been left there sometime early yesterday morning, for when Bedal's son returned home shortly after one a.m. the car was not there. Bedal discovered the abandoned car at 6 a.m.

The vehicle was not damaged and had been pushed off the highway, according to police officers. In the back seat of the car were found two fur coats, an evening wrap and a large basket containing a number of personal papers belonging to MacDonald.

Constable Jack Taylor of the Trenton Police Department towed the car into a Trenton garage and immediately notified Toronto police authorities. No sign of the hitch hikers has been found, and it is thought they abandoned the car and caught a ride with another motorist in their efforts to reach Montreal.

The hikers, a young man and woman, were picked up by MacDonald while driving from his home in Clearwater, Ontario, to Toronto. Near Bradford, the woman suddenly produced a gun and forced MacDonald to give up his car after relieving him of a small amount of cash.

"If you are going to drive the car to Montreal, don't forget to put oil in it", was MacDonald's parting salute as the youthful, hold-up duo drove away.

13-Year-Old Boy Must Appear in Juvenile Court

Belleville police cleared up the mystery of several cases of petty thieving yesterday when Sergeant Arthur Harman arrested a 13-year-old Yeomans Street youth after the lad had been apprehended stealing in the office of the Belleville Pottery, situated on Station Street. When the lad was to have appeared in local Juvenile Court, before Magistrate E. J. Butler K.C., today, however, he had disappeared after being given into the custody of his parents last evening.

According to Chief Kidd the boy admitted the theft of $2.00 from the Pottery Company and also confessed to the recent entering of Robert Pringle's law offices and taking a lady's purse from which he stole a small sum of money and a set of keys. The latter were thrown away later, the boy admitted. Other petty stealing crimes were also laid to the lad's activities.

The boy was questioned at the police station yesterday and after confessing was given into the custody of his parents to appear in Juvenile Court today. However, in the meantime the lad disappeared early today, his mother told Chief Kidd. Police feel the boy will soon be apprehended, however.

FRANCO-BRITISH 'UNION' AND THE AFTER-WAR DAYS

Looking beyond the war which Britain is determined to win and has the courage and resources to win, because she is willing to sacrifice, Prime Minister Chamberlain dwelt in his momentous speech this week on the happy relations of Britain and France and said that the relations of the two peoples were so fortunate that neither Britain nor France would feel like giving them up. He declared that he could not help thinking "that our experience of this association with France will be so valuable that neither of us can give it up." So the present "union" is likely to outlast the war and usher in the greater era of a Europe where peace is assured.

Danger has shown these two peoples what security there is in a just bond between nations.

New York Times comments on Mr. Chamberlain's remark on the after-days "if, this time, the leaders and peoples of post-war Britain and France can live up to Mr. Chamberlain's hope, there will be some reason to look forward without dread to the Shape of Things to Come."

Britain and France have seemed destined for this happy companionship in arms and defence. Once upon a time the fact of their being neighbors was the cause of wars—now it is the cause and the bond of peace. When William the Conqueror came from Normandy in 1066 and defeated the English at Hastings under King Harold, there was set at work a train of influences with a new current of forces which have made the Britain of today, the Empire and has gone far to develop modern democracy throughout the world. That the mixture of the pre-conquest English and the Normans has moulded British character to make the race a great people with a peculiar flair for making progress and for political development is admitted. It is true that the English for some centuries engaged in wars in France and that destiny decided that England should lose the possessions in France. That gave both France and Britain the opportunity to develop as units and mould their civilizations until they reached their full stride. Now such relations as have come into force are possible. This war has shown the necessity as peace will show the necessity for close co-operation after the war.

Two great powers are greater than one power for there is the mutual support they can give and there is the inspiration which one can give the other. There is as a result a breadth of view on problems which a Nazi dictatorship cannot give.

When one thinks of Nazi dictatorship it is generally believed that within the inner circle of the heads of the Nazi party there is keen rivalry and bitterness between those men under Hitler which may ultimately break out when there is any severe reverse suffered by Nazi German armies.

Such rivalry among heads is not possible under the "union" which Britain and France have perfected. In the first case the motives are different, no such selfishness and unholy ambition mark the Anglo-French leaders as is bound up in the little inner circle of the Germans. The Franco-British really have achieved something far more vital than Hitler has ever thought of or ever can achieve under Nazi repression. While Hitler's achievements will be broken and his dictatorial empire fall in ruins, the accord of France and Britain will remain a potent agency for the saving of the world and its reconstruction after the days of the war.

CANADIAN POET HONORED

Is poetry read today? Some will say that it is not in high esteem but it is to be noted that when any speaker or writer desires to use words which linger in the mind he dips into the poets and brings refreshing lines or phrases of verse to the listeners or readers of the twentieth century.

This is said to show that the poet is not without honor in his own country. Canada this week had the pleasure of marking the eightieth birthday of Sir Charles G. D. Roberts, a writer of poetry, stories and romances and chronicles of Canada, who stands particularly on his fame as a poet.

Canada might be thought to be a country which is too much engaged in pioneering and development to attract the poetic mind but that is not true. For nearly sixty years ago Roberts began his first work some few years after Confederation became a fact. It is unique that Roberts came of a literary family, his cousin being the famed late Bliss Carman. Canada produced these two men. Roberts had been spared to a great age to cultivate the muse and he has shown that poetry is not divorced from the realities of life, that it is a great reality, like music, painting, that it is an inspiration.

The development of two poets like Roberts and Carman is proof that the soul of Canada is to be found in her verse as well as in her buildings, large cities, her granaries and elevators and her rich treasures of mine, lake, forest and field.

Poets like Roberts are the touch stone, the spark which sets aglow the fire of inspiration in a people.

Sir Charles has devoted his life to Canada and has interpreted Canada to the people of the Dominion and the rest of the world. He has created a vast wealth of art for Canada out of the inspiration of Canada and will not be forgotten though ages pass. Canadians are pleased that he has lived to a great age and is still strong and hearty to enjoy the fruits of his labors.

HAS SERVED CANADA WELL IN VARIOUS POSTS

Canadians have learned with a great deal of sympathy that Mr. Walter S. Thompson who has been director of the Government's bureau of information and has been associated with the publicity of the Canadian National Railways for many years has been forced through ill-health to take a prolonged rest.

He was Canada's choice for the post of director of the censorship committee when the war broke out. Then he took over the post of the information bureau.

Mr. Thompson has done a great deal for Canada in his various posts.

Mr. Thompson, long associated with publicity, has a thorough knowledge of the needs of the people.

Mr. Thompson has had a very busy year. He was honored by having put into his hands very important duties in connection with the Canadian tour of Their Majesties King George and Queen Elizabeth last May and June. That he carried out these duties perfectly is known to every citizen of Canada.

The inaugural meeting of the city council for the year 1920 was held this morning. The members present were Mayor W. B. Riggs, Aldermen Woodley, Ostrom, Hanna, Bone, Ponton, Wensley, Adams, Demarsh and Doyle.

The Mayor was escorted to the chair by Ald. Doyle and Ald. Ponton, and was invested with the insignia of office. The Rev. C. B. Smith of Westmount, Quebec, a former pastor of Victoria Avenue Baptist Church here, made the opening prayer. The chairmen of committees were elected: Executive, Ald. Bone; Public Works, Ald. Hanna; Water Works, Ald. Demarsh; Fire, Ald. Ostrom; Market and City Property, Ald. Doyle; Light, Ald. Wensley; Parks and Industries, Ald. Ponton; Printing and Stationery, Ald. Adams. The Mayor appointed Ald. Ponton and Ald. Adams to represent the council on the Board of the Chamber of Commerce. Messrs. E. R. McBride, S. Robertson and L. P. Hughes were appointed members of the local Board of Health. Col. Lazier was appointed a member of the Corby Public Library Board for a term of three years. Messrs. C. M. Reid, and H. W. Ackerman were appointed high school trustees.

Since the setting in of cold weather apprehensions have been entertained that Belleville is in danger of a winter flood similar to that of the year 1886, whereby many people were driven from their homes, much suffering was caused and loss amounting to thousands of dollars was incurred in various ways. The conditions now are the same as in 1886, with one exception, namely, as to the quantity of water—that is to say, the river is open for many miles of its course, thereby allowing the formation of anchor ice, all of which is swept down to the still water of the bay. There it is deposited and forms a dam which cannot be cut or blasted and the water thus dammed back has to find an outlet other than its usual channel and causes the overflowing upon the lower part of the city. We would warn all who are living in localities which might be flooded, to be on guard.

Daily War Survey

By The Canadian Press

German Air activity in the last few days confirms earlier impressions that the Nazi authorities have not yet determined on a settled policy with respect to attacks on Great Britain which they can be expected to pursue to the bitter end.

On the other hand the fact that for the second time a German air attack in the direction of Great Britain was promptly followed by a British attack in force points to a deliberate policy of retaliation on the part of the Royal Air Force.

Apparently Great Britain is out to convince the Germans that she will return blow for blow keeping in mind the possibility of extensive German bombing raids on British cities.

Submarine attacks, after a short period of intensity have slackened off. While this is undoubtedly due in part to improvement in defences and to the sinking of a number of undersea craft Germany's submarine fleet must have been ordered or permitted to reduce its activities.

So also with mine-laying. The marked decline in British and neutral losses from mines after a few terrifying days points to reduced activity on the part of the Germans in that direction.

The latest form of attack on shipping is by aircraft. Singularly enough in a few swift raids German aircraft aided by clouds which prevented British fighters from meeting them, scored the first notable success attributed to an air attack on shipping, sinking or disabling a number of British and Danish vessels.

Whether this burst of aerial activity marks the start of a consistent and long campaign or is simply another more or less experimental gesture leading up to the big devastating air assault on Great Britain forecast by Field Marshal Goering remains to be seen.

THAT BODY OF YOURS

By James W. Barton, M.D.

Sinus Infection as a Cause of Eye Disturbances

When the eyesight begins to fail, the first thought is that eye strain is the cause. If this is not the cause, infection of teeth or tonsils is suspected, as infected teeth and tonsils were found to be the cause of some poor landings by air pilots during the last war.

While sinus infection has been known to be the cause of many cases of otitis media (middle ear disease) with much loss of hearing, it is not until recently that sinus infection was suspected of affecting the eyes. So many individuals have sinus trouble and little or no disturbance elsewhere in the body that the sinus infection as a cause of rheumatism or arthritis has been doubted by many physicians. Similarly with the sinus as a cause of eye trouble; there has been such a few cases reported that not much interest has been given it.

However, Dr. M. M. Cullom, Nashville, Tenn., in Southern Medical Journal, presents six cases which left no doubt in his mind that sinus disease was the cause of the eye disease. Operation on the sinuses cleared up the eye condition.

Four cases resembled toxic amblyopias—dim vision — The patients suffered from marked disturbance of vision. The gradual onset and the progressive loss of vision showed that permanent blindness could be expected. In one case there was an inflammatory condition of the fluid filling the eyeball and in another case, the optic nerve was being pressed upon by an abscess of the sphenoid sinus. The great improvement in the general health of these patients is gratifying. Before the sinus condition was corrected they showed symptoms of general poisoning with pallor, loss of weight, strength, appetite, and vitality.

Five patients had rheumatism. They all regained their color, weight, and vigor and were relieved of their rheumatism.

Now six cases is not a large number, but Dr. Cullom believes they are more numerous than has been reported. Certainly when patients with all the symptoms of poisoning —pallor, loss of appetite, strength and vitality—regain all these after the sinus infection has been cured, there is little or no doubt as to what brought those results.

When we think of the sinuses, many of us have mostly in mind the maxillary sinuses in the upper jaw on a line with lower end of nose. We are apt to forget that there are two other sets of sinuses higher up, one set in line with and behind the eyes, and the other set in the forehead, just over each eye.

Dr. Cullom is of the opinion, that every patient with failing vision, the cause for which cannot readily be found, should receive the benefit of a careful examination of the sinuses, including X-rays.

Chamber of Commerce Directors Hosts to Mayor Thompson, Council At Annual Luncheon on Thursday

There was a note of camaraderie and good fellowship in the offices of the Belleville Chamber of Commerce yesterday afternoon. For Mayor Glencoe E. Thompson and the city fathers who will control the destinies of this fair city for the coming year, and possibly next, were the guests at the annual luncheon held in their honor by the directors of the Chamber of Commerce, and enjoyed to the utmost the delightful cuisine furnished by the hosts.

Long before the pumpkin pie had vanished down the throats of the business, professional and representatives of other walks of life that constitute the city council and the chamber, there was that feeling of warmth, mutual understanding and good will towards fellow man that makes for the ultimate success of any function where men gather to discuss important affairs.

It became more evident as the luncheon progressed and by the time President McLean Haig, who filled a dual capacity in that he is an alderman of the city council, called the meeting to order there was a reluctancy on the part of the various groups chatting amiably in various parts of the well-appointed offices, to turn to the sterner things to come.

However, President Haig was in excellent form and a delightful sense of humor that marked his introduction of the various city aldermen added a spice of piquant amusement to the general sincerity of the many speeches that followed.

Representing the Chamber of Commerce besides President Haig were Directors Ed. Bernstein, I. Hefkey, Jack McIntosh, Leo Riggs, H. W. Ackerman, J. Galloway and Secretary-Manager J. O. Herity. All members of the city council were present with the exception of Aldermen "Derby" Jeffery, Jack Allin and William Harvey.

President McLean Haig

Following his address of welcome to the mayor and visiting aldermen President Haig told the gathering "that while I am on my feet, I may as well make my contribution to the addresses expected of the aldermen of the city."

He paid tribute to the harmony and co-operation that has always existed between the city council and the chamber, and felt assured that the same mutual feelings would exist during the coming year. The removal of the industrial commission from the chamber would, he felt, give the body more time to devote to other policies that would benefit the city as a whole.

Referring to a notice of motion made by him to city council regarding the appointment of a city tax collector, the speaker pointed out, to prevent any misunderstanding, that it was his idea that the tax collector should be able to go out and contact taxpayers immediately they should come in arrears and that he should see that satisfactory arrangements were made for payment.

"This city has an income of $600,000 and spends nearly that much, and I cannot conceive an institution of that magnitude not having a business manager," President Haig said.

He advocated the falling due on the same date each year of all licences and fees. All these functions should be confined to one individual. "If the proper man is appointed," he said, "I feel satisfied it will prevent city properties becoming in arrears, and eventually placed on the tax sale list."

Mayor Glen E. Thompson.

His Worship paid tribute to Alderman McLean Haig in his discharge of his duties as Chairman of Finance last year. "It was my desire to have Alderman Haig back again for 1940 and the fine plan he formulated last year will be carried on again."

Belleville must look on a country that is at war, the mayor pointed out. The council next year will have several problems to contend with that other councils did not, owing to the war. "It is Belleville's duty to give all the assistance possible," the chief executive said in urging all ratepayers to be loyal to country, city and council.

Referring to the council generally, he said that a number of departments would need a lot of care especially the Relief Department. He complimented ex-Chairman of Relief Alderman E. O. Butler on the excellent report of last year's activities. "We would not have had so much touble in this department if it were not for the stringent rules laid down in Toronto. Under these regulations there were people in Belleville badly in need of relief, who could not get it. I believe it is up to this council to try to change the Toronto attitude in this matter."

Alderman Harold Armstrong.

Chairman of Regional Planning, Alderman Armstrong paid tribute to his predecessor, ex-Alderman Burton Jennings. "He accomplished a lot of work, and I hope it will be carried on." He advocated that immediate provision of an adequate parking system for city and out-of-town residents. "Traffic is increasing," he said, "and it behooves this city to find sufficient parking accommodation if we are to expect out-of-town people to come to Belleville to do business."

He believed a lot could be accomplished by co-operation between the city and the retail merchants. Better lighting systems and access to rear parking spaces could be achieved this way, he said.

(Alderman H. J. Clarke, Chairman)

The newly-appointed chairman of sale of city property, Alderman H. J. Clarke, told the gathering that he had not as yet had much experience in council affairs, but in his new capacity he intended with his committee to visit all city property for sale and secure an estimated value. He did not think that council should be asked if a sale should be made. It should be left to the committee. The council should know, after receiving the general report on estimated values. The present situation is bad, he said, and it will be the object of his committee to clean up the present state of affairs.

He supported Alderman Haig's comments regarding the appointment of a city tax collector.

(Alderman Robt. Graham)

Jocularly termed the "Minister of Labor" in his introduction by President Haig, Alderman "Bob" Graham, the new Chairman of Labor spoke in a similar vein, "There is no stationery and not even a file to my job, and but little work," he smiled, "but I have a title at least, and I can get some glory out of that."

He felt close co-operation of the Chamber of Commerce and Council would result in something being accomplished for the city. "The city is not as good yet as it might be, and I am willing to do my part for its benefit," he said.

(Alderman E. Ormonde Butler)

Chairman of City Property and Market and ex-chairman of Relief E. Ormonde Butler briefly reviewed the work of his department last year. He charged that the barriers to the giving of relief in various municipalities were mainly found in the stringent regulations laid down by the government. Many people here were denied relief because of the way in which relief has to be administered under present regulations. In his report, he said, were several suggestions, which if acted upon by the incoming committee would end 99 percent of the trouble that now exists.

Alderman Butler paid tribute to the new chief executive. "Mayor Thompson," he said, "and I think I am voicing the opinion of council as a whole, feels that he is an active member of each and every committee, and with him in the chair I feel this council will do great things."

He had several suggestions regarding his new chairmanship, he said, among which will be an investigation of the City Hall staff and an even distribution of the work therein.

(Alderman Harry Rollins)

Alderman Rollins, newly appointed Chairman of Public Works, and ex-chairman of Lighting, believed that closer co-operation between the Chamber and Council was evident with each passing year.

His attention drawn to falling snow outside, Alderman Rollins smiled, "let it come, it will cost us something, but at least it will provide work for some of the city unemployed."

His present capacity of Chairman of Public Works, he said, would be occupied with following along the same lines as his predecessor, Mayor Thompson, whom, he said, did a fine job.

"Of course," Alderman Rollins added, "I have ideas of my own, among which is moving the city stone crusher to the river, clean out the river bed, dig a channel there and crush all stone for city use."

Some day we will be faced with the problem of securing an entrance to the areas along the west bank of the river. It is a step in the right direction and we should do it as soon as possible in order to relieve the heavy traffic on Front Street, Alderman Rollins said.

The most vital thing before us, he said, is the fact that we are at war, which will cost the country a lot of money. If we do sane business we will not forget to study the angle that we may be called upon to contribute to the war. "I would like to see the Fire Department under one head, the police housed in the City Hall and other changes made, then we can go ahead and make a monument for ourselves", he concluded.

Alderman A. G. Kennedy

The new Chairman of Fire, Alderman Andrew Kennedy believed in a pay-as-you-go policy, he said. "If this council holds tight for two years and pays off its debenture debt, then taxes will be lowered considerably.

He intended to handle his new committee in exactly the same way as that of a year ago, he said. "I have heard comments on the street regarding my potential actions in the Fire Committee, which I resent very much. I am going to be fair to every man in the Fire Department. I am going to do the best I can and work for the interest of the taxpayers of Belleville".

Alderman Edson Logan

Alderman Logan, Chairman of Industry, said that although efforts had been made last year to bring industries to Belleville, not much success had been achieved. "However", he said, "we did have the city reassessed and although some industries threatened to move elsewhere we prevailed upon them to stay, and the result was added revenue for the city."

He spoke of the new Industrial Commission appointed by the Council, which had its first meeting yesterday. "They are all men of ability, who will do the best they can for the city", he said, adding an appeal to the business men of the city to co-operate with council, as much as possible in regard to the bringing in of industries.

Alderman Robert Pringle.

He had been appointed to the Child Welfare Committee, the young alderman stated and intended to do his duty along this line of council work. He would co-operate with other members of the council to the fullest extent for he felt there was a job to be done and would devote his efforts to the general betterment of the city.

Alderman R. B. Cooper.

It was a matter of family tradition with him, Alderman R. B. Cooper, Chairman of Printing and Stationery told the gathering, inasmuch as his father and grandfather before him had been elected to council in years gone by. "I am a new member," he smiled, "and so I have not got a very heavy job, although I would have liked a heavier one. They tried to give me the chairmanship of welfare with blandishments to the effect that I would secure a lot of insurance prospects by accepting," he said, amid laughter.

His platform, the alderman said, was one of strict economy but in a way that would not interrupt the advancement of the city.

Tribute to Late Fred Houston.

At the conclusion of the addresses President Haig drew attention of those present to the Chamber of Commerce banquet to be held in the Hotel Quinte on Jan. 26. The banquet will inaugurate a Railway and Industrial Night, at which prominent speakers of railway and industry will be present.

In closing, he paid tribute to the late Fred Houston. "No member of this chamber took such a deep interest in its activities than did Fred," he said. "His co-operation and assistance was always forthcoming. We could always count on him." President Haig then asked Alderman Harry Rollins to convey to the family of the late member the deepest sympathy of the directors.

French Writer Urges War on Russia As Way to End Soviet-Reich Threats

PARIS, Jan. 12—In weighing the advantages and risks of outright Allied intervention to help Finland, the military expert of the Temps arrives at the conclusion that it would be all advantage and no risk to blockade Murmansk, in the Russian north, and by naval action in the Black Sea divest Russia of her oil wells and cut Germany off from her Russian and eventually from her Rumanian sources of oil supplies, says a dispatch in the N. Y. Times.

All these actions and each one separately would, of course, be tantamount to war with Russia, but, the Temps writer says, now is the time to examine in a purely objective manner the consequences of such steps on the part of the two Western Powers "in the near future to swing the decision in Finland to the side of justice and right."

In his hypothetical plan for armed aid to Finland, the Temps expert regards naval action against Murmansk as the first step. This, he says, would not only prevent the Germans from using that port as a naval base but would also stop the Russians from reinforcing their Lapland troops.

For Landing Near Petsamo

"Then the French-British land forces, few but well trained and equipped for an Arctic campaign, could land not far from Petsamo," he continues, "and coordinate their efforts with those of the Finns to chase the Reds out of the region."

The results of this action would be at little cost to clear the Arctic region and permit the supply of the Finnish Army over the excellent Petsamo-Kemi highway, the Temps writer added.

To divert the Russians from sending too many reinforcements to the Karelian front, Black Sea naval action is advocated. Anglo-French naval units would easily render themselves master of the Black Sea, which is Russia's tender spot on account of the oil wells in the Black Sea provinces, it is argued, and those units could intercept all oil shipments to Germany through Constanta and the mouth of the Danube."

"Those squadrons would also be able to help Rumania aggression against Bessarabia because they would have Odessa under their fire" the article says. "Moscow would be obliged to keep important forces in the Caucasus to protect its oil wells, without which the Russian population would soon starve to death because Soviet agriculture is entirely dependent on automobiles and tractors.

"The Allied fleet would also give encouragement to all States bordering on the Black Sea that might produce far-reaching consequences."

The Temps expert concludes that these actions would cost no more than a few battleships and cruisers and a small number of landing troops "to cooperate in conjunction with the armies of certain friendly powers."

COLD WEATHER HITS S.E. EUROPE

Temperatures as Low as 40 Below Zero Registered—Many Lives Lost

Budapest, Hungary, Jan. 12 (AP)—The coldest weather in years, accompanied by storms and a heavy snowfall, took many lives and paralyzed normal activity in many parts of southeastern Europe today.

Temperatures as low as 40 below zero Fahrenheit were reported in Rumania. The Danube River was frozen, its ice holding hundreds of barges bound for Germany with wheat and oil.

Amsterdam, the Netherlands, Jan. 11 (CP-Havas).—The Berlin correspondent of the newspaper De Telegraaf today reported that Germany's big cities are suffering badly from the bitter cold sweeping the country because the German transportation system has proved unable to deliver coal where it is needed most.

West Huntingdon Official Board Reviews Year at Annual Meeting

West Huntingdon—The official Board meeting of the West Hunting United Church circuit was held on Friday Jan. 5th., at the Moira Church. For the past two years a special feature of this meeting has been a dinner hour social gathering when members from the four appointments of Fuller, Eggleton Moira and West Huntingdon assemble for dinner at one of the appointments. Following the banquet the annual meeting is held. A large number of delegates were present and the ladies of Moira served a bountiful repast.

Mr. Kenneth Stewart presided over the afternoon meeting and was assisted in the worship service by Rev. H. B. Herrington, Chairman of the Belleville Presbytery.

Reports were received from the treasurers of all the appointments and were most encouraging. All of the obligations of the circuit have been met. Rev. Herrington led a discussion with the members on rearranging of circuits, but the various members who spoke on the subject said that as far as the West Huntingdon circuit was concerned, it was progressing in such an efficient manner under the leadership of Mr. Stewart that it would be better at least for the present, to remain as a four point circuit as it has been for the past 50 years.

A discussion on the missionary work of the church resulted in some plans being made for much activity in the near future in the line of missionary Sundays, when subscriptions would be received for that branch of the work.

Mr. Blake Ketcheson was re-elected recording stewart for the circuit. Mr. Herbert Burke, chairman of the farm committee, reported for its members.

The meeting was closed with prayer by Rev. H. B. Herrington.

W. M. S. of United Church

The January meeting of the W.M.S. of the United Church was held at Mrs. Geo. Post's home on Thursday afternoon. Mrs. Foster Wilson presided over the meeting and was assisted with the worship service by Mr. K. Stewart, who offered prayer and by Miss Georgie Pitman who read a portion of Scripture. A New Year's message was read by Mrs. Wilson from Mrs. Osbourne, Secretary of Christian Stewardship. Two of the members reported on the Watch Tower.

The Roll Call "Pay Your Fee's", was answered by 15 members. Miss Annie Cooke was elected mission band leader succeeding Mrs. John Moorcroft. The varous department secretaries gave a report for the past year's work. Mrs. E. T. Searles gave a reading on Stewardship. Mrs. Sandy McCurdy had charge of the Study Book, "Moving Millions." A letter of sympathy was sent from the society to Mrs. (Rev.) Tristram in loss she sustained in losing her father. The meeting was closed by the singing of the National Anthem and Benediction.

Meeting closed by singing the National Anthem.

Move into New Bank Building at Bancroft

Bancroft, Jan. 12—The Bank of Nova Scotia, Bancroft, which has just been completed and a wonderful asset to the village, opened its doors to the public Thursday morning. The staff were busily engaged Wednesday afternoon transferring the interior furnishings from the Council Chambers of the Community Hall where they had carried on business since the burning of the former bank last December. The bank is considered to be one of the best built from coast to coast. A very modern apartment is situated over the bank where the manager, Mr. Leo Doyle dwells.

The entire building is heated by hot water supplied by an oil burner in furnace thermostatically controlled.

The interior of the bank has accommodation for manager's office, accountant, two teller cages and ledgers. The floor is mosaic composition.

The bank staff consists of Mr. Leo Doyle, manager, Robert Thompson, accountant, Alex Scott, teller and Allan Porter and Bill McAlpine, ledger keepers.

The pupils of St. John's Anglican Sunday School were entertained in the Community Hall Wednesday evening by a pot luck supper donated by the members of the Church. Later the children were given a treat viewing slides which Rev. G. A. Gordier had arranged for them.

Mr. J. L. Churcher motored to Belleville, Tuesday on business.

Mr. W. E. Wiggins, Mrs. R. W. Blatherwick, Mrs. Robt. Kellar, and Cecil Wiggins, motored to Stirling and Belleville Wednesday.

Miss Marie Moxam, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Moxam of Bancroft was operated on for appendicits Wednesday afternoon on the Red Cross Hospital, Bancroft, by Dr. S. S. Lumb. Dr. F. Nickle of Eldorado administered the anaesthetic.

Miss Vivian Stringer entertained a number of her friends at her home, Wednesday evening prior to her departure for Belleville, Jan. 14th, where she commences her nurse's training in the Belleville Hospital.

Little Benny's Note Book

We were eating breakfist and ma said to pop, Now Willyum I want your undivided serious attention, Horace Entwhisale is going to call up again today to find out what evening we'd like to have him here to dinner, so we'll have to decide.

Yee gods what have I done to deserve this? pop said. We haven't seen that tangled topped bozo for 25 years so why cant he let bygones be bygones? What's the idea of going around looking up all his old girls? he said, and ma said, Now Willyum you know I was his only girl, as you express it, and it almost broke his heart when I became engaged to you. The poor chap has proberly been trying to forget it all these years. He told me over the fone he's been married 3 times, and I wish you wouldn't keep alluding to him as tangled topped and frizzle headed and so on when you know his naturally wavy hair was the talk of all the girls, she said.

The boys too, believe me, pop said. He must of put it up in curl papers at night, what a guy. He was about the dummest egg I ever rescued you from and I took you from the clutches of some pritty ignorant eggs. If you must have him, make it this evening, he said, and ma said, Now that sounds better, it will make him feel we are eager to see him. I'm sure it won't be such a paneful ordeal, she said.

Not for me it wont, pop said. This is the night I'm staying in town to take in the fights with Herb Lewis, he said, and ma said, You'll do nothing of the sort anything of the kind, I mean go to your old fights, I'll ask Horace for tomorrow evening and you'll be among those present on your best behavior.

And this afternoon Mr. Entwhissle called up and ma asked him and he said he would be delighted.

Under the auspices of the Holloway Street War Service Unit an afternoon tea, patronized by a large crowd, was held yesterday at the home of Mrs. J. G. Shaw, 28 Bridge Street West. Mrs. M. B. Denton, president of the Unit, received with the hostess and the guests were invited to the tea room by Mrs. Charles Walters. Daffodils and matching tapers made a colorful centrepiece for the tea table at which Mrs. H. B. Fetterly and Mrs. Van Allen presided during the earlier afternoon and Mrs. E. C. Moynes and Mrs. W. Green later. Mrs. Percy Mott and Mrs. John Livesey were in charge of the tea room and those who assisted in serving were Mrs. Hitchon, Mrs. Locheed, Mrs. H. Howard and Mrs. F. Rayfield. Mrs. Snoddon and Mrs. Page acted as treasurer for the tea. The home cooking table which did a splendid business was in charge of Mrs. Nighswander and Mrs. Heath. The tea was most successful and the proceeds were very gratifying.

Canadian Women "Called to Prayer"

Toronto, Jan. 12—(CP)—In the hope of dispelling prejudice and hatred and bringing peace to the world a group of Canadian women of all sects and representing all National organizations are urging a "call to prayer"— a moment set aside in the daily routine.

More than 300,000 prayer cards will be distributed across Canada printed in both English and French. And at noon each day it is hoped women will stop a moment in their homes, offices and gathering places to repeat the simple appeal in a concentrated effort to rebuild faith and peace in the world.

The prayer, patterned after one issued by the league for service in England before the war began, was drafted by a small group of women of Roman Catholic, Jewish and Protestant faiths here. It reads:

"O God, the Father of us all, who hast made of one blood all nations of men, mercifully receive the prayers that we offer for our anxious and troubled world.

"Send Thy light into our darkness and guide the nations as one family into the ways of peace.

"Take away all prejudice, hatred and fear.

"Give grace to all who serve and suffer because of war.

"Strengthen in us day by day the will to understand one another and forgive us our trespasses as we forgive them that trespass against us.

"To those who by their counsels lead the peoples of the earth grant a right judgment so that through them and us Thy will be done.

"Through Jesus Christ our Lord, Amen".

MARSH HILL Y. P. U.

The first meeting in the New Year of the Marsh Hill Y. P. U. was held at the home of Col. R. Vanderwater on Friday evening. John Dafoe, the president, conducted the devotional exercises which opened with hymn 68, followed with prayer by Rev. Cook. Mrs. W. Lough read the Scripture lesson. Roll Call was answered with twenty-five present. Ralph Campbell, the Citizenship Convener was in charge of the remainder of the program. Two poems on the Old and New Year were read by Bob Cook and Allyn Finkle. A solo by Alison Vanderwater "Just As I Am Without One Plea", was followed with a reading by Mrs. P. Finkle. Dorothy Mitts sang "Wonderful Love", and Ralph Campbell gave an appropriate talk on Finland. After all sang hymn 192, Eileen Mitts gave a reading "The Indominable Curie."

Margaret Vanderwater sang "A Little Coon's Prayer" and Bertha Smith read a poem. The meeting closed with the Mizpah Benediction. The hostess served candy and everyone enjoyed games.

MOIRA COMMUNITY LEAGUE

The meeting of Moira Community League opened with community singing followed by an instructive address by Mr. Stewart. A trio entitled "Mother's Prayers" was rendered by Miss Betty, Mr. Gordon Foster and Mr. Milton Vanderwater.

The Scripture lesson was read by Mr. Stewart. A piano solo was beautifully rendered by Mrs. James Vanderwater. A reading was then given by Grace McInroy. A Christmas song was sung by June Connie and Joyce Williams. Prayer was offered by Mr. Stewart.

Following is the list of officers elected at the meeting:

President—Miss Betty Foster.

Vice-President—Mr. Hart.

Sec. Treas—Mr. James Vanderwater.

Pianist—Mrs. J. Williams.

Program Committee—Mrs. Hart, Mrs. McInroy, Mr. Milton Vanderwater, Mr. Ross Ketcheson.

Lunch Committee—Mrs. Nelson Welsh, Mrs. Frank Herity.

The Stars Say

For Saturday, January 13

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

ACCORDING to the lunar transits, this should be a rather lively and successful day, with much stirring in the direction of launching new programs of a fairly ambitious order. These should succeed by sharp initiative and aggressive measures, in which an element of novelty, innovation or experiment has a determining force, particularly in attracting financial backing or friendly support or influential personages.

Those whose birthday it is are confronted by a year in which there is good promise of launching new propositions of importance, with the co-operation or financial support of those in prestige and power. Novel things, inaugurated with ingenuity, boldness, aggressiveness and practical initiative, should flourish.

A child born on this day may have much talent and initiative, with executive and organizing ability, as well as creative powers and ingenuity. It may attain legal or literary reputation of a higher order.

HAS CHAPEL IN BACK YARD

Dogtown, Ala., Jan. 12—(AP)—When Mandy Grahm, 92-year-old farm wife, became too feeble to walk to church, she built a frame chapel in her back yard and now the preachers and congregation come to her. "Granny" as she is known, has built up a regular congregation at her church. She invites preachers of various denominations.

LIVED IN HOSPITAL 14 YEARS

St. Louis, Jan. 12 — (AP) — Thomas Lanahan suffered a broken leg in 1926 and was taken to St. John's hospital. He liked the service and people so much he made the hospital his home. After 14 years, Lanahan, St. John's oldest "patient," died Sunday of pneumonia. He was 87 years old.

GOOD MANNERS

MRS. CORNELIUS BEECKMAN

Grumbling Never Makes Pleasant Manners

Are you a chronic grumbler? It's a great human temptation, this finding fault with people and things and circumstances.

It's a fester, this habit of grumbling, and it's awfully easy to let the poison collect inside of us. Then whether we admit it or not, we don't enjoy ourselves—we're too "het up" all the time and certainly our family and friends don't find us agreeable people to live with or to know.

At this beginning of the new year we might find it rewarding to stand off and look at ourselves, see how much grumbling we do in a day, and gauge how futile it all is.

Grumbling, fault-finding, never makes for pleasant manners. If you find yourself beginning to grumble or to find fault, give yourself a dose of self-control! Or, even of it kills you, think of something pleasant to say, something that constructs rather than tears down. Or think about this:

"Nothing is easier than fault-finding. No self-deniel, no brains, no character are required to set up in the grumbling business."

Salad Plate

Dear Mrs. Beeckman

Please let me know if it is correct to place the salad plate served with the meat course at the right of the person eating? A friend claims that it should be on the left. I have reference, of course, to an informal dinner.

R.

There is no rule about whether the salad plate should be placed at the right or the left of the dinner plate. If there are two glasses at the guest's right, or if there is one glass and perhaps a cup of coffee or other beverage at the right, naturally the more convenient place for the salad plate is at the left of the dinner plate.

As a matter of fact also it is thoroughly proper for a guest to change the salad plate to the side considered to him or her more convenient.

Unexpected Dinner Company

Dear Mrs. Beeckman

Does the well-bred person drop in on his friends just before mealtime with his whole family, expecting to stay for that meal? If so, please tell me how to overcome the upset feeling it gives me if everything is not just so. I very often prepare for and invite this same family and enjoy having them on such occasions.

Reader

I think that you should drop a hint that will make them realize the inconvenience to you of their thoughtlessness and irresponsibility. If you say what you say with graciousness and friendliness, you will be politely meeting a situation that they, not you, have created. It is entirely unnecessary for you and your family to be interrupted at meal-time by these unexpected visitors, and you shouldn't weakly submit yourself to being "upset".

If I were you, the next time this untimely visit occurs, I'd say as graciously as possible, "How nice of you to drop in . . I wish I could ask you to say . . . but we've planned to have a quick dinner and then we're going to the movies. I'll call you up soon, and we'll make a definite dinner engagement". If they have any instinct of mannerliness, they will accept this understandingly and tactfully take their leave.

Advice to the Lovelorn

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

Her Boy Friend Has Fallen for Another Girl

Dear Miss Fairfax

The young man I'm interested in as a freshman at the university near my home, and we have become very good friends. I'm 17 and in my last year of high school. My parents like him and have been willing for him to come to our home. He told me he loved me, and called me up or saw me most every day. I couldn't have asked for more attentions than he gave me.

He went on a short trip and was gone a week. When he returned everything seemed to have changed. I asked him what was wrong and he said he had met a girl on the trip, for whom he fell completely. He also said that he wanted us to remain the best of friends and see a lot of each other, as heretofore. Then, in a short time afterward he broke two dates with me. Do you think he really means to break off with me? I really care a great deal for him, and if I lose him now it would take a long time to forget him. Of course, in time I would.

Jane.

No, I don't necessarily believe he wants to break off with you, but I do think that for the time being this young man has turned his fancy toward the new friend. Try to be just as friendly as ever when you meet, but the next time he calls up to make a date, say that you're sorry, but you're too busy with lessons, or that you have a previous engagement. He will really like you better if you show a little independence.

In the meantime, have as many friends as possible and try not to think too much about him. "A watched kettle never boils".

Again the Demon of Jealousy

Dear Miss Fairfax

The man to whom I'm engaged is one of the finest that ever was. The date of our wedding has been set, yet I'm far from happy. Whenever I see him even speak to another woman, I'm consumed with an abominable jealousy. If he goes to play golf with some of his business associates, my imagination runs riot, and I'm miserable until I know he's home again.

My mother says when jealousy reaches the degree that mine has, a person is no longer sane and that I should have myself treated. I've often thought of giving him up, because I don't believe he can find happiness wtih a woman as jealous as I am. Do you think I should be psycho-analyzed? Won't you please answer my letter?

Beth D.

You recall the copy-book maxim which tells us the first step toward curing a fault is the realization that one has it. You realize you're jealous—why can't you take that first step toward curing yourself?

"If there is no suspicion, there can be no jealousy—why create suspicion?", as an eminent psychoanalyst said during the course of a lecture. Think better of yourself; your fiance has chosen you from all the other girls. Why not have confidence in his choice? As for being treated, you can be your own doctor if you will only take yourself in and. "Cast out fear", and be happy.

Not a Gay Companion

Dear Miss Fairfax

I've been going with Clarence for almost a year. He is very different from most boys. He has a good job, and when we go out together he tells me about his work and we talk about the general run of topics. But he never laughs, doesn't even smile. At a party or dance he does joke with other girls, but never with me. He says he loves me, and he has asked me to marry him.

And now Burt has come along. He's so cheerful all the time, and makes a wonderful pal. He helps me with whatever I happen to be doing when he's around, even drying the dishes. I've told him about Clarence and he says if I will be happy with him, he is willing to give me up to Clarence. However I've told him that I wasn't serious just yet. I've tried to find out what makes Clarence so gloomy, but he never gives me any answer.

I think I prefer Burt to Clarence. Why do you suppose he smiles and jokes with other girls but not with me?

B. T.

Good gracious, my dear, why would you for a moment consider seriously a boy on whom you have such a dreadful effect? Laughter, and everything which provokes it, is the yeast of living. We've got to have it or cake is dough. I've no idea what can be the matter with the young man who "doesn't even smile", but I'd hesitate before signing up with him.

BAY OF QUINTE W. I.

The regular monthly meeting of the Bay of Quinte Women's Institute was held on Wednesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. R. Hunt, Front Road.

Business was discussed. Report of the Red Cross work was given by Mrs. Casey Ketcheson, which was very favourable. "The Maple Leaf Forever", was sung.

At this time a presentation was made to Mrs. George Millard, bride of last month. A short address was visit them.
read by Mrs. Percy Boulton.

Mrs. Gordon Frost presented her with a beautiful silver cake plate. Mrs. Millard made brief remarks, thanking her many friends for the beautiful gift and invited all to them.

Mrs. Tucker then favoured with a reading, "Our Christmas", which everyone enjoyed. A solo was given by Mrs. Geo. Millard entitled: "Travel Life's Path with a Smile." The program was in charge of Mrs. Fred Carr who gave a very interesting and helpful paper on "Canadianization."

A reading was given by the president, Mrs. Ritchie Ketcheson entitled, "The Miseries That We Miss."

"O Canada", was sung and Mrs. T. A. Tucker passed her donation, it being a Dutch Boy carrying pails of salt and pepper. Mrs. Ed Harry of Stirling, being the winner. The president moved a vote of thanks to Mrs. Hunt for opening her home and the meeting closed with the Mizpah Benediction.

Mrs. Hunt and the lunch committee served a delicious lunch and a social half hour was spent together.

Young Men's Bible Class Has Annual Banquet Meeting

Last evening at Dickens' Coffee Shop, the Young Men's Bible Class of Bridge Street United Church, held their annual banquet. The meeting was presided over in fine style by the President Bryson Leslie. During the delicious dinner favourite folks songs were sung by the group led by Mr. Joe Shortt.

Following the dinner appreciation was expressed by the guests of honour, namely Dr. Anderson, Mr. H. Thomas, Mr. C. W. Burr, Mr. Joe Shortt and Dr. Semple.

Mr. Deacon, teacher of the class, in a short address emphasized the fact that a friendship started in a group of this kind usually lasted a lifetime. He also told about the banquets held by the class during 1914-18, and hoped that the members of the class would answer the call the same as the members of those classes did.

After Albert Watson thanked Mr. Deacon for the banquet on behalf of the class, the meeting was closed with the singing of God Save the King.

Guard Your Children Against This

Just recently I encountered a disease I hadn't seen for some time and that I always hate to see, for its mortality rate amongst babies and young children is the same as it has always been—practically 100 per cent. I refer to tubercular meningitis.

Some strides have been made in the prevention and treatment of two of the three types of meningitis, the kind we are speaking of now has resisted all attempts at treatment. So the only way in which we can cope with the disease now, is in preventing it and here is where the parents and the conditions of the home are important.

Tubercular meningitis doesn't have a spectacular beginning like the other forms of the disease. There is no sudden, dramatic stiffening of the neck and it isn't very often we find convulsions. In fact in its early stages, tubercular meningitis is extremely hard to diagnose.

We all know something of the action of the tubercle bacillus in adults. Well, in a baby, the reaction is entirely different. The average adult comes in contact with tuberculosis often, but over the years he has built up an immunity against the organism. A baby, or small child has acquired no such immunity and so it takes only a slight contact with a person who has the disease to create immediate effects. An adult who becomes infected goes for perhaps a year after infection before showing the chest infection which is the biginning of the tuberculous process. With a child, if the disease takes hold after the exposure, it will most likely be but a few weeks before we see a severe lung disturbance. It may miss the lungs and settle in the brain, or it may be generalized over the entire body. When it goes to the brain, we have tubercular meningitis.

In such cases probably the first sign the parent will see that the child is not well, is that the child's long periods of drowsiness. For several days this is often the only symptom. In the case I saw recently, the child seemed dopey for short periods and then he was normal intermittently. As the days passed, the drowsy periods lengthened and the times when he seemed normal shortened. Then the child began to vomit for no evident reason. One such nauseous attack in the middle of the night caused the doctor to be called.

This is a normal history of what happened in such cases and this is usually the stage at which the doctor is called. When he comes, he finds a dopey, dreamy child who appears normal in practically every other way. In fact, as I have said, it is difficult to diagnose the disease at this stage because many diseases have this same reaction in children at first.

Then as the days go on, acute headaches develop, and the neck begins to stiffen. However, it is only very late in the development of the disease that the neck is as rigid as it is in other forms of meningitis. When the neck does stiffen, the child's condition goes downhill fast. Continual vomiting naturally helps make him weaker. Death comes three to four weeks after the incidence of the first symptom.

When I say "death comes", I mean in every advanced case. There is no successful treatment or cure for it. So the only thing to do is see to it that your child NEVER comes in contact with anyone who has the disease. Don't let anyone with a cough or a cold near him. It might be tuberculosis. Keeping people away from your baby is often hard, but it is much better to insult a careless person than to expose your child to a disease that destroys every victim it touches.

Up at our nursery at Callander we always play safe. We never permit anyone with a cold or symptoms of any other disorder to come in contact with the Quintuplets, their clothing or their food.

Looking Taller to Others

By HELEN FOLLETT

SHORT GIRLS make a great to-do about being short-changed in inches. They don't get a bit of sympathy. They can wear cute frocks and sassy litle hats. Their tiny feet are a beauty asset.

By means of erect carriage, the right kind of clothes, a coiffure with 'little girl' rolls atop the head and high-heeled shoes, the pint-sized baby can make herself look taller. She must walk tall and sit tall, never let her shoulders fall forward.

The lines of the dress should be up and down; cross lines of any kind seem to snip off the inches. Too many decorations are taboo Do away with the belt or girdle, sticking to the princess cut, which shows off the trim waistline. The sleeves. Quite a lot can be done high collar helps, too, as do long to increase stature, or the appearance of it anyway.

The mutton-leg sleeve is out of order since the wider the upper portion of the body, the shorter the legs seems to be. Hats with flat crowns and wide brims slap one down. The best selection is a cute little turban or a chapeau of the halo mode, brim slapped up in front.

Overweight must be fought tooth and nail. The chunky litle dumpling has trouble making the dress grade. If weight is normal, keep it that way by limiting the intake of fats, sweets and starches.

It has been found that dandruff is a fungus growth, something like yeast. It is a messy trial and no body should bear with it. While it may not impair the health of the hair, it is the perfect tenement for bacteria that causes scalp diseases.

Once a week give the scalp a hot oil treatment, frictioning in the oil with the fingers, rubbing and pinching the flesh briskly to arouse the blood streams. Next morning shampoo with melted soap, rinsing well.

As dandruff is contagious, each individual in the family should have his or her own combs and brushes which must be washed twice a week, dipped in an antiseptic solution.

LANDS, FORESTS PROBE BEGUN, HEENAN ON STAND

Minister Says Fire Protection is Most Important Angle of Conservation in New Ontario

NEWSPRINT PROBLEM

Toronto, Jan. 12.—(CP)—Settled policy of Ontario is to encourage the export of pulpwood cut on Crown lands in order to provide employment in the woods, Hon. Peter Heenan, Minister of Lands and Forests, told a legislature committee today.

The special committee, under chairmanship of Mines Minister Paul Leduc, opened its inquiry into "the administration, licensing, sale, supervision and conservation of natural resources by the department of Lands and Forests".

Mr. Heenan was the only witness today. Conservative Leader George Drew asked him if an embargo on pulpwood exports would not result in the establishment in Ontario of paper mills by United States concerns, now using Ontario pulpwood at their United States plants.

Cannot Force Anyone

"We have no sledge hammer to force anybody to establish a mill in Ontario", said Mr. Heenan. United States mills none of which were wholly dependent on Ontario pulpwood, would turn to other sources of supply.

The permissible export was only up to the limit of surplus growth each year, that is the amount of pulpwood that could be cut without impairing the "capital" of pulpwood. Export was also subject to the requirements of Canadian mills, none of which would go without supplies because of exports.

Alternative to allowing exports of pulpwood was the decay of the forests, because of the non-cutting of mature wood. Failure to cut this wood would increase fire hazards and hinder replacement growth.

The permissible annual cut, which in the Thunder Bay area is estimated at 740,000 cords a year, is determined by surveys, the Minister said.

Wants Copy of Contracts.

Col. Drew asked that Mr. Heenan bring to the inquiry when it resumes Wednesday next copies of all contracts made with respect to the resources under inquiry since 1936. Also to be produced are figures on the number of men in the Forest Fire Prevention and Fighting Service and figures on fire losses since 1934.

The inquiry may be a lengthy one, Charles Cox, member for Port Arthur, expected to play a leading part in it, was not present today.

Before examination of Mr. Heenan started, Col. Drew protested that he should be both a member of the committee and the chief witness before it. In formulating a report, Mr. Heenan would be passing an opinion on his own evidence.

The objection should have been raised in the House, said Provincial Secretary Harry Nixon. The inquiry proceeded.

Mr. Heenan said it was his desire to give all help so that the committee might submit constructive recommendations to the government.

Outlines Plan.

Proration of newsprint tonnage among Ontario mills was the chief "headache" for the department, said the minister as he outlined the general plan of administration.

Fire protection was the most important angle of forest conservation in New Ontario, said Mr. Heenan, describing the preventive policies of the department. Twenty-eight airplanes were used to locate fires and to direct fighting them. Gradually the department was switching to larger planes able to carry fire fighting equipment and crews. Combined with radio and observation towers, Ontario had the most efficient fire prevention and fighting services in North America.

The minister observed that last session he studied his estimates for two days before the House dealt with them; "and nobody asked me a question".

Commericial Timber

There was no complete survey of the percentages of commercial timber in the province, witness said, because Ontario is comparatively new and such a survey would be a very expensive proposition. There was, however, detailed surveys of certain areas. Of the 109,000,000 acres, about three-quarters had been surveyed.

It was estimated there were 26,000,000 cords of balsam; 182,000,000 cords of spruce; 29,000,000 cords of jackpine in Northern Ontario. In board measure there were 6,000,000,000 feet of white and red pine; 3,000,000,000 feet of maple and yellow birch; 487,000,000 feet of other hardwoods and 792,000,000 feet of hemlock. The estimate showed.

It was a settled policy to grant more than one cutting licence in the same area. The licences being for different kinds of wood. Large pulpwood operators, however, discouraged the obtaining of timber licences in areas covered by pulpwood licences because of increased fire hazard.

Col. Drew asked if the province should not be concerned with cutting of timber and pulpwood on Crown lands reserved for Indians. Mr. Heenan foresaw difficulties if the provincial government sought to interfere with the Federal jurisdiction.

"They might want to interfere with us," he said.

"I was under the impression they interfere with each other", said Col. Drew.

Mr. Heenan said the Ontario Fire Protection Service guarded the Federally-owned lands as well as the provinces. Bills were rendered to Ottawa for actual costs in fighting and preventing fires.

"My administration has never even questioned what they are doing on Indian lands", said Mr. Heenan in saying he could not estimate how much wood for export was cut on Indian lands.

W. C. Cain, Deputy Forests Minister, said he thought the railways would not accept pulpwood shipment from the Indian lands unless a provincial clearance had been granted.

'Dumbells' Show Tuneful, Bright With Plenty of Zip

Newman, Hamilton and Rafferty Stars of Former Editions of the Show Have Lost None of Their Ability to Provide Good Entertainment

ATTRACTIVE CHORUS

"The Dumbells" like old soldiers never die. Nor, unlike the old veterans do they fade away.

For last night at the Capitol theatre with three of the famous troupe that blazoned a trail across the theatrical firmament years ago, Red Newman, Ross "Marjorie" Hamilton, and Pat Rafferty, they "came back" surrounded with a show that sparkled with the old-time humor, brilliant scenery, gay tunes that were a melodic melange of old and new melodies, and a bevy of beautiful girls.

The show lacks nothing. It has color, comedy, a touch of the serio-dramatic, good music and a variety of quickly-moving acts that blend into a whole that is first class entertainment.

The stars of the show, Newman, Rafferty and Hamilton, although nearly a score of years have rolled by have lost none of the ability that made them famous in the good old days. Red in a variety of modern war tunes as "I've seen Marie," "Over Again," "We've Rolled up the Old Umbrella" in which he portrays Chamberlain were offered as only a Newman can offer them, while his famous "Oh, it's a Lovely War" given with old-time effects practically brought down the house."

Rafferty recalled memories with his "Always a Bridesmaid but Never a Bride," while his comedy with Newman in a sailor skit, and "O, Charlie" proved that he has lost none of his ability.

Adding much to the color and beauty of the production was the chorus of beautiful girls. Elaborately costumed, they appeared in several dancing numbers. Their routines were different and cleverly executed. Particularly in the "Eskimo" scene when they appeared in transparent parkas over their dancing costumes, did they show clever artistry and dancing ability. Miss Rose Burkett, graceful tap-dancer in a number "Love Nest" proved herself a clever artist.

"Marjorie" Still Alluring

Ross Hamilton in his famous characterization of "Marjorie" has lost none of the old-time allure or ability to wear Paris creations. He appeared in several numbers, with his "Oh Johnny" and his subsequent presentation of roses to soldier members of the audience gaining rounds of applause.

A novel departure that was one of the outstanding numbers of the show, was a youthful acrobatic team "The Lowells" whose hand balancing feats were delightful to watch. The young lady member of the duo who did the "heavy" work was exceptionally good and with her partner elicited plenty of applause with a clever act. LaNor Triller, ingenue of the show had a pleasing singing voice, while a tenor quartette added a nice vocal touch. Their numbers "South of the Border" and "I Wonder How the Old Folks are at Home" sung in a trench scene with Newman and Rafferty, high-lighted their performance.

All in all the show is outstanding. It is a grand mixture of the old time Dumbell style of entertainment with a modern touch that does, in no way deteriorate from the well-known soldier style. A capacity house showed its appreciation in rounds of vociferous and other acclaim that augurs well for the company should it play a return engagement here.

MOTION IS READY TO EXTEND TERMS

Municipal Councils Will Sit for Two Years if Legislation Passes

Toronto, Jan. 12—(CP)—Formal notice of his intention to introduce in the Ontario Legislature a measure to extend the terms of municipal councils to two years was given today by Hon. Eric Cross, Minister of Municipal Affairs.

The measure is entitled "Local Government Extension Act" and only concession to the opposition expressed recently by the electorate has been to eliminate the provisions which would have made it possible to extend further council terms from year to year for the duration of the war.

Voluntary Training Planned for Norwegians

Oslo, Jan. 12—(CP)— King Haakon, in a speech from the Throne opening Parliament, disclosed today a program for voluntary drills to be conducted by the Defence Ministry for any citizens desirous of training.

Although the King did not mention it, observers presumed that many might take training with a view to service in Finland.

(King Gustav of Sweden yesterday opened the Swedish Parliament with a pledge that Sweden would give "all help possible" to Finland.)

"It shall be the aim of Norway in cooperation with other neutral countries, particularly Denmark and Sweden, to maintain peace for herself," said King Haakon.

"Norway has been able to maintain peaceful and friendly relations with all countries in spite of wars involving even one of our neighbor countries."

DANISH TROOPS FIGHT IN FINLAND

Second Neighboring Force to Report for Duty Against Russians

Copenhagen, Jan. 12 (AP)—Danish troops answered Finland's call for "practical aid" today, moving up to fields of action to join against the Soviet Russian invasion.

The Danes were the second neighboring forces to report for duty, four contingents of Swedish volunteers already having gone to the Finnish fronts. The number of troops and their point of arrival was not disclosed, the Copenhagen newspaper National Tidende said.

Swelling this aid was a nationwide campaign in Sweden for farmers to contribute products to the Finns. Every farmer was asked to give one day's milk or 50 pounds of corn for every 25 acres and one egg for every hen.

While Finnish sources described victories against the Reds on northern fronts in the Salla and Petsamo regions, the Russian military communique released at Moscow reported infantry clashes and patrol action near Kitela, on the northeast shore of Lake Ladoga about 25 miles inside the Finnish border.

Artillery Duels Reported

On the Karelian Isthmus, where the Red army was said to be massing troops for an attack on the Mannerheim Line, the Russians reported artillery duels and scouting activities.

The communique told of scout action near Ukhta and Repola, about 25 and 12 miles respectively, within Russia. The announcement, however, did not say on which side of the border the operations took place.

The Kitela action was described as in the direction of Petrozavodsk, an important station on the Murmansk railway, 60 miles within Russia.

Finnish sources have reported the advance of Finn ski patrols into Russian territory in an attempt to cut the railway.

MAYOR OF MONS SENDS MESSAGE

Burgomaster Sends Greetings to McNaughton and His Men in England

(By Edwin Johnson, Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Aldershot, Jan. 12—(CP-Cable)—The close ties between the people of Belgium and Canadian troops forged during the first Great War were recalled with publication today of an exchange of greetings between the burgomaster of Mons, V. Maistriaux and Major-General A. G. L. McNaughton, General Officer Commanding the Canadian Active Service Force.

The letter of the burgomaster was written in French. A translation follows:

"The population of Mons learned with profound feeling of the landing in Great Britain of the First Division of the Canadian Active Service Force, which you have the honor to command.

"We welcome this historic occasion and ask you to accept and convey to the officers, non-commissioned officers and men under your command, most cordial greetings from the citizens of Mons.

"They have not forgotten that they owe their liberation to the gallant soldiers of the First Canadian Expeditionary Force, who on Nov. 11, 1918, at dawn, brought them freedom and deliverance."

General McNaughton replied in French. A translation follows:—"I have the honor to express our very sincere appreciation to the citizens of Mons for their kind greetings.

"The soldiers of Canada will never forget the reception given them by the people of Mons on that day when we had the honor and good fortune to enter your city in pursuit of our common enemy."

'SALAAMALEIKUM' SALUTE GIVEN

Mohammedan Troops From British India Now on Western Front

(By Bernard Lacoste Havas Staff Writer).

With the British Forces Somewhere in France, Jan. 12 (CP-Havas)—"Salaam Aleikum," an unfamiliar salutation on the Western Front, greeted this correspondent today as he approached the camp of Mohammedan troops from British India who arrived in France recently.

The melancholy-eyed Subhadar with a long black moustache who pronounced this greeting led us from the roadside toward the encampment. The hood of his cape was drawn over his turban for protection from the cold.

"We come from the heights of the Pamirs, from Peshawar and Chitral," he said. "We have been here only a week. We did not think it was so cold in France."

Waiting For Orders

Around fires the Indian soldiers sat waiting for orders spoken in Hindustani by their "Naik"—Corporals—and "Jawadar"—Sergeants. They are Moslems of the warlike tribes of northwest India—Afridis, Pathans and Waziris.

The experience of the last war demonstrated the complications entailed in sending to Europe Hindu tribes of India, who are sensitive to caste distinctions and refuse to eat food touched even by the shadow of an infidel.

In a corner they are preparing their meal—a stew of mutton with "chupatties," a sort of hot cake of unleavened bread.

In an open pasture unprotected from the wind are ranged long files of mules. They are more delicate, more graceful, and smaller than those of France. They resemble ponies of small Mongolian horses.

ARTILLERY PLAYS IMPORTANT ROLE ON WEST FRONT

German Batteries Keep Up Sustained Fire Without Revealing Definite Purpose

MANY AIR FLIGHTS

By AXEL DE HOLSTEIN
(Havas Staff Writer)

Paris, Jan. 12 (CP-Havas)—Artillery played a leading role in fighting on the western front yesterday, although there was much infantry and aerial activity, military authorities reported today.

In the Vosges Mountain sector, where patrols had been especially active the day before, German batteries kept up a sustained fire without revealing any definite purpose.

Cold and high winds kept the infantry and aerial activities on a less intense scale yesterday than the day before, and during the night the cold reduced patrol operations.

Numerous reconnaissance flights, protected by pursuit squadrons, took place over and immediately behind the lines.

One German reconnaissance plane was brought down by the French defence. This was the third plane in two days to be brought down behind the French lines.

Fly At High Altitude.

Flights at high altitudes of other German reconnaissance planes kept northern and eastern France on the alert.

The army high command's communique reported that last night was without incident other than "patrol activity on both sides".

This was France's first completely meatless Friday as new food restrictions went into effect.

The regulations also prohibit sale of beer, veal and mutton on Mondays and Tuesdays and limit restaurant patrons to one meat portion of not more than 5¼ ounces including bone.

Meanwhile, the Chamber of Deputies had before it a bill to exclude Communists from elective office unless they publicly renounce all connection with Moscow and the policies of Soviet Russia.

MINISTER ADVERTISES SUCCESSFULLY RECENTLY

Minneola Iowa, Jan. 12.—(AP) Rev. John Stewart, Baptist minister, believes that it pays to advertise. When attendance slumped at his church last month, Rev. Stewart ran this newspaper advertisement—"Lost or strayed: Undetermined number of Baptists from services at church. Hope to find them at church next Sunday morning."

Flying is Just Like Cooking Says Mother Who Took up Aviation

New Orleans, Jan. 12 —(AP)— A mother, who took up flying at the age of 42 to get her children home from summer camp in time for Sunday dinner, passed this word today to other women—flying is just like cooking, only safer.

Mrs. Florence Boswell of Cleveland, Ohio, here for the United States Aeronautic Association Convention, has made eight forced landings and had her plane struck by lightning. Yet she has never been hurt in a plane as badly as the time she caught her hand in a clothes wringer and tore two ligaments.

"All in the world that flying is, is the proper recipe—or training; the proper ingredients—a plane in condition; and intelligent operation," she said in an interview today. "That's just like cooking except I think flying is safer. Statistics show more people die at home than anywhere else."

BANDITS' CAR FOUND WRECKED

Three Men Who Held Up Drug Store Escape—Blood Indicates One Injured

Windsor, Ont., Jan. 12—(CP) — Three men who held up a drug store here shortly before midnight last night escaped under police fire in a stolen automobile that was found today, wrecked in a ditch near Comber. Blood in the car indicated at least one of the passengers was injured .

Police issued a request to doctors today to note all injured persons in the next few days and to report any that could be connected with the hold-up that netted $9 from the store. Mrs. Ethel Ridley, wife of the proprietor, was alone when the men entered.

One of the holdup men carried a gun, she said. Constables Chris Paget and Fred Tellier encountered the men while en route to investigate the holdup. A wild chase ensued, during which the men outdistanced the police car in the chase.

SKILFUL PILOTING SAVES LIVES OF 8

Disabled Passenger Plane Lands on River Ice and Crashes Into Concrete Wall

Moline, Ill., Jan. 12 (AP)—Some skilful piloting saved five passengers and a crew of three from possible death early today when a United Air Lines plane made a forced landing on a narrow stretch of the Rock river.

The plane, with one of its two motors disabled, slid across the ice and smashed into a concrete retaining wall on the river bank. Four passengers and the two pilots suffered only minor injuries.

The 14-passenger sleeper, en route from New York to San Francisco, developed motor trouble while near Iowa City, Ia.

Unwilling to risk a landing on the small Iowa city airport, Chief Pilot Charles Wheeler turned his craft about and back-tracked to Moline, 60 miles away.

The plane overshot the Moline field and just cleared a hill on the north end. The lone functioning motor pulled the plane over the tops of trees and a concrete wall on the river bank before the craft mushed to the ice, with less than a 300 yard run available..

The crash into the opposite retaining wall tore away the right wing and motor, smashed the left motor and the cockpit but left the fuselage undamaged.

AIM MACHINE-GUN AT GERMAN PLANE

Members of Crew of British Ship Put Up Heroic Fight Against Second Plane

London, Jan. 12—(CP)—A stirring account of the defence of the 1,706-ton British steamship Keynes which sank in the North Sea yesterday after twice being bombed by German airplanes, was obtained today from one of the 17 crew members brought to a British port.

"When the enemy plane drove upon our ship and began to bomb it," a member of the crew said, "we aimed our machine gun and began firing at the plane.

"Apparently hit, it made off. Later another and larger machine came up and dropped a bomb which fell upon the bridge.

"Meanwhile the wireless operator sent distress signals from his cabin. He was in a bad condition, blood running from his hands and face as he worked his key.

"A bomb fell near his cabin, which was destroyed. He himself was hurled into the air.

"His signals were evidently picked up for a little later two British planes appeared. The German plane dropped its last bomb and, put to flight by the Royal Air Force planes, disappeared over the horizon.

"I believe it must have been hit by machine guns from the British machines, because I saw it losing altitude and trailing smoke.

"We were picked up just in time, for as soon as we had left the vessel it became a mass of flames."

Reports Indicate Fine Reception for Terms of First War Loan

Impression Seems to be Gov't. Has Dealt Fairly With Investors Says Ralston

LOAN SOLD FOR CASH

Ottawa, Jan. 12—(CP) — Early reports from widely separated points in Canada indicate "an extremely enthusiastic reception" to terms of the first Dominion war loan of $200,000,000 Finance Minister Ralston said today.

"From the information we have received so far the impression seems to be that in fixing the terms of the loan the government has dealt fairly with investors," the minister said.

Terms of the loan were published this morning. Books will open for subscriptions Monday morning. The new issue is to be sold for cash. It will not be tax free as were most Victory Bonds of the First Great War and the proceeds are to be used exclusively in financing Canada's war expenditures.

"The geneal opinion is that the loan will go over," Col. Ralston said. "Already we have reports of subscriptions promised which are far greater than we anticipated at this stage."

No formal breakdown has been given by the Minister of the estimated $1,000,000 a day Canada's war effort will cost for the first year, ending Sept. 1 next.

Col. Ralston said, however, that it costs $10,000,000 a month, based on enlistment of 61,000 men, covering pay and allowances, dependents' allowances, subsistence and accommodation.

When the next financing operation will be necessary was not estimated by the Minister or his staff. It was stated, however, that revenues are inceasing rapidly from the normal sources of revenue, customs receipts, sales tax, excise taxes and duties. These revenues will be heavier when the full effect of war-time taxation increases is felt.

For September, October and November revenues were up nearly $4,000,000 over the same months in 1938, and in December the increase was $7,000,000. So far the January revenues are up $5,000,000 over the same period last year.

Another favorable aspect of the financial picture is that the Canadian National Railways deficit is certain to be less than estimated when the last annual budget was presented.

Col. Ralston said he planned to be ready to present his next budget whenever business of the House presented a convenient time: Parliament meets Jan. 25.

Finance would be one of the most important features of the government's program at the forthcoming session, the minister said.

For Canadian Consumption.

While the new bonds to be issued Monday will be for Canadian consumption only and United States neutrality laws forbid citizens of that country buying new securities of a belligerent country, it is expected investments from the United States in older securities issued before Canada became a belligerent, may have the effect of maintaining resiliency of the Canadian market.

Col. Ralston said it would be a matter of government policy whether a heavy oversubscription to the new issue would result in a larger sale than the planned $200,000,000.

Hope of the government is that the bonds will be widely spread and for that reason denominations will be as low as $50.

"It was our intention to make a bond that would suit everybody," the minister said. "It is something new in government financing."

FRANK C. JAMES IS NEW PRINCIPAL

Installed as Head of McGill University at Impressive Ceremony

Montreal, Jan. 12—(CP)—At a brief and impressive ceremony, Frank Cyril James was installed today as the 12th principal and vice-chancellor of McGill University.

The 36-year-old economist, second youngest man ever to hold the post, assumed the robes of office worn last by Dr. Lewis William Douglas, who resigned the principalship after a little more than a year's tenure to become president of a United States insurance company.

William M. Birks, senior member of the Board of Governors, presided at the installation in the absence of Sir Edward Beatty, McGill's chancellor, who is indisposed. Lord Tweedsmuir attended and greeted the new principal in his capacity as visitor.

UPRISING IN ECUADOR IS QUICKLY QUELLED

Guayaquil, Ecuador, Jan. 12 (AP).—Jose Maria Velasco Ibarra, apparently defeated as a presidential candidate, led an uprising of army sergeants and thirty soldiers at the military aviation field today, but the insurrection was quickly suppressed.

Velasco Ibarra was arrested, along with Major Rafael Astudillo and Flores Milo, a Guayaquil broker.

Velasco Ibarra was one of three candidates for the presidency in elections held yesterday and the day before.

Roosevelt Sets Parties to Work Out Aid for Finns

Problem Should Not Become One of Partisan Politics

Washington, Jan. 12 (CP) President Roosevelt said today he has asked congressional leaders of both parties to work out the problem of giving assistance to Finland.

The President disclosed Tuesday that he was discussing the matter of aid to Finland with the State Department. Asked at his press conference today whether the conversations had resulted in any decisions, he replied in the negative.

He went on to say that the question of providing assistance to the Finns ought not to become one of partisan politics. He said he understood that at his suggestion congressional leaders were trying to get together to see what might be done.

Asserting he had not the faintest idea of specific steps that might be taken, he turned aside questions about whether aid might be extended in the form of loans or the selling of the United States army's Garand rifles to the Finns at a nominal sum.

OBITUARY

MRS. HERBERT KEMP
(Trenton.)

Mrs. Dora May Kemp, 51, wife of the late Herbert Kemp, died at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Elwood Spencer, first concession of Ameliasburg, on Monday.

Mrs. Kemp had been in ill health for some time and on Christmas day she left her home, 134 Lorne avenue, for her home in Ameliasburg in the hope that the change would help her.

Upon the death of her husband some years ago, Mrs. Kemp took over the management of her late husband's business on Elgin street and she had made a decided success of it.

A gifted musician and director of amateur plays Mrs. Kemp's services were much sought after by various town organizations. She was a member of King Street United Church where funeral services were conducted Thursday afternoon by the Rev. J. U. Robins. Entombment was made in Mount Evergreen vault.

Mrs. Kemp is survived by her parents, one son, Arthur, Belleville; and two brothers, in Ameliasburg and Chicago, Ill., respectively.

Russian Armed Might Branded as a Bogey Of Clever Propaganda

Newmarket, Ont., Jan. 12—(CP)—Branding alleged Russian armed might as the bogey of clever propaganda, Colonel George Drew, Ontario Conservative leader, Thursday declared the world owed a debt of gratitude to Finland for having torn the cloak "off this bully."

Speaking before the community forum at Pickering College, Col. Drew said that people and nations, though hating Communism, had feared Russia because of this "bogey of military might."

Reviewing conditions as he saw them during a visit to the Soviet republics Col. Drew asserted several Soviets were ripe for revolution. He attributed considerable part of the Russian reverses in the present campaign to the fact that the soldiers had never been trained with live ammunition.

This he laid to Stalin's fear the troops would revolt if possessed of the means of combat.

"Stalin is now on the horns of an extremely difficult dilemma," he said. "If he doesn't supply the troops with ammunition they will not succeed in the war against Finland. And if he does supply ammunition to the troops there may be a new ruler in the Kremlin."

JUDGE EXPRESSES SORROWFORYOUTH

20-Year-Old Sentenced to Six Years in Prison for Serious Offence

Hamilton, Jan. 12.— (CP)—Mr. Justice E. R. E. Chevrier sentenced Verne Eagles, 20, to six years in Kingston penitentiary today for a serious offence against a 17-year-old girl.

"I am sorry for you, decidedly sorry for you," His Lordship told the youth, "and when I say I am sorry, I mean it." Eagles stood in the prisoner's dock crying while the judge spoke to him about five minutes.

Eagles is already under sentence of thirty months in the penitentiary for robbery with violence, auto theft and theft of gasoline, and the six-year sentence imposed this morning will be concurrent with the other term.

NOTED CANADIAN BUSINESS MAN DIES IN TORONTO

J. J. Seitz, Dean of Office Equipment Industry in Canada, Dies After Short Illness

78 YEARS OLD

Married Belleville Girl, Formerly Mary Nora Burke, Who Died in 1932

Toronto, Jan. 12.—(CP)—J. J. Seitz, noted Canadian business man and dean of the office equipment industry in this country, died at his home here today after a brief illness. He would have been 78 years old on February 2.

Vigorously active up to a few weeks ago in the management of the Underwood Company and other businesses, Mr. Seitz became ill shortly after Christmas and steadily declined. He lapsed into a coma forty-eight hours ago and never rallied.

Mr. Seitz was a moving spirit in formation of the Canadian Business Equipment Manufacturers' association and currently its honorary president. He also was president of A. D. Gorrie and Company, Ltd., and vice-president of the Capital Trust Corporation.

Native of Bruce

Native of Formosa, (Bruce County), Ontario, Mr. Seitz was a member of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association, The Toronto Board of Trade and of several clubs. He served on the Board of St. Michael's hospital here and on the executive of the Toronto Welfare Association. He had been president of the Toronto baseball club, of Rosary Hall and of the St. Vincent De Paul Society.

Originality and enterprise prompted Mr. Seitz to apply a typewriter to telegraphy for the first time 55 years ago. He is said to have contributed more than any other individual to the development and maintenance of modern efficiency in Canadian business methods.

Born of pioneer parents, Mr. Seitz as a youth aided his father in developing a homestead. There were no schools in the district and he received rudimentary education from a neighboring cobbler.

Learned Telegraphy

At the age of 13 he learned telegraphy and three years later when telegraph first came to Formosa he became the local operator. A year later he went to Toronto as an operator and in 1880 was transferred to Hamilton. Shortly thereafter he was married at Belleville to Nora Mary Burke of that city. She died in 1932 and Mr. Seitz subsequently married Catherine Hishon of Toronto, who survives.

In the early 1880's he purchased what was probably the first typewriter to be brought into Canada and was the first person to apply the typewriter to telegraphy.

At the age of 34 he quit his position with the Great North-Western railway and returned to Toronto as agent for the Jewet typewriter. In 1898 he obtained exclusive Canadian sales rights to the Underwood typewriter. His agency grew and branches were opened in Eastern Canada.

Mr. Seitz's sales and service organization spread from coast-to-coast and he organized the Peerless Carbon and Ribbon Company.

Organized Automobile Agency

Working with him as executive vice-president of the typewriter company, was his eldest son, Joseph, while W. J. Seitz, another son, managed the Peerless Company. Ernest, the youngest son, was winning world renown as a concert pianist and as composer of "The World is Waiting for the Sunrise".

Around 1920, Mr. Seitz, who had owned one of Toronto's first automobiles, organized A. D. Gorrie and Company, Ltd., which grew into one of the world's largest automobile agencies.

The Underwood Company in the United States became the Underwood Elliott Fisher Company in 1927 and the United Typewriter Company—Mr. Seitz's organization—joined the merger.

Surviving besides his widow and three sons are four other daughters and two sons. They are Miss Helen Seitz, Mrs. G. O. McConkey, Mrs. J. V. Driscoll, and Mary. Philip and Paul Seitz, all of Toronto.

War Materials for Finns Being Shipped Through France

Paris, Jan. 12 (AP).—Spain, Italy and southeastern European countries are shipping war materials to Finland through France, an official spokesman said today.

"The material from these countries is considerable," he said, adding that volunteers also are enroute from them to join the Finnish forces.

Observers understood the Spaniards were sending the Finns German and Russian guns which opposed each other in Spain during the civil war. Great quantities of foreign armaments were left in Spain after the victory of General Francisco Franco over the Republican forces.

The spokesman did not name the southeastern European countries he said were rallying to Finland's aid.

Rangers Tie N.H.L. Record Set by Canadiens by Going 18 Games Without Defeat

Defeat Black Hawks 5-3 But Bruins Keep Stride by Beating Leafs 5-2

HERBIE CAIN STARS

Player Obtained From Canadiens by Boston Scores Four of Five Goals—Broda Hurt

(By Jack Calder, Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Prepare now for a rush of wind as the critics try to decide how good Lester Patrick's swift-stepping New York Rangers really are in comparison with great hockey clubs of the past.

The Rangers, already cited by Patrick as the greatest team since the rules first allowed a club to dress fifteen players, tied a 12-year-old National League record last night when they defeated Chicago Black Hawks 5-3 before 12,000 customers at New York. In the only other game Boston Bruins defeated Toronto Maple Leafs 5-2 at Toronto.

It was the 18th straight game in which the Rangers had gone without defeat and, though actually it left them only in a first-place tie with Bruins, the string matched the N.H.L. mark for consecutive games without loss established by Montreal Canadiens in 1927-28. The New York team has won 13 and tied five of its 18 games since Nov. 19. It has won nine in a row, to come within five of the mark of 14 consecutive victories attained by Boston in 1929-30.

In attaining the amazing mark, Patrick's Club has still to show it can be superior over an entire season to the Bruins, who have managed to stay level despite the continued absence of Roy Conacher and the retirement of Eddie Shore.

The Bruins kept stride by defeating Maple Leafs as Herbie Cain, an acquisition from the Canadiens only this year, scored four goals before 10,000 fans at Toronto. Unable to hold the darting Cain in the third period, the Leafs dropped to second place.

The Rangers' chance to beat the Canadiens' record comes Saturday at Toronto, where they will be favored to defeat the Leafs. Without Sylvanus Apps and Gordon Drillon the Toronto team doesn't appear to have a scoring punch to match the Rangers.

But there was no detracting from the glory of the Ranger achievement last night, hard as the Hawks tried to stop the adversary and much as they succeeded for two periods. Twice Chicago overcame leads and then Patrick's elder son, Lynn, shot the goal that sent the New Yorkers ahead to stay in the third period.

Bryan Hextall gave the Rangers a first-period advantage but Joe Cooper, a former blueshirt, tied the score before the first interval. Hextall sent his club ahead again in the second but Cully Dahlstrom made it 2-2.

Tall, blond Lynn sank a relay from Kilby Macdonald and Ott Heller and the Rangers started to roll in. Babe Pratt and Neil Colville scored in quick succession to raise the lead to 5-2 and it wasn't until 27 seconds from the finish that Phil Hergesheimer broke through for the Hawks again.

The Leafs struggled valiantly against the Bruins but couldn't meet the challenge that Cain threw from an unexpected quarter. Red Hamill and Cain gave Boston a two-goal advantage in the first period but Bingo Kampman and Gus Marker overcame it in the second.

Then the Cain magic was turned on. He sank a loose puck for his second goal and converted passes from Busher Hollett and Art Jackson for the others.

When Cain crashed into him in scoring the first time, goalie Turk Broda of the Leafs suffered a four-stitch gash over the left kneecap. He continued to play but there appeared a possibility today that the club might call Phil Stein back from Omaha of the American Association to play tomorrow.

Conn's Chances Not Favored by Gene Tunney

Tunney, here for a visit, expressed hope that Conn would make a go of it in trying to build himself up from light heavy to heavyweight, but his doubts seemed plentiful.

"Billy is a fine Irish kid, a colorful fighter and a credit to the game," Tunney said. "I'd like to see him get up where he can make the money that a heavyweight contender can make.

"But to me he seems a trifle short. Besides, he has small bones. And, worst of all, he is not a knockout puncher."

DUTCH HILLER

N.Y. Rangers.

Dutch Hiller

Without an official race it's hard to say who is definitely the fastest skater in the National League but close to the best is Dutch Hiller, flashy left wing with Frank Boucher's stream-lined Rangers. He teams up with Phil Watson at centre and Bryan Hextall on right wing as one of the Rangers' regular units, one that posted 45 goals last season, second best in the league. And it was the first season the trio had played together. Christened Wilbert, he's 24 years old, comes from Kitchener. Dutch was playing with New York Rovers and leading the U.S. amateur league in scoring toward the end of the 1937-38 season when Butch Keeling, Ranger veteran fractured a thumb, and Lester Patrick signed him (Dutch, not Butch) to a pro contract and put him into N.H.L. action. That made last year his first full major league compaign and he registered 10 goals, 19 assists and served 29 minutes in penalties. One assist, one penalty was his output for the few games in which he saw service in his first year. Before going to the Rovers he had played here, there and everywhere — Kitchener, Sudbury, tryout with Canadiens, Harringay Racers in England. Like many present Rangers he got his start with the club at one of the fall schools held at Winnipeg.

"Superior Mudders" Set Pace in Tourney

Oakland, Calif., Jan 12 (AP) — Two players who would be described in horse racing circles as "Superior mudders" set the pace today as a reduced field of 128 teed off in the second round of the $5,000 72-hole Oakland golf tournament.

Fancy 67's, three under par, executed under such trying circumstances as rain, some wind and plenty of standing water, put Craig Wood, Mamaroneck, N.Y., professional, and Wilford Wehrle, amateur from Racine, Wis., in the forefront. Wood had a 35-32, Wehrle 32-35.

MAPLE LEAFS TAKE OVER LEADERSHIP IN JUVENILE LOOP

Score 4-1 Victory Over Black Hawks While Canadiens and Americans Tie 2-2

INTERESTING GAME

Good Team Will be Picked From Group to Compete in Juvenile Playdowns

Frank Cunningham's Maple Leafs moved into sole possession of first place in the Belleville Juvenile Hockey Association with a 3-1 victory over Frank Follwell's Black Hawks at the Hume Arena last evening while in a second game of a scheduled doubleheader the Canadiens came from behind to gain a 2-2 draw with the Americans. With the Leafs leading the Canadiens and Americans are tied for second place in the league standing, each having two tie games.

In the opening game Langabeer put the Maple Leafs in the lead when he split the defence to score the only goal of the frame. The Leafs took a firm hold as they showed more speed in the second frame when May rapped in Robertson's pass and Burkholder picked up a loose puck to beat Cook for a second goal. The Black Hawks' only tally came as a gift as Burkholder shot the puck into his own net in attempting to clear.

Although the winners showed more speed, the front line of Rosebush, Maracle and McCabe were endeavoring to play combination and teamed well. The Leafs' speed developed into more of the individual style of hockey with the exception of May and Robertson, the two lads from O.S.D. who grace Leafs' jerseys. Burkholder, Langabeer and Goyer showed occasional bursts of speed for the winners, whose defence proved stronger in front of Clarke.

Stage Strong Finish.

Staging a strong finish the Canadiens came from behind to tie the score at 2-2 in the nightcap affair with the Americans, despite the fact the Americans carried the play for the greater part of the game, but Frankie Collins' Les Canadiens proved true Merriwell finishers.

After Thompson had smothered Keller's shot, Carson raced in to poke in the loose puck for Americans' first goal, while Cronk took McGuire's pass at the defence to nick a high drive and put the Dennis-led Americans two up at the end of the second period after a scoreless initial frame. A fistic battle between Stan Reid of Canadiens and Keller of Americans added spice to the middle session.

As Canadiens rallied late in the last period Rogers whipped in S. Reid's pass and Reid came back to poke in McBride's rebound and knot the score just before the final bell.

Although Americans claimed a sturdier defence, the more speedy Canadiens paced by Bill McBride and Stan Reid rallied strongly, with Barrett and Rogers turning in fine efforts. For the Americans, Cronk, Keller, Sharpe and McGuire looked the best with Mills turning aside the Canadiens for over 55 minutes.

CAPITALS SCORE SIX IN ONE FRAME

Indianapolis Wins Despite Fact Earl Robinson Scored Three for Losers

It isn't often that a hockey player turns a "hat trick" effort of three goals and yet is on the losing team, but Earl Robinson of New Haven Eagles knows how that oddity feels today.

Robinson, sent down to the International-American League Eagles only a short time ago from Montreal Canadiens, came through with a spectacular three-goal effort last night against Indianapolis Capitals. But his one-man show went for naught, as the Capitals blasted in six scores—all in the final period to win 6-3.

Going into the sixth minute of the last frame the Eagles, leaders in the eastern section, seemed to have the game tucked away through a goal by Robinson in the last minute of the first period and another early in the third session. But then the Capitals, who head the western division, went to work.

Archie Wilder, Ron Hudson and Hec Kilrea scored in that order before Robinson clicked for his third goal to tie the score. The Capitals found the range again a few minutes later and Les Douglas scored what proved to be the winning goal. Wilder and Hudson added their second scores only eight seconds apart near the close of the game.

Joe Legault Breaks Alley Record for League Bowling

Joe Legault bowling for the Belleville Golf team in the Major "A" league last night rolled a 416 single game to break the alley record for league bowling. Joe just missed a perfect game by leaving the 4-pin standing on what looked to be a perfect hit. Walt Baker held the record for a number of years with a 415 score. This score tied the alley record of 416 held by Dave Tobe.

Skiing Dates Back to Legends of Scandinavia

One of the fastest growing sports in North America over the past decade has been skiing, a sport that goes back centuries, but that only now is reaching towards its possible peak a san entertainment and exercise.

Unlike many sports, the origin of which has been dug out of some ancient Egyptian or Persian tomb, skiing, by its very nature, is a sport of the northern hemisphere, and began centuries ago in the Scandinavian countries, still leaders in producing masters at the intricacies of the sport.

Legendary Tales.

That skiing is an old sport is indicated in Norwegian legends. According to an ancient tale the Germanic race reached the Scandinavian peninsula on skis. There are also stories of Norwegians of 1,000 years ago who knew the art of jumping from mountain ledges without falling, continuing down the mountainside on their wooden runners.

Of course, it is the national sport of Norway. Everyone skis there. They make runner sonly 18 inches long for mere children and as competitions are based on age there are contests run off for those from "9 to 99". It is more cross-country skiing that the Norwegians go in for and it is interesting to note that even in the cradle of the great winter pastime enthusiasm has been growing.

Before the outbreak of war special boats used to run from Denmark to Norway during the skiing season and each had an instructor on board. Instruction at the various resorts had been made uniform, so that no matter where one went the same technique would be available.

Young Canada Likes It.

The enthusiasm of Canadian youth—and of those not so youthful—has found a great outlet of recent years in this ancient pastime and as soon as there's snow in any hilly district in the dominion it doesn't take long for the slopes to become covered with enthusiasts.

Many are taking up the art for the first time this winter and any tips they can get on the pastime will be eagerly gobbled up. As they will be by those who have been at it a while, too. For those interested the Ontario Intelligencer will carry a series of six short articles entitled "BASIC SKIING" on its sports page.

One article will appear each day of next week and the text and accompanying illustration may be just what you've been looking for in attempting to go about the art. Look for the first one on the Ontario Intelligencer sports page Monday.

TOMM MURSTAD

This youthful Norwegian ski champion has won all the amateur championships in Europe at some time or other and will pass on some of his store of information to The Ontario Intelligencer readers in a short series entitled "Basic Skiing", that will begin on Monday.

LOWEST SCORING TEAM IN LOOP BUT STILL FIRST

Boston Olympics of Quebec Senior Loop Holding on Hard Way

DRAW WITH BRAVES

Important Game Scheduled for Tonight for Cornwall Flyers

Montreal, Jan. 12 (CP)—Boston Olympics are the lowest scoring team in the Quebec Provincial senior hockey league, but that doesn't keep them from hanging on to top rung in the standing even if they do choose to go about it the hard way.

The Olympics were steping along at a merry clip before Lachine Rapids halted a nine-game winning streak last week. Last night they entertained Valleyfield in the only scheduled senior game on Quebec's amateur hockey front and the visitors served notice they are out to better their position.

The Olympics were forced to rally twice before a crowd of 9,271 to earn a 2-2 overtime draw that left them on top, one point ahead of the idle Sherbrooke Red Raiders. The tie moved Valleyfield into fifth place and extended their undefeated streak to six games.

Goals by Tony Demers, a fast stepper with a bullet-like shot, and Lionel Lafontaine put the Braves in front in the first and second periods. Boston, however, matched these with a goal in the first period by Cliff Thompson and another in the third by the veteran Frankie Spain, back in the lineup after a week's layoff with a sore neck.

The teams meet again tonight at Boston in one of three provincial league games. The other bring together Shawinigan Falls and Quebec, St. Hyacinthe and Verdun. A win for Boston would consolidate their hold on first place.

One game is scheduled in the Quebec senior hockey league. Montreal Concordia will invade Cornwall. Both teams have plenty at stake. Concordias can move into a first place tie with Montreal Royals the eastern Canada champions, while a victory for Cornwall would move them into second place, ahead of Concordias.

CALLING 'EM

Between the Lines

with

Ken J. Colling

If perchance we face an early spring it would appear as though the district Intermediate "A" group in the O.H.A., composed of Peterboro, the Air Force and the Belleville Redmen, may have wasted a lot of valuable hockey weather. There has been splendid ice at the Hume Arena for over three full weeks, but only two games have been played in the group, one of which was played in Peterboro. However, the Intermediate "A" group resumes activities tonight in Peterboro, when the Flyers clash with Frank Buckland's Petes. The relative strength of these two squads will doubtless be determined this evening and the fans will know tomorrow just what to expect for the remainder of the season. If the Airmen battle the Petes closely be prepared for real Pete-Flyer series. The Petes have the two Jopling boys back on their roster and a couple of new-comers named Blewett and Brady respectively. However, such veterans as Bun Kingdon, Eddie Starr, Don Crowe and Honey Tompkins are still with the Petes.

Some years ago Belleville had a girls' hockey team. As a matter of fact, in the days of the old Arnott Arena a really good girls' hockey team functioned with success and out-of-town games were played. The latest along this line is the report that girls' ice hockey may be revived by the feminine students attending the Belleville Collegiate, we understand. The proposal is to play inter-form hockey among the student lassies, which should prove popular, if not exactly productive of the finer points of the game. If this venture should prove successful no doubt an inter-school group may materialize in time. It is understood that much enthusiasm is being shown in the junior grades and before long this sport will be thoroughly organized under the auspices of the Girls' Athletic Association.

Do you remember when Baseball Commissioner Kenesaw Landis exonerated 21 players of "throwing" four games in the tight Chicago White Sox-Boston American League pennant race in 1917, in a blanket decision 13 years ago today? Two baseball outcasts, Charles Risberg and Arnold Gandil, charged the Sox bought four games from Detroit Tigers to reach the finals. Chicago won the pennant and went on to defeat New York Giants for the world title.

Up around the corner of Queen St. and Dufferin Ave. there is a hive of activity these days; the Quinte Skating Club has been preparing for their season of fancy and figure skating and nightly these energetic club members can be seen faithfully practicing their routine. Incidentally the Quinte Skating Club opens its season's program tonight at Picton, where they are the feature attraction at a winter carnival being held in the Picton Arena. A complete rejuvenation of the officers of the Quinte Skating Club was made earlier in the season with the result that this self-sustaining organization has increased its membership and activities alike. A splendid open air rink has been constructed and tuition in fancy and figure skating is afforded the younger and beginner groups. Last year the club staged and produced a two-night ice spectacle at the Hume Arena,. which brought considerable favourable comment with the result another such ice presentation will be given in Belleville this year.

Demon "Fight Promoter" Benter called today to say he hoped to match "Hub" Smith and "Jibber" Ellis in Trenton on Feb. 3rd, all being favorable. There is considerable interest being taken in this return fight, so-much-so that in the event Smith should win this time the boys are all talking of a third and deciding bout to be held in Belleville. Incidentally that crack we made about fight officials recently was not intended to include Referee Billie Hughes, who had nothing to do with the initial decision made when Ellis beat Smith at the Airport recently. Actually we have been told that Hughes' refereeing left nothing to be desired along those lines and he is being suggested as the third man in the ring for the return bout, but like others Referee Hughes feels that two or three competent judges should be appointed for such an important fight fixture.

Apparently Frank Collins' Canadiens in the City Juvenile loop, play all of their hockey in the last few moments of their game. Last week these boys rallied to score two in a belated finish to knot the score with the Black Hawks and last night Les Canadiens of our "little big league" duplicated this feat as, they scored two goals in the last two minutes of play to tie the Americans to 2-all, while the Maple Leafs trounced the Black Hawks 4-1 and now we find Frank Cunningham's Leafs leading the Juvenile parade. Last night the second game, as was the case the previous week, proved more interesting and saw better hockey throughout. However, the players are developing too much individualism, which may be attributed to the fact that the league coaches have not been afforded sufficient practices to teach their hirelings the fundamentals of the game. But the kids are willing workers and are trying hard to impress their mentors, knowing full well that the cream of the league crop will obtain berths on Belleville city juvenile teams in the O.J.H.A., This venture will ultimately pay splendid dividends we are convinced.

Sport Spice — Paced by Herbie Cain, who scored four goals, the Boston Bruins beat the Leafs 5-2 last night to keep pace with the Rangers, who beat Chicago 5-3... It proved a double loss for the Leafs as goalie Turk Broda sustained an injured knee last night and will be out of the game for Saturday's big tussle with the Rangers, Phil Stein coming up from Omaha to fill the vacancy....The Rangers will be right in battling Saturday night because last evening Lester Patrick's charges tied the N.H.L. record of 18 consecutive victories without a loss, a record that has stood 12 years..... The Rangers and Bruins are now tied for the N.H.L. leadership ....Dizzy Dean is in the news again, 'Ol' Diz' thinks he's worth more than $10,000 per to the Cubs.....Last year Dean won six and lost four.

HEATING HINTS
by James Stewart

DO NOT neglect the ashpit of your furnace. It serves three very important purposes:

1. It is a space provided under the grate to receive the ashes which are shaken through.

2. It receives the air from the cellar and helps to distribute it uniformly to all parts of the fuel bed.

3. It acts as a chamber in which the incoming cool air from the cellar is heated.

If ashes are allowed to accumulate in the ashpit, the air supply will be cut off and the even and complete combustion of the fuel will be hampered. Not only that . . . if the ashpit becomes choked up with ashes the grates are very apt to become overheated and warp or break. And it costs money to replace grates. Take my advice, therefore, and keep the ashpit cleaned out. (14)

Chatham and Tilbury To Decide Snow Bowl Title on Saturday

Chatham, Ont., Jan. 12 —(CP)— Frustrated once in an attempt to declare a snow bowl football champion, Chatham and Tilbury teams will meet here tomorrow in a game that ought to wind up the season.

Chatham Colvocs and Tilbury Clippers staged a classic in the snow New Year's Day to rival the football bowl games of the United States. But when they had finished, they were tied 1-1 as a result of two rouges and the claimant to the bowl donated by Chatham merchants hadn't been decided.

So the Colvocs, who will use the gate receipts to put a team in the Junior Ontario Rugby Football Union next season, will take on the Clippers on Tecumseh Park again tomorrow. Both teams hope for snow and lots of it, because landing might be hard without it.

Only 300 fans watched the first snow bowl game in a chill wind and a driving snowstorm. A bigger crowd is practically assured this time because a cheering section of 100 girls has been rounded up by the Colvocs. The club management promises that the cheerleaders "will do flips" and "everything will be like the big college games"—only snowier.

Sports Roundup

(By Eddie Brietz Associated Press Sports Writer).

New York, Jan. 12 (AP)—If Dr. John Bain Sutherland will tell us where he is going to coach this fall, we'll tell him where he can get a good halfback....fair enough, isn't it?.....New York papers are tipping Mike Jacobs not to throw Billy Conn in there with any more slow-footed heavies

Iron men dept:-

The Goose Creek (Texas) basketeers entered a schoolboy tournament at 11 a.m. one day and eight hours later had four victories and the title to their credit....Marlin Buckles (six foot, three) rang the bell for 60 points in the marathon.

Today's guest star:-

Morgan Blake, Atlanta Journal: "England has put out a motion picture called 'The Lion has Wings,' but Bill Henry of the Los Angeles Times thinks it unlikely Russia will turn out one called 'The Bear has Finns.'"

Lee Savold, the mid-western heavy, made a hit here....He's a rugged, two-fisted puncher and you may see him mingling with Conn soon....Joe McCarthy is due this zalaras.....Cleveland and Buffalo week-end for a confab over Yankee are not working together any more because Detroit slipped in and got Clay Smith, Buffalo pitching ace.

How to Overcome Piles And Rectal Soreness

If you are annoyed with itching piles or rectal soreness, do not neglect the same or run the risk of an operation. Any itching, soreness or painful passage of stool, is nature's warning and proper treatment should be secured at once. For this purpose get from J. S. McKeown or any druggist, a package of Hemroid and use as directed. This formula, which is used internally, quickly relieves the itching and soreness and aids in healing the sore, tender spots. Hemroid is highly recommended, is easy to use and it seems the height of folly for anyone to risk an operation when a simple remedy, which is so pleasant to use may be had at such a reasonable cost.

ONTARIO

Pursuant to the provisions of the Mining Tax Act (Chap. 28, R.S.O. 1937), the following list is published of mining locations, mining claims, and mining rights, in respect of which taxes imposed by the said Act are more than two years in default, and notice is hereby given that unless the amount due as shown on the said list shall have been paid on or before June 30th, 1940, the property in respect of which the taxes so remain unpaid shall on the day following the above date become forfeited to and revested in the Crown.

In the arrangement of the list, lands are given in the judicial district in which they are situated, commencing from the west, and in each district the lots in townships are placed first and in alphabetical order, according to the townships; then follow the locations or claims not originally in surveyed territory, also alphabetically arranged and in sequence. Owners of property thus advertised are advised that extra costs are incurred if payment is delayed beyond February 29th, 1940, as the Act requires an additional notice to owners of claims on which the taxes have not been paid by this time for which there is a statutory charge.

Communications regarding this matter should be addressed to A. C. Young, Mine Assessor, Department of Mines, Parliament Buildings, Toronto.

H. C. Rickaby,
Deputy Minister of Mines.

AT THE McCARTHY

"Tower of London"

One of the most dramatic periods in all history, the fighting 15th century, will reach the screen for the first time when Universal's "Tower of London" opens next at the McCarthy theatre.

A year in the making, the new drama offers Basil Rathbone in perhaps his strongest role as the diabolic Richard III, infamous "Crookback" king and includes some of Hollywood's ablest dramatic players in its cast of hundreds.

Boris Karloff of "Frankenstein" and other roles also has a powerful part as Richard's ally, the fearsome executioner of the Tower. Ian Hunter is seen as Edward IV and Barbara O'Neil follows her hit performance in "When Tomorrow Comes" with the role of Edward's wife, Elizabeth.

Nan Grey and John Sutton portray the romantic leads and Vincent Price, Leo G. Carroll, Lionel Belmore, Miles Mander, Rose Hobart, Ralph Forbes, Frances Robinson, Ernest Cossart, G. P. Huntley, Donnie Dunagan and Ronald Sinclair are other principals.

Stark Material

Brothers Rowland V. and Robert N. Lee, producer-director and writer, respectively, collaborated in filming a story which parallels closely actual historical records. They chose the 15th century as a background because it was a time of virile action and warfare, when both romance and fighting were carried on within the border of the battlefield.

The story centres around the life of Richard, whose ambitions and treachery lead him to destroy five who stand between him and the throne. Among his victims are the "two little princes in the Tower".

AT THE BELLE

"The Roaring Twenties"

The Belle theatre's parade of hits which began so auspiciously at the new year with "Swanee River," "Another Thin Man," "The Great Victor Herbert," "Remember," continues in full swing with "The Roaring Twenties," co-starring James Cagney and Priscilla Lane, opening there next.

Based on original story by Mark Hellinger, world-famous author and columnist, "The Roaring Twenties" deals with the exciting and incredible events of that fabulous period from the end of the World War to the stock market crash in 1929. During no other period in the history of the world was there such a revolutionary change in the manners and customs of the people, such a rising tide of prosperity, or such complete lawlessness. It was the decade of the gin-mill, the speakeasy, the flapper, flaming youth, bootleggers and gangsters. There could be no better authority for this story than Hellinger who was covering the news for his syndicated columns all during the period.

The film opens at the close of the war. Cagney, a returned veteran, finds that his job as a garage mechanic is no longer open. To make a living, he turns to taxi-driving, but when the Prohibition Act is passed he finds an easier way—making and selling bootleg liquor. The film depicts his rise from a small-time bootlegger to a big-time racketeer. Rising with him are his two wartime buddies, played by Jeffrey Lynn and Humphrey Bogart. Bogart is in the racket with him as a henchman while Lynn handles the legal end. Also on the rise with him are Gladys George, as the night-club proprietor who first set him up in the bootlegging business, and Priscilla Lane, as a young singer with whom he is in love, and Lynn breaks away from the unsavory connection with the bootleggers. The crash comes, and Cagney loses everything but the one taxicab that Bogart, now a big shot himself, has scornfully given him.

Prohibition is repealed and the bootleggers look for new rackets but Cagney still drives his cab. Meeting Priscilla again, he learns that Lynn, now in the district attorney's office, has had notes from Bogart threatening his life if he doesn't drop the racket investigation he is carrying on. She appeals to Cagney for help, and his answer to her plea forms the thrilling climax to the film story.

"Sniffle" and "The Bookworm" a funny comicolor cartoon and the popular Belle overseas and Canadian News will be exhibited on the same program. Tomorrow afternoon the closing chapter of the thrilling serial film "Boy Scouts to the Rescue," will be exhibited.

Splendid Show

Robert Taylor, Greer Garson, (Lovely Mrs. Chips), and Lew Ayres are featured in the uproarious romantic feature comedy, "Remember?" being presented at the Belle with a grand human story that will touch your heart, "Our Neighbors—The Carters." A clever Pete Smith specialty, "Talking Turkey," will also be exhibited.

FINANCE MINISTER EXPLAINS ISSUE

Col Ralston Says War Will Cost Canada $375,000,000 in First Year

Toronto, Jan. 12 —(CP)— Every Canadian—the man on the street and the financier—had a direct appeal before him today to co-operate actively with the government in its drive for urgently needed war funds opening Monday.

Finance Minister Ralston made it plain here last night that the time had come to enlist the help of the Canadian people as a whole in financing the national war effort; the aid of the financial institutions already seemed assured.

It was to enable the average citizen to take part according to his ability in the first public loan of the Second Great War, that the government was issuing bonds in denominations as low as $50, Mr. Ralston said.

In addition, arrangements had been made with the banks by which investors could borrow 80 per cent of the value of the bond for three months, to facilitate purchases.

Meeting in Toronto

The Finance Minister addressed a meeting here of the Ontario section of the National War Loan Committee. Senator Arthur Meighen also spoke briefly. Premier Mitchell Hepburn was chairman.

The Finance Minister explained that the war would cost Canada approximately $375,000,000 in the first year, not including credits advanced to the Allies for war purchases in Canada. The air training plan itself would cost Canada a total of $350,000,000.

The government aimed at a pay-as-you-go policy, but excessive taxation also had to be avoided.

Senator Meighen warned that, while the Western Front was quiet so far, "We are a long way from seeing the light on the horizon." He commended Col. Ralston as a great Canadian of commanding ability.

Up For Love

By NINA SLOAN SNELL

"You gotta girl outside, buddy?" Gleason's voice was ingratiating.

The younger convict put down his magazine. "I haven't, but it's a cinch you have," he mumbled, resignedly. "You been stalling for an opening to talk about her ever since I came. Go ahead, brother. Get it over."

Gleason laughed sheepishly. "I guess it was your coming from her town started me thinking about her," he said. "Not that I don't do that a good deal, anyhow. Its' what's kept me from blowing my top these nine years."

"That long? You are an old-timer. Does your girl visit you often?"

"Well, buddy, she ain't been to see me—yet. I ain't encouraged her to. I figured it wouldn't look too good for a rich, society lady like her to be running up here all the time."

A skeptical snicker came from the bunk. "What's the idea of ribbing me?"

"I ain't," he protested, earnestly. "My girl's among the highest. Honest! Why she's so up in society they put her picture in the papers sometimes. I cut one out last week. Wait!" He rose and went to a shelf, returning with a newspaper portrait of a beautiful woman.

The new prisoner took the picture. He squinted down at it a moment, then handed it back. "Uh-huh," he assented, grinning, "this here dame's a swell all right. But so's Mrs. Roosevelt and the queen of Greece. Why didn'ja pick on one of them 'stead of Katherine Vanstone?"

"Because they ain't neither of them my girl and Katherine is," Gleason avowed firmly. "How'd yuh come to recognize her?" he asked. "Have you seen her face before?"

"A hundred times. Whatever Mrs. Vanstone does is front-page stuff. I guess it's partly because of the talk there was about her at the time her husband was murdered."

Gleason swallowed. "Queer you'd remember," he murmured.

"I don't. Not all the facts."

"You never knew all the facts. Nor anybody else didn't. I kept my mouth corked. And I reckon I better keep on keeping it corked."

"Pshaw! shoot the works, brother. This is getting hot. I'm interested. And I won't let it go no farther. Let's see—wasn't you the Vanstone's gardener?"

"Their chauffeur," the older man corrected. "I'd been working there a few months. And it was funny," he went on, musingly, "that I didn't have an inkling Katherine had fell for me until the night of this—this trouble. Gosh! I was dumb."

"Hadn't she said nothing to let you on?"

"She never spoke to me, except to give an order. Then, this particular evening she called to me over the house phone. She wanted her car brought around. Said she'd be waiting at the porte cochere. And she was. But I didn't hardly recognize her, at first."

"Why?"

"She looked younger, somehow—and smaller, and—well, sort of pitiful."

"Well, she put her head down on my shoulder and commenced to cry. I—I couldn't hardly believe I was awake.

"Well, after a while Katherine let out that she and Vans one had quarreled—about me. She'd told him straight that she loved me, and it sent him off his nut. The row ended by his rushing out of the house threatening to get even with her. Which he did. The skunk!"

The young convict made a gesture of protest. "You're going too fast for me brother," he objected. "Let's turn back to the page where you and Mrs. Vanstone are driving around—"

"—discussing plans for our future," Gleason resumed. "Think of it, buddy! She was willing to ditch her rich husband and give up her fine place in society and all her high-toned friends just to marry me. I could have listened all night: but she finally decided we'd best go home. And it was after we did that the works got gummed."

"I don't sabe."

"You will. It was the servants night out and the house was dark. Katherine asked me to go in with her, because she was afraid. It was good she asked it. For the first thing we seen after I snapped on the lights was Vanstone's body. The dirthy coward had shot himself. At the inquest, they said it happened three hours before we found him.

"Oh! So you took the rap?"

"What else could I do, buddy? Vanstone had used his wife's gun. He'd fixed things so she would have had trouble proving her innocence if somebody hadn't took the blame. An' look what she'd been willing to do for me!"

"I'm not running brother. But did she really give you—well, so much as a kiss before you was sent up?"

Gleason shook his head sadly. "No, I've always kind of wished she had. But she couldn't—hardly. You see they took me to jail—"

"Sure, I see. Thanks for the entertainment. That dame cert'n'ty copped herself off a bargain."

COULDN'T SLEEP COULDN'T WORK

What a relief to settle down to a real night's rest, and awake fully refreshed, ready for the day's duties. I was tortured by fretful nights—tossing, turning—never comfortable. Half awake days—over-tired, driving body and mind to work when they needed rest. "Try Dodd's Kidney Pills," said a friend—"it may be your kidneys". I'm glad I followed his advice as now I'm sleeping like a top—thanks to !!!

Hog Quotations

Toronto, Jan. 12 (CP)—Dressed-weights lost 15 cents at Hull in bacon-hog markets reporting today. Other markets were unchanged.

Liveweights: Chatham $8.75.

Dressedweight: Barrie $11.90; Chatham $12.00; Hamilton $11.50 plus transportation; Hull $11.60; Stratford $11.50; Brantford $11.60.

TORONTO STOCKS

Toronto, Jan 12—(CP)—Prices drifted downward today on Toronto Exchange. All index showed lossses throughout the list.

Utilities and Senior Oils posted more gains than losses and prices were off for Steels, Foods and miscellaneous issues.

Nickel, Smelter and Falconbridge were weakest base metals. In the golds Pickle Crow and Lake Shore eased down narrowly. After touching 27 1-2 Naybob tightened up to 30 for a net gain of 2 cents.

A gain of 4 cents to 2.82 was boarded by Home Oil.

WALL STREET

New York, Jan. 12 (AP).—Efforts to pump a little rallying fuel into the stock market today met with opposition and leading issues dipped fractions to two points. Extreme declines were reduced near the fourth hour.

Among principal share losers were U.S. Steel, Bethlehem, Chrysler, Douglas Aircraft, Sperry, Anaconda, Westinghouse, Air Reduction, Pullman, Montgomery Ward and Western Union.

Loft and General Electric managed to post modest plus signs.

Canadian Dome Mines, McIntyre, Distillers Seagram and Lake Shore Mines slipped fractions. Hiram Walker improved ½ point. Canada 4s, in the bond market, was easy.

YOUTH SENTENCED TO TWO YEARS IN PENITENTIARY

Alec Zolemy Convicted for Shopbreaking, Possessing Explosives and Counterfeit Mold

NEEDS TRAINING

Hamilton, Ont., Jan. 12.—(CP)—Two years in Kingston penitentiary was the term meted out to youthful Alec Zolomy by Magistrate H. A. Burbidge today. Zolomy had been convicted on two charges of shopbreaking and theft and one of possessing explosives and one of being in possession of a counterfeit mold. The court recommended that Zolomy be transferred to Collin's Bay where he might get proper training.

The youth was arrested originally in connection with theft of dynamite caps from a local quarry last summer. These caps, recovered and stored at the city yards, later blew up an office building and killed one man. Zolomy went to the Ontario Reformatory at Guelph. From there he escaped according to his own story by doing a series of back diving flips from storey to storey to the ground.

Tried to Swallow Note

He was arrested within a few hours in Hamilton and when police saw him trying to swallow something, they forced his mouth open and found a long letter written on thin tissue. This letter told of a cache of explosives in the cellar of his home and under the back stoop of a neighbour's house. Police hastened to the places designated and discovered huge quantities of dynamite caps, home-made nitro glycerine, etc. These materials were seized and exploded in a quarry by experts from the criminal investigation department.

Zolomy in court told of his ambitions to invent a new explosive and an armour piercing bullet and Magistrate Burbidge deferred sentencing for several weeks while he pondered what to do with the lad.

Egg, Butter Prices Lower at Toronto On Slow Trading

Toronto, Jan. 12—Slow trading depressed egg and butter prices yesterday on the Toronto open produce market.

Eggs developed a weak undertone as trading continued to drag. Receipts were plentiful, and with buyers apparently taking only enough for current needs, a definite accumulation was in evidence. After weakening throughout the day, A-large eggs closed at 21c in the graded section and at 24c to 25c to the retail trade.

Butter stock figures released at Ottawa yesterday were not as favorable as the trade had expected. and butter prices eased in Toronto. Early in the day demand improved somewhat, but during the afternoon the market fell flat. With trading quiet, first-grade Ontario creamery solids drifted to 27½c.

Montreal Produce

Montreal, Jan. 12—(CP)—Produce market prices here, as reported by the Dominion Department of Agriculture, follow:

Butter: First grade creamery prints, jobbing price, 29c; first grade solids, jobbing price, 28 1-2c.

to 600,000 tons now, lead from 130,000 tons in 1914 to 630,000 tons now, aluminum from 13,900 tons in 1914 to 88,000 tons now, and asbestos from 98,000 tons in 1914 to 340,000 tons now.

Ottawa, Jan. 12 (CP).—Most of Canada's production of aluminum, the exportable surplus of which a London announcement said today has been purchased by Great Britain, is exported.

Production figures for 1939 are unavailable but in 1938 Canada's output totalled 66,000 metric tons.

The United Kingdom has been one of the chief purchasers of Canadian aluminum. Of the total export valued at $28,000,000 in the first eleven months of 1939, the amount to the United Kingdom was $13,500,000. In the same period in 1938 the total export was $25,000,000 of which $11,000,000 went to the United Kingdom.

Aluminum is not mined in Canada but a large company in Quebec owning mines in British Guiana, brings the ore to Canada where it is converted into metal.

BAR NAZIS, REDS

The House sat only an hour yesterday to hear the address in reply to the Throne speech moved by Charles Fairbank (Lib., Lambton East) and seconded by Romeo Begin (Lib., Russell). Col. Drew will resume the debate next Tuesday, to be followed by Premier Mitchell Hepburn.

Mr. Fairbank warned against overlooking preparations for the period that will follow the war when, he said, Canada will become a great industrial nation and Ontario should take the lead in the development.

"A very important consideration is that, as industries expand and new ones are built in Ontario, they should be established where each workman can own his own home, cultivate his garden and become independent in his own right," he said.

"Industry, although it has accomplished much toward improving working conditions, must further realize that the greatest efficiency is obtained through the happiness and well-being of its employees."

Extent Not Realized.

Mr. Begin expressed belief that the extent of Ontario's contribution to the war effort was not realized generally.

The Helen Mine on the north shore of Lake Superior soon will step up its iron ore production to 500,000 tons annually to meet war conditions, the Russell member said.

"The tremendous amount of money involved, instead of being spent in the United States, as heretofore, will be available here for distribution among Canadian workmen," he said. "I think the government deserves the greatest credit for its foresight in making this development possible through the Bonus Bill passed in 1937. I really believe that in this case a mountain of industry has been made out of a comparatively small expenditure."

organization of bankers, brokers and investment dealers.

Payable in Canadian Money

Principal and interest will be payable in Canadian money and the offering is purely domestic . Subscription lists will remain open a maximum of two weeks but may be closed by the Finance Minister at any time with or without notice.

In order to facilitate purchase of the loan, the chartered banks will make loans on request for a period not exceeding three months up to 80 per cent of the principal amount of the bonds. These loans will bear interest rate of 3¼ per cent a year.

The new loan is lower and pays less interest than the first loan of the First Great War. Launched in 1915, it was for $50,000,000 but was so heavily oversubscribed that it was increased to $100,000,000. It bore interest at five per cent but sold at 97½.

ROYAL AIR FORCE

No Air Raid Warnings

The German plane sighted along the Thames estuary today was unable to drop bombs and no air raid warning was sounded.

People in towns along the Thames estuary saw shells bursting near the solitary plane flying toward the open sea. Gunfire was also heard by people in central London.

What was described as a Heinkel bomber flew high over the Suffolk coast and disappeared in a southeastly direction when defence batteries opened fire.

Another Heinkel sighted over the Yorkshire coast was intercepted and pursued by R.A.F. fighters. Machine-gun fire could be clearly heard on the cliffs and the British machines were seen diving on the German raider.

The enemy plane disappeared on the horizon, heading northward and the British machines later returned to their base.

"During last night aircraft of the R.A.F. successfully carried out reconnaissance flights over west and northwest Germany and patrols over German seaplane bases in Heligoland Bight."

The observation flights followed a series of German flights over six sections of the British east coast yesterday from southwest Scotland to the English channel.

The Nazi fliers attacked unsuccessfully one merchant ship and three trawlers before being driven off by Royal Air Force pursuit planes. They made no attempt to bomb land objectives.

Trying to Photograph

Air experts concluded that the primary object of these flights was to photograph the seaboard as a guide for future bombing attempts, possibly aimed at British docks and shipyards.

To strengthen coast defences, British authorities considered sending aloft more balloon barrages from barges near the shore, sharpening anti-air raid defences at certain coast points and increasing the number of anti-aircraft guns along the shore.

The Air Ministry disclosed that new super-fighting planes, a long-range type "of very high speed" were in production. It said the time had not yet come to use them but "when it does, there may be some surprises—especially in the numbers which are likely to be used."

British Engines Best

In the 1940 edition of "Jane's all the World's Aircraft" just published, C. G. Grey, foremost British aircraft authority, reported work "night and day" turning out a "new and secret" type of warplane.

Grey declared British airplane engines are unsurpassed by those of any other nation, a conclusion, he said, which "seemed to have been confirmed since the declaration of war."

The Air Ministry announcement was said unofficially to refer to the new Defiant, a single-motor fighting plane said to be faster than either of the Royal Air Force's leading pursuit types, the Spitfire and Hurricane.

The supermarine Spitfire, capable of almost 400 miles an hour, is Britain's fastest plane now and some authorities call it the world's fastest. The exact potentialities of the single-motor, single-heater low-wing fighter are secret, however. A young air force pilot was reported yesterday to have flown a Spitfire at more than 650 miles an hour in a dive.

The range of the new Defiant is less than the 825-mile range of the German Messerschmitt which can—but has not—convoyed bombers on raids of Britain. British fliers are eager to see wh[illegible] would happen if a Mes[illegible] battled a Spitfire, Hurric[illegible] [illegible]fiant.

Britain has two models capable of convoying her slower bombers on raids over Germany. They are the Blenheim and Beaufort, both twin-motored light bombers that can be used as long-range fighters. The Blenheim's range is 1,000 miles and the Beaufort's slightly more.

An air raid warning was sounded in only one area during the German flights yesterday.

Thousands of persons watched the white puffs of anti-aircraft shells bursting around the German planes. At one east coast resort crowds lined the cliffs to watch an invading bomber attack a small steamship several miles from shore.

British fliers rose to meet the German planes and in one instance, a formation of three R. A. F. craft was said to have damaged and chased a Heinkel bomber as it circled 50 feet over three cargo vessels.

A new policy by the German navy in attempting to hamper Britain's overseas trade was believed indicated by the sinking yesterday of the 7,267-ton British tanker El Oso in the Irish Sea, the first officially recorded sinking by a mine off the west coast.

Three men were believed drowned and eight others were seriously injured in the cew of 30 aboard the tanker which was in a convoy after a six-weeks voyage from South America with a cargo of fuel.

An Italian ship identified by Reuters News Agency as the 5,123-ton Traviata, was sunk by a mine. An unidentified vessel and the 1,571-ton British ship Leonard Pearce, both of which went down after collisions, also were marine losses yesterday.

IF IT'S ABOUT YOUR EYES . . . SEE McFEE

ALL IS BRIGHT

By Eleanor Browne

"Of course she probably doesn't want to get married yet," Kent said moodily. "She has money and influence and beauty—"

Gloria started to tell him that Star's fortune was a myth and then changed her mind. Let Kent discover that for himself.

CHAPTER XX

Star's head was aching from the smoke and noise of the last cabaret they had visited. But Barton like a small boy wanted to see everything and go everywhere. Star had already found a moment after Coates and Elise had left them to tell him that she could not accept his proposal. She found his quiet disappointment more moving than any protest would have been.

"You—you'll find someone else", she finished lamely. "I'm very fond of you, Barton, and I adore Stuart, you know that. But it isn't enough," she finished helplessly.

"You have found someone else?"

Star nodded, not trusting herself to speak .After that they had visited two cabarets, stayed for only a few moments in each and then had gone on. Barton was evidently determined that he would make this night memorable for both of them ,and Star felt that the least she could do would be to act as if nothing had happened.

Nevertheless, she hesitated a moment in the doorway .This place was larger than the others, and built somewhat like an amphitheatre. The tables were placed on tiers that rose one behind the other until the last tables, those nearest the wall, were also nearest the ceiling. For a moment she was cheered by the thought that they could not fit another person into the room. Already it was crowded to suffocation. The waiters were squeezing breathlessly between chair set only a few inches apart.

But that hope died at once. A couple rose, and the head waiter at Barton's was almost afraid to sit down. A huge swarthy man in a crumpled white suit was shouting in Spanish, one fat hand with an enormous diamond on the little finger clutched the unpainted chair possessively. Peering over his shoulder was a pretty little Chinese girl, her slanting eyes immobile, her face calm. Star put her hand on Barton's arm.

"Please let them have the table. We don't really care."

"We must take it now," Barton said quickly. "The waiter has held it for us." He put his hand next to the fat greasy fingers of the man who argued. "I beg your pardon."

The Spanish aggressor looked about ready to blow up; his curly black hair and wide mustache actually bristled. But Barton's manner was unmistakable and the swarthy one, still talking volubly, relaxed his hold. The next minute the table was theirs and the head waiter was trying to make his peace with the outraged patron.

Star looked around expecting to find the whole restaurant staring at the scene. But no one seemed to have noticed. Even those at the tables next to them were indifferent to what was evidently a regular occurrence.

As she looked at the table beyond, however, she saw that the dispute had had at least two interested onlookers. Gloria and Kent were there. They smiled and waved above the heads of the others.

"Shall we ask them to join us?"

Star shook her head. "Let's just stay quiet for a few minutes," she begged. "Besides, we seem to be on the right of way."

There was scarcely room for two at the table; the other side faced what was supposed to be an aisle. Actually, the man sitting opposite them was only two feet away.

"We won't stay long anyway," Barton promised. "There's going to be a show, I think." He nodded toward the tiny parquet dance floor a few levels below them." And this is something you see only down here. Did you ever see so many different nationalities crowded into one room? Every country in the world must be represented.

"A League of Nations," Star suggested with a smile.

Barton laughed with her. "And just about as friendly as you would expect. Our fat friend seems to be harboring a grudge against us."

Star followed Barton's glance and saw that the couple who had tried to sit at their table were now several tiers nearer the roof. They seemed to be with a large party, all dark-skinned, dark-eyed. They were glaring ferociously at Barton and Star as if they had been mortally insulted.

"They hate us," Star said a little tremulously. "I hope they don't plan to do anything ugly."

Barton laughed. "They'll be interested in the show and forget about it," he promised .

But as the show started Star found it hard to believe that anyone could really care to watch it. A thin, tired-looking girl dressed in red spangles came out on the floor and sang into the microphone. She held onto the iron stanchion as if she were about to collapse. Yet through the amplifiers in the ceiling her voice came in a continuous sullen roar, slightly off key.

No one stopped talking. It was almost a contest between the audience and the performer to see who could make the most noise. The audience won in Star's opinion, but they were generous with their applause. A group of Marines on the other side of the room stamped and shouted for an encore, but the singer withdrew and made way for a rhumba dancer.

The audience paid her the tribute of admiring silence. Star found her gyrations anything but graceful; she knew a minute of pity for the girl who must spend her life amusing such a ribald crowd. The dancer's face was stony; her eyes looked over the staring faces as if she did not see them. Only her body. clothed in a grotesque skirt of artificial grass, expressed any emotion.

When she left, the uproar was deafening. She was called back to bow again and again. Finally, to quiet them, she lisped into the microphone. "I'll be back," and ran off.

She was succeeded by a stately person whose hour-glass figure was wrapped about with a beaded frock that ended in strands of broken fringe around her ankles. Star thought she was about to sing, but she never did find out. As the performer approached the microphone and before she had a chance to say a word, someone yelled raucously: "Oh, shut up!"

This was greeted with hilarious laughter. The woman glared at the interruption and started to speak again. The Marines, noisier than ever, began stamping their feet.

"We want the rhumba!" one of them shouted.

The phrase was taken up by the others and grew to a chant, accented by the stamp of feet and broken by Spanish expressions. Star looked at Barton. His face was set and he was watching the swarthy man above them. Star looked up to find the man grinning evilly in their direction and shouting something that made his companions shake with laughter.

"Do you think there'll be trouble? Had we better go?"

"We'll sit tight," Barton said, edging his chair closer to hers. "Perhaps this is just a usual demonstration."

He was interrupted by Kent's voice. Kent had come up with Gloria who was dragging a chair. His manner was casual, but there was watchfulness in his eyes, and he made Gloria sit down while he crouched on one of the low steps. Gloria was white under her make-up. Star realized for the first time that the situation was serious.

The tone of the crowd had subtly changed. In place of the genial shouting and stamping of a minute before ,there was an ominous rumble of foregin words mingled with guttural laughs. Everywhere Star looked she seemed to see hot black eyes looking at her greedily. The orchestra struck up and the rhumba dancer came out again, still in the same costume. She started to repeat her dance, but the crowd that had shouted for her now completely ignored her.

Suddenly an empty beer bottle whizzed through the air toward the dance floor and crashed at the girl's tapping feet. She stopped and burst into a torrent of hissing syllables; the microphone caught her words and sent them blaring out over the heads of the crowd.

It was impossible for Star to understand, but evidently most of the crowd needed no interpreter. Another bottle flew through the air and crashed against the wall behind the dancer. Someone hit the brass drum—it moaned in agony above the bedlam. One of the Marines shouted. "Hey, rube!"

As if at a signal everyone was on his feet; Star stumbled and would have tripped if Kent had not steadied her. She felt his arm go around her waist and saw Gloria throw her arms around Barton's neck. The next minute the place was in total darkness. Star felt her dress ripping, and clutched at it frantically. Kent's arm held her tightly; she could feel him pushing against the hot bodies that hemmed them in. against that background of noise, Gloria's voice, suddenly clear reached her faintly.

"You're so wonderful, Barton", she was saying .Then the commotion drowned her voice.

MISSIONS THEME OF SERVICE

Rev. G. G. Wright and Rev. C. T. Olmstead Officiate at Week of Prayer Service at Christ Church

At Christ Church on Thursday evening a service under the Belleville Ministerial Association auspices for the Universal Week of Prayer was held. Rev. G. G. Wright, rector of Christ Church parish conducted evensong and Rev. C. T. Olmstead of Victoria Avenue Baptist Church led in the meditations and intercessions on the theme "Missions, the Ascended Christ and the Increasing Church."

Rev. Mr. Olmstead paid his tribute to the services of the Church of England and the prayerbook which he said he loved.

The first observance of a series of prayer services at the beginning of a new year was held in 1846. The time then was something like the present time "when lights were going out all over the world. It was then that it entered the minds of men to enter the New Year with prayer and the service has been continued ever since," said the speaker.

Mr. Olmstead referred to the individual needs of men and women but added that Christianity constrained them to think of others. "The power of God is necessary to steady us in this crisis" remarked the speaker. Through prayer men find an anchorage in the heart of God. Through prayer they may catch the vision and launch a crusade against the dark forces of evil."

The minister spoke on the topics of thanksgiving, confession and the week of prayer. Man thinks with thanksgiving of the birth, life, death, resurrection and ascension of Christ. He is thankful for the prophets, teachers, pastors and the influences of the church and missions which encircle the globe. He is happy for the spread of Christ's Gospel and the increasing of the church.

The challenge to missions in the words of Jesus "to go into the world and preach the Gospel brings the assurance, lo, I am with you always even to the end of the world."

Asking his hearers if they really believed in missions Mr. Olmstead answered with another question: "What are we doing in terms of this work?"

Confession of shortcomings is necessary where there is thanksgiving, he said.

He liked to think of Jesus as the generalissimo of the forces of righteousness in the world.

He deplored that "we have been rather ineffective witnesses."

Mr. Olmstead said in regard to the universality of prayer that prayer should take in not only one's own but one's neighbors, one's friends as well as the world at large.

"I hope you do not believe in unanswered prayer. The trouble is there are too few sincere prayers and prayermeetings. This is the time to go down on both knees and come into the very presence of God.

"May the exercises of this week go out to the very end of this year."

The minister called for the rededication of all to Christ's service. "What cannot we do if we will," he said in closing.

The choir of Christ Church led in the singing.

This Friday evening the last of the services of the week of prayer will be held at Christ Church.

Quints' Guardians Display No Enthusiasm for Trip to Fair

Also Deny Reports That Direct Approach Had Been Made by Fair Officials to Have Them Appear in N. Y.

DR. DAFOE OPPOSED

North Bay, Ont., Jan. 11 (CP).—Guardians and others close to the welfare of the Dionne quintuplets met with little enthusiasm today reports of the latest attempts of officials of the New York World's Fair to have the quints shown at the fair this year.

It was reported by a source close to the guardians that Dr. Allan Roy Dafoe, physician to the five famous little girls since their birth in 1934, is opposed to the plan to have them appear in New York and would refuse to be responsible for them if the trip was made.

Dr. Dafoe and the other guardians, Judge P. A. Valin of North Bay and Percy Wilson of Toronto, denied last night that a direct approach had been made to them to allow the girls to be shown in the face of the statement of Mayor F. H. Laguardia of New York that arrangements virtually had been completed.

The mayor said there remained "only a few procedural matters to straighten out", according to information given to him by Harvey D. Gibson, chairman of the Fair Board. His understanding, he said, was that a replica of the quints' home would be constructed where the Soviet government's building stood last year and all proceeds from the exhibit would go to the Canadian Red Cross.

Guardians In Dark.

"It is a funny thing that all of these reports come from New York," Dr. Dafoe said. "Nobody has approached the guardians in any shape or manner. We don't know anything about any world's fair offers."

Judge Valin and Mr. Wilson said the only thing they had heard of the proposals had come from inquiring newspapermen. Judge Valin already has expressed unwillingness to consent to the proposed trip.

At Ottawa Henri St. Jacques, lawyer for the children's father, Oliva Dionne, said that as far as he knew reports of the quints' appearance were "false and unfounded". And Keith Munro, business manager to the children, declared: "Definitely no offer of any kind has been received here."

French Planes Engage in Dogfight Shooting Down Three of Enemy—German Warplanes Try Unsuccessfully to Sink Several Vessels

London, Jan. 13—(CP)—Royal Air Force planes carried out the "largest survey flight of the war" today while a lone German aircraft approaching the southeast coast of Scotland was shot down by British fighter planes.

The R.A.F. scouting forces penetrated as far as Austria and Bohemia for the first time since hostilities began. Other planes flew over northwest Germany and Heligoland.

The Air Ministry did not disclose whether all the aircraft used in the expedition were from bases in the British Isles or whether some were R.A.F. machines stationed in France.

Because of the necessity of avoiding the Netherlands and Belgium, the flights—providing all the planes were from Britain—were over a distance of about 1,700 miles, roughly equal to flying the Atlantic from Newfoundland to Ireland.

Why The Weather?

By Major A. H. Thiessen
Science Service Meteorologist

Temperature! How hot is air? To answer this one must ascertain its temperature which is defined as "the degree of hotness of a body". It is measured according to some arbitrary scale, ordinarily by using some material which expands when heated and contracts when cooled. Air temperature is measured with a thermometer having mercury or alcohol as the expanding and contracting element. Mercury freezes at 38 degrees below zero. Fahrenheit and may be used above that point; but lower than that alcohol must be used, for it does not freeze until 163 degrees below is reached.

Gov't Consolidates Regulations Regarding Subversive Activity

Ottawa, Jan. 13 (CP)—The government has consolidated its defence of Canada regulations aimed at preventing subversive activity.

In an extra edition of the Canada Gazette yesterday it was announced that Section 39, relating to subversive activity, had been extended to include subversive activities by associations, organizations and societies. The original regulation referred only to persons.

If a person connected with an association, organization or society is convicted of an offence against the regulation the court may declare the organization on behalf of which the act was committed to be illegal.

Various censorship regulations not previously included in the defence of Canada regulations, were included formally in the new revision of section 39.

The legal phrasing of section 58, relating to searching premises, was clarified and expanded. Under the new regulation a search warrant may be issued where there is reasonable ground for suspecting that a war offence has been, is being, or is offence has been, is being, or is regulation merely referred to an offence which has been committed or is being committed.

Another change in this section was made by revoking the paragraph which gave authority to search without a search warrant obtained from a justice of the peace.

Section 62 dealing with legal proceedings was broadened to provide for appeals for persons convicted under section 39.

No Sabotage Involved In Shipyard Explosion

London, Jan. 13—(AP)— Firemen fought flames which spread through the Yarwood shipbuilding plant at Northwich, Cheshire today after an explosion which broke windows within a quarter-mile radius. Officials said no sabotage was involved.

The blaze destroyed the main building of the shipyard. Further explosions hampered firemen.

Northwich is about 30 miles Southeast of Liverpool on the river Weaver, a tributary of the Mersey.

One-Armed Paperhanger Has Cinch Compared to an Overseas Pilot

(By Ross Munro Canadian Press Staff Writer).

Ottawa, Jan. 13 (CP)—A one-armed paperhanger has a cinch compared to a pilot in the 18-plane army co-operation squadron of the Royal Canadian Air Force which will go overseas to support the first and subsequent divisions of the Canadian Active Service Force at the front.

Here is the routine duty of these pilots, now well-advanced in an army co-operation training course at Rockcliffe Air Station:

Fly the Westland - Lysander planes, map from the air, take air photographs, make reconnaissances of enemy artillery positions and troop concentrations, observe the topography, operate the plane's radio, fire the two forward machine guns and avoid anti-aircraft fire.

The pilot does all this besides distributing a few bombs when necessary, dropping bundles of food and ammunition to stranded infantry patrols and picking up messages from the ground with a long hook without landing.

Companion is Air Gunner

His one companion in the plane is an air gunner who sits behind him in a glass-covered cockpit. The gunner mans a swivel machine gun, protecting the aircraft if attacked, and strafing the ground if required.

The training of No. 110 squadron (City of Toronto) chosen as the first R.C.A.F. unit to go overseas and increased by other fliers from Winnipeg and Ottawa, is moving ahead rapidly and next week air-to-ground firing practice starts on Lake Deschenes, Northwest of Ottawa.

There the Lysanders will dive on targets placed on the ice, blasting the objective with machine gun fire. Later air fighting will be practised over Lake Ontario near Trenton, when a plane will tow a target behind it while the Lysanders dive about it, peppering away at the target.

Out at 8.00 a.m.

The men roll out of the barracks at 8 a.m. and study and fly until seven o'clock at night with breaks for two meals. This goes on seven days a week with but one half-day off weekly.

A formal army co-operation syllabus of instruction is followed and Squadron Leader W. D. Van Vliet, in command of No. 110, told newspapermen his squadron was slightly ahead of schedule.

Formal training likely will wind up the end of this month or early in February and the squadron then will practise strenuously until sent overseas.

The Lysanders used by the squadron are manufactured in Toronto and are one of the first Canadian-made, first-line fighting planes. They are of the same design as those used by the Royal Air Force on the Western Front.

Best Possible

"They must be the best possible, for the Germans are copying them in their latest army co-operation aircraft," said Squadron Leader Van Vliet.

Daily the pilots and gunners of No. 110 are in the air. No effort is being made to specialize any part of the squadron and each crewman will know all the angles of army co-operation work. At the war front the flights will rotate and a plane probably will patrol for about two hours each time it goes up on a reconnaissance flight.

While one flight is operating, aircraftsmen will tune up another. It takes 10 men on the ground to keep one plane in the air.

RUSSIAN TROOPS WITHDRAW FROM LIINAHAMARI

Arctic Port of Finland's Petsamo District Now Cleared of Enemy States Report

ENCIRCLE INVADERS

Southern Finland Subjected to Heaviest Bombing of Present Conflict

Copenhagen, Jan. 13—(AP) — Withdrawal of Soviet Russian troops from part of Liinahamari, the Arctic port of Finland's Petsamo district, was reported today in Stockholm dispatches, while Scandinavian correspondents said reinforcement of Finns and Russians on the Salla front indicated imminence of a major battle.

These dispatches said all except one Russian cruiser had left Liinahamari, and that the Finns had cut the road to Salmijaervi, also in the Arctic area, thus complicating the Russian service of supply.

In Southeastern Finland, on the Karelian Isthmus, the Russians were said to have set up loudspeakers advising the Finnish defenders to "surrender within 48 hours, or the Germans are coming."

One report from a Danish newspaper correspondent in the Salla sector said the Red Army had at least 40,000 men there and had been bringing up more in the past few days. He said the Finns also were reinforcing and preparing an attempt to encircle the invaders.

Heavy Bombing

Russia's air force subjected Southern Finland yesterday to one of the heaviest bombings in the month and a half of war, breaking Helsingfors telephone communications with the outside world and inflicting damage on a dozen other cities.

Lahti, sixty miles north of the capital, reported the heaviest damage. The radio station in this important railway junction was put out of commission by bombs. Elsewhere the damage was not so heavy, although there were some casualties.

A Swedish correspondent said large numbers of fresh Russian troops were being dropped by parachute from planes.

(Havas News Agency quoted Stockholm reports as saying that Finnish troops had almost succeeded in encircling another Soviet division in the Salla sector.

Thirty Bodies Recovered in Mine Disaster

Scene at the pithead of the No. 1 mine of the Pond Creek Pocahontas Coal Company, near Bartley, W. Va., showing some of the anxious women-folk who await word of their loved ones among the men trapped in the mine by an explosion. In the foreground, Jesse Aquino, one of the 47 men who escaped from the mine, is receiving a cup of coffee from a Red Cross worker. Thirty bodies have already been taken from the pit. But the grimy, red-eyed rescue workers fight on, burrowing desperately, in hopes of reaching the entombed men.

FUTURE SESSIONS OF LEGISLATURE TO BE INTERESTING

Moratorium on Municipal Elections for Duration of War Abandoned by Gov't

BILLS PRESENTED

Toronto Jan. 13 (CP)—As the Ontario Legislature wound up the first week of its session, chief interest was in what was to come, not what has been.

Members during the week-end in their constituencies will get a little more of the public feeling in respect to the proposed extension of the term for municipally-elected bodies. Hon. Eric Cross, Minister of municipal affairs, when he first mentioned the subject proposed a moratorium on municipal elections during war time.

The government has definitely abandoned the original idea and now proposes to make the municipal terms two years. The local government extension act was reportedly presented to Liberal caucus yesterday and the general opinion after caucus was that the government's intention is to be modified further.

The bill may provide that the two-year term will become effective only after the next municipal elections and it may also include a clause whereby municipalities will be enabled to vote themselves out of its provisions.

Little Legislation Presented

Little of the government's legislative program has been presented to the House in definite form. Four bills were approved in principle on second reading yesterday. These were:

To exempt members of the Air Force from jury duty. Such exemption is now granted members of the army and navy.

To amend the insurance act to provide for the inclusion in fire policies of certain other risks.

An act to provide that where two persons die in common disasters, the older shall be presumed to have died first. This is expected to eliminate lawsuits that have developed over the question of whether a man or wife, or other related person, died first, the devolution of the estate depending on it.

An act to extend the mortgage moratorium act another year. The act has been extended each year since it first became effective in 1933.

Two German Vessels Hunted by British

Buenos Aires, Jan. 13 (AP). — Usually well-informed naval sources today declared two German naval vessels are operating in the South Atlantic and are being hunted by British warships.

No details on the size or identity of the German ships were available. The naval sources said one was believed to be a German warship, possibly a cruiser, the other an auxiliary ship which accompanied the Admiral Graf Spee on her raids.

THIRTY VICTIMS OF MINE BLAST HAVE BEEN FOUND

62 Still in Debris-Clogged "Rooms" of the Various Mine Entries

Bartley, W. Va., Jan. 13 —(AP)— Mine families prepared with stoical calmness today for burial of the 92 men given up for dead in the Bartley No. 1 Mine gas explosion.

The saddened families made ready to claim the victims as rescue crews dug deeper into blast-torn corridors 600 feet underground seeking the bodies of coal diggers apparently killed in their tracks.

Rescue crews emerging from the 620-foot perpendicular shaft announced 34 bodies had been recovered from the explosion-shattered "rooms" along the entries fanning out two miles from the foot of the shaft.

They told how one group of 14 trapped miners, equipped with canvas sheets and wood for barricades, apparently had attempted to make a desperate last stand against the deadly after-explosion gases.

The group was led by Lee Hall, 43, one of the three foremen lost in the blast that rumbled through the diggings last Wednesday. Nine of the bodies were huddled together; a few feet away were three others and still farther down the entry, two more.

But "after-damp"—the gases that remain in a mine when an explosion burns up the oxygen in the air—caught and killed the group.

None of the bodies had been brought to the surface and only three were identified. Rescuers planned to move them to the foot of the shaft for identification before starting them out today.

SHARP QUAKE AT LOS ANGELES

Scores of Residents Flee to Streets Remembering the 1933 Temblor

Los Angeles, Jan. 13—(AP)— A sharp, short earthquake shook Los Angeles last night. The quake was especially sharp in the Compton area, southeast of here, where considerable damage was caused by the 1933 temblor.

Scores of Los Angeles residents fled to the streets, but no damage was reported.

Southwest Los Angeles felt a heavy shock of side-wise motion. There were no follow-up shocks.

Ankara, Jan. 13—(CP—Havas)—New earth shocks extending over a period of 36 hours, and covering the entire region devastated by the recent heavy Anatolian earthquake, were reported here today. Amasia, Ayvalk, Inegul and Uozgat were particularly hard hit by the new shocks.

OUTNUMBERED 3-1 FRENCH PLANES OUTFIGHT NAZIS

Twelve Messerschmitts Engage Four "Guardian Angel" Pursuit Planes at Great Height

GERMANS LOSE FOUR

Patrols Numerous But Uneventful — Artillery Fire Quite Heavy

Paris, Jan. 13.— (CP)—Scouting flights by both sides, an occasional brush between German and French patrols, and a brisk exchange of artillery fire— standard fare these days on the western front—occurred yesterday and last night, military authorities said today.

"Nothing important to report", said this morning's communique of the French command.

Patrols were numerous but uneventful. West of the Vosges River and east of the Moselle artillery barked for a while, but military experts attached no particular significance to it. Fire was exchanged also between batteries and casemates on the Rhine, but in view of the heavy armament protecting the opposing gunners no particular result could have been expected.

Planes on both sides penetrated deep into enemy territory, the Germans scouting northern and northeastern France. French observation and reconnaissance craft accomplished their missions over the Reich without suffering damage.

French military sources reported that a second lieutenant and three sergeants piloted four French pursuit planes which yesterday shot down three German Messerschmitts, although outnumbered three to one.

French informants said advance infantry patrols witnessed the engagement over German lines and told of the German losses. They described the fight as follows,—

Twelve Messerschmitts flying at great height fell suddenly upon four French "guardian angel" pursuit planes while they were escorting a reconnaissance plane back from a photographic mission.

Circling behind a cloud while the reconnaissance plane got safely away, the French pursuit planes gave battle at about 10,000 feet.

After a series of spectacular acrobatics one Messerschmitt was shot down in flames and a second crashed in a spin. The third was forced down to 2,500 feet farther behind the German lines and then downed by shots from behind.

Manhunt Follows Sabotage Attempts

London, Jan. 13.—(CP Cable)—The police and military combined in a great manhunt today following sabotage attempts at Hendon airfield near London and at the submarine cable-head at Donaghadee, Northern Ireland.

Both attempts were believed to be the work of wrecking squads of the Irish Republican Army organization.

Police said that at Hendon airfield a sentry fired several shots at an intruder who failed to answer his challenge. Flying squad cars searched the entire North London area while Scotland Yard officers and soldiers threw a cordon around the airfield and searched every car moving in the district.

Four men attempting to cut the cable between Northern Ireland and Scotland near Donaghadee scattered under the cover of darkness when sentries opened fire. One of the intruders fired a shot as he fled.

Surprise Attack May be Launched Thru Switzerland

This Attack on Maginot Line Would be Made Without Artillery Preparations — Troops Being Transferred

GESTAPO BUSY

Slovak Government Orderd by Germany to Have All Roads Into Hungary Ready to Cope With Heavy Traffic

London, Jan. 13 —(CP)— The Budapest correspondent of the News-Chronicle said today that there were indications of a great German spring offensive on several fronts, including a drive through Hungary and another through Switzerland.

"Reports reaching Budapest from Germany suggest that the Nazis are making feverish preparations for a great spring offensive on several fronts," the dispatch said.

The Slovak Government had been ordered by German army authorities to have all roads into Hungary ready to cope with heavy traffic by March 15.

"German troop concentrations are reported in the area between the Little Carpathians and the Hungarian frontier near Denec. About one division has already arrived there.

"On the other hand, reports from Prague state that Gestapo officials and troops have withdrawn quietly from many parts of the protectorate and transferred to Swiss frontier districts.

"This is thought to indicate a German plan to turn the Maginot Line by a sudden surprise attack which would be made without artillery preparation through Switzerland."

SHIP IS BOMBED, MACHINE-GUNNED

British Trawler Weathers Attack of German Planes and Crew Saved

London, Jan. 13—(CP)— Safe in port, members of the crew of the 202-ton British trawler Flavia told today how their vessel was twice bombed and machine-gunned by German planes off the east coast of Scotland.

The men were pulling their nets from the sea yesterday when a bomber emerged from a fog bank, its machine guns spurting flame, and dropped bombs as it circled the fishing vessel.

None of the six bombs reached their target, but the last one, believed by the Flavia's captain to have been an aerial torpedo, sent up a great fountain, half flooding the ship's engine room. Pipes were broken and the ship's compass hurled to the deck.

Three sailors who landed at a port on the Eastern British coast this morning told a similar story of the bombing and strafing of their lightship by a German plane.

Bombs Size of Footballs

"A plane flew overhead and began dropping bombs the size of footballs," one of them said. "It described five or six circles about the vessel, but the four bombs it released all missed their target.

Sanitary Engineer Believes Polluted Beach Waters May Spread Paralysis

Boston, Jan. 13—(AP) — A tentatively discarded theory that infantile paralysis can be spread by bathing in sewage-polluted waters was revived today by a Boston sanitary engineer, who declared there is "sufficient presumptive evidence" to warrant further investigation and research.

Pointing out that several investigators recently reported they had recovered the virus from sewage, and that others had shown experimentally that the organism can gain entrance to the central nervous system through the olfactory nerve endings, Samuel M. Ellsworth declared in the New England Journal of Medicine:

"If it were possible for sewage to carry a sufficient concentration of this virus, what better way would there be of producing a case of infantile paralysis than frequent flushing of the nasal passages with sewage-polluted water, as would be done in bathing, particularly by youngsters with a natural proclivity for dividing and swimming under water?"

He added that while the possibility of infection by this means had been considered in the past "and tentatively dismissed for lack of evidence," sufficient additional knowledge has been accumulated in recent years "to warrant reconsideration of the conclusions reached by previous investigators."

SHIPS SUNK THIS WEEK

By The Canadian Press

Germany destroyed 41,347 tons of British merchant shipping in the week ending Jan. 12. The losses of other nations were small.

Britain's major loss of the week was the 10,002-ton passenger liner Dunbar Castle, which struck a mine off the British east coast shortly after sailing on a voyage to South Africa. Although Germany lost no ship during the week due to direct action of Allied naval patrols, the 8,558-ton German steamship Bahia Blanca, trying to sneak through the blockade, struck an iceberg off Iceland and sank.

Furthermore, any doubt regarding the fate of the German liner Usukuma, 7,834 tons, was banished when the vessel's crew was landed. The ship was scuttled by her crew when approached by a British warship in the south Atlantic last month.

The weeks merchant losses: —

Nationality	No. of ships	Tonnage
British	11	41,347
French	1	4,285
Italian	1	5,123
Norwegian	1	1,343
Netherlands	1	176

SHIPPING LOSSES ONLY ONE-THIRD OF THAT IN 1917

Naval Losses Also Barely Half of Those in First Four Months of Last War

MUCH CONTRABAND

By Sam Robertson
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

London, Jan. 13.—(CP Cable)—Despite Germany's ruthless submarine and mine warfare, the monthly average of British merchant shipping lost in the first four months of the conflict was only two thirds of the average monthly losses of the first Great War. It was only about one third of the average monthly losses in 1917, the worst year of the 1914-18 conflict.

Heartening, too, is the fact that Britain's naval losses in the same period were barely half of those in the first four months of the last war.

Reporting on merchant shipping losses December 6, Winston Churchill, First Lord of the Admiralty, said 340,000 tons had been destroyed, but this was reduced by 280,000 tons of new shipping being brought into service. In the meantime Germany lost practically all her mercantile traffic outside the Baltic. Nearly 100,000 tons of Nazi shipping was captured up to the end of 1939 while almost 125,000 tons of shipping was scuttled by the Germans themselves.

2 NEW MEMBERS AS DIRECTORS

Final Election for Chamber of Commerce Directorate Completed

The final election for Directors of the Belleville Chamber of Commerce, which was concluded at four o'clock yesterday afternoon, resulted in the return of the following candidates—E. P. Bernstein, A. McLean Haig, C. L. Jewell, J. H. Legate and J. A. McIntosh.

The above were elected to serve for a two-year term. Four other directors, Messrs. MacKenzie Robertson, I. G. Hefkey, J. B. Boyce and Leo B. Riggs, were elected last year for an alternating two-year term and thereby complete the board of nine directors for the ensuing year.

Of those elected this year, Messrs. McIntosh, Haig and Bernstein have just completed a two-year term and were re-elected.

Messrs. Jewell and Legate have been elected to the board for the first time.

Mr. Legate has been a resident of Belleville for a considerable period and is one of our best known and most popular citizens. He is general manager of the great industrial plant at Point Anne operated by the Canada Cement Company. His long training in business and his university education should make him a valuable addition to the directorate.

Mr. Jewell is a comparative newcomer to Belleville but has already made here a multitude of friends. He came to this city to succeed Mr. E. V. Ilsey in the management of the local branch of the Canadian Bank of Commerce. As this is one of the most important and busiest branches of that Bank to be found anywhere in Canada, his appointment to the management here came as a fine tribute to the success he had won in other fields. He too will make a valuable addition to the Board.

The newly elected directors will be introduced to the Board at the regular meeting on Thursday next, when the president, the vice presidents and other officers will be elected.

Messrs. E. H. Truman, Leo B. Riggs and Ross Salisbury again performed the important duty of serving as scrutineers and summing up the vote which was a remarkably large one.

Small Boy Forsakes Life in Mansion for Parents' Tent on River

Lemoncove, Calif., Jan. 13—(AP) — Twelve-year-old David Hobbs, who became homesick at the Beverly Hills' mansion of actress Ann Sothern and band-leader Roger Pryor, is back with his eleven brothers and sisters, playing around their tent house on the bank of the Kaweah River.

"They were swell to me, but I just wanted to be home", said David.

Miss Sothern noticed the boy's fine appearance two years ago when she saw him selling newspapers at a Dallas, Texas hotel where Pryor's orchestra was playing. She arranged with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Hobbs, for him to live at Beverly Hills with the prospect of eventual adoption.

Recently when David's parents visited him at Beverly Hills, he begged to be allowed to go home with them. His parents joined Miss Sothern in attempting to dissuade him, but the boy insisted he would be happier with his brothers and sisters.

The family lives in this Central California town, 350 miles north of Hollywood, in tents on the ranch of Courtney McCracken. Says David "I liked Mr. Pryor, Cesar Romero, Don Ameche and the other actors and actresses who visited the home. All of them were good to me. Miss Sothern was most wonderful.

"But I wanted to be home."

STARS OF 'DUMBELLS' ENTERTAIN MEMBERS ARMY & NAVY VETS

The clubrooms of the Army and Navy Veterans in Canada, Front Street rang with the old-time war songs on Thursday night when members held a joyful re-union with three soldier theatrical stars, "Red" Newman, Pat Rafferty and Ross Hamilton of the famous war-time "Dumbells" troupe.

The three veteran stars who appeared at the Capitol Theatre in the new production "Chin Up" were delighted to meet several of their overseas buddies again, and many reminiscences of the last Great War flowed over the festive board.

In appreciation of the fine reception accorded them, the trio of "Dumbells" gave the boys a show of their own, and sang many of the tunes and acted the skits that brought them fame during their theatrical career both in the trenches and in Canada and the United States.

BRIDE-TO-BE IS ENTERTAINED

Miss Edith Gould, bride-to-be, was entertained at an afternoon tea held at the home of Mrs. Leo Gauthier on Thursday. Miss Gould was presented with a silver relish dish.

FREE SKATING AT ARENA ENJOYED

Despite the recent mild spell, the joyous shouts of 500 school children, who were enjoying the free skating period at the Hume arena this morning were heard on the Market Square. The ice surface found remarkably good ice despite the two-day mild spell, that left other district rinks with much heavier ice, it is reported. Twice weekly free skating periods for the school children of Belleville are afforded at the Hume arena.

LARGE ATTENDANCE AT REVIVAL MEETINGS

Fine crowds are attending the revival sponsored by the church of the Nazarene in the Dundas Street mission. The Olson Sisters of Long Island, New York, are here as the evangelists. Miss Mary is a contralto soloist, and vibra-harpist. Miss Heddie is the preacher and accordionist. These fine workers have travelled extensively in the United States and Canada as evangelists. Miss Mary sang on a New York radio net work for two years for the Federated Churches of America. To all those interested Mary will give a fifteen minute vibraharp prelude each evening at 7.15. All services begin at 7.45 each evening. This is everybody's meeting, so please come, and bring a friend.

The Reverends Mr. Kidd of Brighton, and Mr. William Mallory of Trenton officiate nightly.

Ruth Shore Killed by Train, Verdict of Coroner's Jury

Jury Arrives at Verdict in Ten Minutes After Evidence Submitted

RUMORS STILLED

A coroner's jury probing the circumstances surrounding the death of nineteen-year-old Ruth Shore, former O.S.D. student, and daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Shore, 63 Alexander Street, whose decapitated body was found on the tracks of the C.P.R. bridge near Victoria Park shortly before seven o'clock on the morning of January 4th, found that the deceased girl came to her death "on January 4th., 1940, from injuries received by being struck by a train of the Canadian Pacific Railway on the railway bridge of the said Canadian Pacific Railway in the city of Belleville", at the official inquest held in police court chambers last night.

Nineteen witnesses were questioned by Crown Attorney B. C. Donnan, before Chief Coroner Dr. J. J. Robertson, and a crowded courtroom. A large crowd of curious citizens milled in the corridors of the building unable to obtain admission to the proceedings. The jury deliberated ten minutes before returning their verdict.

"Regrettable Rumors"

Addressing the jury prior to the opening of the inquest, Crown Attorney Donnan pointed out that "this is an unusual inquest, due to the fact, that a number of rumors involving names of people had been circulating about the city."

"It is regrettable, that these rumors had been circulated" he said, "and it is more unfortunate, that the origin of the rumors has not been ascertained."

Clayton Wilton, Corbin Lock employee residing at 96 Pinnacle Street told the jury he had discovered the body on the tracks on the short span of the bridge when going to work at 7.45 a.m., Jan. 4th. It was in a curled up position, knees drawn up, as was the left arm up. He notified a filling station attendant, who in turn notified the police. He did not touch the body, he said.

Death Due to Decapitation

Dr. G. S. Cronk, physician called to perform the post mortem testified that death had been due to decapitation and subsequent hemorrhage. In his opinion, he said, the girl had been dead about twelve hours when he viewed the body at 4.15 p.m. on Jan. 4th. In a superficial examination he discovered the skull fractured at the base, the occipital bone being broken in large pieces. Bruises on the right thigh as if the body had been struck with a bolt were the only other injuries, besides decapitation.

"Is there any question in your mind that death resulted from being run over by a train," the Crown asked.

"None whatever," the witness replied.

Alive Prior to Fatality

The witness was of the opinion that the deceased girl had been alive prior to decapitation, because of the fact that there was no blood in the viscera, heart, or abdominal organs. "The entire system was drained," he said. "If death had occurred before decapitation, there would have been traces of blood in the system."

"Is there any shadow of a doubt in your mind that the girl was alive before being decapitated?" Crown Attorney Donnan queried.

"Absolutely none whatever," replied Dr. Cronk.

Questioned regarding his post-mortem examination of the body, the witness told the jury, that in his opinion the dead girl had not eaten for six hours. The pelvic organs were perfectly normal.

"Had the girl been violated?" the Crown asked.

"No," came the reply.

Position Described

Sergeant Arthur Harman, who investigated the finding of the body testified that the body lay 14 feet east of where the head was found. It appeared to have been struck by something and thrown that distance.

The distance of six feet, three inches, from the outer rail to the bridgeside, was ample room for a person to lie down and place one's head on the track. Police Constable Arnott testified to viewing the body at the scene of the tragedy.

Five trains, three eastbound and two westbound passed through Belleville between 11 p.m., Jan. 3rd and 4.35 a.m., Jan. 4th, E. R. Truman, C.P.R. freight agent here told the jury None of the trains submitted any reports of anything unusual, he said

A person could not be knocked down by a train without train equipment showing some evidence, J. H. Wilson, C.P.R., master-mechanic, Toronto, testified. All equipment of trains passing through Belleville on the above date had been examined and no signs of evidence found, he said. The clearance of the pilot of an engine above the tracks was from 5 to 7 inches.

Seventeen-year-old Mary Shore, sister of the dead girl said she had last seen her sister alive at 7.30 a.m., Jan 3rd, when she was arising. "She seemed in high spirits when I left her," she said.

Mother Testifies

Mrs. Shore, mother of Ruth Shore said her daughter seemed very happy when she left home at 3 p.m., Jan. 3rd. "She had been employed at the Turney Studios, Bridge Street retouching photographs, but recently had left there because of no work," she said. Ruth had left home warmly clothed, and had not said anything about going to the O.S.D. "She said she was going to the studio to get some photographs of herself," Mrs. Shore testified.

Thomas Montague told the jury he had met the girl at the Turney Studio and driven her about 5.30 p.m. to the O.S.D. at Robt. Turney's request. She seemed normal, and only said "thank you."

Dorothy Antonow and Miss Maloney, pupil and teacher at the O.S.D., respectively testified to seeing Ruth Shore at the school about six o'clock. She appeared to be normal and happy .

"She stayed at the school until eight o'clock," Miss Maloney testified, "when she asked me to phone Mr. Turney to call for her. I did, and was told by him that he had no understanding to call for her. I offered to call a taxi but it seemed she wanted to walk. She left the school on foot a few minutes after eight, in the best of spirits." She identified messages written between herself and Ruth Shore at that time.

In Store At 8:30 p.m.

Howard Fralick, radio service man in business at 27 East Bridge street told the jury Ruth Shore had entered his store at 8:30 that evening. She had written notes on the call book of the store asking witness to take her to the Turney Studio the back way because the front door was locked.

"Later she asked me for paper. I did not see what she wrote. Then she wrote a note and asked me to slip it under the studio door," witness testified. "Then she asked me to shake hands with her, saying, 'This is for Bob', and adding, 'You will know the mystery of me very soon'." Witness did not know what had been meant by the latter statement.

Howard Booth, partner of the former witness, corroborated his statement. He had seen her go to the shop door and was of the opinion she acted normally.

Robert Turney, East Bridge street photographer, testified he had accepted the girl as a student of retouchment of photographs, and had given her some employment later. The relations between them were strictly of pupil and teacher. He had last seen her in his studio at 5:30 p.m. Jan. 3 in the presence of his brother and Thomas Montague. He had communicated with her through the medium of notes which he had destroyed but later recovered some of the fragments.

The torn notes produced in court by the Crown revealed that the dead girl had asked witness to drive her to the O.S.D. but he had arranged with Montague to do it.

Received Phone Call.

He had received a telephone call from the O.S.D. asking if he was going to call for Ruth Shore, but he replied he was too busy, and could not do it.

He had picked up a note found pushed under the studio door, the next day, but had read only part of it and threw it away.

"Was there anything in the note to make you think the girl contemplated suicide?" the Crown asked. "No. I do not think so," witness replied. He had just learned of the tragedy and had been too upset to read the note through, he said.

James Cornell, machinist employed at the Carthage Company plant south of the C.P.R. tracks near the bridge told the jury he had left work at 10 p.m. on the night of Jan. 3 and had seen what looked like a girl sitting on a tie near the north side of the west end of the bridge. "She did not move or speak as I passed," he said.

C. Buker, clerk, testified he had seen what he thought was a young girl walking along Coleman street south of Bridge street when he was going home about 12.20 a.m. Jan. 4.

Two other witnesses testified to finding the dead girl's hat on the railway tracks near the scene of the tragedy.

The coroner's jury empanelled by Sergeant Arthur Harman included, Messrs. J. McFee, J. Shaw, Russ White, Stanley White and Harry Green, foreman.

OBITUARY

MRS. MARY E. BROWN

Mrs. Mary E. Brown, widow of William Brown, passed away at the residence of her daughter, Mrs. Robert Carey, 55 Albion Street, Belleville, on Thursday, Jan. 11th.

The late Mrs. Brown was born 86 years ago in Marmora, her parents being the late Mr. and Mrs. Alexander Irvine. For many years she resided in Tyendinaga Township, and for a time at Point Anne. For the past ten years she made her home in Belleville with her daughter, Mrs. Carey. During her long life she was held in high esteem in the communities where she lived. In religion she was a staunch member of Bethel Hall, Belleville.

Surviving her are three sons, Mr. Noble Brown of Thurlow Township; Mr. Robert Brown, of Belleville, and Mr. Alvy Brown in the United States; two daughters, Mrs. George Winters, Point Anne, and Mrs. Robert Carey, Belleville; one step-son, Mr. William Brown of Rockford, Ill.; one step-daughter, Mrs. George Sheffer, of Florida; three sisters, Mrs. Melissa Dryden, of Deseronto; Mrs. Musgrove of Boissevain, Manitoba and Mrs. Holgate of Manor, Sask.; one brother, Mr. Charles Irvine in British Columbia. Her husband, William Brown, to whom she was married in 1886, died forty years ago.

The funeral took place this Saturday afternoon from the residence of her daughter, Mrs. George Winters, Point Anne. The service in the home and at the graveside in Shannonville cemetery was conducted by Mr. Fred Peer of Bethel Hall, Belleville.

The bearers were Messrs. Fred Melburn, Fred Barlow, Elmer Vivian, John McConnell, Arnold Mitchell and Fred Mitchell.

R.A.F. PLANES

An Air Ministry announcement said the coastal command of the R. A. F. sighted three German destroyers Thursday and dropped bombs close to the craft. The ministry also denied a German claim that a British plane was shot down in flames near Luxembourg yesterday. The machine in question returned safely to its base after a running fight with four Messerschmitt fighters, the ministry said.

All Planes Return

All the British planes which engaged in the scouting operations over northwest Germany, Austria and Bohemia returned undamaged, an Air Ministry communique said.

This was the first reported British aerial scouting over Bohemia, formerly part of Czecho-Slovakia, and the Austrian district, although Royal Air Force fliers had penetrated other parts of the German interior in the intensifying air war across the North Sea.

The ministry's communique said eastern Germany also had been scouted again in extensive flights.

"Security patrols were maintained over Heligoland Bight," it added. "All our aircraft returned safely to their bases."

Penetrate Deep

An official announcement disclosed British fliers had penetrated deep into German territory Thursday and had bombed one point of the German coast. Although they met anti-aircraft fire

Fifth Day of Bombing

The shooting down of the German plane in Scotland marked the fifth successive day that the enemy has approached British shores. Three planes also flew over a Norfolk port, inland bound, about noon and observers saw three British planes rising at great speed. The watchers estimated the German planes were flying at an altitude of 4,000 feet.

and one British plane was held momentarily in the fingers of German searchlights, all returned safely.

The bombs were dropped on a lane of lights believed to have been flares to guide German aircraft in Rantum Bay, on the Island of Sylt, German North Sea air base.

"Useful Information" Secured

Reconnaissance flights were said to have gathered "much useful information" over the great German seaport of Hamburg, the industrial city of Frankfort On The Main and the western German Ruhr area.

A British flier returned to his base yesterday after an encounter with a German Heinkel over the North Sea to learn that the German radio had announced that his plane went up in smoke and crashed.

"I did not go up in smoke— no fear," the pilot said.

"A lucky bullet from the Heinkel hit one of the exhaust pipes and a stream of cooling liquid that poured out behind may have looked like smoke. Anyhow, it wasn't, and I got back easily enough. I am perfectly okay and have been flying all day. The machine will be airworthy again soon."

The pilot, who has been in the Royal Air Force for about 10 years, was one of three sergeant pilots who routed the Heinkel after it had attacked a merchant ship off the coast of Norfolk.

Three planes Shot Down

Four French planes were reported to have engaged in a dogfight with German Messerschmitt warplanes and to have shot down three of the enemy. A fourth German plane slipped into a tail-spin and crashed.

The victory brought to six the French triumphs in recent battles. Military accounts of the battle said the French planes returned safely to their base.

Although strengthening of home defences against the possibility of German aerial bombardments was disclosed, the main British answer to four successive days of air raids apparently remained blow-for-blow flights over Germany.

Unsuccessful Ventures

German warplanes tried unsuccessfully to sink several vessels yesterday and last night, but British authorities still were convinced the main purpose of the lone raiders was mapping, presumably for attempted attacks in the future.

Anti-aircraft batteries on the coast were warned not to let single planes attract their fire, lest the whereabouts of important defense positions be disclosed.

The Air Raid Precautions Service, it was announced, is being organized on a nation-wide basis, so neighboring towns' crews can co-operate in case of bombings.

German fliers aimed bombs at an unidentified 10,000-ton steamship, two trawlers and a lightship in darkness last night, but all reported they were not hit. At one point along the east coast, the shore was crowded with onlookers watching the flashes of a trawler shooting at a German warplane.

Berlin, Jan. 13 (AP).—The German High Command's communique today said:

"In the west, no special events.

"The air force continued reconnaissance activity Jan. 12 over eastern France and the North Sea and obtained important results. Three individual planes were unsuccessfully attacked by enemy pursuiters.

"Outside separate nocturnal flights which were partially made under violation of Dutch neutrality, only a single enemy Bristol Blenheim was sighted over German territory Jan. 12.

"The plane, after a short fight, was shot down by German pursuiters and crashed and burned on French soil.

"Eight British bombers attempted to attack German destroyers in German (Heligoland) Bight. Only two attackers succeeded in dropping bombs, without hitting the mark. One was shot down and a second damaged.

"Six other British planes were repulsed in time through effective, well-aimed defence fire from our fighters."

SNEAK THIEVES ENTER GAS STATION

Breaking a rear window glass and reaching inside to unlock the window, sneak thieves entered Clarke's service station, East Dundas Street, during the night and stole a quantity of cigarettes and tobacco. The cash register was also opened, but no money had been left in the register by attendants, who closed the station shortly before midnight. An epidemic of such petty thefts have broken out in the southern section of the city during the past week, two gasoline warehouses having previously been entered this week. Police are putting a night patrol in that section of the city, authorities warned today.

Sonja Henie Denies Story Judges at Olympics Partial

New York, Jan. 13—(AP)—Dennis Scanlon Avera — and Sonja Henie denies—that he had a contract to obtain judges "not unfavorable" to her in the 1936 Olympic games.

Scanlon, an agent and promoter suing for $92,000, says he and a theatrical bureau contracted to share in 20 per cent of what she earned in the movies.

He says he convinced judges at Garmisch-Partenkirchen that she was not a professional just because her name had been used in advertising in Paris; and that he had an agreement with her to use his "best efforts to cause to be named as judges . . . persons known to be not unfavorable" to her.

Miss Henie, appearing in an ice show in Cleveland, said the charges were "ridiculous and that she would come here next week to fight them.

Her council in Supreme Court asked Judge Louis Valente to dismiss the action on grounds it was against public policy but the judge refused.

SISIETY

An informal batchelor party was held up in Mr. Puds Simkins's room in his house during the rain Wensday afternoon, among the prominent batchelors present being Mr. Benny Potts, Mr. Glasses Magee, Mr. Leroy Shooster and Mr. Sam Cross. No refreshments were served.

LATE SPORTS

Benny Potts, Glasses Magee and Skinny Martin had a swell time down Skinny's celler Sattiday morning while the coal men were shooting 5 tons of coal into the coal bin, hiding behind barrels and things and pretending to be sharpshooters holding the forts while a barrage was going on.

INTRISTING FACTS ABOUT INTRISTING PEOPLE

Glasses Magee always has so many skinned places on his elbows and knees and different spots that half of them are mysteries even to him.

Shorty Judge believe the safest rule of life is just to quietly go out and mind his own business, especially when he hears somebody upstairs talk about sending him on a errand.

WAR LOAN WILL DEMONSTRATE CANADA'S SPIRIT

With Canada's first war loan for $200,000,000 offered to the public, the Dominion is given its first opportunity of fighting the war with Canadian dollars. Canada is a young but a rich country and it is confidently believed that the loan will be oversubscribed.

The paramount interest is patriotism. Money so loaned to the Government will enable the Dominion to play its part in the war. It is another mark of the participation of Canada with the Empire and the Republic of France in the war to end Hitlerism. Canada has her man-power, the flower of the youth of this land, as her defender in the European theatre of war and will continue to be represented in every phase of the war effort, the sending of men, the manufacturing of munitions, the training of every branch of the service, including Canada's share in the vast Empire Air Training plan, in the effort of every individual citizen and at this time in raising the money which is called the sinew of war.

No one doubts that the end of the war will be victory, however long or short the term of hostilities may be. And Canada means to put every ounce of energy into the fight for, nothing would be worth while if democracy should fail. But democracy will not fail. It is built of sterner stuff and will sacrifice to the last dollar to bring victory over the Nazi forces.

The lesser consideration is the substantial return on dollars loaned to the Dominion. They will bear interest at three and a quarter per cent. The securest bonds in the world these are and they bear a good rate of interest for these times. The security is everything that Canada has and is.

It has been well pointed out that what Canadians are asked to loan is only of their savings. Canada 25 years ago was far less rich than she is today and there is no doubt that the loan will be quickly taken up.

This is the time to back the Dominion in her financial effort of the war campaign. Canada has had proof of the spirit of people in recent months in the grand support given to and the oversubscription of the Red Cross objective.

Canada is sound in her finances and her people will respond with all the loyalty of which they are capable. She is a growing nation with an assured future of expanding greatness and will give proof of her citizens' loyalty and understanding by wholehearted support of the loan.

The Government is desirous that the people as a whole participate in the loan with a large number of subscriptions from ordinary wage earners.

WARTIME BUSINESS PROBLEMS

President J. S. McLean of the Canadian Chamber of Commerce in "Canadian Business" deals with business problems of the war as they face the nation as a whole.

"Canada's job is clear," he says. "She is the nearest Dominion, and is therefore the first line of support. The centralization here of the final stages of Empire Air Training is the first recognition of this fact. Others will come. If the destruction of shipping goes on, Canada will become more and more important as the base of food supply.

"For the production of munitions Canada's capacity is greater than ever before.

"What is the business man's job. It is to adjust his policy to serve the national aim. This war differs widely from the last. In respect of most essential products, control was set up immediately war was declared. And, on the whole, control has been effective, both in respect of securing the product and of controlling the price. In the case of many essential products, such as wool, butter, sugar, bacon, base metals, etc., prices have been fixed for a year at levels not seriously above the pre-war basis.

"In this control the business men have played an essential and co-operative part. That was their duty. For it seems clearly in the interest of all that prices should not advance to the soaring levels of the last war.

"The interest of the citizens-at-large (considered as taxpayers) is clear. Control of prices will keep within bounds the cost of the war and enable us more nearly to pay as we go.

"The interest of the individual citizen is clear, especially the man on salary, and the working man. Controlled prices mean controlled cost of living.

"No less price control is in the interest of business. At first sight this may not seem obvious. While the war lasts, profits should be less. But after the war, losses would also be less. Thousands of businesses were wrecked by the post-war deflation of 1920-21 and scores of thousands of workmen were thrown out of employment.

"The threat of unemployment is the cloud which hangs over the post-war period.

"The chief duty of the business man during the war is to take thought so that he may maintain employment in his ranks after the war."

Mr. McLean speaking of the realization of the cost of the war, says that "that phase of it has not yet begun to make itself acutely felt."

Mr. McLean's views are those of a man who has a wide knowledge of business and as President of the Canadian Chamber of Commerce has a very close view of the business problems of wartime.

SOVIET PRESTIGE AND HONOR LOST

Italian Fascists say that Soviet Russia has "morally" lost the war by the defeat at Suomussalmi, which is not the first nor probably the last of her disasters and add that it is certainly more than sufficient to permit declaring that the Kremlin has virtually lost the war. Soviet honor has been lost.

In a world where most of the people seek peace and abhor aggression, Soviet Russia morally lost the war before she fired a shot at the Finns. She was a sinister figure with whom no nation had sympathy. The world was against her. That loss of "true honor" when she showed her aggressiveness shocked the world of good men and fair nations. But since then the giant state has proven that she is insufficient, that her warfare is a series of disasters. So much for Bolshevism as a builder of states.

Doomed in the eyes of freedom - loving. mankind and her armies routed on the field of battle by a small state's defenders, Bolshevism bears a double smirch.

Were the Soviets not so blind they could see that the world hates aggression and their pernicious doctrines.

It has taken Finland, one of the smallest of states from the standpoint of population and wealth but one of the richest in courage to prove what feet of clay the Russian Goliath had. Finland has made one of the greatest contributions to the moral sanity of the world ever made by a state. She has dispelled the fears of the world over the Russian terror. This war has become history already. It is one of the most heroic chapters of history.

Mute Russia over which the Bolshevik sits in dictatorship probably knows little of what has happened but Stalin and his subordinates know. Much harm has been done to Russia, the worst has been the domination by Bolshevism which has given not a single benefit to Russia or to the world. The sequel of the Great War brought one of the finest democratic developments of the world in the Baltic Republics which formerly belonged to Russia, while Russia submitted to the Bolshevists and bided the time when she might turn back the clock of time and uproot freedom from the Baltic states. Bolshevism has been shown up in its weakness.

CALLS IT 'OLD GERMAN CUSTOM'

The Windsor Star points out the history of Germany in relation to her neighbors. It says: "Long before Hitler appeared on the scene, Germany had an evil reputation. Germans were always on the alert to invade any country that looked as if it could not defend itself. Here are some dates to remember:

1864—Germany invaded Denmark.
1866—Germany invaded Austria.
1870—Germany invaded France.
1914—Germany invaded Belgium and France.
1938—Germany invaded Austria.
1939—Germany invaded Czecho-Slovakia.
1939—Germany invaded Poland.

"The only reason Germany has not invaded France again is because the French and British are standing firm along the Franco-German frontier."

In the years from 1864 to 1871 Germany crowded three wars, the Holstein War, the Austrian War and the Franco-Prussian War.

The record beginning with the invasion of Holstein and the war against Austria is not a healthy one nor is it one to inspire the rest of the world with confidence.

In a hockey match here last evening the Belleville Juniors defeated the Trenton Juniors by a score 15 to 2. The following composed the teams: Belleville—Hulin, Beach, Canning Swayne, Coon, Holway, Subs, Tilton and Hagerman. Trenton—McCracken, Allore, Dafoe, Whittier, Lamorre, Subs, Coutts and Rupert. Lawson Whitehead, Toronto was the referee; Ed. Thomas was timekeeper for Belleville and Farrar for Trenton.

The following officers were elected at a meeting of the St. Michael's Athletic Club: Hon. Presidents, Rev. Father Killeen and Rev. A lawyer in this city raises rather a nice question. All the business transacted so far by the Belleville City Council for this year, he says, is illegal, simply because an alderman has yet to be elected in Bleecker Ward and who ever he may be, he has not had a voice in the business transacted by the council. The council, this legal light says, had no right to transact any business until council has the full complement of 21 aldermen and the mayor. The alderman from Bleecker Ward, yet to be elected, can, if he desires, make all sorts of trouble for the city. This ward system muddle, if the above opinion is correct, has put us in a pretty muddle.

The warning sounded in reference to the prospects of a flood was heeded by some and none too soon. At six o'clock last evening the cellars in the buildings on the east side of Front Street and along the water's edge were flooded to a depth of two to three feet. It was impossible to cross the footbridge gangway and the stables and yards of the Anglo-American Hotel were flooded and the Prince Edward Hotel at the lower end of Front Street was surrounded with water. People living on Water Street, on the west side were compelled in some instances to seek other quarters. On the west side of the lower end of Coleman Street the water was running over the road and sidewalks to a depth of two feet. People living on Colborne, James and Brock Streets were also sufferers. At the lower end of James Street in some of the houses water was on the lower floors of the houses to a depth of several inches.

Daily War Survey

By The Canadian Press

The nucleus of an international army is assembling in Finland. When and if the Russian invaders renew their assault they may be met by men of many nations.

With Swedish and Italian volunteers already in Finland, words comes of the arrival of a Danish contingent and in Norway King Haakon announces a program of voluntary military drills will be conducted by the Defence Ministry for persons desirous of training. This means the Norwegians may obtain military training without entering the army. Although the purpose is not officially disclosed it will provide a means by which Norwegians who wish to fight for the Finns may obtain military training in their own country.

From Spain also comes word that Russian tanks, guns and other equipment sent into that country for the recent Spanish Civil War may be sent to Finland. Thus the relics of one of Soviet Russia's ill-starred foreign ventures will be turned against it in another venture.

An indication came today also that Nazi Germany's support of Russia's enterprise in Finland is still subject to qualifications. The Nazi Government has accepted a Consul appointed by the Finnish Government, thereby recognizing the continuance of that regime.

Russia has set up a puppet Communist Government for Finland with headquarters at Terijoki and refused to recognize the Government at Helsingfors. The Nazis will not go the length of recognizing the Russian-created Finnish Government. Although they stop the transport of military supplies from Italy to Finland they maintain normal relations with their northern neighbor.

THAT BODY OF YOURS

By James W. Barton, M.D.

Early Operation in Severe Gall Bladder Inflammation

One of the lessons physicians and surgeons are trying to teach is that in the severe type of gall bladder inflammation, the sooner operation is performed, the better for the patient's health and safety. In fact delay in operation may mean many further attacks of gall bladder distress and colic. Apparently the age of the patient is not important; it is the length of time the disease has existed and the amount of damage that has occurred in the region of the gall bladder that is the important factor. Every time there is an increase in the symptoms, every time there is an attack of colic, some damage, slight or severe, occurs.

Drs. C. A. Evans and E. L. Everts, Milwaukee, in Wisconsin Medical Journal, give an analysis of 645 consecutive operations on the gall bladder and the bile tubes adjoining it. The cases are all from private practice covering a period of seventeen years. In five cases, the gall bladder had been removed, in five others it could not be recognized as the gall bladder because so much damage had occurred in the region. Twenty-seven patients (about 4 per cent) died, death being due to heart disease, pneumonia, acute dilatation of the stomach, disease of the arteries supplying the heart muscle (coronary), and peritonitis (inflammation of the lining of the abdomen).

In general, in the acutely diseased gall bladder in cases in which it was possible to remove the gall bladder, operation was used earlier in the illness than in drainage cases (cases in which previous treatment by draining the gall bladder had been used). In other words, when the patient had been under treatment for some time by means of "conservative" treatment (that is trying to avoid operation), the more severe the damage present when operation had to be performed.

What does this mean?

Drs. Evans and Everts state that "patients seen soon after the onset of symptoms should be operated on early. Of the twelve deaths that occurred in patients with inflamed gall bladder, ten occurred in cases in which it was impossible to remove the gall bladder because infection was so severe. Similar results were observed in patients where bile ducts were damaged".

If, then, your doctor advises operation, remember that every attack of colic or severe pain causes damage to the tissues and makes operation more difficult.

That Famous Reich Weapon

London.—Speaking at Danzig on September 19 Hitler said: "The moment may come when we shall use a weapon which is not yet known, and against which there is no defence . . . It is to be hoped that no one will then complain in the name of humanity." The moment evidently came recently, when German aircraft were first employed to place the new German "magnetic mine" in the track of shipping; and, curiously enough, Herr Hitler's hope seems likely to be fulfilled, though hardly in the sense he meant when he expressed it.

Germany's actions have, indeed, evoked plenty of condemnation in the name of humanity. The submarine protocol, by which all the maritime popwers, including Germany, undertook among other things not to turn adrift in open boats the survivors of sunken merchant ships, was conceived in the name of humanity. The Hague convention of 1907, by which the same powers, including Germany, undertook not to place submarine mines in the open seas, to the danger of peaceful and neutral shipping, without notification which would enable such shipping to avoid the danger, was inspired by the same motive. Maritime international law which, by prescribing that no more force may be used by a warship against a merchant ship than is necessary to enforce compliance with the warship's orders, forbids armed forces to make war on non-combatants is another expression of the conscience of mankind. All these solemn obligations have been torn up by Germany, who has thereby already earned universal condemnation "in the name of humanity." The mere fact that she has added a new weapon to the armoury is hardly a cause for any further condemnation.

Hitler's boast of an unknown weapon against which there is no defence is only partially justified. The possibility of devising a non-contact submarine mine, which explodes when the hull of a ship approaches close enough to it to be within the destructive area of its explosion, has long been realized by admiralties and by men of science. The new German mine is only unknown in the sense that the precise method by which that effect is produced—science could probably suggest several—is at present unknown to our experts. As for the boast that there is no defence against it, that claim has been heard on behalf of every new weapon on its first appearance; but it has never been borne out. In the seventies of the last century the Whitehead torpedo was going to render obsolete all warships except torpedo-boats; sixty years later that prophecy is no nearer fulfilment. Poison gas in 1915 was to win the last war for Germany; so was the submarine in 1917; but Germany was not the victor in 1918. More recently we have often been told that the bombing aeroplane would drive warships from the sea; it has yet to prove its efficacy in the naval sphere. Every new weapon sooner or later evokes its own antidote, and beyond any doubt, as the prime minister said in his broadcast, "we shall master the magnetic mine as we have already mastered the U-boat."—London Times.

"The Worth While Man"

By Arthur L. Burke

It's not the clothes, as some suppose,
Though cut by stylish plan,
It's not the show, as fashions go,
That make the worthwhile man.

It's not the gold or wealth untold
That man to fame may lead,
He might be worth the whole of earth
And still be poor indeed.

It's not the hour of social power
Of false acclaim and greed,
It's not our share of worldly fare
That fills the common need.

It's to obey, each living day,
The rules of Nature's game,
It's but to fight for truth and right,
That gives a man a name.

It's but to share another's care,
As through this world we trod,
From rank and file, the man worthwhile
Is he who walks with God.

The Navy and the Empire

The British Empire is the creation of sea power. It is not merely that it was won by sea power; but that its growth has been so inextricably interwoven with our maritime development, that the organic structure of each and every part of it, as well as of the whole, is based upon and pre-supposes the freedom of the sea.

The Empire today is an Oceanic Commonwealth of free nations linked together by a common loyalty and the sea. Britain receives from abroad the food upon which her people exist, and the raw materials for the industries upon which their prosperity depends. Reciprocally, the inhabitants of the great autonomous Dominions, of India, and the Colonies are economically dependent for their welfare upon certain commodities produced abroad, and in turn each is under the necessity of exporting the commodities which she herself produces in order to pay for her exports.

Britain, besides being the nerve centre and the great source of man power during war, also maintains the bulk of the Empire's Fleet. It is the main task of this Fleet, aided by the navies of Australia, Canada, New Zealand, and India, to obtain the effective control of the sea by destroying or immobilizing the naval forces of the enemy. In so doing it ensures the protection of our own sea-borne trade and the destruction of that of the enemy, and can ensure the free movement by sea to or from any part of the Empire of our military and air forces, while denying this advantage to the enemy. It was so during the Great War, when enemy commerce was swept from the seas. It is so again today.

Our trade routes stretch over about 85,000 miles of the ocean's surface. Main arteries and corresponding veins — in the shape of vital maritime trade routes — lead westward across the Atlantic to Canada, America, the West Indies, and, through the Panama Canal to the Pacific and New Zealand; southward to South Africa and South America, and into the Indian Ocean and Pacific by way of the alternative routes round the Cape of Good Hope and Cape Horn. In normal times a huge volume of trade passes eastward through the Mediterranean, the Red Sea, and the Indian Ocean to India, China, Australia and New Zealand.

Capillaries — trade routes with lesser density of shipping — the most minute at the extremities of civilization, gather up the raw produce of distant nations and transmit it to the larger channels, which in this case is Britain herself. This great organ, absorbing what is necessary for its own sustenance, forces the overflow, in the shape of manufactured produce, back through the great main channel and finally, through thousands of branching filaments, to the uttermost parts of the world.

The life and welfare of an Empire so highly organized depends upon the prosperity of every one of its components, for all are interdependent and highly sensitive in their relations one to the other. The severance of an important limb, or the wounding of a remote nerve centre, though it may not necessarily prove fatal, must inevitably cause mutilation and consequent ill-balance in the entire living organism.

In short, the sea-routes, or maritime lines of communication are the vital arteries through which flows the life-blood of the Empire. Their control by a hostile power would involve the Empire in economic disaster, and leave its several nations, and its many island and other colonial possessions, individually isolated in the face of attack or invasion.

The Empire's cargoes are carried in ships, ordinary merchantmen. On any given day, about 1,460 British merchantmen are at sea, and another 850 in harbor. About 75 per cent. of these are vessels of less than 4,000 tons—the simple freighters passing to and fro on the ocean trade routes.

Those who man these ships earn our profound gratitude. We cannot live without the Merchant Navy, which exists side by side with the Royal Navy as the principal means by which we are kept from starvation, and the safety of the British Commonwealth of Nations is assured. Our two Sea Services are interdependent and indivisible. Since merchantmen can be preyed upon by vessels mounting guns, the gradual growth of our Merchant Fleet has conduced to the development of an armed Navy to protect it.

In the war of 1914-18 it was the Grand Fleet, operating in the grey, inhospitable welter of the North Sea, that stood between the Central Powers and victory. Without this fleet, British troops could neither have been safely landed in France, nor reinforcements of troops from any one of the great Dominions have been guaranteed a safe passage to any oversea theatre of war. Indeed, every Dominion would at once have been open to invasion.

The final and victorious blows were struck on the Western front; but the British Fleet, by maintaining the integrity of the sea communications, was the hub upon which not only the British, but the entire Allied cause revolved. Without its silent menace and watchfulness, the German fleet and a swarm of commerce raiders would have been free to pass out into the ocean to wreak their will upon our essential commerce. Surface raiders, let it be said, have a far greater power of destruction, and can travel for much greater distances, than submarines.

In the Great War, it was sea power, and sea power alone which made it possible for our armies on shore to bring hostilities to a triumphant conclusion. Our armies might be likened to the sharp point of a sword—our fleet to the strength behind its thrust.

It was the same when Napoleon's army for the invasion of England was encampel about Boulogne, and along the narrow strip of beach between Etaple and Wimereux. Had he been master of the Straits for six hours, he claimed, he would have become master of the world. That may have been exaggerated; but in any case his project failed. In the words of the American naval historian, Captain A. T. Mahar, it was "those far distant, storm-beaten ships upon which the Grand Army never looked, that stood between it and the dominion of the world."

Sea power is every whit as important today as it was in 1800 or during the Great War. It is by sea power, and the maintenance of those 85,000 miles of sea communications, that the British Empire exists as an Oceanic Commonwealth of Nations, and one of the greatest instruments for the preservation of world stability ever fashioned by the hand of man. — Imperial Review.

Idle Liners Costly

The cost of maintaining the Queen Mary and the Normandie at New York averages for each £5,000 a month. The British liner has a skeleton crew of 100 and the French 125, to keep the ships in shape. Their wages, however, are the smallest item.

The largest item is the rent paid to the city for the Cunard White Star and French Line piers. It is understood that the city charges each company about £50,000 a year, and since their idle flagships occupy one side of each pier this involves an annual expenditure of £25,000 apiece for the Queen Mary and the Normandie.

British officials are reluctant to discuss the cost of keeping the Queen Mary at New York, but, according to the French Line, the Normandie crew includes Captain Payen de la Garanderie. Their wages amount to about £1,500 a month and their food to £375 a month.

The special guards watching the French Line piers earn nearly £1,000 a month, and a certain amount of fuel is needed for heating and lighting. — London Daily Telegraph.

ALL IS BRIGHT

CHAPTER XXI

Star lay in bed staring at the ceiling. Outside the Sunday calm was unbroken, both on the ship and on land. It was good to be quiet after all the excitement last night. She felt bone tired; there was a big black and blue mark on her arm where someone had struck against her in the milling crowd. She could hear a woman's shriek still echoing in her ears.

She wondered who had had the presence of mind to turn on the flood light. It had calmed the crowd, and she and Kent had pushed toward a side door. There was no sign of Barton and Gloria, but Kent was sure they had made their escape.

Star yawned and climbed slowly from her bunk. That short drive home had been puzzling. When she had tried to thank Kent he had turned on her almost brusquely. "Why did you go to a place like that?"

"Why?" repeated Star. "Because everyone goes. You and Gloria were there," she pointed out.

"That's different," Kent said stubbornly.

His manner angered her. She could not help asking, "Why was it different?"

"Because Underwood doesn't know anything about these cabarets," said Kent in the same annoyed tone. "He practically started a riot when he came in, asking the head waiter to keep that table for him. He must have thought he was at the Ritz."

"I suppose we were to blame for the whole mess," Star said sarcastically.

"No. But it all helped. Everyone saw the little byplay and naturally they resented it. It put them in a bad humor."

Star had refused to argue further, but she felt that he was unfair. It did not occur to her that Kent was jealous of her interest in another man. She felt that she ought to defend Barton, so she felt he deserved to be under a misapprehension for a while.

She wondered if she was too late for breakfast. She remembered vaguely that Gloria seemingly fresh as a daisy, had bounded out of bed early and started to dress. To Stars' murmured question she had answered briefly, "Barton and I are flying over to Panama."

They must be there by this time. Soon they would be returning. The ship was due to leave Cristobal that afternoon. The thought made Star complete her dressing hurriedly. She wanted to shop, and the quaint little places were so numerous and intriguing she knew she would probably visit them all before she bought even a pair of mules.

The dining room steward brought her a cup of coffee when she looked into the deserted dining room on her way ashore. She drank it standing in the passageway outside and then ran down the ladder. A decrepit horse and carriage waited dejectedly in the road, its driver crowned with a battered straw hat.

Star thought the carriage must be the type once called a "Victoria." It was open, with a tan parasol set askew over it like a rusty bonnet. The leather upholstery was torn and worn through in many spots and the hair stuffing stuck out untidily. Star felt sorry for the poor old horse standing so patiently and forlornly between the shafts. She signalled the driver whose black face broke into a delightful smile.

"Star!"

She paused, her foot on the step. Kent was running down the ladder, careless that his haste made it shake dangerously.

"Want another passenger?" he called.

"If you like."

As they drove away she wondered at his change of attitude. He seemed penitent, more like a small boy who has been reprimanded, than like his usual stern self.

As they drove the short distance to the shops he talked about Cristobal and Panama and the odd shifting population that made them a constant link between the West and East. When they paused in front of a store where the windows were crowded with bits of ivory and wood and silver and backed by silken pajamas and embroidered Chinese coats, he turned to her.

"Please don't shop yet. We have time to drive out to the Canal if this carriage doesn't splinter beneath us," he added cautiously. "Then we can have lunch, and if you tell me what you want we can do the shops quickly.

He was pleading with her. It would seem silly to refuse and, after all, Gloria was with Barton. Surely she wouldn't object to this last day alone with Kent.

"Another truce?" Star inquired.

"A permanent one, I hope."

Star wondered what he wanted to say—it was evident from his manner that there was something important in the back of his mind But he did not continue the subject. He gave the driver directions and they rolled slowly along the palm-lined avenue, smiling at each other every time the carriage lurched safely over an uneven spot in the pavement.

Kent was amusing as he explained the different parts of town. And when they reached the Canal he became deeply interested in telling Star how many nations had tried to complete it, and how the doctors had finally made it possible for the work to be finished.

Star glimpsed a Kent she had never known before. Although he said little about himself she realized how important his work was to him. Casually, he mentioned some of the experiments he was making and his study of various diseases peculiar to this part of the world.

It made her thoughtful. This was a new Kent, not the stern unreasonable person she had known. Not even the gay companion who had taken her ashore at Kingston. But a scientist—a man deeply interested in his work, and more conscious of the problems of a nation than she had realized.

She did not know whether she loved him more this way, or when he laughed with her over the strangeness of these old ports. She began to regret having come with him on this trip. It had been simple to assume that she could stand by and watch him make up with Gloria. She had thought it would be easy to say nothing and let him slip out of her life. But she would betray herself if she had many more moments like this with him—watching his eager interest in everything, seeing his glance turn toward her face, hearing his voice deepen when he spoke of something close to his heart.

Star was glad when at last the horse turned back toward the town. The weary animal seemed delighted too; he travelled along so much more rapidly that Kent declared they were fairly skimming the ground.

"If it weren't for the bumps," Star said, the words jolting out of her, "we wouldn't have to go so far. As it is, we've gone up and down almost as far as we've rolled forward."

"Perhaps I'd just better make sure you haven't broken anything when we get back to the ship," Kent began.

At that moment, with an ominous crack the wagon stopped altogether. The horse looked around with the expression of one who knew all along that this would happen.

The driver explained in English so heavily accented Star could only get one word out of seven, that this was not an unknown catastrophe. In fact he, like the horse seemed to find it merely a part of the day's work. Kent climbed out and explained to Star that it was just a broken driving shaft.

"But how will we get back?"

"It isn't as serious as it sounds." Kent grinned boyishly. "This thing's been broken for years, I suspect. The mending gear gave way again, that's all. I should say one fairly solid piece of rope would fix it perfectly. As it is, we'll just tie another knot in the old one."

It took a little longer than he had predicted, but Star enjoyed the quiet sunshine and the oddity of seeing Kent without his uniform blouse, holding the shaft while the driver tinkered with the rope. As they started off again she said that she was going to skip lunch; there wasn't much time left for shopping.

Kent tried to persuade her to go to the hotel restaurant with him. Why he felt it was so important she could not imagine—and when she questioned him directly, he just looked hurt. Finally Star said impatiently: "For goodness' sake, you act as if I'd ruined your whole life! You're almost as spoiled as Stuart."

"If that's the way you feel about it—" he said angrily.

"I don't feel any way about it," she interrupted. "I only know I have just a little time to shop and I have some things I must buy for the Christmas party. Tell me, what shall I get Gloria?"

"Anything—" he said indifferently. "They have long cigarette holders of carved ivory. Perhaps she'd like one. But we'll have time to shop after lunch."

"Please go on," Star said, exasperated. "But let me go shopping It's the only time in my life I'll ever be in this part of the world, and I want to see it and enjoy it."

(To Be Continued)

Wooler

Wooler, Jan. 13.—Mrs. Jack Carver, Fonthill, accompanied by her nieces, the Misses Marian and Muriel Sharpe, twin daughters of Will Sharpe, are visiting relatives in this vicinity.

Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Gainsforth, Eva Masters and Mrs. J. Carver were callers of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Bell on Wednesday. They also called on Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Bell.

Mr. Bruce Plumpton was in Belleville on business on Wednesday.

Teams from Wooler, Frankford, Glen Miller and Wallbridge will form a league which will operate in Frankford Arena this winter. Wooler won the league last winter by defeating Glen Miller. The Glen Miller team expect to be stronger this winter while Wooler and Frankford have lost players to the Bata and Trenton O.H.A. junior teams.

Mr. and Mrs. Percy Gooding entertained Mr. and Mrs. Bert Rowe, their son Harold, Miss Gwenie Elford, Mr. E. Terrill and Mr. and Mrs. Stillman Terrill recently.

Mrs. P. J. Wessels is suffering with the grippe.

Mrs. Nick McColl is very ill.

Miss Lucille Sharpe of Belleville spent a few days with her parents.

A potluck lunch was served at a missionary quilting which was held on Tuesday at the home of Mrs. S. L. Terrill.

Mr. and Mrs. Charlie Sharpe were recent guests of her daughter and husband, Mr. and Mrs. Thos. Sheppard, Brighton.

Mr. and Mrs. Pogue of Castleton were guests on Thursday of Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Gainsforth.

A heavy snowstorm swept this section on Thursday.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Nelson entertained Mr. and Mrs. F. Montgomery on Thursday of last week.

Mrs. Westfall was a guest for a few days of Mr. and Mrs. D. Jenners.

Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Gainsforth spent Thursday afternoon with Mrs. William J. Lawson at hospital in Belleville. They report she is improving.

Mrs. Robert Spencer who was operated on in Belleville Hospital is as well as can be expected.

Mrs. Jack Carver is spending a few days with Mrs. Ada Boneham and other relatives in Belleville.

Congratulations to Mr. and Mrs. Knowlton Wright (nee Marie Ireland) of Stirling, formerly of Wooler, on the birth of a son, Charles Albert, on Jan. 3, 1940.

Mr. Arthur Ruttan received a telegram on Tuesday notifying him of the death of his brother-in-law, Mr. Carl Fruit of Anchorage, Alaska which occurred on Saturday, Jan. 6. He leaves to mourn, his wife, the former Mary Ruttan.

On Monday evening the program of the Young People's Union was conducted by the social convener, Miss Gwenie Elford. Progressive crokinole was enjoyed.

Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Bell, Mrs. A. Masters and Mrs. John Goodfellow called on Mrs. Wm. J. Lawson, in Belleville, on Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. Milton Bryant were recent guests of Mr. and Mrs. L. Bryant.

Mr. Maurice Herrington and Mr. S. L. Terrill were in Foxboro recently.

The Auxiliary of the Women's Missionary Society met on Thursday with a noon lunch served by Mrs. Robert Redcliff, Mrs. Rilla Scott, Mrs. Hugh Gainsforth and Mrs. Emma Sharpe. The meeting opened with the president, Mrs. S. L. Terrill, in the chair, her new term of office beginning in 1940 with the hope of co-operation with the whole church. Report from the treasurer showed good work, not so much increase, but the firm foundation of the work during the past year. The past president, Mrs. C. McMasters, gave a splendid address and at the close was remembered with a small gift from the auxiliary in appreciation of her leadership during the past years. Mrs. McMaster conducted the worship service. Miss Sharpe of Toronto and Miss Lucille Sharpe of Belleville gave readings. Everyine enjoyed the meeting which closed with prayer.

Rev. J. L. Hughes of Brighton conducted service at St. George's Church on Sunday.

On Sunday morning communion service in the United Church was in charge of Rev. W. Delve. He began a series of sermons with "Does This Community Need a Christ?"

The Gospel Senders Mission Band met at Miss Gwenie Elford's Sunday afternoon. The installation of officers was conducted by Mrs. Malcolm Waite. A hymn was sung followed by a call to worship and the Scripture reading. After a hymn, Gwenie Elford sang very sweetly "I Will Be True". Leona Sharpe read a story of an Indian baby and Mrs. Waite the story of "Shera of Punjab".

Mrs. Jack Bull and Mrs. Robert Walker were afternoon callers of Mrs. W. Downs and John on Thursday.

The Guild of St. George's Church was held at the home of Mrs. Jack Bull on Wednesday, Jan. 10. In addition to the regular business arrangements were made for a social evening to be held at the home of Mrs. David Bull in February.

Mrs. Arthur Bell is not so well the last couple of days.

The Women's Institute met at the home of Mrs. Maynard Sharpe on Wednesday. Mrs. Percy Gooding demonstrated meat cooking.

Mrs. Robert Redcliff is ill with the grippe.

Cherry Valley Couple Hold Golden Jubilee

Picton, Jan. 13.—The Tennyson Club held their last meeting of the year at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Andoff. The theme for the evening was the patron saint of the club, Alfred Lord Tennyson. A very fine paper on the poet's life and works was given by Mrs. H. D. Williams. Some of his poems were read by Mrs. Colin Carter, Mrs. P. A. Scott, Mrs. D. W. Gullett, Mrs. Carson Hubbs and Mrs. J. F. Reycraft. Rev. J. B. Creeggan sang Tennyson's "Now Sleeps the Crimson Petal" and "Come Into the Garden, Maud". Associate hostesses with Mrs. Andoff were Miss Mary Purkis and Miss Dorothy Black.

Mr. and Mrs. Owen Dulmage celebrated their golden wedding anniversary at their home near Cherry Valley this week. As a surprise, friends gathered at their home in the evening to celebrate. Mrs. Dulmage was presented with a lace table cloth, silver basket filled with golden 'mums while Mr. Dulmage was the recipient of a pair of slippers. Many messages of congratulation and other gifts were received. A social time was spent.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Dulmage enjoy good health and continue to take an active part in the life of the community.

The Macphelah Rebekah Lodge held a successful card party on Wednesday evening in the I.O.O.F. hall. Mrs. A. O. McGinnis was convener assisted by Misses Alice Dayton and Mary Head. Prize winners were Mrs. Ed. McCaw, Mrs. Eric Breakell, Morley Baker and Carl Ackerman.

The Evening Auxiliary of Picton United Church met Thursday night at the home of Mrs. A. H. Walton. Misses Doris Paddon and Mildred Caughey were joint hostesses. Mrs. Walden, recently elected president, was in charge. Mrs. J. F. Reycroft gave a reading and Mrs. M. V. Dow sang. Refreshments were served.

Mrs. John Reycroft left on Friday to take a course in hair dressing in Toronto.

The Yacht Club was en fete Wednesday night when friends of Mrs. John Reycroft (nee Merle Bailey) gathered to honor her following her recent marriage to Lieut. Reycroft. The guest of honor was presented with a McBrine twin set of aeropacks. Fourteen tables of bridge were in play, prizes going to Mrs. E. A. Adams, Mrs. T. W. Knapp and Mrs. C. A. Newman. Prizes for Chinese checkers went to Miss Aileen Pearsall. Those in charge of the event were Miss Phyllis Lavitt, Mrs. Ambrose Gannon, Mrs. Dayton Ward, Mrs. Harriett Fisher, Miss Hilda Harris, Miss Amanda Reid.

Mr. and Mrs. M. A. Branscombe are guests of Lt.-Col. and Mrs. G. Allison in Kingston.

The Premium Hard Coal at No Extra Cost

The War This Week

By DON GILBERT
Canadian Press Cable Editor

Air fights over the North Sea and a new crop of German mines sown in the path of sea-going commerce provided what little activity there was in the 19th. week of the war. Each side lost a few planes and about 35,000 tons of Britain's merchant fleet of more than 20,000,000 tons was destroyed.

While actual fighting was meagre there was intense diplomatic activity in southeastern Europe, with the trend of discussion strongly favoring the Allied cause. Effective opposition led by Italy to any Soviet thrust into that part of the world seems assured, and some observers think a similar barrier might block Germany's path should she attempt a manoeuvre of the kind.

Finns Get Aid

A further note of tension was introduced in the "pact of steel" between Rome and Berlin when Germany refused transit through the Reich of Italian aircraft consigned to Finland. Whereupon Italy routed supplies through France. Spain, critical of Germany's about-face with respect to Bolshevism, sent the Finns war materials left over from the civil war, much of it equipped of Russian and German origin-used on opposite sides in the Spanish conflict.

The Finns, now receiving aid from practically every European country except Germany, continued successful resistance to the Soviet invader. A third division of Soviet troops was reported destroyed as a fighting unit, and at several points the Red army was pushed back to Russian soil. The blunders of the Soviet generals were made the occasion of a purge of the Russian command and some reports said there had been executions.

End of Lull Expected

An early end to the lull in hostilities in the west was predicted by Prime Minister Chamberlain in a speech broadcast throughout the Empire. The Prime Minister delivered a careful review of the progress of the war and, peering into the future, foresaw the completeness of the wartime cooperation between Britain and France as a possible pattern for peacetime collaboration among all nations.

The Prime Minister had nothing to say about the resignation of the previous week of the Secretary of State for War, Leslie Hore-Belisha, and authoritative explanations for the ministers departure were not forthcoming from other sources. A possible clue to the differences between Mr. Hore-Belisha and his colleagues were seen in the creation of a separate, independent command for the Royal Air Force in France. The war minister had been represented as insisting on army control of the R.A.F. in France.

Foods Rationed

Rationing of a group of basic foods was begun in the United Kingdom, with the people accepting cheerfully the sacrifices required of them. In contrast, Berlin dispatches to the neutral press told of widespread grousing in Germany at the shortage of coal during the current cold wave. The Nazi authorities were said to contemplate deducting 10 per cent. from all wages to combat hoarding of commodities by the inflation-conscious public. Script payable after the war would be given for the 10 per cent. deducted.

Glancing back 25 years: On January 9, 1915, Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry was reported in action in France for the first time. Heavy fighting marked an advance by the Allies in the region of Soissons. Heavy rains slowed up operations on the eastern front.

PERSONALS

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Fuller, of Hespeler, are visiting Mr. Fuller's parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Fuller, Sidney.

Old friends in this city of the Rev. O. C. Elliott and his wife will regret to learn of Mrs. Elliott's death which occurred in the Brantford General Hospital on Thursday, January 11th. Mr. Elliott was pastor of Victoria Avenue Baptist Church in this city from 1901 to 1905. At present he is residing in St. George, Ont.

The annual dance, sponsored by the Young People of St. Andrew's Church, held last evening in the Trianon Ballroom was attended by a very large number of guests from the city and district. The patrons of the affair were Rev. W. J. Walker and Mrs. Walker and Mr. C. A. Cameron. Those who received the many guests were Mr. Bob Kidd, president of the club, Miss Hilda Murray and Miss Lena Ewenson. The Commodores provided a splendid dance program which was thoroughly enjoyed. Refreshments were served at midnight, after which dancing continued.

WEDDINGS

BALL—CROZIER

In a beautiful setting of calla lilies and ferns, the marriage took place at Christ Church at four o'clock this afternoon of Athol Margaret, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas H. Crozier, and Flying Officer Frank Westoby Ball, Camp Borden, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick A. Ball of Kenora. The ceremony was performed by Rev. G. G. Wright, rector of Christ Church.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was charming in a gown of blush pink faille taffeta, fashioned in Empire style, with leg of mutton sleeves ending in a point over the wrists. She wore a shoulder length veil of blush pink tulle and carried lilies of the valley and freesia.

Miss Jean Crozier was her sister's bridesmaid and wore a lovely frock of turquoise blue faille taffeta, also in Empire style. Her hat, a New York import, was turquoise velvet in doll style and she carried a colonial bouquet of Spring flowers.

Mr. Gordon McKinley of Columbus, Ohio., was groomsman and the ushers were Flying Officer Maurice Lipton, Camp Borden, and Flying Officer John Murray, Trenton. Mr. George N. Maybee, organist of the church, played the wedding music and at the signing of the register, Mr. Harold Williamson sang "Because".

Following the ceremony, a reception was held at the Hotel Quinte. Mrs. Crozier, mother of the bride, wearing wine velvet with wine accessories and corsage of Talisman roses, and Mrs. Ball, mother of the groom, attired in midnight blue crepe with black accessories and corsage of Briarcliffe roses received with the bride and groom.

Later Flying Officer and Mrs. Ball left on a wedding trip to Ottawa, Montreal and eastern points. The bride chose for travelling a dusky rose crepe frock with matching turban; Hudson seal coat with silver fox collar. Upon their return they will reside in Belleville.

Christ Church W. A. Annual Meeting

The election of officers of Christ Church Woman's Auxiliary took place at a meeting held on Wednesday afternoon. The following executive was named:

Collar Bones of Contention

PATRICIA MORISON . . .is not troubled by collar bone exposure.

By HELEN FOLLETT

WHAT ABOUT collar bones, you dear little skinny girls? Have you little shelves atop your chest works? If so, you had better mind your posture manners, hold the chest high, tuck in your tummy. Posture is often responsible for collar bone exposure.

Double your hands tightly, fingers packed in the palms, swing them high, wide, handsome and far back, flexing the muscles of the shoulders as you do it. Get some cocoabutter and, every night of your life, massage the throat and chest. Stroke up and down with the palms, first with one hand, then with the other. Every morning sponge with cold water.

Prematurely grey hair may be becoming and it may make a woman look distinguished, but she hates it because she is classed among older women long before her time. If the face is young, complexion clear, eyes bright, the silver halo accentuates these beauty blessings.

How about platinum blondes, still going strong, despite all the criticism? The hair is bleached almost to snowiness. Not good for the old mop; over-bleaching weakens the shafts, and reconditioning treatments must be had.

The white-haired dolly looks her best in black with a brilliant accent of rose, old blue, cerise or jade green. Favorable are those pale hydrangea tones—pinks, mauves and delicate blues. She can wear purple if it is deep and rich, but she isn't likely to as it is a color associated with the sit-by-the-fire contingent.

Beige yellows and browns are dead agin her. They impart a yellow cast to the frosted topknot. In pearl grey she is adorable; in steel grey—the coldest color of all—she is out of form.

She'll have to take tender care of her hair to avoid yellow streaks which are devastating to the sheen and loveliness of snowy locks. Only the blandest soaps for the shampoo, and the highest grade setting lotions for the finger waves. Hair tonics must be tested; those containing glycerine will make the hair yallery.

James Cagney and lovely Priscilla Lane are the romantic interest in the thrill-packed melodrama, "The Roaring Twenties," now showing at the Belle Theatre.

Advice to the Lovelorn

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

How Real Are Day-Dreams? It Depends on the Dreamer

"Dear Miss Fairfax

"Am I just kidding myself along, a foolish day-dreamer, when every action, almost every thought is directed toward a certain goal?

"I want to marry the only girl. She's just too wonderful to describe. I want to practice law. I've worked like the very d— at night school and am almost ready to pass my bar exams. A house and an old-fashioned family of four or five kids is what I'd like to have to make me completely happy.

"To accomplish these things, I've been a janitor in an apartment house tending furnace and rustling ashes, I've worked in a chain grocery store, been a window washer—what have I not done since I graduated from high school with honors! When I'm blue, perhaps I feel I'm just kidding myself along. My girl and I have been engaged for three years.

Nearly Always Hopeful

Whether a person is just kidding himself along or planning constructively when he indulges in day-dreams depends upon the type of person he is. Kidding one's self or day-dreaming may be a blessing or a curse. It may be just so much dope that fills one with dreams of wish fulfillment and keeps one from facing stern realities. Or it may be a leg up the ladder.

If you belong to the school of wishful thinkers and have the grim determination to hold the thought, you'll have plenty of great names to bolster up your argument. If you're just dreaming with no resolution or drive behind it, you might see an unflattering reflection of yourself in the next bum you happen to meet.

Napoleon dreamed his dreams of being "head of the army", and put drive, even ruthlessness, back of his dreams. Lincoln, studying by the light of blazing logs, learned to write matchless English prose. Another case of day-dreams come true.

Susan Anthony, Elizabeth Cady Stanton, Lucretia Mott, the Quakeress, dreamed of women having freedom, going to college, getting jobs, doing away with unjust laws which bound them, such as not having the custody of their own children, or owning the money their fathers left them, or collecting their own wages—just another case of dreams come true.

How about Edison, and hundreds more? But to come down to every day folk, there have been hundreds, thousands of young men who dreamed of having a college education and who blacked boots, washed dishes, waited on table, tutored and turned out to be the best men their colleges produced.

Such a man was Henry Clay Folger, who has given the finest Shakespearean collection in the world to the Folger Library, Washington, D.C. He put himself through college.

So it all sums up, my dear young man, to the amount of purpose you have in knowing what you want whether you are dreaming constructively or just kidding yourself along like a Weary Willie dreaming what he would be if there were any justice in this grim old world.

GOOD MANNERS

Be Gracious in Refusal of Food

When we are offered food, we should either accept it with a "Yes, thank you", or we should just say, "No, thank you".

We shouldnt add anything, no remark whatever, to that "No, thank you." All the person offering the food wishes to know, needs to know, is that you don't care to partake of the food being offered you.

It is offensive to good taste to hear a person say, "No, thanks. I don't like stringed beans', (or whatever is being offered). You may be terribly enthusiastic about your food notions, hug them to you with devotion, feel called on to tell the world about your fancies —but no one cares about your idiosyncrasies. Indeed everyone with a sense of decency is hoping that you will just say the polite "No, thank you" that is completely adequate for the circumstance.

I sincerely hope that you aren't the kind of person who can't resist saying any of these vulgarisms:

"It doesn't agree with me'.

"I like it but it doesn't like me."

"My doctor has warned me that I mustn't eat that."

"I can't eat that— it repeats." (Horrors!)

"Every time I eat that I taste it for days afterward".

"That makes my skin break out in a rash". (Pretty thought!)

"I ate so much last night that my stomach is upset. So I'm 'going easy on food today".

Every one of these comments is repulsive to people who have any taste at all. To talk about our personal reactions to food shows that we have not the slightest regard for other people, or for their liking of the food about which we are commenting. For such remarks as I have quoted above certainly do not add to other people's enjoyment of the foods that are being served. Food objectionable to us may be a delicacy or a special enthusiasm to other people. We have no right to spoil their enjoyment.

Just say that "No thank you," and say it graciously, with appreciation for the courtesy of the offer.

DR. DAFOE'S COLUMN on the Quintuplets and the Care of Your Children

Should Your Child Have His Tonsils Out?

In this season for colds, if your child has persistent colds and sore throat in spite of proper care and nourishment, I suggest that you have his tonsils looked at by a physician.

Let me say here, however, that I certainly am not advocating that every child who ever has colds, sore throat or tonsilitis should have his tonsils out. I only want to make the point that bad tonsils can and often do cause children, and adults, too, to become unusually susceptible to a variety of diseases and that persistent colds are a warning sign not to be ignored.

There has been a great deal of controversy concerning the function of the tonsil in the human throat and even now medical men do not agree upon it entirely. It would appear that the role of the tonsil is to reduce infection in the throat; to fight it before it can spread elsewhere. Though we have long differentiated between tonsils and adenoids, for good reasons, they are made up of the same kind of matter —adenoid tissue. This is composed of a great many tiny, round cells that collect normally in the presence of an infection. These cells have the ability to fight infection by absorption and destruction of bacteria. As long as the tonsil fulfills this role, it is a valuable member of the body defenses. The trouble is that after having been involved in a few severe invasions of the body by infections, the tonsil itself often becomes diseased and, instead of helping combat infection as it should, it actually becomes a focus for it, acting as host for disease germs while they multiply, until long after they have disappeared from other parts.

If after examining your child's tonsils your physician decides they must come out, then take his word for it and abide by his decision. If he finds the tonsils are not diseased and says they don't need to come out, then you don't need to worry over whether your child should have his tonsils removed.

The Dionne Quintuplets had their tonsils out well over a year ago, and there has been such a change in their physical condition since then. Before they were removed, the girls were always catching colds which hung on and sapped their vitality.

The tonsils were in exceptionally bad shape because they were harboring germs of the dread streptococcus. We had known for a couple of years that their tonsils were bad but had waited for a favorable time to have them out. Then there came a time when they simply had to be removed, regardless.

Infected tonsils may become so enlarged when diseased they fill up the throat so that the child has difficulty eating and even breathing. I remember that when the surgeon took a look down Marie's throat and started to work, he turned to me and said: "I don't know how she managed to swallow anything". The poor child's throat was almost completely filled by the enlarged tonsils.

Normally tonsils have a number of deep crypts in their surface. When the tonsil becomes infected, these crypts or fissures are likely to become filled with pus and dead cells. So, when we look at a diseased tonsil and see it covered with white spots we know we are looking at the crypts filled with pus.

The pillars which flank the tonsils on either side are normally a delicate pink in color. When the tonsil becomes badly infected and diseased, these become a deep reddish blue. Even on the outside we can often tell if tonsils are swollen and unhealthy, for if they are, the glands back of the jaw, and just under the ear will be enlarged. These glands drain the region of the tonsil and when the tonsil is infected, they become quite large. If the infection clears up in the tonsil, these glands will get smaller until they can't be felt. If the tonsil is chronically infected, then these glands will remain large and you can always feel them, a small hard lump at the angle of the jaw.

These are the signs that your doctor will look for in your child when he is deciding whether the tonsils should or should not come out. When he makes up his mind either way, for goodness sake abide by his decision.

Canada Has Treasury Of Folk Lore and Crafts

Miss Juliettte Gaultier de la Verendyre of Ottawa, a niece of the late Sir Wilfrid Laurier, who is well known for her work amongst the French Canadian, Indian, and Eskimo people will visit Belleville next week under the auspices of the Women's Canadian Club. Miss Gaultier has studied the beginnings of music among the primitive tribes of Canada, preserving and interpreting their folk lore.

Possessed of a beautiful voice, her lecture of Folk Music of French Canada is interpreted through the medium of music. Not only has Miss Gaultier achieved much in the folk history of this country but she is especially interested in the rich heritage of the handicrafts of the early settlers in Canada and in arousing the Canadian people to realize the importance of reviving these arts.

Avondale Neighbors' Aid to Conduct Extensive Red Cross Work This Year

Decision to include extensive Red Cross work in the 1940 itinerary was made at the regular meeting of the Avondale Neighbors Aid held at the home of Mrs. L. F. Reid, Trent Road on Thursday. A Red Cross committee was appointed with Mrs. C. Holmes as governor and a sum of money granted for the purpose of carrying on the work.

Mrs. Reid, President of the organization was in the chair. Reports of the treasurer were read which showed the Aid to be in good financial condition. Letters and cards as well as verbal expressions of appreciation were received for fruit and flowers, also a Christmas donation to the Children's Aid Society Receiving Home in the community. A devotional period was conducted by Mrs. English.

Work for the coming year was discussed and plans laid down. Following the meeting, dainty refreshments were served by the hostess. The Mizpah benediction closed an interesting meeting.

TABERNACLE W.M.S.

The meeting of the Woman's Missionary Society of the Tabernacle Church was held in the parlours, January 11th, the President, Mrs. D. T. McClintock, presiding.

The opening prayer by the President was truly an inspiration for the year's work.

The minutes of last meeting were read by the Secretary, Mrs. J. Brennan and adopted. The Treasurer's report given by Treasurer, Mrs. A. H. Fisher, was confirmed.

Reports from all departments were gratifying showing that much has been accomplished in each phase of the work.

After giving an inspirational address the pastor, Rev. D. T. McClintock, then installed the newly elected officers which were as follows—President, Mrs. D. T. McClintock; 1st Vice President, Mrs. G. Shorey; 2nd Vice President, Mrs. M. Tovell; 3rd Vice President, Mrs. F. B. Jarrel; Recording Secretary, Mrs. W. H. Bailey; Treasurer, Mrs. A. H. Fisher; Corresponding Sec., Mrs. C. Hogle; Christian Stewardship, Mrs. A. Finkle; Associate Helpers Secretary, Miss M. Greenleaf; Supply Secretaries, Mesdames Bedal and Spracket; Literature, Mrs. G. S. Sharpe; Missionary Monthly, Mrs. J. A. Brennan; Press, Mrs. T. G. Bell; Temperance Secretary, Mrs. F. Isard; Strangers' Secretary, Mrs. G. F. Lent; Mission Band, Miss Jane Smith and Mrs. P. Cornell; Baby Band, Mrs. Cecil Lent; Mission Circle, Mrs. G. F. Lent; Pianist, Mrs. R. Johnston. Finance Committee—Messrs. A. H. Fisher, Mrs. T. G. Bell, Mrs. Geo. Ashley, Mrs. G. S. Sharp and Mrs. G. H. French.

After the Installation the Rev. D. T. McClintock closed the meeting with the benediction.

The Stars Say

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

For Sunday, January 14

SUNDAY'S horoscope is a fairly auspicious one for all affairs of church and state that may be attuned to progressive and even revolutionary ideals. Old conventionalities seem to be under disturbing vibrations, with the feminine element taking an active part in innovations. Strangers figure in the day's friendships and doings.

Those whose birthday it is may enjoy a year in which strangers, new places and movements seem to hold determining place. Old and orthodox matters take a back seat in the progressive and revolutionary urges of the day. Elderly women and strangers hold conspicuous importance.

A child born on this day, while steady and easy-going, may have progressive ideas, with much originality and liberality of thought.

For Monday, January 15

MONDAY'S astrological forecast is a most propitious one, with every prospect of attaining the goal of heart's desire, whether in business, cultural aims, social prestige or romance. There is a likelihood of great activity toward any cherished objective, also much festivity or gratification in connection with a social or sentimental celebration.

Those whose birthday it is are assured of a progressive, happy and prosperous year, with every realm of human aspiration attaining high culminations of gratification and success. Romance, social, domestic or cultural activities may be paramount.

A child born on this day may be bounteously endowed with those talents and graces that fit it for a high and happy station in life.

MAJ. W. H. WOOD DIES AT LONDON AT AGE OF 58 YRS.

Secretary-Treasurer of London Chamber of Commerce Was Well-Known Speaker

London, Ont., Jan. 13.—(CP)—Major W. H. Wood, 58, veteran secretary-treasurer of the London Chamber of Commerce and well-known in Canada and United States as a speaker on community problems, died at his home today. He had been in failing health for several months. He is survived by his widow.

Born in Devon, Major William Henry Wood was the son of Joseph Wood, of Kent County, England, and Mary Macy Leaker Wood, of Cornwall, England. He received his early education in Brantford, Ont., after coming to Canada with his parents and studied extra-murally at the University of Wisconsin, and at Northwestern University in Evanston, Ills.

After obtaining diplomas in Chamber of Commerce and Trade Association work, Major Wood served various institutions in executive capacities, gaining extensive experience in community building.

Served in Great War

Enlisting with the Canadian Expeditionary force in the last Great War, he served overseas in France, Belgium and Germany. Following this war service of four years he was manager for another four years of the Brantford Chamber of Commerce before coming to London in 1925.

Since becoming one of the city's most active community builders Major Wood has been honored on many occasions with requests to present studies on economic subjects before groups in Canada and the United States. Copies of his works appear in the records of many international conferences, and are in demand by universities, colleges, schools, public libraries and other institutions.

Honored by Executives

Active in many fields of endeavor Major Wood was a member of the Sons of England, Independent Order of Oddfellows Lodge, the Masonic Order, London and Middlesex Historical Society and others. His regular field of industrial and commercial expansion saw him become associated with Chamber of Commerce executives of North America.

In his boyhood days, he was prominent in international athletics for some 15 years, holding several distance records in that period and as a member of a Canadian Olympic team returned as "Canada's first" in the marathon.

He was an official with the allied team representing the Canadian corps in the inter-allied games at Paris, following the Armistice.

Bonarlaw

Bonar Law — The annual vestry meeting of St. Mark's Church was held on Wednesday evening of this week, the rector, Rev. Canon W. G. Swayne, presiding.

The election of officers for 1940 resulted as follows: Mr. W. J. Barlow, people's warden; Mr. J. P. Baker, rector's warden; Messrs. Jesse Barlow and M. Fitzgerald, lay delegates to Synod; sidesmen, Messrs. Chas. Lough, Allan B. McComb, Hugh Jones, Ward McInroy, Ronald Brown and Thos. Prest.

The Executive Council of Vestry, The Rector, Wardens, lay delegates to Synod and Messrs. C. Lough, A. B. McComb, Thos. Prest, Hugh Jones, Mesdames M. Fitzgerald, W. J. Barlow and Thos. Prest.

In addition to wardens' reports and report of Sunday School by Messrs. W. J. Barlow and J. F. Baker, the Laymen's Association report was given by Mr. Chas. Lough and the Women's Auxiliary by Mrs. M. Fitzgerald.

Marmora

Marmora — The annual meeting of St. Paul's Ladies' Guild was held in the Parish Hall on Thursday evening with a good attendance of members. Mrs. E. Hewitt, retiring president, was in the chair. The financial report showed $804 raised during the past year; $649.50 applied to funds of the church.

Rural Dean A. B. Caldwell presided for the election of officers, which were as follows:

President, Mrs. A. B. Caldwell; vice-president, Mrs. P. Gray; secretary-treasurer and conveners of groups will be named at another meeting to be held in the near future.

Mr. Hugh Shannon quietly celebrated his 87th. birthday on Wednesday, January 10th., at his home in Marmora township, with several of his children and their families. Mr. Shannon is one of the oldest residents in this district and is quite active for his age.

1,977,000 LBS CANNED BEEF IMPORTED IN NOV.

Ottawa, Jan. 13 —(CP)— Canada imported nearly 1,977,000 pounds of canned beef last November compared with 1,753,000 in November, 1938, the Dominion Bureau of Statistics reported today. Imports from Argentina totalled 1,579,632 pounds, Australia 75,660, the United States 890 and Uruguay 320,781 pounds.

The W.A. of Sulphide United Church elected the following officers for 1940: Hon. president, Mrs. Morrison; president, Mrs. A. Corbett; vice-president, Mrs. A. W. Mairs; secretary, Mrs. F. Mayers; treasurer, Mrs. Lee Credicott. The meeting was held at the home of Mrs. H. J. Cordy.

West Huntingdon

West Huntingdon — On Wednesday evening an extra large number of friends and neighbors gathered at Mr. and Mrs. Harry Thompson's home on Mill Street, to tender the newlyweds, Mr. and Mrs. Carl Thompson, a reception. Mr. Clayton Wright was chairman for the evening's proceedings. Mr. Elmer Post and Mrs. W. J. Fitchett led the gathering in community singing. Miss Della McMaster of Minto, gave a reading "My Sister's Beau." Miss Lois McGill gave an exhibition of tap dancing.

Mr. Keith Bray read an address. The address was signed on behalf of the West Huntingdon Community by Charles Wright, Keith Bray and Dan Cooke.

Mr. and Mrs. Thompson were presented with two handsome occasional chairs from the community and several other useful gifts from friends. Both Olive and Carl made suitable speeches voicing their appreciation for the kindness shown them by their neighbors and friends.

Mr. Geo. McMaster of Minto has rented Mr. Thomas McAvoy's farm.

Ice cutting has started on the Emerson mill pond by Mr. Harry Thompson and son with their power cutting machine. The ice is of an exceptionally fine quality and is sixteen inches thick.

Mr. and Mrs. Morley Haggerty and Margie, Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Sills were recent guests of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Hagerman.

PRESENTATION

Friends and neighbors of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Thompson (nee Miss Olive Howes) gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Howes on Monday evening, January 8, to present the bride and groom with a miscellaneous shower. A short program consisting of a reading by Mrs. B. Clarke and a piano solo by Miss Iva Horton was followed with an address read by Miss Hazel Hicks. The address was signed on behalf of the community by Irene Haynes, Mona Wright, Carman Dafoe, Clare Horton and Hazel Hicks.

EGG PRICES EASE ON CITY MARKET

Sell at 25c, a 3-Cent Decline From Last Week—Staple Vegetables Steady

Egg quotations took a sharp decline on the Saturday market here with Grade "A" selects selling at 25c the dozen, a decrease of three cents from prices of a week ago. Inferior qualities were offered at 23c with a few mediums going at 21 cents the dozen. Wholesalers were said to have quoted eggs at 20c.

Other prices were generally steady. Farmers' butter sold at 30 cents the pound in both single and two pound rolls.

The chicken offering was light as compared with former weeks, but prices held up fairly well. Good weighty June birds were offered from $1.25 to as high as $1.50 each, with buying being fairly brisk during the later hours of the morning. Fowl was fairly plentiful with average quality offered from 60c each. An occasional duck was in evidence, offered at $1 each.

Staple vegetables were firm at former price levels with no indication today at least of any further rise in price. Carrots, beets and turnips were quoted at 60c the bushel with parsnips at 70 cents, and onions at $1.25 the bushel. Potatoes were steady at $1.25 and $1.35 for 75-lb. bags.

Vendors reported today that these vegetables will in all probability rise to a record price before the new ones make their appearance. There is a shortage in other parts of the district and outside buyers have been combing this section of the province in an effort to secure stocks for other markets.

Northern Spys and Starks Delicious headed the Winter fruit display, selling at $1.25 and $1.35 for ring-packed hampers. No. 1 grades of Russets and Tolman Sweets sold at $1.00 the bushel with domestic qualities selling at a few cents less.

A few whitefish and mudcats constituted the fish offering with the former selling at 20c the pound and the latter 15 cents for the same quantity. A few young pigs squealed a protest from crates, but not many changed ownership at the prevailing price of $6. each.

HIGH-GRADING ON THE DECLINE

Investigators Frighten Off the 'Big Shots' and Leave No One to Buy

Toronto, Jan. 13—(CP)—High-grading is a crime that has decreased greatly in Ontario, stated Gordon Bateman, secretary of the Ontario Mining Association today. Activities of mining association investigators have frightened off the "big shots" and left nobody to buy the ore pilfered by the small fry, he said.

Little of the ore stolen from northern Ontario and Quebec mines is marketed as high grade, he said. Most of it is concentrated or refined as it is easier to value and market.

Strict supervision on the part of mines police has failed to check the high-grading at the source, he said, and the best way to break up the activities of these men is to take the higher-ups from circulation.

"The high value of small quantities of high-grade makes it easy for a miner to smuggle out ore of considerable value," Mr. Bateman continued. "For example, I have a piece of ore valued at around $500, but you could put it in your vest pocket comfortably. It is easy to smuggle out $25, $50 or $75 worth of ore at a time."

HUSBAND FAITHFUL TO PROMISE

Dallas, Tex., Jan. 13 (AP)—Mrs. Alvin Minor has received a letter from her husband every day for nine years although he has not been away. She opposed marriage until a promise of a daily letter led her to relent.

SECURITY ZONE PLANS PROPOSED

Neutrality Committee Considers Four Suggestions to Make Zone Effective

Washington, Jan. 13—(CP)—The Pan-American Neutrality Committee is planning to make its security zone effective when it meets Monday in Rio Janeiro.

Each belligerent has agreed to respect the neutrality zone, whose status under international law is questionable providing others respected it.

Principle incident in the zone to date was the German pocket battle ship Admiral Graf Spee's attempted attack on the French steamship Formose. The Graf Spee was herself attacked by three British cruisers, which chased her into Montevideo where she was scuttled by her crew.

The Neutrality Committee, apparently intent upon preventing German vessels for using the zone for a raiding base again, will consider the following proposals,—

1—An agreement among United States and South American Republics to prevent, belligerent warships from obtaining supplies in Pan American ports or making any repairs after they have committed belligerent acts inside the security zone.

2—A similar agreement to keep merchant ships from carrying supplies from Pan American ports to belligerent warships operating inside the zone.

3.—An accord to keep submarines from entering Pan American harbors. This might follow the lines of President Roosevelt's proclamation banning submarines from United States ports except in emergencies such as storms, in which case they would have to enter on the surface.

4.—A co-ordination of interpretations of international law relating to neutrality, so that all the republics would have, in effect, a common code of neutrality.

Thomasburg

Thomasburg, Jan. 13.—Thomasburg I.O.O.F. Lodge No. 293 held their annual "at home" in their lodge rooms on Friday evening. Owing to unfavorable weather conditions the attendance was not as large as usual. Oysters were served after which Mr. Albert Porter, the Noble Grand, acted as chairman and an enjoyable program was given.

Mr. and Mrs. William Morton and Mr. and Mrs. Lorne Carleton were in Brockville last week owing to the death of their brother, the late Rev. Stanley Morton.

Miss Margaret Sills and Mr. and Mrs. Willie Bates of Roslin and Mr. Everett Geen were guests on Saturday evening of Mr. and Mrs. Willie Geen.

Mr. Rusell Bateman has returned to Queen's University, Kingston, after spending the Christmas season with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Bateman.

Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Adams and family of Big Island were guests on Sunday of Mrs. Ed Way and Mr. Willie Way.

Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Carter and daughter of Golden, B.C., were the guests last week of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Carter.

Miss Annice Adams of Belleville spent Saturday evening with Miss Helen McTaggart.

Mrs. Wilbur Sherry is a patient in Kingston General Hospital where she was receiving treatments for a few days.

The regular monthly meeting of Thomasburg United Church Woman's Missionary Society was held at the home of Mrs. Harry Lee Tuesday afternoon, Jan. 9. The president, Mrs. Harold Morton, conducted the opening services. The roll call was answered by paying the membership fees, with an attendance of seventeen members and visitors. The reports of the year 1939 activities were read by the officers. Mrs. Herrington gave a reading. A prayer for peace was given by Mrs. Harold Morton.

The study book chapter was read by Mrs. Herman Elliott. A reading was given by Mrs. J. R. Bateman. An instrumental solo was rendered by Miss Mae Lee. Mrs. Ed. Way gave a reading on temperance. A hymn was sung as a prayer. The meeting closed with the Mizpah benediction. A lovely lunch was served by Mrs. H. B. Herrington and group and a social time was spent.

The January meeting of the Sun Beam Mission Band was held on Saturday afternoon in the Sunday School rooms with the newly elected officers for the year taking their places.

The meeting opened with playing a game and the singing of a hymn. The treasurer's report was given. Nine members responded to the roll call with the name of a winter bird. The theme of the worship service was "Learning to be a good Christian". Ronald Sherry read the Scripture Lesson. A story was read by Ruth Jones. Sentence prayers were given by five members and the president.

It was decided during the business period to have a Valentine party and to have lunch at the next meeting. Jean Vance took up the offering and the offertory prayer was given by the president. The meeting closed with the Lord's prayer.

Hastings Crop Improvement Association Elects Officers

Stirling — The Hastings County Soil and Crop Improvement Association held the annual business meeting and election of officers for 1940 on Friday afternoon in the Agricultural Hall. Col. Roscoe Vanderwater, president of the Association, acted as chairman. During the business part of the meeting it was decided that a seed display would be sponsored by the association to be held in conjunction with a special association meeting in March of this year. The main feature of the day's program was an address by O. McConkey, B.S.A., M.S., Ph.D., Department of Field Husbandry, Ontario Agricultural College, speaking on the subject of Lower Costs and Higher Feeding Values. Tests carefully made prove that early cut hay contain higher feeding value, cutting hay early for high protein content is a measure of economy that will become part of the wartime program of the Department.

Recent cost studies show that, apart from pasture, hay is the cheapest feed produced on Ontario farms. The comparative cost of producing a ton of digestible nutrients from the different crops is as follows: Pasture mixture $5.66; alfalfa hay $11.86; Red Clover hay $13.50; corn silage $19.16; Mangles $35.19; oats (grain) $36.81; none of these crops should be neglected but under the pressure of war conditions special attention should be given those produced at the lowest cost. The foundation of the dairying industry is largely in feed crop and improved pasture for herds, the pprotein and vitamin content of grasses, "this natural food", has at last been acknowledged by science to the extent the dried grass for human consumption is now being sold by druggists in all parts of the country. These tablets, some of which were displayed by the speaker, ppossess all necessary vitamins.

By means of illustrated charts the speaker lectured on the value of crop mixture, soil treatment and other methods of crop improvement that would be beneficial to Ontario farmers in their effort to grow at the lowest cost the feed with highest vitamin and protein content which make for greater production of mild and consequently higher standards in all branches of the dairy industry. One of the main pasture problems of Ontario is to bridge the period of low production during the hot dry weather of July and August when the production of milk drops 30 to 40 per cent. Some of the special crops useful for this purpose are oats and sweet clover, one of the most midely grown emergency pasture mixtures, is sown at the rate of 2½ bushels of oats and 20 pounds of scarified sweet clover seed per acre. This mixture has the added advantage that sweet clover can be used the following year for pasture, hay or silage. The addition of 4 or 5 pounds of orchard grass to the above mixture gives a better balanced feed. Sudan grass is noted for its ability to stand dry weather and is seeded in the latter part of May in a mixture of two to three bushels of oats and 20 pounds of Sudan grass.

Corn is also widely used as green feed to help bridge this dry period.

The results of experimentation with cutting legume grass mixtures early and ensiling with molasses would indicate that this may be a satisfactory method of feeding and carrying the herd over this dry period of pasture shortage. The early cutting gives additional advantage of providing more aftermath pasture."

Farmers from all parts of the county were present for the meeting and President Roscoe Vanderwater expressed the thanks of those present to Dr. McConkey for his instructive address.

Election of Officers.

Reports of the various crop improvement project undertaken during 1939 were presented by representatives of various townships and in many cases satisfactory progress had been observed. The election of officers for the year 1940 resulted in the following gentlemen being selected to direct the activities of the organization for the coming year:

President, Col. Roscoe Vanderwater, Foxboro; vice-president, J. McCaffery, Madoc; treasurer, Patrick O'Keefe, Belleville; secretary, H. L. Fair, Stirling.

Directors—Sidney, Messrs. Roscoe Vanderwater and J. M. Carl; Rawdon, Messrs. J. B. Thompson and Geo. Thompson; Thurlow, F. Treverton, C. Ketcheson; Madoc, J. McCaffery, Maurice Reynolds; Huntingdon, J. C. Sills, Cecil Woods; Tyendinaga, Jos. Walsh, Herman Claus; Hungerford, Bruce Pringle, Chas. Rees; Marmora, W. Peck; Elzevir, J. Moore; Limerick, O. Alyea.

SCENES BY ACE NEWS PHOTOGRAPHER AS RED ARMY THROWN BACK

The employers of Frank Muto, ace newspaper photographer, were considerably worried when he disappeared from sight after covering the German invasion of Poland. Their anxiety was heightened due to their failure to receive even an expense account from their ace cameraman. Unheard from for several weeks, Muto turned up in Finland and began sending out pictures of the Russian invasion. These scenes were photographed by Mr. Muto, who has attached himself to the Finnish headquarters. Proving an invaluable aid to the Finns in their amazing resistance of the Russian forces, the weather has even provided natural "iceboxes", where food for the Finnish troops is kept. A soldier is shown, UPPER LEFT, examining slain swine, which are kept in perfect condition by the freezing weather until time for use. Finnish boys are now veterans at bomb-dodging and these boys, UPPER CENTRE, take to the ditch and keep well down during one of the many air raids on Helsingfors. A detachment of Finnish soldiers who have taken such terrible toll on the ranks of the Russians, is shown, UPPER RIGHT, about to be hauled by sled to the firing line. Some of the hundreds of tanks, captured by the Finns during fierce fighting on the Salla front, are shown, LOWER LEFT. Found with hands and feet frozen, these ill-clad Russian soldiers, LOWER RIGHT, were taken prisoner by the Finnish forces.

BRITISH TROOPS CELEBRATE NEW YEAR'S DAY ON WESTERN FRONT

The lighter and grimmer sides of war are depicted in these pictures of British troops on the western front, which have been released by the British censor. Tommies on duty at the front celebrated New Year's, LEFT, with the customary party spirit, that included paper hats and music. A grimmer task fell to the lot of the Bren machine-gun crew, RIGHT, in the nest they burrowed in the snow that blanketed this part of the front.

Queen and Princesses Buy With Shoppers In Department Store

King's Lynn, England, Jan. 13—(CP)—Department store shoppers in this ancient Norfolk seaport had a surprise today when they found the Queen, with Princesses Elizabeth and Margaret Rose, making purchases beside them.

The royal party motored from Sandringham and spent nearly an hour shipping at a sale. The Queen bought furniture, drapery and millinery, while the Princesses helped make the selections.

A crowd cheered them as they left the store for the return trip to Sandringham House.

Cannifton

Cannifton, Jan. 13.—Mr. and Mrs. Charles Matthews and Hilda spent Sunday with Mrs. Matthew's brother and wife, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Cannon.

Mrs. Hearns, Sr., is very seriously ill at Mrs. Harry Cairns.

Miss Alice Lywood has been ill.

Mr. Jay Collins of Belleville was the week-end guest of his sister, Mrs. George Shorey.

Friends of Mrs. Harry Farnham are glad to know she is much improved from her recent illness.

Mrs. A. Holgate is confined to her bed through illness.

Mr. and Mrs. Ed Shorey spent the week-end with their daughter, Mr. and Mrs. B. Lemmon of Toronto.

Mr. Stanley Hayden of Halloway spent the dinner hour on Wednesday at Mrs. Harry Cairn's.

Mrs. Clarence Hearns, Jr., is feeling much better under Dr. Helliwell's care.

Sacrifice to Avoid Inflation and Post-War Slump

Glasgow, Jan. 13—(CP) — Sir John Simon, Chancellor of the Exchequer, urged Britain to greater sacrifices today in order to "continue the war without inflation" and "avoid a post war slump."

"The medicine may seem drastic and unpleasant, but the disease may be more unpleasant," Sir John told a St. Andrew's hall audience in the second of a series of talks inaugurated by Prime Minister Chamberlain Jan. 9.

He asserted it was imperative to restrict consumption further both to provide war funds and limit competition.

"One of the reasons for the severest budget the British people have ever had to face," the chancellor said "is to raise the largest possible sum for the first year of the war. The budget is designed to discourage unnecessary spending by diverting the larger part of the national income into essential businesses providing war supplies."

40 BOMBS FALL ON HELSINGFORS

Soviet Russian Bombers Raid Southern Finland, One Bomber Forced Down

Helsingfors, Jan. 13—(AP)—Soviet Russian bombers raided Southern Finland today, killing two persons and wounding four in Helsingfors alone.

Some buildings were destroyed and others damaged in the Southwestern section of the capital, which had escaped being bombed in yesterday's raids.

Other cities struck included Hyvinkaa, north of Helsingfors, where the Russian squadrons carried out two attacks.

(Hyvinkaa is about 30 miles airline due north of Helsingfors. It is on a railroad line running inland from the capital).

About 40 bombs fell on Helsingfors.

One of the bombers was reported forced down.

The raiders took advantage of perfect weather for their purpose—excellent visibility and high-riding clouds which permitted them to appear and disappear almost at will.

Ebbie Goodfellow of Wings Keeping His Team From Falling Through Bottom of League

Gives Best Display of Season by Scoring Twice as His Team Beats Amerks.

IMPORTANT WEEKEND

Rangers Can Set New Record for Consecutive Games Without Defeat by Taking Leafs

By JACK CALDER
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

There is no place in the shadows for Ebenezer Goodfellow, the converted forward from Ottawa who captains, plays defence and leads the attack for Detroit's National Hockey League club.

Defencemen on other failing teams usually miss the spotlight almost entirely, but Ebbie—a high-spirited, high-scoring forward in the Red Wings' better days—has become a cool, calculating ice general in his efforts to keep the team from falling through the bottom of the league.

Goodfellow gave his best display of the season last night against New York Americans at Detroit, scoring twice and sinking the clinching goal with less than three minutes to play in his team's 4-2 victory. The Red Wings rose from the cellar into sixth place behind Montreal Canadiens in the standing, while the Americans remained alone at the bottom.

Goodfellow's spectacular show touched off a week-end of important battling, which will include New York Rangers' attempt to set a new league record against the Maple Leafs at Toronto tonight and the Red Wings' return game with the Americans at New York tomorrow.

Can Surpass Mark.

The Rangers, looking more and more like the team of the year, will seek to extend their streak of games without defeat to 19. If they do, they will surpass the mark set by Montreal Canadiens in 1927-28.

A great winning team must ride along without too many bad breaks and the Rangers so far have scarcely been touched by injuries. The Maple Leafs will play tonight without Syl Apps, Gordon Drillon and Nick Metz—all of whom are on the injured list—but Rookie Lex Chisholm will return to the lineup.

Montreal Canadiens seem to be in for a night of it at Boston tomorrow, for Manager Art Ross has promised that the Bruins will return to "bruising, bodychecking, rough" hockey without further notice. To add to their grief the Canadiens must play without speedy George Mantha, victim of a practice session injury.

Ross called newspapermen to his hotel room at Toronto last night and informed them elaborately that the Bruins have been playing "mild hockey" and it has done them no good. From now on, he said, the big bears from Boston will "lay it on", because they haven't enjoyed injuries to such stars as Roy Conacher and Mel Hill.

Pettinger Fined.

A few hours later Ross announced that Gordon Pettinger, valuable reserve forward, has been fined, suspended and shipped back to Boston for refusing to help the Bruin farm club at Hershey by playing a few games during an injury streak.

If the Rangers get over tonight's hurdle, they can go on to new honors tomorrow when they play the Black Hawks at Chicago. It was against the Hawks at New York on Thursday that the Rangers tied the Canadiens' record with a 5-3 victory.

But little more momentous than Goodfellow's showing before a small crowd at Detroit can happen during the week-end. After Heoley Smith of the Americans had matched Conny Brown's first-period goal, Goodfellow sent Detroit ahead to stay in the second period on a pass from Brown.

Detroit took a 3-1 lead on Alex Motter's goal, scored with Brown's aid, but Harvey Jackson narrowed the gap before the second period ended. The Americans were threatening repeatedly when Goodfellow netted the clinching score in the late minutes.

Shawinigan Falls Rallies to Win

Quebec, Jan. 13 —(CP)— Shawinigan Falls Cataracts came from behind a two-goal deficit last night to defeat Quebec Beavers 3-2 in a Provincial Senior Hockey League contest.

It was Fernand Gauthier's third period goal, his second of the night, that gave the last-place Cataracts their win over the revamped Beavers. Quebec, with three recruits from their junior team, took a two-goal lead in the first period on tallies by Emile Fortin and Ed Mentzel. Paul Goulet and Gauthier tied it up in the second.

Paul Drolet, rookie Quebec goaler, was carried from the ice halfway through the second period when he stopped a puck with his face. Ken McKinnon, the regular goaler, replaced him for the rest of the game.

MILT SCHMIDT

Boston Bruins.

Among the National League's three or four best centres is Milton C. Schmidt, who plays between Porky Dumart and Bobby Bauer to form Boston Bruins' highly effective "Kraut line." Milt is the highest scoring and most penalized player of the trio, although the margin between any of them is very slight. Like his companions he was signed in 1936-37, spending part of that season with Providence and part with Bruins, and then the following season starting their great play as an attacking unit. Milt got 10 points his first season, 27 his second and 32 last year, his totals until the beginning of the current schedule in all departments being 30 goals, 39 assists and 43 minutes in penalties. He's a great play-maker for his wings and can barge through alone when necessary, being one of the best of the few good body-checking forwards in the game. Good on defence as well as offence, and generally has all the attributes of an outstanding player, though many fans expected him to do just about everything, including swing on the rink girders, after Art Ross ranked him up with Russell Bowie, Howie Morenz, Cyclone Taylor and others as an all-time centre earlier this season. Born in Kitchener 22 years ago. Weighs around 170 pounds.

BROWN BOMBER HAS NO IDEA OF RETIRING

Expects to Defend Heavyweight Title Four Times This Year

NOW IN TRAINING

Will Meet Arturo Godby in New York on February 9th

By SID FEDER
(Associated Pres Sports Writer)

Pompton Lakes, N.J., Jan. 13 (AP). — Joe Louis' longing look followed the well-cleaned remains of a platter of fried chicken through the door into the kitchen.

"There," he sighed wistfully, "goes the only thing I'm retiring from jus' now. That fried chicken and pork chops are awful good, but old Chappie (trainer Jack Blackburn) says they don't go 'long with my training.

"But that's all the retiring I got on my mind. That talk about retiring from the ring? Huh. What have I got to retire from?"

The heavyweight champion seemed to have something there. He was fresh from two weeks of light work on his farm near Detroit as he began training for his Feb. 9 title defence against Arturo Godoy in New York. At 208 pounds, he appeared as fit as the evening last September when his bombs caught up with Bob Pastor.

Fight Till 1941.

"Nuthin' to this retirement business," he explained between lazy yawns. "I want to defend the title four times again this year, same as last, and I want four more in 1941. After that we'll sit down and look over the retirement set-up."

"It's his idea exclusively to have four title fights this year again," John Roxborough, his co-manager, said. "It was also his sole idea to go to his farm ten days before Christmas to start light work. Julian Black (the other co-manager) and I hadn't intended to have him begin until after Jan. 1."

Joe is more particular about the exact color of one of his dazzling creations in suits than he is about the identity of his opponents.

"Jus' give me anybody," he said. "Whether it's one or the other, you gotta go in there and punch. I'm anxious to see how Valentin Campolo (recently-arrived Argentine) shapes up. He may turn out to be a good opponent. We also hear good reports about this young fella from Des Moines, Lee Savold.

"An', boy, I just hope that Billy Conn wakes up some nice mornin' weighing 190 pounds. He's been talking mighty fresh lately."

Sports Roundup

(By Eddie Brietz, Associated Press Sports Writer)

New York, Jan. 13—(AP)—Chitter chatter: Shifting of Pastor vs Burman from Miami to Detroit will be celebrated with a turkey and champagne party at Jack Demsey's spot today. Hold a seat for us, Butch....Jack Jackson of the New Mexico state basketeers who played here last night, has just inherited $50,000 which he'll collect in ten $5,000 installments....The N. Y. Rangers needn't brag so about their 18 straight hockey games without a loss. The Mankato team of the Southern Minnesota League has brought home the bacon 33 times in a row.

What becomes of the poor collitch athlete? A survey of former Northwestern University athletes who won letters in college show 300 are in sales work; 88 in law; 56 in dentistry; 50 in teaching; 43 in medicine and 25 in big executive posts in the business world.

Selected shorts: Don Meade's mounts won a total of $343,427 last year....Joe Jacobs who is in the boxing commission's dog house, may be given a temporary licence to second Tony Galento in a fight with Max Baer for the Finnish Relief Fund....If and when Judge Landis should declare Rudy York a free agent, baseball men say he'll be able to command $75,000 from either the Yanks or the Red Sox merely for signing a contract....

The Dodgers have finally given up on Medwick and are concentrating on Don Padgett....If boxing ever gets around to hiring a czar, the New Jersey vote will go to ex-mayor Jimmy Walker.... New York baseball writers can't agree whether Ed Barrow or Freddie Fitzsimmons talked Brooklyn into giving Wes Ferrell another change....Frank G. Menke, then from there is none whomer when it comes to press agenting, has signed up to help make this year's Kentucky Derby bigger and better than ever....Nate Lewis, veteran Chicago fight manager, who was Harry Thomas' pilot, says the Thomas confession has helped rather than hurt pro boxing out his way....Chicago's feelings are hurt because Mike Jacobs snubbed its bid for Billy Conn vs the Apostoli-Bettina winner, now scheduled for Miami.

PICTON KIDS TIE TRENTON AT 5-5

Trenton, Jan. 13 — (Special)— Picton Juniors came close to winning a game here last night when they tied the Trenton Rotarians 1-5 in a game that went the full sixty minutes and ten minutes extra. The Picton team started well and ran up a lead of three goals before the locals took the situation in hand aud turned the tables on the visiting six.

In the opening period Platford took a neat pass from Pike to put the visitors on top, but a minute later the count was evened by Inglis, who beat Cork from close in. Platford grabbed more glory a few minutes later when he netted Picton's second goal. The second stanza saw Biddell skate into the picture and out-guess Anderson for the visitor's third tally and there was no more scoring until McColl of Trenton tucked the biscuit into the Picton twine at 15.08. Platford tallied his third of the evening a minute later and Mason put the enemy three up six seconds afterwards. Trenton rallied faintly when Reid scored Watson's assist as the period ended.

Two Goals Downs

Two down and twenty minutes to go the locals went out on the ice in the last period to win and they hurled everything they had at the tiring Pictonites who up until that time had withstood the onslaught admireably well. Out of the bombardment that followed Burtt scored at 8.01 and then went to the cooler with Pike when the pair became involved in a fight that drew major penalties for each aspirant. Both sides were a man short when Roblin was banished, leaving Picton only three men on the ice. Mr. Cork held off the Trenton rushes until his team was back to equal strength and there was every indication that Picton would return home with a victory when Russ Weller threw works and collected the tieing goal which bounced off a Picton player's chest into his own cage, behind the bewildered Mr. Cork.

The Rotarians were swarming around the Picton goal as the regular time was up. Trenton had the better of the play in the overtime period and Picton looked bad when Orser was in the doghouse and his team was shorthanded. In a few words, Trenton was much better on the play but Picton took better advantage of scoring opportunities and seemed to be at home on the slow ice-surface.

The teams:—Picton—Goal, Cork; defence, Hicks, Roblin; centre, Mason; wings, VanDusen, Frederick; alternates, Platford, O'Neil, Biddell, Pike. Trenton—Goal, Anderson; defence, Burtt, Orser; centre, Inglis; wings, Reid, Watson; alternates, White, Woodcock, Weller, Campbell, McColl.

Rangers' Record Does Not Dim That Of 1928 Canadiens

Chicago, Jan. 13 (AP)—Record-breakers or not, there is little New York Rangers can do to dim the brilliance of those famous Flying Frenchmen, the Montreal Canadiens of 1927-28.

True, the Rangers have not lost a National Hockey League game in almost two months, winning or tying 18 games in a row, equalling the streak set by the Canadiens twelve years ago. The Rangers need a victory or tie tonight against Toronto Maple Leafs to eclipse the record of the Flying Frenchmen.

Since Nov. 23 the Rangers, with fifteen men on the squad, have won 13 games and tied five, scoring 69 goals to their opponents' 28 and Goaler Dave Kerr has recorded three shutouts in that streak.

Still the subject of controversy as to woetoer ne will ever be a suitable opponent for Joe Louis in the heavyweight ranks, Billy Conn, light heavyweight champion, scored his second win in the no-limit classification when he outpointed Henry Cooper in New York recently. He had previously beaten Gus Dorazio. In this picture, Conn, a fancy boxer with little punch, exhibits his favorite weapon, a stinging left to Mr. Cooper's nose, a blow that reddens the nose, piles up points and in most cases leads to victory.

STIRLING H. S. DEFEATS TWEED

Students Put on Interesting Game Before Slim Crowd

Stirling, Jan. 13—(Special)—The students of Stirling High School gave the local fans a treat to the best game of hockey seen in the Stirling rink this season when before a comparatively small crowd they defeated the visiting Tweed team in a fast clean game. Don Francis got the first tally after four minutes batting in a pass from Bill McGee five minutes later. Trudeau scored for Tweed. Within a minute the visitors tallied again from the stick of Luffman. McGee tied it up early in the second period on a solo effort and Luffman got his second tally to tie the score Doyle put the visitors in the lead scoring on a shot from centre ice. Rowan Walker scored Stirling's third tally to end the period with the visitors leading 4-3.

Scoring Bee in Final Period

In the final period Stirling turned on the heat and showered the Tweed net from every angle. Pyear tied the score on a pass from Walker who later put the locals in the lead on a solo effort. Pyear got his second tally from a pass by J. Walker and Rowan Walker clicked for the final goal of the game which ended 7-4 for Stirling. Luffman was the most effective for the visitors while R. Walker starred for the locals and brother Jack and R. Pyear were next in line for stellar performances.

Teams:—Stirling—Goal, Tanner; defence, McGee and Walker; centre, R. Walker; wings, Pyear and Francis; subs, Vandervoort, Bastedo, McIntosh, Lummiss and Murray. Tweed—Goal, Wagar; defence, G. Wagar, A. Cournyea; C. Bergeron; wings, Luffman and Doyle; subs, Trudeau, Langevin and Vance.

Chicago University Not Willing to Buy Winning Team

Chicago, Jan. 13—(AP)—University of Chicago students have Dr. Robert Hutchins' word for it—intercollegiate football was abolished because the institution was not willing to buy a winning team.

The 40-year-old educationist told the students why football was abandoned and discussed undergraduate life in general yesterday in his first appearance before the student body since 1935. He has been president since 1929.

Admitting that winning football can be a boon, he said there was "one way in which we could win."

"We could subsidize players or encourage our alumni to do so," Dr. Hutchins explained. "Many of the students and alumni with whom I have talked have urged upon me what they call 'legitimate' subsidization. I am sorry to tell you that there is no such thing under the big 10 league rules. The University could not break the rule."

Chicago bowed out of the football picture three weeks ago after suffering another in a long line of disastrous seasons. Not since 1936 had the Maroons won a single conference victory. "Coach without a team," Clark Shaughnessy resigned only two days ago to accept a job as head football coach at Stanford University.

Dr. Hutchins thinks there are plenty of other sports to take the place of football. He pointed out that Chicago has won more league titles in the past six years than any other school except Michigan and added that the school was planning to enlarge its intramural and intercollegiate program.

"I say that a university must emphasize education and not athletics and social life," he added. "I do not say that a University must be all stedy and no athletics and social life."

Wild Bill Longson Defeats Savoldi

Toronto, Jan. 13 CP)—Wild Bill Longson, Salt Lake City, defeated Joe Savoldi of Three Oaks, Mich., in the headline bout of a wrestling show here last night. Longson weighed 225 and Savoldi 215. Savoldi was counted out in 40 minutes and five seconds when he was thrown out of the ring and was unable to get back.

In the semi-final Gus Sonnenberg of Lynn, Mass., at 225, defeated Mark Hosley of Sweden with a flying tackle in 16:35.

No sport ever adopted by Canadians ever made such tremendous strides in public popularity as has skiing during the past decade. Very few skiers graced the many Canadian slopes, with the odd few winter resorts as an exception, ten years ago, but today skiing is enjoyed by all walks of life and is rapidly advancing to become Canada's leading individual winter sporting recreation. Besides being a recreation for the more conservative skier, skiing is also a competitive sport, but regardless as to the style adopted it is one of the most thrilling recreations of the age. Every Canadian can't play hockey, but it would be possible for every Canadian to ski if one so desired. Incidentally the world's record for long distance skiing at the highest possible speed is 5590 miles covered in approximately six months. The journey was undertaken in 1935 by five Russians and extended from the Ural Mountains to Murmanski, above the Arctic circle. Skiing is man's oldest form of travel over the ice and snow. Commencing Monday in this paper is a series of illustrated articles on the basic principles of skiing.

Proving far superior on heavy ice, the Peterboro' Petes skated to 9 to 5 win over the Air Force Flyers last night in their first meeting. A capacity house witnessed the game, that was played on soft heavy ice, but apparently not too heavy for Coach Frank Buckland's laddies. Play was rather even in the initial period when the homesters led 2-1, but in the middle session the Petes rapped home four counters while Coach Holway's "birdmen" notched but two as the home sextette raced rough-shod over the Flyers in that middle session attack. The win gives the Petes their second victory in the group, having beaten the Redmen 14 to 4 three weeks ago. The Liftlock City squad seems to be a well-balanced team, but their true test will be seen when they meet the Flyers here on Tuesday next. The Petes scored with a marked degree of consistency last night, getting two in the first, four in the middle session and three in the last frame.

Claiming the Air Force defence was practically impregnable, the Kingston sports scribe gives much credit for Toots Holway's rearguard work of the "birdmen" when they beat Queens seniors 2-1 in the Van Horne finals on Wednesday. Scribe Walshe says: "Cameron, Higgins and Irvin held their defence positions to perfection, giving Gibson grand protection and handed Queens some solid body bumps." Coach Holway has been working feverishly with his defence in an effort to keep down the opponents' scoring, but it apparently collapsed last night. Some coaches stress offensive play as the best defence possible, contending that when in possession of the puck the opposition has no chance to score. Continuing about Wednesday's game the Kingston scribe adds:

"A few more games of hockey like the one between Trenton and Queen's in the Van Horne finals last night and fans will start crowding the Jock Harty Arena again. Wide open, high speed action with the Tricolor adopting a new fore-checking five-man attack and brilliant defence play by the Birdmen, combined to put on a hockey show that would please any puck patron. Trenton squeezed out with a win in defence of the Kingston League senior title but the final is far from settled as the students should be much stronger in the next game."

Not satisfied with realizing the hope of every golfer, shooting a hole in one, Joe Legault, who entered the honorable golfing ranks of the "oner" last fall, added further laurels to his alley bowling prowess. The other night at the Recreation Alleys, and while in league play, Joe rolled a neat 416. In rolling this fine single score Joe Legault beat the existing alley record in league play and equalled the Alley record of individual effort at any time. Dave Tobe rolled 416 in a practice game some years ago, while Walter Baker rolled 415 in league play last year. There has never been a perfect game rolled in Belleville to our knowledge, but 416 is really toppling the timber on any alley.

Do you remember when Colonel Jacob Ruppert died at the age of 71, a year ago today? Ruppert worked for years to make his New York Yankees the team which won four straight world series, including one the season after his death. Ruppert, with Colonel Til Huston, bought the Yankees, then the Highlanders, for $365,000 in 1914.

Writing in the Tweed News, Sam Curry has the following two interesting district sports notes:—

"Glenn Brydson, erstwhile Kaladar hotelman and until a short time ago, a member of The New Haven Eagles, has been loaned to the Indiannapolis team. Glenn has been playing good hockey since joining Indianapolis. He is subject to 24-hour recall by the Eagles."

"Harry Moore's Trenton Couriers will be missed from the league this year as the newspaper boys always put up a good, clean game and took their defeats like gentlemen. Mr. Moore tried without success to introduce Trent Valley Hockey to his home town but meagre crowds and heavy expenses forced him to give up the ship."

After losing two straight the Picton juniors rallied in Trenton last night to hold the homesters to a five-all tie in overtime, making Referee "Bouncer" Holway get in a little overtime with no time-and-a-half for that extra ten minutes. As was the case in Peterboro, however, the Trenton ice was heavy and the going tedious. Picton and Trenton are staging a sturdy battle for the second place in the district junior loop and next week the local kids visit both Trenton and Picton in games that will perhaps determine the final standing.

SPORT SPICE—The R.C.A.F. Airmen's intermediate basketball quintette lost to the Queen's seconds 30 to 23 in an O.B.A. fixture last night. . . . Bill Hastie and Tabby Gow accounted for four of Gananoque's six goals as "Gan" beat Queen's 6-1 last night. . . . Although it might be a little early for predictions, like the Peterboro' scribe, we'll point a hefty finger at Gananoque for the group title. . . . Belleville's loss was Gananoque's gain in the Gow-Hastie deal. . . . Art Ross slapped an indefinite suspension on Gordon Pettinger who refused to be sent down the river. . . . Maybe Pettinger feels that once on the skids he would remain a minor leaguer, so prefers to be a bench-warmer in the N.H.L. . . . The Bob Pastor-Red Burman bout has been switched from Miami to Detroit.

Tricolor Defeats Birdmen 30-23

Kingston, Jan. 13.—Queen's defeated Trenton R.C.A.F. 30 to 23 in the Eastern Ontario Association intermediate basketball game in the Queen's gym last night. It was the first game of the eastern schedule. Harrington, Whyte and McLellan led the Tricolor scorers. The score at half-time was 12-all.

The Signal Corps withdrew its entry from the league, and at a meeting last night Smith's Falls was accepted to fill the vacancy. In a junior Eastern Ontario game Queen's juniors defeated Queen's Orphans 44 to 22.

Intermediates — Robertson, Harrington (7), Williams, Polowin (2), McLellan (5), Lewis (4), Simpson 3), Estaugh 1), Whyte (8).

Trenton—McCam, Cutting, Carson (3), Bailey (4), Power (4), Fallis (4), Snow 4), Barkirk 4).

Referee—Joe Hova.

HEATING HINTS
by James Stewart

OFTENTIMES during the winter when the heat is on, the air in your rooms becomes dry. And, as you know, many winter colds are caused by hot, dry air. It also causes furniture to dry out and crack.

This condition can easily be remedied by keeping a "pan humidifier", or hot water pan, in each room. These pans are designed to hang unseen between the radiator and the wall. The heat from the radiator causes the water in the pan to evaporate and thus provide moisture for the air in the room preventing it from becoming too dry.

Warm Air Heating Plants have a humidifier pan connected to them. In this case, it is only necessary to keep a constant supply of water in the humidifier pan. (15)

R.A.F. Pilot Dives "Accidentally" at 650-700 M.P.H.

London, Jan. 13 (CP Cable) — A young Royal Air Force pilot has just "accidentally" flown a Spitfire fighter at a speed of 650 to 700 miles an hour, it has been disclosed.

(The speed accepted to date as the highest made in an aeroplane is 575 miles an hour made by test Pilot Lloyd Child in a Curtiss Hawk 75A pursuit plane at Buffalo, N.Y., Jan. 23, 1939. Child was testing the first of 200 planes which the French Government bought from the Curtiss Company, and now is using on the Western Front.)

After climbing to 23,000 feet, the pilot lost consciousness because of lack of oxygen. The next thing he knew his machine was travelling at terrific speed in a vertical dive.

Though there was grave danger that in pulling the machine out of the dive he might suffer a mental blackout caused by the draining of blood from the brain when a violent change in direction takes place, the pilot managed to switch to a vertical climb.

He noted the speed of his climb at 400 m.p.h. Expert estimates are that the aircraft must have been travelling at least 650 m.p.h. during the dive, says an authoritative account of the feat.

Both the engine and frame of the plane are being examined following the tremendous strain and it is believed important data may be obtained.

AT THE BELLE

"The Roaring Twenties"

Making its Belleville debut at the Belle today is "The Roaring Twenties" co-starring James Cagney and Priscilla Lane. The film which deals with the turbulent decade following the World War, is based on an original story by Mark Hellinger, ace columnist.

"The Roaring Twenties" is the autobiography of a nation on a jag. The day of the flapper and the speakeasy, of mob rule, of fantastic prosperity—in short, the most glittering, gaudy and fantastic age in history, is recreated on the screen as the backgound for a vivid and compelling story of a man who rises to the heights of power only to be smashed into the oblivious when the era comes to an end.

In France, as the war ends, three soldiers (played by Cagney, Jeffrey Lynn and Humphrey Bogart) make joyful plans for their return to America. One plans to go beak to his job as a garage mechanic, another is going to start his law practice, the third, scoffing at talk of prohibition, intends to go back to saloon-keeping. Cagney is also looking forward to meeting the girl who has been writing him cheery letters throughout the war. But in the world to which they return their plans are no longer feasible. Cagney, whose job has long since been filled, has to drive a cab, and this soon puts him on to the bootlegging racket. Meanwhile he has met his unknown sweetheart. He has also made contact with his wartime buddies and Bogart, who has been working with a rival bootlegging gang, joins up with him. He retains Lynn to handle the somewhat shady legal end of his transactions. Riding on the crest of the wave, they all rise to the top with him but in the crash, Cagney goes under first.

Brilliantly directed by Raoul Walsh, (who was responsible for that all-time hit, "What Price Glory?). Besides those mentioned the cast includes Gladys George, Frank McHugh and Paul Kelly.

"Sniffle and the Bookworm" a funny comicolor cartoon and the popular Belle overseas and Canadian Newsreel will be exhibited on the same program.

AT THE McCARTHY

"TOWER OF LONDON"

Pages of history are turned back and pomp and pageantry of Old England are re-lived in superscreen fashion in the most-talked-about motion picture to be produced in the year 1939, "Tower of London," which will open next at the McCarthy Theatre.

Although the cinema is Hollywood at its best in swiftness of action, spectacular quality of photography, and glamorous scenes, it is basically English and follows the tradition of English and Empire films which began with "Cavalcade" and continued with "Lives of a Bengal Lancer" and a score of others.

The Lee brothers, Rowland and Robert, respectively director and writer of the screen play, first chose a grim and impressive setting for the picture, embodied some of the greatest tragedies of the British Royal House in its makeup, and added scenes of battle and execution to give it realism. It is particularly topical today when the age-old Tower of London may any time be the locale of newer justice and tragedy, after trials for espionage or high treason.

Callousness of the Tudor years, and indifference to human life are reflected in the story which marches through the reigns of Henry VII, Edward IV, and Richard III, Basil Rathbone gives a most convincing and retrained portrayal of Richard III and is ably supported by Barbara O'Neil as Queen Elizabeth, Ian Hunter as Edward IV, Vincent Price, Nan Grey, John Sutton and others.

Costumes of the screening are in accord with historic research and battles where men meet face to face with spear, sword and shield come as a welcome relief to war conditions of today where men are hunted down by weapons and methods which they never even see.

GLEN ROSS AND FOXBORO WIN IN RURAL LOOP

Ivanhoe Defeated 6-1 by Foxboro, While Glenn Ross Blanks "Irish"

LARGE ATTENDANCE

Both Games Provided Onlookers With Plenty of Thrills

Stirling, January 13—(Special)—The largest crowd to witness a hockey match at the Stirling Arena was on hand on Friday night, when in a double feature of the Hasting Rural Loop Glen Ross shut out the fighting "Irish" from Zion Hill 4-0 and Foxboro trimmed Ivanhoe 6-1. All teams had plenty of support and the brand of hockey dished up by these farm lads is catching on. The rink was lined on both sides and the games provided the onlookers with plenty of thrills. Much credit is due such men as H. L. Fair, President of the league and such managers as Roblin Dulmage, Jack Armstrong, Jack Stewart, Noel Guay, Sam Delve in their display of co-operation, which is boosting the league over the top. President Fair is present at every game and keenly interested in the progress made. Treasurer Roy Juby and Secretary Art Duncan are also proud of the efforts of each club to make this year a bumper one.

First Game Won by Foxboro

In the first half of the double header Jack Stewart's "Foxes" from Foxboro outskated the new Ivanhoe entry to the tune of six to one, a score which in reality was not a true indication of the play. The losers playing shorthanded put up a real game, but displayed weakness from the blueline back. Their defence needs strengthening and Delve's netminding is "just mediocre." However, it's too early to size them up yet, and they'll be in there trying all the way.

Grant Wright, Noel Guay, Normie Walt and Spencer, each rapped a counter past Delve in the first fifteen minutes of play. The first two counters coming from scrambles in front of the Ivanhoe nets and Spencer scoring along with Walt getting the other on a pass from Gough. Grant Wright got the only counter of the middle frame. Gordie Walt clicked for his second goal of the evening in the last period. "Stew" Kirby was responsible for the Ivanhoe tally just before the game ended. Woods and Cooke served the only two penalties of the game.

The line-ups—Foxboro —goal — Guay; defence—Noel Guay, G. Walt; centre—Grant Wright; wings—Spencer and Thompson; subs—L. Gough, Dafoe, Gay and F. Guay.

Ivanhoe—goal—Delve; defence—Don Reid, A. Ray; centre—Cooke; wings—Kirby and Woods; subs—Downey and Fleming.

Glen Ross Gets Shutout

The second half of the bill brought together Glen Ross and Zion with the former gaining their first shutout of the year, downing the "Irish" 4-0 in a game that was sprinkled with dash and colour and a little rough-house thrown in. Doug "Pepper" Martin, was responsible for the four counters with playmaker R. Pyear giving him plenty of the right kind of help. The first period was without a penalty, but elbows flew high in the second and third periods and wound up in a slight tussle between Ray Dickey and Gerry Fraser. Pyear gave Martin the pass for his first goal in the first two minutes of play. He got his second unassisted at the ten-minute mark and took the pass again from Pyear for his third tally. The final counter came after 16 minutes of the second period scored again by Martin from Pyear.

There was no score in the final period but several penalties were necessary to hold the boys in check when they were inclined to act a bit tough Referee Hulin got tough too, and chased them to the cooler. The climax of continual ragging on both sides came when Ray Dickey and Gerry Fraser clashed in a brief bout and had to be parted. The game with this exception was fast and clean and all four teams have won the admiration of a large following with the season but begun. Ray Dickey, Simms, Brough and Ketcheson went well for the "Irish" with their goal-tender Gifford playing well below par. Gifford ranked high as a goal tender last season, but seems slow to hit form this year. Brown and Armstrong teamed well on the "Riversides" with Doug Martin being the "star" of the evening, and the Pyears playing bang-up games.

The line-ups—goal —Hagerman; defence—Brown and Fraser; centre —Martin; wings—G. Pyear and R. Pyear; subs—Armstrong, MacDonald and Brooks.

Zions—goal—Gifford; defence — Bedford and Dickey; centre — Brough; wings — Ketcheson and Falkner; subs—J. Ray; Ed Simms; G. Tummon. Referee—Jim "Buck" Hulin, Stirling.

Peterboro' Intermediates Ground Air Force 'Flyers' by 9-5 Score

Frank Buckland's well-drilled Peterboro intermediates rang-up their second consecutive Intermediate "A" victory in the O.H.A. when they grounded the R.C.A.F. "Flyers" 9 to 5 in the Peterboro band-box arena last night. The teams battled at somewhat even terms until the homesters forged well into the lead late in the middle session. The score by periods was 2-1 and 6-3 for the Petes.

Bun Kingdon opened the scoring for the homesters, but McLeod evened the count later as Tompkins, former Belleville winger, put the Petes ahead once again, but Lemieux knotted the count for the Holway-led squad early in the second period. Three rapid goals in the middle session settled the issue, although the Fliers did rally in the third period to score two in succession and advance to a threatening position. With the score standing at 7-5 the Airmen moved four to the attack when Tompkins broke away and scored. Coughlin duplicated this feat five seconds before the end of the game. The teams return to Belleville for their second meeting next Tuesday night.

Penalties materially affected the efforts of the Flyers, who were penalized six times to the Petes' three.

While the ice was heavy, both squads kept up a fast clip with the homesters having an edge in passing plays. Fights threatened throughout the third period with pairs sent off twice for roughing.

Fliers: Goal, Gibson; defense, Higgins and Cameron; centre, Legris; wings, McNab and Baldwin; subs, Dunning, Irwin, Dyer McLeod, Gothercole, Lemieux.

Quinte Skating Club Pleases Picton Audience With Fine Performance

Picton—(Special)—Presenting a colorful and brilliant program at Picton Arena last evening, the Quinte Skating Club of Belleville delighted a large and appreciative audience in a program sponsored by the Picton Juvenile Hockey Club.

Twenty-eight members of the Skating Club took part in the program with Mr. A. F. Y. Leslie as master-of-ceremonies, Mr. Douglas Bews, President, Mr. F. Correll, chairman of the carnival committee and the club professional, Gordon Davies, were among those present.

Beautiful skating costumes, peppy music, novelty numbers and excellent performances made the evening's program a splendid success. Fourteen numbers made up the program at the conclusion of which, skating was enjoyed by about two hundred of the spectators, the performers mingling with the crowd.

Opening smartly with all the club taking part, the performers took part in pairs, fours, eights and came to the centre of the ice to sing "God Save the King." This was followed by School Figures by M. Smith, D. McBride, L. Sprackett, and R. Griffin. A waltz with sparklers was a lovely number in which the lights of the rink were darkened and the skaters held sparklers in their hands as they executed the intricate steps of the number to the music of "Beautiful Lady."

A solo number by tiny Miss Louise Patrick, a composed and skilful skater in blue and silver costume, was very appealing, and the very appropriate music was "You Must Have Been a Beautiful Baby." "All Ashore' with four girls in white nautical suits was presented by E. Licence, H. Pepper, B. Leslie and J. Scott. This was followed by "The Beer Barrel Polka," the club comedians, D. McBride and J. Dickens, rolling on the ice in barrels and performing a number of incredible and amusing feats.

Judy Scott and Barbara Leslie in trim red skating suits were splendid in their duo number "Scatter Brains." In the Ten Step, "Any Little Girl," in which all the club took part, little Louise Patrick and Master Tommy Leslie captured all hearts with their ability and charm. Miss G. Scott in a dark green costume and William Yerrow in cream skated an acrobatic number perfectly in "All Dressed Up" which, from the applause, was the most popular number of the evening.

A grand march "Spin and Spanish" was an interesting and finished performance by M. Smith, B. Leslie, H. Pepper, L. Sprackett, M. Redfern, A. Licence, G. Scott, E. Licence, D. McBride, Doug Roblin, R. Griffin, E. Close, E. Lancaster, E. McMurray, W. Hodges and W. Yerrow.

Miss Judy Scott in a red costume performed a brilliant solo number to the music of "The Beer Barrel Polka" while Mike Ridley in "Church Mouse on a Spree," skating entirely backward was an instant hit. "Scatter Brains,' a ten spot with all the skaters and the grand finals during which "O Canada" was sung, brought to a close a delightful evening's entertainment.

Prince Konoye Asked to Resume Premiership

Tokyo, Jan. 13 (AP)—War minister Shunroku Hata appealed today to Prince Fumimaro Konoye to resume the premiership of Japan as the deadline neared for the weekend government crisis.

Premier Nobuyuki Abe was expected to announce his decision to resign at an extraordinary cabinet session Sunday, and all Ministers were expected to go out with him.

General Hata said he made his appeal to Konoye, former Premier and now President of the Privy Council, in behalf of the army.

Konoye's name suddenly came to the front after names of other leaders were said to have been discarded. The Prince was understood to be reluctant to take the office, but it was indicated a movement would be started to draft him.

Relations between Japan and the United States were expected to figure in the shaping of a new cabinet.

A Suit of Clothes

By Mary KEELING

"There are certain temperaments," the professor was remarking blandly, "of which it is—"

"Look out, daddy!" cried Pat.

The progessor nimbly sidestepped to avoid the string of motors that suddenly startd when the green light changed.

"There are temperaments, my dear of which it is—"

"Oh, daddy, do please look out!" Pat cried again as a car whirled around the corner.

The professor sidestepped once more, but not nimbly enough this time to avoid a splashing of muddy water as the car passed through a puddle close to the curb.

"Oh, daddy," wailed Pat, as she mopped away at the professor's coat tails, "whatever will mother say? And your second best trousers are quite too—too unsafe for wear in public."

"There are temperaments, Patricia," began the professor.

"I do wish, dearest," said Pat reproachfully, "that you'd try to remember your own temperament—how careless you are about crossing streets and spoiling clothes and—"

"Henry," remarked the professor's wife at the breakfast table the next morning, "you simply must order a new suit of clothes at once. Your appearance is a disgrace to the family."

"That reminds me, my dear," said the professor cheerfully, "I have a distinct impression that I ordered a suit of clothes last week."

"Why, daddy!" exclaimed Pat in astonishment, "however did you come to order a suit all by yourself?"

"It is true," allowed the professor, "that I gave the order to a young man who called upon me after class time. I feel reasonably certain, however, that it was clothing he wished to sell."

"Henry Porter!" cried his wife despairingly, "do you mean to say that you gave an unknown salesman an order for clothes without seeing what they were like?"

"My dear, you quite distress me," expostulated the professor. "The young man seemed of a most superior type and now that I consider the occurrence I remember mention of a club. It appears that his firm is most particular whom they admit to its membership. I was selected in order that a name somewhat familiar in educational circles might head their list."

"How much did you pay down?" asked Mrs. Porter.

"Only $2, if I remember correctuy."

"And when is the rest to be paid?" asked the business manager of the firm relentlessly.

The professor squirmed a little in his chair just as the doorbell rang, thus relieving him of the necessity of making an immediate reply. Fate was pursuing him however, for Pat returned to the dining room with an agrgessive sort of young man who demanded of the professor his $2 installment due the suit club.

"May I ask," said Mrs. Porter with great dignity, "when my husband's suit will be delivered?"

"Oh, most any time, ma'am," said the collector with a sly wink at Pat. "Some one is chosen each week to get a free suit and the old gentleman may be the next lucky one."

"Daddy," whispered Pat as she opened the door for the professor, "there's a perfectly beautiful young man waiting for you in the library."

The professor adjusted his near-sight glasses as the young man rose from a chair.

"You'll not remember me. Professor Porter, but I'm the man who induced you to sign up with that suit club. I've found out that they are a bad lot, but I want you to believe that I honestly thought it on the square. If you'll tell me how much you've given them I'll be glad to pay you back myself. You were so white to me that I can't bear to see you fleeced."

"I see no reason in the world," replied the professor, mildly, "why I should allow you to be the loser. The amount is inconsequential for I ascertained some weeks ago that the plan was fraudulent. However, I am exceedingly glad to have you restore my belief in my sound judgment of character. I confess it has been somewhat shaken of late. This my dear," he added, as Pat entered the room patiently for the purpose of meeting the caller, "is Mr. Samuel Salter. You may perhaps recall my mentioning him in connection with the purchase of a suit of clothes. My daughter Patricia, Mr. Salter."

"Daddy, darling," said Pat squeezing the professor's arm rapturously after the young man had reluctantly taken his leave for the time being, "it's no wonder, poor dear that you fell for that suit club."

"It is indeed gratifying," remarked the professor, "to know that Mr—ah—Salter's countenance of nobility and refinement mirrors the sterling character that I at once credited him with."

"What a funny old pet you are, daddy," crooned Pat, kissing the soon-to-be bald spot on top of the professor's head.

WALL STREET CLOSE

New York, Jan. 13—(AP)—Some stocks worked up a mild rallying temperature in today's market but numerous issues failed to attract real buying heat. In the final hour prices were moderately irregular. Transfers approximated 450,000 shares.

Bonds and commodities were uneven.

American woolen preferred, jumped about three points at one time in the wake of the company's announcement of a payment of $3 per share on this issue's averages.

Inclined to lag were Westinghouse, U.S. Steel, Douglas Aircraft, Union Carbide, Du Pont, Western Union, Montgomery Ward and American Telephone.

Canadian issues tending lower included Canadian Pacific, Dome Mines, Hiram Walker and Lake Shore Mines. Distillers were unchanged and Canada 4s, in the bond market inactive.

TORONTO STOCKS CLOSE

Toronto, Jan. 13.— (CP)— The Stock Market rounded out the week with a mildly soft tone and in light trade. Only about 150,000 shares changed hands in the two-hour session.

Two sizeable losses appeared in Foods. Canada Vinegars weakened 1 1-8 and Western Canada Flour Pfd. dropped 2 points. Canadian Bakeries and Loblaw A were off fractions. Against these losses were fractional gains for Dominion Stores and Maple Leaf Milling.

Building Stocks were a bit strong with Canada Cement and Standard Paving up slightly. The Beverage list showed a gain of a half-point for Walkers common and a loss of a point for Canadian Breweries pfd. Changes were small in the Steels and the Utilities.

Only Naybob and Wood-Cadillac showed turnover of consequence in Golds, both narrowly higher. Senator Rouyn and Cochenour Willans improved also and in the higher-price list Pamour, Pickle Crow, Wright-Hargreaves and East Malartic were down 3 to 5 cents.

Base Metal shares were off generally. Steep Rock, Denison, Aldermac and Sherritt posted minor losses and Nickel weakened a small fraction. Eldorado sold at $1 for a minor loss.

Friday's Thaw Some Help to Dry Cisterns But None to Wells

Farmers of the district viewed with appreciative eyes rising temperatures yesterday and today that brought at least partial alleviation to the acute water shortage that has been apparent in the majority of rural communities for the past six weeks.

The snowfall and subsequent thaw of the past few days has sent water trickling into cisterns that have been dry for some time. Wells in some parts of the district that have been non-productive of late, gave up some much-needed water in the most of cases, but frozen creeks, the source of water supply for stock, have yet to show any signs of "life."

Farmers contacted on the city market today, stated that a heavy rain or continuance of the mild weather would bring relief to some of the districts where farmers are still forced to haul water for agricultural and domestic purposes.

86-Year-Old Man Knits Best Socks, Arnprior Folks Say

Arnprior, Ont., Jan. 13—(CP)—The good women of Arnprior are disturbed these days because of 86-year-old Charles Stavenow and his flying knitting needles.

Stavenow ,an active man for his 86 years, uses a distinctive stitch of his own, and by their own admission, it has the good women of Arnprior a trifle jealous.

He has shown no inclination to instruct others in his are but they say Stavenow's socks for Canadian soldiers are the finest knitted goods turned into the Arnprior Red Cross.

Butter, Egg Prices Still Remain Weak

Toronto, Jan. 13—Eggs and butter closed the week on an easy note yesterday on the Toronto open produce market.

The steadiness of the egg market which was in evidence last week-end was not maintained during the current week, due to increased receipts and a cautious attitude on the part of buyers, Demand was not sufficient to absorb supplies, and a price decline of 1c to 2c per dozen was registered in all sections of trading. A short period of inclement weather had no effect on the volume of receipts.

With price shading most evident on lower grades, A-pullet eggs seemed to enjoy the best inquiry throughout the week. Inspected shipments to the North were very light, but one carload of uninspected eggs was shipped to that region. Two small shipments went to Montreal.

According to the Dominion Department of Agriculture, there were indications that trading might develop a brisker pace this week-end and clear up the week's accumulation of supplies. Late yesterday afternoon the market took on a steadier undertone as the movement of receipts improved.

Butter was quiet and nominally unchanged at 27 1-2c for first-grade Ontario creamery solids. Offerings were light, but buying interest was lacking and the market stayed slow and draggy. In face of the storage stock figures just published, there was little inducement for buyers to take on new supplies; consequently, instead of buying ahead they were contend to use what stocks they had on hand.

Montreal Produce

Montreal, Jan. 13—(CP) — Produce market prices here today, as reported by the Dominion Department of Agriculture, follow:

Eggs: Graded shipments in used free cases, selling price, A-large, 22c-23c; A-medium, 21c; A-pullets, 19c; B-large and C, unquoted. Receipts: 643 cases.

PLAYER SUFFERS BROKEN BACK

Johnny Godfrey of New York Rovers Put in Cast for Eight Weeks

Windsor, Ont., Jan. 13 (CP) — Johnny Godfrey, defenceman with New York Rovers of the Eastern United States Amateur Hockey League, suffered a broken back last night when his team defeated Windsor of the Michigan-Ontario League 6-4 in an exhibition.

Dr. J. A. MacLennan diagnosed the injury at Hotel Dieu Hospital as a transverse process of the second and third lumbar vertebrae but said he had patched up the player to enable him to return to New York today with the Rovers. On arrival there, the doctor said, he will be put in a cast for six or eight weeks.

200 British, French Citizens Have Been Interned in Germany

Berlin, Jan. 13—(AP)—Approximately 200 British and French citizens residing in Germany at the outbreak of the war have been interned, authorized sources said today. All are men of arms-bearing age.

These sources said there are "several thousand" enemy subjects of military age in the Reich, but with the exception of the 200, they have been permitted to remain under their pre-war status. They must report to police headquarters weekly, however, and obtain permission before leaving the city of their residence.

Arrangements have been made, the informants said, to return women and children to their homeland on an exchange basis. Many British and Frenchmen arrested at the start of the war have been released. Those interned are held at Wuelzburg Castle, near Nuremburg.

Huge Sum Paid as Bonus to Cheese Producers by Dominion Government For Quality Cheese Made in Past Year

Representations of the Ontario Cheese Producers' Association were mainly responsible for the payment of nearly one-half million dollars by the government to farmers of Ontario as a bonus on high-scoring cheese last year, S. L. Joss, secretary of the organization, told members of the Northumberland Cheese Producers' Association in annual meeting at Campbellford this week.

"The final step towards the adoption of the bonus was a resolution made at a directors' meeting in November and forwarded to the government. Through this resolution, that asked that a bonus be paid, farmers received the premium of one cent on cheese scoring 93 and two cents on 94 or better. The bonus amounted to between $400,000 and $500,000, a sum in excess of what producers would normally have received," he said.

Figures are now available at the Dairy Branch, Ottawa, he added, which show the amount of premium received in each of the counties and at each factory.

Through the Cheese Board selling system, the producer had received the highest possible return from his product. This was substantiated, he said, in the fact that at the outbreak of war, the British Government had on September 1st., fixed the price of cheese at 63 shillings, or the equivalent to 11.3-16th. cents f.o.b. the factory. On October 3rd, the fixed price was raised to 68 shillings, or 11.15-16th. cents f.o.b. factory. On October 7th, the Cheese Board sold at 13⅝ cents. On November 2nd., the British government raised the price to 78 shillings, or 13 15-16ths. cents f.o.b. factory. On November 4th, the Board sold at 14½ cents. Reason for the higher than fixed price being paid was the competitive system of selling and the fact that the United Kingdom only imposed partial control on cheese.

The demand for Canadian cheese in 1940, if the war lasts, will be greater than in previous years, Mr. Joss said. He pointed out that soon European countries supplying Britain with butter would be cut off. The United Kingdom would be forced to look to other countries, particularly New Zealand for this commodity. This then might mean a switch from cheese to butter in New Zealand, thereby making the demand for Canadian cheese greater.

William Newman, of the Ontario Marketing Board, Toronto, told the association that the Campbellford Cheese Board was one of the best conducted in the province. In 1939 Northumberland County alone had produced and sold 2,900,000 pounds of cheese that sold at $377,000.00.

"The value of cheese has brought a security and given prosperity to Eastern Ontario such as no other type of farming," he said. "Cheese is the best dairy product in Canada and the cheese producer must have the cost of production plus a profit if Canada is to be prosperous. We are producing butter fat in increasing quantities each year and have to export our cheese which is bringing the best price of any dairy product."

Cheese has the attention of all dairymen of Canada, he added, "and your organization will keep this attention and plan for quality bonus from the government until a profit above the cost of production of cheese has been accomplished."

Brief addresses were given by District Dairy Instructor J. A. Murray and Agricultural Representative Ian McLeod, Brighton.

Officers elected at the convention include: President, G. S. Voltenberg; H. Nelson, secretary-treasurer; auditors, J. A. Murray, Ian McLeod. Delegates to the annual meeting in Ottawa on February 14-15th. were appointed.

Finns Receive Ultimatum

(Havas also reported that the Soviet radio broadcast an "ultimatum" to the Finns today, warning them that unless they lay down their arms in 48 hours the Germans will come to help Russia crush Finland.)

On other fronts little activity was reported today, but some observers said the Russian air raids on southern and western Finland yesterday indicated intentions to increase the tempo of the war.

Abo (Turku), Southwestern Finnish seaport that is an important arrival point for foreign men and materials, was raided by 30 planes, and bombers ranged northward up the Bothnian coast.

R. J. Messervey Wins Many Poultry Prizes At Show in Toronto

The poultry pens of R. J. Messervey of this city, won 14 prizes at the Toronto Poultry Show held in Toronto this week and concluding last night. Mr. Messervey's entry of Buff Orpingtons and Partridge Plymouth Rocks swept the show as they won five first prizes, seven seconds and two thirds in a show that saw exhibited some of the best poultry in Canada and the Eastern United States. Upon his return to Belleville today, Mr. Messervey, who is also President of the Belleville Poultry Association, stated that the class of fowl displayed on exhibition in Toronto was of the very highest quality. The Toronto show was held in the absence of the annual Royal Winter Fair, which was not held because of wartime activities.

SHIPPING LOSSES

Convoy System Successful

On the naval side up to January 3, Britain lost one battleship, one aircraft carrier and three destroyers through sinking and one submarine in accident, while sending to the bottom one German pocket battleship, one cruiser and perhaps two, and a large, unestimated number of supbmarines.

Success of the convoy system in keeping the commercial lifeblood flowing in the Empire's veins is shown in other official figures. Up to Jan. 6, 5,911 ships laden with necessities for the war effort and with civilian life sailed in convoy and only 12 were lost by enemy action. For every 1,000 tons of shipping destroyed, 110,000 tons safely reached port.

The contraband control seized 538,100 tons of cargo bound for Germany in 1939. This is 212,300 tons more than Britain lost in the the same period through destruction of British ships.

Movie Star Weds Producer W. Wanger

Phoenix, Ariz., Jan. 13 (AP) — Actress Joan Bennett and Producer Walter Wanger were married in the courthouse basement Friday after a sudden proposal by telephone and an all-night elopement trip which astonished even Hollywood.

Wanger, 45, called Miss Bennett, 29 from his studio Thursday night, and they decided to elope.

Stopping only long enough to pick up Margaret Ettinger, Miss Bennett's press representative, they started for Phoenix by automobile. After their arrival Wanger had to buy a wedding ring.

Shortly before noon they obtained a marriage licence, then hurried to Justice of the Peace Harry Westfall's office. Witnesses were Miss Ettinger and Westfall's clerk, Mildred Niles.

The marriage, third for Miss Bennett and second for Wanger, culminated a friendship of five years. Although some romantic comment had linked their names, Hollywood was not prepared for their wedding.

The bride, once a blonde but now a brunette, formerly was under contract to Wanger's organization. Her most recent film, "House Across the Bay," was his production.

The couple planned to remain overnight at a resort hotel then return to Hollywood tomorrow by plane.

Wanger was divorced last spring from Justice Johnstone, dancer and actress whom he married eighteen years ago.

Miss Bennett daughter of Richard Bennett of the stage and screen, first was marr'ed at 17 to John Fox, whom she divorced in 1928. In 1931 she married Gene Markey, screen writer, but they were divorced in 1937. Markey later married Heddy Lamarr.

Since, Miss Bennett became a brunette, her resemblance to Miss Lamarr had been commented upon widely.

Miss Bennett is the mother of two daughters, Diane, by her first marriage, and Melinda Markey, by her second.

FOUR KILLED IN PLANE CRASH

Ploughed Into Muddy Field and Burst Into Flames

Casey, Ill., Jan. 13—(AP)—Four persons were killed when their small plane ploughed into a muddy cornfield and burst into flame last night.

The bodies, found 100 yards from the wreckage, indicated the victims met almost instant death.

Three of the victims were identified as members of a Detroit family. They were Mrs. Mary Borowicz, 33, her son Leonard, 19, and her daughter, Joanne, 17.

The fourth victim was believed to be William B. Maycock, pilot and head of the Maycock Carter Service of Detroit. Airport officials at Detroit said a new plane piloted by Maycock and with the Borowicz family as passengers took off last night.

GEN. McNAUGHTON STILL IN FRANCE

Canadian Staff Officers Very Pleased With Reception Given

With the British Expeditionary Forces in France, Jan. 13.—(CP Reuters) — Major-General Andrew McNaughton is continuing his "look around" visit of the forward area of the British zone, preparatory to the arrival in France of Canadian troops.

Sir John Dill, commanding the British First Army Corps, was host to the Canadian Active Service force commander today.

Canadian Staff officers with whom the Reuters correspondent has spoken here are very pleased by the reception they have been given by British army leaders.

Noel Coward, the actor-playwright, visited the British expeditionary force last night. He appeared in two concerts in the forward area of the British zone, and sang a number of songs to men of the fighting units. He is leaving the British zone today.

CATTLE, BEEF IMPORTS UP

Increase of 44 Per Cent During First 11 Months Shown by Report

Washington, Jan. 13. — (AP) — Cattle and beef imports into the United States increased 44 per cent. during the first eleven months of 1939 over the like period in 1938, the Agriculture Department reported today.

The figures provided fresh material for argument in the United States House of Representatives over the proposed extension of the government's trade agreements program. State Secretary Cordell Hull and Agriculture Secretary Henry Wallace Hame contended at the House Ways and Means Committee hearings that the facts have not injured American farmers, but congressional critics have disputed this and much of the program's opposition has come from cattle-producing States.

Support for continuation of the program came, meanwhile from the group of 60 industrial and financial leaders comprising the commerce department's business Advisory Council. A resolution of support for the program was adopted yesterday at the group's annual meeting and transmitted to commerce secretary, Harry Hopkins.

The Agriculture department reported that 424,200,000 pounds of cattle and beef had been shipped into the United States, principally from Canada and Mexico, during the first eleven months of 1939, compared with 294,840,000 pounds in the like period of 1938.

Picton Friends Honor Five Officers of H. & P. E. Regiment

Picton — The Armouries was the scene of a gathering of prominent citizens Friday night when five Picton officers of Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment were honored. They have been on the reserve list and will receive further training in Canada before proceeding overseas to join their regiment at Aldershot. The men were presented with pen and pencil sets, Mayor Nesbitt McKibbon making the presentation.

F. L. Ward, K.C., town clerk, acted as chairman and those who joined in paying tribute to the men were Prof. Iva E. Martin, T. G. Bowerman, Lieut. L. B. Calnan, Deputy Reeve Ralph Warren, Judge E. H. McLean.

The men honored on this occasion were Major James Inrig, Major "Brock" Hudgin, Lieut. Wm. G. McLean, Lieut. Ernest Wright, Lieut. Clifford L. Colliver.

Seventy-First Annual Meeting Royal Bank of Canada

Unprecedented Business Activity With Maximum Employment Foreseen By Morris W. Wilson, President and Managing Director.—Reviews Canada's Relation to War.—Can Perhaps Do More Than Any Other Empire Country to Strengthen Britain's Position.

Sydney G. Dobson, General Manager, Reveals Assets of Bank Highest in History. — Continued Progress Shown. — Foreign Exchange Control Working Smoothly.

A striking comparison between the Canada of 1914 and to-day with particular reference to the important economic contribution this country can make to the allied cause were features of the address given by Morris W. Wilson, President and Managing Director, at the Seventy-first Annual Meeting of The Royal Bank of Canada.

"Canada," he said, "is in a position to contribute assistance to the cause in truly impressive proportions, to an extent, in fact, that may decisively turn the balance if the other contending forces are anything like equal."

PROGRESS SINCE 1914

Since 1914 Canada's economic structure had been virtually transformed, stated Mr. Wilson, from one based mainly on agriculture to one of great diversification in which manufacturing played a leading role. He predicted this trend would undoubtedly receive an even greater stimulus if the present conflict is prolonged.

"In our past crop, yields were again abundant, the total wheat crop for all Canada falling but little below half a billion bushels. Thus the Second World War finds us in a unique position to continue as the 'Granary of the Empire.'

"While Canada's manufacturing industry played a noteworthy role in the production of munitions during the last war, should the need arise, we shall be able to outstrip greatly anything we were able to do at that time.

"The iron and steel industry, which under war-time stimulus reached a peak of a million tons of pig iron annually in 1918, has doubled its potential output. Aircraft manufacturing has assumed important proportions, and the groundwork has been laid for rapid expansion.

MINERALS VITAL IN WAR

"War power to-day depends largely on minerals, particularly metals. The expansion of the Canadian output of such products since 1914 has been spectacular. In 1914 Canada produced 773,000 fine ounces of gold. In 1939 production was nearly seven times as much as in 1914. Nickel increased from a production of 45½ million pounds in 1914 to 227 million pounds in 1939. Copper production has increased eight-fold during the past twenty-five years. Lead output is eleven times as great. Zinc production has gone up from 22 million to 381 million pounds. The output of aluminium is eleven times as great, and when plant extensions now under way are completed, production will be increased to nearly fourteen times what it was in 1914."

"To-day Canada is a very different nation from the young unseasoned country that went into the last war.

WAR AND CANADIAN ECONOMY

"It seems to me quite clear that we have facing us the prospect of maximum employment. Unless our enemies collapse through deterioration of morale before their economic and military resources are exhausted, the decision in the present conflict will depend largely upon economic staying power."

"Never before in our history has it been so important that every one of us should practice thrift and industry. If the time comes wheh unemployment is no longer a problem, we may find ourselves compelled to curtail luxury and other non-essential industries to make way for more essential production. Furthermore, capital and other expenditures, public or private, not directly related to winning the war, nor essential to keeping our economic machine functioning efficiently, should be definitely discouraged. It is to be hoped that under these circumstances, labour and wage disputes will be completely avoided. Those who are fortunate enough to remain at their regular employment in Canada must not exploit the situation for their own ends. Capital must also be willing to contribute its full share. Some industries, of course, will be adversely affected by the war, but the majority will undoubtedly experience a great stimulus. The benefits therefrom must not be retained by stockholders except to a normal degree. The Government has devised a sound system of taxing excess profits, but it is also essential that any attempt at profiteering should be ruthlessly suppressed."

In view of the strides which had been made since 1914, Mr. Wilson believed that Canada, "can do perhaps more than any other part of the Empire or any other country with the single exception of the United States."

BUY ALLIED GOODS

Mr. Wilson emphasized particularly the need for buying a maximum amount of goods from Great Britain and France. "In this way," he said, "funds will be made available for the purchase of wheat and war supplies in Canada, leaving the gold and foreign exchange reserves of Great Britain for use as a last resort.

Everything possible must be done to stimulate Canada's exports with a view to commanding purchasing power abroad. "We are in an absolutely unique position to supply goods to Great Britain and France. This must necessarily lead to business activity such as we have not previously known.

TOURIST TRADE

"It seems to me also that the war affords Canada a unique opportunity to develop further its tourist trade. It therefore behooves our governing bodies to bring the unquestioned attractions of Canada as prominently as possible to the attention of prospective visitors from the United States. In normal years, tourists spend as much as $250/300 million in Canada. This trade is thus an important factor in our international balance of payments. As a means of strengthening our economy and providing foreign exchange, our efforts to attract tourists should be redoubled."

BUSINESS PROSPECTS

Mr. Wilson reported that in spite of disturbing conditions business during 1939 was reasonably good and maintained a level well above that of 1938.

"If for any reason peace should come within a comparatively short time, we would soon revert without difficulty to the not unsatisfactory conditions which prevailed before the outbreak of hostilities. If the war should continue for a protracted period—and this is the basis on which our plans must of necessity be made—I think we shall have a period of unusual industrial activity. But as we prosecute the war, we must not lose sight of the readjustments which will follow the return of peace. If our precautions are well-planned and adequate, the hesitation in our progress will not be great."

GENERAL MANAGER'S ADDRESS

Mr. S. G. Dobson, General Manager, in reviewing the Bank's balance sheet remarked that the general progress of the bank during the year reflected an upturn in business which began in the Summer and which under the stimulus of war orders became quite active in the Fall of the year. The balance sheet was particularly noteworthy, he said, in that the totals shown under cash assets, securities, total assets and deposits were at the highest figures recorded in the history of the bank. Total assets now standing at $1,014,708,343 were the highest on record, this being the second occasion in the bank's history on which they had crossed the billion dollar mark.

Mr. Dobson reported a greater demand for Commercial loans in Canada and that the total under this heading was now $212,627,311, an increase of $14,424,408.

Profits for the year showed a moderate increase but, taxes now borne by banks had become a real burden. "These totalled in the case of The Royal Bank $1,967,751", he said, "a very heavy charge considering the bank's earnings and equivalent to 70c for every dollar paid shareholders. Everyone concedes that special taxation is necessary if we are to do our part in winning the war but the amounts I have mentioned represent ordinary peace-time taxes only."

FOREIGN EXCHANGE CONTROL

Foreign Exchange Control was now operating smoothly, said Mr. Dobson in spite of its very wide ramifications and the responsibility with which the banks were faced at the outset of interpreting the regulations to the public. "The manner in which this new, and at first complicated, machinery was handled was most creditable," said Mr. Dobson.

In conclusion the General Manager foresaw greater business activity during 1940 under the impetus of war orders, greater employment and more general distribution of purchasing power.

ICY PAVEMENT CAUSE OF CRASH

Icy pavements attributed to a serious motor accident at the intersection of Dundas and Pinnacle Sts., this morning when a truck, driven by Herbert Windsor, of this city, skidded into the side of a Canadian National Railway switching train at that intersection. Fortunately neither Mr. Windsor nor Leo Culhane, who was riding with him at the time, sustained injuries, although the front part of the truck was badly damaged as the truck struck a box car with considerable force.

The city shunter engine was being driven by Engineer Harry Redfern, who was spotting box cars on the city spur line.

Foxboro

Foxboro—Mr. and Mrs. Hayden Kemp and family of Oshawa and Mr. and Mrs. Elgin Hubble of Murray spent Christmas at the home of their parents Mr. and Mrs. E. Hubble.

The Sacrament was observed in the United Church on Sunday evening.

A number of residents are still ill with colds.

Mrs. Arthur Ward of Peterboro returned home after spending some time with her sister, Mrs. W. Prentice.

Mr. and Mrs. S. C. Gay spent Wednesday with relatives in Colborne.

A business meeting in connection with the W. A. was held on Tuesday at Mrs. W. Wickett's.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Hodgen attended the funeral of the former's cousin, Mr. Dave Hubble at Gilead on Wednesday.

Mr. and Mrs. E. Hubble and family have moved into their new home lately owned by Miss Grace Palmer.

Mrs. Walter Scott and family had New Year's dinner at Mr. Sherwood Scott's.

Mrs. Frank Parks of Hay Bay is visiting at the home of her parents Mr. and Mrs. J. G. Sills.

The January meeting of the W. M. S. was held at the home of Mrs. S. C. Gay on Thursday last with an attendance of fourteen. The meeting was in charge of the First Vice President, Mrs. W. Hodgen and opened with a consecration hymn sung as a prayer, after which the following secretaries reported. Miss A. Clarke reported twelve meetings held during the year and Mrs. S. C. Gay, as treasurer, reported an increase in givings for 1939. Mrs. W. Wickett reported for Christian Stewardship and gave a splendid reading and Mrs. Daniels as Community Friendship secretary reported having made ninety three sick calls besides a number of letters written. Mrs. H. Kilpatrick reported four new members for the Missionary Monthly and Mrs. J. Gowsell reported thirty two dollars raised by the Mission Band, thus making an increase over the allocation for the society. Mrs. W. Cooke reported three quilts and a number of dresses for girls. as Supply Secretary.

The following were reported as Heralds for 1940—Canada, Miss A. Clarke; Korea, Mrs. Wm. Hodgen; China, Mrs. (Dr.) Helliwell; Japan, Mrs. Harold Stewart; Trinidad, Mrs. Wm. Cooke; India, Mrs. Jack Gowsell and Africa, Mrs. Rev. E. W. Sooke.

The theme of the worship service was "The world outlook of Jesus" and some poems were read by the leader and the first chapter of the Study Book "Moving Millions" was interestingly given by Mrs. S. C. Gay, emphasizing the thought that the door of opportunity is open in India now, as never before. The leader then closed the meeting with a prayer in time of war and all repeated the Mizpah benediction.

Shannonville

Shannonville—A successful euchre and dance was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Hamilton at Marysville under the auspices of the Women's Guild of Trinity Church, Shannonville. RED INVADER MEETS HIS CAPTOR

A Soviet Russian airman is shown after capture on the Karelian front as he was questioned by General Wallenius, Finnish commander. The clothing of the Russian looks very much the worst for wear and in startling contrast to the uniforms of the Finns, which are neat, snug and as well-kept as if groomed for the parade ground.

H.M.C.S. STONE FRIGATE SCHOOL FOR R.C.N. OFFICERS

For the first time since 1850 H.M.C.S. Stone Frigate, a historic building erected in 1816-17 at the Royal Military college at Kingston, Ont., is being used to train officers of the Royal Canadian Navy. The Stone Frigate was originally built as a naval barracks for the men of His Majesty's naval dock-yards. Commander W. B. Holmes, TOP LEFT, recently commander of H.M.C.S. Restigouche, is commanding officer of the training centre. Chief Petty Officer Victor Airth is shown, TOP RIGHT, standing beside an ancient anchor that serves as a monument to the British and Canadian sailors who lost their lives in the war of 1812. Thirty-three young officers of the R.C.N. are at present training at the Stone Frigate and are busily studying the finer points of seamanship. Sub. Lieuts. Peter Spragge of Toronto; A.R. Smith, Vancouver; Frank Hamm, St. John, and H. L. Henderson, Toronto, are shown BOTTOM, during a study period.

Ready to Meet Any Nazi Threat To Neutrality

Full Cabinet Meeting in Belgium Today to Discuss International Situation in All Phases — Mobilization Only Proof of Preparedness

DEFENCES HURRIED

Exodus of Civilians From Border Provinces Started —All Leave Cancelled for Belgium and Dutch Armies

Amsterdam, Jan. 15.—(CP)—Mobilized armies of Belgium and the Netherlands were massed today behind frontier defences to meet any German threat to the lowlands' neutrality.

Close to 1,000,000 Belgian and Netherlands soldiers were reported already at or ordered to positions along the border—a 300-mile wall through which Germany would have to smash to outflank the allies on the western front.

In Belgium, there were disturbing reports on new concentrations of Nazi attacks troops, while in the Netherlands, a government communique spoke of "certain less favorable symptoms in the International situation".

The semi-official Belga News Agency, however, issued a note in Brussels denying what it called "alarmist stories" being "spread in Belgium and abroad" and said additional mobilization was proof only of the vigilance of the government.

No Threat Hidden

"No threat has been hidden from the Belgian public", the note said, "and the independence of sources of information and the liberty of the Press should inspire calm . . . Belgium remains calm, but the army is on its toes".

Why The Weather?

By Major A. H. Thiessen
Science Service Meteorologist

Climatic zones! To say that a place is in the temperate zone does not by any means accurately describe its climate, as witness the differing climates of San Francisco, St. Louis and Norfolk, Va., all on nearly the same parallel of latitude. So climatologists have made other classifications, the most noted being that of Koeppen, who arranged climatic zones on bases of temperature and precipitation. For instance the tropical zone is divided into "rain forest" and "savanna" or prairie climates. This is quite essential, as everyone knows how vastly different are the climates of tropical deserts and the jungle. Later, this classification was extended on bases of temperature efficiency and precipitation effectiveness.

LIGHT SNOWFALL IS REPORTED IN MANY DISTRICTS

Rain of Inestimable Value, Farmers Generally Agree

ICE CUT DELAYED

Worst Snowstorm of Season Reported in Northumberland County

By the Canadian Press

Lowering temperatures brought fresh falls of snow to many Ontario districts today following a weekend of rain, snow and gales that reached a velocity of nearly 50 miles an hour. The rainfall brought relief to Southwestern Ontario farmers by replenishing water and creeks and eliminating a water shortage that had become acute in some areas.

Rains which reached torrential proportions struck the southern part of the Province Sunday, followed by high winds and snow. Northern Ontario reported snowfalls ranging from six inches to two feet.

The weather bureau at Toronto reported a wind velocity of 47 miles an hour at dawn today followed by a fall of light snow. The wind came from the southwest last night following an allday rainfall of .66 inch. A high wind brought five inches of snow and rain to the Ottawa district Sunday and disrupted communication lines in many rural districts.

NO CANADIANS HOLD TICKETS

Irish Red Cross Steeplechase to be Raced on Saturday at Dublin

Dublin, Jan. 15—(CP)—No tickets held in Canada were among the first winners today in the sweepstake on the Irish Red Cross steeplechase next Saturday.

This special draw was organized on short notice with benefits to be shared among Red Cross agencies in this and other countries—including 89 pounds (about $396) for Germany.

The biggest Red Cross apportionment goes to Great Britain, 29,765 pounds indicating Britons were the heaviest buyers. The second largest share was for Eire, 28,189 pounds. Finland's share was 514 pounds and France's 127 pounds.

WAR LOAN SALE ON FIRST DAY ENTHUSIASTIC

Finance Minister and Hon. Ernest Lapointe Make Urgent Appeal Over Radio

LARGE SUBSCRIPTIONS

Quints, Through Guardians, Take $20,000 of Issue While Sun Life Takes $7,500,000

Ottawa, Jan. 15 (CP).—Subscriptions to Canada's first war loan were pouring into the Bank of Canada today from points throughout the Dominion and officials said the response so far was fully up to expectations.

Books opened at 9 a.m. E.S.T. for subscriptions to the $200,000,000 issue of 3¼ per cent 12-year bonds which are being offered at par.

First returns, naturally, came from eastern Canada but at noon reports from the west began to arrive indicating that the response was general from coast to coast.

Allotments will be made at the discretion of Finance Minister Ralston and his advisers but the preference will be given small investors in keeping with the government's desire that this loan will go mainly to those who will hold the bonds as savings.

The loan went on sale after Mr. Ralston and Justice Minister Lapointe appealed to Canadians to mobilize their earnings for the economic drive which will back up the Dominion's fighting forces.

Advance subscriptions, ranging from $10,000 to $7,500,000, illustrated the tremendous interest shown in the 3 1-4 per cent interest loan. The Dionne Quintuplets, through their guardians, contributed $20,000.

Speaking over the National network of the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation last night, Col. Ralston said that Canadians on the home front con contribute to the war effort by subscribing to the loan.

"Here is the way you can help defeat Hitlerism and put an end to the constant menace of international gangsterism which has plagued us for several years. Your money put into these bonds will buy equipment for the army, ships for the navy, planes for the air force. Your money, in fact, is essential to enable our men to fight and to fight in a way worthy of Canadians".

Russian Bombing of Finn Cities Part of Strategy to Break Morale

Helsingfors, Jan. 15 (AP).—The Russian Air Force, attacking again after unleashing yesterday the worst aerial offensive of the Russian-Finnish war, resumed bombing raids on South Finland today.

Two air alarms were sounded in Helsingfors shortly after noon. No damage was reported in the centre of the city, but some bombs were reported to have fallen in the outskirts.

It was intensely cold and the Soviet planes flew extremely high.

As a result of yesterday's widespread attack Finns feared Russian strategy called for a powerful assault on behind-the-lines morale to break military resistance at the front.

Civilians of a score of southern Finnish cities and towns surveyed the ruins of homes and public buildings caught in the sweep of Sunday's far-flung air raids.

It was indicated that Vas, important coastal city on the Gulf of Bothnia and railroad centre, suffered the severest damage among the larger cities. Business structures in the city of about 32,000 population were destroyed and at least 12 persons were reported dead.

Flames spread in a number of smaller towns where fire fighting equipment was inadequate. It was believed nearly 20 towns and cities were bombed.

In attacks lasting four hours, the Russians dropped hundreds of incendiary bombs and along the railway linking Abo (Turku) and Helsingfors were reported to have swooped low to attack civilians with machine guns.

A Finnish communique reported that 15 were known dead, "several dozen" wounded and that many private homes were destroyed by fire.

Franco-British Co-operation After War Would Ensure Peace And Progress for All Time

French Minister to Canada in Address States Terms of Peace Should Include Justice for All But What is Just Must be Strong

NO DEMANDS

Montreal, Jan. 15—(CP)— Count Robert de Dampierre, French Minister to Canada, said today the sort of peace France desires will be possible only if the present cooperation between France and Great Britain is continued successfully after the war.

Count de Dampierre told the Montreal Canadian Club this cooperation now constitutes a marvelous instrument of war which, after peace has been restored, should remain as close and as trustful as it is today.

"This co-operation of two great Empires which ask nothing of anyone, and want, for themselves and for others, only the opportunity of leading a free life devoted to useful work, and not punctuated by the steps of marching legions, will, in the world of tomorrow, ensure the supremacy—for all time, let us hope—of our Christian civilization with its principles of humanity, of solidarity, of progress and of peace."

The Minister said that when the time comes to draw up the terms of peace, those responsible "will certainly have sufficient imagination to find solutions which will satisfy at the same time our desire for equal justice for all and our imperative need of permanent security."

GEN. McNAUGHTON TOURS MAGINOT LINE WITH GORT

Senior Commanders and Staff Officers of Canadian Contingent Return to England

AGREED ON PLANS

(By Gillis Purcell, Canadian Press Staff Writer)

With the British Expeditionary Force in France, Jan. 15 — (CP-Cable) — Major-General Andrew McNaughton, Commander of the Canadian Active Service Force, today toured the Maginot Line while senior commanders and staff officers of the Canadian division returned home from a week's visit with the British army in France.

It was a visit which provided a short course in tactics and administration right on the ground. The whirlwind tour made possible an intensive analysis of problems which may arise when the C.A.S.F. moves to France.

Sunday, General McNaughton and Viscount Gort, Commander of the British forces in the field, made known in statements to the Canadian Press that they were agreed, as Lord Gort put it, on "all matters relating to the joint use of the forces." He added that during their conference, which took place last Thursday at British headquarters, these matters were "considered and settled to our mutual satisfaction."

RED CROSS NOT TO SPONSOR QUINTS AT WORLD'S FAIR

Society Refuses on Grounds They Believe Quints Should Not be Exploited for Any Purpose

FATHER OPPOSED

Toronto, Jan. 15 (CP)—Executive Committee of the Canadian Red Cross Society had before it today a recommendation that the society refuse to sponsor a plan to take the Dionne quintuplets to the New York World's Fair this Spring.

Officers of the Red Cross met last night and decided to oppose the scheme, under which the society would receive an estimated $500,000 for its war work, on the grounds "these delightful children should not be exploited for any purpose, however worthy."

The officers' recommendation was scheduled for consideration at a meeting of the full executive today. Meanwhile, the guardians of the quints have not yet considered or replied to the offer, made by J. C. Holmes, Vice-President of the fair corporation.

ADMIRAL YONAI JAPAN'S PREMIER

Circumstances of Yonai's Resignation Not Disclosed Says Newspaper

Tokyo, Jan. 15 (CP) — Admiral Mitsumasa Yonai today continued the selection of ministers to complete his cabinet to succeed the resigned ministry of General Nobuyuki Abe.

Designation of Admiral Yonai, regarded as a moderate, as premier came as a surprise. Newspapers and the radio already had announced the appointment of General Shunroku Hata, the retiring war minister, and friends had called at General Hata's home to offer congratulations.

Commenting on the selection, the newspaper Nichi Nichi said "the appointment of an admiral rather than a general is better at this time." The army newspaper Kokumin, however, said the palace statesmen had overlooked army interests in commissioning Admiral Yonai to head the new government.

The circumstances of Admiral Yonai's designation were not disclosed. The Associated Press said the old cabinet, which resigned Sunday, left office amid repercussions over Japanese-American relations. The agency said the failure of the United States to react favorably to the Japanese announcement that the lower Yangtse River would be reopened to third-power commerce was the principal reason for the Abe cabinet's downfall.

Washington, Jan. 15 (AP)—Authoritative sources disclosed today that the United States would not enter into even a temporary arrangement to replace the expiring Japanese-American commercial treaty unless Japan made "effective" guarantees that American interests would receive equal and fair treatment hereafter in Japanese-occupied China.

Expiration of the treaty, which was abrogated by the United States is only 11 days away.

Italian Plane Seeking Distance Record Lands 3,000 Miles Short of Goal

Rio De Janeiro, Jan. 15.—(AP) —The Italian Embassy announced that the Italian airplane seeking a world's distance record landed on the Brazilian Island of Fernando Noronha at 12.45 p.m. (10:45 a.m. E.S.T.), today about 3,000 miles short of her goal in Patagonia.

Under command of Colonel Angelo Tondi the Italian plane took off from Rome at 8.20 a.m Sunday.

She had been in the air 32 hours and 25 minutes and had covered about 4,400 miles of her projected flight at the time given for the landing.

The mark fell far short of the world record of 7,162 miles established by two British Royal Air Force planes November 5-7, 1938 in a flight from Ismailia on the Suez Canal to Darwin, Australia.

Tondi reported earlier in the day his fuel was escaping through a leak and he was proceeding on two motors trying to reach Fernando Noronha.

SOVIET PROTESTS NEUTRALITY OF NORWAY, SWEDEN

Charges Both Countries With Aiding Finland With Men and Material

DISCUSSIONS HELD

Soviet Minister Makes Representations to Foreign Ministers of Both Countries

Moscow, Jan. 15 —(AP)— Soviet Russia warned today of "danger" in her relations with Norway "and especially Sweden," publishing both her protests to them charging violations of neutrality and their not "entirely satisfactory" answers.

In both cases, the Russian protests dealt with anti-Soviet attacks in the press and in quarters close to the governments of the two countries and with men and material going from them to the aid of Finland.

Replies Not Satisfactory

Similarly-worded replies from Norway and Sweden disputed the Russian assertions and expressed hope for continued good relations with the Soviet Union.

Tass, Soviet news agency, published summaries both of the Russian representations in Oslo and Stockholm and the answers of the two Scandinavian nations, concluding:—

"The replies given by the government of Norway, and especially Sweden, cannot be regarded as entirely satisfactory.

RUSSIAN ARMY MAY BE FORCED TO OPEN ATTACK

Lack of Supplies Seen as the Probable Cause by Finnish Observers

FORCES DIG IN

With Finnish forces in the far north, Jan. 15—(AP)—Indications that the Soviet Russian army entrenched along the Salla front would be forced into attack by lack of supplies were seen today by Finnish observers.

A rise in temperature after month-long sub-zero weather last week brought a sudden attack under cover of artillery fire against the Finnish northern flank, but the Reds were driven back with heavy losses.

This unexpected move was taken by the Finns to indicate the Soviets would attempt to smash Finnish defences at the first break in the Arctic cold.

Cold Weather Coming

Finnish quarters expressed relief the Russians have not sufficient supplies to last them through the usual season of merciless cold which comes in late January and early February.

Thus a major drive, these sources said, would be the Red army's only chance to escape annihilation.

The Soviet forces at Salla have dug in and put up formidable fortifications. They have heavy artillery, machine-guns and high-powered grenade throwers with a range of three to five miles.

Hoover Charges Conspiracy is Country-Wide

Chief of Federal Bureau of Investigation Says Small Arsenal Discovered

SAYS MEN DRILLED

Among Tentative Aims, States Hoover, Was Plan to Assassinate 12 Congressmen

New York, Jan. 15 (AP).—A plot to smash the United States Government and replace it with a dictatorship through bombings and assassination was charged today against seventeen New York members of a "Christian Front".

J. Edgar Hoover, head of the Federal Bureau of Investigation, implied, in announcing the disruption of the alleged plot, that the seventeen now under arrest were merely the nucleus of a country-wide conspiracy.

One of the men arrested, John M. Ryan, was released during the night. P. E. Foxworth, federal agent in charge of the New York bureau, confirmed Ryan's release but declined comment.

Federal agents were searching many localities for caches of arms such as the "small arsenal" they found in New York City in the course of a six-month investigation of the alleged conspirators.

Seditious Conspiracy Charged.

The seventeen scheduled for arraignment today in Brooklyn Federal Court were charged specifically with seditious conspiracy to create a revolution and overthrow the government.

The penalty could be six years in prison and a $5,000 fine for each.

Among their tentative aims, Hoover said, was the assassination of 12 Congressmen—identities not disclosed—as examples to al lthose who voted for repeal of the embargo on soon after a final drill in bombing erent nations.

The day for striking against the government, Hoover said, was to be and firing which had been set for American arms shipments to bellig- Jan. 20—next Saturday.

While the store of "revolutionary" arms here was small, Hoover indicated many more guns and bombs might be found elsewhere.

Charges Elaborate Plans Laid.

He said elaborate plans had been made for the theft of armament for revolutionary use from National Guard (militia) arsenals. In fact, six of those under arrest were listed as members of the New York National Guard, one as a member of the naval reserve and another as belonging to the marine reserve.

One was described as a member of the German-American Bund, whose Fuehrer, Fritz Kuhn, is in Sing Sing prison for stealing Bund funds.

"The group depended upon terrorism and ultimate demoralization of communities to attain their objective," Hoover said. "First of all they aimed at terrorization of Jews —all Jews. At the same time, according to their plans, they were to seize communications, transportation systems, customs and post-offices."

Alleged Leaders Named

He said the leaders of the alleged conspiracy were John F. Cassidy, Brooklyn head of the "Christian Front," and William Gerald Bishop, leader of a "sports club," known as the "Country Gentlemen," secretly operating behind the Front.

Cassidy, he said, was saluted Nazi-wise and addressed by the

ORDER CANCELS ALL LEAVES FOR BRITISH TROOPS

Troops on Furlough to England Will Not be Recalled Immediately

FEAR MANOEUVRE

Military Strategists Inclined to Interpret Shifting Attack as Another Stroke in "War of Nerves"

London, Jan. 15—(CP)—An order suspending all leaves for British soldiers at the front increased concern today over the bracing of Belgium and the Netherlands against any German threat to the lowlands' neutrality.

In Paris, a semi-official statement said "Everything allows us to fear" a manoeuvre of "diplomatic-military intimidation directed against the western neutrals."

The war office here did not amplify its two-line midnight communique saying "The leave from service of the British Expeditionary Force has been temporarily suspended." Official sources explained however, that troops already on furlough would not be recalled immediately.

300 LIVES LOST WHEN JAPANESE CITY DESTROYED

1,000 Homes Burn When Fire Destroys Nearly Half of City

SPREAD BY WIND

Tokyo, Jan. 15.—(AP)— Fire raging uncontrolled through Shizuoka, southwest of Tokyo, was believed today to have taken 300 lives and destroyed 1,000 homes.

Domei, Japanese News Agency, said half of the city, the centre of Japan's tea shipping industry, had been destroyed by 3 p.m. (1 a.m., E.S.T.), four hours after the fire was discovered.

It reported the flames spread on a strong wind despite attempts to dynamite fire-breaks in its path and had consumed the railroad station, post office, some municipal buildings and many railroad cars.

An airplane pilot reported he felt the heat of the conflagration flying over Shizuoka at a height of 4,500 feet.

The News Agency said two schools, one temple, a telephone exchange, a department store and two branch banks were among the buildings destroyed.

Train service was disrupted.

German Threat is Diplomatic Rather Than Military, Dutch View

By GERAUD JOUVE
Havas Staff Writer

Amsterdam, Jan. 15 —(CP—Havas)—Heavy German troop movements through Westphalia, closing of the Dutch-German frontier at all points but one, and the dismissal of all Dutch workers employed in Westphalian industrial plants were some of the factors underlying the precautions against invasion taken by the Netherlands during the weekend, it was learned today.

However, there was a tendency here to regard the German threat as diplomatic rather than military in its aims, perhaps to intimidate the low countries into opening their borders to a broad flow of German products and to check their collaboration in aid to Finland.

There was no fear Germany could strike swiftly and with immediate results Holland's precautions have deprived the Reich of any advantage from surprise.

Finnish resistance to Russia has put new heart in the small neutrals and has made possible a new psychology of resistance to incursions by powerful neighbors.

Nevertheless the significance of developments of the last few days has not been lost on the Dutch.

From Venloo, on the German border, it was reported German troops have just been increased by six divisions in the Aachen region, near the Belgian and Netherland borders. None of the regiments already in position were withdrawn.

Concentrations of German engineering troops were reported along the Netherland frontier, especially in the Bocholt, Borken and Weser sectors.

William H. Anderson Joins Insurance Co.

Announcement is made by James A. Barclay, District Supervisor, ordinary branch, the London Life Insurance Company, of the appointment of William H. Anderson as district representative.

Mr. Anderson is well-known locally because of his business and service club activities and is President of the Kiwanis Club of Belleville. He has just completed a course at the school of training conducted by the London Life where he gained a thorough knowledge of the fundamentals of life insurance and a bright future is predicted for him.

Says Germany Cannot Rule The World

Samuel Taylor at Bethel Hall Cites Scripture in His Argument

At Bethel Hall last night the question: "Will Germany Ever Rule the World?" was discussed by the speaker, Mr. Samuel Taylor, Peterborough. He answered the question in a negative manner. His argument was founded on the dream of the King of Babylon and its Divine interpretation that are recorded in the Book of Daniel, chapter two. He explained that the Bible describes four great Gentile world powers but does not allow a fifth, hence there cannot be a Germanic world power. Mr. Taylor presented his gospel plainly and appealed to unsaved persons to commit themselves to the Saviour.

Chief Hayes Presents Year's Report to Tweed Council

Tweed—Chief of Police J. C. Hayes presented a comprehensive annual report to Tweed Council, in which he gave a complete account of various phases of his work as police officer. During the year 365 transients were sheltered in jail, 167 complaints were received and investigated, 53 convictions were registered in police court for various offences under the criminal code. Worthless cheques and acts of fraud would have resulted in the loss of $1,002.98 to the citizens of Tweed but for the successful efforts of Chief Hayes who was instrumental in recovering this sum.

Mr. Harry Sager of Ottawa, is visiting his cousins, Mr. John Sager, Mrs. Ralph McGuire and Mrs. W. A. Beatty. Twenty-eight years ago Mr. Sager was a successful boot and shoe merchant in Tweed, leaving at the time to locate in Ottawa wheare he has since carried on a successful business in the same lines.

Miss Enid Connor, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. S. H. Connor an honour graduate of The Robinson Business College, Waterford, has been successful in obtaining a position at the parliament buildings, Toronto.

Miss Margaret Kerr is spending the next two weeks with her brother, Mr. John M. Kerr at Penetanguishine.

Mr. and Mrs. F. Will Clark, the former manager of Tweed Royal Bank Branch, left on Monday on a motor trip to Florida. They will return late in February.

Mrs. Fred Mitchell was winner of the bridge prize at the home of Mrs. Leo Phillips who entertained Tweed Ladies' Bowling Club.

Miss Margery Tummon has returned to her home following recovery from a recent operation in Belleville General Hospital.

Mrs. A. C. Blakely is making satisfactory progress following an operation at Belleville Hospital.

Mr. Ernest Blaind of Belleville relieved at Tweed News' office while Mr. L. A. McDougal linotype operator was ill with pleurisy.

POLICE COURT

"I have made arrangements for this lad to join the Canadian army and if you will enlarge this matter for one week perhaps we can dispose of this case in a more amicable manner," suggested Crown Attorney B. C. Donnan K.C. to Magistrate E. J. Butler K.C., in today's local police court, when a local youth appeared for sentence. The lad had previously pleaded guilty to a charge of entering Hitchon's radio store and stealing three mantel model radios, when he was arraigned in court last week.

"Perhaps by placing this lad in the army we may be doing him a favor, as he has been in similar trouble before," added Mr. Donnan.

A charge of assault was dismissed against Carl Lewis, Belleville. The case had been before the court some months ago and enlarged from time to time until His Worship dismissed the charge, when Mr. Donnan stated the prosecution would present no evidence.

Twenty-four citizens entered pleas of guilty when charged with failing to procure their 1939 radio licence, contrary to the Radio Act of Canada. Each delinquent was fined $1.00 and 75c costs. All of the pleas were entered in writing, except one, who appeared and admitted his neglect in the matter.

Three others appeared charged with infractions of the Liquor Control Act. The conventional fine of "ten and costs" was imposed and paid in each case.

A teen-aged lad, who failed to appear in Juvenile Court last Friday, today was found hiding in the City Hall basement by Detective Fred Izard, who apprehended the lad last week on several charges of petty thieving. Today before the court the lad was sentenced to a term in the Bowmanville Boys' Training School and given into the custody of the Children's Aid Society.

Two Police Officers Honored by Associates

Tribute to the many happy associations and efficiency of two fellow officers was paid by provincial and city police on Saturday afternoon when they presented Provincial Police Constable William McBrien and Chief of Police Jack Danford, of Madoc, with handsome gifts on the eve of their departure from the posts they have held for a number of years.

Constable McBrien has been transferred to the Lindsay district and leaves today to report at his new post, while Chief Danford has answered the call of the Empire, and reports today to the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment in Picton.

Police officers including Inspector Frank Gardner and Sergeant Harry Thompson, and friends of the two officers, called at the McBrien residence on Albert street where the two departing officers caught by surprise were presented with their gifts. Inspector Gardner read appropriate addresses before presenting Constable and Mrs. McBrien with a silver toaster and tray, and Chief Danford with a handsome pen and pencil set.

Both officers thanked their erstwhile comrades for the gifts and voiced their appreciation of the many happy associations of the past few years.

FALLING STANDARD NARROWLY MISSES PEDESTRIAN ON STREET

A narrow escape from what might have been serious injury was experienced by an unidentified Front Street pedestrian on Saturday evening when a large electric light standard in front of the City Hall crashed to the pavement alongside him when an army truck collided with it.

The driver of the R.C.A.F. truck had been manoeuvring the heavy vehicle in an effort to turn around when the corner of the truck struck the standard, breaking it off near the base. The frost-filled metal snapped like a crack of a whip and the standard, some eighteen feet high, swayed in the air before it crashed to the pavement. A spectator who had watched the accident walked swiftly away as the standard tottered and barely escaped being struck by the hooked top of the pole when it fell.

SNOWPLOWS IN ACTION ALL NIGHT TO KEEP STREETS CLEAR

Chairman of Public Works Alderman Harry Rollins, City Engineer Charles Mott, City Foreman Matthews and His Worship Mayor Glen Thompson went into quick action yesterday following the storm that converted city streets in quagmires of slush.

Snowplows were ordered into action as the city officials drove around city streets on a tour of inspection. The snow was thrown to the gutters and later ten workmen removed it allowing accumulation of water to escape down sewers.

Snowplows remained in action all night, clearing main thoroughfares and other streets of accumulated slush. Today city trucks removed the snow and slush from the streets.

Two sewer blockages were reported yesterday to the Public Works Department, but prompt action on the part of workmen soon removed the obstacles.

CAR IS STOLEN OFF CITY STREET

Lawrence Closson, Hillier, Leaves Key in Ignition Lock

The first automobile to be stolen in this city during the year 1940 was reported to city police by Lawrence Closson, Hillier, late Saturday night. The vehicle had not been reported as recovered at noon today. Mr. Closson parked his 1929 Ford coach on Campbell street about 8 p.m. Saturday and upon his return at 11.30 p.m. the vehicle was found to be missing.

Shortly before Mr. Closson reported his vehicle stolen, the Peterborough police authorities reported the theft of a 1932 model Ford roadster from that city. This vehicle was bearing Ontario licence plates number 32-U-98, while Mr. Closson's car carried licence plates number 18-A-6. There may be a connection between the two stolen cars, although no reports of an abandoned automobile have been received by police. Mr. Closson inadvertently left his ignition keys in the car.

Belleville police recovered every automobile reported stolen in this city during the year 1939, Chief Kidd revealed today.

OBITUARY

HARRY L. SPAFFORD

Harry L. Spafford passed away at the family residence, 96 Catherine Street, on Saturday, Jan. 13th. He had been in failing health for some time.

The late Mr. Spafford, who was in his 65th year, was born in Sidney Township, his parents being the late Mr. and Mrs. Warren W. Spafford. For years he was engaged as a salesman and resided for some time in Oshawa. For the past fourteen years he made his home in Belleville. In religion he was a member of Holloway Street United Church and was well esteemed.

Surviving him are his wife, who prior to her marriage was Miss Maggie Bush; two daughters, Mrs. Walker Grills, Belleville and Miss Jean Spafford, at home; three sons, Mr. Harold Spafford, Toronto; Mr. Warren Spafford and Mr. John Spafford, both of Belleville; two sisters, Mrs. John Stalker and Mrs. Elwood Young, both of Toronto.

The funeral took place this Monday afternoon.

LATE STEWART FRANKLIN GARRISON, (Thurlow Township)

Saturday afternoon, Jan. 13, the funeral of Stewart Franklin (Frank) Garrison took place from his late residence in the 4th concession of Thurlow Township. The service in the home was conducted by the Rev. A. Armstrong of Cannifton United Church, assisted by the Rev. William Sterling of Shannonville United Church. Entombment was made at Victoria Cemetery. The bearers were Messrs. Robert Miller, Blake Way, Wesley Bradshaw, Salton, Cooley, Charles Cole and Charles Miller.

LATE C. A. (FRED) McCOY (Remington)

Madoc (Special)—The funeral of the late Mr. McCoy was held at the family residence, Remington, on Saturday afternoon. The service was conducted by the Rev. Mr. Snelgrove, pastor of Queensboro circuit, who spoke very comfortingly from the text: "All the Days of my appointed time will I wait, until my change cometh" Job. 14-14. The hymns used were old favorites of the deceased, "Rock of Ages," and "Lead Kindly Light." Misses Annie and Bessie Fleming of Ivanhoe sang "There's a Wideness in God's Mercy." Mr. Dennis Chapman, with the alto accompaniment of Miss Alma Keene, sang "The Old Rugged Cross."

The pall bearers were Earl McCoy, John Thompson, Allan Ketcheson, Earl Burnside, Dave Fleming and Philo Harris. Flower bearers were Presley Nickle and Hubert Harris.

Interment was made in Hazzard's cemetery.

MRS. MAUD M. DARLINGTON

The funeral of Mrs. Maud Mary (Luscombe) Darlington, late residence, 254 Coleman Street, took place from the Pinkston Funeral Home, 268 Church Street, on Saturday afternoon, Jan. 13th., and many friends were present at the service which was conducted in the chapel by the Rev. C. T. Olmstead, pastor of Victoria Avenue Baptist Church. During the service a vocal solo in keeping with the occasion was rendered by Mrs. Beecher Doolittle, with organ accompaniment by Miss Laura Lavoie.

The late Mrs. Darlington was a member of the Eastern Star Belleville Chapter No. 55 and the last rites of the Order were conducted in the chapel by Bro. Clifford Baragar, Worthy Patron, and the following officers: Sister Maud Elliott, Worthy Matron; Sister Dorothy McGlashon, Associate Matron; Sister Essie Naylor, D.D.G.M., Chaplain; Sister Evelyn Lick, Marshal; Sister Lily Law, I.P.M., "Adah"; Sister Phyllis Barlow, P.M., "Ruth"; Sister Lola Wilkin, "Esther"; Sister Hazel Baragar, "Martha"; Sister Edna Morden, "Electa"; Sister Ada McDonald, Soloist; Sister Phyllis May, Organist; Bro. Clarence Clapp, Sentinel.

Interment was made in Belleville cemetery, the service at the graveside was conducted by the Rev. C. T. Olmstead.

The bearers were Messrs. Albert Wonnacott, William Wonnacott, Edward Hogle, Harry Bryant, Henry Hales and Hector Poste.

C. A. S. F. UNITS REMAIN ROOTED IN HOME DISTRICT

Training Centre for Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment Established at Montreal

CANADIAN EQUIPMENT

(By Frank Flaherty, Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Ottawa, Jan. 15—(CP)—Every unit in the Canadian Active Service Force which serves overseas will remain firmly rooted in its home district in Canada. Under the plan for recruiting reinforcements now in effect the local associations of each battalion and each battery are being carefully fostered.

This is a different arrangement from that which prevailed in the first Great War when the battle units of the Canadian Expeditionary Force sometimes were comprised of men from widely scattered parts of the country and had little to give them a sense of representing any particular part of Canada.

Reinforcements for the units in the first overseas division are now being recruited in the areas from which the units themselves were recruited by depots left behind by these units. When trained and required for service they will proceed overseas directly to their own units.

The number of reinforcements eventually required for its unit naturally will depend on the service the unit undergoes and the functions it performs. The National Defence Department has established a quota for each type of unit now overseas and proposes to keep the number of men available as reinforcements up to that figure.

Not Trained at Home

While the reinforcements will be drawn from the home communities of the first division units they will not be trained at home. A training centre for all machine gun reinforcements is being established at Montreal. Other training centres will provide for infantry and artillery. At these centres the men who eventually will join the Royal 22nd Regiment of Quebec, the 48th Highlanders of Toronto, the Saskatoon Light Infantry, the Edmonton Regiment, the Seaforth Highlanders of Vancouver, the West Nova Scotia Regiment, the Carleton and York Regiment of New Brunswick, the Royal Montreal Regiment, the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment of Eastern Ontario, and the various artillery, engineer and other overseas units will be concentrated for training but will retain their separate identities as units.

In this way the policy of making the forces overseas representative of all part of Canada will be maintained. The spirit of comradeship will be encouraged by the association together of men with similar backgrounds and common friendships and interests in Canada. Each unit will also have a sense of responsibility to uphold the honor of some city, town or district.

Equipment From Canada

The overseas forces also will be rooted in Canada in that the bulk of their equipment, except for heavy articles such as field guns and tanks will be products of Canadian factories.

A plant at Toronto is producing Bren machine guns, the standard light automotic rifle. None have yet been delivered but the contract between the government and the company calls for deliveries in the period immediately following March 1, 1940.

Shells, grenades and rifle ammunition are being produced in quantities in privately owned Canadian plants and government arsenals.

Before leaving for England, the first division was equipped with new uniforms of the battle dress style all made in Canadian factories. All Canadian troops whether in Canada or abroad now have complete outfits of clothing, including underwear, gloves or mits, boots and great coats.

So far as heavy equipment is concerned Canada has sufficient guns in the country for training purposes. The purchase of additional artillery pieces for use in Canada is not contemplated and for service in the field the troops will probably continue to receive their guns from British sources.

CAPT. F. BRADLEY BIDDEN FAREWELL

Presented With Cigarette Lighter and Case Before Joining C.A.S.F.

The home of Captain and Mrs. Fred Bradley, 287 Albert street, was the scene of a farewell party given in honor of Captain Bradley on Friday evening last.

The Bridge Club and many friends from various parts of the city including ex-service men were present to spend a social hour and bid God speed to Captain Bradley, previous to his departure for duty with the C.A.S.F. at an eastern point in Canada. Mr. W. H. McBrien on behalf of the assembled guests, presented Captain Bradley with a beautiful cigarette lighter and case.

Captain Bradley enlisted for service in His Majesty's forces as a sapper with the engineers and was commissioned on the field and later joined the 19th Battalion as a signalling officer. His services were of an outstanding order and that he has again been accepted for Empire service is a distinction of which he may well be proud.

His son Paul Bradley is also serving with the R.C.A.F. and is giving yeoman service as wireless operator at one of Canada's leading air stations.

Mrs. (Capt.) Bradley, well known Belleville soloist and charming hostess of the evening provided the guests with a delicious buffet lunch.

The best wishes of Capt. Bradley's many friends will follow him in his field of service.

Army Truck Breaks Electric Light Standard

An Army Service Corps truck, driven by Pte. Clarence Lahey, backed into a city electric light standard, in front of the City Hall on Saturday afternoon, breaking the standard off near the base. The tall iron standard crashed to the sidewalk with considerable force, narrowly missing a passing pedestrian. Pte. Lahey was backing the R.C.A.S. truck into the curb to park the vehicle and failed to observe the street standard, he told police later. Public Utility employees later arrived and made the base of the standard, which was exposed with live electric wires, safe by placing a protecting box over the iron base. Later the entire mechanism was disconnected until a new standard could be erected today.

Batman Locks Bag Then Puts Keys In His Pocket

With the British Expeditionary Force Somewhere in France, Jan. 15—(CP-Cable)—One batman back at Aldershot must be a little worried about what his officer will say when he gets back from France.

He packed the bag of Brigadier G. R. Pearkes, who came to France with Major-General McNaughton. Then he locked it and put the key in his pocket. The key probably still is in his pocket.

What he doesn't know is that Brigadier Pearkes, after an embarrassing time aboard the transport, was helped by a fellow officer, who produced a bundle of keys, one of which opened his baggage.

Police in Possession Of Child's Hand-Sleigh

City police are in possession of a child's hand-sleigh that was found abandoned on the Moira River ice last Saturday. The sleigh was found by police during another investigation that resulted in the recovery of some stolen goods reported last week. Otherwise activities were quiet in local police circles over the week-end, only nine transients seeking shelter at the police station last night, despite the season's worst wintry storm.

ORDER CANCELS

One informed observer said Great Britain took the view a German invasion of the low countries was not imminent, but that "potential danger" existed.

Some military strategists were inclined to interpret the reported shifting of German attack units along neutral borders as another stroke in a "war of nerves."

The Daily Express observed: "Hitler's object is to keep us guessing, and guesswork is only playing his game."

Comment Given

Commenting on preparations of the neutrals, the Daily Mail said:

"One suggestion is that these increased precautions are due to friendly, unofficial warnings from Italy of a coming German attack. Neutral countries in the unhappy situation of being Germany's neighbors do not lack warnings."

It was suggested in unofficial quarters that Britain's suspension of army leaves might be a warning to Germany of her sympathy with Belgium and the Netherlands.

It was not known whether the order affected the leaves of the Royal Air Force, which has just completed a week of unusual activity in chasing enemy planes from the east coast and reaching far over Germany in its own survey flights.

Scouting Sortie Indicated

Another scouting sortie by British fliers was indicated last night when the Bremen radio station went silent, as on previous occasions when enemy planes were sighted.

In Paris, French semi-official sources declared there was no reason to confirm "that a German offensive is on the point of being unleashed, and that it is only a question of days or hours."

A semi-official statement said the Germans had made "certain re-groupings" along the Belgian and Netherlands frontiers over the week-end and asked:

"Are we on the eve of a new manoeuvre of diplomatic-military intimidation directed against the western neutrals?"

The statement added:

"Nothing permits us to affirm the imminence of it, but everything allows us to fear it."

RUSSIAN BOMBING

Raids which drove residents of the capital to cover twice during the day killed three persons.

Residence U. S. Minister Damaged

The former residence of the United States Minister was damaged by bombs in Grankulla, resort town west of Helsingfors, but nobody was injured. The American Minister, H. F. Arthur Schoenfeld and his legation staff had moved a few days ago to larger quarters.

Observers believed the Soviet airmen mistook the legation for a Finnish headquarters.

Rajamaki was reported the target for more than 300 bombs. One hundred and fifty were said to have fallen on Karja, both southern Finnish cities.

Fires still flared on the seacoast city of Hangoe (Hanko) and 20 homes were reported destroyed at Tammisaari, 60 miles west of the capital. Other centres raided included Riihimaki, Lohja, Lappvik and Porvoo.

Dozens of bombs from about 100 planes were aimed along the Abo-Helsingfors Railway but the line was reported not damaged.

The Finns said two enemy aircraft were shot down.

On the eastern front, the Russians were believed to be bringing up reinforcements for a new drive to cut off Finland in the "waistline" sector, scene of the defeat of the 163rd and 44th Russian divisions.

FRANCO-BRITISH

He saw reflected in the words of the French philosopher, Pascal, the kind of peace France seeks: "Justice without might is a contradiction, because there are always evil men; might without justice stands accused. Justice and might should go hand in hand; we should therefore see that what is just is strong, and that what is strong is just."

Count de Dampierre said a French writer had expressed the situation aptly when he declared that "Germany is entitled to be Germany, but her right in that respect should end there."

A Profound Effect

"Need I tell you that the step taken by the Canadian Parliament had a profound effect in France?" he asked. "The co-operation decided upon unanimously by a people to whom we are bound by so many ties was learned without surprise, because we knew that apart from all other considerations you could not remain absent from this crusade for Christian civilization and freedom, but with deep satisfaction, because the memory of the Canadian legions of the last war has remained too vivid with us, for the soldiers of France not to be eager to extend once more a fraternal hand to the men of Canada who will be coming soon, under the leadership of able commanders like Major-General McNaughton, to take their place of honor and of glory in the great common test.

"And since then, all the manifestations of the magnificent war effort pursued by the Federal Government under the enlightened direction of Rt. Hon. Mr. Mackenzie King, have had profound repercussions in France, and so have all manifestations of your ever-growing unity, which appears to us, Frenchmen, as the extension on the American continent—not to say the synthesis of the intimate union of two races and two Empires closely united for struggle and for victory."

Survive Period Better

Count de Lampierre felt that because the French have more imagination and resourcefulness than the Germans they would be able to survive better the period of watchful waiting before the trials and bloody battle preceding the "total and complete victory of which we are certain, and which will open to Europe and the world a new era of peace."

He said the Germans had promised new and dangerous inventions and recently had presented the magnetic mine, but now "they probably expect to conquer us by means of another weapon—boredom."

LIGHT SNOWFALL

Rain of Great Value to Farmers

Farmers generally agreed the rain was of inestimable value after a drought serious enough to affect milk production and cause heavy expense for the hauling of water to feed livestock.

Western Ontario reported that following rains which swept away most of the old snow, a high wind sent the temperature plummeting below freezing and brought fresh snowfalls. A gale of 35 to 45 miles an hour swept the area.

Deep Snow in Porcupine

Two feet of snow fell in the Porcupine district, blocking highways and roads. A fresh blanket of snow in the North Bay area brought temperatures of a new high level for this period of the winter. The snow is a boon to lumbermen who shortly will start hauling one of the largest log cuts in years.

Most roads in the Algoma and Sudbury district were reported open despite a snowstorm lasting since early Sunday and continuing today. Snow ploughs worked all night on main highways. Telegraph and telephone companies reported minor troubles and lighting service was interfered with by the storm in Sault Ste. Marie for a short time yesterday.

Peterborough, in Eastern Ontario, reported a week-end precipitation of 1.13 inches, mostly rain, which was the heaviest rainfall since last July. Traffic was crippled by the snow, sleet, rain and high winds and roads are almost impassable because of six to eight inches of slush and ice. A blizzard is sweeping the district today.

Snow and Rain Delay Ice Out.

Ice companies at Cornwall were delayed by rain and thaw from cutting their year's supply in the Cornwall Canal. The temperature remained above the freezing point today following a pelting rain Sunday. Highways in Brockville district were free of snow and ice today following springlike weather conditions during the week-end.

The worst snowstorm of the season struck the Northumberland County district, disrupting traffic.

The Buffalo-Fort Erie ferry is not operating today due to high water in the Niagara River caused by a jam of Lake Erie ice in the upper river.

At Welland, Joseph Wilson, Provincial agricultural representative, said that an inch of rain which fell on the district yesterday, brought great benefit to farmers whose wells were dry because of inadquate falls in recent months.

Two Inches of Rain.

Nearly two inches of rain was recorded at London with colder weather forecast for tomorrow. A stiff wind kept main highways clear of snow Sunday. A Sunday thaw in Hamilton met with a sudden reverse and the district was gripped by winter again today. A gale that sprang up last night brought light snowfall and lower temperatures.

An average of nearly an inch of rain fell on Western Ontario points including Stratford, Kitchener, Galt, Sarnia, Brantford and St. Thomas. Light snow during the night plunged the temperature down to freezing. Several inches of snow was reported in the St. Thomas area.

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

THE afflicted aspects of three of the major planets may make this a difficult day. There are signs of conflicting impulses and decidedly opposite objectives although there will be much force and enterprise to be brought to bear when plans and programs are finally decided upon. This energy may be fitful, erratic and possibly belligerent, with fluctuations between strife, turbulence and discouragement. However, there are definite auguries for composing discords and hostility by tact or strategy, but in all contracts and correspondence be alert and cautious.

Those whose birthday it is may find themselves confronted by a year of confusion and conflict, with great difficulty in making a choice between two or more contradictory urges. The energies are under high pressure and the mind torn between two fields of operation, with alternate aggressiveness and frustration, initiative and depression. In writings of every nature use caution.

A child born on this day may have many conflicts of character and impulses, with much tension and initiative accompanied by gloom, indecision and eccentricity. Proper training might eradicate

RED CROSS

Under Holmes' scheme, the quints would be in New York four or five weeks, starting May 11, returning to their home in Callander before mid-June when the tourist rush starts. At the fair they would be exhibited behind "one-way glass" in a replica of their present home.

Guarantees $100,000

Holmes told Red Cross officials a guarantee of $100,000 would be posted for the society's war work, but they decided "after due consideration" and "notwithstanding the tempting terms" to recommend rejection of the offer.

They concluded that if they agreed to sponsor the visit "the Red Cross would in a sense be exhibitors of these children," a situation which the officials considered not consistent with traditions of the Canadian people or of the society.

(At Ottawa Henri St. Jacques, lawyer for Oliva Dionne, father of the quints, indicated there was no possibility now that the New York offer will be accepted. He said friends of Mr. Dionne know he always has been against public showings of his daughters "at home or any other place."

(At North Bay Judge J. A. Valin Chairman of the Guardian Board commented: "That takes care of that. I hope we won't hear any more about world fair offers.")

Holmes disclosed details of the proposal Saturday in a letter to Keith Munro, quints business manager, in which he said "every conceivable provision for the health, safety and comfort of the children" would be made.

The offer was similar to one made by fair officials last winter except that the Red Cross would be the beneficiary under the present proposal instead of the quints.

(At North Bay, Munro said that normally the Board of Guardians would not meet until early February but that he might arrange a special meeting to consider the proposal.

WAR LOAN SALE

Small Invester Protected

Cash subscriptions definitely will be limited to $200,000,000, the Finance Minister said but he promised that the small investor would get the preference in allotments.

Even if there is over-subscription the books will remain opento allow time for the small investors to get their applications on record, Col. Ralston told newspapermen.

Mr. Lapoint, speaking in French immediately after the Finance Minister, said "the government wishes to enlist the co-operation of everyone. This great economic drive must not be the effort of a small minority, but the offensive of a whole nation against the powers of destruction".

He said that the defeat of the democracies would be followed by a wave of despotism. "Let us realize that Canada, because of her natural resources, her modern economic machinery, her vast uninhabited territories would be an ideal conquest for a victorious enemy, a demographic reservoir for its over-populated lands, a stepping stone for its military dream of hegemony on the American continent".

To Safeguard Freedom

Canada is at war to safeguard her freedom, Mr. Lapointe said, to defend it with determination as the soldier fights to hold every single inch of his native land. "We fight Hitlerism and Communism because we do hate, from the bottom of our hearts, their brutal and destructive philosophy.'

The government has energetically refused to consider inflation to finance the war, he continued, so it is asking $200,000,000 from the savings of the people and "it is in many respects an act of profitable patriotism to subscribe to the loan."

Col. Ralston emphasized the value of the subscription of individual citizens in modest circumstances which he said was just as important as subscriptions of large financial institutions.

An optimistic industrial outlook was outlined by the Finance Minister who said that United Kingdom purchases during the first year of the war probably will be between $400,000,000 and $500,000,000. This would be an increase of from $60,000,000 to $160,000,000 compared to 1938 figures.

Canada's Help Encouraging

"Already in this war Canada's activities have wonderfully helped and encouraged our Allies", the Finance Minister said, "and have been correspondingly disheartening to our enemies.

"I look confidently to the day, and, unless all signs fail, it isn't far off, when, because of your support, Canada will be able to send more good news to our Allies and more bad news to our enemies, in the form of an announcement that Canada's first war loan has been an unqualified success.

"I ask every loyal man and woman from coast to coast to join in whole-hearted and unsparing effort to make that success speedy and overwhelmingly decisive. The watchword is:— Make your dollars fight for freedom".

SOVIET PROTESTS

"The governments of Norway and Sweden do not deny all the facts proving violation by them of the policy of neutrality. Such a position by the governments of Sweden and Norway conceals danger.

"It testifies to the fact that the governments of Sweden and Norway do not offer proper resistance to the influence of those powers which strive to involve Sweden and Norway in war against the U.S.S.R."

Representations Made

The Soviet minister to Sweden made his emphatic representations to Swedish Foreign Minister Christian Gunther Jan. 5, and a protest in similar language was made the same day in Norway. Tass said Norway replied the next day, and Sweden answered Jan. 10.

Sweden was warned that aid for Finland and attacks on Russia in the Swedish press "may lead to undesirable complications."

The Russian envoy made three points: 1. That the "inexcusable campaign" in the Swedish press could be explained only "if Sweden were in a state of war with the U.S.S.R., or preparing for a state of war"; 2. That "thousands" of "volunteers" for Finland had been enlisted at 47 bureaux under "protection of Swedish authorities"; 3. That Sweden was supplying arms directly to Finland and permitting transit of "war material of every description" for the Finns.

The Russian representation to Norway charged that the Norwegian press and quarters "closely connected with the government" had been carrying on an "unrestricted campaign against the Soviet Union which cannot but cause harm and complications" to Russo-Norwegian relations.

Six Points Enumerated

Tass' resume of the Norwegian answer said it gave assurances of Norway's intention to preserve "the neutrality proclaimed by it in regard to war in foreign states," and of her hope that friendly relations with the U.S.S.R. would continue.

Similarly, said Tass, Sweden's reply ended with an expression of hope it had removed the possibility of misunderstanding and had proved to Russia there was "no ground for accusations against the Swedish Government."

Tass enumerated six points in Norway's reply:—

1. That accusations of violations of neutrality by Norway "are based on incorrect information;"

2. That utterances in the Norwegian press against the Soviet Union emanate from private individuals and are not approved by responsible quarters;

3. That Norway renders no assistance in the organization of recruiting committees there;

Recruiting Prohibited

4. That Norway's laws prohibit recruiting for the military service of a forgeign state and, therefore, is not permitted;

5. That, similarly, Norwegian authorities do not assist in shipments of arms or war material to Finland; that "if individual persons voluntarily go abroad to participate in a war, this, in the opinion of the Norwegian Government, does not constitute a violation of neutrality."

6. That the transit of arms across Norway likewise is in no conflict with international law, but that, "insofar as the Norwegian Government is aware, transit of war material to Finland across Norway has not taken place while private exports of these supplies take place in the most insignificant dimensions."

Sweden, Tass said, declared her people cherish ardent sympathy for Finland, and that it finds reflection in the press, but that Swedish law prevents abuse of freedom of the press, particularly with regard to insulting foreign powers and their representatives.

Daily War Survey

By The Canadian Press

The reality of Finland's victory over invading Russian armies is demonstrated by a review of the six weeks of fighting on Finnish soil, fighting which has brought heavy losses to the invaders and gained them little in the way of strategical advantages.

It was on Nov. 30 that the Russians marched into Finland by nine different routes, seeking to repeat Germany's lightning conquest of Poland and crush the small Finnish army under a mass of men, tanks, shells and bombs.

At the end of six weeks the Finnish forces are still fighting, have stopped the Russians at five of the nine points of invasion and actually thrown them back out of Finnish territory at the other four points. Moreover, in three areas at least Finnish patrols are operating on Russian soil.

The greatest advance into the Finnish interior made by the Russians is a little over 35 miles.

While the Finns were outnumbered and poorly equipped as compared with the Russians they apparently enjoyed particularly favorable weather. The Russians had to contend with a winter which was three weeks late in settling down and then turned out to be unusually severe.

Not for eight years has Finland had such a heavy fall of snow or such intense and prolonged cold in a corresponding period of the year.

PREMIER HEPBURN says:

"ONTARIO STANDS READY"

"Ontario is responsible for one-half the industrial output of the Dominion, and forty-four per cent of the entire production from all sources. Translated into money, this means over Two and One-Quarter Billion Dollars annually.

"By unanimous resolution of the Legislature, Ontario indicated her immediate readiness to mobilize these immense resources on behalf of Great Britain and France, the two great democracies from which most of our people have sprung.

"The issues in the present conflict have been so clearly drawn that our freedom-loving citizens were never more unitedly resolved to accept the challenge. With men, materials, and resources, Ontario stands ready."

(Signed) M. F. HEPBURN, Prime Minister.

ONTARIO has four hundred and twelve thousand square miles with the largest population in the Dominion, as well as great diversity in activities. She has mines, farms, fruits, industries, woods, lakes and mighty rivers. Ontario has lived up to her opportunities; expanded her markets to all parts of Canada and the Empire — buying from all parts of Canada — selling to all parts.

Remember, when you buy a Canadian-Built car, you are helping support an industry that distributes more than $22,000,000.00 annually in wages and salaries to many thousand families dependent on the industry itself. Add to these the families that are supported by industries supplying raw and finished materials to the Automobile manufacturers, and you get an idea of what this activity means to the Canadian Home Market.

A busy Automotive Industry in war time is a live asset indeed — a truly national war enterprise.

UNITY IS VITAL IN WINNING THE WAR

Our Soldiers, Sailors, Airmen — our Industrial Army—our men and women who are enlisted "During the Duration" to assist in every way the Empire in her struggle — all of these find their real strength and esprit de corps in the Unity of the Dominion that stands behind them.

WATCHING THE WEATHER

During the past few days the weather has attracted a great deal of attention.

Farmers have been looking for a thaw which will fill the empty wells, creeks and drinking places for stock. Present handicaps of long-distance haulage, it is hoped, will soon disappear. Water is one of the chief essentials on the farm both in summer and winter, in winter particularly for the use of stock.

The snow, thaw and rain of the weekend will help to solve the problems of the farmer over water scarcity. A share of this moisture may find its way into reservoirs of creeks and wells and also cisterns. Some of the moisture will remain on the ground in the form of snow made more heavy by saturation with melted snow and with rain. Farmers welcome the thaw as some relief of the situation.

Woodstock Sentinel - Review refers to conditions in western Ontario sections where farmers have had to draw water for distances. Mention is made of Port Burwell area, Peel, Halton, Lambton, Huron, Haldimand and Wentworth. The Sentinel-Review says:

"It is evident that the water levels in wells in the districts indicated have been gradually falling for several years, but it is only during the past two or three years that general shortage of water has manifested itself. In each of these years, especially with the advent of winter, the wells have gone dry and farmers have had to resort to extraneous supplies.

"So far as those localities in Ontario now suffering from a shortage of water are concerned, there is nothing much that can be done about it immediately. If nature acts true to form, there will be the traditional "January thaw"—evidently at hand—which will put surface water into the wells and the urgent problem of the present will be solved. For a permanent solution, however, the farmers will have to deepen their wells and, in some cases, it may be necessary to construct other reservoirs to collect the summer rain. This is a task with which Ontario farmers never expected to be confronted but it brings home to them the enormity of the offence against natural laws embodied in the indiscriminate destruction of the country's once abundant forests."

APPLES AND WHY MORE SHOULD BE USED

Canadians still have the opportunity to do a good deed for the apple. An apple a day it is said will keep the doctor away and a good deed for the apple would be to use more apples because of the good the apple does for the human body and health.

Last fall it was apparent that Canadians would have to rally to the apple because of the outbreak of war which affected the export market. Then it was felt that Canadians should consume as many apples as they could, because they are a valuable commodity and mean money to Canada.

The apple lends itself to many uses and those who draw up recipes are presenting Canadians with more and more choice dishes which are fit to place before the best company. The people of other ages knew the value of apples before the world from abroad opened up its wide range of fruits and these people enjoyed rugged health. One has only to read English literature to see what it is said of the apple. It is described in early English writings and has never lost favor because it has always been associated with the food of the British people.

Canadians are particularly blessed in the flavor of the apples grown in our climate.

Modern apples are all developments of the one species which in its wild state is known as the crab-tree, pyrus acerba. This plant is found in woods and on waysides of most temperate lands. Its fruit is austere and is collected mostly for the sake of its acid juice.

But it is a far step from pyrus acerba to the apple of today. The Roman people knew twenty-two kinds of apple, the pyrus mala, or cultivated apple-tree. At the present time it is the most widely-diffused and perhaps the most valuable of all fruit-trees. New varieties are constantly being developed and as they are generally propagated by grafting, the old ones gradually die out. The variety that produced the once-well-known costard or custard, does not now exist.

Malic acid, extracted from the apple is used in medicine, Cider, the juice of the apple, is the well-known favorite drink.

The apple is one of the products of Canada on which the people ought to concentrate in their gastronomic needs for the apple is as healthy for mankind today as it ever was. It is a part of patriotism to use as many apples as possible.

MAKING USE OF WINTER

War usually slows up in winter but the Russians started, their invasion of Finland in the winter and the Finns are hoping winter lasts long and maintains its severity so that they may continue the series of glorious victories they have achieved over the Red armies of Joseph Stalin. Four great victories have been won by the Finnish armies, showing a strategy, ingenuity and courage of rarest quality. The Russian advance to the Gulf of Bothnia has been cut off in the latest triumph of the Finns.

At this moment there is concern in Western Europe lest Hitler try to defy winter and make a campaign against the Allies by attempting to turn their flank by invasion of neutral countries. The Allies are prepared against any such eventuality. In the years 1914-18 winters were not the occasion of great offensives. But Hitler may feel pushed to make the attempt because of the Russian disasters in Finland and the blockade by sea.

But the Finns go on with their war and take every advantage they can of the season.

Even when the spring time comes, it is believed that they will be able to make, a fine showing against the Slavic armies for Finland is to receive aid from neutrals or non-belligerents and the Allies.

RUSSIAN 'MYSTERY' WEAPON TAKEN BY FINNS

Russia claims a mystery war weapon, but the Finns say they have taken one of them, a sled tank on skis.

The machine built for snow-covered areas uses a propeller which creates great speed. But the problem is to control it, to brake it, and to prevent its overturning into snow.

Rough terrain and hilly country would make such a tank ineffective, for its great speed is its undoing in that theatre of war.

WIND AND COLD TIE UP DICTATORS' PLANS

Wind and weather are playing havoc with the dictatorships of Russia and Germany in their plans. Finland's winter is an epic of tragedy for the Soviet armies because of winter, the agile Finns and the strong Mannerheim defences. Winds blow across Europe, and the icy cold have tied up traffic in the Black Sea and in the Baltic. The flow of raw material for the Germans is held up, it is said.

The Russians when they were fighting at home against Napoleon made use of the winter of 1812. The Finns in 1940 have used the winter which has been even more severe than the Russian snows which sapped the strength of Napoleon's armies.

PARACHUTISTS AT DISADVANTAGE

The Finns seem never to fail to take advantage.

The Russians invented parachute invasions.

But the Finns are alert, they pick off the splendid targets with the landing Red invaders dangling from parachutes in the sky.

There seems rarely to be an innovation but it has its disadvantages. At least it is true in the parachute invasions.

Parachutists have another disadvantage, they cannot rise.

Some one has suggested that fame awaits an inventor who will produce a mechanism which will cause a parachute to rise or to proceed downward or upward at the will of the parachutist.

'Freedom' Radio Station Still Evades Gestapo

London, Jan. 14—(CP)—One of the war's mysteries, how the German "freedom" radio station works, is discussed in a booklet, "Freedom Calling," By Frederick Muller, who describes himself as the station's representative in Britain.

"Thousands of voluntary helpers," he writes, "keep the station informed and up to date and send in hot news. There is no broadcasting news. Its technical staff consists of three or four people, but its contributors number thousands. It has the greatest reporting staff in the world."

The station is mobile. One day the Nazis stopped all cars heading for Berlin in an effort to locate it. A few days later all furniture vans in Wuerttemberg were held up. Then barges on the Rhine were stopped and searched. But still the broadcasters evade the Gestapo.

Treatment of Curvature of The Spine

One of the gratifying results of the physical examination of school children is the early discovery of spinal curvature. Parents should remember this when they hesitate about giving permission to the school physician or nurse to have sufficient of the child's clothing removed to get a good view of the spine.

A curvature that is not discovered until the youngster is well along in his or her teens is difficult to correct by exercises and even operation may not give good results.

Dr. H. F. Ullrich, Baltimore, in American Journal of Surgery, states that the objective to be attained in the treatment of scoliosis (curvature of the spine) should be to correct the curvature completely and to maintain this correction permanently.

"After complete physical and X-ray check-up, the patient should have exercises to improve posture, increase the flexibility of the spine, and keep in close touch with the clinic. While these exercises may be sufficient to correct slight or early cases, they will not correct completely many others, so that if parents can see, after the child and instructor have worked faithfully with the exercises for weeks and months, that they are not getting results, they are more willing to allow operation. No parent likes to feel that he or she has not done all that was possible to have this disfiguring condition corrected and prevent the inferiority complex that may be present later. The operation consists in straightening out the curve and splinting the bones together to hold the spine straight."

"Often patients come in complaining of a painful spot in the spine and examination reveals the curvature. Such patients often do not have deformities sufficiently severe to require or warrant a long period of treatment. Exercises and massage should be begun and if these are not successful, operation is advised."

ZOLOMY SENTENCED IN GUELPH COURT

Guelph, Ont., Jan. 15. (CP)—Alex Zolomy, 16-year-old Hamilton youth who made a sensational escape from the Ontario Reformatory and whose hidden cache of explosives was uncovered by Hamilton police was sentenced by Magistrate Watt in police court here today to two years in Portsmouth penitentiary, Kingston, on each of three charges, one of escaping from the reformatory and two of automobile theft. He pleaded guilty to all charges.

All sentences are concurrent with the two years which Zolomy received in Hamilton yesterday. At the expiration of the two-year term in Kingston he will be returned to the reformatory to serve an unexpired term of nine months of the sentence he was serving when he escaped.

CHAPTER XXII

They had reached the center of town again. Kent refused to leave Star insisting that she would be cheated if he did not go with her. He was, she had to admit, very helpful. They shopped for painted Chinese mules and kimonas embroidered in snarling dragons. Star insisted on having the one she selected for Gloria brought to the light where she could see it better. The shopkeeper protested loudly that all his merchandise was perfect, but Star took the garment in her hand and walked toward the door.

"This dragon doesn't look as well padded to me," she objected.

"Of course you wouldn't want a wormy dragon," Kent agreed sarcastically while the shop owner threw up his hands in despair.

The bundles mounted rapidly and the short street, packed as it was with shops, was tiring enough when it had been completely covered. Star knew that Kent still expected her to go on with him to the hotel for lunch, and she wondered how she could refuse without making him angry again. But she was hot and tired, and the very thought of food was revolting. She had always disliked running from store to store and haggling over prices. Because of the novelty of the places this experience had been amusing at first. But after all it was shopping. She wanted to return to the ship and take a shower.

"So this is what you're doing!" Coates called as they emerged from a doorway.

"You seem to be doing it too," Star retorted glancing at the small package he held. "What did you get?"

"You'll find that out Christmas morning."

"It's for me?" Star was surprised and pleased. She had not thought of Coates taking the time and trouble to buy her a special gift. "Mayn't I have it now?"

Coates shook his head. Kent was scowling. Star was amused at the idea that he resented Coates buying her a gift. The latter stowed his own parcel in a pocket and held out his hands to take some of hers.

"Miss Sandringham and I aren't going back to the ship just yet," Kent said coldly.

Star was embarrassed by his tone. He was being deliberately rude, and she saw Coates raise an eyebrow quizzically.

"What's the matter, Barrett? You remind me of that old joke. You know—the patient recovered, but the doctor was sick."

"I'm glad you find your thoughts amusing."

"I don't care what either of you has planned," Star broke in impatiently. I'm hot and tired. I'm going to get back into that chariot and return to the ship."

Kent immediately walked over to where the carriage still stood in the dusty street. With a thump he dropped the bundles he had carried for her into the seat. Then without another glance he turned and strode away in the opposite direction.

Star felt guilty as she watched him go. She hadn't meant to be rude, but Kent Barrett certainly was a hard person to please, she thought rebelliously. After all, he had known what she wanted to do when he joined her. He had been entirely too officious in planning the day without consulting her wishes.

"Whew!" Coates let out a whistle. "Our doctor is in a bad humor. I say, I didn't break up anything, did I?"

"Not a all. I intended coming directly back to the ship. But I hadn't been able to convince Kent."

"Well, he's having such a running fight with Gloria I suppose it makes him touchy," Coates said indifferently. "Do you realize that we're in Cristobal?"

"Of course I do."

"Doesn't it mean anything special to you?"

"Yes. Christmas in two days. The big Christmas party—the trip half over."

"Nothing else?"

Star looked at him in surprise. "What else is there?"

"Tuesday we'll be in Kingston again."

"Oh, yes!" Star recalled without enthusiasm that she had promised to visit Coates' schooner when they returned to that port. The time when she would have to keep her promise had seemed far away then. Now it was here. There was no getting out of it. "You'll be leaving the ship won't you?" she asked politely.

"But you'll be coming with me to the schooner," he reminded her.

Star said feebly, "There's so little time. Do you think I'd better?"

"Why not? It will be something for me to remember for the next three months. I'll be down here at least that long, scarcely speaking to anyone but the gang I've got aboard. It gets mighty lonely."

Star was surprised at his explanation. She hadn't thought of Jack Coates being lonely while he was on an expedition. She had felt that his mind would be wrapped up in his work. But he made it impossible for her to refuse.

"Of course I'll come," she smiled, "for a little while. And after I leave if you get tired of my ghost walking around your ship you can just throw it overboard. A spirit is really the ideal traveling companion, isn't it?"

"That's a good-looking dress you are wearing, "Gloria said.

"Yes. I like it." Star looked down at the tight-fitting bodice and flaring skirt of white linen that was bound by many rows of dark blue braid. A huge sailor collar edged with the same braid hung almost to her waist in the back and gave her a peculiarly childlike air. She knew that Gloria's comment was not inspired by the way she looked, but was rather a subtle question as to where she was going. She hesitated and then decided there was no reason why Gloria shouldn't know.

"I'm going out with Jack Coates."

"That's right. He's getting off the ship here at Kingston, isn't he?"

"Yes, he's going through the customs now, then he's coming for me. We're going over to his schooner. Would you like to come along?"

Gloria shook her head. She had finally managed to maneuver Barton into inviting her to go on the shore trip with him. But she had no intention of telling Star her plans.

As a matter of fact Gloria knew all about the expedition to the schooner. She had seen Coates the night before and it had amused her to let him continue to think that Star had plenty of money. When she heard his plan for the following day she even had a few suggestions to offer.

She dressed slowly until Star left the cabin, but once the girl had gone out she locked the door and flew about with speed and precision. If Gloria's conscience bothered her at all during the preparations, or while she let down the shutter of the cabin and passed a small black bag through the opening to hands that were waiting for it, she paid no attention to it. In Gloria's lexicon there was only one important word and that was "I." And it suited her plans for the moment to help Coates in every way she could.

Star, meanwhile, had started toward the upper deck and then changed her mind. She had forgotten to tell Elise Cattrell of her plans for the day and she did not want the older woman to be disappointed if she was planning to make the shore trip with her. She wished that she and Elise were going ashore together. Perhaps she could make arrangements to meet Elise afterward at one of the hotels and they could all have tea together before saying good-by to Coates.

She quickened her steps with this thought in mind. But before she reached Elise's cabin she heard what seemed to be the sound of a kitten mewing. It was so faint that she thought she must be mistaken; she had seen no cat on board anyway. But there it was again. This time she was curious enough to stop and listen more intently. For a while the usual noises of the ship in port were all that she heard. As she was about to go on the sound came again. This time it seemed more human. Star looked up and realized that she was opposite the Underwood cabin. Could it be Stuart she had heard crying? She knocked and all sound ceased at once.

"Stuart!" she called. "Stuart, I've been looking all over for you. Where are you?"

There was no answer from the cabin and Star had a sudden fear that the boy had been hurt. Without waiting she turned the handle and the door opened. For a moment she did not see the child at all. But as her eyes became accustomed to the dim light she made out his small figure curled up in the easy chair next to the bed. Star went over and took him in her arms. Stuart turned his face away while she held him close without saying anything more. For a few seconds he managed to control himself, although Star could feel the throbbing of his heart.

Then all at once the storm came. This was a heartbroken little boy whose whole world had been smashed before his very eyes. Star patted the hot little head and rocked him gently back and forth. Stuart's sobs gradually subsided. Star wiped his face with her handkerchief and brushed the bright curls back from his forehead. As she had suspected, Stuart began to resent her intrusion as soon as he gained control of himself.

"I was looking for you," Star explained, "because I thought we might hunt tor that pirate that's down there under the water. You know this is where that wicked city sank right into the sea.

Stuart made no response, so after a pause Star tried again.

"I was looking for Miss Cattrell, too. I'm afraid she's going to be rather lonely today and I thought maybe she would want you to go around a little bit with her."

"She's gonna take me to Castleton Gardens," Stuart answered

Star said enthusiastically, "Oh, that's so nice! But aren't you going to go somewhere else too?"

"Where else?"

"To some of the shops?"

"Don't like stores"

"But, Stuart, this is different You know what day today is"

"It's Tuesday"

"No, I mean what holiday is it?"

"No holiday"

"Oh, Stuart, it is! Don't you remember the story I told you last night? It's the day before Christmas—Christmas Eve"

Speed Schooling of Young Airmen for Empire Plan

By ROSS MUNRO

Canadian Press Staff Writer

Ottawa, Jan. 15—(CP)—Canada's boys in the air force blue are riding the skies in first-line bombers and fighters, carrying on the Dominion's air tradition in the greatest aviation boom in the country's history.

The war has brought vast expansion to the Royal Canadian Air Force. There are new planes, hundreds of new pilots and a fearless spirit of high endeavor in the force that is preparing to defend Canadian shores and combat Nazi airmen in Europe.

With the R. C. A. F. forming the nucleus of the Empire air training scheme, there probably is not an air arm in the world with more significant potentialities or one which will make a greater contribution to the allies' success.

Only recently Prime Minister Mackenzie King said the Empire air training scheme might well be the deciding factor in this second Great War.

A year ago the force was a comparatively small peacetime organization flying old planes. But war in Europe has brought modern aircraft streaking across Canada's military airdromes.

Bombers From Quebec

A Bristol-Bolingbroke reconnaissance bomber, built in Quebec, is the most recent plane to be delivered and is the pride of the force. It has a speed of up to 300 miles an hour, carries 1,000 pounds in bombs and three machine guns and can cover 1,000 miles without refueling. Seventeen similar machines will be manufactured shortly for the R. C. A. F.

A dozen Westland-Lysander army co-operation planes are being used and more of these machines, manufactured at Toronto, are on order. At least 10 Lockheed Hudson bombers have been in service for the past two months. They are similar in design and size to the Trans-Canada Air Lines commercial Lockheed "14s."

Other aircraft being flown by the R. C. A. F. include high-speed Hawker Hurricane fighters, Blackburn Sharks, Spitfires, reconnaisance flying boats, and the new types of training ships, the Oxford and the Harvard.

The majority of these planes are of English design and have been manufactured in Canada or England by the government likely will now draw further on United States factories to provide such planes as the Lockheed bombers and the Harvard trainers. Total number of R. C. A. F. planes is a military secret, but it is in the hundreds and increasing daily.

The war has resulted in speeding up of the air force training plan with recruits being put through all stages in 28 weeks compared to the peacetime training which took 50 weeks before the pilot received his wings. At present Camp Borden is being used for the intermediate training and Trenton for advanced but before spring between 50 and 100 additional airports will be ready where Canadian and Empire airmen can learn to handle their planes for war. The R. C. A. F. Co-operation Squadron, which is to serve with the Canadian Active Service Force in France, is in training near Ottawa.

Arena 2,000 Years Old Gives Parisians Shelter in Dangers of Modern Warfare

By GLADYS M. ARNOLD
Canadian Press Correspondent

Paris, Jan. 15—(CP)—One of the safest and probably the most interesting bomb shelter in Paris was built by a Roman general. But he little realized what its ultimate use would be when he set his soldiers to work on it something around 2,000 years ago.

His chief concern at that time was to build a first class arena, capable of holding 8,000 spectators who enjoyed the amusement of seeing the lions eat the Christians — or an occasional battle between Roman gladiators.

Not far from the Mouffetard in the Latin Quarter — where the treasures of golden coins were discovered last winter when some 10th century buildings were torn down— a workman discovered what appeared to be a series of stone steps covered by earth. This was just a little over 30 years ago. He uncovered several and an archaeological expert looked over his find, declaring they were part of a Roman arena.

Parts of that ancient arena have been used over and over again down through the centuries in each series of buildings built on the spot. Pry a brick out almost anywhere in the quarter and you have a museum piece of Roman vintage.

Arena Uncovered

The buildings were torn down and after the war the whole arena was uncovered. It was found to be one of the finest in existence and very well preserved. The wide stone steps, divided in several series, led down gently into the playfield in the middle. Here the spectators sat. Under the seating and separated by protecting walls, were to be found caverns. These opened into the arena but their openings were covered with iron bars. Here the lions were kept — and sometimes they held captives. Other rooms were dressing rooms — and all of them up until a month or two ago remained in their original state.

Deep in the earth — running back under the streets and buildings — these serve today as excellent "shelters" so that the iron bars have been given a coat of anti-rust, they have been walled in; notices outside indicate seating accommodation. Here are the modern bomb-proof shelters which Caesar himself ordered built. The axis was the Rome-Paris and Hitler might well be expected to protest to Mussolini about it.

There are many strange shelters in Paris. The underground railway is, of course, the biggest, and serves as a natural one. But wine caves are excellent — according to those who drew them — and it is rumored that even the catacombs may come back into use. The walls, lined for miles with 10,000,000 bones and decorated with garlands of skulls (the humor of the workmen who piled them) might not be too cheeful company while waiting for a bomb.

Les Oubliettes (the forgotten) used to be a prison in the middle ages in which prisoners were walled up. Today it is a little music hall —but here too if the sirens scream out, the ancient calls — or at least some of them — ordinarily open to inspection and to give tourists a thrill may serve once more.

Four Injured When Vehicles Sideswipe

Four persons were admitted to the Belleville General Hospital late Saturday after being injured in a motor accident a few miles south of Mountain View on Highway No. 14, in which a motor car collided with a truck. The injured were Mrs. Lillian Cassleman, seven-year-old Billy Cassleman, David Sharkey, Hamilton, and Joseph Sharkey of the Hastings and Prince Edward Depot. William Cassleman, Belleville, driver of the motor car and Arthur Brown, Milford, the other driver, escaped uninjured. All of the injured persons were riding in Cassleman's north bound automobile, which was completely wrecked.

Brown was driving his truck southerly when it is said by investigating police that Cassleman's car sideswiped the truck and crashed into the ditch doing considerable damage to the lighter vehicle and injuring the occupants. Motorcycle Patrolman Sam Ervine and Provincial Constable Carl Fisher investigated.

Dr. R. A. Flynn attended the Sharkeys at the hospital while Dr. G. H. Stobie rendered medical attention to the two Casslemans. Mrs. Cassleman and her son sustained cuts about the lip and face while David Sharkey was injured about the head and shoulders, as was his brother, Pte. Joseph Sharkey.

AT THE McCARTHY

"TOWER OF LONDON"

If the shoe fits, put your foot in in.

When Basil Rathbone accepted the role of Richard 111 in Universal's powerful 15th century drama, "Tower of London," now playing at the McCarthy Theatre, he was indeed "putting his foot into it." And for all his years of stage and screen stardom, he did not know whether or not the shoe would fit.

The character of Richard is one that both defies criticism and invites it. For more personal reasons, Rathbone considered it easily one of his most important parts.

Richard has been played by many American actors, notably John Barrymore. A comparison between the stage and screen interpretations of the part was inevitable despite the fact that Shakespeare's Richard is not the "Crookback" of history.

"Shakespeare lived almost 100 years after Richard's death," Rathbone explains. The playwright lived during the regin of the Tudors, deadly enemies of the Yorkists, Richard's family. Naturally Shakespeare was required to paint Richard as a treacherous villain.

"As a matter of fact there is one school of historical thought that names Richard the strongest king in English history. He did murder five who stood between him and the throne, but the five were all weaklings or children. He may have been acting in what he felt were the best interests of the crown."

Rathbone takes no sides in the matter, but his portrayal of Richard is based on historical records, as is the entire story of "Tower of London." Boris Karloff, Ian Hunter, Barbara O'Neil, Nan Grey, Vincent Price and John Sutton have other leads. Rowland V. Lee produced and directed from the screenplay by Robert N. Lee.

QUINTE W. I.

The January meeting of the Quinte Women's Institute was held at Mrs. H. Greatrix's home on Tuesday, the ninth, with a good attendance.

The meeting was called to order by the president, Mrs. Connors and several letters of thanks for fruit or flowers were read by the secretary. Some bills were received and it was moved that they be paid.

Mrs. H. Grills reported on the buying of $20 of yarn, which was later given out to be knit for the Red Cross.

The convener of Canadianization Mrs. Parrot, then took charge of the meeting, which was opened by singing "The Maple Leaf Forever". "O Canada" was then sung. A paper "Become more acquainted with our patriotic songs and learn their meaning" was well prepared by Mrs. H. Walkom and read by Mrs. A. Greatrix. Mrs. Walkom gave the origin and meaning of many of the patriotic songs, telling how the King was much impressed by the singing of our Canadian children, our future citizens during His Majesty's visit to Canada. In closing members were urged from now on to put the feeling into the songs which they deserve. "We'll never let the old Flag Fall" was sung. Mrs. E. Leeming gave a humorous reading, "Mrs. Candle urged the Need of Spring Clothing" which all enjoyed. Roll call "Canadian Beauty Spots" was well responded to. Collection was $2.30.

The president then took charge of the meeting. A solo "Flow Gently, Sweetly Afton" by Mrs. F. Parrot was much enjoyed. Miss Lorena Haight gave a good report of several sessions of the Belleville Area Convention and later favored us by a piano solo.

The January collection was to be given to crippled children.

Truck Sinks in 100 Feet Water; Nine Narrowly Escape Death

Kingston, Jan. 15—Nine Wolfe Island residents late Saturday narrowly escaped drowning when a truck carrying six broke through the ice near Garden Island and a passenger car, at another point on the bay road route, by their good fortune got onto firm ice just as a weakened section was sinking.

The truck, owned and driven by Jack Murray, sank in 100 feet of water. Murray and Mrs. William Joslin were trapped in the cab and were dragged through the broken window a moment before the vehicle disappeared. The window was broken by William Joslin, who was riding on the running board.

Riding in the body of the truck were Jack McDonald, Frank Alarie and George Murphy. They escaped with a wetting. Murray said they left the city dock about 4 p.m. for Wolfe Island, about three miles aross the bay. Before they had travelled far, he saw several soft spots and he left the main ice track to avoid trouble. The ice gave way when they were about one-quarter of a mile short of Garden Island.

Driver of the car George McDonald and accompanying him where Miss Gertrude McDonald, a sister and Miss Mildred Docteur. He said, that he felt the ice giving way. "I give the engine the gas and in a fraction of a minute the car wheels caught hold and we seemed to leap up onto solid ice."

"I don't think I shall ever forget the experience," said Mrs. Joslin. "I have broken through the ice while driving a horse and cutter and have gone into the icy water while skating, but this was my first experience of breaking through the ice while riding in an automobile."

"Without the slightest warning the ice gave way from under us," said Mrs. Joslin, "and I realized that quick action was necessary if I were going to be saved. I tried to open the right-hand door of the truck, but it would not move. The water was then coming up on the floor of the truck. Just as I tried to open the door again, my husband, who had been riding on the running board of the truck, forced the glass in the door and pulled me right out of the car onto solid ice.

"I was wet to my waist by this time. After Bill, my husband, got me out safe and sound, he grabbed for Jack Murray, the driver, and pulled him out of the right-hand window, the same one which I was pulled through. Murray was very wet by this time and the truck was just above water. When I left the car the water was up to the top of the seat and rapidly sinking."

Total Loss

During Sunday afternoon other Wolfe Islanders visited the scene and tried to recover the Murray truck, but it could not be seen and is considered a total loss.

Mr. Joslin stated that the whole thing happened in a matter of seconds. "When I felt the ice give from under me I got from my position on the running board in a second. When I found that the door would not open I forced the window glass and reached in and grabbed my wife. I could see the water coming into the truck and realized that quick action was necessary. After I rescued my wife I leaned into the truck and got Mr. Murray out just as the truck was sinking. I have broken through the ice with a horse and have kept the horse afloat by shutting off its wind with the use of a rope, but this was my first experience in breaking through with a motor vehicle and I hope that it will be the last."

Mr. Joslin farms at the foot of Wolfe Island, about fifteen miles from the village of Marysville, which is the only village on the island. He said that while he was rather tired from the experience, he had suffered no ill effects.

Provincial Constable Gordon Campbell stated this evening that he had investigated the affair and had placed a lighted barrier on the Kingston shore forbidding people to drive on the ice with motor or horse-drawn vehicles.

Minerva Chapter, O.E.S. Instals 1940 Officers

Friday evening, January 12, the impressive installation ceremony of the Order of the Eastern Star was held in the Oddfellows' Temple, when the officers of Minerva Chapter, O.E.S. were installed for 1940. The hall was beautifully decorated with ferns and cyclamen and shaded lamp.

Previous to the installation ceremony the retiring matron, Mrs. Janet Twiddy, and the retiring patron, Mr. J. Lazenby, each expressed their appreciation of serving the Chapter and thanked the members for the wonderful support given to them.

Mrs. Grace Vanner, past matron, and installing officer carried out her duties very graciously. Assisting her were Mr. Garn Dobbs, past patron and the installing patron. Mrs. Janet Twiddy, immediate past matron, marshal, Mrs. Tina Reed, past matron, chaplain, Miss M. Gray, warder, Mr. T. Rainbird, past patron, sentinel, organist, Mrs. Stella McQuade, past matron of Trenton. Assisting in the East were Past Matrons, Mrs. Edith Robson, Mrs. Laura Hyde, Mrs. Bella Wonnacott, Miss Ella Bleecker and Past Patrons, Messrs. J. Lazenby, W. Embury, R. Andrews, A. Cooper, W. Adams, A. Wonnacott and H. Stewart of Unity Chapter, Toronto. The soloists were Miss Rose Gillett, and Dr. McQuade, past patron of Trenton.

A beautiful floral ceremony of Charity, Truth and Loving Kindness was most impressive. Those taking part were Mrs. Mary Parsons, Past Matron, Mrs. Elizabeth Hibbard, Miss Maude Burk, and Miss Dorothy Doolittle.

Mrs. Nellie Cooper, the newly installed matron, in a charming manner thanked the members for the honor conferred on her, reminded the members of their solemn obligation and extended a warm and gracious welcome to all present.

Mr. Fred Wilson, newly installed patron, also thanked the members for the honor given him and the privilege of serving this wonderful order, and extended greetings to the many guests and members present.

The many gifts and flowers presented to Mrs. Cooper testified the esteem of her friends and associates. Mrs. Coral Adams, district deputy grand matron presented Mrs. Twiddy with a past matron's jewel and Mr. Fred Wilson presented Mr. Lazenby with a past patron's jewel. Both officers made suitable replies. Retiring matron, Mrs. Twiddy was presented with a handsome walnut gateleg table from the officers and members also other gifts.

At the close of the Chapter a delicious lunch was served under the able convenership of Mrs. Lee Hinchey and Mrs. D. Stirland and their committee. Dancing to a three piece orchestra brought a delightful evening to a close.

The 1940 officers are—

Sit Up and Take Notice!

By HELEN FOLLETT

IF THE Young Person in your family circle trails about in a slouchy manner, don't snarl, "for goodness sake! stand straight." Won't do a bit of good. She's being arty, like the other girls. She has been to fashion shows, observed some or the mannequins who slumped in the chest, plopped out the tummy and looked as if they were about to die of something or other.

Lead her to understand, if you can, that without good posture she is likely, in future years, to have a figure like a davenport. That may throw a scare into her dizzy little mind. Tell her that when she stands upright the muscles are on a tension, holding the frame in perfect symmetry, which means that she will develop a fine figure and a graceful silhouette. More than that, by perfect carriage she will make the $10.75 bargain frock look like one that cost ten times as much. Isn't what you wear; it is how you wear it. The girl who has splendor of carriage looks better in a gingham dress than does the sloppy-weather girl in gold brocade.

When posture fails the shoulders are rounded, the waist thickens, the lines of the back are ugly.

Keep the backbone stretched full length when sitting, standing or walking. Keep the abdomen flat. Breathe deeply for development of the chest and normal breasts. No rigidity; just spirit and snap.

With skirts as short as kilts wou can't tuck your knees under your draperies and hide your little footies. For that reason you must sit pretty.

Sit far back in the chair; sit on the edge and you'll look as if you were about to leap up and run away. Cross the ankles if you like, but not the knees. Keep the head balanced; that practice will give you a pleasing neck line and good chin pose. Compose the hands. Fidgity hands drive people crazy.

Grace and good posture begin in the mind. If you are to appear lovely, you must have a feeling and appreciation of beauty.

MARY BETH HUGHES .... poses to show you how to sit prettily.

Sunday Morning Brunch is Fun!

Instead of serving a big Sunday dinner in the middle of the day and sitting around drowsily for hours afterwards, why not vary the schedule some Sunday soon and invite a group of congenial friends to Sunday brunch?

Sunday brunch (it's a whimsical word formed from breakfast and lunch) is a delightful, easy and inexpensive party, given at the leisurely hour of eleven or twelve.

These breakfast-lunch parties are becoming extremely popular with the hostess who must watch her entertainment-budget. For the menu should be simple—but the simplicity should be special. That is, the hostess should choose a few food itmes that she prepares especially well.

The "liquid refreshments" are fruit juices, very cold, and coffee, steaming hot. Orange juice is the favorite fruit juice, with grapefruit juice a popular runner-up. One hostess I know provides a row of pitchers, each containing a different fruit puice, orange,grapefruit, apricot, prune, pineapple and so forth. Some hostesses serve for the fruit course, hot baked apples with cream; serve figs with cream.

If you want to serve a cereal after the fruit course, try Scotch oatmeal or rice with brown sugar and cream.

If your scrambled eggs are a triumph, you'll probably like to feature them, either with tiny sausages or crisp bacon or frizzled ham or chicken livers. Fluffy codfish balls (not codfish cakes) are always popular with maple sugar or honey. A delectable hash—chicken, roast beef corned beef or lamb—is as newfashioned as it is old-fashioned.

Other suggestions are: chicken a la King, baked beans, omelets, baked eggs with bacon, creamed eggs or mushrooms or chipped beef or shrimps, broiled bacon on French toast.

I urge you to serve something very special in the way of bread: a delicious coffee cake; toasted English muffins; popovers; cinnamon or honey buns; baking powder biscuits, corn or blueberry muffins; Sally Lunn; bioche.

And, for accessories, a selection of marmalade, honey, jams, or your pet preserves, and maybe cottage cheese.

If you'd like to invite many guests, you can have your table set as you would for a buffet meal....and let the guests "help themselves."

DR. DAFOE'S COLUMN on the Quintuplets and the Care of Your Children

Birth Superstitions

I read the other day that the first child born in a European settlement in the Americas—it was on one of the West Indian islands—was delivered by Caesarian section. The operation goes back much farther than that, of course; it is believed to have been old even in the time of Julius Caesar, from whose birth it got its name. You would think that an operation as old as that would not be surrounded by so many erroneous and superstitious notions as is held today.

One of the most persistent beliefs is that a Caesarian delivery cannot be repeated. A variation of this superstition is that once a woman has a child delivered by a Caesarian section, she can never have a normal birth subsequently. Another variation is that woman always dies with her third Caesarian.

I know that doctors do not welcome repetitions of Caesarians. But so long as the operation is completely successful, and as long as the recovery is complete, there is no reason why a mother shouldn't have a half dozen babies by Caesarian section. However, I must admit that I don't know of any mother who has gone through so many. Not many women relish the idea of facing half a dozen major operations. Yet there is no reason why a half dozen couldn't be performed.

Another superstition about Caesarian section is that it causes sterility; that is, the mother cannot conceive again. Well, this may happen, but it isn't normal in a Caesarian.

A strange superstition about birth that has cropped up even amongst some very enlightened people—or, at least, to a country physician they seemed to be enlightened people, is that a baby is born all tired out because of the effort he has to make in getting out into the world. Well, a baby is born into the world weak and helpless and all that, but it certainly isn't because of his struggle to get born. Whatever it is that causes labor to begin at the end of the ninth month is still a mystery to us. We haven't been able to find out why labor begins when it does, but we do know that it isn't because the baby gets the wanderlust and decides to begin exploring. Actually the baby is pushed out of his comfortable home by the contraction of muscles which force him through the birth canal into the outside world.

There is one queer superstition rule of pregnancy handed down by old wives to their daughters and grand daughters for generations, that has always mystified me; it is that the pregnant woman must never raise her hands above her head. "If you do you will wrap the cord around the baby's neck and strangle him," they tell the poor young thing who is already pretty frightened for the well-being of her child. This is one superstition I have been at great pains to try and stamp out and I am afraid that I may have made some enemies in doing it. But when I have run across it I have always told the prospective mother that such a thing was ridiculous, that nature doesn't let a baby's welfare depend on such a silly rule.

The worst any contortion of a mother's body could do to the child she was carrying would be to squeeze, or jar it for a moment. The mother can't wrap the cord anywhere and no specific movement of the mother's can have any predetermined effect on the baby. Sometimes when I have told this to a pregnant woman I have heard a murmur of disapproval from some grandmother or some old neighbor who has subscribed to this belief for three quarters of a century and who isn't giving up believing it now just because some upstart of a doctor says so.

COLDS

Don't Upset Stomach By Drastic Dosing

Taking strong medicines into the stomach for colds may add to the misery by upsetting digestion. That's why 1 out of 3 Canadian mothers treat colds externally with Vicks VapoRub.

Just rubbed on throat, chest and back at bedtime, VapoRub acts on the skin like a warming poultice and —at the same time—gives off soothing medicated vapours that are breathed direct into the irritated air passages. Often by morning most of the misery of the cold is gone.

Etiquette in Placing Piano

By ELEANOR ROSS

A piano has always been a symbol of refinement and artistic inclination of the family, but until recent years it frequently was at odds with other furnishings in the room. Both the upright and the grand pianos have undergone astonishing style transformations, and instead of presenting problems to the decorator, they have opened up new fields for interesting arrangements.

Unlike the arrangement of other furniture in the living room, which is determined principally by appearance, there is a certain etiquette to be observed in the proper placement of a piano.

Consider Listeners

It should be remembered that a piano is primarily to be heard and that the convenience of listeners is of first importance. Whenever possible, the piano should be placed so that the player faces the room and the listeners. When this is impossible, the piano should be turned enough so that at least the hands of the player are visible to the audience.

The traditional wing-shaped grand piano should be placed so that the curve is presented to the room. Console and upright pianos quite frequently have to be placed with their backs against the wall. Sometimes, however, it is possible to find a sofa that is the same height and to arrange piano and sofa back to back at right angles to the wall. A number of the new console pianos have finished backs and can be pulled out from the wall in any arrangement that seems most attractive.

Use Large Mirror

If the piano has to be placed against the wall, try placing above it a large mirror that will reflect the face of the player. This will do much to relieve an uncompromising back-to-audience position. It is always wise to plan a "conversation grouping" of furniture about the piano, for it automatically becomes the centre of attraction when it is played. A couple of easy chairs, one of which is flanked by a table, makes an interesting and practical grouping.

In a room that has a fireplace, good balance can often be achieved by putting the piano against the opposite wall. The same suggestion applies to any grouping of heavy furniture, such as a large sofa and lounging chair; the piano should be on the other side of the room to keep things in proportion and harmony.

THEY'RE AT IT AGAIN

Oakland, Calif.—They're at it again. From a swallowable safety pin to a machine for harnessing the tide, the Inventors of America have thought up enough "gadgets" to fill a convention hall for their annual gathering in March.

Here's a preview-peak: There's a rubber sponge, slotted for soap, providing continuous lather for the shower addict. A miniature washboard to help the hotel wash-basin laundress. To save time at luncheon someone designed a combined salt and pepper shaker to save reaching twice. There are black gauntlets with red reflectors for night hitchhikers.

And there's a new one for the golfer too— paper tees that fold up flat for carrying and open up for play.

Advice to the Lovelorn

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

Happy But He Yearns For Slipshod Ease of Bachelorhood

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I was almost 40 years of age when I married a girl ten years younger than I. She is ideal in every way—a good wife, perfect mother and the best housekeepers. My happiness is more than I deserve. Every once in a while I yearn for the slipshod ease of bachelorhood, and wish I had a cubby-hole in which I could be as messy and untidy as I please.

When I throw newspapers around the floor, or come to the table in my dressing gown and slippers, or leave cigar stubs around, my wife only says it's hard to raise the children to be neat, when their adored father is untidy. She isn't the scolding kind, but this problem is beginning to get on my nerves.

Benedict.

I know it's hard for a bachelor husband to live up to the standards of a thoroughly tidy young wife. But just think of your compensations. Your wife refers to you as an adored father; if you had remained a bachelor, you'd probably be as lonesome as you were untidy.

Why not ask her to let you have and occasional slipper and dressing gown evening? If she's a sensible person, she'll agree to this.

Having Trouble Finding the Right Girl

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I'm having trouble finding the right girl. I'm past 25, and think it's time I was getting married. I've had dates with quite a few girls, but after taking them out a couple of times, something comes up which makes me think I wouldn't be happy with them. And so I drift from one to the other

Then too, some of the girls I thought would do didn't care for me. I have a little nest egg laid away to be used in the purchase of a farm when I marry. Right now I live with my parents on a small place in the country. So you see, I'm having a hard time deciding which is the right girl.

Farmer.

Don't lose heart; I don't believe you've met the right girl yet. You are still young. At 25 you needn't be anxious about getting married. If you go out with numbers of girls before you marry, you are much more likely to choose the right one in the end—one who will fulfill all your dreams of what a wife should be.

And while you are deciding, be sure you pick out a girl who likes to do the work around a farmhouse, such as cooking good substantial meals, making butter and cheese, canning and preserving and so forth.

Dear Miss Fairfax:

To Get a Letter Answered at Once

My boy friend comes to Sunday night supper almost every Sunday, and I should like to know if it would be right to invite his sister some time. Our engagement hasn't been announced yet, but we expect to do just that in a couple of months or so. May I have a reply in a week or so

An Admirer.

Please let me say to you and all my friends who want prompt answers that it is not possible to have replies in the paper immediately, as the column is made up some time in advance. The only way to be sure of getting an immediate answer to your letters is to send me a self-addressed, three-cent stamped envelope.

When It's Good-bye To Your Teeth

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

WHEN YOU say good-by to your own, your very own teeth, and take on a set of dentures, both upper and lower, you are in for some experiences, physical and psychological and spiritual, none of which is at all pleasant.

The upper plate does not usually give so much trouble, but the lower plate is a fiend. Adjustments have to be made to allow for shrinkage of the gums, and the question arises whether the irregularity will hurt the contour of the face. Gritty feelings occur in the mouth and changes in taste seem to be noticed.

The problem arises whether the denture should be removed at night or whether removing it will allow drooping of the corners of the mouth and bring a change in the contour of the face.

The gums of both the upper and lower jaws do absorb and shrink for a period of several months after the teeth have been removed. It is sometimes advisable to put in a temporary denture until this shrinkage is over and the jaws have become stationary, at which time a satisfactory denture can be fitted which should never need to be changed.

Night Removal Advised

There is no serious effect from removing the dentures at night. It is advised by most dentists. A number of powders are on the market which help in holding the dentures in place. If sore spots occur, the dentures themselves should be treated.

Whether taste is changed by wearing dentures is very doubtful. Dr. Donald A. Laird, the psychologist, has made some experiments on this subject. He used grapefruit juice, which could be processed so that it ranged over five varieties of taste, from sweetness to tartness. He then tried these on a large number of people to see what particular taste they preferred. Taking then a group of people who had all their teeth and those who wore dentures, he found very little difference in the preferences of the two groups or in the acuity of taste perception.

Dentures will not alter your sense of taste appreciably, if at all, but you must remember that taste preferences change with the passing years, whether one wears dentures or not, and probably you are preferring less sweet foods.

Marked Difference

In the experimental group tested for taste preferences, the one marked difference that was found was that the men with dentures were inclined to prefer the tart-flavored grapefruit juice rather than the sweet. This curve, however, is practically the same as the ordinary curve due to increasing age.

There is a gradual disappearance of taste buds throughout life. In early childhood there are taste buds on the inside of the cheeks and in the throat, in addition to the tongue. These disappear in adolescence, leaving only those on the tongue. In the later years there is quite a decline, both structurally and functionally, in the taste buds. Foods which a child does not enjoy become palatable in maturity. The preference for sweet tastes is almost invariably replaced by a preference for tart sensations.

Incidentally, it has been found that sex has a considerable influence upon taste preferences. Women, even under 18 years old, are more like the older group in that they have a preference for the tart and less for the sweet tastes. This wpuld appear to be contrary to ordinary observation, but it seems to be scientifically established.

Fashion Flashes

The Southern scene is getting under way. A nice southland hat is a scoop bonnet of sea green baku with turquoise blue jersey draped across the forehead to form in long scarf ends.

o—o—o

o—o—o

Plenty of wear may be expected from a frock of begaline with velvet collar and cuffs. The bodice is snug, the circular skirt flared. Nice from luncheon on, and a good background for accessories.

o—o—o

New partners in color are teamed up in some of the new frocks. Charming for the more mature woman is an evening frock of gray chiffon with brief sleeves formed of mink tails.

o—o—o

Much saner than usual are the hats promoted for southern wear for early spring. A nice model is a shallow, forward-tipped brimmed hat in beige felt with clusters of bows at the back and on the hat itself.

o—o—o

The trend of events abroad is helping to bring back the street length dress. Nice for informal dinner is Lanvin's bright green crepe frock covered with a Persian design of silver sequins and red and green cabochon stones.

WOMEN RUN THE TOWN

Williams Creek, Ind. (AP) — Women officials run this little town. And the 100 voters like them so well that the town has skipped three elections since they were chosen in 1932. The town has a tax rate of only 40 cents on each $100 worth of taxable property — lowest in Marion County.

Adding Elegance

By ALICE ALDEN

TODAY'S picture is proof that jewelry allows a woman to wear the simplest gown and yet look elegantly dressed. With so much gold staring us in the face, and silver just around next season, the only thing to keep in mind is that the decor must be becoming to the person who is to wear it. It may be heavy or light, as her features permit—a half dozen strands of delicate links, or the more impressive period pieces, such as these shown. Necklace and hair (or dress) clip are a combination of gold and pearls, with a large colored stone as the focal point. Neither ornament is horribly dear, but could be purchased with the average Christmas gift money.

Caroline Chatfield Says Today

An Old Lady Looks at Life and Calls it Sweet

Remember the fable about the hen under the rosebush? The rose petals showered down on her and she cried out in terror, "The skies are falling!" Don't we human beings take fright at small incidents and imagine they are catastrophes? Don't we hear about one unfilial child and ask if parenthood is a sell-out, forgetting the millions of loving loyal sons and daughters? Don't we hear of several in-law scraps and conclude that where there's an in-law there's a fight and a feud?

I'm guilty; and I like the rebuke from an old lady who has lived and learned, one who has known disappointment without becoming bitter, one who has grown old and retained her optimism and her faith in the essential goodness of human nature.

"Miss Chatfield, too much stress is being laid nowadays on the shortcomings of peopple in general. For instance why so much discussion of neglectful children and disagreeable in-laws? No doubt they exist but a long life of experience and observation convinces me that they are in the minority.

"In most families I am acquainted with the children who care for parents to the best of their ability while pleasant relationships between in-laws are by no means uncommon. I happen to be intimately acquainted with one mother who was reduced from affluence to poverty by the so-called depression but through the kindness of her children the old mother has every comfort and convenience that can be afforded. Every member of this family, including the in-law is devoted to and considerate of the mother and she is fully appreciative of her blessings.

"As I see it, this is not an isolated case. The vast majority of younger people assume responsibilities as best they can, aften laying aside their personal interests to care for those on whom they were once dependent. And we know the burden of caring for the aged is not always a question of money. Quite a few elderly people revert to childhood, develop childish tantrums with no childhood charms to balance the account.

As we are all human and subject to human weaknesses, a condition of this sort is likely to cloud the atmosphere of a home. However, most families manage, by some means, to handle the difficult situation without undue friction.

"Let's lay the disagreeable in-laws on the shelf for a while and ungrateful children, too, and give more publicity to the good side of the questions. I think we shall find that matters between the young and the old and between in-laws are not so bad. What we need most is better understanding in human relationships. I hope this will assist you in the fight to promote such understanding.

Swiss Steak Mashed Potatoes
Mixed Green Vegetable Salad
Red Devil's Food Cake
Tea or Coffee

Red Devil's Food Cake—Ingredients: one-half cup shortening, one and one-half cups sugar, two eggs, four tablespoons cocoa, two tablespoons hot coffee, one teaspoon red liquid vegetable coloring, one and seven-eights cups all purpose flour (two cups minus two tablespoons), one teaspoon salt, one teaspoon soda, one cup sour milk or buttermilk, one teaspoon vanilla. Cream shortening, add sugar gradually, then cream until fluffy. Blend in well-beaten eggs. Mix cocoa, red coloring and hot coffee to form smooth paste; blend into creamed mixture at once. Sift flour once before measuring, then sift flour, salt and soda together and add to cake mixture alternately with milk; stir in vanilla. Pour into well-greased and floured pan and bake in moderate oven (350 F.) When cake is cool, spread with double boiler icing.

Double Boiler Icing — Ingredients; one egg white, three-fourths cup sugar, one-eighth teaspoon cream of tartar, three tablespoons water, one-half teaspoon vanilla. Combine in top of double boiler egg white, cream of tartar and water, and beat together just enough to blend. Place over rapidly-boiling water and beat with rotary beater until mixture is white and very light. Icing is done when it barely holds its shape and is not runny as beater is pulled out. This takes from five to seven minutes.

HOUSES TO PLEASE WOMEN

Fault-Finders Find Trouble

By Garry Cleveland Myers, Ph. D.

JUST BECAUSE we are human beings we are more inclined to blame others than to praise them; especially is this true with our own loved ones.

If any parent will take the trouble to get a small notebook and record all the instances in which she praised her child, and all the instances in which she disapproved or scolded him, beginning at one end of the book with the praisings and at the other end with the scoldings she will probably find the scolding will reach the middle of the book long before the praisings. I tried this myself one and was appalled at what happened; yet, I am sure it did me good.

In the following remarks from a letter by a high school girl we see a vivid sample of excessive chronic fault-finding and its dire consequences.

Mother Critical

"I am an A student in all my subjects except typing ...... My mother is always doing lovely things for me, yet she tells me I don't appreciate anything she does for me, that I'm no good at anything, that I can't do anything right. I've had that drummed into me so long I'm sick.

"I do appreciate things and I do tell her so, often. I can do things, too. Two summers ago she had a serious operation and was not expected to live. When she came home from the hospital I took care of her, did the washing and ironing without help, kept the house perfectly clean, did all the cooking and helped take care of the garden. There isn't much to do here—five rooms and a bath—and I always do the cleaning myself or more than half of it. In the summer I dust every day, iron, do cleaning and the dishes, make the beds and mow the lawn. Sir, I don't know what else I could do. I can bake. My cakes always come out right. I try to do everything well but I can't do anything right at home....

"Without giving me a chance to say anything she starts in. I can't stand it. Day after day I'm told I'm no good, can't do anything right.... Sometimes I get so discouraged I tell her I'm going to quit trying to be a good girl and be like other girls — sleep till 12 o'clock in the summer, never do any work, run around with boys and do things I shouldn't.... If I could do one little thing to please her, just one thing!

"My teachers believe in me and want to help me go through college. ....Surely I'm some good. I never have to study hard and I work on the school paper where I was awarded 'Quill and Scroll.' The award is based on character, workmanship and writing. Only two people in the history of our school received this award before. I'm also on the dramatic club, Latin club... I work hard at clubs. I was elected to the student council....

"I'm not telling mother I've written this. It's the first thing I've kept from her. ...... Even though you can't help me perhaps it's good to get it off my mind...."

Although I wrote this young lady, suggesting how she might change her mother, it seems to me too bad that a child must have so great responsibility as to try to make a parent over. The letter is a good warning signal to all parents.

Solving Parent Problems

Q. Should one whisper or tip-toe about the house while the baby is asleep or after he has been put to bed?

A. Certainly not. At such times speak and move about in a wholly normal fashion and the infant soon will accustom himself to these noises.

"PUT YOUR LITTLE FOOT"

Houston, Texas—European folk dances have struck this section like a whirlwind. Jitterbugs find them intriguing. Oltimers say they're a relief and qualified persons predict the rest of the country will take them up.

The schottische, "Put Your Little Foot", the rye waltz, the polka — standbys last century—have struck both high and low society. In beer joints, private ballrooms, country clubs, the best hotels — everyone "puts his little foot" these days.

Just what is responsible for the sudden popularity no one is certain, but this explanation is offered:

Vacationers who travelled to the hill country near Kerrville, Texas, where the population includes many people of German, Polish and other Central European descent, returned with word of the dances.

They found they were old stuff at the Saengerbund (singing society) hall there. The dancing public flocked there, learned the steps and carried them to dancing places everywhere. So great was the demand the city recreation department began offering free dancing lessons each evening at several parks, and dancing instructors quickly put the schottische and other dances on their lists.

Stylish Tradition

By ALICE ALDEN

WINTER'S BRIDE may take her vows in wool, cut as beautifully as silk, but ten to one she'll have at least one negligee of satin in her trousseau. It's traditional and it's flattering, and not as much of a luxury as in mother's day. The model shown, for instance, is about what any girl would consider paying for the most important robe in her life. It comes in pink and blue, with a back panel and deep wrap in front. Hand-run Alencon lace is generously used as accent for the sheen of the satin. Obviously such a negligee is easily matched in nightgowns and satin slippers.

Dishes for Meatless Menus

By ALICE LYNN BARRY

HERE IS a batch of miscellaneout recipes that may be of assistance when planning menus.

Cheese Blintzes are grand for luncheon or supper or as a Friday dish. Use one cup each flour and cold water, two eggs (beaten), one-fourth teaspoon baking powder, one-half teaspoon salt, one egg, one and one-half cups cottage cheese, salt and pepper to taste, cinnamon, powdered sugar. Add salt and water to well-beaten eggs and add flour slowly until batter is smooth. Pour batter onto heated and greased iron pan, tipping the pan on all sides to cover bottom with thin layer of batter. Bake one side only until the thin cake blisters, then tip out in one piece on board. Now mix the cheese, egg, salt and pepper and place filling in centre of each cake, folding over opposite corners to form a rectangle or square. Fry both sides in butter until golden brown. Serve with powdered sugar, cinnamon and sour cream. Blintzes may also be baked in oven for crispness.

Codfish Puffs are a basic dish for luncheon or supper. Make with two cups shredded codfish, two cups freshly-boiled, riced potatoes, one tablespoon butter, teaspoon grated onion, one-fourth teaspoon each white pepper and chili powder. Freshen codfish by tieing in piece of cheese cloth and squeezing in cold water. Add remaining ingredients and beat with fork until thoroughly mixed. Drop by spoonfuls into hot deep fat (hot enough to brown one-inch cube of bread in 60 seconds) until nicely browned. Drain on glazed paper and serve with rich tomato sauce.

Potato Salad

Every once in a while there come requests for a good potato salad recipe. We have been testing one that turned out exceedingly well, pleasing the most captious potato salad fan. The recipe calls for three good-sized potatoes, teaspoon salt, three-fourths teaspoon black pepper, nine tablespoons olive oil, three tablespoons vinegar, one good-sized onion, three or four sprigs of parsley, sliced sweet gherkins, celery seed, paprika. Pare and boil the potatoes. While they are boiling, prepare the dressing. Put the salt and pepper in a bowl, and add oil gradually; stir until the salt is thoroughly dissolved then add gradually the vinegar, stirring all the while. Chop onion very fine, add seasonings to taste. When the potatoes are done, cut them into thin slices, mix them carefully, with the onion, then add the dressing, and turn upside down, without breaking the potatoes. Dish and stand in a cold place for an hour or two. Mix in the sliced gherkins. Sprinkle with the finely chopped parsley. Grand with cold meats.

Eggs packed in tomatoes make a grand luncheon combination. Remove centres from large, ripe tomatoes, and enough pulp so that an egg may be poured in. The cavity is sprinkled with salt, pepper, onion salt and a little celery salt, before the egg goes in. After the egg is broken into the tomato, it is covered with chopped pulp and a dab of prepared mustard. The tomatoes are then placed in a pan which is put into another pan partially filled with water.

Desert Holiday American Style

A THREE-MINUTE JOURNEY.

By TEMPLE MANNING

If there's one holiday that offers romance, beauty and appeal, it is the desert holiday. No, we don't mean getting oneself up a la sheik and riding an Arabian steed across the desert to win the hand of the fair Fatima. But we do mean making one's way to a green and lovely oasis in the desert and there enjoying all the creature comforts.

Of course, North Africa is all very nice, but here in the United States we have desert resorts beyond compare. Scattered through New Mexico, Arizona and California are stretches of desert with magnificent resort hotels, dude ranches and tourist camps that offer grand accommodations to fit every purse and taste. If you've never known a desert holiday, then try and get acquainted this winter. The warm days, the sunshine, the keen air and, at night, the glory of the star-lit sky, will refresh and delight you. And the natural wonders of these desert stretches will seem more wonderful in the clear, dry air.

Palm Springs

Perhaps the best known of all our desert resorts is Palm Springs, pride of Southern California. Years ago, before the movie colony "discovered" it, the place had charm and beauty. Now it has glamor as well. It is a lovely spot, a real health resort offering every comfort. A Colonial Spanish atmosphere still hovers over the very modern structures that have sprung up like mushrooms virtually overnight. There are reasonable hotels, boarding houses and tourist camps, as well as fantastic resort hotels. But wherever you go, the fun, the excitement, the heady air and atmosphere, the pack riding parties across the desert, the songs and music under the desert sky, are for all.

Beautiful, interesting and unique is the Death Valley region, a stretch of arid land in Central California much below sea level. In summer, of course, it's no fun to be there, but in winter—well! you should see the gay crowds at Furnace Creek or Stovepipe Wells. The scenery is strangely beautiful, with vegetation, wonderful shrubs, plants and flowers that are found nowhere else. Nearby is the borax deposit that has given fame to the region. Death Valley is a misnomer, for the place is full of charm and, in the winter, full of life. If you are going to California this winter, put Death Valley down as a "must" on your itinerary.

Desert Resorts

In the winter Arizona means Tuscon and Phoenix, both superb desert resorts, as well as mighty fine cities. Tuscon has a grand array of attractions for the winter visitor. Crystal clear, sun-warmed air lures one out-of-doors, where there is much to see, enjoy and do.

Seventy miles north of Tuscon is Casa Grande. The four-foot walls of this prehistoric tribal house, now protected as a national monument, were laid long before Columbus made his journey westward. Right through the winter there are Indian tribal dances. In February there is a grand fiesta, La Fiesta de los Vaqueros a gay, exciting rodeo. There are facilities for every sport in and around Tucson, and outside the city there are some swell guest ranches.

Phoenix, too, is essentially a desert oasis, a fertile, rich oasis that spreads for hundreds of thousands of cultivated acreage. Here the winter roses bloom, and there is laughter and gaiety, as there should be during the season of winter.

Rangers Set a League Record By Beating Leafs Saturday But Break String in Chicago Sunday

Paul Goodman Superlative as Hawks Score 2 to 1 Victory

BRUINS WIN

Nels Stewart Scores Only Goal as Americans Down Detroit Red Wings

(By Jack Calder Canadian Press Staff Writer).

When everyone thought a railway wreck might be the formula, a way was found to stop New York Rangers' break-neck dash through the National Hockey League schedule.

The Rangers set a league record of 19 straight games without defeat when they ran over the Maple Leafs 4-1 before 14,184 paying customers at Toronto Saturday.

Then the Black Hawks, who should have been a stepping stone on the way to greater things, halted the Rangers 2-1 before 15,884 fans at Chicago last night through the amazing goaltending of Paul Goodman, the 29-year-old rookie who found his big-league boots all of a sudden. In other weekend games Boston defeated Canadiens 4-2 and Americans trounced Detroit 1-0.

So, until a better one comes along, the idea for tripping Lester Patrick's smooth young men of Manhattan seems to be one of throwing a team of fighting fiends at them one night and a miracle-worker the next. The Rangers didn't meet a more determined band all through their success streak than the Leafs of Saturday or a hotter goaltender than the Goodman of Sunday.

Broke Out in Third

Pinned deep in their territory much of the game, the Broadway Blueshirts broke out typically in the third period at Toronto when rookie Kilby Macdonald sprinted the length of the ice with seven minutes to play and scored the goal that gave his team a 2-1 advantage. The Leafs' determination backfired after that.

Toronto pressed through most of the first period but Bryan Hextall and Phil Watson skated away after 17 minutes, Hextall scoring on the rebound of Watson's shot from the side. Again the Leafs bore down in the second, to score finally when Regis (Pep) Kelly hammered Sweeney Schriner's rebound past Dave Kerr as the goalie lay on the ice.

Kerr fought off the Leafs until Macdonald's pretty goal, and Toronto's last chance went when Bingo Kampman hit a goalpost while Muzz Patrick of the Rangers served a penalty. Immediately the New York team forced a face-off and again Watson and Hextall were off, Watson scoring after a passing bout. Another breakaway brought the final goal, scored by Neil Colville with Alex Shibicky's aid.

Fought Like Mad

Refusing to let down after attaining the new mark, the Rangers fought like mad before the record Chicago crowd. George Allen, a former Ranger, scored the first-period goal that put the Hawks ahead to stay and as the battle grew more bitter a free-for-all fight broke out in the second. Through it all Goodman was superlative.

Cully Dahlstrom made the lead 2-0 after seven minutes of the third and the Ranger fire grew more intense. Finally it brought a goal through Alf Pike on Clint Smith's rebound with three minutes to play. But Smith had to get Goodman out of the net before the score and the Rangers couldn't catch him in that predicament again.

The actual net result of it all for the Rangers was a first-place tie with Boston, for the Bruins kept pace last night by trimming Montreal Canadiens 4-2 before 10,000 lookers-on at Boston. Toronto was left four points behind the co-leaders and 10 points ahead of the fourth-place Chicago club.

Red Hamill Hot

Robert (Red) Hamill, who has come into his own after three years of shifting between the Bruins and their farms, scored two of three Boston goals in the final period. The home team took a lead on Bill Cowley's goal late in the first but Louis Trudel tied the count in the second to set the stage for Hamill's burst.

The redhead put his club ahead to stay three minutes of the third. After Woody Dumart had scored on a penalty shot, Hamill raised the count to 4-1 as Cowley registered his fourth scoring point of the night on an assist. Bill Summerhill fired the last Canadien goal 21 seconds from the finish.

Old Nels Stewart, who has the habit, punched the only goal of a dull match to give the Americans a 1-0 verdict over Detroit Red Wings at New York. The result left the two teams tied for sixth and last position.

NELS STEWART

Americans

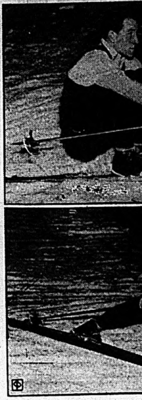
By Central Press Canadian

Nels Stewart

Hockey's greatest all-time scorer, That's Nels Stewart, the burly centre star with records glued all over him. In his 15th major league season he ranks next to Hooley Smith in point of lengthy N. H. L. service. At the conclusion of the 1938-39 season he retired after having scored 317 goals in league play during his career, never less than 14 in a season. He was still in retirement when the present campaign got under way, but Red Dutton secured his services again after his Americans got off to a bad start. He was on the ice less than a minute in his first game this season when he banged in a goal—followed by another in his second and another in his third game. His entire career has been sensational although his movements on the ice are anything but that. He broke in with Montreal Maroons in 1925-26, led the league in scoring, led his team to a Stanley cup triumph and was voted the most valuable player in the league. Spent seven winters as a Maroon, centring the famous "3-S" line of himself, Hooley Smith and the late Babe Siebert. Then three seasons with Boston and since 1935-36 with Americans. He's led every team he's played with in potting goals, got more than 30 in a season twice and more than 20 seven other times. Spent almost 1,000 minutes on the penalty bench. Age, "about 38." Born in Toronto.

BASIC SKIING

Start With the Knee Bend



TOP: Demonstrating the knee-bend exercise.
BOTTOM: Correct leg thrust for limbering up muscles.

By TOM MURSTAD

Can you walk? Then you can ski! If you have played tennis, done some swimming or diving or played rugby so much the better. Actually, skiing is a matter of balance combined with muscular control.

But, being a good diver does not mean that one can step on a pair of skis and whizz off. Maybe you'll do just that—but not quite the way you'd planned to. Control and ease are achieved by first learning a few fundamentals. Perfecting the movements so that they automatically and gracefully slip into each other is the basis of good skiing.

In the accompanying pictures I illustrate the first movements I put ski pupils through. The first position is a deep knee bend, quite different from the knee bending taught in gymnastics. The heels are flat on the skis, the knees deeply bent and the body balanced in position by the forward stretching of the arms.

The ski poles, held parallel to the skis, act as balancing rods. Practise going into this position several times. As well as limbering the muscles, it will develop a co-ordinated series of movements that should become automatic.

To continue the exercise, practise the leg thrust. In many turns, notably the christiania turns, as well as in the ordinary "snowplow" position used for "braking", muscles in the hips and the inside of the legs come into play. This leg thrust exercise will limber them up, as well as increasing your sense of balance.

All these exercises are invaluable for strengthening the leg muscles while acquainting the body with the sense of balance and crouch which is used in ski running. It's a good idea to practise the exercises as consistently as possible which is a simple matter because the kitchen door or the front porch are adequate "terrain" for this preliminary skiing. But be sure you have the skis on while practising.

FARM SYSTEM OF DETROIT TIGERS A MERE SHAMBLES

Landis Wrecks "Chain-Gang" Setup After Complete Investigation

92 PLAYERS RELEASED

Five Players on Detroit Club Can Now Dicker for Their Services

Chicago, Jan. 15.— (AP)—Commissioner Kenesaw Mountain Landis, who always has the last word in organized baseball, has spoken again, and as a result the far-flung farm system of the Detroit Tigers is a mere shambles.

Landis, in a voluminous report handed down yesterday, wrecked the intricate "chain-gang" set-up of the American League Club and warned all baseball executives of even more severe penalties for similar rules infractions in the future.

He charged Detroit and affiliated clubs used "fake agreements", "false certificates of club relationships," "cover-up" deals and similar practices in operation of a farm system.

The nine-months investigation brought the following action—

1—Free agency was awarded 92 players, valued at close to $500,000, including Pitchers Paul Trout, Lloyd Dietz and Steve Rachunok, Infielder Benny McCoy and Outfielder Roy Cullenbine of the Detroit Club. The other 87 were scattered among 15 minor league clubs.

2—All player transfers, except on waivers, between Detroit (including Beaumont and the Texas League and other subsidiary and affiliated clubs) and Toledo (American Association), Fort Worth (Texas League) and Lake Charles (Evangeline League), or their subsidiaries or affiliates, are prohibited for three years.

Cubs Fined $1,000

3—The Chicago Cubs were fined $1,000 for negotiating with McCoy and Cullenbine before the inquiry was completed in the interest of their future employment in case they were declared free agents. The St. Louis Browns were fined $500 for contacting McCoy under similar circumstances.

4—The free agencies granted the 92 players will not become effective until Jan. 29 and no club may contract them before that date. Detroit and the clubs operating with Detroit in these rules violations cannot contract with any of the players

5—Cleveland of the American League was ordered to pay $2,000 to for three years.

Walter Carson, New Orleans Southern Association outfielder. Toledo, Detroit affiliate until recently, sent Carson to New Orleans and was paid $2,000 for his contract. Toledo, in turn secretly gave this amount to Cleveland.

6—Several other players entitled to free agency were disposed of by Detroit and farm clubs to other clubs for value. Landis ruled these players must be paid the amount received for them, either by Detroit or the club acting for Detroit, the commissioner to settled any disputes over which club shall pay.

GOLF'S PROSPECTS APPEAR BRIGHTER

Likely Women's Curtis Match Will be Cancelled But on Other Fronts Game Progresses

By HAROLD PIERCE
President, United States Golf Association

New York, Jan. 15—(AP)—Golf's prospects for the next 12 months appear to be bright enough, if looked at from the standpoint of the United States alone.

However, nations today, through the various sources of communication, are so close that the tragic events occurring elsewhere are bound to affect golfing activities in other lands.

A Curtis Cup match scheduled abroad for next spring, between teams of British and United States women, has been cancelled. There is serious doubt whether Britain's leading men amateurs will come here for a Walker Cup match, scheduled for the St. Paul town and country club Aug. 30-31.

Forgetting, if we can, the international situation, we can look forward to what should be a year of continued progress for golf here. The U.S.G.A.'s four championships are on a coast-to-coast schedule—the amateur in Mamaroneck, N.Y.; the women's in Del Monte, Calif.; the open in Cleveland, and the public links in Detroit.

The year may bring legislation that will limit the distance a golf ball will travel. The Golf Association, at considerable cost and with the assistance of the Armour Institute in Chicago, has built a machine which now is being perfected. It is hoped this machine will develop a practical way of testing the performance of golf balls, so that a uniform standard can be achieved.

RURAL LEAGUE MAY MOVE GAMES TO MADOC RINK

Central Hastings Loop Not Finding Going Good at Stirling is Report

MAY ADD 2 TEAMS

Most Favorable Playing Arrangements in Madoc Said Cause of Move

Foxboro, Jan. 15. — (Special)—Exploding with bombshell force in the ears of many rural hockey fans in the southern part of the County is the rumour emanating from headquarters of the Central Hastings Rural Hockey League to the effect that this popular league, which for the past six or seven years has operated uninterruptedly and with some degree of success from the Stirling Arena, is seriously contemplating playing out the remainder of the season's schedule in the Madoc rink.

An increasingly difficult financial situation, which during the past two seasons has more than made itself felt to the various teams participating in the league, together with a most favourable playing arrangement having been offered by officials of the Madoc rink, has been given as the cause for the sudden change of heart on the part of the Central League executives who, only a few days ago, announced that all games of the 1940 schedule would, as usual, be played in the Stirling Arena. As an added incentive towards moving the league's activities to the northern village there is the possibility of two rural teams from that sector of the County joining the league making it a well-balanced six-teamed circuit with North and South being equally well represented. If such a move were to materialize, it would be a simple matter for the league secretary to draft a new schedule including the two new entrants and with the Northerners stacking up against the boys from the south end of the county a lot of exciting hockey should result. It would mean considerably more driving for the Glen Ross, Zion Hill and Foxboro lads of course, but with the prospects of better financial returns the boys are all sold on the idea of taking their games to Madoc, where, it is reported, hockey fans take the great winter pastime seriously.

A Regrettable Move

Considering its past record however, it is indeed regrettable that the Central League should be so ignominiously forced out of the district where for the past seven years it has so faithfully sponsored rural hockey. When the old Trent Valley League ceased to function some years ago, it was the Central League that stepped into the breach and kept the ball a'rolling in South Hastings. It was here that most of the present day players in the surrounding district learned the rudiments of the game as they journeyed to Stirling twice each week during the hockey season to have their fun and it is merely the irony of fate that some of the players developed in the Central League are now starring in the reformed Trent Valley. With the revival of old-time interest in the Trent Valley League, which, incidently, appears headed for a banner season, some of the boys from the rural league are stepping up to faster company; their admirers are just as surely following along and the ruralites, who have called Stirling their home for nearly a decade, are forced to hunt new stamping grounds. Hence the intended migration to "green fields far away".

CANADIENS AFTER SCORING TALENT IN QUEBEC LOOP

Maple Leafs Defeat Senators While Concordias Defeat Flyers

ROYALS BEAT ACES

Sherbrooke Defeats St. Hyacinthe and Shawinigan Falls Moves Out of Cellar

Montreal, Jan. 15 (CP).—If it's true that opportunity knocks but once, now is the right moment for the goal-getters in Quebec's senior amateur hockey to show what they've got for Montreal Canadiens of the National League who are all eyes these days for scoring talent.

There are stories that the Canadiens are interested by the high-scoring feats of Almay, Tony Lemay and Gordie Poirier who make up a forward line which has counted more than 70 goals for St. Hyacinthe in the Provincial Senior Hockey League this season.

But in the search for material, the Canadiens might do well to take a peek at the Quebec senior league where some heavy scorers were in action during the week-end.

In a game at Ottawa Saturday when the Senators trounced Verdun Maple Leafs 10-4, four Ottawa players—Vince Godin, Jack Brunning, Steve-Latoski and Earl Nicholson—all scored two goals each. Jack Carthy and George Greene got the other two goals while the Verdun marksmen were Mickey Moynihan, Al Davis, Marcel Bessette and Bruce Crutchfield.

Leafs Retaliate.

The Maple Leafs turned in their share of goal-getting too at Montreal yesterday when they retaliated against Ottawa with a 9-4 victory over the Senators.

Hubert Hardy produced four goals for the Maple Leafs, Larry Bouchard got three and Jimmy McCurry and Smiley Meronek the others. Bill Touehey, Harvey McClelland, Carthy and Shack scored for Ottawa.

Armand Coutre, speedy centreman counted one goal and assisted Jacques Carignan and Dollard Belhumeur in getting the other pair for the civics. Cornwall's tally was counted by Blais.

The Royals kept up with Concordias on the other hand by beating the Aces at Quebec, 4-3, after rallying twice to wipe out leads set up by their opponents.

McConnell, Mahaffey, Anton and Heffernan scored for Royals, and Laforest, Lee and Gibson for Quebec.

Member of Line Absent.

In the Provincial League, the St. Hyacinthe trio who bother opposing net-minders so much had little chance to display their high-scoring abilities because of the absence of one member, Tony Lemay, through injuries.

Sherbrooke Red Raiders playing at home defeated St. Hyacinthe, 2-1. A last-minute goal by Hank Harris decided the game. Howie Peterson counted the other Sherbrooke goal and Poirier and Al Lemay combined to produce the Gaulois' only point.

Ray Mullins counted one and assisted in the second goal scored by Johnny Lapointe as the Valleyfield Braves blanked the Rapides 2-0 in a second Provincial League contest at Lachine.

Shawinigan Falls Cataracts moved out of the league cellar which they had occupied with Quebec Beavers by defeating the Beavers 2-1. After two scoreless periods, Davis and Lawdie put the Cataracts ahead. A goal by Ed Mentzel rallied the Beavers, but Gendron came right back with Shawinigan Falls' third goal.

CALLING 'EM

Between the Lines

with
Ken I. Colling

Giving us the old Bronx cheer, flavoured with an over-dose of raspberry, the Peterboro sports scribe put the well-known bee on us with some choice poetry, following the 9 to 5 defeat of the Flyers at the hands of his pet Petes. It's just an old-fashioned Peterboro custom to gloat in the early spring-time of the sports calendar and with the Liftlock City pucksters walloping the Redmen 14 to 4 and then grounding the Air Force to the tune of 9-5, the success of the Petes on the home ice apparently is too great for their No. 1 ballyhoo agent, one Cecil Perdue by name, who admits he penned the following poetry with malice of forethought and for the express purpose of "burning us up," as he terms it. To the tune of "There's a Tavern in the Town," the poem reads:

There are some puckists in this town, in this town,
Who knock the Airmen and the Redmen down,
And do this trick so mighty easily
They win 9-5 and 14-4.
(Ch.)

Fare thee well, opponents, prithee
Do not let these pastings grieve thee,
And remember that hockey class will tell, will tell;
Adieu, Quinte friends and Fliers, too, adieu.

We can no longer stay with you, stay with you;
We'll mop this group up and then march on
Fare thee well, fare thee well, fa-hair thee weeell!

Actually it would seem as though the Peterboro scribe has us over the proverbial barrel at present, but the Petes aren't out in the clear as yet, palsie. For instance the Liftlock City sextette come to Belleville for their first game at the Hume Arena Tuesday night versus the Air Force and return right back again Friday eve for a tussle with the Redmen. Coach "Toots" Holway today informed us he believed the Petes are a better balanced club this year, over last year's group winners. "However, I think our club will beat the Petes in the play-offs, because we've got a better team than we had last year also. We didn't get a single break in Peterboro, while Referee Hap Day couldn't have helped the Petes any more if he had worn a Liftlock City uniform. Give us fast ice here on Tuesday night and chalk up a win for the Flyers," predicted Coach Holway this morning.

On the other hand the Peterboro scribe's opinion of the relative strength of the two clubs is: "There'll be several swelegant duels betwixt these oldtime puck rivals through the schedule, we'll betcha—and particularly in the playoffs. The scarlet bombers will improve and get wise to the Petes fast-breaking rushes and make it tight, but we think the locals have little more speed and punch to edge 'em. Legris, Baldwin and McNab appeared best to us, with Gibson kicking out quite a bunch in the Airmen's net. The defence was somewhat slow and awkward, and the Petes' blue-line guardians—who turned in a steady effective contest — had a good margin there. With Harding okay in the home cage. Too bad the ice wasn't faster and fans would have seen a four-star thriller. Though they certainly got their money's worth, at that."

Do you remember when Babe Ruth, baseball's Sultan of Swat, took a $17,000 salary cut when he signed a $35,000 contract for a season's play with the New York Yankees six years ago today? Including that $35,000, the Babe's aggregate salary from the Yanks over a 15-year period was $842,000.

Dominic Dallesandro, the Pacific Coast league hitting champion, who likely will be a regular with the Cubs next season, is not a Californian. He comes from Reading, Pa., and got his first job at home. He is 25 and has six seasons of minor league play behind him.

This week's sports program appears to be quite heavy for the scribes, as well as the patrons. Tonight the Air Force "Bees" are in Gananoque where they meet the Hastie-Gow combination of pucksters from Kingston, Brockville and points east. On Tuesday the Petes return here for an intermediate "A" game with the Flyers and at the same time the Kingston "Y" cagers are scheduled to play basketball here versus the local "Y" quintette. Wednesday the Belleville juniors journey to Trenton and the local "Y" cagers go to Queen's. On Thursday the Gananoque intermediates come to town versus the Air Force "Bees" in a return tussle and on Friday the local juniors go to Picton while the Petes move into town for their second appearance of the week versus the local Redmen...All-in-all we find no less than eight major sporting events in five days, which means that the local juvenile loop will have to forego their weekly doubleheader this week.

Lester Patrick's New York Rangers shattered a 12-year-old existing N.H.L. record on Saturday night when the Gothamites beat the Maple Leafs 4-1. In 1928 Les Canadiens of Montreal completed 18 consecutive N.H.L. games without a defeat. That record remained intact until Saturday night. On Thursday the Rangers won over the Black Hawks to tie that 12-year-old record and on Saturday night played their 19th consecutive N.H.L. game without having been defeated. The Rangers' present record includes 14 victories and five ties, but their triumphant march was halted in Chicago last night when the Black Hawks beat the Rangers.

SPORT SPICE — Manager Eddie Shore engaged in fisticuffs as his Springfield Indians won over Providence over the week-end. Apparently the dynamic Shore is trying to instill some of his grit into his Indians. Joe Stark, for pro goalie, was signed by the Toronto Goodyears over the week-end. Just as if they needed a goaltender at all....The Boston Bruins kept pace in the N.H.L. with a 4-2 win over the Canadiens and now the Rangers and Boston have 37 points each to Toronto's 33....Yesterday's sleet and rain halted many a good skiing intention around these har parts.. and so to Gananoque with the Flyer "Bees."

HEATING HINTS
by James Stewart

HERE'S the heating thought I want to leave with you today: Never shake a fire that is low. You can't expect to revive a half-dead fire by shaking the life out of it. Simply put on a sprinkling of fresh coal and give it time to ignite. Then when it has ignited completely, shake the grates very gently until the first red glow appears in the ashpit.

Now your fire is ready for refueling. And when refueling remember to fill the fire box up to the level of the bottom of the fire door. A deep fire is much more economical than a shallow one. It burns less coal—lasts longer—and requires less attention. (16)

ICEHOUSES NOW BEING FILLED

Ice houses of the city have been receiving their quota of supplies from the frozen surface of the bay the past few days. Ice men report the ice to be of good quality due to the lack of snow that has characterized the winter season thus far.

BOYS WARNED

A group of young boys were given severe warning by Fire Chief William Lynch yesterday afternoon after they had "owned up" to lighting a fire near the city barns at the corner of St. Charles and Evan Streets, that threatened to destroy the entire building.

The fire had been lighted in an old tin near the building, and the flames had secured a hold in the barn by the time fire squads arrived. The boys admitted lighting the fire and were given a reprimand by the fire-chief.

Eddie Shore Ready to Battle For His Team

(By the Canadian Press)

In case it was thought around the International-American Hockey League that Eddie Shore might turn to meeker ways on forsaking an active playing role in the major leagues to become an owner in the minors, the old battler has served warning that such is not his intention.

Shore, the player with Boston Bruins was grim, fearless and always ready to rough it up with anybody in the National Hockey League. Shore, the owner, apparently has lost none of his zest for a fight as indicated when his Springfield Indians downed Philadelphia Ramblers 5-2 in a Saturday night contest.

Near the end of the game Bill Allum of the Ramblers was penalized for tripping and as he left the ice Shore met him. Blows followed words and finally the two had to be separated by players and police.

This was one of the developments in an Intam week-end that saw the Indians break even in two contests. Last night Providence Reds took the measure of the Indians 2-0 in the only shutout of the week-end. New Haven Eagles trimmed Ramblers 7-2 last night after losing 6-2 Saturday night to Hershey Bears. Pittsburgh Hornets took a 4-1 victory Saturday over Cleveland Barons but lost 4-1 in a return engagement last night. The seven-game week-end schedule was rounded out with Syracuse Stars thumping Indianapolis Capitals 8-3 in a Saturday night game.

N.H.L. STARS

Phil Watson and Bryan Hextall,
(By the Canadian Press)
Rangers, picked up a goal and an assist apiece in a 4-1 victory Saturday night over Toronto Maple Leafs.

Davie Kerr, Rangers, turned in a great netminding effort against the Leafs as Rangers went their 19th straight unbeaten game to set a new National Hockey League record.

Paul Goodman, Chicago, gave a spectacular display in the nets as the Black Hawks defeated Rangers 2-1 last night, bringing an end to the Rangers undefeated string.

Nels Stewart and Earl Robertson. Americans, combined to defeat Detroit Red Wings 1-0 on the former's goal and the latter's fourth shutout of the season.

Red Hamill, Boston, whipped home two goals to lead Bruins to a 4-2 victory over Montreal Canadiens.

Brother of Belleville Resident Was Prisoner On Board 'Graf Spee'

British mails that arrived recently in Canada brought good news to Regt. Sergeant-Major William C. Jack, D.C.M., M.M., of this city. He has just received word that a brother, Arthur Jack, chief engineer on the British auxiliary cruiser, "Ashlea" had been saved when his ship had been sunk off the coast of Africa.

A letter received from the wife of Chief Engineer Jack, residing in Yorkshire, brought reassuring news that her husband had been reported a prisoner on the ill-fated Nazi pocket-battleship "Admiral Graf Spee" when she put into Montevideo, Uruguay.

Chief Engineer Jack has been in the British Merchant Marine for the past fifteen years.

Zone Not Enforceable Britain Takes Position

London, Jan. 15 (CP) — British sources stated today that Great Britain had replied to the protest of 21 American Republics against violation of their neutrality "safety zone" by taking the position that the zone was not enforceable under international law.

The reply was in the form of a note transmitted to the Panama government for presentation to the Permanent Pan-American Neutrality Committee, it was said. Its contents were withheld.

The republics Oct. 3 established a 300-mile "safety zone" around the Americas from which it was desired to keep the war. On Dec. 23, ten days after the battle off Uruguay between three British cruisers and the German pocket battleship Admiral Graf Spee, the Pan-American nations protested to Great Britain, France and Germany against violation of their zone.

INAUGURAL SESSION COUNTY COUNCIL OPENS ON TUESDAY

The 1940 inaugural session of the Hastings County Council takes place tomorrow at Shire Hall where the county fathers will gather for the regular four-day January session. The usual by-laws that provide for the year's work will be passed, while county officials today reported that extra county legislation will be passed to deal with war, and other current eventualities.

Reeve C. H. Muffitt, Wollaston Township; Deputy Reeve, W. J. Tanner, Rawdon; Deputy Reeve, W. H. White, Tyendinaga; Reeve W. H. Caldwell, Carlow; and Reeve J. P. Wilson of Sidney will be the five new faces that will greet council this session.

A feature of the meeting tomorrow will be the election of the warden for 1940.

FIREMEN RESCUE KITTEN TWICE

A terrified young kitten which had been imprisoned in the branches of a tree for forty-eight hours on West Bridge street gave city firemen an interesting hour's diversion yesterday afternoon.

The frightened young animal was rescued from its perch in the tree by firemen alright, but their troubles had only started as events subsequently proved.

No sooner had the kitten been released by its rescuer than it made a mad dash for a hole in a board in front of the verandah of a nearby house. The aperture was sufficiently large enough to allow the kitten to get its head in, but not its body and there it stuck, mewing piteously. Efforts of the firemen to dislodge the animal were futile and it was not until shovels and saws had been produced that its second rescue was effected.

TRENTON and DISTRICT

Trenton, January 15—(Special)—Promoters of the 'Hub' Smith-'Jiber' Ellis return match have turned their interests over to the Trenton branch of the Canadian Legion and the veterans are sponsoring the show one hundred per cent. That match is carded to take place in the Capitol Theatre on Friday night, February 2nd., and a good size crowd is expected to be in attendance. Smith claims he defeated Ellis in their first meeting at the Trenton Air Station on December 19th while on the other hand Ellis maintains that the judges were fair in handing him the decision. Referee Billy Hughes did not have anything to do with the final outcome but neither fighter will have him in the roped square when they battle it out at the Legion show. Backers of each man have asked the Legion to have the O.A.C. in Toronto appoint judge and a referee and steps have already been taken to grant their request. The bout will be a five two minutes round affair under amateur rulings and critics in this district are hoping that the best man will be awarded the decision this time. Supporting the main joust will be five colorful exhibitions and fighters from the R.C.A.F. and the town of Trenton will take part in them. . . .Bobby Vieau is handling the local battlers and it is understood that Sgt. Bert Ellis is coaching the air force charges. The Port boxers are using the gym at the Camp, Trenton leather-pushers improvised quarters on the east side of the town. Home town fans have promised wholehearted support to Ellis while fellow airmen are standing behind Smith and until the two 145 pounders meet a great deal of conversation will be exchanged for and against each aspirant. Already the talk is that a slugger can't beat a boxer but Mr. Ellis' reply to that one is wait and see.

Jerry Lafferty Wins $185

The purse sponsored by the Trent Theatre in conjunction with weekly theatre night was won by Jerry Lafferty, who was in the audience last Thursday night, when his name was announced from the stage. Mr. Lafferty is a textile worker in one of the local mills and he was presented with the prize of $185. on the stage. The winner thanked the management of the theatre and went on to tell how surprised he was when he heard the announcer read out his name. Other Trenton residents have had their names called but none were in the audience when the announcements were made and according to the rules of the contest the winner must be in the house on the night of the drawing.

Fence Being Built at Air Station

The high wire fence at the Trenton Air Station is being continued further east and when completed will completely surround the officers' homes on the east end of the Air station. At present this part of the camp is guarded by barbed-wire entanglement.

Trenton Police Blotter

A member of the Midland Regiment was placed in the local gaol after he had been picked up in a local cafe for causing a disturbance and talking back to an officer of the law. The noise-maker stationed at the Trenton Air Station was released and allowed to return to the camp after authorities charged him with being intoxicated.

Trenton police are looking for two men driving a sedan car, old model, who refused to stop when commanded to halt by a York Road farmer early Sunday morning. The farmer said he noticed the auto parked in his laneway and attempted to learn why it was there. A search of the district failed to find the men or auto.

Lovely Nan Grey and John Sutton who have featured roles in "Tower of London," now playing at the McCarthy Theatre. Basil Rathbone heads the cast with Barbara O'Neill, co-starred.

NOW—$20 to $500 LOANS ON NEW "FIT-YOUR-BUDGET" PLAN

No endorsers needed—2 to 15 months to repay

Household Finance (formerly Central Finance) now offers the people of this community a new, convenient way to get a loan. You apply for the amount you need without leaving your home. You repay on the schedule that fits your own monthly income.

Suppose you need $100 and can readily repay $9.46 a month. Twelve instalments of $9.46 each will repay your loan in full. Or, if you wish smaller payments, 15 monthly instalments of $7.78 each will also repay a $100 loan.

YOU CAN BORROW $20 TO $500 IF YOU CAN MAKE THESE CONVENIENT MONTHLY PAYMENTS

CASH LOAN YOU GET	AMOUNT YOU PAY BACK EACH MONTH Including All Charges

Choose your own payment schedule

Find the loan you need in the table. Then read across, picking out the monthly payment which you can conveniently make. Note that you may make small payments if you wish. Or you may pay larger instalments and pay up sooner. Note, also, how little your loan costs if repaid in a short time. Charges on a $100 loan, for instance, repaid in four monthly instalments, are only $5.04. (In all cases payments shown in the table include all charges. There is nothing more to pay.)

Simple to borrow

All you do is fill in and return the coupon below. We then send a representative to your home. You need no stocks, bonds or endorsers. No credit inquiries are made of friends, employers or relatives, and you don't have to ask friends or fellow-workers to sign the loan papers with you. You get your loan promptly, without red tape or embarrassment.

If a loan can help you, send the coupon for more information about this new service now. You will be under no obligation to borrow.

Hog Quotations

Toronto, Jan. 15 —(CP) — Dressedweights were down 10 cents at London, Peterborough and Stratford and liveweights were up 10 cents at Chatham in bacon-hog markets reporting today. Other markets were unchanged.

Liveweight: Brantford $8.50, Chatham $8.85.

Dressedweight: Barrie $11.90, Brantford $11.60, Chatham $12.-00, Hamilton $11.50 plus transportation, Hull $11.60, London $11.40 plus transportation, Peterborough $11.40 plus transportation, Stratford $11.40 plus transportation.

TORONTO STOCKS

Toronto, Jan. 15.—(CP)—Prices were moderately weak and trading quiet on Toronto Exchange today. Influence of a sharp decline on the New York market and the diversion of interest on the new War Loan was the leading reasons.

Gold shares were the weakest group and losses of 5 to 10 cents were boarded by Little Long Lac, Macassa, Wright Hargreaves, East Malartic and a few others. Naybob was the strongest and most active of the list, rising 2 cents to 32.

Nickel, Hudson Bay and Noranda were soft spots in the Base Metal group.

Trading was quite active in Home Oil on a price advance of 5 cents and Royalite and Calgary-Edmonton were down slightly.

Moderate losses were posted by the Steels, Utilities, Senior Oils and Building shares.

WALL STREET

New York, Jan. 15 (AP)— The stock market tried to put a foot forward today but stumbled after a mild advance at the start. Losses of fractions to more than a point predominated near the fourth hour.

U.S. Steel and Bethlehem were among the first to step down. These were followed by Chrysler, Montgomery Ward, International Harvester, Douglas Aircraft, American Telephone, Anaconda, and General Electric.

Standard Brands was the liveliest managing to edge within touching distance of a new 1939-40 peak.

Canadian issues were weaker, but the losses were fractional. Those moving down were Canadian Pacific, Dome, Hiram Walker, Distillers Seagram and Lake Shore. In the bonds Canada 4s lost 3-8.

LIVESTOCK

Montreal, Jan. 15—(CP)—Cattle prices, although steady to firm, were moving slowly while top calves dropped 25 to 50 cents on Montreal Livestock Markets today, the Dominion Department of Agriculture reported. Lambs held steady and there was an easier undertone to the hog market.

Receipts: Cattle, 943; calves, 851; sheep, 1,095; hogs, 1,075.

Good veals reached $11.50, medium kinds around $11. Drinkers ranged from $6 to $8.50 and grassers $5 to $5.50, mostly $5 to $5.25.

Lamb sales, made on a flat basis, fetched mostly $8 with occasional small lots reaching $8.50. Sheep brought from $3 to $5, mostly $4.50 to $5.

No early sales were established on the hog market with sellers apparently holding for higher bids.

Toronto, Jan. 15 (CP). — Cattle prices were a shade stronger with trading slow around early-afternoon on the Toronto livestock market today. The calf section was 50 cents lower and the sheep and lamb divisions steady. No price was established on hogs. Cattle holdover from last week was 150 head.

Receipts reported by the Dominion Livestok Branch were: Cattle 2,260, calves 930, hogs 1,180, sheep and lambs 450.

Butcher steers and heifers sold at $6.50-$7.70. A few weighty steers sold at $7-$7.80 with butcher cows bringing $4.25-$5.75. A few bulls ranged from $4-$6.

Fed calves brought $8-$9.25.

Choice veal calves were at $12-$12.50 with common selling downward to $7.

Hogs closed previously at $12 dressedweight and $9.10 off-truck.

Lambs sold at $10.50-$10.75 for good ewes and wethers. Bucks sold mostly at $9-$9.25 and culls at $8. Sheep were steady at $3-$6.50.

LUNG PUNCTURED BY LONG KNIFE

Peter Chaikowski of Winnipeg Alleged to Have Stabbed His Sister

Winnipeg, Jan. 15 (CP)—A sudden attack in a bakery here last night sent Mrs. Annie Chajkowski, 52, to hospital with a lung punctured by a knife-thrust and landed Peter Chaikowski, her brother, in police custody on a charge of attempted murder. Mrs. Chajkowski's condition was "serious".

Stocks of Creamery Butter in Storage Down About 6%

Toronto, Jan. 15 — Trading was quiet on the Toronto open produce market Saturday, with eggs showing a steadier undertone and butter remaining nominally unchanged.

An improved demand for eggs absorbed some of the accumulation which developed during the week. Receipts cleared well and A-large eggs in the graded section were slightly up at 21c to 21 1-2c per dozen. Other quotations were unchanged.

Buyers on the butter market saw little inducement to take on new stock, with the result that only a few odd lots of first-grade Ontario creamery solids were sold at 27 1-2c lb. Offerings were light but ample.

The stock report revealed total holdings of creamery butter as at Jan. 1, 1940, of 41,049,817 pounds, which compares with 43,770,244 pounds on Jan. 1 a year ago. The decrease in the cold storage holdings during December was larger than during November, indicating an improvement in consumption, and the rate of consumption now appears to be equal to this time last year.

Although the production report for December shows an increase in butter output of 5 per cent when compared with December, 1938, current reports indicate that production in the eastern provinces is falling off. These factors have made the price trend more favorable.

Offerings of butter are not pressing at the present time and holders display a quiet confidence.

Montreal Produce

Montreal, Jan. 15—(CP)—Produce market prices here Saturday, as reported by the Dominion Department of Agriculture follow:

Butter: First grade creamery prints, jobbing price, 29c; first grade solids, jobbing price, 28 1-2c; Quebec No. 1 pasteurized, regraded butter, wholesale jobbing price, 27 7-8c; Quebec No. 2, 27c. Receipts: 3,216 boxes, compared with 3,446 a year ago.

Cheese: Ontario white and colored, current receipt price, 17 15-16c. Receipts, 2,826 boxes, compared with 1,132 a year ago.

Eggs: Graded shipments in used free cases, selling price, A large, 22c-23c; A-medium, 21c; A-pullets, 19c; B-large and C unquoted. Receipts: 5,547 cases, compared with 8,744 a year ago.

SCHOONER BLUENOSE FOR SALE

Lunenburg, N.S., Jan. 15 (CP)—The schooner Bluenose, queen of the North Atlantic fishing fleets, was up for sale again today. Advertisements posted by her owners, the Bluenose Schooner Company, Limited, offered no explanation of why they were selling the windship. It is the second time in three months that the Bluenose, winner of the International fishermen's racing trophy has been up for sale.

followers as "Fuehrer."

Hoover disclosed that much of the evidence against the alleged conspiracy was obtained with long-range cameras operated by government agents from vantage points around the training camp of the organization at Narrowsburg, about 100 miles upstate in New York.

Drilled in Use of Arms

While the Federal Bureau pursued the investigation with all seriousness, Mayor Fiorella Laguardia of New York, scoffed at the damage that might be wrought by the alleged revolutionaries.

"I don't think the United States Government is in much danger from 18 guys like these," he said.

Cassidy has professed himself to be a follower of principles outlined by Reverend Charles Coughlin, but the Michigan Radio Priest last night "roundly disavowed" any connection with the "Christian Front" whose members are under arrest.

Father Coughlin said he had advocated a "real Christian front to oppose these fakers."

GEN. McNAUGHTON

General McNaughton's statement threw more specific light on the important conference. He said: "We agreed on the wisdom of unity of tactical command" and he added: "similarly we agreed that on all administrative matters there should be a clear channel of authority straight back to the Canadian Government."

The visit to the British zone took the party over a section of northern France similar to that where the Canadians are likely to be stationed, though this has not yet been decided.

"It was a very valuable trip from a tactical viewpoint", General McNaughton said. "Advance knowledge of the necessary adaptations in organization when we reach France has been helpful indeed. Just as important has been the renewal of personal liaison between the divisional and other senior commanders. Every member of the party has been able to gain the utmost information on matters related to his duties in the Canadian organization. The brigadiers and members of the staff have been in contact with their opposite numbers and have gained invaluable experience. All the British commanders and their staffs went out of their way to ensure that we gain the full benefit of our trip".

Vauluable Trip

Series of Talk

Inside divisional headquarters the visitors crowded a small room for a series of talks by senior officers. Seated around the room on folding chairs over which great coats and gas masks had been thrown, the Canadians made notes of the salient points in the lectures. Bent over a map spread on a desk, General McNaughton listened closely to a blackboard drill by a divisional commander, whose name must not be mentioned. Horn rimmed glasses push back over his ruffled grey hair, he pointed with his pipe to the diagrams when asking frequent questions.

The party was given the most intimate details of the disposition, division and nature of defences and tactical plans in the event of attack. The predominant motif of the discussion was the determination to continue digging-in tactics until Spring when the situation is expected to be clarified by a move from some quarter.

Tasted Cold Weather

The visitors tasted some of France's coldest weather at a tank exercise staged over farmland area just like the terrain of the Canadian prairies. Brigadier G. R. Pearkes, a westerner, after an hour in the stinging wind from the north, ventured: "I have been pretty cold winging around a corner of Portage and Main in Winnipeg but it was nothing like this."

In the same weather the divisional commander strode out for a survey of the front line fortifications, without his great coat, but with a muffler carefully wrapped around his neck.

Brigadier J. C. Stewart marvelled as he watched, but explained that the English live in houses so cold that it is necessary to disrobe partially when going out.

Great interest was expressed in all ranks at unconfirmed reports of German troop movements on the Netherlands and Begian borders. In view of the fact that newspapers from London were two days late the nightly B.B.C. newcasts were listened to closely by all messes. All were ready for action, but did not expect it before spring.

Drove to Memorial

During the course of the visit General McNaughton drove over to Canada's towering war memorial at Vimy Ridge. He also saw the nearby artillery memorial at Thelus Corners built in the field by the Royal Artillery in memory of officers and men of the Canadian Corps Artillery killed during the Vimy operations in April 1917. It is a blunt stone pyramid, surmounted by a contrete cross.

General McNaughton said he was "glad to find the artillery memorial in such fine shape." Naturally I was especially interested as the brass plate around the monument was carried around army headquarters while being engraved with tools made from old files."

In the latter part of the first Great War General McNaughton commanded the Canadian Corps heavy artillery.

READY TO MEET

Several newspapers expressed the view the latest phase of Belgian preparedness would be revoked shortly.

It was confirmed that the Belgian Premier, Hubert Pierlot, conferred Saturday night with his Foreign Minister, Paul Henri Spaak, and received foreign diplomats for exchanges of information. A full cabinet meeting has been called for today.

Step Up Defences

Belgium set about the task of stepping up her defences. Throughout Sunday, soldier-laden trucks rolled through Brussels toward the frontier, while messengers summoned officers and men from their homes, churches, cafes and theatres.

The Brussels Government put into force "Phase D" of her mobilization plan, filling in the ranks of skeleton units with such specialists as machine-gunners, artillerymen and tank drivers.

"The final step for complete mobilization would be enforcement of "Phase E"—likely only in event of an actual outbreak of hostilities.

Belgian officials would not disclose the number of men under arms, but under "Phase D" Belgium considers herself on practically a war footing. As though to clear the ground for any eventuality, an exodus of civilians from border provinces was started.

Many Phases in Operation

Phases A. B and C of Belgium's mobilization program were effected last September after Great Britain and France went to war with Germany.

Military observers estimated Belgium's week-end defence moves brought her strength in men under arms to about 600,000 while The Netherlands' cancellation of periodic leaves for her army, navy and air force, officials said, will fill out her fighting force to 400,000 within two days. It was estimated 50,000 had been on leave.

(The Lowlands' defence measures were characterized in Berlin as "another fear epidemic based on false reports.")

Some military experts suggested the reported German concentrations might be merely a bluff to keep the Allies from sending aid to Finland, but, they added, the low countries could not afford to take chances on that .

"After consideration of the international situation, both politically and militarily, the Government decided it is better to have our men together," one official explained.

"Nobody can tell what may happen on the western front."

Might Move in Few Days

Informed sources at Brussels said Belgian Secret Service reports inspired the hurried defence measures and one experienced observer added that German troops might move within the next few days.

A reliable informant said German aerial operations a week ago included the photographing of important Belgian industrial and defence areas. A German airman who landed in Belgium with motor trouble was said to have carried such photographs.

Belgian radio stations ceased broadcasting weather reports on the grounds that such information would be available to an enemy and joined in helping to call reserviste to the colors.

500 Refugees Arrive

Five hundred refugees from three border provinces arrived at Brussels by train, the first to reach the capital in the civilian exodus from an area expected to bear the brunt of any attack.

The phase "D" order putting Belgium in what was termed officially a "state of active defence" followed by only a few hours a hasty cancellation of leaves for army regulars, ordered Saturday night.

Belgians believe that a German attack on their country would not be as successful as the invasion of 1914. Although they would be vastly outnumbered, Belgian forces are said to be able to hold off any invasion for weeks behind the fortifications at Liege, the Albert Canal and defences in the northeast.

Score "Made in Paris" Claim

Berlin, Jan. 15—(AP)—Authorized Germans charged today that the present war scare in Belgium and The Netherlands was "made in Paris" and asserted Germany still clung to her oft-announced intention to avoid, if possible, any extension of the war area.

The war scare, it was said, was designed to provoke Germany into an aggressive step. The authorized sources said that Germany declined to be provoked.

As seen through German eyes the precautions taken in the small western European countries had resulted from "suggestive information" given the Belgian and Netherland Governments by French Premier Daladier.

Daladier, according to this view, clearly sees that progress cannot be made along the Maginot Line and therefore some other point of attack must be found.

It was therefore suggested to Belgium and The Netherlands, these Germans held, that Germany was about to invade their soil. This was said to fit in with an alleged British offer of a guarantee to Sweden because in the north also—as in the southeast as well—the Allied powers are anxious to widen the area of conflict, the Germans contended.

REFUGEE BOYS TO MAKE HOMES IN PEACE RIVER

Two Lads Will be First of 100 Children From Lands Persecuted by Germans

REFUGEE EXPERIMENT

Ottawa, Jan. 15 (CP)—Horst Gunter Schramm and Arwed Lewinski, the first of 100 refugee children who will find haven in Canada, are going to the Peace River country, and, said Senator Cairine Wilson today, they are thrilled at the prospect.

At present the two lads, sons of refugees from political persecution in Germany, are in England. Passage money for them had been forwarded by the Canadian National Committee for the victims of political persecution.

Senator Wilson, directing the committee, said latest word received here was that the boys are anxious to get to their new home in Alberta where they will be under the guardianship of Miss Monica Storrs.

Miss Storrs for some time has been interested in refugee work and has supported Horst and Arwed in England for the past six months.

Under the direction of Senator Wilson the Refugee Committee is building up a strong organization to care for the 100 children who will be allowed entry to Canada by the federal government, as an experiment.

If suitable homes may be found for them here and the experiment generally works out satisfactorily, then more refugee children may be admitted.

Under the present plan those adopting children do not have to become legal guardians but they are to be held responsible until the child reaches 16 years.

QUINTS PUZZLE OVER UNIFORM

Think Their Friend, Bishop Nelligan, is a Mountie, But He is C.A.S.F. Chaplain

North Bay, Ont., Jan. 15 (CP)—The Dionne quintuplets puzzled today as to why their friend, Most Rev. D. Leo Nelligan, Roman Catholic Bishop of the Pembroke Diocese, had joined the Royal Canadian Mounted Police.

Dressed in the uniform of a Canadian army officer, Bishop Nelligan, Chief of the Roman Catholic Chaplain Service in the Canadian Active Service Force, called at the Dafoe nursery at nearby Callander Sunday when bad weather grounded the passenger plane in which he was flying to Vancouver.

"Who am I?" he asked Canada's most famous daughters.

"You are the Bishop," Marie said in French. "But you look like you're a Mountie." The other sisters agreed solemnly.

Bishop Nelligan, who attended the quints' fifth birthday party last May spent an hour at the nursery and the quints made a big fuss over him and asked many questions. He told Dr. A. R. Dafoe, physician to the girls, that being with the quints "gives me some of the happiest moments of my life".

Bishop Nelligan was in the Maritime Provinces last week conferring with Catholic Chaplains. He returned by train to Ottawa when his plane was grounded here yesterday.

12.6% Increase Primary Loads Noted

Toronto, Jan. 15.—(CP)—A 12.6 per cent increase in primary power loads in the Ontario Hydro Electric Power Commission systems is noted in the Commission report for December, issued today.

Last month the load in the Niagara system was 1,313,003 horsepower, compared with 1,160,589 for the corresponding month in 1938, rise of 13.1 per cent. Greatest increase in power load was in the Northern Ontario properties, where the load was 183,956 h.p., compared with 156,865 for December, 1938.

Primary and secondary loads combined showed a 6.4 per cent increase for all systems. Total consumption was 2,060,184, compared with 1,964,083 in December, 1938.

Load of Bombs Blows Plane to Bits

London, Jan. 15 (CP)—A load of bombs exploded today when a Royal Air Force bomber crashed while taking off in the northeastern part of Fifeshire, north of the Firth of Forth.

The entire area over a six-mile radius was shaken by the blast.

The pilot jumped from the plane before it struck and escaped unscathed. The bomber was blown to bits.

DELIVERY BOYS HELD UP

Toronto, Jan. 15 (CP).—Three delivery boys were held up here Saturday, two of them by men who may have been armed. They lost a total of $19, a package of cigarettes and a dozen bananas. The robberies occurred in Parkdale, North York and the Danforth areas.

WAR BRIEFS

Paris, Jan. 15 (CP-Havas) — The French army high command's morning communique reported: "A calm night."

Berlin, Jan. 15 (AP)—Inactivity on all fronts was reported by the German high command today. A communique covering yesterday said merely: "No special events."

Brussels, Jan. 15 (AP)—Reports from Luxembourg said one shell landed on the Luxembourg side of, the Moselle River near Perl today in an exchange of French and German artillery fire. Three houses were damaged but no one was injured.

Stockholm, Jan. 15 (CP-Havas)—Selma Lagerlof, Swedish poet and novelist, has given the gold medal she received with the Nobel prize for literature in 1909 to the Finnish Air Fund, it was learned today. The writer also gave the fund a gold medal she received from the Swedish academy.

Warrington, England, Jan. 15 (CP Cable)—The inquest into the death of Flying Officer Richard Coe of Winfield, B.C., today was adjourned sine die. It was stated the Canadian airman was killed Jan. 10 when his single-seater machine crashed in a field at Appleton near Warrington.

Flying Officer Coe was married last Dec. 9 to Miss Hazel Browne of Kelowna, B.C.

Aldershot, Jan. 15 (CP Cable) — Corporals Maurice Poulin and Paul Belley of the Canadian Active Service Force were having a tough time fumbling their way over a blacked out road when they saw a Hurricane lamp on a road construction job and removed it.

Brought into court accused of stealing the lamp, they were dismissed by the Magistrate after Corporal Poulin testified: "It was so dark that we could not see, so we took the lamp. We did not intend to steal it."

Washington, Jan. 15 (AP)—President Roosevelt informed Congressional leaders today he would send a "communication" to Congress shortly on extending United States aid to Finland.

The Senate Democratic leader, Alben Barkley, told reporters after conference with the President that "we discussed the whole situation with reference to Finland, and the President will send a communication to the two Houses in the very near future." The communication, he said, will "speak for itself."

With the British Forces in France, Jan. 15—(CP-Reuters) —About one hundred men from the ranks of the British Expeditionary Force in France have returned to England to be trained as officers. The first group was sent back Dec. 23. Communications have been sent to another one hundred Non-Coms and men in various units on the B.E.F. informing them that they will shortly leave for England to undergo a course at an officer's training cadet unit.

Amsterdam, Jan. 15—(AP) — Two soldiers were killed and four injured today in an explosion during army exercises in Groningen Province, the Government Press Service announced. No other details were given.

London, Jan. 15—(CP-Cable)—The most optimistic village in England is Byfield, Northamptonshire A hall is booked and a band hired for a victory dance when the war ends.

The villagers are determined they will not be caught the next time—they were unable to get a band to celebrate the coronation in 1937 or the silver jubilee of King George V in 1935 because all had been engaged.

Hong Kong, Jan. 15 — (CP)—Agents for the 2,492-ton Soviet Russian steamship Selenga, brought into the crown colony port for contraband examination, cabled Moscow today urging that a protest be sent to London demanding immediate release.

The stopping of the Selenga was the first action of the kind by the China fleet since the war started. She was brought into harbor Saturday.

Jersey City, N.J., Jan. 15—(AP) —Two trains started for San Francisco last night with crew members of the scuttled German steamship Columbus while immigration authorities and railroad police kept relatives and spectators away.

No comment was made by officials on their reasons for closing both the Erie railroad pier from which the trains left and an adjacent street.

At San Francisco the crew will embark for a trans-Pacific trip to Germany.

Berlin, Jan 15—(AP)—Herbert Jakubowski, 28, of Tilsit, was beheaded today after being convicted of treason on charges he had divulged German state secrets to the intelligence service. of an. undisclosed foreign power.

RIGHT TO SEAT CHALLENGED

Peterborough, Ont., Jan. 15 (CP). —Right of Mrs. Ernest Ainslie, to be a trustee of Separate School No. 2, North Monaghan, in the suburbs of this city, is being questioned by several ratepayers who are bringing an action before Judge Sheldon Smoke to unseat her. The action is based on the ground Mrs. Ainslie is not listed in the assessment roll as a property owner.

CANADIANS DOWN TO HARD TRAINING

Henceforth Leave Will be Granted on Compassionate Grounds Only

(By Edwin Johnson Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Aldershot, England, Jan. 15 (CP Cable)—With return to camp of staff officers who accompanied Major-General A. G. L. McNaughton to France and completion of long leave given to men of the second contingent, there was a new burst of activity today in the area where the first division, Canadian Active Service Force, is training.

Henceforth leave will be granted on compassionate grounds only, together with the normal weekend time off.

Officers who had been away for a week applied themselves to a review of business disposed of during their absence, catching up with official correspondence, and opening bundles of letters and parcels from home.

Deeply Impressed

All were deeply impressed with what they saw on a trip to the front. As soon as General McNaughton returns to his headquarters the lessons of the tour will be canvassed and applied to the training program.

(In a dispatch from British headquarters in France The Canadian Press reported that the officers who accompanied General McNaughton were Lieut.-Colonel G. R. Turner, Senior General Staff Officer; the three infantry Brigadiers, A. A. Smith, G. R. Pearkes, V.C., and C. B. Price; The Commanders of the Divisional Artillery and Engineers, respectively Brigadier J. C. Stewart and Lieut.-Colonel C. S. L. Hertzberg; the Assistant Director of Medical Services, Colonel J. A. Linton, and the Deputy Assistant Quartermaster General, Captain J. F. A. Lister.)

Out in Strength

Despite the cold which in common with the rest of Europe is the severest in ten years, every unit of the C.A.S.F. was out in strength today on the parade ground. There was a noticeable snap of efficiency in the appearance of the men. The hardening process is beginning to show results. Gone is the short cadet-like shuffle with which the men marched into camp four weeks ago. Intensive daily drill has changed that and now the boys swing along squares and road alike with the smart rhythmic gait of guardsmen.

"A grand body of men" and "splendid fellows" were remarks commonly heard from veteran Imperial officers who have seen them in training activity.

Wear Gas Masks

To accustom the men to the experiences they may expect on active services a number of units are carrying out certain training exercises wearing gas masks for a spell of an hour or more.

Lower temperatures were welcomed by medical officers and troops alike as they had the effect of checking a mild outbreak of colds and "blitzflu'. But they brought temporary grief to some of the barracks where water and draining pipes froze solid. Expert and novice plumbers soon had the situation in hand.

The men are rapidly becoming acclimatized to the English winter and with ample stocks of coal for stocking in huts not centrally heated the boys are enjoying life in the off moments. They are hoping, however, that the season of fog and smog is now definitely "finis".

FRANCE BUILDS POWERFUL NAVY

Four 35,000-Ton Battleships and More Than 100 Small Vessels on Program

By Henry Cassidy
(Associated Press Staff Writer)

With the French Fleet, Jan. 15—(AP)— I have just seen a cross section of France's growing fleet, from the naval academy to her biggest ships in a three-day visit.

The French construction program calls for four 35,000-ton battleships and more than 100 smaller vessels to help meet any German challenge to Allied sea supremacy.

Naval bombers from the United States are being landed at a gaint airbase in Brittany where sea and land runways, steel hangars and modern apartments for the staff are being constructed. After the war, air passengers from North America may use this base as a station.

Writer Sees Bomber Assembled

When I was there one bomber was being assembled in a hangar where American mechanics were said to be directing the work. Other planes ready to fly were receiving their coats of camouflage.

The navy expansion program has been extended to men as well. The naval school at Brest is preparing to graduate this month 200 men who normally would have gone to sea next September.

In port beneath the school riveters drilled aboard the Richelieu, first of the new 35,000-ton battleships. Launched a year ago she is expected to be ready for sea within a few months.

Another 35,000 tonner, the Clemenceau, also is under construction at Brest while two more, the Jean Bart and Gascogne, are being built at Saint Nazaire.

Leslie Hore-Belisha to Make Statement

London, Jan. 15 — (CP)—The Press Association said today Leslie Hore-Belisha definitely would make "a personal statement," in the House of Commons tomorrow on his resignation as War Secretary from the cabinet.

It added that Prime Minister Chamberlain "then will reply, giving the reasons for the cabinet changes" which were announced Jan. 5.

The Press Association's account added that "no reference is likely to be made to the mysterious four-page letter which Mr. Hore-Belisha is reported to have received from Mr. Chamberlain."

Oliver Stanley, President of the Board of Trade, succeeded Mr. Hore-Blisha in the shake-up. Sir Andrew Duncan took the Trade portfolio and Lord MacMillan was replaced as Minister of Information by Sir John Reith.

Blackout Precautions Almost Double Traffic Fatalities

London, Jan .15.—(CP)—Blackout air raid precautions in Britain have almost doubled the number of traffic fatalities, Ministry of Transport figures indicated today.

During the last four months of 1939, the total number of persons killed was 4,133, the Ministry announced, compared with 2,494 during the like period in 1938.

Last December 1,155 persons were killed in road accidents, compared with 683 in December, 1938. More than half —895— of the number of persons killed in December, 1939, were involved in accidents during blackouts.

The Ministry said 8,270 persons were killed in traffic accidents in 1939 as compared with 6,599 in 1938.

Hungary Denies Talks Against Soviet Russia

Moscow, Jan. 15 — (AP) — An announcement today by Tass, Government News Agency, said Hungary had denied in a statement to Soviet Russia that recent Italian-Hungarian talks were aimed against the Soviet.

Hungary's minister in Moscow, Joseph Kirstoffy, called upon the Assistance Commissar of Foreign Affairs, Vladimir Potemkin, Tass said, and delivered the following announcement:

"Recently tendentious rumors were circulated regarding negotiations lately held in Venice by the Minister of Foreign Affairs, Count Stephen Csaky, and the Italian Minister of Foreign Affairs, Count Galeazzo Ciano.

"It is alleged that the above Italo - Hungarian negotiations were directed against the Soviet Union.

"The Government of Hungary deems it necessary categorically to deny these allegations. It regards opportune to add that the problem of the organization of a bloc of any states was not discussed at Venice."

DUTCH STEAMER SUNK

Amsterdam, Jan. 15—(CP-Havas) —The 8,000-ton Netherlands steamship Arendskerk was sunk today by a German submarine off the coast of Ouessant (Ushant), Westernmost of the islands off France's Breton coast. All passengers were rescued by the Italian steamship Fedora.

Your Fight For Freedom

Enlist now to fight on the home front

Canada's First War Loan is now open for subscription. When you buy First War Loan Bonds you accomplish in one stroke two important things.

First, you have a personal part in this war against Hitlerism. You know that this is not just anybody's war — it is your war. It is a desperate fight for freedom — your freedom.

Secondly, you invest your money in Dominion of Canada bonds which rank among the safest investments in the world. Rates and terms are such that you secure a prime investment on an attractive basis. On this point:—"There may be some who expect or fear that interest rates will rise substantially, perhaps a few who are thinking in terms of conditions during the last war. Such a view completely overlooks the vast changes that have taken place. We do not expect . . . any material change in interest rates from peace time levels . . ." (Budget Speech, Special War Session, House of Commons: Sept. 12, 1939.)

Now is the time to put some of your savings to work by moving them into First War Loan Bonds. Help Canada to destroy the menace against your freedom, your security — and your savings.

Don't delay — invest in Canada now. Buy Canada's First War Loan Bonds from any Investment Dealer, Stock Broker or Chartered Bank. Bonds are available in denominations as low as $50.00.

LOOK OUT FOR YOUR LIVER

It may be the cause of your troubles. Buck it up the right way, with Fruit-a-tives. Feel grand.

Your liver is the largest organ in your body and most important to your health. It pours out bile to digest food, gets rid of waste, stores energy, allows the proper nourishment to reach your blood. When your liver gets out of order food decomposes in your intestines. You become constipated, stomach and kidneys can't work properly. You feel "rotten"—headachy, backachy, dizzy, dragged out all the time.

Rid yourself of these miseries, as thousands have—with Fruit-a-tives, for 35 years Canada's largest selling liver remedy. Fruit-a-tives stimulate your liver, bring prompt relief—make you feel like a new person. Get Fruit-a-tives at your druggist's today, 25c, 50c.

Halloway

Holloway — On Sunday, Dec. 31st about 50 relatives and friends gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Egbert Hough to celebrate with them the Golden Anniversary of their wedding.

After everyone had partaken of the sumptuous wedding dinner the following address was read:

Dear Egbert and Annie:

On the occasion of the Golden Anniversary of your wedding we, your children, your brothers and sisters, your other relatives and some who have long cherished your friendship, are gathered in your home to offer our congratulations.

We pay tribute to the faithful manner in which you have done the many tasks that have been yours to do and we thank you for all you have done to show us all the paths of duty, hospitality, and courage.

We hope that this date will not mark the beginning to a sunset of your lives, but a golden gateway into a long and happy period of increasing freedom from labour and enjoyment of your just reward.

For fifty years, you've journeyed down,
The path of life together,
Each day made bright by faith and love,
Through every kind of weather.
And as you journey onward, may
The years all smile on you,
And bring the kind of happiness
And joys that are your due.

We ask you to accept this gift as a token of our best wishes and congratulations.

The couple were then presented with a beautiful studio couch after which Mr. and Mrs. Hough suitably replied.

Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Wilson spent Sunday with Mrs. J. Lowery and Mrs. A. Lowery.

AT THE BELLE

"The Roaring Twenties."

Time has been doing a backflip at the Warner Bros.' studio, and the result is "The Roaring Twenties", which is now on the Belle screen. It is a dramatic and compelling story of an era that is still strong in the minds of most of us—those fabulous years that mark the span from the end of the World War to the great market crash in 1929, powerfully told in the medium which is best equipped to tell it—the screen.

A perfect production job has been done—and that takes in research, sets, costuming and casting with James Cagney and Priscilla Lane in the starring roles. No one but Cagney could quite so ably portray the lad who returns thankfully from the war, eager to go back to his old job as a mechanic, only to become swiftly disillusioned in a world that has forgotten the debt it owes to the soldiers who fought for it. His rise from taxi-driver to bootlegger to big shot gangster is made believeable and understandable by Cagney's work. Priscilla Lane, as the eager young school girl who does her bit writing "pal" letters to the soldiers and who grows up to be a nightclub singer through Cagney's influence, again proves herself to be one of the finest young dramatic actresses on the screen today. Humphrey Bogart and Jeffrey Lynn, as Cagney's war buddies who become respectively a fellow gangster and a crusading attorney, are splendid in their roles. Gladys George, cast as a nightclub hostess of the Texas Guinan type, does an exceptionally fine portrayal. Paul Kelly as a rival gangster, and Frank McHugh, as Cagney's easy-going taxi-driver friend who is the tragic victim of a gang war, both do stand-out jobs in minor but important roles.

Written by Mark Hellinger, "The Roaring Twenties" deals with a chapter in our history which will undoubtedly be looked on by posterity as the most fascinating of the century—the incredible era of prohibition, where staggering fortunes were built up almost overnight, only to be swept away as quickly in the spectacular crash which shook the whole world in the year 1929.

The film has been produced lavishly, with careful attention paid to complete authenticity of background.

"Sniffle and the Bookworm", a funny cartoon in color and the popular Belle Overseas and Canadian Newsreel will be exhibited on the same program.

Performances start daily at 2:30, 7:00 and 9:10 p.m.

Little Benny's Note Book

This is the day, Mr. Entwhissle is coming for dinner, being a old bo of ma's when she was a girl, and we were eating breakfist and ma said to pop, Now dont be late this evening of all evenings.

I know, we expect frizzy top, pop said, and ma said, Now Willyum when are you going to get over your childist jellissy of Horace Entwhissle just because he has naturelly wavy hair? My lands I dont claim it's any great personel credit to him, I mean it's just one of nature's free endowments and Horace happened to be the innocent recipient, she said.

I cant say I ever noticed his hair, what color is it? pop said, and ma said, It's pure gold and you know it to your sorrow, but I want you to forget all such petty differences and treat him as an honored guest, or at least politely.

Have no fear, I'll be Lord Chesterfoeld himself, pop said. I'll greet him like a long lost brother. Well well Curlylocks, I'll say to him, this is like old times. Dont be alarmed, I'll make him feel right at home, pop said, and ma said, You'll do no such thing. I mean is there any reason you cant discuss neutral mutual subjects and avoid all personalities as far as present company is concerned?

Okay, I'll be strictly impersonal pop said. If the conversation happens to languish and die down I'll blow on it by remarking, By the way, Horace, I wonder what ever happened to the 7 Sunderland sisters that all had such long lustrous hair down to their ankles, I believe they used to avvertize some hair tonic or other away back in the old days, have you any news of them, Horace? I'll say to him, pop said, and ma said, Willyum Potts if you drag one hair into the entire evening you can speak to yourself for the rest of your life because I'll never speak to you.

3 BRITISH SUBS FAIL TO RETURN SAYS ADMIRALTY

No Army Pressure to Oust Hore-Belisha,—Premier Chamberlain

Undine, Starfish Victims of German Defence Measures

Action Said to Have Taken Place Monday in Heligoland Bight and Parts of Crews Rescued

QUIET ON W. FRONT

Starfish of Seagoing Type Has Complement of 40 Men, While Undine is Coastal Type Vessel With Crew of 27

London, Jan. 16 (CP)—The Admiralty today announced the British submarines Seahorse, Undine and Starfish now are regarded as lost since they have failed to return to their bases or report during the past week.

The Starfish and Seahorse were sisterships, belonging to the seagoing Swordfish class and having normal complements of 40 men each. Their surface displacement was 640 tons.

The Undine, 540 tons, was a smaller coastal type and normally carried 27 men.

Both the Starfish and the Seahorse were completed in 1933. Each had six 21-inch torpedo tubes and a three-inch deck gun.

The Undine was one of Britain's most modern submarines, having been completed in September, 1938. She had six 21-inch torpedo tubes but no deck gun.

An official Admiralty statement said the three vessels "have been engaged on particularly hazardous service and the Admiralty fears they must now be regarded as lost."

"The German wireless has announced that part of the crews of the Undine and Starfish have been rescued," the Admiralty said.

Berlin, Jan. 16—(AP)—Germany claimed today that two British submarines, the Undine and the Starfish, had been destroyed in Heligoland Bight and parts of the crews rescued. The German army high command's communique said:

"The British submarines Starfish and Undine were destroyed through German defence measures in the German (Heligoland) Bight. Part of the crews were rescued."

Skiing! The two requirements for skiing, cold and snow, are found in New England, north-central and mountainous parts of the United States, Vancouver and other parts of Canada. Recent experiments indicate that sliding is good when temperatures are near the freezing point, due to the water film between the skis and the sliding surface. Friction increases with lower temperatures, as the lubricating water film is more difficult to form. This film is formed by frictional heating, although pressure may assist.

Vicar-General of Archdiocese Has Been in Ill-Health for a Year

Halifax, Jan. 16—(CP)— Mgr. C. E. McManus Vicar-General of the Roman Catholic Archdiocese of Halifax died in hospital today after a year's illness. He was 66.

He was honored by the Pope several years ago with the title of Domestic Prelate for his services to the Church. Until his illness, Mgr. McManus had been rector of St. Mary's Cathedral in Halifax for 13 years.

He was at one time rector of St. Mary's College in Halifax. He has held parishes in various sections of Nova Scotia as well as the large parish of St. Joseph in his native city of Halifax.

FOUR BUSY WEEKS AT OUTSET OF AIR FORCE CAREER

Physical Training, Lectures and Machine Shop Work Lot of All Recruits

NO FLYING AT ALL

By WALLACE WARD
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Ottawa, Jan. 16—(CP)—Physical training, lectures and machine shop work—without any flying at all—will be the lot of all recruits for four busy weeks at the outset of their air force careers under the British Commonwealth air training plan.

Canadians from every province will take this introductory course at one of three initial training schools to be set up in Canada. Recruits from the United Kingdom, from New eZaland and Australia will have had the initial training by the time they arrive here to join their Canadian comrades-in-arms at the more advanced schoo's under the air training plan.

Young Canadians from factories, schools, from office desks and fresh from the farm must all pass through the initial training establishments in transition from civilian life to active and exacting business of learning to be soldiers of the air.

From their ranks will come the Empire's future air pilots, air gunners, observers, air navigators and wireless operators. The crowded curriculum of this preparatory school, arduous as it is, will still leave the boys time to get ac-

Guidance of Finnish 'Border Jumpers' Greatly Assist Russians in Lapland

(By Paul Sjoblom, Associated Press Staff Writer)

With the Finnish Army on the Salla Front, Jan. 16—(AP)—A Finnish patrol commander today told how brother fights brother in Finnish lapland where communist sympathizers jumped the border into Soviet Russia and returned with the Red Army.

The commander said one of his men discovered his brother, who fled to Russia seven years ago, among a group of Russian prisoners captured on this front.

"Brother, look what you have done!" the officer said the Finnish soldier cried.

Then, said the officer, the Finnish soldier drew his revolver and killed his own brother.

Finnish officers say the guidance and advice of some of these Finnish "border jumpers' attached to the Red army are one reason why the Russians have been able to hold out so long in this sector, despite bitter cold and wild terrain.

They guided the Rusians in the first days of the offensive here, and enabled the Russians to make rapid progress.

Six or seven years ago Salla was one of the most communistic areas in Finland, and during the depression about 200 local communists went across the border to Russia.

Two Finnish soldiers who were captured and later escaped said they had identified some of their Finnish-speaking captors as former Salla inhabitants.

Finnish officers say units of the Communist youth organization, Komsomol, attached to the Red Army here, are another reason the Russian Salla column has been so hard to dislodge from its position.

The Komsomolists, ardent disciples of Joseph Stalin, are rated by the Finns as the best Russian troops they have encountered on any front.

On the battlefield these communist boys shoot to their last round of ammunition and then defend themselves with bayonets or rifles swung like clubs in hand-to-hand encounters.

2 SOVIET ARMY COMPANIES HAVE BEEN DISPERSED

New Hardships Brought to Inhabitants as Temperature Reaches 51 Below Zero

SOVIET SPIES SHOT

60 Russian Planes Dropped More Than 600 Bombs in Finland on Monday

Helsingfors, Jan. 16—(AP)—Finland today announced two Soviet army companies had been dispersed on the eastern front near Salla in sporadic fighting that accompanied extensive Russian air raids on towns far behind the battle lines.

A Finnish communique said that from 70 to 80 Red planes took part in yesterday's raids and that four were shot down. Unconfirmed reports from the interior said the raids were continuing today in bitter cold weather that increased the suffering of the embattled populace.

No lives were lost in cities away from the war zone, but the communique said forty injured had been reported thus far. At Viborg, (Viipuri), gulf coastal city which is in the war zone, three were killed and four wounded.

51 Below Zero

Helsingfors, Jan. 16.— (AP) — Finland's most severe weather in 25 years—it was 51 below zero Fahrenheit in some parts today—brought new hardships to the inhabitants of bomb-torn cities.

Temporary repairs of damaged buildings in such hard-hit cities as Viborg (Viipuri), Tammerfors (Tampere), and Abo (Turku) were spurred by the cold.

The Finnish Press announced several Russian spies had been caught and promptly shot. One spy was said to have possessed miniature broadcasting equipment.

Sixty Russian bombing planes dropped more than 600 bombs in the interior of Finland yesterday, Finnish official sources said, killing three civilians and wounding 60. This brought officially recorded bombing casualties since January 7 to 21 dead and 140 wounded.

Village Badly Damaged

Private sources, however, estimated casualties as much higher. One traveller reported an air raid shelter in Abo had been struck by a bomb yesterday and most of its 30 occupants killed outright.

An unconfirmed report said the village of Ekenas, on the southwest tip of Finland, was almost demolished yesterday. More than half of its 700 homes were said to have been destroyed and the inhabitants forced to struggle through bitter weather to other refuges.

This report said Soviet warplanes dropped several heavy bombs, blowing most of the village to pieces. Casualties were small because the populace had taken refuge in the fields.

Many smaller villages had great difficulty extinguishing fires started by the raids because hose lines froze quickly.

STRINGS ATTACHED TO FUTURE AID

U. S. Gov't. Believes Money Given Should Not be Spent in States

Washington, Jan. 16. —(AP)— There were indications today that the United States government and Congress might tie strings on any future aid to Finland.

Senators usually in touch with the Presidential residence talked of granting the besieged country an additional loan of $25,000,000, but they said that the money involved should not be spent in the United States and not be used for the purchase of armaments.

President Roosevelt was expected to express his views and to transmit those of State Secretary Cordell Hull and Jesse Jones, Federal Loan Administrator, in letters to Vice President John Garner and Speaker Bankhead.

There were some reports that the President would not oppose a loan through the Export-Import bank, which, with the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, already has made $10,000,000 available to Finland for the purchase of American Agricultural and other non-military products.

The Senate Banking Committee had reports that the Finns had drawn none of this advance so far, but that the Export-Import bank specifically had approved $1,000,000 of credits for the purchase of certain designated supplies.

Whether another loan limited to non-military uses in this country would be of much value to Finland was a subject of conjecture. Hjalmar J. Procope, the Finnish Minister, was represented as having said that suggested restrictions would greatly diminish the usefulness of the loan.

Mother in Dilemma Over Babe's Identity So She Sues Hospital

Los Angeles, Jan. 16.—(AP)— Mrs. Frances Mahoney, 29, declares that as the result of a hospital mixup she never will be certain whether her son was the baby with the red hair or the one with black.

The former juvenile actress said in a deposition she gave in her $25,000 damage suit against a hospital yesterday that a son was born to her September 12, 1938.

A nurse showed her a red-haired baby and told her it was hers, she testified, but five hours later brought a black-haired baby for her to nurse. When she left the hospital she was given the red-haired boy and has cared for him 16 months.

Mrs. Mahoney expressed her willingness to give the red-haired baby back and take the black-haired one, but declared the uncertainty has caused her great mental torture.

Mrs. Anna Boaz, the other mother in the baby mix up, sued the hospital also but has settled the case out of court.

57 PER CENT. OF LOAN SUBSCRIBED ON FIRST DAY

$114,650,600 of Bonds Sold and Sale Will Continue Today

MANY SMALL INVESTORS

Ottawa, Jan. 16 —(CP)— Finance Minister Ralston's hope that first Dominion Loan of the second Great War would have a wide distribution among smaller investors seemed certain of fulfillment today when the Bank of Canada was deluged by a wave of subscriptions of $5,000 or less.

Indications today were that the $200,000,000 loan, which opened yesterday morning, would be heavily oversubscribed but the books will remain open another day at least in order that subscriptions from the most remote districts may be registered.

The first day's canvass brought subscription of 57 per cent of the loan, investors turning over $114,650,600 to the Dominion's war chest.

Struggle With Returns

Officials at the Bank of Canada, which is handling the loan, struggled with a mass of returns from all parts of the Dominion this morning and endeavoured to arrive at the total amount subscribed.

EQUIPMENT GIVEN FOR RUMANIAN OIL

Germany and Rumania Enter Into Trade Agreement

Washington, Jan. 16 (AP).—Germany, in return for continued shipments of Rumanian oil, was reported today to be sending Rumania war implements and supplies which would help that country fight off any aggression in the Balkans.

Authoritative sources in Washington disclosed today that the Nazis had delivered 70 Heinkel bombing planes, 70 Heinkel pursuit planes, anti-tank guns and ammunition to the Rumanian army. Regular deliveries were continuing, these sources said.

All munitions and equipment contracted for the Rumanian government with the Skoda arms plant before the outbreak of war have been delivered, it was reported, and Germany has pledged deliveries of recently-ordered military supplies.

Skoda, one of Europe's greatest arms manufacturing planes, was taken over by Germany when the latter occupied Czecho-Slovakia.

In Rumania it is said to be common knowledge that Germany is shipping Diesel engines and periscopes to the Galatz (Rumania) ship building plant. German technical experts there are supervising construction of submarines, under German licence, for the Rumanian navy.

Germany's need of Rumanian oil is so great, it is pointed out by analysts of international affairs, that she is providing equipment and supplies which might be used against Russia, her partner, in order to ensure continued shipments.

QUADS ARE BORN TO MINER'S WIFE

Babies Delivered in Good Health Within One Hour and 15 Minutes

Nauvoo, Ala., Jan. 16 (AP)— Mrs. Clyde Short, a coal miner's wife, was the proud mother today of quadruplets—three girls and one boy.

They were born Sunday night at the Short's rural home near here and later taken to the Walker County Hospital.

A small town physician, Dr. H J. Sankey, said he delivered the babies in good health within an hour and 15 minutes with the help of several neighboring housewives.

Each of the children, he said, weighed a few ounces over three pounds. The girls were named Faith, Hope and Charity. No name has been chosen for the boy.

Dr. Sankey said he was surprised at the birth of four children. He had expected twins.

Medical records show quadruplets are delivered at only one out of 1,000,000 births. Records list one in 100 as twin births, and one in 10,000 triplets.

CONCRETE MEANS TO ENFORCE ZONE NOW BEING SOUGHT

Committee in Receipt of Britain's Note Stating 300-Mile Zone as "Ineffective"

JUST A SANCTUARY

Rio De Janeiro, Jan. 16 (AP).—A Pan-American neutrality committee today sought concrete means of enforcing the 300-mile 'neutrality zone' designed to keep South American and United States waters free from belligerent naval activities.

The committee has received Great Britain's note describing the zone as "ineffective" as outlined at present, but so far has made no formal comment upon it.

In a vote to the President of Panama as representative of the twenty-one republics, Great Britain expressed concern that the zone would provide a "vast sanctuary" for German warcraft.

The note, released in London, declared the safety belt involved the abandonment of belligerents' rights and asked assurance that German merchantmen would not be permitted to engage in inter-American trade.

BREACH WIDENING BETWEEN RUSSIA AND SCANDINAVIA

Russian Broadcast Accuses Sweden of Forcing Unemployed to Fight for Finland

PROTESTS MADE

Swedish and Norwegian Gov'ts. Claim Borders Violated by Soviet Planes

Copenhagen, Jan. 16.—(AP) —A Russian broadcast accusing Sweden of forcing the unemployed to fight for Finland increased today the strain of relations between the Soviet Union and Scandinavian countries.

Russia previously expressed dissatisfaction with replies of Sweden and Norway to her complaint that they were sending men and supplies to the embattled Finns and permitting anti-Soviet Press campaigns.

Meanwhile, the Swedish and Norwegian governments last night directed their ministers in Moscow to protest alleged violations of their borders by Soviet planes.

The Swedish Foreign office said 10 bombs had been dropped on the Swedish Island of Kallaks Sunday and that one of the nine Russian planes sighted was believed to have made a forced landing in Sweden.

The Norwegian Foreign office, protesting "a breach of neutrality" said several Russian planes had flown over Norway between January 12 and 14 and that one landed on Norwegian soil.

LOWLAND STATES REMAIN IN STATE OF 'SEMI-ALARM'

Authoritative Sources Declare There is "No Acute Danger" at Present Time

SINKINGS PROTESTED

Amsterdam, Jan. 16 —(AP)— Despite official assurances that Belgium and the Netherlands are in no immediate danger of invasion, armies of the lowland nations bordering Germany remained in a state of "semi-alarm" today.

In the Netherlands where all army, air force and naval leaves had been cancelled over the weekend, authoritative sources declared there was "no acute danger."

The war at sea, however, brought fresh concern. The motorship Arendskerk, 7 906 tons, was reported torpedoed yesterday in the Bay of Biscay, the third Netherlands vessel lost by submarine action since the war started.

Advices by way of London said the submarine sank the Arendskerk after a boarding party searched the ship. She was carrying a general cargo from South Africa to Antwerp. The Italian ship Fedora picked up the crew of 58 and headed for Lisbon.

The Netherlands has made representations to Germany over the torpedoing of the tanker Sliedrecht in the Atlantic Nov. 16 and the sinking of the steamship Tajandoen in the English channel Dec. 7 is under investigation.

Toad That Slept 20 Years in Concrete Not Interested in Anything but Sleep

Crowell, Tex., Jan. 16—(AP) — Airless Joe, an old toad that slept 20 years in a concrete slab, went back to sleep today.

Rival of Old Rip, the Eastland County Horned Toad that assertedly dozed 31 years in a granite stone, Airless Joe is not interested in anything but sleep.

Henry Ashford, newspaper man, says Airless Joe rolled out of a concrete slab, white and apparently dead. But that's the way old Joe sleeps—soundly.

The sun awakened him; he blinked and changed his color, blushing that folks caught him napping.

W. H. McGonagle of Hobbs, N. M., admitted sealing a frog in cement 20 years ago. He thinks it was a "dirty deal" but old Joe seemed to enjoy the rest.

Airless Joe belongs to the Genus Bufo, a leaping type of Amphibian that burrows in the earth at day and prowls at night.

Scientists disagree whether a frog could live in stone for any length of time. Most argued that the toad would die.

Owners of Old Rip and Airless Joe's new friends argue these two freaks did not "croak" for lack of food, water or air.

It is known toads hibernate and often share the winter quarters of a prairie dog or a few snakes, all of which sleep through the cold months.

Old Rip, pulled from a courthouse stone in 1928, died in receivership after several claimants laid hands on him.

Airless Joe? He's sound asleep behind the newspaper office.

No Conflict With Cabinet, Says Former Minister

Mr. Chamberlain Does Not Give Detailed Reasons for Hore-Belisha's Retirement as Minister Except to Say That He Was Aware of Difficulties Which Arose Out of the Very Great Qualities of the Retired Minister Which Made it Desirable in His View That a Change Should Occur

ARMY POLICY REMAINS

Mr. Hore-Belisha Says Democratization and Reorganization of Army Carried Through With Unusual Agreement — Clears Colleagues of Any Aspersions — Mr. Chamberlain Says Single Criterion is What Will Contribute to Early and Successful End of the War— Premier Welcomes Recent Action of Japan in Relaxing Restrictions in Orient

POLISH DEPOPULATION

London, Jan. 16 (CP). — Prime Minister Chamberlain told the House of Commons today that he did not intend to give "detailed reasons" for the retirement of Leslie Hore-Belisha as Secretary of State for War.

The prime minister, speaking after Mr. Hore-Belisha made a personal statement on his resignation Jan. 5, declared it was "pure invention" to suggest that there had been army pressure on him to displace the war minister.

"I will only say," the prime minister added, "that I had become aware of difficulties arising out of the very great qualities of my right honorable friend which, in my view, made it desirable that a change should occur."

In his personal statement, Mr. Hore-Belisha said he wished "to clear those who have worked with me of any aspersion" of knifing him in the back with the prime minister.

He declared the reorganization of the army during his administration had been "carried out with a degree of agreement which offers a remarkable contrast to the stormy history of most reforms."

Democratization of Army.

He said differences of opinion had been "no deeper than must occur in any association of men bent on pressing tasks of more than transitory importance."

Democratization of the army, he said, was the "result of our common endeavors."

"It did not occur to me to consider that we were making an army too democratic to fight for democracy," the resigned minister declared.

Mr. Hore-Belisha and his successor, Oliver Stanley, were cheered by the House.

Every seat in the House was taken in anticipation of the statement of Leslie Hore-Belisha on his resignation from the war cabinet. The Earl of Munster, who is on the staff of General Viscount Gort in France and formerly was Mr. Hore-Belisha's Under-Secretary, was in the peers' gallery.

Commissions in Army.

Mr. Stanley's first reply as Secretary of War was to a question about the commissions in the army granted to men with different types of education.

"I regret the information asked for is not available," was the reply.

Prime Minister Chamberlain told the House that Germany apparently is pursuing a "policy of deliberate depopulation" in Poland and that it appeared that intellectual leaders were being singled out for execution. H said it seemed clear that the number executed was "considerable".

Mr. Chamberlain said reports of executions were generally confirmed by such evidence as was available and that the Polish government planned to issue a white book on the subject.

PREMIER HEPBURN PROMISES ACTION

Debate on Throne Speech Will Open Today With Col. George Drew as First Opposition Speaker

Toronto, Jan. 16 —(CP)—Premier Mitchell Hepburn promises that the Ontario Legislature will be more active from now on than it has been since the opening last Wednesday.

The House sat for only 20 minutes yesterday and put a number of government bills, most of them minor amendments to the statutes, through a committee stage. But the Premier promised to have enough legislation brought in this week to keep the chamber humming.

The address of Lieut.-Col. George A. Drew, Conservative leader, in resumption of the budget speech was expected to warm up proceedings today. The Premier's address is to follow and there is little likelihood the debate will end this week.

The Premier enlivened yesterday's brief sitting with an exchange arising from passage through the committee stage of an act respecting survivorship in common disasters. It provides that where two persons die simultaneously the elder shall be presumed to have died first, to prevent litigation over estates.

The Premier, speaking "jocularly of "common disasters," recalled that Conservative Governments in Ontario and Saskatchewan were defeated on a single June day in 1934.

Col. Drew suggested that the alliance of Mr Hepburn and former Premier Maurice Duplessis of Quebec met disaster when Mr. Duplessis' government went to the polls recently and said the Premier evidently had changed his mind about the Ontario-Quebec axis.

"I don't care how many times I change my mind as long as I'm right in the finish." Mr. Hepburn said.

OBITUARY

LATE HARRY L. SPAFFORD

The funeral of Harry L. Spafford took place Monday afternoon, Jan. 15th., from the family residence, 96 Catherine Street. The service in the home and at the graveside in Frankford cemetery was conducted by the Rev. R. E. Newman, pastor of Holloway Street United Church.

The bearers were Messrs. Stanley Spafford, Earl Bush, Arnold Campbell, Carl Bush, Elvin Downey and Roy Spafford.

LATE BEATRICE M. RUSHLOW

Saturday afternoon the funeral of Beatrice Maryiln Rushlow, the 7-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Stanley R. Rushlow, 56 South Foster Avenue, took place from the residence of her grandmother, Mrs John W. Benn, 15 Pinnacle Street. The service in the home and at the graveside in Belleville Cemetery was conducted by the Rev. Dr. James Semple, pastor of Bridge St United Church.

The bearers were Ormond Rushlow, Bert Price, Billie Calbury, Donald Seams, Wilber Calbury and Douglas Calbury.

LATE RICHARD H. CALNAN (Picton)

Picton, Jan. 16.—The funeral of Richard Herbert Calnan, former town clerk, was very largely attended at his late residence yesterday afternoon. Rev. J. F. Reycraft conducted the service and interment was in Glenwood Cemetery. There were many lovely floral tributes.

Mr. Calnan was born in the township of Sophiasburgh, at Crofton, 79 years ago, and resided on a farm there until moving to Hillier Township where he farmed until twenty-eight years ago when he retired and moved to Picton. He served for two years as a member of the town council and when a vacancy occurred he was appointed town clerk, in 1919 and he held this office until September, 1936. On his retirement he was presented with several gifts by the town when tribute was paid to his efficient service.

For more than twenty years he was also agent for the Bay of Quinte Insurance Company and through these spheres his circle of friends was a large one. His death came as a great shock since he had been down town the day before his death, which followed a heart attack earlier in the day.

Mr. Calnan was a member of Picton United Church and served as a steward. When he was a resident of Hillier Township, he was assessor for two years. He was for years a director of the Ben Gill Cheese Factory.

He is survived by his wife, who was formerly Elizabeth Morden, a son, Oral B. Calnan and a daughter, Mrs. Roy Giles of Ameliasburgh Township.

School Principal Charged With Abusing Student

South Connellsville, Pa., Jan. 16 (AP)—Charges of abusing a 17-year old girl student due to a chewing gum incident today brought about suspension of John Snader, 40, junior high school principal.

The school board announced his removal pending a "complete and impartial investigation."

Snader told the board members that he had attempted to punish Josephine Edenbo for chewing gum and falsifying about it and that when she fought back it was a question of self defence.

"I slapped her face—lightly," said the principal. "I turned to go. Then she landed a haymaker on my cheek. I thought the side of the building had caved in. Then I slapped her face three or four times—both sides. She tripped over a chair and sat down on the floor with a thump."

The student charged Snader hit her in the face several times and added: "I got in one good right sock to the jaw and he turned deathly pale."

P. C. McGuire Elected President Of V.O.N. at 15th Annual Meeting

Closing a decade and a half of a great humanitarian work for the city of Belleville, the fifteenth annual meeting last evening of the Victorian Order of Nurses showed that the past year had been one of the most active and successful in the history of the Order in the community. The fact that the citizens in general are keenly aware of the great value of this service and are determined that, while doing all in their power towards assisting in the Empire's wartime cause, the services for the poor and sick at home will not be neglected, was amply demonstrated by the unprecedented response to the Order's annual appeal for membership.

Mr. P. C. McGuire was elected president at the annual election of officers which took place later in the meeting.

Rev. A. Beauchamp Payne very capably carried out the duties of chairman and in address stressed the need of continuing the great work, so necessary at home, even though all thoughts were with activities overseas.

Miss Bernice Arbuckle, secretary, read the minutes of the last meeting and also a report of the past year's activities undertaken by the committee. This interesting resume showed a year of successful endeavour, co-operation on the part of the public, by individual efforts and the assistance of various clubs and organizations. The report referred to the splendid work of Miss Mary Webster and the committee expressed sincere wishes for restoration to good health.

Message from Retiring President

A message from the retiring president, G. H. Bray, was read by Mr. P. C. McGuire and is as follows:

Belleville, Ont., Jan. 15, 1940

To the Executive and Members of V.O.N.

Ladies and Gentlemen: I replanned my work so as to be with you tonight but find now that this is impossible so once more I am obliged to ask my dependable and efficient aide to come to my assistance and present this message for me. No friend and vice-president could have proven his genuine interest or acceptability more fully than Mr. McGuire has done during this past year and I wish to acknowledge his assistance and record my gratitude.

I would express my appreciation for the assistance and co-operation of the committee chairman, no better could ever be given. In this, one of the biggest years of the fifteen in which V.O.N. has served in Belleville, our efforts have progressed with smoothness and completeness which would have been impossible without this splendid co-operation. I am happy to congratulate you and know that the future of our work is assured while such interest in V.O.N. is so unselfishly displayed.

Our nurses have made 6,623 visits to 1,142 patients which is an achievement to be proud of. Our finances are in satisfactory condition, the membership drive reaching a new high. Special credit is due this committee and its chairman. Much credit is due to our nurses as a group and especially to Miss Soutar. The unselfish thoroughness of the services of these ladies not only makes the services of V.O.N. possible but adds to our ability to serve.

It is a real grief to me to have been so little associated with the work in the past year. It is an honor to be associated with V.O.N. in any capacity and while I must, due to being away so much, remain inactive to a large extent, I shall follow with interest the work in 1940.

My sincerest good wishes to you all and especially to my successor in office.

Sincerely yours, G. H. Bray.

Balance in Treasury

The report of the treasurer, Mr. E. S. James, showed a balance on hand.

The nurses' report was read by Miss Bessie Soutar, nurse in charge, and was a comprehensive and interesting picture of the nursing activities of the past season. The chairman voiced the sentiments of all present when he congratulated Miss Soutar on her report and on the fine record of work which is represented. Mr. Payne also spoke in high terms of the efficiency of the secretary, Miss Arbuckle, who has carried out the duties of this office with great satisfaction for a number of years.

On a motion by Mr. Reg. Moncrieff, seconded by Mr. J. W. Imlah, it was decided to send a letter of sympathy to relatives of the late Fred Smythe, former president and tireless worker for Victorian Order of Nurses.

Report of Nominating Committee

The report of the nominating committee, Mrs. O. R. Denyes, Mr. T. D. Ruston and Mr. Taylor Franklin, was read by Mr. Franklin and unanimously adopted as follows:

Honorary Presidents: Mr. Chas. A. Cameron, K.C., M.P.; Mr. R. D. Arnott, K.C., M.P.P.; Mayor Glencoe Thompson; President: Mr. P. C. McGuire; 1st Vice President: Mr. Richard Hart; 2nd Vice President: Mr. Herb. Fox; Secretary: Miss Bernice Arbuckle; Treasurer: Mr. E. S. James.

In addition, nominations to the Local Board or Committee are as follows:

Mrs. J. Tilley, Mrs. T. Holland, Mrs. J. Lynch, Mrs. C. A. Cameron, Mrs. A. Gilroy, Mrs. F. B. Foley, Mrs. G. F. Lent, Mrs. O. R. Denyes, Mrs F. A. Doucett, Mrs. E. P. Bernstein, Mrs. A. C. Burton, Mrs. D. R. Cleland, Mr. H. Muir, Mr. Thos. D. Ruston, Mr. Wilfred Holmes, Mr. T. K. Franklin, Mr. H. B. Fetterley, Mr. G. Friesen, together with the President of the Local Ministerial Association.

The Nominating Committee recommends that the incoming Executive, should they see fit, name a Committee to interview any remaining Service Clubs not represented on this Board with a view to having them name a representative to our Board.

Respectfully submitted,
1940 Nominating Committee
T. K. Franklin, Chairman,
Mrs. O. R. Denyes.

"Get up Bill, Get up" Bill Tells Himself By Record Each Morn

Providence, R. I., Jan. 16—(AP)—H. William Richter, Brown University sophomore from Bridgewater, Mass., has overcome a common tendency to oversleep with the help of an electric alarm clock and a phonograph.

At 7:30 a.m. the alarm goes off, throwing a switch which starts the phonograph. Then William hears himself tell himself:

"Get up Bill, get up."

The recording of Richter's voice begins gently but persuasively.

"Now, Bill, don't give us any of that stuff," it says. "No, don't turn over again. You know what will happen if the dean hears about your sleeping through another eight o'clock class." Then it roars: "Do you hear me. Hey, hey, get up."

Miss B. Soutar Gives Annual V. O. N. Report

NURSE'S ANNUAL REPORT
January 15th, 1940.

Mr. Chairman, Ladies and Gentlemen:—

The Belleville Branch of the Victorian Order has completed its fifteenth year. It has been my privilege, as a Victorian Order Nurse, to serve this branch for 1-3 of its life. My assistants and I, have been ever mindful of the varied responsibilities which Victorian Order work implies, in giving to the Community, a quality of nursing service to the sick in their own homes inspired by high ideals to give of one's best in fulfilment of the V.O.N. motto "Service to Others."

In passing the milestone of fifteen years, it might be permissible to reminisce. It was in 1924 that the Kiwanis Club first introduced V.O.N. to Belleville and for the next six years assumed the responsibility of its financial support; then there followed "lean years" in the Kiwanis Club and they could no longer support the Victorian Order, so it was forced to stand upon its own legs and like a child attempting to stand alone for the first time, it was pretty weak. Those community-minded folk who served on the Executive of the V.O.N. in those days will never forget the anxieties and work which followed in raising funds to maintain a nursing service which was weakening through lack of sufficient financial support— and neither shall I forget it—because it was at this stage of malnourished growth in 1934, that I came to Belleville—we all worked hard—real hard—and together the "load" was pulled up the hill, thanks to a generous response from the public in answer to the Executive's appeals for a Membership Fund comprising a donation of $1.00 or more. Every one of you present here tonight has assisted in this, and are members of the Belleville Branch of the Victorian Order; from this large membership a committee is chosen to carry on the business affairs of the local branch.

How does the work in 1939 compare with that of its first year in 1925? When the work was first organized there was only one full-time nurse with a part time assistant as required. In 1927 a second nurse was added to the staff, making Belleville Branch a 2 nurse district. The staff is the same now as then with the exception of a second part time assistant.

Statistics Only Part of Story

The story of the growth of the work is told very briefly in statistical figures and while statistics only tell part of the story, they are the most accurate of all measuring yards, therefore the most satisfactory, so permit me to quote the comparative figures as given in the annual report at the completion of its first full year in 1925 with that of the year just completed, 1939. The nurse reported at the Annual Meeting of 1925 that 2,665 visits were made to 362 patients. To the end of 1939 there were 6,623 visits made to 1,142 patients.

Looking back over fifteen years there naturally have been many changes both in the nursing personnel and in the Executive, and tonight we might think of those who did the early pioneer work, knowing they had a vision which they hoped citizens of the future as well as the present would be benefited by, and because of this vision blue uniformed nurses with a little black bag have gone in and out of the homes in this community for fifteen years, administering care to many who might otherwise have had to do without trained nurse service.

Question Asked

"What does this trained nurse service, given by the Victorian Order include?" some one may ask—so a word of explanation to those who may not be familiar with our activities. The service includes all types of medical and surgical cases, also Maternity Care. Medical cases include such diseases as influenza, bronchitis, colds of all kinds, pneumonia, heart conditions etc. Last winter there was a mild but annoying type of influenza which lasted approximately six weeks in Belleville. The V.O.N. gave care to 96 of these "Flu" patients and to 21 who developed pneumonia—336 other types of medical cases were nursed. Surgical cases include assisting the Drs. with minor operations such as removal of tonsils, opening of abscesses etc., dressing wounds, as in the case of patients returning from hospital, when convalescence is often continued at home, thereby relieving the hospital which is so often overcrowded, and at the same time eliminating undue expense for the patient at a time when cost of illness has been felt most acutely, or if it is a city case, saving a few dollars from the Treasurer's account. The total of medical and surgical visits made in 1939 were 2,532. The maternity work is pretty well known so I will not emphasize it here, except to say that 148 mothers and 150 babes were given 2,783 visits.

Clinic Work Essential

The clinic work with Mother and Babes continues to be an essential part of our educational health activities. In the first year of its organization in 1924, 16 clinics were held—39 babes registered with a total of 105. In 1939 there were 52 clinics held a registration of 324 and an attendance of 1 668. In addition to these, there were 773 visits made to 237 Babes who for various reasons could not come to clinics and their health was supervised in their [illegible] as part of the health education programme of the Victorian Order—of the 6,623 visits made we received full payment for 476; part pay for 2,465 and 3,682 were free.

At the clinics all types of problems are discussed which deal with the mental and physical well-being of infants from the first year of life to the 6th year. An interesting feature, is the yearly dental inspection of all pre-school children of the clinic given by one of the local dentists. To build good teeth in the pre-school child in preparedness for good teeth in the future adult, is one of the many points in our Health Teaching, and it is very gratifying to get favorable dental reports yearly amongst children whose health has been supervised. In the poorly nourished child and in the sickly delicate child are often to be found defective teeth which are a detriment to the child's health, and need to be extracted. Some of these children came to our attention, in the spring dental check-up. Eleven of them came from families who were financially embarrassed, so in co-operation with the dentist and the Drs. who give their services free—a temporary hospital ward was equipped at the clinic and under general anaesthetic, administered by the Drs., the dentist removed the defective teeth. Later that day, eleven little tiny tots with their mothers accompanying them, were motored home wondering, no doubt, if the clinic was such a nice place after all.

Fight Grim Battle

Since our last Annual Meeting, the grim reality of war has echoed through our land. What sacrifices Canada will yet have to make and what changes this will mean in the personal lives of her citizens, is yet unknown to most of us, but one thing is clear, while Canada rushes with one accord to do everything to make possible the comfort of her sons who are doing the actual fighting, let us not forget for one moment the wives and mothers who are at home fighting the grim mental battle of separation from loved ones. Peace of mind for the soldier at the front, as he thinks of those at home being cared for in time of any possible illness during his absence is necessary in aiding him to be a more efficient soldier; so let not your efforts in health matters, during war days be relinquished. Is it not even more necessary to maintain the highest standard of efficiency where health matters are concerned in times of war than in peace? To quote from a leading Health Magazine:

"Threatened by the dangers of war the average citizen is apt first of all to think of the threat of cannon and the might of the advancing armies of the foe. He rushes to do all that may be done to repel invasion and to make sure that no little thing is neglected which may make effective our efforts to defeat the enemy."

"Yet there is a danger that in the effort to do the obvious thing and in the very process he may forget and mistake the means for the end. This war, we Anglo-Saxons urge, is in defence of democracy, and democracy and civilian morale are interdependent. Surely then the keeping up of civilian morale is part of our war task."

Healthy Agency

Victorian Order is one of the health agencies in this community, interested first and foremost in the health of the individual and of the family which he or she represents, seeking constantly to show the way to better health and aiding him to meet his own responsibilities where health matters are concerned. Our programme for progressive educational activities is limited, by lack of staff due to insufficient funds. As pointed out in a previous part of this report, everything has increased except the staff, in the past twelve years.

We sincerely regret to report the prolonged illness of one of our nurses, Miss Mary Webster. We trust that in due time, with return of health, she will be back amongst the many friends and patients who are missing her. Meanwhile, Miss Dorothy Connor, is filling her place very efficiently.

To all those individuals and organizations, who, during the year have assisted us in making our tasks lighter, and because of this assistance have aided us to more efficiently perform these tasks, we extend our thanks.

Committee Thanked

To the Committee, whose unfailing loyalty is a source of strength at all times, we express sincere appreciation.

I cannot complete this report, without paying tribute to the humble folks—the city's poor—whom we meet in our travels and come to know in a very personal way—who receive no recognition from fate but whose quiet courage in days of prolonged adversity command our respect and admiration—there's a philosophy of life that's commendable to the poor. To visit a sick person in a well-to-do home is a joy because of the intelligent co-operation and conveniences which make nursing tasks easier. In the homes of the poor, where a real effort is made to maintain some standard of living it, too, is a joy as we note their efforts to co-operate. There are many fine types who live in humble places, whose very lives are a constant struggle for an existence. Living in poverty, the finer type of poor folk are sensitive of the criticisms of their fellow human beings and we see them, humiliated and depressed; humiliated because they really don't want to beg for their living—depressed because they must accept the humiliations. Giving relief as in our present system, isn't the answer—charitable as it may seem. The majority of the average human beings don't want charity—they do want a return of independence; financial security a right to live their own lives made possible through an honest day's work. Lately we have been seeing families re-instated through employment, after several years of unemployment, and their happiness is like a dose of measles—"it's catching." Out of some of their very homes are going to come future men and women of whom any community may be proud to claim as its son and daughters.

Future Policy Discussed

And now regarding the future policy of the Victorian Order in time of war, I would like, in conclusion, to direct your thoughts to those of Her Excellency, Lady Tweedsmuir, in a resolution adopted by the National Executive Council of the Victorian Order for Canada at a meeting held in Ottawa.

RESOLVED:

"That the Executive Council should at this time state its policy for the information of its branches, its members and the public generally as being that the primary work of the Victorian Order of Nurses, that is, competent nursing in the homes of the people in town and country throughout Canada on a basis adapted to the circumstances of the patient or family, must not be relaxed at this time but rather pressed forward with renewed vigour and determination. Essential home services must not be let down at this time. The Victorian Order was instituted and has been maintained for over forty years with one definite purpose—home nursing service — for times of war no less than for times of peace. Other social and charitable agencies meet the special needs of a condition of war, but the Victorian Order as a national voluntary organization will adhere to its regular work of providing nursing services in the home. This policy, which is of course subject to revision if conditions warrant it, was the policy adopted by the Victorian Order in the last war and the increased need of its home nursing service was fully recognized in the sustained support of its work by the public."

Respectfully submitted,
Bessie Soutar

The members present at the annual meeting had the pleasure last evening of hearing an excellent address by Dr. J. R. Lind who, through word and picture, described life and customs in southern China. Dr. Lind was introduced by Mr. Gordon Friesen, administrator of Belleville General Hospital who referred to the work of Dr. Lind in Canada and as medical superintendent for six years of a hospital in southern China, founded by the United Church of Canada.

Dr. Lind gave in an interesting manner glimpses of life in that part of the world, of its peoples, the scenery, the native customs and characteristics, the diseases which must be combatted and the means of livelihood. Motion pictures, taken by Dr. Lind, illustrated the descriptions of the speaker and showed, particularly what the hospital and the Christian school had meant to the people of that district.

Many of the younger people of China have lost their interest in religion and the tragedy of this is realized by its great leaders. Thus the New Life Movement to raise the morale and ethics, and to instil a spirit of service for others has been begun under the direction of Madame Chiang Kai-Shek. For many years the Chinese were not motivated by any feelings of service, the sentiment upon which humanitarian work such as that of the Victorian Order, is founded. It is war that is bringing the Chinese to the realization of the great work that lies before them in service for others, as refugees, moving in thousands have sought haven and care in western China.

The appreciation of the audience was extended Dr. Lind by Mr. Taylor Franklin for his very fine address.

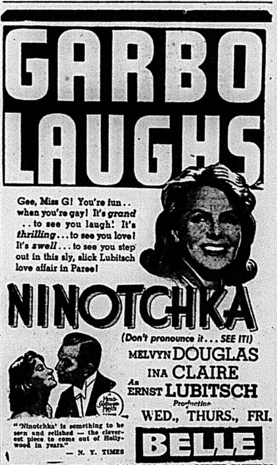
New Members To Parks Board Are Welcomed

Concluding their year's business, the members of the Belleville Parks Commission met last night to welcome Richard Snell back to the Board. Commissioner Snell being recently appointed to the Board to fill the vacancy left by the absence of Alderman Harold Armstrong. Chairman W. A. Woodley also announced the re-appointment of Commissioner M. Callaghan and himself to the 1940 Parks Board. The annual election of Board chairmanships will be held at the initial meeting of the Board in February.

The annual estimates of the Board were requested by the City Council and will be slightly in excess of last year's Parks Board estimates owing to additional taxation. The Board also voted to commence work on a permanent docking and retaining wall along the east side of Victoria Park early in the spring.

Those present were Chairman W. A. Woodley and Commissioners M. Callaghan, R. Snell, C. B. Colling and C. R. Clapp.



Gee, Miss G! You're fun.. when you're gay! It's grand ..to see you laugh! It's thrilling...to see you love! It's swell...to see you step out in this sly, slick Lubitsch love affair in Paree!

Necessity of Increased Food Production is Stressed

Dr. J.B. Reynolds, Principal Emeritus of O. A. C., Addresses Rotary

Canadian agriculture has a very essential and significant part to play in the war with Germany, Dr. J. B. Reynolds, principal emeritus of the Ontario Agricultural College, Guelph, told members of the Rotary Club at their weekly luncheon meeting yesterday. Drawing from experiences during the Great War of 1914-18, Dr. Reynolds stressed not only the necessity of increased food production but rather production of the right kinds of foods.

He pointed to the deficiency diseases—scurvy, rickets, pellagra, etc. — which had developed among troops and sailors, who were receiving plenty of food but which lacked essential elements. During the past 25 years scientists had brought to light the elements necessary if these diseases were to be eradicated. They had found that dried fruits and vegetables (used freely in the Great War) lost some of the protective elements in dehydration. The elements were maintained in the canning process, so it could be assumed that in the present war canned fruits and vegetables would be required in vast quantities. It would be the task of agriculture to see that these items were supplied.

Condition to Avoid

In surveying the effects of war on agriculture, Dr. Reynolds cited at length, as an example, that must be avoided, the conditions which arose in Germany during the Great War. Through the British blockade which was 100 per cent. effective, that country was forced to try and feed itself. It had the impossible task of replacing its imports of food stuffs, which included one and a quarter million tons of grain, vast quantities of plant and animal fats and other important items of diet. The increased pressure on the German farmers resulted in a decline of production because of the lack of proper fertilization, the drain of manpower and animals for the battleline, and the removal of freedom of action from the farmer. Conditions reached the point where the oat ration for horses was reduced to three pounds per day, instead of the 12 to 15 pounds normally required. The horses were unable to do the much-needed work and gradually the whole productive machinery slowed down. Pigs were slaughtered when scientists said that the potatoes they consumed would be better kept for human consumption, forgetting that pigs also ate scraps which humans could not use.

When the war ended, Dr. Reynolds pointed out, Canada and the United States had to continue increasing agricultural production in order that the starving peoples of Europe could be fed.

Blamed on Creditor Nations

Then came the development of the policy of self-sufficiency among the European nations. Germany blamed this development on the creditor countries who would not accept German goods but still insisted on reparation payments. Just after the war European agricultural production was down 13 per cent. below pre-war levels, while Canada and the United States were up 19 per cent. Now European production is nine per cent. above pre-war levels, while in recent years agricultural production in America had declined.

The maintenance of our agricultural productive capacity was stressed by Dr. Reynolds as the greatest potential contribution of our farmers in the present war. The government thus far had given very little indication of what would be needed, but the farm community was ready and willing to do its part.

The speaker was introduced by Dr. James Semple, while District Governor Owen Herity conveyed the thanks of Rotary for a most instructive and scholarly address.

President Howard Clark announced, that one of the civic guests at last week's meeting had been so impressed with Rotary's work for crippled children, that he had sent a contribution for the funds devoted to this activity.

First Husband of Joan Bennett is Gravely Ill

Los Angeles, Jan. 16 — (AP)—Film actress Joan Bennett's first husband, John Marion Fox, 38, lay gravely ill in a hospital today, a victim of poisoning from an overdose of sleeping tablets.

"I didn't like the idea of Joan Bennett being married to that other guy," Fox was quoted as saying by Dr. A. D. Trotter, police surgeon.

Miss Bennett was married last week in Phoenix, Ariz., to Walter Wanger, motion picture producer.

Dr. Trotter said Fox—once wealthy but listed at the hospital as a salesman—told him he had taken 100 tablets of a hypnotic drug. The physician gave him a chance of recovery but added "it will be some time before we can tell."

Fox, a former Seattle broker, is the father of Miss Bennett's daughter, Diana, 11. He and the actress were married in London Sept. 15, 1926 and divorced Aug. 1, 1928.

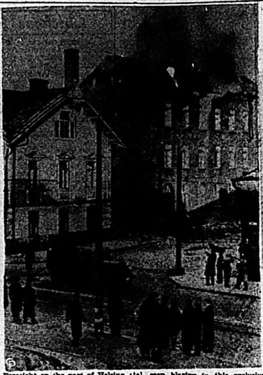
He attributed his divorce from Miss Bennett to his fondness for alcohol but contended he had given up drinking.

Paper Company Held Responsible For Man's Death

Hawkesbury, Ont., Jan. 16—(CP)—A coroner's jury last night found the Canadian International Paper Company responsible of negligence for the death of Gonzague Neveu of Ripon, Que., last Dec. 27.

The verdict said death occurred in the company's yard here when Neveu was struck by a piece of pulpwood which slid from a pile.

Text of the jury's verdict follows: "we the majority of the jury, find the Canadian International Paper Company responsible of negligence for the death of Gonzague Neveu of Ripon, Que., which occurred on Dec. 27, 1939, in the yard of the company at Hawkesbury, Ont., the victim being struck by a piece of pulpwood which slid from the pile."



Foresight on the part of Helsingfors authorities saved many children's lives in the inferno that followed a direct hit made by a Russian incendiary bomb on the children's hospital in the Finnish capital, seen blazing in this exclusive photograph. Like most other vulnerable targets the hospital had been evacuated and destruction of the building—the only one that suffered in the raid—was all that resulted.

CHAPTER XXIII

Stuart climbed off Star's lap without a word and walked over to the bureau. His lins were mbling again and Star realized that in some inexplicable way she had hit upon the secret of his woe. Hesitantly, because she did not want him to continue a stubborn silence she said, "You know the stores and all the people who go to the stores have to help Santa Claus a little bit."

Stuart turned to her with almost adult resentment. "You tell stories just for the fun of it," he accused.

Star nodded gravely, "Yes, I do most of the time. But Christmas story is different, Stuart."

His mouth set in a stubborn line and Star realized that this was serious.

"You see, Stuart, some of the stories I tell you are about people who never lived. But the people in those stories are not important."

Stuart's expression was anything but encouraging. Still Star persisted. "The Christmas story is true. There was a kind saint who brought gifts to all the children he knew. He thought that was the best way to honor another Child who was born on Christmas day. That saint's name was St. Nicholas. Some of us call him Santa Claus."

"That's a lie," Stuart said flatly. "Santa Claus is just make believe. Dad just said so."

Star drew a deep breath. She had finally discovered the reason for Stuart's unhappiness. How could Barton have said that to the boy? Of course he did not realize that Stuart was such a child. He kept trying to treat him as if he were grown up. But Stuart had had so little that was fanciful and imaginative in his life. It was cruel to deprive him of the one thing he had believed in with all his heart.

Barton could not do this. Somehow she must restore the childish faith that made the holiday season beautiful for grown-ups as well as children.

"When I was a little girl," Star began, ignoring Stuart's last comment. "I used to hear that Santa Claus had a great factory at the North Pole, that all year long the funny little elves helped him make toys. And then on Christmas Eve, just about at this time, Santa would climb in his sleigh and start off to visit all the good little boys and girls. I almost caught a glimpse of him once," she added, apparently to herself, "but the snow was so bright it almost blinded me. I know what he looked like, anyway—fat and jolly in a bright red suit trimmed with white fur—"

"That's a whopper," Stuart said triumphantly. "Santa Claus couldn't ride around in a sleigh or have fur on his clothes way down here. It's too hot. I asked Daddy if he took his coat off, and then he told me it was all make believe."

In spite of himself Stuart's chin trembled a little as he recalled that ghastly moment.

But Star did not seem at all saddened. On the contrary, she laughed very happily and continued to give way to an almost uncontrollable mirth even after Stuart began to look at her in wonder.

"Your poor father," she managed to say at last, "I wondered what he had been so cross about these last few days. So that's it! Somebody told him that Santa Claus was used to cold countries and couldn't come way down south. I almost made the same mistake," she confided more seriously. "And then I—I suddenly remembered that er—er—Santa Claus had a brother who lives down at the South Pole.

"A brother?"

"Yes, a twin brother. I had heard it a long time ago but naturally I—had forgotten about it," she went on. "You see, Santa Claus takes care of all the children up north and Santa Claus's brother takes care of all the children down south."

Stuart's interest was now wholeheartedly hers. "Don't he wear a red suit?" he asked.

"He wears a—a red bathing suit" Star explained hastily.

"He must look funny."

"Not to the little southern children. They would think our Santa Claus looked funny, and this Santa Claus from the South Pole, doesn't wear any fur, either. His red cap is trimmed with a big ball of white cotton."

"He doesn't use a sleigh?"

"Of course not! How could he use a sleigh where there is no snow?"

Star laughed, though she was wondering how she could manage to make the story come true. She looked down into Stuart's face, his shining eyes, and brushed a damp curl from his forehead. It had to come true. It just had to.

"Then what does he ride in?"

"Oh, he rides in a sailing ship. Not a big ship like this one, but a silver ship that glides over the water in the night and stops at every port just as we do."

"What for?"

"To leave the presents, of course."

"And Daddy doesn't know?"

Stuart chuck'ed with Star at this secret they shared between them. "We'll have to tell him," she said, "because Santa comes tonight. I shouldn't be surprised," her voice sank to a thrilling whisper, "if he had already left some of the presents here on this ship. I expect the sailors have helped him hide them, and when he comes tonight he'll take them out of their hiding places and give them to the right people."

Star glanced down at her wrist watch; she was already over half an hour late for her appointment with Coates. But that seemed unimportant compared with the gleam in Stuart's eyes and the childish pleasure he had found in her story. When you're older, Star thought, hastily combing his curls into a semblance of order, you'll realize that Santa Claus does exist—in our own hearts. But until you can realize that, it's needless cruelty to take away your belief in the kindly saint.

She helped Stuart wipe the tearstains from his face and together they went in search of Elise who was waiting patiently in a deck chair near the ladder. Star could see Coates pacing nervously up and down on the pier. His slight figure appeared rigid with anger even at that distance.

Star gave up her plan to meet Elise afterward. Coates might have arranged something else. When she and Kent were in Cristobal Sunday afternoon she had learned how unwise it was to plan ahead. How angry Kent had been! He hadn't tried to see her alone again. Perhaps he was sulking.

She spoke but a moment to Elise, nodded toward Coates and ran to the ladder. Evidently he had been watching; he was at the foot of the ladder as she stepped ashore.

"I was afraid you weren't coming! What happened?"

"It was careless of me," Star confessed, "but I was talking to Stuart and forgot how late it was. Do forgive me."

"Of course." Coates smiled and took her arm, leading her toward the army of sailing ships packed into the harbor. His smile was warm and companionable, the boats they were approaching looked light and adventurous. It should be a gay, memoroble afternoon!

Star did not know what made her turn and look back at the Cartagena as if she were leaving the comfort and security of home.

x x x

"So this is your schooner!"

"This is the Merry Maid," Coates responded. "Her well-worn deck is honored by your charming presence, my dear."

Star shivered as he put out his hand and helped her over the railing. The small schooner had looked trim, she thought, from the pier. But once aboard it was difficult to understand what had made it seem so interesting. The paint was cracked and peeling. "Well-worn" was the nicest adjective that could have been applied to the uneven splintery deck and the grey patched canvas attached to the towering masts.

Her eyes came back to the crew. There seemed to be so many men for so small a boat, and they were watching her with interest. Star glanced away uneasily. She was reminded that this was the Pirate Main. Had the men been appropriately dressed it would have been easy to imagine that the days of those sea vultures were still a reality and not part of a dim past.

But the dirty slacks and white undershirts that were the uniform of the crew were not in any way romantic. And somehow Star had never thought of pirates as unshaven. Pirates had long hair—yes, and gold earrings in their ears. She thought she had even heard of a bearded pirate or two. But never these dirty, bristling faces that were common to the men aboard the Merry Maid!

"Baldy!"

The man Coates addressed stepped forward and made a gesture of salute. It was mocking, almost derisive, Star thought. He appeared older than the others, but his hair, or lack of it, was concealed by a shabby cap worn well over one eye.

"This is my chief mate," Coates announced and Star was surprised to hear a faint undercurrent of pride in his voice. "Get ready to sail, Baldy," he commanded briskly.

"We're going to show Miss Sandringham how a sailing ship operates. She has never been on one before. I'm sure she will enjoy the experience for a couple of hours."

The man nodded in a surly fashion and muttered some directions to the crew. Coates took Star's arm possessively.

Spencer Method for Fish Fillets

2 to 3 pounds fish fillets
1 tablespoon salt
Cup of milk
Oil or melted fat
Finely-sifted bread crumbs

Cut the fillets into portions, three to the pound. Soak the pieces in the salted milk 3 minutes, then cover with the sifted bread crumbs, using one hand for the wet work and the other for the dry, to keep the crumbs dry. Place in a pan and sprinkle with cooking oil or fat. Bake in a hot oven—450° to 500° F.—until fish is cooked. This will not take over 10 minutes for a piece one inch thick. Bread crumbs are used for they brown evenly. Grated cheese may be sprinkled over the top just before removing from the oven.

CANADIANS SUPPORT WAR LOAN

What was expected is taking place. Canadians are using a portion of their savings to subscribe to the war loan. The result of the first day and reports of early today indicate that the response is more than up to expectation.

Canadians realize that Canada is in the fight to the end of Hitlerism and all it stands for and that they must support their government in its plan.

Support of the loan is one of the necessary ways in which Canadians can help to carry the burden of the war. Money is absolutely necessary that the soldiers, sailors and airmen may be adequately supported and their efforts made of telling effect, and that great undertakings in national interest be a success.

Large contributors and small are showing their loyal support of the financial effort. There is no doubt of the oversubscription of the loan.

FINNS SEE DIVINE POWER AIDING THEM

Port Arthur News-Chronicle tells an interesting story which has been gathered from Finnish residents of that city who have received letters from their homeland.

The News-Chronicle notes that the Angels of Mons was believed to have appeared as an omen of good fortune or inspiration to success for the British armies in France and Belgium during the Great War and notes that this faith has something like its counterpart in Finland. The Finns, being a northern people, attach much interest to natural conditions and especially at a time of dire peril to the Republic. They have noticed that where the temperature would average usually zero or five degrees below zero, it invariably this winter has been thirty below or even lower. Here is the comment of the News-Chronicle based on these reports:—

"Among the Finnish people there is said to be a strong tendency to believe that a divine power has come to their aid, even as it gave help to the British when the Angels were said to have appeared at Mons. Whatever it may be, nature at least seems to have done something unusual and of great benefit to the people engaged in defending their home lands.

"The same letters and newspapers from Finland confirm the news cable reports of outstanding successes. They also carry hopeful messages of confidence in power of continued resistance. Help from other countries, particularly British made equipment and guns, is most valuable.

"In addition to the material supplies from friendly nations, the Finns have captured large amounts of Russian material, from small arms to large tanks. This material is not, however, of good quality. There is evidence of poor workmanship in manufacture. Tanks and guns get easily out of repair and the shells, of both small and large calibre, are poor in the sense that they are not accurately made. Out of balance they do not carry straight, but "wobble" in flight and miss their marks.

"The feeling now is that, barring minor engagements, the campaign is over for the Winter and there will be little more fighting until Spring. There is confidence that the Mannerheim line in the south can hold indefinitely against any force the Russians may send against it. The decisive fighting will be in the open country to the north. If the Russians are better prepared for a renewal of their efforts in the Spring the Finns, too, with expected aid from outside, will also be better prepared."

It is the natural tendency of a healthy people to find something almost to deify in the forces and powers of nature, especially as nature has been so much more severe this winter, making the task of the Russian invaders all the more terrible and the defences of the Finns so much stronger. The Finns are staunch in their faith and are able to carry out military operations while the Russians are poorly prepared and ill-clad and in no way able to face the unusual conditions.

ACCIDENTS REDUCED IN 4 CITIES

In four cities of the United States one hundred persons are now living who, if old conditions had prevailed, would probably be dead, the victims of car fatalities, is the comment of the New York Sun. These are the striking results following a campaign to reduce fatalities. These cities cut down the speed rate to 25 miles an hour and rigidly enforced the regulations. These cities are Providence, Worcester, Atlanta and Kansas City. Providence had 16 fatalities in 1938 and in that year received trophies acclaiming it the safest city of its size. Last year the fatalities were cut down to 14. Worcester had 10 fatalities and 642 injuries in 1939 as against 31 deaths and 1290 injuries in 1938. These are large cities of 243,000 for Providence and 205,000 in Worcester. Atlanta, Georgia, with 294,000 people cut fatalities from 57 down to 27 and Kansas City lowered the fatalities from 69 to 32 for a population of 428,000 people. In the latter city certain express thoroughfares are marked for a 35-mile limit in the city, but before the sun rises or after it sets the limit on these drops to 25 miles an hour. "Anyone going as fast as 26 miles an hour at night or 36 by day is said to be an almost certain nominee for a summons where a summons means a fine."

The Sun notes that the motorists of Worcester who said they could at first hardly keep down to the 25-mile limit now have become accustomed to it and actually like it. Refusal of judges there to listen to excuses may have contributed to this frame of mind. A compilation from court records shows that of 3,491 summoned for speeding only nine were discharged, that of 184 summoned for failing to obey stop signs not one was discharged.

The Sun says: "It is a subject of debate in these four cities whether credit for the good showing thus reported should be accorded to the 25-mile limit or alternately to the fact that when a policeman once tags you, a judge is practically certain to do it again."

OFFICERS CALLED BACK TO MOSCOW

More than one hundred of the Russian army officers who figured in the disasters in the invasion of Finland have been recalled to Moscow to explain the whys and wherefores of things the Bolshevik mind cannot understand, why Finns could defeat the "invincible" Soviet armies.

It must be with a sense of trepidation that these officers return. They surely have heard of purges reported in that land, charges of which have been boldly hurled at the Bolsheviks by numerous writers.

As one glances at the Soviet scene one wonders why there is any enthusiasm for the Bolshevik cause. If the people of the Soviet have any enthusiasm at all it must be an enthusiasm that is bred of lack of knowledge or of fear.

Russia is supposed to be, according to the Soviet Bolshevik, a land of equal opportunity. But it is a dictatorship.

Russia has always been looked upon as inefficient. The people under vaunted Bolshevism are no doubt worse off and they have no say in affairs. They have not been trained for democracy to have a voice in public life. No doubt dictatorship has proven in Russia as fatal as it has proven or will prove fatal elsewhere.

Countries which have developed the democratic way of life can hardly appreciate the conditions of a totalitarian country where the voice of the people is not heard. When to Russia's miserable incompetence are joined the dictatorship and the Bolshevik political way of life, it is not to be wondered at that such tragedies are enacted as have fallen on Russia in the latest aggression. What enthusiasm can a Russian officer have for his task? He is just part of Soviet Russia with no voice in the state.

One Editor and The Press Censor

Perhaps he hasn't noticed yet, but if this war lasts long enough, the press censor at Ottawa may find out that he has been taken off the mailing list of the Times-Review. The reason: Non-payment of $2. the subscription price.

Back in the early part of October we got a curt request from the censor to put the "Examiner of Publications, Room 201, Connaught Building, Ottawa," on our mailing list. We did so, but not thinking that he expected to get our paper free—no more than he would presume to go into the drygoods store a few doors from our office and demand a bolt of cloth without payment—we sent him a bill for a year's subscription. He has not paid. He has not given us any reason or excuse for not paying. He did not even acknowledge receipt of our bill.

So from now, the Examiner of Publications is off our mailing list. If he suspects us of being so indiscreet as to publish such a bit of news as "Private Petroffsky in camp somewhere in Ontario has written to his sweetheart, Susie Schultz, in Fort Erie, that he expects to sail from Halifax next March or April for somewhere in Europe," he will have to come to our office and examine our files, which are open to him as they are to everyone.

Or if he is concerned about doing his job economically, he might have one of his bright young men go to the library of either the House of Commons or the Senate, where every newspaper in Canada is sent as soon as published, to check on us.

The people who work 50 hours or more a week to make the Times-Review are just as anxious as Ottawa for Canada to put its full strength into the British Empire effort to defeat the wickedness of Hitler and Stalin, but they have their grocery bills to pay, and there is the rent each month —Fort Erie Times-Review.

Daily War Survey

By The Canadian Press

It may be just a coincidence but the fact that Soviet Russia's sharp notes to Norway and Sweden alleging violation of neutrality in relation to the Russo-Finnish war came at the same time that Belgium and Holland hear something which prompted new defensive measures cannot be overlooked.

A great combined German-Russian manoeuvre to gain control of the Nazi problem of how to escape the bonds which hold down the striking power of the German army.

For Germany, Sweden and Norway, no less than Holland and Belgium, could serve as stepping stones to England and it is against England that the Germans say they are waging their main struggle.

If the Germans gained control of the Norwegian coast and the railways lines on the Scandinavian peninsula they would have an unimpeded outlet to the seas of the world and their air and naval forces could strike at the British Isles from the north as well as from the east.

The Russian notes to Norway and Sweden may have been prompted simply by the hope of frightening those countries into easing up on the support they are giving to Finland and being a little more circumspect in permitting men and materials from other countries to cross their territory to Finland.

With the Russian armies halted, at least temporarily, Russia may be alarmed at the prospects of Finland obtaining extensive foreign help while their own forces are preparing for new attacks.

On the other hand it may be the start of a series of moves designed to form a basis for Russian operations against Norway and Sweden which would coincide with a German offensive against Holland and Belgium.

Chickens Revered or Cursed

In the social customs, religion and literature of all nations from time immemorial, poultry has played an important part, particularly in literature, says the Victoria Daily Colonist.

Examples Quoted

Among the best-known reference is that to the hen and the gathering of the chickens under her wings in Matthew xxiii, 37, and the stark drama of the cockcrow also referred to in Matthew xxvi, 74 and 75.

In the English language poultry references and phrases are numerous. For example, there are birds of a feather, in full feather, showing the white feather (from the assumption that no game cock has a white feather; feather an oar (from the motion of a bird's wing); feather his nest; fine feathers make fine birds; feather in your cap (from the old custom of adding a feather to headdress for every enemy slain); cut a feather (said when a boat travels fast); chicken hearted; she's no chicken; don't count your chickens before they are hatched; fussy as a hen with one chicken; a hen party; hen-pecked (from the fact that a rooster is a brave bird at large, but is frequently under hen government, and well pecked at that, in the coop); hen and chickens, a very old name from the Pleiades, the "Seven Sisters." by which the Romans were said to have steered on their first voyage to invade Britain, and then there is a whistling maid and a crowing hen are neither fit for gods nor men.

The goose also comes in for its literary share, in cooking your goose; kill the goose that lays the golden eggs; old mother goose; and in Egyptian hieroglyphics, the goose was the emblem for a silly fellow, while the rooster among his many references has cock-a-whoop; cock and bull story; cocksure; don't crow before you are out of the woods, and many other references.

Secret And Profane

Reversing modern customs, in ancient times it was a superstition that if a milkmaid at cockcrow did not wash her hands after milking, her cows would go dry.

In olden times, poultry figured prominently in oaths, sacred and profane. In Henry IV, Shakespeare writes "By Cock and Pie, Sir, You Shall Not Away Tonight." In the days of chivalry, it was the practice to make solemn vows for the performance of a certain enterprise. This was usually done at a festival, when roasted poultry was served in a dish of gold and silver, and presented to the knight who then made his vow with great solemnity.

In the temples of the oracles of the Greeks and Romans, chickens were sacred birds. There is an old Roman story that when the soothsayers, or augurs, told Publius Gladius Pulcher, the Roman Consul who was about to engage the Carthaginian fleet in battle, that the sacred chickens at the temple would not eat and that he had better not start the battle, he replied in breezy, sailor-like fashion, "Then toss them into the sea that they may drink."

In Ancient Time

The rooster was a revered bird in ancient times. Because it gave notice of the rising sun, it was dedicated to Appolo, the sun god, and because the rooster also summoned men to business by his crow, it was also dedicated to Mercury. "Never sacrifice a white rooster," was one of the doctrines of Pythagoras, because it was sacred to the moon. The Greeks said "Nourish a rooster and sacrifice it not," for all roosters were sacred to the sun or the moon. because the birds announced the hours. The rooster was also sacred to the Goddess of Wisdom, and to Esculapius, the god of health. Therefore, the rooster represented time, wisdom and health, none of which were ever sacrificed.

In Mahometan lore, Mahomet found in the first heaven a rooster of such enormous proportions that its crest touched the second heaven. The crowing of this celestial bird arouses every living creature from sleep except man. The Moslem doctors say that Allah lends a willing ear to him who reads the Koran, to him who prays for pardon and to the rooster whose chant is divine melody. When this rooster ceases to crow the Judgment Day will be at hand.

Before Christian times, the rooster was the war emblem of the Goths, and later in Christian times was placed on church steeples to remind man not to deny His Lord.

In poetry, various odes have been addressed to farm birds.

The chief interest in poultry in these days is that it is an excellent food product at any time of the year.

The Old 'Vets' Laughed at These

In his House of Commons report, the War Minister has told us that our troops in France, following in father's footsteps, will be cracking much the same jokes.

So while we're busy comparing notes between 1914 and now, yet's remember a few of father's famous stand-bys. We haven't any modern equals of the burlesque on recruiting posters, the wildly comic cars, or the good-natured grouses—yet.

Look at the 1914 sergeant-major testing the recruit on his first sentry duty.

"Now, me lad, what would you do if a shell fell on yer sentry-box?"

"Go up with the report, sergeant!"

Lord Kitchener's Army posters brought many comments. None so good as the scraggy spinster's. She stared at the legend: "Kitchener Gets Half a Million Men in Month" and sighed wistfully.

"Blimey! And I've been trying for thirty years and can't get one!"

Wilhelm Hohenzollern was the bogy-man in those days. He was made to "take it on the chin" in many scores of soldiers' cards. Our fighting fathers pictured their opponents as fat, spectacled, sausage-eating monsters. Sometimes the Kaiser became a sausage, as in the double picture of him, at first an inflated Frankfurter commanding a bulldog to return to its kennel.

But in the second picture the bulldog sank its teeth into the fat skin. And as the punctured War Lord sinks to the ground, he mutters sadly:

"I'm sorry I spoke now!"

Another joke at Wilhelm's expense took place on one of his much publicised parades at the Western Front. Stopping to speak to a soldier, he said:

"Have you any brothers?"

"Yes, eight, All Highest," replied Private Fritz.

"Are they all fighting for the Fatherland?"

"All except one, All Highest."

"And where is he"? demanded the Kaiser.

"In the Navy, All Highest!"

On the Home Front twenty-five years ago, we manufactured fun to amuse the troops on leave. A large amount of land work was done by the Boy Scouts. Near the end of his busy day a young Scout went up to his farmer employer.

"I shall have to go now to be in time for the Last Post."

"You just get on working," said the farmer: "you can write your letters tomorrow!"

And, of course, the most astonishing change of those days was the switch from golden sovereigns to paper currency. People were suspicious of paper money for a long time, and one typical joke expresses it perfectly.

The workman received his pay and stared at the limp notes with a frown.

"What's the matter?" asked the cashier. "Do you think there's germs on it?"

"No," answered the man sadly. "No germ could live on my money!"

The refugees who flocked to this country also provided light relief when their problems were solved. After watching the little foreigners at play, an Englishwoman turned to her husband:

"Isn't it amazing, dear? Even those tiny children can speak French!"

Back on the Western Front our Tommies mispronounced their way through France with complete assurance. But one thing was sure to rouse their wrath. Jam! For some reasons they were supplied with tons of plum-and-apple.

Receiving a parcel from home, father's first thought was to look at the pot of jam which came in nearly every one. Opening it, he found his worst grouse confirmed.

"Plum-an-apple again! When the 'ell is it goin' to be strawberry?"

The "ladies from Hell," as the Germans christened Scots soldiers, are immortalized on one comic card which combined the enemy's terror with a brilliant example of English understatement.

A kilted soldier jabs a bayonet uncomfortably close to a cringing Boche. And all the frightened fellow can say is: "Stop your tickling, Jock!"

When our fathers weren't actually fighting they liked to read scraps of home newspapers "just to see what was happening in the war." Looking up from his paper, one Tommy seemed puzzled.

"It says here that we ain't fighting the German people," he said to a pal.

"Oh!" replied the other man, "Then I'd like to know 'oo the 'ell has been shelling us for the past week!"

Then there was another's soldier's comment as he left the mud and rain of the front line for a rest. Fed-up, he said to all and sundry:

"I'm a blinkin' neutral; I don't care who kills the perishin' Kaiser!"

America's entry into the War gives us a final and a grim jest. After father's return to Blighty an American was talking of speed.

"Our engine whistle sounded and it took two hours before the guard heard it," he said.

"That's nothing," said father "A trumpet sounded here in 1914 and it took three years before you heard it!"—"Answers" London.

That Old Controversy Over Who Grows the Best Apple

The historians, economists and the habit of dividing the country, for purposes of discusison, into four areas—the Maritimes, Ontario and Quebec ,the Prairies and British Columbia. Now Canada is to be divided into two simpler divisions—the area of the MacIntosh Red and the area of the Northern Spy.

All the west, from the Great Lakes to the Pacific, has been handed over by the National Apple Advisory council to the MacIntosh Red, or Okanagan. From the lakes eastward the Northern Spy, of Ontario, is to reign undisturbed.

For the moment we leave the economics of this division to the experts, but the question of flavour (altogether a more agreeable subject, anyway) is not beyond the layman. For a long time now we have listened to British Columbians declare that the Mac is the great chieftain of the apple race, while in Ontario your patriotic apple-eater will fight for the Northern Spy from the drop of the hat. The Mac, admittedly, is the most beautiful apple in the world, but in Ontario they insist the Northern Spy, under his less spectacular outside, his milder blush, has a quality and a flavour which the Okanagan can never imitate. This we do not admit for a moment, but state it simply to illustrate the condition of the Ontario mind.

When a native of British Columbia and a native of Ontario get together, the battle between the Mac and the Spy is apt to grow fierce and even dangerous. It is one of those questions which can never be settled by argument or persuasion. The British Columbian quotes the records of continual victory achieved by the Mac at world fairs. The man from Ontario sweeps aside this narrow scientific evidence and rests his case on the taste of the Spy in his mouth, on the smell of it in a barrel, in the basement of a farm house by the St. Lawrence, when he was a boy.

The Spy undoubtedly has a history and a legend about it that we cannot hope to achieve here for some years, because the Okanagan is young, but in time the Mac will be heavy with memories, too. For the moment the old quarrel is stilled because each apple must stay at home. How fortunate the country which has plenty of good apples, the world's best apies, both east and west!—Vancouver Sun.

THAT BODY OF YOURS

Causes of Obscure Fever

When a patient is admitted to hospital with a rise in temperature, there is usually some disease or infection present which accounts for the rise. However, it is not unusual to see the chart of a patient marked P.U.O., pyrexia (fever) of unknown origin. This means that the cause of the fever will have to be found so that proper treatment may be given.

Dr. C. F. Keefer, Boston, in the Texas State Journal of Medicine, tells of his study of eighty cases of obscure fever. He points out that in trying to find the cause, "one must take into account geography, climate, and the presence of certain diseases in that community. Also the history of other infections and the habits of the individual must be investigated."

The methods used to find the cause of the fever varied with individual cases and included locating special organisms, finding definite signs of certain diseases, cutting out small pieces of tissue for examination under a microscope, and the use of X-rays. "In a few cases the cause of the fever was found only after making an opening by surgery."

In the group of cases in which fever was caused by infections, the commonest causes were tuberculosis, staphylococcus, and streptococcus (teeth or mouth) and undulant fever.

The second large group of cases in which fever was a prominent feature consisted of ten patients with tumors (growths), the commonest places in which they were found being the intestine and the kidneys.

In a number of cases the heat producing processes of the body were normal but the processes which get rid of the heat, particularly the skin, were not normal. This condition was found in patients with heart failure, lack of thyroid juice, hardening of the skin, acquired or inherited absence of the sweat glands, or following use of some drugs which prevent sweating; and in anaemia (thin blood.)

As we consider the above causes of the fever, it can be seen that many of them would not be suspected if careful investigation had not been made.

The fact that tuberculosis was found to be the cause of so many of these cases of obscure fever is certainly worthy of consideration; and also the fact that growths in intestine and kidney are likewise a frequent cause of obscure fever.

PARIS WIG-MAKERS BUSY

Paris—Parisian wig makers have recently received unusually large orders from the United States, causing a welcome boom in the industry here. These wig shipments will incidentally help pay for some French war purchases abroad, notably airplanes.

Why America should choose this time to stock up in wigs local manufacturers neither know nor care, for thanks to it they are now working overtime and have been able to absorb a number of the trade's jobless. Guesses on the cause of this unexpected prosperity range from the facetious one that Americans are tearing their hair out worrying about the European war, to the more reasonable one that they are hoarding against a shortage, now that the Polish and Central European raw material markets are barred, or that American fashion arbiters are trying to start a rococo wig fad.

Mrs. M. Farnsworth, Shannonville, is Ninety-Eight Today

Shannonville, (Special)—A quiet day of visiting was spent by Mrs. Melissa Farnsworth on her 98th birthday, January 16th, with relatives and friends. Mrs. Farnsworth was born at Oak Lake, near Stirling, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Sarles. Mrs. Farnsworth is a member of the United Church. She has three children, Mrs. John Wilson, Shannonville, Rev. Enos Farnsworth, Belleville and Mr. Harry Farnsworth, Stirling.

Mrs. Farnsworth is enjoying splendid health. Her eyesight is good, also her hearing. Until 2 years ago she did lovely tatting and fancy work. Now she spends her days resting and meditates on the days, past and present.

Rawdon

Rawdon—The initial meeting of Mount Pleasant Rawdon Woman's Missionary Society convened at the home of Mrs. Edgar McKeown with twenty-six in attendance. The service opened with quiet music played by Mrs. Percy Hubble and the president, Mrs. Percy MacMullen, gave the call to worship entitled "The Passing Year." All joined in a hymn of joy and Mrs. J. E. Beckel offered prayer.

The devotional theme was "The World Outlook of Jesus" and was arranged by Miss Eileen MacMullen and she was assisted by Mrs. Hubble, Mrs. Raymond McConnell, Mrs. K. Weaver, Mrs. L. McKeown, Miss Muriel Sine, Mrs. Beckel, Mrs. Frank Smith, Mrs. D. Campbell and Miss Richards. This included the story of Narayan Tilah the poet saint of India and some of his hymns.

The roll call was answered by several gems of thought. Mrs. Frank Jeffs read a letter of thanks from Mrs. Buchanan at Coe Hill for the lovely boxes of clothing received at Christmas.

Every officer of 1939 was present and gave a report of her year's work. There were 5 life and 15 annual members with an average attendance of fifteen. One hundred and seventy-three dollars and twenty-three cents was remitted to Presbyterial treasurer. The mission band has 22 annual members and two life members and they remitted $28.80. There were six associate helpers and they contributed $3.32. The supply bale sent to Coe Hill was valued at $79.50 for auxiliary and band. The visiting committee made 100 visits.

Twelve subscribed to the monthly and nineteen readers read fifty-four books on Stewardship, Temperance and World Peace, all had a place and seventy items of publicity were recorded. Plans were made to hold a quilting at the home of Mrs. Frank Jeffs. The auxiliary appointed Mrs. Ed McKeown, Mrs. Geo. Weaver and Roy Thrasher to look after a quantity of Red Cross sewing.

Mrs. Percy Hubble was appointed to look after the boys' clothes for the supply bale in place of Mrs. Jeffs. Mrs. George Weaver installed the new officers for 1940. Mrs. Ed McKeown outlined "The Miracle of Modern India", assisted by Mrs. Higgs and Mrs. L. McKeown. Mrs. Percy Hubble sang, "Father Take My Hand and Lead Me", with Mrs. Kenneth Weaver as accompanist. Mrs. Higgs rendered a guitar solo and Mrs. Arthur Phillips gave a talk on "Stewardship." The offering amounting to over five dollars was gathered by Miss Ruth Linn and dedicated by Mrs. Frank Smith. The service closed with a doxology and at the close the hostess served Divinity fudge.

Mrs. Wilmont Maybee and Billy have returned home from visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. K. Smedley and brother, Rev. Allan Smedley at Canton, Ohio.

Mrs. Will Preston received a cable from her sons, Privates Harry and Jack Preston, who are now training in England, saying that they arrived safely.

Mr. Wesley Farrell opened Bethel Young People's Union and conducted the devotional. Miss Elda McMullen then took charge and Miss Muriel Welbourne read the Scripture lesson. Readings were given by Mrs. Wesley Farrell and Vera Ketcheson.

Mrs. Roy Welbourne outlined the topic on "The Goal of the New Year. Mrs. Ray Shortt staged a number of games and everyone took part.

Born—At Sine to Private and Mrs. Harry Preston on Wednesday, January 10th—a daughter.

Albury

Albury—The Mountain View W. I. sponsored a euchre and dance at Quinte Inn on Monday evening with a large attendance. The door prize was won by Mr. John Black and card prizes went to Bernice Minaker and Gerald Pope.

Little Benny's Note Book

Mr. Entwhisale came for dinner today being a old bo of ma's when she was younger and pop always making fun of his curly hair whenever ma mentions him and ma always claiming it was naturelly wavy and saying pop was just jelliss, and Mr. Entwhissle rang the bell before pop came home and I opened the door and left him in, and he took off his hat and put it on the hall rack and here he was twice as bald headed as pop on account of pop having a little hair on both sides but Mr. Entwhissle not having any anywheres, and ma came downstairs and shook hands with him like somebody trying not to look as surprised as they felt, and just then pop came in, ma saying, O here you are, Willyum, I'm sure you remember Horace Entwhissle, and pop said, Yee gods.

Proberly meaning Mr. Entwhissle's bald head, and pop shook hands with him, saying, Well well this makes me feel wonderful, I haven't felt this good for years.

And he kept on looking at Mr. Entwhissle and laughing like somebody feeling perfect, ma saying, Well after all, Willyum, I mean after all, you dont need to get hysterical, a person might think you had b een drinking.

Well as a matter of fact, seeing Horace like this really does seem to go to my head, hahaha, how does it strike you, Horace? pop said, and Mr. Entwhissle said, I'm delighted to see you again, naturelly, but I suppose I'm not as demonstrative as some people,

And we started to eat dinner and pop kept laughing out loud to himself all during the stuff chickin and the dizzert, claiming he just couldn't seem to stop feeling happy seeing Mr. Entwhissle, and Mr. Entwhissle left kind of early and ma kept on giving pop the dooce and pop kept on pretending he didn't understand what for.

Prof. Saunders Lectures Study Club on Subject "Whither Goes Russia"

Confident of a clear presentation of a timely topic, a large audience greeted Professor Saunders on his second visit to the Belleville Lecture and Study Club on Friday evening.

"Whither Goes Russia?" proved a very popular subject in the light of recent events and Professor Saunders' interpretation was clear, forceful and direct.

Dividing his subject into four parts, he crowded into each a multitude of facts, logically arranged, and clearly presented. The first division dealt with the historical background of the United States of Soviet Russia, during the hundred years of developing revolution against the autocracy and despotism of the Czars. Democracy, Parliamentary government and liberties which are taken for granted were considered revolutionary in Russia. Repression did not kill these ideas but drove them underground, where they assumed extreme forms. Reforms of the more enlightened czars failed to meet the whole problem and towards the end of the century industrialism brought with it a host of new social questions, which turned the people to the writings of Karl Marx for a solution.

Reform Party Split on Question of Reform

In 1903 the reform party was split on the question of reform by revolution or by slower, parliamentary means and the Bolsheviki (the majority) in favor of revolution prevailed. Defeat at the hands of Japan in 1904 revealed the corruption and incompetency of the Russian government, to the workers and peasants, steadily growing more discontented. Russia entered the world war to save herself from revolution but the device failed. Hungry, defeated soldiers were fertile soil for seeds of revolution and in March, 1917, workers and soldiers forced the abdication of the weak czar Nicholas, in favor of a moderate, democratic socialist government. In November of the same year, followed the Communistic revolution under the leadership of Lenin and Trotsky, determined doctrinaires who knew what they wanted. An ignominious peace was made with Germany, as a necessary step to the establishment of Communism at home.

Professor Saunders traced the difficulties of that period, with the upheaval of evil war complicated by foreign intervention to the time when the communistic government was established, recognized by all the great powers and finally admitted to the League of Nations in 1934.

U.S.S.R. Democratic in Theory Only

In the second part of his address Professor Saunders pointed out that in theory, the U.S.S.R. is democratic, with universal suffrage and no racial discrimination. It purports to be a federation of five provinces, with local, provincial and federal governments, similar to our own. In practice, conditions are quite different. The federation is dominated by one province and there is but one party in Russia, so that in reality democracy does not function. The government is an oligarchy, dominated by one man, Stalin, who on Lenin's death seized the leadership of the party from Trotsky, who was banished.

The reduction of a religion from a state supported institution to a private unimportant place, with the determined effort to crush out entirely the "opiate of the people." Education was encouraged and the people were fast becoming literate.

The third division of the address followed the early years of Russia under Communism, from the days of civil war, through the famine, to the compromise with capitalism under the N. E. P. Then followed the first five-year plan which had been especially successful in the heavy industries. The second five-year plan hoped to improve transportation but its success is still unknown.

Foreign Policy Reviewed

Finally, Russia's foreign policy was reviewed — the abandonment of the idea of world revolution, the formation of alliances as a bulwark against western hostility,— a policy given up for independent action after the humiliation of Munich.

Professor's Saunders speculations regarding events behind the German alliance, the significance of, and the probable results of the Finnish war were most interesting and were followed with great attention by the audience. The relation of the U. S. S. R. to Japan and growing nationalism in China were also touched upon in a lecture which was singularly rich in information, and given in a manner which held the audience throughout.

Mr. J. O. Herity expressed the deep appreciation of the audience for the clear presentation of a subject of great interest. Mr. P. C. McLaurin, President of the Club, was in the chair, and announced that Dr. Marech, an Austrian, now in Canada, had been secured to address the club in February.

FRONT ROAD LADIES' AID

The annual meeting of the Front Road Ladies' Aid was held at the home of Mrs. Sam Geddes on Thursday afternoon with a fair attendance.

The meeting was called to order by the president, Mrs. A. Clazie. The Ode was sung followed by responsive reading of the First Psalm and repeating the Lord's Prayer in unison. Hymn 347 was sung and Mrs. Stanley Snider read the Scripture lesson. Mrs. Roy Clazie and Mrs. Geddes were given a hearty applause for giving so freely of their time to make the bazaar in November such a success. The secretary also presented the financial report for the year closing 1939, the income being $371.69, while disbursements amounted to $261.70, leaving a satisfactory balance of $109.79 on hand. The books were handed to the auditors and the president asked Mrs. T. J. Brown to take charge of the election of officers. With such a successful year to their credit any protest by the retiring officers at accepting office for the coming year was overruled and the following officers were re-elected:

President, Mrs. A. Clazie; 1st. vice president, Mrs. S. Geddes; 2nd. vice president, Mrs. S. Snider; Secretary-treasurer, Helen Brown; Pianist, Mrs. Earl Brown, Mrs. H. Greatrix; Flower and card committee, Hazel Greatrix. Mrs. A. Reid; Sick committee, Mrs. S. Geddes; Press reporter, Mrs. T. Brown; Auditors, Mrs. R. Clazie, Mrs. L. Purdy.

The payment of the membership fees for 1940 was the response to the Roll Call. The meeting closed by repeating the Mizpah Benediction.

A social half hour was enjoyed, and a dainty lunch served by Mrs. Geddes and her conveners.

THE WORLD OF 1880...

Dawn of a New Era!

Sixty years ago the Bell Telephone Company of Canada was organized.

Let's step for a moment into the world of 1880—into the stuffy parlour where furniture was ornate and uncomfortable; where heavy draperies deepened the gloom of the lamp-lit room. The "what-not" in the corner carried a varied assortment of sea-shells, family photographs, glass-enclosed flowers.

By the dim light of the prismed hanging lamp people were reading the debates in Parliament on the Canadian Pacific Railway contract; of Peter Redpath's gift of a Museum to McGill; of the assassination of Honourable George Brown of the Toronto "Globe".

Came the telephone with its insistent ring, its amazing ability to get things done. The Victorian household was never to be the same again.

The pace at which life moved began to speed up. A new era had begun. Perhaps more than any other single factor, the telephone is responsible for the changes these sixty years have seen.

The Amazing Progress

of telephone communication since this company was formed sixty years ago will be told in a series of advertisements, of which this is the first. The story is based upon authentic records in the Company's Museum in Montreal. Illustrations also are made from original data.

PRESTO MUSIC CLUB

The first meeting of the new year was held on Monday, January 15, 1940, at the home of Mrs. T. R. Dolan, 170 Church Street. The program which was miscellaneous in character was arranged by Mrs. E. M. Hubbs and consisted of —

(1) Piano Duet— Lazelle Brown Bessie Handley; Shepherd's Dance from the Henry VIII Suite, (German); (2) Piano—Chas. Kilgour, Improvisations on (a) Jeannie with the Light Brown Hair; (b) Row, row, your boat; (c) Three Blind Mice—in the styles of Bach, Mozart, Beethoven and Wagner; (3) Piano —Wm. G. Connor,— Scherzo in C Sharp Minor (Chopin); (4) Vocal —Mr. S. M. Anglin, —O Fair, O Sweet and Holy, (Cantor); (5) Piano duet—S. Alec Gordon and Wm. G. Connor—Rhapsodie No. 2 (Liszt).

Then came the lunch which was in the best Presto Club tradition. Bessie Handley poured coffee. A very enjoyable social hour brought the meeting to a close.

WEDDINGS

COURNEYA—O'SULLIVAN

A pretty wedding took place at St. Mary's Church, Marysville, at eight o'clock, Thursday morning, when Mary Phyllis, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank O'Sullivan became the bride of Gerald (Jerry) Courneya, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward J. Courneya of the Queen's Hotel, Tamworth.

The Rev. Father O'Gorman P.P. officiated at the Mass. The bride's two brothers, Bernard and Raymond acting as altar boys.

The young couple were attended by Miss Ger[illegible]de O'Sullivan, sister of the bride and Mr. Donald Courneya, brother of the groom.

The bride was becomingly attired in midnight blue chiffon velvet dress with black coat and black accessories to match, while the bridesmaid wore a taupe blue dress with wine coat and wine accessories.

After the ceremony the wedding party returned to the bride's home, where wedding dinner was served to the immediate relatives of the young couple.

In the evening a miscellaneous shower was held for the bride and groom. A large number of costly presents testified to the esteem in which the young couple are held.

The bride has been employed for the last two years at the Richelieu Hotel, Napanee.

After short honeymoon with relatives in Toronto the young couple will reside in Kingston, where the groom is employed.

HAZARDS OF HEALTH

By McKEOWN'S DRUG STORE

There are certain occupations which definitely affect one's health. It may be that your job is one that rates A1 with insurance companies and yet one that saps your nervous energy and leaves you physically drained, nervous and weary.

There are rules for living under such a strain, as necessary, as important to your health as certain physical guards thrown around hazardous occupations.

One of these is to get a doctor's advice. Tell him frankly what your job is—how it affects you, what your reactions are to the weariness which drags at your health.

His skill and advice are all important. An all around man is your doctor. He knows life, he knows people. He can help you surmount your particular difficulty.

If medication is prescribed, be sure that the pharmacist is a capable, skilled, trained man.

Advice to the Lovelorn

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

Better Fall Back on Your Pride

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I really don't know what happened to make us break up. We had been going together for almost two years, and were practically engaged. He wasn't working then, but we planned to marry when he got a permanent job. But when he got the job, he turned indifferent, and now I see him only occasionally.

It's terribly embarrassing when my friends ask about him, and I know they imagine all sorts of things.

Rose.

When a young man drops you for no reason at all, it is a very good thing to fall back on your pride and show him that you don't care. I can't advise you too strongly to stop discussing this young man with your friends. It is cheapening to yourself. And remember that fine old proverb: There are still as good fish in the sea as ever were caught.

Her Husband Makes a Fuss Over Other Women

Dear Miss Fairfax:

We've been married for ten years and have a son seven years old. I don't believe my husband cares for me any more, because he makes a big fuss over other women. He seldom takes me out with him, and when he does he hardly notices me, but pays attention to the other women. I've often wondered whether or not I should leave him.

R.N.

Before a wife considers leaving her husband, she should ask herself these questions: Shall I be able to provide for myself and child, living apart from my husband? If I have no source of income, what is my earning capacity?

Women who have small children cannot indulge in the luxury of rushing off because their husbands are indifferent, or over-attentive to other women. The welfare of children should be the chief consideration of a conscientious mother, and good mothers cannot quit their posts.

He's a Mechanic by Trade

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I work in a garage, puttering around cars, and get pretty messy and dirty and therefore, smell of grease and oil and very often this odor remains around me. My wife often gets very disagreeable about this, and makes it unpleasant for me by talking about it all the time. I wouldn't mind it so much if she didn't bring it up around my friends. She gets me so peeved sometimes, I'm about ready to leave her. Please help me decide what I should do.

Steve.

I may say in justification of your wife's antipathy for the smell of grease and oil, that your constant contact with this odor has probably dulled your own perceptions. I certainly would not advise you to leave her on this account.

Why not make a bigger effort to get rid of the odor? Try leaving your overalls at the garage, and change your outer garments when you come home. Scrub your hands with good soap, and keep your finger nails clean. I am sure she will appreciate your efforts to be agreeable in this connection. Best of luck to you.

GOOD MANNERS

MRS. CORNELIUS BEECKMAN

Easy to Give Parties on Successive Days

Many of today's smart hostesses plan to give two parties on successive days or evenings. The parties may be two dinners, one on, say, Wednesday evening, one on Thursday evening. Sometimes they are luncheon parties, tea parties, bridge parties or housewarmings. More often they are buffet parties.

If you haven't come across this idea before, you may at first think this is a staggering undertaking. But, as a matter of fact, this plan has its points, and, they're practical points.

In the first place, there are the lists of friends to whom we are socially indebted. Now, one of the tests of a hostess' cleverness is the way she combines people. If you're giving two parties, you can break down your list; put in one list the people whom you know will make an especially congenial group, and in the other list, the other friends who will be congenial.

Then there is the task of getting your house in party order. It's just as easy to do this fundamental preparation for both parties, with just a housecleaning "facial" after the first party. The house will be vacuum-cleaned, the furniture will be polished, the silver will be polished, the right kind and number of glasses and plates will have been determined. The flower centerpiece and the other flower decorations can be planned to last for two days.

And, since there will be two groups of friends, the menu can be the same — a great relief to any hostess. Many food items can be double-ordered, such details as olives, radishes and celery, salted nuts, salad accessories, a selection of various kinds of cheese, rolls to be heated, fruits.

If you're going to serve soup, it's just as easy to make a double amount. If your refrigerator is roomy enough, you can buy and chill a double amount of salad. Perhaps you can even make a double amount of the dessert you are featuring.

Then there are the many miscellaneous preparations that a hostess has on her individual lists: the right candles for the right holders; logs for the fireplace; serving tables; silver serving pieces ready; a supply of cigarettes and whatever "drinkables" are to be served.

You and I know that it's the preliminary planning, ordering and preparing for a party that's the real concern of a hostess. With these conquered for the first party, it becomes somewhat a dress rehearsal for the second party.

VICTORIA LADIES' AID

On Wednesday evening, Jan. 10 Victoria L. A. families met at the hospitable home of Mr. and Mrs. Lorne Brickman. Forty-seven enjoyed the banquet supper provided by the ladies. The business meeting was called to order by the President, Mrs. H. Cunningham and was opened by singing a hymn with Mrs. Rosenplot at the piano.

The President led in prayer and Psalm 743 in the hymnary was read responsively. Twenty seven members were present for the roll call. The corresponding secretary read an interesting letter from Mrs. (Rev.) Wragg, Peace River, Alta., thanking the Aid for a remembrance on the birth of their baby, Shirley. Thanks for remembrances during illness were also received from Mrs. C. Vanclief and Mrs. Scott. Some discussion regarding Red Cross work to be undertaken through the local Institute followed. A 70c flower collection was received. The supper collection amounted to $6.85. The theme song "Let the beauty of Jesus be seen in me" was sung.

Reports of the work during 1939 were received. The treasurer's report showed a balance of $32 on hand after an expenditure during the year of $177. The Aid had 33 members and held 16 meetings. Mrs. H. Cunningham invited the Jan. 24th meeting to her home. Twelve paid 1940 dues.

The election of officers was held and resulted as follows:

President, Mrs. Harry Cunningham.

1st Vice President, Mrs. C. Vanclief.

2nd Vice President, Mrs. W. Hubbs.

3rd Vice President, Mrs. M. B. Weese.

Treasurer, Mrs. H. Calnan.

Secretary, Mrs. M. G. Pulver

Pianist, Mrs. C. Vanclief.

Assistant, Miss Eva Brown.

Cor.-Sec., Miss Audra Brickman.

Buying Committee, Mrs. L. R. Brickman, Mrs. C. Vanclief.

Program Committee, Mrs. M. Wood, Miss N. Werden, Mrs. Eldon Adams, Mrs. Roy Brickman, Mrs. Earl Wood.

Dr. Dafoe's Column on the Quintuplets and the Care of Your Children

Infection Resistance

Our own and our children's bodies have in them a great many mechanisms which in their healthy, normal state, resist the inroads of infection to an extent little appreciated by the layman.

Take, for example, the skin. It probably is the greatest mechanism we have for resisting infection. When we consider the millions of infectious bacteria constantly coming into contact with exposed surfaces of the body, we can see how important a part the skin plays in protecting us from it.

However, all the bacteria with which we come in contact, doesn't touch the skin. We breathe some of them. These come in contact with the mucuous membrane. These membranes cover every part of the interior of the body and they are second only to the skin in their ability to keep out infection.

Some of the membranes are highly specialized in this work. For instance, there are the membrane of the bronchi, the tubes leading to the lungs. They have a peculiar and effective arrangement for preventing foreign material from getting to the lungs. Each of the tiny cells making up this membrane has a still tinier hair on its surface, composing a membrane covered with millions of hairs per square inch. When, as you take a deep breath, foreign material enters this area, these tiny hairs, or cilia, start to work on it. All the hairs are activated by the breath, all moving the same way. First, it is caught by this fine screen. Then the group of hairs that stopped it, pass it back to the next group nearer the mouth. In this fashion the material is passed right back to the nose or mouth through which it entered.

The sensativity of these membranes makes them act like a signal station when foreign bodies are present, and they make the body conscious of it. No doubt all of you have tried to stop yourself from coughing at some time or other and you know how difficult it was. The cough is just the body's way of telling you that there is some foreign material on one of the membranes of your throat and the sooner you explosively blow it out of there the better.

With the abdomen, too, there is a defensive membrane which carries on its work without letting us know very much about it. As you know, we have many feet of intestines within the abdomen. Every foot is covered by a very thin, shiny membrane which acts to prevent infection from whatever is passing through the abdomen.

I am sure you can readily appreciate the great work this membrane does in preventing infection, for the intestine naturally carried millions of infecting bacteria and if any of these should ever get outside the intestine, anything might happen.

We have the skin and the mucuous membrane constantly on guard in the body. But it would be an unwise general who would allow the safety of his country to depend on the strength or weakness of any one sector, so the body has segregated each part and has reinforcements drawn up to protect each part should it become infected.

These reinforcements are in the form of lymph glands, and it is their duty to see that infection when it develops is kept localized and doesn't spread to other parts of the body. If one group of these glands in defeated in a battle with invaders, it fills with pus, but in the meantime, the task of fighting is passed on to the next group of glands.

This brief explanation of the workings of some of the defenses of the body against infection may be helpful in making your child understand some of the wonderful mechanism of his body. If he understands its processes, it is easier to teach him to take care of it.

Caroline Chatfield Says Today

Man or Boy in Love Works According to Certain Well-Known Pattern

Dear Miss Chatfield:

There are people who never have things right in this life and I know because I am one of them. When I was very young I ran around with a lot of different boys and while I'll admit I drank and smoked with them I never did anything worse; never did anything that I would be ashamed for my future husband to know about. Then I met a boy who was all I had dreamed of and because he disapproved of my friends I gave them up and settled down to be the sort of girl he admired. What is it getting me?

His mother and sister dislike me and they are very strong with him. Of course they don't want him to marry, as he supports them. The sister once worked and could work again if she wanted to but she finds it easier to let him carry her. Anyhow they fill him full of tales about my goings on and they have just about convinced him that I am not the sort of girl he should marry. With a drinking father to ruin my childhood and now this trouble with the only boy I have ever loved I feel much older than twenty-one. Unhappy years are long years and I have had them. Please give me some comfort,

Belle.

Answer:

Dear child, the boy friend whom you love so much doesn't love you. If he did love you he wouldn't let his family criticize you even though you admit your early record wasn't above criticism. If he loved you he would believe in your innocence and he wouldn't stave off marriage because of his family's prejudice against you.

How do I know? I'll tell you: young or old, men work according to a certain pattern when they are in love. They are trusting and give benefit of doubt. They are importunate and press their suits. They are intolerant of any criticism of their best girls. Mothers and sisters take second place (temporarily at least) and all their protests amount to nothing.

What sensible girl wants to marry a boy that doesn't love her and has given her ample proof that he doesn't? Now come along like a sensible child: quit crying over one poor fish that got away. The sea is full of bigger, better ones and you should go fishing.

Grieving over disappointment doesn't help matters in this life. Crying over bad breaks doesn't create a good break. We have to fight for the good breaks and as surely as we keep fighting, we get them.

CARMEL Y. P. U.

The regular meeting of Carmel Y. P. U. was held on Thursday evening, Jan. 11th with Miss Ruby Howes in charge of the meeting.

The meeting opened with "Call to Worship" by Miss Howes. Quiet music was played by Miss Iva Horton. Hymn 258 was sung followed with prayer by Miss Wright. Hymn 231 was sung followed with the Scripture, read by Miss Irene Haines. Miss Hazel Hicks sang a solo "Take time to be holy."

The resident, Mrs. Earl Dafoe then attended to the business. Mrs. Percy Reynolds gave a reading. Miss Ruby Howes gave the topic, "Having a good time." The meeting closed with the Mizpah Benediction.

Miss Ruby Howes conducted a contest.

Holy Name Society Elects Officers

The annual meeting of the Holy Name Society was held in St. Michael's Academy on Sunday afternoon. The president, Mr. Charles Doran, presided and there was a large number of members present in spite of the inclement weather.

The election of officers for the new term resulted as follows:—

President—A. Dutton.

First Vice President—T. Morrell.

2nd Vice President—J. Murphy.

Third Vice President—W. Westfall.

Secretary—E. Buckley.

Treasurer—J. O'Leary.

Marshal—N. Callaghan.

The chaplain, Monsignor Nicholson, paid tribute to the work of the retiring president and officers, emphasizing devotion to the ideals of the Society and outlining this work which is known as one of the greatest forces of the age.

The retiring president, Charles Doran, thanked the members for the support accorded him during his term of office. The newly elected president expressed his thankfulness at his selection and gave a synopsis of future plans.

Pork Roast Baked Potatoes
Cranberry-Grape Salad
Buttered Carrots
Pumpkin Pie with Dates Coffee

PORK ROAST—Select a piece of pork suitable to your needs and pocketbook—a tenderloin loin roast, the most expensive; a rib roast without the tenderloin, a shoulder roast, a fresh shoulder or a Boston-style butt. Wipe with damp cloth, put in roaster, sprinkle with crumbled dried sage, chopped onion, salt and pepper. Allow at least 30 minutes to the pound in roasting, and bake at about 300 or 325 F. When it is about half done, turn over and sprinkle the under side with salt and pepper. When done, remove to hot platter, pour off most of the fat, add one tablespoon flour and one cup either milk or water to roaster, mix well and cook until thick, seasoning with pepper and salt to suit your individual taste. Strain to eliminate the pieces of onion and sage.

Cranberry-Grape Salad—Ingredients: one package lemon-flavored gelatin, one and one-half cups warm grape juice, one cup thick cranberry sauce, one-half cup celery, cut fine; one-half cup tart apples, finely cut but not peeled. Dissolve gelatin in warm grape juice, combine with sweetened cranberry sauce, celery and apples. Pour into mold and chill until firm. May be served on lettuce with mayonnaise or as relish.

Pumpkin Pie with Dates — Ingredients: one-half cup light brown sugar, one half teaspoon salt, one teaspoon cinnamon, one-half teaspoon ginger, one and one-half cups cooked pumpkin, two eggs, one and one-half cups milk, one-half package (three-fourths cup) sliced dates, unbaked pie shell. Add sugar, salt and spices to pumpkin. Beat eggs slightly; add milk, stir into pumpkin mixture; add dates. Pour filling into prepared shell, bake 10 minutes in hot oven (450 F.), then reduce heat to 350 F. and bake about 30 minutes more, or until none of filling clings to silver knife blade inserted in centre of pie. Cool at room temperature. Serves six or eight.

The Stars Say

For Wednesday, January 17

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

A DIFFICULT though not dull day is forecast from the mixed astrological portents. There may be an unexpected change, journey or other upheaval, probably of a rather unsatisfactory or depressing nature, possibly incited by a below-par status of the health or illness at home. All may combine to create disagreements or want of approbation from employers, superiors or those in authority. However, there will be social or affectional compensations.

Those whose birthday it is may have a year of unforeseen change, with removal or travel, possibly connected with changed employment or conflict with employers or others in authority. Illness or depression may be at the root of such adverse conditions, which will be benefited by the change of scene. There also will be domestic, social or emotional comforts, with sympathy and understanding.

A child born on this day may be talented, creative and original, either in art, science or invention, although its delicate health may prove a detrimental factor to high success unless it be given proper care in its early years.

BRIDGE ST. Y.P.U.

Bridge St. Y.P.U. held their regular weekly meeting last evening in the Sunday School rooms and were hosts to the four groups of the Quaternion Y.P.U. composed of Tabernacle, Holloway Street, Avondale, and Herchimer Churches.

The guests were welcomed by the President, Perry Everett, after which a lively sing-song was conducted by Myrtle Reid.

The remainder of the evening was to have been put on by members of Albert College but owing to unforeseen difficulties had to be postponed until a later date.

The program then took the form of an impromptu amateur contest. Those taking part were Anne Larue, a reading; trio by Jean Saunders, Betty and Jean Shorey; trumpet solo by Jack Zufelt; reading by Betty Anderson; humorous trio by Bob Hunter, Bryson Leslie and Perry Everett; solo by Harry Atkinson.

By popular request the skit "The Death of the Lighthouse Keeper" was repeated.

Games were conducted by Jack Dickens after which delicious refreshments were served.

IVANHOE Y. P. U.

The Ivanhoe Y.P.U. met on Wednesday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Reid. Election of officers took place and resulted as follows:

Press Secretary, Gwen Reid.

The meeting closed with the Mizpah Benediction and lunch was enjoyed by everyone.

White in the Dark

By ALICE ALDEN

LOOK OVER any gathering these gala nights and you'll see more white than dark furs. Fluffy gox, sleek broadtail and babyish ermine are favorites of all ages from debutante to matron. Broadtail is used in long and short lengths, a graceful hip-length jacket being pictured. This model is yoked in back, then box-pleated, and has a little round collar. The wonderful thing about a white evening wrap is that it may be worn over anything you own, black, white or vivid gowns sharing its splendor.

REV. S. R. FOREMAN SPEAKS TO CLUBS ON IMPRESSIONS

Tells Young People of Two Congregations of Importance of Impressions on Life and Character

The Young People's Society of the Emmanuel Church were guests of the B.Y.P.U. of Victoria Avenue Baptist Church at their regular weekly meeting held in the club rooms Monday evening. The Rev. S. R. Foreman of Emmanuel Church was the guest speaker for the occasion.

In an address packed with wit and wisdom Mr. Foreman cautioned the young people about making impressions. "We act largely according to the impressions received," asserted the speaker. "First impressions are very important because they are lasting impressions. We must be careful, therefore, of the impressions we make on others because their regard for us is governed by the impressions they receive of our characters. Whether we realize it or not we help to mould the characters of those about us because there are those who look up to us as an example to follow and the impressions we unconsciously make on them have a great influence on their lives.

"Our great country has been moulded by the impressions made on it by the lives of those who have gone before. The young people of today are the folk who will have to carry the burden and mould the future."

Mr. Foreman went on to say that the kindergarten impression many children receive of Jesus is that He is of a meek, lowly and lamb-like character, not a hero like Samson and David; but as we grow older and study the gospels more deeply we realize that Christ is indeed strong, virile, heroic. If we let Him influence our lives we will have sympathy, goodness and unity and the impressions we make on others will influence them in all that is good and noble.

During the devotional part of the meeting Miss Della Anderson capably performed the duties of chairman. Scripture was read by Miss Doreen Ferguson followed by a season of prayer during which many took part. Miss Geraldine Weese, an accomplished pianist, delighted the audience with two beautiful selections.

Interesting Bible games were played under the direction of Mr. Bert Orr followed by a dainty luncheon supervised by Miss Edna Jobson. The singing of "Blest Be the Tie That Binds" brought a very successful evening to a close.

Annual Vestry Meeting Held At Christ Church

The annual vestry meeting of Christ Church was held in the church Parish Hall last evening, all branches of the church being duly represented. Rev. G. G. Wright, the rector, opened the meeting with prayer and acted as chairman of the evening.

D. R. Cleland was appointed rector's warden, while E. W. Vanner was elected peoples' warden, for the ensuing year. For the year 1940, the church vestry council will be composed of the church wardens, lay delegates to the Synod as well as representation from the various church organizations, while Thomas H. Marshall was re-elected as warden of St. George's Mission.

The financial statement read found the church in splendid monetary condition, when the best financial report in many years was submitted to the meeting. Votes of thanks and appreciation were tendered to the Ladies' Guild and other organizations for their zealous efforts throughout the past year with special mention being made of the work of Mrs. Earl Hickey, who for the past five years has so capably headed the Ladies' Guild. Mrs. Hickey's announcement of retirement last night was most regretfully received.

NEPHELINE PROPERTIES NOW IN OPERATION

Two Nepheline properties on the east side of the York River in Dungannon Township are now in operation. The Temagami Development Co., is operating one property while the other is being opened up and developed by the Canadian Flint and Spar Co., of Ottawa. Several men are engaged with crushers in operation on both properties.

The crushed rock is drawn on trucks and loaded in cars in Bancroft for shipment to plants manufacturing glass and other products. At present there appears to be a fair demand for the product.

MERCHANTS WARNED OF COUNTERFEIT BILLS

Merchants are warned to be on the lookout for counterfeit bills which are in circulation in the district. A $10.00 counterfeit American bill was taken in at a Kingston office over the week-end.

REGISTRATION MUST BE RENEWED

All persons registered at the Employment Service of Canada branch here and wishing to remain on the books for work, are re-registering for 1940 at the present time. Completion of the lengthy task is expected this week.

Country Roads Gradually Being Cleared After Sunday's Storm

Snowplow Crews Have Difficult Time Opening Up Blocked Highways

WORK ALL NIGHT

Battling the most serious road blockade of the current season, three snowplow crews succeeded yesterday in clearing the county roads system after the recent storm had converted them into rough impassable tracks.

Today, County Road Superintendent W. L. Langlois, stated that all roads in the county system are clear and open to traffic, although careful driving is necessary in some parts. The Tweed-Sulphide road is heavy in some spot but plows are gradually wearing down the 'blockade.'

Plows and crews worked all night Sunday and yesterday. The Ridge Road west of Stirling, was blocked on Sunday as was the Madoc road. Both roads are now open, although the Madoc road north of Ivanhoe is rough and narrow and is now being widened by county road crews.

Road crews are still at work and it is expected that today will see a return to normal of traffic conditions on the main arteries of the county system.

CITY FINANCING FULLY EXPLAINED

Ald. A. McLean Haig, Chairman of Executive of City Council, Speaks to Y's Men

"City administration is one thing that a person must be paramountly interested in and willing to devote time and labour in order to successfully cultivate that field," Alderman A. McLean Haig, chairman of the executive committee of the City of Belleville council told the members of the local Y's Men's Club at their weekly conclave in the Y.M.C.A. last evening, when as guest speaker. He gave a conversational and impromptu discussion on the subject of "Financing of a City."

"It has always occurred to me that a municipality can be operated by the same methods of business as any large private corporation," held Alderman Haig, as he made reference to large corporations, which handled larger volumes of financial business than the average city in Ontario. "Actually a municipality should be able to operate better than a private corporation, simply because the municipality is fully aware of its annual expenditure, through the medium of its estimate expenditures."

Social Service Expensive

"However, in this country the cost of social service is rapidly mounting and is one of the great drawbacks a municipality must be prepared to face as a major expenditure each year. The cost of indigent patients to the City of Belleville from the local hospital alone in 1939 was $10,000.00 or equivalent to one mill on our assessment. And there is also other indigent accounts, as well as Children's Welfare and relief, both of which must be met by the municipality according to governmental regulations," pointed out Alderman Haig as he concluded by lauding the city council's action of the appointment of a City Comptroller, which should "tend to solidify the various City Hall departments and tend to benefit the city and the tax payers alike," he said.

Assured of Fine Skaters

Alderman Haig, who is also a member of the Toronto Skating Club, assured the Belleville Y's Men's Club of the highest calibre of talent possible for their forthcoming V.O.N. Charity Ice Carnival, which will be held at the Hume Arena on Jan. 26th, with outstanding skaters from the Toronto Skating Club as the guest artists. "I have been in communication with Clifford Sifton, Chairman of the Toronto Skating Club Carnival, and he assured me that some of the finest skating talent in Canada will appear at our Charity Carnival," Alderman Haig assured President Harold Vaughan last night.

Alderman Haig was at one time an executive member of the Toronto Skating Club. Last night's entertainment was supplied with two piano solos by Alec Gordon.

WORK GANGS REMOVE ACCUMULATED SNOW FROM FRONT STREET

City Public Works men and trucks worked in near-zero temperatures today removing accumulations of snow from Front Street and other business thoroughfares. Heavy frosts of last night had congealed the mass into banks of near solid ice and workmen were forced to use picks to loosen the mass.

Other trucks sanded icy roads, and highways where transports and other vehicles had previously encountered difficulty in proceeding.

City Engineer Charles Mott stated today that there were large amounts of free sand available to residents. A telephone call will bring any quantity desired.

I. O. F. Instal Officers for 1940

Impressive installation ceremonies of the Independent Order of Foresters, Court Moira 33, took place at the clubrooms in the Robertson Block, Front Street last night, with Mr. C. T. Trowbridge, Kingston, High Chief Ranger of the High Court of Eastern Ontario, Kingston, in charge of the rites.

Officers who will guide the destiny of the court for the coming year, and who were installed last night include—Chief Ranger, Bro. G. Ellarby; Vice Chief Ranger, Bro. W. Breach; Court Deputy, Bro. F. Miller; Financial Secretary, Bro. Chas. L. Walters; Recording Secretary and Treasurer, Bro. S. S. Finkle; Orator, Companion Miller; Senior Woodward, Bro. Matter; Junior Woodward, Bro. Weaver; Senior Beadle, Bro. W. Kennedy; Junior Beadle, Bro. Fenn; Trustees, Bros. Shorey and Kennedy.

The installation was preceded by an oyster supper.

FIVE INJURED IN COLLISION

Two Trucks Collide Near Ross' Corners North of This City Early Today

Five persons sustained injuries, of whom two were taken to the Belleville General Hospital after two motor trucks collided near Ross' Corners, Highway No. 14, early today. The two persons removed to the hospital in Martin's ambulance were 60-year-old Thomas Whalen and Alfred Maracle, both of Point Anne. Whalen suffered facial lacerations and a back injury, while Maracle was reported suffering from shock, Dr. G. S. Cronk stated after attending the injured persons at the scene of the accident.

Three residents of Point Anne, Whalen and Maracle, as well as Leonard Maracle, 25, were riding northerly in a truck driven by Raymond Bailey, also of Point Anne, when a south-bound truck, driven by Harry Tufts, 33, of Madoc, skidded on the icy pavement and collided with the Bailey-driven vehicle. Tufts also sustained minor chest injuries, Motorcycle Patrolman Sam Ervine reported after investigating the accident.

Bailey's truck was a complete wreck. The Point Anne quartette were enroute to cut wood for the township relief when the vehicle in which they were riding was struck by the south-bound truck. Charges are pending, the investigating officer revealed.

Celebrate 40 Years Of Wedded Life

Tweed (Special)—Mr. and Mrs. Abner H. Mouck of Lodgeroom, celebrated their fortieth wedding anniversary at their farm home on Wednesday, January 10th., when a great many neighbors and friends called during the day to offer felicitations.

Mr. and Mrs. Mouck were married in the year 1900 by Rev. Mr. Houck. Their attendants were Miss N. Mouck and Mr. R. T. Graham, both of whom were present to wish them continued health, happiness and prosperity.

Following their marriage Mr. and Mrs. Mouck (formerly Florence Graham) took up their residence on the groom's farm about two miles west of Tweed. Here they have since resided, Mr. Mouck being recognized as one of Hungerford's most successful farmers.

Mr. and Mrs. Mouck have five children, Mrs. Percy Townsley, Mrs. James Bennett, and Graham Mouck of Belleville; Harry Mouck of Sudbury, and Miss Helen Mouck at home; and three grandchildren, Marilyn Townsley, Geraldine Bennett and Barbara Jane Mouck.

During the afternoon and evening Mr. and Mrs. Mouck received congratulations from a number of friends and relatives. At 6.30 about fifty guests were seated at a lovely anniversary supper. The bride's table was centred by a large wedding cake with red tapers and tulips.

The dining room was tastefully decorated with pink and white streamers centred with a huge bell.

Rev. A. E. Pepper proposed the toast to the bride. This was responded to by Mr. Mouck. The following were called upon for speeches: Mr. W. H. Craig, Tweed; George Stokes, Belleville; C. F. Elliott, Tweed, and T. C. Graham, Tweed. Then the entire assembly joined in singing God Save the King and the Doxology.

The remainder of the evening was spent in cards, singing and dancing. The guests left for their homes wishing Mr. and Mrs. Mouck many more anniversaries.

Mr. and Mrs. Mouck were the recipients of many lovely gifts.

HUNTING DIFFICULTIES

London—(CP)—Lord Brocket reports a rebuke administered by villagers near the shooting grounds he leased last fall. A petition from the village requested the whistling of "beaters" be reduced to a minimum, because "the whistles had been mistaken for air raid warnings."

FEW CANADIANS IN CASH PRIZES

Are Numbered Among 1500 Awards Drawn in Irish 'Sweeps'

Dublin, Jan. 16 —(CP)— A handful of Canadians drew cash prizes of 10 pounds ($45) as 1,500 consolation awards were drawn in the Irish Hospital sweepstakes for the benefit of the Red Cross.

The Canadian winners were "Casey" with ticket VS87426, "H. Dallner" with ticket ME13282 and "All Out" with ticket MJ75675. (Yesterday another Canadian with the nom de plume "All Out" drew a 10 pound prize. His ticket was CV16070.)

The sweep is based on the Red Cross steeplechase to be run at Leopardstown, Dublin, on Saturday. The Canadian Red Cross will receive 43 pounds. The small amount is due to the fact few tickets were sold across the Atlantic. The British Red Cross will receive 29,766 pounds and the Eire Red Cross 26,189 pounds.

Instal S. S. Officers At Aikens Church

3rd. Sidney — One of the most important works of the church is Sunday School work, stated Rev. L. W. Scott, at Aikens, on Sunday morning, when he addressed the congregation at the regular church service.

Stressing the importance of laying a good foundation, he compared the foundation of a child's character to that of the largest building of the world, the Empire Building in New York City.

Growing up in church and Sunday school work helps boys and girls to realize their own endowments and possibilities. It supplements day school, he continued, in creating a quality, and purity of life, strengthening self-control and idealism; qualities that abide thru' life and are constructive, not destructive. In Sunday school work children have the privilege of sharing their blessings, a vitalizing force in the development of character.

At the close of this heart-searching sermon, the officers and teachers of the Sunday School were asked to go to the front of the church and were solemnly installed in office by the minister.

The Holy Sacrament was administered to the congregation at the close of the service.

It was with regret that friends of Mr. Selburn Westover learned he had entered the Belleville General Hospital on Wednesday for treatment for infection caused by an injury to his hand received the week before. His many friends hope for continued impovement and that he will soon be able to return to his home.

Friends and relatives from this neighborhood attended the funeral of Mr. Harry Spafford in Belleville on Monday afternoon. The late Mr. Spafford lived in this community before moving to Belleville, and was highly respected and beloved by young and old. Deepest sympathy is extended to the family and relatives.

Mr. and Mrs. Lee Grills attended the funeral of Mr. Frank Garrison on Saturday afternoon in Thurlow township.

Mrs. Palmer is spending the Winter months in Napanee with her sister, Mrs. George Cliffe and Mr. Cliffe.

Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Bush were dinner guests on Sunday of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Bird, Cannifton.

The Misses Irene and Erma May of Belleville, spent an evening recently with Mr. and Mrs. Bernard May.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Bush and Mr. and Mrs. E. K. Hubble spent Sunday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Clayton Herman.

This correspondent would like to pay sincere tribute to the life of the late Mrs. Halliday, who passed to her reward on January 5, 1940.

Mrs. Halliday will ever be remembered for her fine Christian character and her influence will always be felt by those who were privileged to enjoy her friendship. Sympathy is extended to her daughter, Miss Florence Johnson.

Deacon Shirt Co. Begins Work on War Clothing Order

Expert cutters of the Deacon Shirt Company of this city started operations on the first war clothing contract to have been received in the city since the commencement of hostilities.

Ten thousand grey shirts and thirty thousand collars, said to be for Royal Canadian Air Force personnel, will be manufactured by the local business firm within the next few weeks. Minor contracts for other war apparel will be filled as soon as possible.

According to Mr. W. B. Deacon, the war contract will fit in nicely with the present scheme of things at the Deacon factory. While ordinary business is at a high level, the manufacture of the garments for the government will not necessitate any addition to the present staff.

Manufacture of shirts for war purposes is nothing new for the company, Mr. Deacon stated. During the last war, nearly a quarter-million garments were manufactured for the British and Canadian governments. The present contract will be filled as soon as possible.

SEVERE COLD STRIKES NORTH

23 Degrees Below Zero is Registered in Porcupine District

(By The Canadian Press)

Sleigh bells jingled today as many Ontario municipalities dug out from under snowdrifts while the temperature ranged from 23 degrees below in the Porcupine district at Timmins to ten above in some southern centres.

Although Northern Ontario generally reported below-zero weather, the region escaped force of a blizzard that swept other parts of the province Sunday and Monday. Throughout Western Ontario and especially the "snow centre"—Dufferin County—hundreds of men are engaged in opening up main roads following a week-end of rain, sleet and snow and a blizzard and plummetting temperatures yesterday.

Coldest weather of the winter came today at the Porcupine Camp near Timmins where the thermometer dropped to a new low of 23 below zero. Previously the weather had been comparatively mild. North Bay citizens shivered in 15-below weather after a week of mildness.

Father and son, Floyd and Gerald Stapley, of this city, were arrested last night by Canadian National Railway police on a charge of attempting to steal coal from the premises of the C.N.R. The Stapleys were apprehended on Canadian National property, the special railway agents stated today and were held in custody at the police station until this morning when they were released on bail to appear in County Police court on Thursday.

'DRAMATIC CLASH' IN BRITISH HOUSE IS QUIET SCENE

Appearance of Prime Minister Chamberlain and Leslie Hore-Belisha Passes Off Without Word of Ill-Feeling

NO "FIREWORKS"

(By J. F. Sanderson Canadian Press Staff Writer).

London, Jan. 16 (CP-Cable)— It was billed as a dramatic clash between two political giants—Neville Chamberlain and Leslie Hore-Belisha—but it passed off without a word of rancor or ill feeling.

Seven hours before the House of Commons met this afternoon members began to gather for the much-advertised scene when Mr. Hore-Belisha and the Prime Minister would explain why the former War Minister was asked to resign.

If they looked for the proverbial fireworks they were disappointed.

Standing "below the gang-plank" on the government side of the House, Mr. Hore-Belisha spoke only a few minutes. His voice was husky but there was no bitterness in it. His speech was a model or restraint.

Lloyd George Present

In the middle of it David Lloyd George walked in to take a seat across the floor. It added an historical touch, because the grey-haired Welshman was a storm centre as War Minister in the first Great War. But he stayed in office and later became Prime Minister.

Mr. Hore-Belisha was not interrupted in his opening remarks, but when the House discovered he intended to make no trouble for the Prime Minister applause from government supporters began to punctuate his remarks. He sat down amidst prolonged cheers which almost drowned out his reference to the need of a united nation in time of war.

The Prime Minister, who followed him, received a less orderly House. Labor members constantly interrupted to demand the real reason why Mr. Hore-Belisha was asked to resign.

"Be frank with us!" and "tell us all about it," were thrown across the floor at the Prime Minister.

Mystery About as Great as Ever

At the end the Belisha mystery was almost as big a mystery as ever, but it was quite apparent the former War Minister would not desert the government ranks or attempt to make political capital out of the incident.

It was openly predicted in the lobbies that it would not be long until the resigned Minister would be back in the government in a job of some sort.

FRENCH FORCES REMAIN ALERT

French Officials Say Allied Policy Obviously Provides for Defence of Any Neutral Invaded

Paris, Jan. 16—(AP) — France kept her armed forces on the alert today against any likelihood of a German invasion through Belgium or the Netherlands, with one source listing Jan. 20 as a possible date for such an attack.

Foreign office officials said allied policy obviously provided for defence of any neutral invaded by Germany, since France and Great Britain were at war with the Reich.

Charles Morice, military commentator of Le Petit Parisien wrote: "All armies involved are on the watch. If the German offensive takes place Jan. 20 or before that date, it will surprise neither the allies, the Belgians nor the Dutch. The first great battle of the war would immediately be started."

Canada is Playing Full Part Says Times

London, Jan. 16—(CP)—Canada's $200,000,000 war loan shows the greatest of the Dominion's determination "to play a full part in upholding the liberties of the world," the Times said editorially today.

"There can be no question of the ability of Canada to carry on internal loan or this magnitude for the war brings with it a great demand for Canadian foodstuffs and Canadian industrial products," the Times said, citing the great increase in British purchases made in Canada as a result of war requirements.

"The inevitable strain on exchange between sterling and the Canadian dollar, it is expected, will be eased by the increase in Canadian purchases in Great Britain, and be offset by Canadian expenditure in Great Britain and France on the account of the expeditionary force.

"The agreement over financing the air training scheme shows that there are always ways of overcoming difficulties of this kind when both sides are anxious to make their cooperation effective. What is certain is that in Canada and the other dominions, as in Great Britain and France, there is the most complete determination not to let the second front line fail the first."

17 ACCUSED MEN GREATLY SUBDUED

J. Edgar Hoover Says He Has Evidence to Support Every Jot of Charge

New York, Jan. 16. (AP)—A woebegone group of 17 men accused of plotting to overthrow the United States government fretted in jail today, unable to raise $50,000 bail each, as Federal agents sought other alleged conspirators of the "Revolutionary" Syndicate.

While Federal, State, National Guard and New York City police authorities pressed investigations of the fantastic scheme to launch an anti-semitic program, assassinate a dozen congressmen and set up a Hitleresque dictatorship in the United States, jail attendants described the 17 prisoners as greatly subdued.

All pleaded not guilty yesterday when they were arraigned on a charge of seditious conspiracy.

J. Edgar Hoover, chief of the Federal Bureau of Investigation, said he had evidence to support every jot of the charge that a conspiracy was aimed at establishing a dictatorship.

"It took only 23 men to overthrow Russia", Hoover reminded skeptics.

Tramp Forgets His 'Props' After Getting Meal

The construction foreman of the new radio beam near Stirling tells an amusing story of an odd experience that befell him a short time ago. It appears a tramp hobbling on crutches approached the foreman with a request for cash for a meal. The appearance of the man did not belie his request, so the foreman took him to a nearby restaurant for a meal.

When the stranger had finished eating and the foreman had paid the bill, the transient thanked him, and rising together they strolled toward the door. As they reached it a voice from the interior of the restaurant hailed them. It was the waiter notifying the transient: "Hey, you forgot your crutches; you may need them again ."

An embarrassed grin spread itself over the face of the transient which told its own story. The foreman smiled quietly to himhimself, but no word of the incident passed between them as they made their way to the outside world

2 SOVIET ARMY

Russian Transport Fails

With Finnish forces on the Karelian Isthmus, Jan. 16 (AP)—Soviet Russia's difficulties in sending supplies to her forces of invasion on the Karelian front may prove as helpful to the Finns here as the paralyzing cold has on other fronts.

A Finnish Colonel, who chatted with this correspondent in a snug dugout with the temperature outside 25 degrees below zero, attributed slackening of warfare on the Isthmus to Russian transport inadequacy and added that there were indications that some of the Red troops were receiving short rations and these only frozen meat and bread.

The Colonel said the Isthmus terrain was "overloaded" with Red soldiers—he estimated the number at 400,000—and said:-

"A very heavy strain must have been placed on the railway lines to Leningrad which are needed now both for the population of the city itself and for maintenance of Soviet troops on the Isthmus."

Leningrad, a city of 2,776,000, is about 50 miles southeast of this front.

Factor Will Aid Finns

The officer declined to speculate on the ultimate result of the Russians' transport difficulties but foreign observers familiar with peacetime difficulties suggested that the question might be answered in the Finnish favor—just as the numbing cold has worked for the defenders elsewhere.

While by ordinary standards the 25 degrees below on the Karelian front might be considered a terrific handicap to military operations the hardships here by no means compare with those brought by the 40-below in the far north.

Finland is undergoing the coldest weather in 10 years.

With the Russian troops apparently largely busy digging in and trying to keep warm there was only resultory artillery fire yesterday. Meanwhile Finnish ski patrols were reported active at several points beyond the Russian border in the north.

The war seems to be settling down again to guerrilla combat and artillery duelling on the front lines and attempts by the Russian Air Force to crush civilian morale —as well as military targets—behind the fronts.

RABBITS FOOT BRINGS LUCK

Knoxville, Tenn., Jan. 16—(AP) —Mary Donaghy and Elsie Lively took a rabbit's foot to High School for good luck. Going home they found nearly $100 in bills and coins on the sidewalk. A railway employee, D. P. Hopkins, claimed it, said it slipped through a hole in his pocket. He gave the girls $5 each as rewards.

HORSES, CUTTERS SEEN IN PARTS OF PROVINCE

Sleigh-Bells Jingle as Mail Carriers Deliver Mail Today

STRONG WINDS

(By The Canadian Press)

Hardest hit by Monday's severe snowstorm were the counties of Dufferin, Grey and Perth. Horses and cutters, bells jingling in the crisp air, were a common sight and mail couriers in Meaford district used cutters to get their mail delivered. It was the first time horses had been used this winter.

At least eight Dufferin county villages, snowbound last night, employed hundreds of men and many ploughs to clear roads for traffic today. Many of the back-concession roads will be blocked for the remainder of the season following the worst storm of the winter.

More snow with continued cold was forecast today for those areas hardest hit. Most of the main roads, however, will be open for traffic late today.

Driving Dangerous

At Stratford, Highways Department officials, warned motorists not to drive unless driving is an absolute necessity. More than a dozen cars were reported ditched in the district but no one was injured. A fresh fall of four inches of snow greeted residents today and a forecast of blocked roads in the district before nightfall was made by road workers.

Strong winds prevailed at Kitchener, driving the temperature down to five above. It was 11 above at Toronto, at noon today, despite a bright sun.

At Fort Erie, with the mercury sinking steadily, a strong west wind was sweeping huge ice floes down the Niagara River and ice is piled ten feet high at the first pier of the Peace Bridge on the Canadian shore.

Mercury Drops 37 Degrees

At Brockville and Cornwall the mercury nose-dived nearly 37 degrees overnight and continued to descend today to slightly below zero. Kingston reported zero weather with a strong north wind. The five-above weather in Peterborough district froze slush on roads, making traffic move with caution. The road to Bancroft is closed by snow with government ploughs attempting to clear a passage.

Orangeville in Dufferin County, reported that several county villages remain snowbound but that Rosemount and Mansfield, at least will be freed later today. None of the villages is suffering from a shortage of supplies. The mercury throughout the county dropped to eight below zero.

Villages remaining isolated are Badjeros, Redickville and Honeywood.

Police Blotter

Icy pavements in Belleville were attributed as the paramount reason for two motor accidents on city streets yesterday, resulting in considerable property damage, but no personal injuries. P.C. Wright investigated both accidents.

Early in the evening an eastbound motor car, driven by L. Levine, Peterborough, skidded into the rear of another motor car at the intersection of Bridge and Front Streets. Mr. John Stephens, of this city, halted his automobile waiting for the change of the street traffic light when Mr. Levine's car skidded into the rear of Mr. Stephen's car. The Peterborough motorist agreed to make restitution in the matter of damage.

Later on Victoria Ave., when two motor cars were attempting to pass while travelling in the opposite direction, the vehicles collided. The automobiles were driven by George Darrah and Fred LaPalm, both of Belleville. Police discovered the drivers were attempting to pass each other between two parked cars and the icy condition of the road resulted in the vehicles skidding and the collision resulted in considerable fender and tire damage, which was amicably settled upon the arrival of P.C. Wright.

Kingston police reported the theft of a 1939 model Plymouth sedan last night. The vehicle was equipped with 1940 Ontario licence plates number 3-A-635.

Eleven transients sought shelter at the police station last night.

A SLIGHT UNDERSTATEMENT

Wabash, Ind., Jan. 16 (AP) — Charles Gill of North Manchester told Judge Byron Kennedy he wanted a divorce because his wife misrepresented herself before their marriage. "She told me," he said, "she had been married twice when as a matter of fact she had six previous husbands." Gill got the divorce.

BALDNESS CAUSE OF SUICIDE

Los Angeles, Jan. 16—(AP)—Police officer G. A. Holt listed the death of Joe Fudie, 29, as a suicide by asphyxiation today, adding that the sign painter's employer, Mrs. Gladys Fuller, told him: "Fudie had threatened to end his life because he could not stand being bald headed. He had brooded over the continued loss of his hair."

RULERS CAMPAIGN AGAINST CLUBS FOR PAST 50 YRS.

National Baseball Commission Formed at That Time Fined Many Clubs

CARDS IN WRONG

Latest Action Against Detroit Will Cost Club at Least $500,000

(By Tom Siler)
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

Chicago, Jan. 16.—(AP)— A lot of baseballs have been knocked out of the park since 1906, but—even back in those days the rulers campaigned against the violators of the professional games rules governing players transactions.

The game's struggle to keep player manipulations within legal bounds was emphasized again this week by Commissioner K. M. Landis' edict freeing 91 baseball players owned by the Detroit Club and valued at $500,000.

In freeing four Detroit players and 887 minor leaguers and ordering payment of almost $50,000 to 14 other players, Landis warned the club owners and executives that continued "covering up" of players would result in banishment from baseball of the guilty parties.

Just 36 years ago this Spring the National Baseball Commission, composed of Ban Johnson, Harry C. Pulliam and August Hermann, drew up what is thought to be the first rule striking at such practices. For violation of rules on player transactions, the commission set fines of $1,000 on major league clubs, $750 for Class "A" League and so on down the line.

Repeated Warnings

The Commission warned that a second offense would lead to the withdrawal of the protection of the games' governors—which would amount to wrecking a club since its hold on its players would have no legal status.

Since that time there have been repeated warnings and repeated violations. Less than two years ago Landis lashed out at the St. Louis Cardinals. He charged the club with mishandling players, gave free agency to more than 100 and levied fines against the Cards and some of their affiliates.

Landis' latest action struck a damaging blow at Detroit's plans for rebuilding the Tigers. They have only 78 players, 35 of whom are with the parent club, 30 with the Beaumont Texas League Club and 13 with Henderson of the East Texas League. Beaumont and Henderson are the only minor league clubs owned outright by Detroit.

DOUG BENTLEY

Black Hawks

Doug Bentley

A feature of the Drumheller Miners in the Alberta Senior league last winter — in fact a feature of the entire dominion hockey scene — was the fact that five brothers were playing together on the team. The boys are somewhat scattered this year and the youngest member of the clan is whirling over N. H. L. ice surfaces for Paul Thompson's accent-on-youth Black Hawks. That's Douglas Wagner Bentley, who can lay claim to two major league distinctions already—that of being the lightest player in the league (134 pounds) as well as one of the fastest. Manager Thompson says he's the fastest player he has ever seen, and he makes quite a picture whizzing down the ice with his black hair rising and falling with each drive of his legs. He plays left wing on a line with a veteran, Mush March, and a near-veteran, Bill Thoms. He had never seen a National league game until he took the ice with the Hawks in November, and he got his first goal his fourth time out. Of Indian descent, Doug was born at Delisle, Sask., 22 years ago. Played his amateur hockey at Delisle, Saskatoon, Regina and Moose Jaw as well as Drumheller. Twenty-five goals and three more assists attracted the eye of Paul Thompson, seeking to rejuvenate his team on a western scouting trip.

NAPANEE BEATEN IN LAST PERIOD

Winning Goal of Contest Scored in Last Minute of Play

Kingston, Jan. 16.— (Special)— Two last period goals by Hepburn gave Queen's a 4 to 3 win over Napanee in an O.H.A. Intermediate "B" game here Monday night. Napanee was in front most of the way but the Tricolor finished stronger and got the winning goal in the last minute. Currie in the Napanee nets played a star game.

D. Leary scored a pair of goals for the visitors. His first counter followed one by Conner to leave the score deadlocked at 1 to 1 at the end of the first period. Barrett and D. Leary made it 3 to 1 for Napanee early in the second frame, but Lind cut the deficit for the Tricolor in the periods final twenty seconds.

Queen's — Goal, Trembley; defense, C. Williamson, Dewar; centre Hepburn; wings, Conner, Lind; subs., Savory, Frye, Bassarab, Conlon.

STEIN REPLACES BRODA

Toronto, Jan. 16.— (CP)— Phil Stein, Toronto Maple Leafs' reserve goalie, has been recalled from the Omaha Club of the American Association and will replace Turk Broda in the nets when Leafs meet Detroit Red Wings here Thursday night, Manager Connie Smythe announced today.

Broda suffered an injured knee last week but played Saturday night when Leafs were beaten, 4-1, by New York Rangers here Saturday night.

"Turk's knee is pretty bad" Smythe said, "I guess I should have brought Phil back before Saturday. It was scarcely fair to Broda to ask him to work".

BASIC SKIING

Kick-Turn Takes Practice

Tomm Murstad illustrates the kick-turn

By TOMM MURSTAD

After practising the preliminary exercise of "knee bending" and "leg thrusting" so that you can do it easily and without too much aching and protesting of the muscles, the next thing to do is walk on skis. Sounds simple, doesn't it? Well, it is! Taking it for granted that there is some snow and the ground is flat, do the exercises for five minutes or so and then get up and walk.

Of course, the skis are not lifted from the snow, but are slid along, one after the other in an absolutely parallel position about six and eight inches apart. Use the ski poles as an active part of walking by alternately thrusting first one then the other into the snow and pulling on them.

The movements of the arms and ski poles are opposite that of the skis. When the left foot is forward the right arm and ski pole is forward. Keep the movements even and rhythmic and don't be afraid to push on the poles. Before very long the movements will flow together easily.

As interesting as this first walking on skis may be, the time will come when you've got to turn around. That can be done simply by taking small steps around toward the direction you wish to go, being sure not to let the skis lap over each other. That method will get you around, eventually, but the procedure I have illustrated herewith is fast, effective and comparatively simple. Known as a "kick-turn", it requires some practice.

Thrust the left ski pole into the snow on a line with the body. You're going to lean on it, so be sure it's in strongly. Now raise the right leg up so that the end of the ski is on the snow. Swing the leg around, using the ski end as a pivot, and bring the ski down until it is practically parallel with the left one, but pointing in the opposite direction.

Now, to get the left foot around. Reverse the position of the poles by swinging the right pole over and into the snow behind the left ski. Left pole is swung over beside the right ski. Lift left foot enough to clear the snow and right ski and swing it around so that both ski tips are pointing the same way.

TURF SEASON OF 1939 BEST IN MANY YEARS

Challedon Declared Best Three-Year-Old and Also Leader of Handicap Division

BIMELECH MENTIONED

E. R. Bradley Colt Picked as Winner of Kentucky Derby This Year

(By Col. Matt Winn, President of American Turf Association)

Chicago, Jan. 16 (AP)—The 1939 season on the United States turf was a boom year.

Increased attendance, many thrilling races and consistently fine performances by the thoroughbreds marked a season which ended with the champions remarkably defined in all divisions.

Challedon, owned by W. L. Brann of Baltimore, was the horse of the year, capturing both the three-year-old championship and the championship of the handicap division. Bimelech, sporting the famous green and white silks of Col. E. R. Bradley, was undoubtedly king of the juveniles. Winners of all six starts, this brilliant two-year-old earned $135,000 and in my opinion will be the horse to watch in 1940. Challedon was the biggest money winner of the year, earning $184,535.

In 17 out of 18 states, where thoroughbred racing is legal, $297,633,113 passed through the mutuel machines, an increase of almost $20,000,000 over 1938—the sharpest climb in a decade.

The year also was marked by the failure and eventual death of El Chico, which began his 1939 campaign as the Kentucky Derby favorite after winning the two-year-old title the previous year.

The purse for the 1940 Kentucky Derby has been increased from $50,000 to $75,000 added and there are indications that the crowd on May 4 may exceed the record breaking throng of some 80,000 spectators at last year's classic.

N. Y. YANKEES WILL STAND PAT

Babe Dahlgren Will Again Take His Place at First Base

New York, Jan. 16—(AP)—New York Yankees, like a poker player with a fistfull of aces, are going to stand pat.

And there is a suspicion that Manager Joe McCarthy's statement, "Naturally I plan to start the season with the same line-up I had last year" will bring joy to a lot of Yankee hearts—and to Ellsworth (Babe) Dahlgren's in particular. Joe made that remark yesterday while here to check over the Yanks' rookie list with President Edward Barrow.

Di Maggio, Selkirk, Keller, Gordon, Rolfe, Dickey, Ruffing, all appeared certain to start again where they left off last fall. The lone figure of first baseman Dahlgren seemed to be the exception.

Babe, who took over baseball's toughest job when he replaced Lou Gehrig last May, hadn't measured up to the rest of the Yankees at bat. Afield, he is almost perfection and has made the Yank infield again co-ordinated until almost without a defensive weakness.

But McCarthy's statement, plus the knowledge that Babe is seriously trying to improve his hitting by taking lessons from wise old Lefty O'Doul, means that the cavalcade of players who suddenly decided to become the Yanks' first baseman, can now go back to the bull pen or the bench.

McCarthy, in town for the first time since the series, also said he was not interested in anyone cut loose from Detroit via the landslide.

KID HE TUTORED MAY REPLACE HIM

Tony Cucinello, Second Baseman, May be Shifted to Make Room for Sebastian Sisti

Bradenton, Fla., Jan. 16.—(AP) —Tony Cuccinello, veteran infielder of the Boston Bees, may be replaced at second base by Sebastian Sisti, a kid he tutored. If he is, it'll be okay with Tony.

"Sisti is a great prospect", grinned Cuccinello as he arrived here for a few weeks vacation prior to the opening of the National Leaguers' Spring training camp.

"He's shown a lot of ability", continued Cuccinello. "He should develop into a great player. He's a great kid".

If Manager Casey Stengel should shift Tony to third to make way for the kid, then Tony won't mind.

"It's okay with me," he grinned again, "just so long as I have a job and can play baseball".

Tony, a "team player", spent many hours with Sisti here last Spring, showing the youngster the fine points of the game he had picked up in his years of play.

EDDIE SHORE ON LOAN

Boston, Jan. 16.—(AP)—Manager Art Ross, Boston Bruins announced today the "loan" of Eddie Shore, all-star hockey defenceman, to his own team, Springfield Indians of the International-American Hockey League, as a home-game player for the balance of the season.

Ross said the Bruins retained the right to recall Shore at any time to play in Boston home games or to take part in the Stanley Cup playoffs, but that Shore was assured he would not be recalled except in an emergency.

CALLING 'EM

Between the Lines

with
Ken J. Colling

WANTED — Two defencemen, qualifications accepted upon application, but hustle, hustle and don't get injured in the rush.

The above want ad wasn't exactly solicited nor will it be a paying notice, but from what street talk we hear, both the Belleville juniors and the Redmen would accept a defenceman without question.

The latest story to go the rounds is that Steve Hook, the New Hamburg hurdler and more recently with the local Quintes, sojourned to Toronto recently in search of employment and although he arrived back in town over the week-end, rumors have Stevie all but employed in the Queen City.

The other yarn going the rounds has George Filion no longer a resident of Trenton. 'Tis said George left Trenton last week and is not expected back any too soon. Actually we hope there is little truth to either of the above rumors, as the loss of either Filion or Hook would be a serious blow to the Redmen and the Quintes respectively. And getting back to free advertising, how about a little gainful employment for Leo Goyer, who is playing good hockey for the juniors, but out of work at present.

"Stew" Dunning, who is with Toots' Holway's senior Flyers, played hockey in the International League after graduating from St. Michael's College, the Kingston scribe says. Incidentally Dunning will be with the "birdmen" versus the Petes at the Hume Arena tonight. Out in Peterboro last Friday the veteran "Simon" Legris helped himself to a goal and two assists and also insists that the Petes are very much over-rated. However, from this lofty perch we must admit that any team to score 23 goals in two games against the Redmen and then the Flyers, must have something besides a bunch of old hockey sticks, but the Petes are far from the group title. It must be remembered that the "Flyers" are still busied trying to win their fourth consecutive Van Horne Memorial Cup series, but will take off time tonight to definitely show the Liftlock City pucksters that all isn't gold that glitters.

The second game in the Van Horne finals between the Flyers and the Queens seniors will be played in Kingston on Friday night giving the gaudy-clad "birdmen" ample rest between tonight's game with the Petes here and the Queens struggle. The Presbyterians, however, play Dartmouth in an International Intercollege game in Kingston on Thursday and then tie right into the Airmen the following night, a schedule which should favour Holway's charges in the Van Horne series at least. Bun Kingdon and Honey Tompkins, who paced the Petes last Friday night with four scoring points each will be marked men tonight by the Flyers' rearguard. Coach Holway gave his defencemen quite a verbal going over and it is likely Higgins, Cameron and Dryer will be handing out repeated stiff body-checks tonight. Of course Jopling and Crowe are apt pupils at the art of handing out punishing body checks so we're looking for a bruising affair this eve.

Although the Belleville Collegiate did not enter the hockey section of the C.O.S.S.A. at their recent group meeting here, we hear the Boys' Athletic Society may yet sponsor a senior interscholastic hockey team to play Albert College in the Bay of Quinte group. Physical Director George Laughlin felt that his puck-chasing B.C.I. students were getting ample hockey in the City Juvenile loop, but the kids themselves entertain other ideas and may finance a senior hockey team. Regarding basketball, however, the B.C.I. has entered two cage teams in the boys' section of the Bay of Quinte group of the C.O.S.S.A., a junior and an intermediate team, all of which reminds us that the E.O.B.A. opens here tonight with the Kingston "Y" at the Belleville "Y" The local hoopsters enjoyed a pre-season schedule of practice games versus the R.C.A.F. and should give a good account of their efforts against Bob Elliott and company tonight.

Do you remember when the largest individual prize ever won in a golf match was handed to Gene Sarazen at Agua Caliente 10 years ago today when he took first prize of $10,000 in an open event there?

The Red Sox have been reinforced by a big young battery from Minneapolis, Catcher George Lacy, who weighs 190 and stands six feet two, and Pitcher Herb Hash, who is half an inch shorter and weighs 185.

Toronto sport writers marvel at the New York Rangers' reflex power play. Actually what the Rangers do is exactly the opposite as would be expected when they are one man short owing to an imposed penalty. Instead of playing a "kitty-bar-the door" style of defence, the Rangers toss caution to the winds and launch a four-man attack against the opposition's five. The daring play netted the Rangers a goal when short-handed against the Maple Leafs on Saturday night. Actually Lester Patrick's charges barge right into the opposition's defence zone and applying plenty of power forget all about being short-handed and with driving force move to the attack. This reflex power play has proven itself practical, but doubtless needs much practice before being put into actual operation. Now that Toots Holway's Quintes have proven they possess ample scoring punch, we wonder if it would be practical to teach juniors this daring style of modern hockey?

The R.C.A.F. "Bees" ran into an abrupt snag at Gananoque last night when the Easterners ran up an 11 to 0 score on the Flyer seconds. Bill Hastie and Tabby Gow, who were with the Redmen for a short space of time this season, accounted for nine of Gananoque's goals. Hastie had five goals and five assists, while Gow notched four goals and two assists to complete quite a night's hockey effort. Incidentally the classy Gananoque "Combines," with players garnered from Kingston easterly to beyond Brockville, make their only appearance of the season here versus the Flyer "Bees" on Wednesday night. It might be a good idea to drop around and see what the Redmen lost in the Gow-Hastie combination. In the same loop Queen's beat Napanee 4-3 last night, so it begins to look as though the Gananoque entry will have a runaway of their group this year.

There are reports of a salary difference between Joe DiMaggio and the world champion Yankees ....Just a mere $10,000 difference but one must remember that DiMag has another mouth to feed now, having taken upon himself a life partner recently.... The Royal Canadian Artillery "Gunners" played hockey in England yesterday.

LITTLE SIDE BET DECIDED TONIGHT

Either Cain or Sands Will be Beneficiary Under the Terms

Montreal, Jan. 16—(CP)— The Government will be a winner tonight if either manager Art Ross of Boston Bruins or President Ernest Savard of Montreal Canadiens has to pay off on a little side bet of the National Hockey League clash between their clubs.

It all goes back to before the start of the N.H.L. schedule when Canadiens swapped Herbie Cain, with them a season after a long stretch with Montreal Maroons, for Charlie Sands of the Bruins. Both Savard and Ross claim to have come off best in the trade.

Oddly, both Sands and Cain have scored 18 points apiece so far but Herbie has a great edge in the matter of goals. He has collected 13 and has helped in five, while Sands has reversed these figures.

Anyhow, if Cain scores a goal tonight Canadiens—through Savard and Manager Jules Dugal— have agreed to buy him a Canadian war loan bond. The same goes for Sands only in this case the Boston club will be the buyer. Nothing was said about what would happen if neither scored or if Cain goes on a scoring rampage as he did recently against Toronto Maple Leafs and nets four.

The Line-ups for Tonight's Game

Smarting under a 9 to 5 defeat at the hands of the Peterboro' intermediates as of last week, Toots Holway's R.C.A.F. "Fliers" meet the Petes in the initial appearance of the Liftlock City puck sextette at the Hume Arena tonight. The "birdmen" have promised themselves sweet revenge at the expense of the Petes, but it is generally conceded the Buckland-coached puck chasers from along the shores of the Otonabee River play steady hockey in Belleville.

With Army Armstrong as referee the teams will line-up as follows tonight:—

Fliers: Goal, Gibson; defence, Cameron and Higgins; centre, Legris; wings, Baldwin and McNab; alternates, Dunning, Irwin, Dryer, McLeod, Gathercole and Lemieux.

Petes: Goal, Harding; defence, Jopling and Crowe; centre, Kingdon; wings, Tompkins and Blewett; alternates, Ellis, Gardner, Stass, Coughlin, Neal and [illegible]

HEATING HINTS

by James Stewart

"KEEP the turn damper on your furnace as nearly closed as possible at all times," is a heating rule which I frequently emphasize. But there are exceptions to every rule and the exception to this one is in the case of the Hot Air Furnace. This type of furnace is of slightly different construction than the Steam or Hot Water Boiler and therefore requires different treatment.

With a Hot Air Furnace you will find it advantageous to open the turn damper wide when you are shaking the grates or putting on fresh coal. Opening the turn damper during these operations permits any dust or gas to immediately pass up the chimney. It is most important, however, that the turn damper be put back in its nearly closed position as soon as the shaking and refueling is completed.

In this connection you will find it helpful to mark the normal position of the turn damper on the smoke pipe. It will then be an easy matter to close the turn damper to exactly the same position that it was in before shaking and firing. (1

JAPANESE GOV'T NOW INSTALLED

Yonai States Cabinet Will Continue Policy of His Predecessor

Tokyo, Jan. 16 (AP).—A new Japanese government under Admiral Mitsumasa Yonai was installed today at the Imperial Palace.

The new premier declared his cabinet would continue generally the foreign policy of his predecessor, General Nobuyuki Abe, emphasizing settlement of problems with the United States and Great Britain while seeking friendship with Soviet Russia.

Yonai said that "in dealing with foreign relations, Japan must act independently of others, and primary consideration must be given to the position of Japan herself."

Domei, Japanese News Agency, said the cabinet postponed for ten days the reopening of the diet scheduled for Jan. 22.

TWEED DOWNS MADOC 10-3

Tweed, Jan. 16 (Special)—Tweed scored another win at the arena on Monday night defeating Madoc by the one-sided score of 10 to 3, scoring two goals in each of the first two periods and running in six more in the last frame. Elsbury collected six points with five goals and an assist. Storms, a newcomer made himself solid with the fans by his clever playmaking, scoring twice and having three assists.

Tweed Opens Scoring

Tweed opened the scoring when Wagar an up and coming youngster batted in Tummon's rebound. The lead was short-lived however as Keller whose all-around play at centre was a feature beat Reeves. Play was ragged owing to sticky ice which nullified attempts at combination. Elsbury from Wagar produced the second goal for the locals. Again Madoc tied things up when Stewart scored while Tummon was serving the only penalty of the period.

The ice improved as play progressed with Tweed having a decided edge in the play. Elsbury from Storms broke the deadlock shortly after the second period opened. Storms added to the total when he scored on a solo effort. Martin in the visitors' goal played great hockey as did Reeves in the locals' net.

Homesters Score Easily

Tweed ran wild in the final period, scoring six goals while holding the visitors to a single counter. Elsbury and Storms accounted for four of the goals with the former netting three of them on passes from Storms. This pair was easily the best on the ice. A. Courneya, High School player scored on a pass from Tummon and set up a goal for Wagar. Lerone scored for the visitors.

The lineups:

Madoc: Goal, Martin; defence, Embury and Stewart; centre, Keller; wings, Akey and Hayworth; subs, Gilman, Lerone, McGibbon, Hallstone.

Tweed: Goal, Reeves; defence, Tummon and Woodcock; centre, Wagar; wings, Elsbury and Storms; subs, Leal, A. Courneya, Long, Orr, Marsh.

Referees: J. Watson, Madoc; J. Quinn, Tweed.

AT THE McCARTHY

"Tower of London"

For those who like history in all its realism "Tower of London", now playing at the McCarthy Theatre, will bring immense satisfaction. Hollywood has taken another piece of English history and made it live on the screen in all its medieval beauty and horror.

The story centres around the life of the famous royal "Crookback" whose ambition finally brought him to the throne as Richard III. His skilful plotting and ruthless methods are dramatised by a secret theatre of puppets representing the king and the line of succession. As each one of the five who stand between Richard and the Throne are eliminated the puppet figure is tossed by Richard into the fire, until at last the sixth puppet attains the throne as Richard III.

Death by the executioner's axe, by dagger, poison and smothering, and death in battle punctuate a gripping picture. The murder of the two royal princes in the Tower provide a climax to the death intrigue.

Through it all runs a tender love story of John Wyatt and the Queen's lady-in-waiting who run the gamut of royal disfavour, imprisonment, torture, and finally bring about Richard's downfall and death by enlisting the aid of Henry of Navarre.

Basil Rathbone gives a fine characterization of Richard, while Boris Karloff portrayed the sinister figure of the Tower who was the instrument of torture and death. A fine cast gave them able support, even to taking realistic cracks on the head in the battle scenes.

AT THE CAPITOL

"Destry Rides Again."

One of the most imposing casts of the season, headed by Marlene Dietrich and James Stewart, will be seen in Universal's "Destry Rides Again", next at the Capitol Theatre.

Miss Dietrich in the role of a belle of the old west, and Stewart in the title role, appear with a host of important players including Charles Winninger, Mischa Auer, Brian Donlevy, Irene Hervey, Una Merkel, Allan Jenkins, Warren Hymer, Samuel S. Hinds, Billy Gilbert and many others.

For her newest role, Miss Dietrich portrays a gusty frontier entertainer, a character that contrasts sharply with her recent screen appearances. She sings, dances, fights and makes love in typical western fashion, and she rolls her own cigarettes.

James Stewart has the first outdoor role of his career and one that logically follows his outstanding performance in "Mr. Smith Goes to Washington."

Joe Pasternak, the man responsible for all the Deanna Durbin and Gloria Jean successes, is the producer of "Destry Rides Again".

AT THE BELLE

"Ninotchka"

Garbo sings, Garbo dances and Garbo laughs in her first picture in two years and her first venture into sophisticated modern romantic comedy. The picture is "Ninotchka," in which the Swedish star comes next to the Belle Theatre.

Teamed with Melvynn Douglas, who also played opposite her in "As You Desire Me," Garbo was directed by Ernst Lubitsch. Many whimsical "Lubitsch touches" enliven the story.

Garbo plays a stern Soviet commissar sent to Paris by the Russian government to sell a noblewoman's conficated jewels. The noblewoman and a French count fight the deal in court. Garbo and the count fall in love. The noblewoman manoeuvers to get Garbo back to Russia but the count manoeuvers to have her sent to Constantinople where they are married.

Ina Claire plays Garbo's love rival, Bela Lugosi is seen as the stern chief commissar and the picture introduces a new comedy trio in Felix Bressart, Sig Rumann and Alexander Granach, as three Russian commissars "gone Paris." Other players include Gregory Gaye, Rolfe Sedan, Edwin Maxwell and Richard Carle.

Garbo dances ultra modern swing with Douglas, sings a French chansonette with the three commissars and introduces a new "Garbo" hat to the world of fashion.

The story abounds in brilliant dialogue, and Garbo learned a hundred per cent more lines than in any of her previous pictures for her first ultra-modern role in some years. It has long been her ambition to play in this type of story.

"The Roaring Twenties"

High tension, hair trigger, thrills and romance abound in the gripping Warner Bros. drama, "The Roaring Twenties," now being presented at the Belle with lovely Priscilla Lane, James Cagney, Humphrey Bogart in the leading roles. Three famous hit songs are revived in the film, "Melancholy Baby," "It Had to be You" and "Just a Memory."

The Belle News of the Day and a clever Merrie Melody cartoon precede the feature attraction.

HOW TO OVERCOME ITCHING PILES

If you are annoyed with itching piles or rectal soreness, do not neglect the same or run the risk of an operation. Any itching, soreness or painful passage of stool, is nature's warning and proper treatment should be secured at once. For this purpose get from J. S. McKeown or any druggist, a package of Hemroid and use as directed. This formula, which is used internally, quickly relieves the itching and soreness and aids in healing the sore, tender spots. Hemroid is highly recommended, is easy to use and it seems the height of folly for anyone to risk an operation when a simple remedy, which is so pleasant to use may be had at such a reasonable cost.

Youths Sent Home

Four local youths in the habit of making a hangout of a Dundas Street eatery were asked early Sunday morning by police to go home. The boys did not obey the police officer and returned to their favourite haunt but heeded the second warning.

Prowler Steals Baby's Bank

Victor Armstrong, Murphy Street, reported to Trenton Police that a prowler had entered his home and taken a child's bank containing about ninety coppers. A gold locket belonging to his wife was also stolen. Armstrong told the night sergeant that he was awakened by his wife who heard the prowler but the suspect had left the house before he got around. A thorough search of the town did not uncover any clues but authorities are satisfied that this incident can be linked with several of a similar nature which have been investigatied in the past week. A man stopped by police earlier in the morning is suspected, but apparently he made a clean get-away as he has never been seen since.

HOW MUCH CAN A MAN ENDURE?

You'll live one man's agony of suspense when you tune in "The Family Man" tonight. Was the doctor right to operate? Will little David ever walk again? Will Lucy come for a visit? Don't miss this vital human drama of a kindly doctor and his motherless family. Be with "The Family Man" tonight as he faces the responsibility of a great decision.

Mr. and Mrs. Norman Fox were at Wellington on Wednesday.

Marmora

Marmora— The weekly card party at the Separate School on Friday evening was marked by a good attendance. The prize winners were for euchre, Miss Margeurite Doyle and Mr. Richard Maloney, the bridge by Mrs. L. P. Hughes. Bingo was played and after lunch dancing was enjoyed with Harold Auger and John McAvoy furnishing music.

A miscellaneous shower was tendered Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Holland in the White Hall on Friday evening with relatives and friends from Madoc Township joining those in the village in an enjoyable function. The newlyweds were the recipients of many useful gifts. Mr. Holland responded on behalf of both to the address which was read. Dancing was the order of the evening with Charles Campion and Bert Houri furnishing the music. Refreshments were served near midnight.

Quite a number of residents of Marmora and Deloro attended the miscellaneous shower tendered Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Robertson at Blairton on Friday evening.

Madoc Junction

Friends were sorry to learn that Mr. Clinton Juby was taken seriously ill Monday night. He was removed to Belleville Hospital for treatment.

The January meeting of the Sunday School Executive was held on Wednesday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. R. Chambers.

Little Joyce Woodward and Donna Stapley have both been ill but are much improved.

Mr. and Mrs. George Eggleton visited Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Eggleton of Stirling on Sunday.

Eggleton W.M.S. and W. A.

On Thursday, Jan. 11th a dinner was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Russell Stapley. A good number attended and a nice sum was realized.

During the afternoon the regular January meeting of the Eggleton W.M.S. and W. A. was held. After the opening hymn, Mrs. Raymond Chambers led in prayer and the Scripture lesson, Psalm 19 was read by Miss Marion McMullen. Minutes and roll call were given by Mrs. W. Harlow, showing eleven members and two visitors present.

Business period followed and it was decided that W.M.S. members have holiday bags and mission band members have mite boxes.

A schedule of meetings for the year was made out with home where meeting would be held and convener to arrange program.

Officers were elected for Red Cross work:

President, Mrs. Sam Danford; Secretary, Mrs. Harry Clarke; Treasurer, Mrs. Mina Wilson.

A dinner will be held soon at Mrs. Mina Wilson's to raise money for supplies.

Mrs. Bert Reid read a "New Year" poem, showing how as we step into the New Year we must leave behind all our doubts, fears, failures and unkind thoughts and keep with us hope, courage and kindness.

Miss Lenora Stapley sang an appropriate solo, "My Cathedral."

A splendid reading "Words" was given by Mrs. R. Chambers. Words have so much power we should be very careful how, when and where they are spoken.

Following this Mrs. W. Harlow gave a missionary reading on the need of more visiting nurses in the sparsely settled districts of our great northwest.

A piano solo "Gospel Bells," played by Mrs. Russell Stapley was greatly enjoyed.

Meeting closed with the hymn "All the Way My Saviour Leads Me" and repeating the Mizpah benediction.

Madoc

Madoc— The annual meeting of the Girls' Branch of St. John's Woman's Auxiliary was held at the home of Miss Jean Phillips. Devotions were conducted by the rector, Rev. Mr. Pepperf and in the absence of the president the business part of the meeting was conducted by the rector. Annual reports were read and the election of officers for 1940 was held with the officers of last year being re-elected. Delightful refreshments were served by the hostess and much enjoyed by all. The next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Bonny.

Members of Stirling Lodge I.O.OF.., No. 239 paid a fraternal visit to Madoc I.O.O.F. Lodge on Wednesday night. Under the direction of Degree Master Bro. Henry Farrell conferred the second degree on a candidate at the conclusion of lodge, refreshments were served in the banquet hall. Picture of the Royal Tour and the Rexall Tour were shown. Those attending from Stirling were Messrs. H. E. Hulin, E. Carlisle, W. Farrell, Roy Walker, N. E. Eggleton, Walter Warren, Thomas Spry, W. L. Anderson, W. H. Patterson, Roy Finkle, A. Vanervoort, E. T. Ward, H. Ashley, George Weaver, Roy Thrasher, J. B. Thompson, Earl Fry, Alex Park, Chas. Carter and Fred Martin.

89TH BATTERY IN BRANTFORD

Brantford, Ont., Jan. 16—(CP) —A pet bear as a mascot, 115 men of the 89th battery of the Royal Canadian Artillery from Fredericton, N.B., arrived here Monday and took over barracks vacated by the 54th Battery, now overseas with the First Canadian Active Service Force Division.

Major J. M. Boyer, officer commanding, and seven officers led the men off the train and later a veterans' band, war veterans and civic officials greeted the Battery.

DEAF MUTE GIVES HIMSELF UP

Chicago, Jan. 16—(AP)—Charles R. Anderson, 35, didn't say a word but Detective Ben Bazarek had his okay for putting him in jail. Anderson went to a police station to inquire why his friend Harry Luft was being held. Bazarek told him, and then Anderson, a deaf mute, handed the officer a note which read: "If Luft is locked up for passing b m cheques, I ought to be locked up, too, because I helped him."

DREAM STORY UNCONVINCING

Salt Lake City, Jan. 16—(AP)—H. H. Thomas told Judge Albert Ellett he dreamed the hotel where he was a guest caught fire. He got out his camera—in the dream—and when the flashbulb went off he woke up to find he had knocked out two windows. The landlady said the broken windows were no dream. Judge Ellett sentenced Thomas to 10 days in jail for destroying property.

SUFFERS FRACTURE IN FALL

Port Hope, Ont., Jan. 16 (CP) — Mrs. N. E. Mitchell, John street, suffered a fractured left leg when she fell on the street Monday. She lay helpless for some time before a passerby came upon her and summoned medical aid. Examination at hospital revealed the fracture. Later the injured limb was put in a cast and Mrs. Mitchell was removed home.

FIRE UNDER CONTROL

Tokyo, Jan. 16. — (AP)— Fire which left a great section of the City of Shizouka in ruins was under control today. Eight thousand homes and business buildings in the centre were destroyed in the blaze which left two known dead and 50,000 homeless. Insurance companies estimated their loss at between 20,000,000 and 30,000,000 yen ($4,700,000 to $5,800,000).

WALL STREET

New York, Jan. 16 (AP)—Faint rallying tendencies were displayed by leading stocks in today's market although numerous issues were still inclined to linger in a rut. Near the fourth hour improvement was mainly confined to small fractions. Scattered gains ran to a point or so.

Bonds were mixed and commodities irregularly lower. Foreign markets were about steady.

Among supported stocks were U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, Chrysler, General Motors, Boeing, Consolidated Edison, Sears Roebuck, Goodrich, U.S. Gypsum, Westinghouse and Kennecott.

Canadian issues were generally improved. Lake Shores Mines, Hiram Walker, Distillers Seagram and Canadian Pacific improved fractions while Dome Mines, McIntyre and in the bond market, Canada 4s held unchanged.

TORONTO STOCKS

Toronto, Jan. 16.— (CP)— On Toronto Exchange today buying demand showed no pick-up in the early session and a dribble of realizing put prices down narrowly in all groups but the golds. Brokerage circles forecast continuance of dullness till after the war loan has been cleaned up. Only 152,000 shares changed hands in the first three hours.

Steels, Papers, Foods and Beverages were narrowly lower and the Senior Oils Banks and Miscellaneous issues were inclined to firmness. Action in the golds bulked in the penny list, with prices showing no changes greater than 5 cents. Adjustments were similarly narrow in the Base Metal group but for a loss of 17 cents for Sudbury Basin.

Home Oil, Calgary and Edmonton and Brown were off slightly and other western oils were steady.

Picton Resident Pleads Guilty To Car Theft

London, Ont., Jan. 16—(CP) — Pleading guilty to car theft, Harold B. Miller, 40, of Picton, Ont., was remanded a week for investigation by City Magistrate D. B. Menzies today. He told the court his wife and daughter lived in Kingston, Ont., (41 Elm Street).

Miller sold to a local auto wrecker a car on which a $50 lien was held by the Trudeau Motor Sales, of Belleville. He bought the car last summer for $125.

Detective-Sergt. W. J. McCullough testified that Miller's suspicious actions, including his failure to produce the ownership to the auto, led to his arrest.

Eggs Recover Fractionally

Toronto, Jan. 16—With trading quiet on the Toronto open produce market yesterday, egg prices advanced slightly, butter recorded fractional losses.

Dealers reported that brisker trading at the week-end had cleared up quite a quantity of the supplies which had accumulated in last week's slow trading. Consequently there was a good tone to yesterday's market. Reflecting this feeling, A-large eggs firmed to 21 1-2c, A-medium to 20c, Grade B to 19c and Grade C to 18c. Trading was on the light side.

The butter market was very quiet and draggy, with buyers showing little interest in offerings. Holders, however, did not appear to be trying to force sales. First-grade Ontario solids eased to a nominal price range of 27 1-4c to 27 1-2c.

Montreal Produce

Montreal, Jan. 16—Produce market prices here reported by the Dominion Department of Agriculture follow:

Butter — First grade creamery prints, jobbing price, 29c; first grade solids, jobbing price, 28 1-2c.

Eggs—Graded shipments in used free cases, selling price, A-large, 22 1-2c to 23c; A-medium, 21c; A-pullets, 20c; B-large and C, not quoted. Receipts, 755 cases.

GREEK STEAMER GOES AGROUND

Radioes From Bermuda Boat Has "Big Damage" and Water in Engine Room

New York, Jan. 16—(AP)—The 4,291-ton Greek freighter Pelinaion, formerly the K. Ktistakis, radioed today she was aground off St. Davitts, Bermuda, with "big damage" and water in her hold and engine room.

The coast guard here said it picked up this message from the tramp vessel:—

"Big damage. Engine room and hold full of water. Position bad, weather bad."

Coast guardsmen said the message was sent to Station VRT in Bermuda and they assumed British ships had gone to the rescue.

The ship's identity was not learned at first because the message was signed with her former name. Built in England in 1907, the 350-foot craft has recently been in the coal trade. She once was named the Hillglen.

29 of Crew Rescued

Hamilton, Bermuda, Jan. 16 — (CP Cable)—Twenty nine crew members of the Greek freighter Pelinaion, 2,777 tons, were landed today after their ship grounded near Cooper's Island, off Bermuda.

Several others remained aboard in anticipation of an attempt to refloat the vessel. She was believed bound for Baltimore with a cargo of ore.

BREACH WIDENING

Norwegian anti-aircraft guns were fired at some of the planes Sunday near Kirkenes, on the extreme northern border of Norway and Finland.

Observers from Kirkenes reported that Russian tanks and trucks were moving in great numbers on the Finnish side of the line yesterday between Salmijaervi and Hoyhenjaervi, 30 and 60 miles south of the Arctic Coast, respectively.

Traffic Moving Both Ways

They said the fact that the traffic was moving both ways might mean that replacements were being made for a renewed Russian offensive in that region.

Warfare in Finland was confined largely to the Russian bombing campaign. More than 20 cities were bombed yesterday.

The newest Russian criticism came too late for editorial comment, but the papers generally took a firm stand in favor of continuing unofficial aid to the Finns.

The Moscow broadcast said Sweden was reducing her public works program, promising high pay for volunteers, and taking other steps to get the unemployed to enlist in the Finnish army.

Sympathy Natural

The Copenhagen newspaper Berlingske Tidende said the Swedish and Norwegian replies to Russia "expressed the interpretation and feeling which is the entire north's opinion".

The replies denied violations of neutrality, said any aid for Finland was of a private nature, and that sympathy for Finland was natural.

In Stockholm, the Dagens Nyheter said, "Finland's struggle for liberty never can leave the Northern States indifferent"; and the NYA Dagligt Allehanda observed, "we must prepare for all eventualities".

FOUR BUSY WEEKS

quainted with each other and get into better physical condition through sports and physical training.

First School Opens

First of these schools has been chosen, the property formerly the Eglinton Hunt Club in Toronto. Buildings are now being altered to accommodate 500 pupils.

Some details of what the recruits will undergo in the way of introductory training were made public today by the director of the air training plan, Air Vice-Marshal G. M. Croil, Canadian Chief of Air Staff and head of the Royal Canadian Air Force.

Recruits will have daily periods of physical training to improve their bearing and general physical condition. They will receive lectures on such subjects as air force law, theory of flight, aerial fighting, military regulations, and perhaps some military strategy. The boys will learn the rudiments of air navigation, a brief introduction to wireless and bombing.

Experience Sensation of Flying

They will fire machine guns and experience some of the sensations of flying by sitting in the cockpit of a link trainer, an ingenious model with full size controls but stubby wings and rudder. The controls of the Link Trainer cause the machine to bank, turn, climb or dive just as a full-size aircraft would do.

The daily program of a recruit will be a heavy one, but full of interest. Recruits rise at six a.m., have a half hour in which to make their beds and dress before breakfast, and then may rest until 7:15 a.m. Then follows 30 minutes physical training, with another rest until eight a.m. when the daily grind of lectures and instruction really begins.

Classes End at Five

Lunch is from noon until 1:30 p.m., with the afternoon spent in such practical work as instruction on the mysteries of engines, aircraft, and the various skilled trades. The day's classes end at five p.m., and supper is served at 5:15 p.m. The men parade again at 7:15 p.m. for such organized sports as box lacrosse, badminton, indoor baseball, field hockey and basketball. Recruits must turn in at 10:15 p.m. Every recruit is entitled to one evening a week for recreation of his own choosing.

Natural aptitudes of the recruits will be carefully watched at the initial training school, for it is there that their future course will be determined. Those found suitable for flying aircraft will be sent on to flying schools to learn how to fly. Others will go to study as observers, gunners, bombers or wireless operators.

57 PER CENT.

Indication of the popularity of the issue among small investors was the report of one agent who had 343 orders averaging $5,000 each.

Outstanding among the larger subscriptions announced today was one from the Canada Life Assurance Company for $4,000,000. The City of Toronto applied for $1,500,000.

Heavy Subscribers

Insurance companies, Trust companies, Distillers, Manufacturers and Municipal Sinking funds were heavy subscribers. There were numerous large orders from wealthy private citizens.

Canadian branches of United States companies figured largely in the subscription list, including Imperial Oil, S. S. Kresge Company, William Wrigley Jr., Company, Kelvinator of Canada and others.

The books opened at nine a.m. yesterday and by early evening reports from loan dealers across Canada indicated the loan has been received enthusiastically.

Finance Minister Ralston said he was exceptionally pleased with the result of the loan drive and was particularly gratified by the response from subscribers of modest means.

"It is this type of distribution of the bonds which will make the issue of this loan an unqualified success," he said, "and the books of the loan will remain open as long as possible to ensure that purchasers of small amounts of bonds are given the opportunity to do their bit in this war on the economic front."

The subscriptions during the first day for the 12-year, 3 1-4 per cent interest bonds ranged from $3,000,000 down to the modest investments of ordinary wage earners.

Want $200,000,000 in Cash

The Finance Department and the Bank of Canada made no announcement concerning the extent to which holders of three per cent Dominion of Canada bonds maturing next March 1 have been offering for conversion. Such bonds may be converted at par for the new bonds but the $200,000,000 specifically offered is for cash subscriptions.

Among the large subscriptions were Mutual Life Assurance Company of Canada $3,000,000, London Life Assurance Company $2,500,000 and T. Eaton Company $1,500,000. Dozens of subscriptions were for more than $100,000 and hundreds were about $10,000.

Employees in many concerns grouped together to purchase the bonds and in several cities employers extended help to employees to participate in the loan by offering to deduct amounts from their weekly pay cheques.

UNDINE, STARFISH

The action was said to have taken place yesterday.

The communique said that "on the western front, no special events" occurred.

The Starfish, with a normal complement of forty men, was a seagoing type of submarine completed in 1933, with a surface displacement of 640 tons, according to Jane's fighting ships.

The Undine, a coastal type with a normal crew of 27, was of 540 surface tons, completed in September, 1938.

Each was equipped with six 21-inch torpedo tubes.

A month ago the British Admiralty announced successes for two submarines in German waters, the Salmon and the Ursula, sisterships respectively of the Starfish and the Undine.

The Salmon sank a German submarine Dec. 12, let the German merchant liner Bremen pass the same day rather than attack her without warning, and the next day struck the 6,000-ton cruiser Leipzig and another German cruiser with torpedoes.

The Ursula was credited with sinking a German cruiser of the Koeln class Dec. 14.

Paris, Jan. 16 (CP-Havas). — A French naval announcement today credited the French navy with having seriously damaged or possibly destroyed a German submarine in the past few days.

A German freighter, identified as the "Janus", was scuttled by her crew to avoid capture by the French, it was added.

The enemy submarine was attacked by a French patrol boat. While there was no conclusive evidence to prove it had been destroyed, the French Admiralty expressed certainty it had been at least seriously damaged.

Only the testimony of survivors or the discovery of wreckage is considered adequate proof a submarine has been sunk, the spokesman said. Even the appearance of heavy oil patches is not accepted.

Premier Daladier, speaking before parliament recently, said the French navy had destroyed at least ten U-boats.

CONCRETE MEANS

"Britain must be certain the zone would not be used to deprive the allies of their fruits of superiority at sea," the note declared. It observed that "it would be necessary to intern" German merchant ships in American harbors if Britain is to forego the opportunity of capturing the vessels.

The note was in reply to a protest against violation of the zone delivered by Panama as representative of the republics after the Dec. 13 battle between three British cruisers and the German pocket battleship Admiral Graf Spee off the coast of Uruguay. The Graf Spee was intercepted by the British vessels as she was shadowing the French merchantman Foremose.

Must Be United.

Professor Charles Fenwick, United States representative on the committee, said he did not propose that American republics "fight for the right to be neutral", but declared that belligerents could be kept out if the republics united on means of enforcing the zone.

In line with this, President Getulio Vargas of Brazil told the opening session yesterday that the Americas expected belligerents to "respect" the zone established at Panama last October by the inter-American conference.

Dr. Oswald Aranha, Brazilian foreign minister, said the committee would proceed on the keynote that "if European nations have the right to establish a war zone, then American nations have as much right as European nations to insist upon respect."

Proposals to Enforce Zone

It was understood that Uruguay delegates had asked the committee for an expression of opinion on the internment of the crew of the German freighter Tacoma on the grounds it served as a supply ship to the Admiral Graf Spee before the warship was blown up off Montevideo on December 17.

The committee, consisting of seven experts named by the Pan-American Union governing body, had for consideration in its closed session today the following proposals to enforce the zone:

1. An agreement of the republics to prevent belligerent warships from obtaining supplies or making ship repairs in Pan-American ports after they had committed acts of war inside their zone.
2. An agreement to prevent merchant ships from taking supplies from Pan-American ports to belligerent ships inside the zone.
3. An accord to ban submarines from entering Pan-American waters.
4. Co-ordination of interpretations of international law relating to neutrality into a Pan-American neutrality code.

Hitler Would be Pleased

London, Jan. 16 (CP)—The Daily Mail predicted editorially today that Adolf Hitler would jump at the chance to accept a 300-mile "safety zone" around the Americas as proposed by the Pan-American conference.

Commenting upon Great Britain's refusal to recognise the zone as outlined at present, the paper said such a "'safety-belt' around the American continents would be a life-belt for Hitler—that is the British reply to the Pan-American protest against infringement of the belt.

"It is questionable whether such a zone can be legally declared. The first condition—as in the case of a blockade—would be the possession of means to enforce it," the paper said. "And of course, the American countries could not possibly maintain an effective patrol over so vast an area.

"The protest arose over the battle of the River Plata. That action clearly broke the peace of the 'safety-belt'. But it followed the sinking by the Graf Spee of British merchant vessels well within the 300 mile limit. Is Britain to hand her naval superiority over to Hitler on a plate?

Cannot Throw Away Weapon

"Clearly, she cannot throw away a weapon without which she could not win the war. So argues the British note—unanswerable, the Americans may well think.

"It paints a picture of a sanctuary crammed with German warships and with German merchant ships earning foreign exchange to 'promote subversions and sabotage abroad.' That phrase will be noted by the United States.

"Outside the zone, the British fleet would lurk impotently, a victim of hit-and-run raids but unable to pursue the enemy and engage him.

"Hitler would jump at the chance. But it is not a situation which American countries could welcome. As the British reply points out, the Royal Navy does not imperil, but rather contributes to American safety. The whole argument is academic. It raises no live issue and is not likely to have any effect upon the war at sea."

HIGHER SURPLUS EARNINGS FOR MUTUAL LIFE OF CANADA IN 1939.

Preliminary figures on the year's operations just released by The Mutual Life of Canada at the conclusion of seventy years of business show continued progress during 1939. The Company has maintained an unbroken record of growth in insurance in force since its establishment in 1869.

New insurance written during the past year amounted to $45,525,000 in past year amounted to $45,525,000 (excluding annuities and re-1938, while insurance in force increased by $13,010,000 to a total of $572,110,000.

NO CONFLICT

Mr. Stanley left the House after the question hour and was not present when Mr. Hore-Belisha rose to make his personal statement. The resigned minister was given an ovation.

No Conflict of Policy, Says Hore-Belisha

Discussing the reasons for his resignation, Mr. Hore-Belisha defended his co-workers in the army, declaring "I am reluctant to believe that any of the high officers with whom I have been associated would have been so unfaithful to the code which imbues the whole army as to make any representations irregularly, or that if he had done so it would have been countenanced."

The former minister said there had been, " so far as I know, no conflict of policy with any of my colleagues."

The Prime Minister must be free to make appointments as he sees fit, Mr. Hore-Belisha continued.

"His reasons may or may not commend themselbes," he said. "I declined the Board of Trade post because I could not feel assurance that the consideration which had persuaded the Prime Minister to make the change would allow of my energetic discharge, in the national interest, of the other office."

Mr. Chamberlain, following the resigned minister, told the House he had not heard of any serious difference of opinion between Mr. Hore-Belisha and the army council or any member of it, and no serving officer at any time ever had said one word to him which was inconsistent with his duty to his ministerial chief.

No Change in Army Policy Anticipated

He declared no change in army policy wa to be anticipated in consequence of the change.

"It is natural to human nature," said the Prime Minister, "that changes which affect personalities, particularly when those personalities are as vigorous and well known as that of my right honorable friend, should attract sympathies and interests in an exceptional degree.

"There was no difference of policy between my right honorable friend and his colleagues. It ought to have been obvious that the resignation could not be connected with the reforms which had taken place because the cabinet shared the responsibility."

Denying he was faced with the alternative of releasing the minister or receiving the resignations of officers holding high rank, Mr. Chamberlain said "that story is pure invention from beginning to end."

Did Not Wish to Lose Hore-Belisha

"I did not wish to lose my Right Honorable friend," Mr. Chamberlain went on, "and, therefore, I offered him another very important post x x x I much regretted his decision but I respect it and do not make any complaint. x x x

"I judge all matters by one criterion alone—whether they will or will not contribute toward the early and successful conclusion of the war."

He said that in war time it was essential that the machinery of government should work with a maximum of efficiency and a minimum of friction.

There was some commotion from the opposition benches and shouts of "put it all on the table!" and "why don't you change yourself?" when the Prime Minister said:

"To make changes among his colleagues is often the most distasteful of all the duties that fall on the Prime Minister. If the man holding his office had to make public all his reasons for making a change it would be impossible to make any changes at all."

An indication that the change had been contemplated for some time before it was made was contained in Mr. Chamberlain's statement that he had been aware of difficulties but "I thought the changes could best be effected when I had to make other changes at the same time."

Progress of War Reviewed

Reviewing the progress of the war, Mr. Chamberlain made the following points:—

1. Export of war materials to Finland had been authorized and, although it was not in the public interest to give particulars, the amounts involved were "substantial."

2. Economic and financial agreements between Turkey, France and Great Britain were signed at Paris Jan. 8 and provided for a 25,000,000 pounds ($111,250,000) loan to Turkey for the purchase of armaments.

3. The position of Belgium and Holland is "not inenviable" and "they are undoubtedly wise to neglect no measure which may contribute to their security."

Mediterranean Spared

4. "The Mediterranean area has happily been spared so far the suffering and horror inseparable from war. I trust that this will long continue."

5. "While there are as yet no definite indications that might warrant any optimistic forecast of a peaceful settlement in the near future, we have welcomed the recent action by the Japanese Government in the direction of relaxing some of the restrictions which have from time to time caused difficulty and tension in relations with the third powers."

When Mr. Chamberlain sat down, Opposition spokesmen made brief references to the Hore-Belisha resignation.

Attlee's View

Clement Attlee, Labor Leader, asserted the War Cabinet was organized on a wrong basis and should not be composed of busy Department Ministers.

He said it was difficult for anyone outside the Government to form a judgment on the merits of the Hore-Belisha matter and it was a case where the Prime Minister must take the responsibility.

Sir Archibald Sinclair, Liberal Leader, said the personal fortunes of Ministers from Mr. Chamberlain down did not matter. The only thing that counted, he said, was "vigorous prosecution of the war."

Plans for Ice Carnival Discussed by Y's Men

Mr. H. Vaughan, President of the Y's Men's Club addressed the meeting last evening on the annual ice carnival which the club is sponsoring and which is being presented in the interests of the Victorian Order of Nurses and the Y's Men's Club. Outstanding skaters from the Minto Club, Ottawa, and several splendid acts from the Toronto Skating Club will be feature attractions and the annual Public School relay race will be held. The entire Arena will be beautifully decorated for the occasion, the Commodores will play for the artists and it is expected that the carnival, on Jan. 26, will be one of the major events of the winter season. The sale of tickets is most encouraging and the Ice Carnival of 1940 promises to be a complete success.

At the conclusion of the meeting refreshments were served the members and visitors.

1840 LEAP YEAR RECALLED

London, Jan. 16. (CP) With the reopening of parliament, Britons recalled that Queen Victoria opened a session 100 years ago today with the announcement that she would marry Prince Albert Save-Coburg-Gotha. That was a leap year, too, and the Queen herself offered marriage because the prince, "would never have presumed to take the liberty" of proposing to a queen.

They were married Feb. 10, 1840.

$100,000 WORLD'S FAIR QUINTS OFFER REFUSED BY RED CROSS

WAR BRIEFS

London, Jan. 16 (AP).—A salvo of bombs from a Royal Air Force plane was believed today to have sunk a German submarine in the North Sea. An official announcement last night said the plane swooped over the undersea craft as it was submerging and after the bombing a tell-tale patch of grease and bubbles arose.

Paris, Jan. 16 (CP-Havas). — Lr. Stanislaw Estreicher, former Polish professor who in October rejected a German offer to make him president of a Polish protectorate, died Dec. 28 in the Sachsenhausen concentration camp at Oranienburg, near Berlin, a well-informed Polish source said today. Prof. Jan Sajdak, noted Polish historian, also was reported to have died in jail.

London, Jan. 16 (CP).—Princesses Elizabeth and Margaret Rose returned to Buckingham Palace today for the first time since before the war. They came here from Sandringham House with their father and mother.

Las Angeles, Jan. 16 (AP). — The Examiner said last night the United States Navy has perfected a new type of submarine net and tried it out while the fleet was at anchor here last week. "The net, similar to those used by commercial fishermen but made of steel, can be set in place between the old and new breakwaters within a short time," says the newspaper, "closing the channel gap completely".

London, Jan. 16 (CP).—Official denial was made here today of reports Great Britain was discussing the question of guaranteeing Norway against aggression. The statement said: "The secretary for foreign affairs (Viscount Halifax) denies the report that Great Britain is discussing with Norway the question of guaranteeing Norway's integrity".

SWEDEN CONTINUES CLOSE WATCH ON EASTERN BORDER

Although the threat of a Red drive across Finland to the Swedish border is now believed to have been definitely scuttled by the fighting Finns, the Swedish watch on her eastern border remains unrelaxed. Here is a mobile anti-aircraft unit of the Swedish army, TOP, shown in action on a highway near the border. A patrol of Swedish ski infantry, BOTTOM, is shown in the area just north of the Gulf of Bothnia. These men are trained in guerrilla strategy, now being employed so successfully by the Finns.

BRITISH FLIER CAPTURED AFTER BATTLE

Sergeant Herbert Ruse, CENTRE, a British aviator, is shown with his German captors at an unnamed air base, after he was taken prisoner during an air battle over the North Sea on Dec. 18. Ruse was piloting a Wellington bomber, which was set afire by attacking planes. He managed to land the craft on a German island, but was the only one of the crew to crawl out alive.

TRENTON and DISTRICT

Trenton, Jan. 16 (Special)— The Trenton Badminton Club has been ordered to vacate the old government film plant to make way for a new industry namely the Trenton Drying and Finishing Company Limited. The film plant has been the headquarters of the local club for sevreal years and the charter members are not altogether in favour of the council's action. The new industry is expected to start remodeling the building at once and when in operation is to employ a good portion of Trenton labor. Other industries are reported on their way to Trenton and a boat building concern is making arrangements to locate on the island in the Trent River just north of the C.P.R. overhead bridge.

Lots of Relief Work

Relief workmen have been employed cleaning streets and sidewalks in the town. The result of their labor is noticed mainly in the downtown section of the corporation where the thoroughfares are in extra fine shape. For the time of year and the amount of snow that has fallen lately.

Lions Band

Forty youths of Trenton are being given lessons in music by the Lions Club and they will soon be ready to play as a Boys' Band. Mr. Harry Moore finds time to spare to assist these lads and there is little doubt that the indefatigable editor will be rewarded a hundred fold for his fine effort. The band is using the upstairs part of the Courier Advocate building for practice purposes.

Fire Department Called

Breaking a long enjoyed lull the Trenton Fire Department was called three times over the weekend. The fires were not of a serious nature and all were extinguished easily saving the home owners any loss. As a matter of fact the calls were so unimportant that the bell was not sounded. Fire Engineer Baker and a skeleton staff handled each situation without a hitch.

James F. Day Returns to North

Down from Sudbury on a week's vacation James F. Day now a member of the International Nickel Police Force returned home to the Nickel city early yesterday by train. Mr. Day has been in uniform for almost a year and up until his visit here was stationed at a little village a few miles out of Sudbury. While in Trenton Mr. Day stayed with his wife and daughter at Mr. and Mrs. Thomas McConville's residence on King Street.

Plenty of Skiers But No Snow

On Sunday a party who had planned for a week to take to the hills north of Trenton sat at home and twiddled their thumbs while old man weather turned warm hearted and gave out with intermittent showers of rain and sleet. A number of popular young enthusiasts had purchased new equipment and were waiting for a day off to get in their first test. But the temperature dropped and the once downy snowy melted and became a slushy mess. However, the youths are not altogether discouraged and are hoping that this coming Sunday will bring colder temperatures and plenty of good flaky snow for skiing.

Advance Made Near Lieska After Scattered Patrols of Russian Troops Annihilated by Finnish Ski Patrols

SEVERE COLD

In Parts of Finland Temperature Ranged Down to 51 Degrees Below Zero, This Being the Coldest Weather in 25 Years

By THOMAS HAWKINS
Associated Press Staff Writer

Helsingfors, Jan. 17—(AP)—Finnish troops, fighting in sub-zero weather, were reported driving the Russians back in the Salla region and advancing toward a new victory today.

Today's army communique laconically confined itself to the assertion that "our troops are fighting successfully in the direction of Salla," Finland's eastern border just above the Arctic circle.

With the Central Finnish Forces in Russia, Jan. 17—(AP)—Here in the rugged, wooded hills east of Lieksa, Finnish soldiers are holding a front five to 10 miles within Soviet Russia, guarding two vital highways, 45 miles apart.

By automobile, horse-drawn sled and afoot I visited this front an hour after Finnish ski troops had routed a patrol of 60 Russians in the marrow-chilling cold.

In parts of Finland, the cold ranged down to 51 degrees below zero, making major military operations virtually impossible. It is the severest winter in 25 years.

Only in the skirmish here, where the temperature was 30 below zero, and in a vain Russian attack north of here on the Salla front, was there any action.

On the Salla front, the Finns yesterday were aroused by the stentorian voices of the Red Army political Commissars, exhorting their troops.

With some of the soldiers shouting "Urraa!" about 400 Russians charged, while the Commissars yelled encouragement from the trenches.

Why The Weather?

By Major A. H. Thiessen
Science Service Meteorologist

Hardy Finns! It is remarkable how wide a range of temperature may be endured by human beings with no bad result. An author writing early in the 19th century relates how the Finns indulged in hot vapor baths obtained in their bath huts by throwing water in red hot stones. They remained in the bath about one-half hour, rubbing and switching themselves, after which they would go outside and roll about in the snow, where the temperature would often be 20 below, thus experiencing a chance of 160 or 180 degrees in the space of a minute, without the least apparent inconvenience. The Finns believe that their strength is recruited as much by the bath as by rest and sleep.

Small Party Heads For Lonely Isle to Lead Simple Life

Pasadena, Calif., Jan. 17—(AP)—Toward an Atlantic Island inhabited by wild jackasses and once-domestic cattle a party of 21 "streamlined pioneers," discouraged by life's complexities, head today.

In two automobiles, a truck and trailer they were bound for Tampa, Fla., to sail for deserted East Caicos Island, 750 miles off the coast. There they plan to lead a simple, pastoral life, cultivating sisal, hardwood forests and a papaya grove and collecting shells and fishing for shark.

Richard Irvine heads the party, its members ranging in age from 17 months to 69 years. Included are Mr. and Mrs. James Lake of Pasadena, who own one-fourth of the island. They have a 32-year lease, which provides for rental payments of 24 blooded cattle per year.

The isle, 15 miles long and 10 miles across at its widest point, is a British possession.

FEARS OF GERMAN ATTACK AGAINST LOWLANDS LESSEN

Defence Forces Kept on Alert and Acceleration of Unexplained Diplomatic Activity Noted

KEEP MOBILIZATION

Brussels, Jan. 17 (AP).—Mobilization steps which Belgium took over the week-end, calling technicians to the colors—a stage next to complete mobilization—are to be maintained "for some time", General Henri Denis, Defence Minister, said in an interview today.

"Our information and general impressions made it necessary," he said. "We must always be alert."

The cold has affected defence plans somewhat, he said, because invading troops could cross on the ice, although boats have been busy keeping defensive waterways free. All necessary trench digging was completed before the freeze, which improved the trenches, General Denis said.

Finnish Army Praised.

Asked about the Finnish war, General Denis said it was comforting for Belgium and similar countries to see it demonstrated that a small country and a small army if adequately equipped and commanded could face a much stronger enemy.

"It proves to us," he said, "that we made no mistake in our armaments and no one is better equipped than Belgium against tanks, thanks to our 4.7 anti-tank guns."

General Denis said that the defence against air attacks had been bettered and added that "we are spending a lot of money on it." He referred to a new appropriation of 130,000,000 francs (about $4,330,000) in the supplementary budget.

WARNS ITALIANS MAY BE FORCED TO TAKE UP ARMS

Fascist Secretary Muti Says Italy Does Not Forget History of Recent Times

PARTY LEADERS MEET

Any Relaxation From Fascist Ideals Would be Mistake, Muti Declares

Rome, Jan. 17 (AP)—Ettore Muti, Secretary of the Fascist party, warned Italians today they might be compelled "at any moment" to fight in the war.

His warning was published after a conference with party leaders from 26 provinces.

The communique advised the Italian people not to be too greatly impressed by "the recent demonstrations of international sympathy."

"There is no need to lull oneself with the illusion that Italy's present situation with regard to war may last for ever," Muti declared. "Fascist Italy may face the necessity and duty at any moment of picking up arms.

Preparedness Urged

"It must therefore be prepared in its resources and above all in its spirit. It is well to add that it is absurd and dangerous to derive too much satisfaction from too recent demonstrations of international sympathy which are without justification or foundation and not even in harmony with the true sentiment of the Italian people which has learned not to forget the history which it has lived dramatically, especially in these recent times."

Muti's announcement said relaxation of Fascism's "anti-democratic, anti-Bolshevist and anti-bourgeois policies would be pernicious, particularly at the present time."

R.C.A.F. TRIPLED SINCE WAR BEGAN, IS STILL GROWING

Permanent Force Provided Perfect Nucleus for Reaction of Wartime Force

RESTRICTED BUDGET

By WALLACE WARD
Canadian Press Staff Writer.

Ottawa, Jan. 17 (CP)—The Royal Canadian Air Force has tripled since the war started and still is growing by leaps and bounds. That the structure is steady and the growth orderly arises from the foundation having been soundly laid in time of peace.

Even a year ago Canada had an air force that seemed a puny thing beside the air arm of any leading world power but none could criticize the efficiency of this peacetime force. Man for man, it was even then the equal of any in the world.

The small R.C.A.F. which started

250-M.P.H. Nazi Bombers Equipped With Diesel Engines Says U.S. Expert

Detroit, Jan. 17—(AP) — A description of 250-mile-an-hour German bombing planes equipped with Diesel heavy oil, instead of gasoline, engines was given the annual meeting of the Society of Automotive Engineers today by Paul H. Wilkinson, New York consulting engineer.

Not only do the engines use a fuel injection system which obviates the necessity for carburetors, Wilkinson said, but by equipping their airplanes with them the Reich makes a marked saving in fuel.

He estimated that 100 Bi-motored bombers use five tons of fuel less each hour than 100 similar machines equipped with regulation gasoline engines.

Heavily in favor of the Diesel engine, he emphasized, was the reduced fire hazard in the air.

The Diesels used for bombing planes in Germany, Wilkinson said, developed 1,000 horsepower. France is experimenting with aircraft Diesels of even greater horsepower. A 16-cylinder water-cooled Clerget Diesel recently completed under government supervision is designed to develop "at least" 2,000 horsepower.

Noting that the United States War Department had ordered a number of engines of American design, known as the Guiberson Diesel, for use in tanks, Wilkinson's paper observed that the only aircraft Diesel development in the United States "about which it is permissible to give any details" is that by the National Advisory Committee for Aeronautics at Langley Field, Va.

Wilkinson characterized as "promising" the results obtained with a single-cylinder, air-cooled test engine at those laboratories.

The British admiralty has announced that three British submarines, the Seahorse, ABOVE, the Starfish and the Undine, had failed to return to their bases or report.

War Loan Subscriptions in City Exceed Quota Several Times

Survey of Financial Institutions Reveals That Response to Appeal Has Been Splendid

MANY RURAL ORDERS

Belleville in common with other municipalities of the Dominion, demonstrated in no uncertain way its intention to back the Empire to the limit in the prosecution of the war, when it responded to the subscription to Canada's First War Loan in a manner that far exceeded the expectations of officials in charge.

A survey of city bond houses, brokerages and banks today revealed a consensus of opinion that from two to three times the amount expected to be subscribed in this district found its way into the coffers of the Loan during the first two days.

Bank managers reported the response as being "splendid" and representative of crossroads of the community. Rich and poor alike paid their money to help the nation in its hour of need. One banker stated that blocked roads did not prevent out-of-town residents from telephoning their orders for bonds.

A. H. Ketcheson reported that "two or three times the amount" expected has been subscribed through his office. Biggar and Crawford reported in a similar vein. While the Loan today was said to be over subscribed, applications are still being taken, but will, in all likelihood taper off during the day, one bond-house manager said.

One bank manager revealed a human interest story that well illustrates the patriotism of the returned soldiers at least. The veteran walked into his office and laid some money on his desk. "It is all I have" he smiled. "I can't go over and fight, and I have no job. Take this money for the War Loan—and incidentally if you hear of any work, be sure and let me know."

HEPBURN, DREW ATTACK CONDUCT OF WAR EFFORT

Leaders State Dominion Gov't. to Blame for Lack of Clothing for Troops

ALLEGE INEFFICIENCY

Toronto, Jan. 17—(CP) — The Ontario Legislature turned today to consideration of the government's bill for extension of the terms of municipal officials to two years, after a broadside by leaders of both major parties against conduct of the war effort by the Federal administration.

Lieut.-Col. George A. Drew, Conservative leader, roused the House yesterday after a succession of quiet sittings by attacking the Dominion Government's "inefficiency" in prosecution of the war and his words were echoed and enlarged upon by Premier Mitchell Hepburn.

The legislation governing municipal terms, called the local Government Extension Act, was brought in before the leaders trained their guns yesterday by Hon. Eric Cross, Minister of Municipal Affairs. One-year extension of the terms of municipal officers in office on Feb. 1, 1941, is provided in the bill, but electors in any municipality may vote themselves out of the act's provisions and retain annual elections.

CANADA WAR LOAN 'OVER THE TOP' BY FIFTY MILLIONS

Final Burst of Buying Swamps War Bond Dealers

CLOSE THURSDAY

Ottawa, Jan. 17—(CP)— Canadians on the home front gave an enthusiastic answer to the government's appeal to support the $200,000,000 war loan and in two days oversubscribed the issue by nearly $50,000,000.

In a final burst of buying, investors swamped war bond dealers and late last night the Bank of Canada, on behalf of Finance Minister Ralston, announced that the loan was "over the top" with cash subscriptions to the close of business yesterday totalling $248,804,500.

Officials of the bank expressed "extreme satisfaction" at the response to the offering and said that the books of the 12-year, 3 1-4-per-cent interest loan will remain open in order that small subscribers, particularly those in the more distant parts of Canada, may have an opportunity to enter their applications.

Such subscriptions, however, can only be taken subject to allotment. The total issue will be limited to $200,000,000 and subscriptions not already confirmed cannot be allotted in full.

RAILWAY NETWORK OF GREAT BRITAIN IS THREATENED

Plot by German Intelligence Service to Cripple System Uncovered Says Daily Mail

SET UP NEW MINISTRY

Leslie Hore-Belisha May be Given Job of Coordinating All Economic War Efforts

London, Jan. 17—(CP)—Great Britain's 600,000 railway workers were reported ordered on the alert today for acts of sabotage against the nation's lines.

The vast "detective" system was understood to have been set up as the Daily Mail and Daily Herald reported that a plot by the German Intelligence Service to cripple the nation's railway network had been discovered'

The Daily Mail said the plot was aimed at public works and bridges. No arrests have been announced. The newspaper declared the conspiracy had been discovered only a few days ago and that "counter measures" were expected to be put into effect shortly.

A move to set up a ministry coordinating all economic war efforts with Leslie Hore-Belisha as its head was reported to have gained momentum as echoes of his "public hearing" in parliament over resignation as war secretary died away.

Settlement Made In Damage Suit

Fatality is Recalled in Which Soldier Lost His Life

London, Ont., Jan. 17 —(CP)— Settlement of $3,400 damages was announced in Supreme Court today in a lawsuit over the level crossing death Sept, 30, 1939, of Pte James Ray, member of the Canadian Active Service Force. He was London's first soldier casualty after mobilization.

William Joyes, owner of the taxi containing Ray which ran into a Canadian Pacific Railway train at the Quebec Street crossing, was defendant.

Earl Durward, driver of the taxi, was also injured fatally, while two other passengers escaped with minor hurts.

The suit, claiming unstated damages on behalf of Ray's family, had been set down on the jury list at the present court.

Counsel informed Mr. Justice J. G. Kelly that settlement had been reached. Mayer Lerner was counsel for the plaintiffs, while A. S. Fergusson acted for Joys.

Correspondent Dashes for Shelter As Soviet Planes Bomb Village

By WADE WERNER
Associated Press Staff Writer

Somewhere in Finland, Jan. 17—(AP)—This is the story of bombing raids, a frozen nose and Finnish solicitude toward a stranger.

Like most other towns in Finland, this one was expecting another air raid, and foreign correspondents were prepared to spend part of their time in cellars.

Several of us were listening to an officer's translation of letters received from some soldiers at the front when a siren howled.

We reached for our hats and coats, intending to stroll over to an air raid shelter nearby. At that moment we were thrown off our feet by three terrific detonations in quick succession.

Glass fell all around us, and a crash on the floor above—we were on the third floor—made us think the building had been hit.

We had to make a dash for it.

The stairs were still intact, although cluttered with debris. As we ran into the street and toward an air raid shelter, we noticed the sidewalk covered with shattered plate glass from shop windows.

We stumbled into an underground refuge just as the roar of power-diving bombers warned us another cluster of bombs was about to hit.

Streets a Scene of Ruin

They did, but we already were under cover with about 50 other persons, at least one-third of them women.

After an uncomfortable two hours, we came back to street level. The thoroughfare had been turned into an inferno of smashed and blazing buildings.

Office chairs and desks had been blown through windows into the street. Show window mannikins lay in the snow.

As I walked alone in a daze, a Finn approached me in evident alarm.

"Has he seen another bomber?" I asked myself.

But he looked straight at me, bent to the ground and scooped up a handful of snow.

"For heaven's sake," he said in Finnish. "Look out for your nose!"

He began rubbing my face with snow. Sure enough, my nose was numb.

I continued the treatment that the Finn had started, but his action has left me wondering.

What do you make of a people who, with their hometown in ruins, can take time to think of a stranger's frozen nose?

Seven Occupants Suffer Burns And Frost Bites

Teacher Injured Jumping From Upstairs Window of Burning Frame Dwelling Near Mountain Grove

PIPES OVERHEATED

Earl Barr, Father of Girl Victim of Flames, Runs for Help to Neighbor Mile Away and is Badly Frost-Bitten on Journey in Zero Weather

Mountain Grove, Ont., Jan. 17—(CP) — A 53-year-old woman and an 11-year-old girl were burned to death early today when fire destroyed a home three miles north of this Frontenac county village. Seven other occupants of the house suffered burns and frost bites.

Dead are Mrs. Adeline Barr and her granddaughter, Irma Barr. Most seriously injured was Isabel Watchorn, a school teacher staying at the house, when she jumped from an upstairs window to safety.

The two-storey frame house burned quickly and was destroyed. Cause of the blaze is believed to have been overheated pipes. It has not been decided if an inquest will be held.

Others in the house were the owners, Mr. and Mrs. Earl Barr, parents of Irma and their son Cyril, Mr. and Mrs. Victor Peterson and their son Carl.

Boy Jumps From Window.

Cyril also jumped from a top-storey window to escape the flames and suffered serious injury.

Peterson had arisen before the others and lighted the fire while the others slept. He absented himself from the house for a few minutes and on his return found the residence in flames. He sounded an alarm and Earl Barr ran to the home of Robert Cox, a mile away, to seek help. He suffered severe frost bites on his journey in the zero weather.

District residents rushed to the Barr home but could no nothing to save the structure, although none of the other smaller buildings about the home caught fire.

Mountain Grove is 65 miles north of Kingston.

Reports Denied Exeter Has Been Beached At Falkland Islands

London, Jan. 17 (CP).—Authoritative naval circles today denied reports that the British cruiser Exeter, damaged in the battle off Uruguay with the German pocket battleship Admiral Graf Spee, had been beached at the Falkland Islands, the British Crown Colony in the South Atlantic.

"The Exeter has not been beached anywhere," the naval men declared.

Flour Presented To Indians Under 100-Year-Old Lease

Shannonville, Jan. 17 (Special)—Carrying out the terms of a 999-year lease, W. J. Murphy, present leasee of the Shannonville grist mill, presented the Mohawk Indian band with 6,000 pounds of flour today. The distribution of the flour will take place today, Thursday and Friday under the supervision of Hubert W. Jones, Indian agent, of Deseronto.

More than 100 years ago, an old frame mill was erected near the Salmon River in Shannonville on the edge of the Tyendinaga Indian Reserve. In the terms of the lease, the leasee promised to pay to the Indians four pounds of flour for every man, woman and child of the Mohawk band. Since that time two mills have been reconstructed on the site, with the ownership changing hands on a number of occasions.

Although the ownership has changed hands many times, the terms of the original lease have been carried out faithfully with the allotment of flour being donated to the band. When the lease was first drawn up the payment was about 5,000 pounds of flour, but today the number of Indians has increased so that the payment this year will be approximately 6,000 pounds.

Mr. Murphy explained this four pounds would mean that each man, woman and child on the reserve would have enough flour to bake one loaf of bread and two buns from his allotment. "Food enough for one day, as I figure it," he stated.

'Subversive Persons' To be Barred From Elective Offices

Attorney General Conant Prepares Legislation to This Effect

Toronto, Jan. 17.—(CP)— Attorney-General Gordon Conant announced today he was preparing legislation to bar "subversive persons" from holding office in municipal councils and other elected bodies in Ontario.

"We've been working on a draft bill and hope to have it ready for introduction Friday," he said.

Mr. Conant pointed to the action of the French Chamber of Deputies yesterday in barring Communists as a desirable precedent. He announced also the receipt of a letter from the Hamilton Trades and Labor Council urging barring of Communists and Nazis from public office. The letter says in part: "On behalf of legitimate organized labor, we urge you if it is within the provincial jurisdicton to bring down the necessary legislation to prevent either the members of the Communist or Nazi party or those actively associated with them from holding office on municipal councils or other elected boards".

JOHN L. CHURCHER OF DUNGANNON, ELECTED WARDEN

Given Close Race in Caucus by Reeve W. J. Davis of Bangor, Wicklow and McLure

FIVE NEW MEMBERS

Requests Committee Chairmen to keep Controllable Expenditures Within Estimates

Representative of Dungannon Township for the past nine years, Reeve John L. Churcher, prominent agriculturist of the northern part of the county, was yesterday elected to the Wardenship of Hastings County Council when that body met in Shire Hall at the inaugural session of the regular January sitting.

Warden Churcher, who was given a close race in caucus by Reeve W. J. Davis of Bangor, Wicklow and McClure Townships, was given the unanimous support of the council as a whole in session. He succeeds Ex-Warden George E. Thompson, Rawdon Township, whose tenure of office expired in December.

Shortly after four o'clock County Clerk Erle Denyes called the council to session and upon the motion of Reeve Davis and Reeve George West, Madoc, declared Reeve Churcher the warden. He administered the oath of office to the new warden and invested him with his official robes while county councillors applauded.

In his inaugural address to the new 1940 council, Warden Churcher, extended a hearty welcome to the five new members that grace this year's body. He felt that the experience and training in matters municipal of the veteran councillors would be of great benefit to the newcomers, but for all that, he said, it is vitally necessary to insert new blood into any organization or institution.

Tribute Paid James Moore

He paid tribute to Reeve James A. Moore of Elzevir Township whose experience and service during the past thirty years has been an invaluable asset to the county council. He also complimented the new Reeve of Wollaston, Mr. C. E. Muffitt, whose son, Ted, was chosen as one of the R.C.M.P. guard to Their Majesties during the Royal visit in the eventual year of 1939.

Urging all to give the Auditors' Report careful consideration, he appealed to all committee chairmen, whoever they may be, to keep controllable expenditures within the estimates, and to give uncontrollable expenditures every thought and consideration so they may be kept within the taxpayers limit.

"The County of Hastings is assessed over eighteen millions of dollars," he said, "and has a debenture debt of only $35,000. The people of this county take splendid pride in the fine condition of its finances, which is due in a great measure to the splendid work done by former councils whose foresight and economic efforts in years gone by have been a great contributing factor to the present fine financial status."

"Officials of the county are a great credit to their communities and to the offices they fill," he said.

Strike Happy Medium

During the coming year, the county will be called upon to contribute funds toward the successful prosecution of the war, Warden Churcher told his council. "We must give this important matter careful consideration. We have loyalty and patriotism on the one hand, and the ability of the taxpayer to pay, on the other. It is up to this council to strike a happy medium," he advised.

"Hastings County is proud of its war efforts, of its fine young men who have and will join the colors. County Councils, represent the finest form of democratic government in the world. This is just what are enemies in Europe are trying to destroy. It is up to us to uphold our traditions. Hastings County will not fail the country in her hour of need," he said.

Referring to agriculture, Warden Churcher warned residents of the rural communities "that although market prices are increasing, farmers should take advantage of that fact and place their house in order, improve buildings, build fences and make general improvements to the farm and all it represents rather than trade in the old car for a new one.

Must Keep Up Roads

"We must take care not to leave the impression of too much economy," he said, "for sometimes it turns out to be false economy. We must keep our roads in good repair, and pursue our other business in a normal way." He advocated a better surfacing treatment for certain sections of the county road system, in that it would constitute a saving in maintenance costs. He asked council to strike a happy medium between taxpayer and county so that the former would not be too hard pressed without the latter losing any of its normalcy and progress."

In closing, Warden Churcher told council that the honor "that has just been bestowed upon me, means everything. The greatest asset a man can have is a Canadian home in Hastings County, and the once penniless Scottish boy, who came here when he was ten years of age, and now stands before you as your Warden, is today the proudest man in all Ontario. I cannot express my feelings adequately, but from the bottom of my heart I say "Thank You' ".

Upon motion, Warden Churcher appointed Reeves George Spencer, S. Nicolson and W. J. Davis as the personnel of a nominating committee to appoint chairmen of the various committees for the year's work. Council then adjourned to meet this morning.

Members of the 1940 Hastings County Council follow:

K. Ackerman Will Preside as First Principal in Present Year

Ex-Comp. K. Ackerman was installed as First Principal at the annual installation of officers of the Moira Chapter, R.A.M., No. 7, G.R.C. at the Masonic Temple in Belleville last evening. Ex-Comp. H. C. McElrath most efficiently conducted the ancient ceremony of installing the officers and was assisted by several Royal Arch Mason dignitaries from out the Prince Edward district and Belleville.

Following the ceremonial practice of investing each new officer with his charge, the officers and members of the Moira Chapter adjourned to the banquet room where the conventional Masonic Toasts saw responses from the newly installed officers in the evening's chief toast. The program of entertainment consisted of solos by Comp. Harold Howard and J. Haggarty, while James Corradi delighted the meeting with several piano specialties.

The officers installed into office of the Moira Chapter, No. 7, R.A.M. were—

OBITUARY

KEITH G. BEST
(Toronto)

Toronto, Jan. 17.— (CP)—Keith Gerald Best, president of Keith Best and Company, Limited, died in the hospital here Monday following a one-week illness with streptococci infection of the throat.

A native of Picton, Ont., Mr. Best was associated with his father, William Best, in the agricultural and canning business at Wellington, Ont., for many years. He was also head of the Select Investment company and a few months ago he organized the Play Health Equipment Company, Ltd., with a manufacturing plant in West Toronto.

Surviving are three brothers, J. R. Best and L. C. Best of Toronto and E. W. Best of Brighton, Ont., and two sisters, Miss Nellie Best and Mrs. D. N. Murray of Toronto.

MRS. F. R. GRAHAM
(Montreal)

Montreal, Jan. 17—(CP)— Mrs. Marguerite Phelan Graham, 49, wife of F. Ronald Graham, chairman of the board of directors of the Atlantic Sugar Refineries, Limited, died January 14 at her home here, following a lengthy illness.

Other survivors are four brothers, Philip, Cyril and Ambrose Phelan, of Ottawa, and Basil of San Francisco, six daughters, Misses Mary, Kathleen, Margaret, Ann, Jane and Sheila, all of Montreal, and four sons, Francis Ronald, Jr., Philip, Peter and John, also of Montreal.

Born in Parkhill, Ont., daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. James Phelan, Mrs. Graham was married 26 years ago in the place of her birth. After her marriage she moved to Toronto with her husband, where she lived until about 12 years ago, when she established residence in Montreal.

A Roman Catholic, she was a member of the Catholic Women's League.

Mrs. Graham was a niece of the Misses Lynch, George St., Belleville

JOHN CAMPBELL HOARE
(Coe Hill)

Following a lengthy illness, John Campbell Hoare, of Coe Hill passed away Tuesday afternoon Jan. 16, at Kingston. Born in Ottawa, a son of Mr. and Mrs. William H. Hoare, he was twenty-five years of age. For nine years the late Mr. Hoare resided in Ottawa and came to Coe Hill about sixteen years ago. He followed the occupation of farming, with his father. A member of the Gospel Tabernacle, Coe Hill, he was well and favourably known by his associates who will regret to learn of his passing.

Surviving besides his parents are his twin brother, Mr. Clinton Hoare, at home, and two sisters, Mrs. E. D. Curry of Belleville and Miss Muriel Hoare, at home.

Resting at the Martin Funeral Home, Church Street.

Describes Regiment's Christmas Celebration On the High Seas

Picton—Jan. 17 — Members of Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment, now in camp at Aldershot, England, had a menu befitting the occasion when they spent Christmas on the high seas, according to a letter received Tuesday by Mrs. Young, wife of Lt.-Col. Sherman Young, O.C., of the regiment.

A copy of the troops' menu was enclosed and gave the following for Christmas day:

Breakfast—Flaked oats, liver and bacon, boiled potatoes, bread, butter, jam, tea.

Dinner — Vegetable soup, roast turkey, boiled potatoes, cabbage, bread, butter, plum pudding, custard sauce, apples, oranges, tea.

The officers' Christmas menu included consomme a la royale, creme de valaille, Scotch solom with Hollandaise sauce, braised York ham, coutre filet of beef, baked and boiled potatoes, green peas, roast turkey, salad, tomatoes, plum pudding with brandy sauce, strawberry tetranzzini, lange de chat, dessert, variety of fruits, nuts and ginger.

On Christmas day, Lt.-Col. Young wrote in part: "Today is the first bright, sunny day at sea and everybody is quite happy. Only a very small number are seasick and all the men have had a lovely Christmas dinner. The boat is rolling and pitching some but it is not as it used to be when I was over before (1914). I went out and wished the men a happy Christmas this morning and they all cheered as loudly as you ever heard. The ship's crew is fine and very pleased with the behaviour of our men. There are also some from Calgary on board our boat."

On Dec. 29, Lt.-Col. Young wrote: "We expect to make port tomorrow and all are looking forward to their first glimpse of Scotland. We came through a storm the other night and the wind was blowing 85 miles an hour so that one couldn't go on deck. Next morning it was very nice but the wind changed again and blew nearly as hard as previously and continued until this morning when it began to slack off and now the boat is riding as smooth as any car. There are seven ships in the convoy and for the last two days there have been sixteen destroyers and three battleships with us and this morning a large seaplane circled over us before going back.

"I received a message this morning that a German submarine was reported seen near our route and I kept the men on deck all day with life preservers on and near their boat stations just in case they should attack, but nothing happened.

"The men are feeling better now, some having been sea-sick. I had a note from Capt. Chas. Mathison of H.M.T. Ormonde (our ship) and am sending it on. He was Captain of one of Britain's mystery ships in the last war and was knighted for his work in sinking submarines. He has written an interesting book."

Lt.-Col. Young's letter was mailed immediately the boat docked at Glasgow and is one of the few received here to-date from the regiment which sailed at that time. Others are expected this week.

Frigid Temperatures At Bancroft Today

Bancroft, Jan. 17 (Special) — Bancroft residents are shivering today as the thermometer registered 35 degrees below zero. The community is just recovering from a heavy snow storm which has blocked all the side roads leading into the village. The main road, to Madoc, (Highway Number 62) is open to traffic but all other roads are impassable. Eight inches of snow fell during the week end.

WARDEN CHURCHER MAKES GOOD IN ADOPTED COUNTRY

Came to Canada as Young Boy From Glasgow, Scotland

SUCCESSFUL FARMER

The story of Reeve John L. Churcher, of Dungannon Township, newly appointed warden of Hastings County, and his rise from a humble Scottish emigrant boy to his present enviable position in the municipal life of this county has a distinct Alger touch.

Travelling from his birthplace in Glasgow, Scotland, to Canada, when but ten years old, Warden Churcher rode by stage coach from Belleville to Bancroft, where he made his home with farmers of the locality.

Not satisfied with the drudgery of farm life in those days, a few years later he graduated from the Ontario Business College in Belleville and went to Western Canada. For nine years he worked in a Saskatoon livery and dray business office, then went to British Columbia where he was employed as a book-keeper for four and a half years in the office of a large saymill.

Farmer in Faraday

But the call of Hastings became too strong and he returned to this part of Ontario, where he took up farming in Faraday Township. Here he had his first municipal experience as assessor and auditor for that township. Later he moved to Monteagle where he purchased one of the most expensive farms in that municipality. Here he acted as assessor for that township for a period of three years and in 1921 he moved to his present home in Dungannon Township.

He entered the township council of Dungannon where he acted for two years, later resigning to become the township clerk, a position he held efficiently for seven years.

In 1930 he was elected reeve of the township and has held that position ever since, being honored with eight acclamations by the electors of that municipality. Yesterday he received the highest honors a grateful county can bestow. For nine years he has served his township and county faithfully and efficiently. He has been a member of the Roads and Bridges Committee for years, and has served on many other committees during his tenure of office.

Today, the lonely Scottish emigrant boy who travelled across the broad Atlantic with but a few cents in his pocket, is the proud owner of two of the best farms in Dungannon Township. He has a herd of choice pure-bred Ayrshire cattle, some thirty head all told, blooded horses and other prize livestock. He is the father of five stalwart sons, all of whom are at home.

He takes a keen interest in things agricultural and has for a number of years been one of the guiding lights of the Bancroft Agricultural Society. He is a past-president of that organization and at present is its secretary-treasurer, a position he has held for ten years.

He is interested in education and is the secretary-treasurer of the local school board. He is the manager of the Township of Dungannon Municipal Telephone System, and is the rector's warden of St. John's Anglican Church. A Past-Master of Bancroft Lodge, No. 482, A.F. and A.M., he has been secretary of that organization for the past ten years.

WHISKERS FOR POILUS

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE—

And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to Go

The liver should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily. If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas bloats up your stomach. You get constipated. Harmful poisons go into the body, and you feel sour, sunk and the world looks punk.

A mere bowel movement doesn't always get at the cause. You need something that works on the liver as well. It takes those good, old Carter's Little Liver Pills to get these two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up". Harmless and gentle, they make the bile flow freely. They do the work of calomel but have no calomel or mercury in them. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills by name! Stubbornly refuse anything else. 25c.

CANADIANS SHOW THEIR FAITH AND DETERMINATION

Faith in Canada and in the result of her war effort in the Empire's cause has been demonstrated as Canadians fully expected it would be shown, by the oversubscription of the first war loan by nearly fifty million dollars at the end of the second day. The total will be higher as the books are to remain open for smaller subscriptions and for those from distant parts of the country. It was stated early today that the books may be closed tomorrow (Thursday) night, and that the loan will be limited to $200,000,000 by allotment.

The amount of the loan is large but it has all the more proven the wealth, the confidence, the determination and the loyalty of Canada to those who are serving or will serve in the various theatres of the war.

MOVABLE TYPE 500 YEARS OLD

The invention of movable type by Johann Gutenberg which is credited to the year 1440, just five hundred years ago, was one of the great events of history and opened up a whole realm to the modern world.

Printing goes back far beyond five centuries ago. The alphabet preceded the use of type of course. So did the invention of paper which was made by Ts'ai Kun in 105 A.D., and with the making of paper the Chinese had all the elements for printing.

It is said that Japanese printed from wood blocks as far back as 770 A.D., and that the Chinese reached the stage of movable type of baked clay or wood not many centuries later and that decades before Gutenberg lived scholars in China were reading from books printed from movable bronze type — type cast from moulds more or less as it is cast today. Block printing is a cumbersome method. The Book of Buddha required 28,111 blocks.

At this time monks in Europe were still writing on vellum and parchment, producing in this way only one book at a time. Then came Gutenberg to invent movable type, each letter being formed separately from lead so as to be capable of rearranging and forming a succession of pages, thereby avoiding the labor of cutting new wood blocks for every page as the pages set from single movable type could be distributed and reset into another page.

Printing conquered Europe very rapidly. In 1500 there were already 200 cities with 11,000 printing presses, which had published and printed over 35,000 different editions with a total of about 12 million volumes. In 1476 William Caxton installed the first printing shop in England.

Since the first printing presses there have been many changes in printing but the principle is the same of conveying words or figures or pictures to paper by the press. In modern printing there are many trades. Type however remains one of the most important physical properties in modern printing.

Five hundred years seems a long time since Gutenberg's epoch-making achievement of movable type, but he made possible the development of the art which has revolutionized the world and human life. It is impossible to conceive of the days when there were no printing presses, no type, no distribution of news and pictures except by manuscript and drawings.

Gutenberg started a movement which has never ceased to develop. He came at the time of the world's history which gave the race what it needed in an age in which the human interest was expanding and man sought knowledge.

BELISHA INCIDENT

The British people will probably take the attitude of Prime Minister Chamberlain and the former Secretary for War, Leslie Hore-Belisha, on the question of the latter's retirement. What looked like an incipient ministerial crisis passed over without a word of ill-feeling.

The time is one of war. As Mr. Chamberlain expressed it the one criterion is the degree to which everything will or will not contribute to the early and successful end of the war.

There was no cabinet crisis, both public men declared. There was no army pressure to remove Mr. Hore-Belisha, the House was told. What difficulties there were the Prime Minister said were the result of the very great qualities of Mr. Hore-Belisha.

The Liberal Leader in the House, Sir Archibald Sinclair, voiced an opinion that the only thing that counted was the vigorous prosecution of the war.

This will probably close the Belisha incident, though Mr. Chamberlain did not disclose the detailed reasons, as he himself explained.

GERMANY AND POLAND

Attention was drawn by the British Prime Minister in the House of Commons on Tuesday to the view that Germany apparently is pursuing a policy of deliberate depopulation of Poland. He said that it appeared that intellectual leaders were being singled out for execution, that it seemed clear that the number executed was considerable and that reports of executions were generally confirmed by such evidence as was available and that the Polish government will issue a "white book" on the subject.

The thought causes a shudder. Evidence will be presented in support of this charge by the Polish Government that such would appear to be the policy pursued by the Nazis. Such a policy, if carried out, would lower the social and moral standards of the Poles, throttle their aspirations and place them at the tender mercies of the Nazis. It would wipe out every vestige of Polish civilization if it could be achieved.

Nothing more terrible than such a policy could be imagined. It shows the degraded state of the Nazis and the nature of the enemy which has to be crushed before there can be peace and security.

What the Polish "White Book" will reveal will profoundly affect the world. It will reveal the Nazis in all their fury, seized by an unholy ambition to dethrone everything which is sound, good and beautiful and exalt the German National Socialist Party to the control of the world. It will give the world some notion of what a Nazi Empire would be. Poland's story will strengthen the nerve of the Allies to end forever this dark menace to humanity.

WHAT GERMANY DOES FOR WORLD

In the Netherlands and Belgium there is again unsettlement with rumors of a possible German invasion to outflank the Allied armies.

Meanwhile the German chancellery just says it is another outbreak of fear and that there is no truth in the rumors of German troop movements opposite the Dutch border.

After all whatever takes place, the present concern is another sign of the Hitler idea of keeping the nations, neutrals among them, jittery in the "war of nerves." Neutrals can expect nothing else until Hitler is crushed by the Allied armies. There will be no peace of mind in any part of the world until he is gone as a political force in the world.

What do Hitler and his followers, the Goerings, the Goebbels, the Hesses, the Himmlers care what they cost the small nations of the earth! Men have to leave their jobs, hearts are again trembling lest war invade neutral parts of the world again. But it is nothing to Hitler and his men. They show their ruthlessness in the "frightfulness" campaign to scare neutral ships from British ports and in the sinking of neutral shipping. On all occasions they show scorn and disregard of the neutrals.

If ever the neutrals should hope and pray for the end of the cause of all these woes which fall upon them, it should be in these days when the selfish ambitions of the Nazis upset every phase of life, turn peace into war and force the poorer nations as well as the richer to expend vast sums of money on defences. Germany has caused nations to fear. She has tried to lower the level of self-respecting nations far beneath the level of the lowest conditions in world history, she has tried to destroy everything that men and women of all ages have treasured and built up. In doing so they naturally have lowered the tone of Germany beneath the level of anything they have succeeded in imposing on others.

Daily War Survey

By The Canadian Press

New gestures and words of menace by Germany and Russia toward their neighbors raise the possibility of continued efforts to jangle nerves of the Allies and neutral countries until such time as Nazi Germany and its partner in aggression, Communist Russia, are ready to take positive action.

Germany makes menacing gestures towards Belgium and Holland. Russia utters menacing words to Norway and Sweden. And simultaneously this phase of the war assumes more significance as winter advances and physical prospects of new offensives become more definite.

Whether these latest developments in the war of nerves are a prelude to a large offensive and an extension of the war to new territories or merely threats designed to wring concessions from neutral states is probably something even the highest Nazi authorities could not say at the moment.

Russia, it might be assumed, would be required to achieve something more than has been accomplished so far in its attack on Finland before Germany would base any new departure on Russian collaboration in the north and west.

The present Russian air bombing in Finland, particularly brutal because of the cold weather, may be an attempt to make up for lost time in the Finnish war and bring that episode to the point where further moves can be launched.

A Russian success in Finland might be followed by an invitation to Norway, Sweden, Belgium, Holland and Denmark to send representatives to Berlin to discuss a program of collaboration with Nazi Germany. The desired collaboration would be described as vital to the national life of Germany and failure to agree would be taken as justification for hostilities against the five neutral states.

This procedure would be similar to that followed by Russia in regard to the Baltic states. It worked with Estonia, Lithuania and Latvia but failed with Finland.

Unemployment Insurance Aim of Federal Government

Asking Provinces for Approval to Amend Constitution of B.N.A. Act

STOP PROPAGANDA

Ottawa, Jan. 16. (CP)—Negotiations have been reopened with the provinces with a view to obtaining approval of necessary amendments to the constitution to enable the Federal government to establish unemployment insurance, Justice Minister Lapointe announced today.

The announcement was made to a delegation of the Confederation of Catholic Workers of Canada, incorporated, who made their annual Legislative recommendations to the government.

Mr. Lapointe recalled that certain provinces had objected in the past to any modification of the British North America Act looking toward transferring jurisdiction to the Federal government.

"I am not divulging any secrets when I tell you the government has re-opened conversations with the provinces on this problem", Mr. Lapointe said.

In the absence of Prime Minister Mackenzie King the Justice Minister was spokesman for the Cabinet. Others of the Cabinet who received the delegation were Labor Minister McLarty, Fisheries Minister Michaud, and Revenue Minister Ilsley.

Alfred Charpentier, Montreal, president of the Federation, was spokesman for the delegation.

To the delegation's request that Communism in Canada be suppressed Mr. Lapointe said the government would stop propaganda, not only Communistic but of all subversive ideas, particularly Nazism".

Mr. Lapointe said it was impossible to adopt a national plan for Unemployment Insurance until such time as the provinces would agree to a modification of the British North America Act.

Labor Minister McLarty promised to call to the attention of his colleagues in the Cabinet the various recommendations submitted.

The delegation left with the Cabinet ministers an offer to co-operate with the government during the war.

R.C.A.F. TRIPLED

out as the Canadian Air Force in 1920 and obtained the "Royal" prefix in 1924, grew slowly but efficiently. And when Canada faced a national emergency last autumn, the small permanent force provided a perfect nucleus for the reaction of a wartime air force.

Operating on a restricted budget and thus with comparatively aged equipment, the R.C.A.F. from the start chose its personnel carefully. Foremost in the building of the young force was its present head, Air Vice-Marshal G. M. Croil, who joined up Feb. 18, 1920, the day on which the Order-in-Council creating the Canadian Air Force was signed.

Selective at Formation

Air Vice-Marshal Croil took over actual command of the force, however, only on Jan. 1, 1934. Necessarily small, the R.C.A.F. could well afford to be selective, with the result that the cream of the output of Canadian universities formed the skeleton of the wartime air force being built up today.

Commissioned officers in the air force were required to be graduates of the Royal Military College at Kingston, Ont., or engineering graduates of some recognized university. Airmen and non-commissioned officers had to be graduates of technical schools or with similar scholastic attainments.

It has been from such material that the air force now draws its key men. Experience under actual service conditions in air stations across Canada has seasoned the permanent force personnel. In recent months they have had actual service types, the latest models of British military aircraft, to work with. More are on order.

Force Fitted For Big Job

Hard years of study, of actual experience in mapping, air photography, in flying under adverse conditions, fitted the permanent personnel for the big job ahead. Side by side with them are the men of the "amateur air force," the auxiliary, non-permanent force whose squadrons have been training, after office hours, in various Canadian cities.

Tribute to the fine organization work of these veterans, the first Canadian squadron to be sent overseas will be a composite group of permanent and non-permanent men welded into a new unit under the name of No. 110 Army Co-operation Squadron from Toronto.

Soldier Omits Endearing Phrases in Letter Home Because of Censor Board

Ottawa, Jan. 17 (CP)—Lance-Corporal M. L. Weber would like to write affectionate phrases home, but, as he sees it, terms of endearment are for his ever-loving spouse alone, not hard-boiled censors, so he has cut them out entirely.

The Lance-Corporal, somewhere in England with the 3rd Company, First Canadian Division Signals, notified his wife, Miss Canada of 1936, to that effect in a letter received today.

"I'd like to write you all the little things that mean so much but they are for you to read, not a board of censors," he wrote the former Lilith Bennett. "They will have to go unwritten."

Mrs. Weber, now the mother of twins, was elected Miss Canada of 1936 at a Los Angeles pageant under the auspices of the Canadian Tourist Society.

The letter was received here today by Mrs. Weber and she told newsmen about it.

THAT BODY OF YOURS

Medical Students are Now Cancer-Conscious

One of the reasons that there are so many cases of cancer seen today is because middle-aged individuals know that cancer is a disease that makes itself known at this time. The general practitioner is now alert to discover cancer among his patients, knowing that early cancer is curable and late cancer is fatal.

However, the big advance from the standpoint of recognizing cancer is that medical students of today can now see more cases of cancer in a week that the medical students of less than twenty years ago saw in a year. The cancer clinics of our general hospitals see practically every form of cancer and in its different stages of development.

Dr. John Garnett Howell, Philadelphia, as guest editor of the Medical World says:

"Educational standards of cancer offered to medical students have been improved at the University of Pennsylvania in the past several years by offering them the opportunity of reviewing cases in a general hospital which houses 80 to 100 cases of varied types of cancer as a daily census and treats or observes 142 cases per week in the outpatient department".

When a student realize the great number of cancer cases which exist he becomes "cancer conscious", and does not allow a persistent stomache ache in a middle-aged person to pass until an Xray of the stomach and intestines has been made. Similarly with other conditions which may develop into cancer.

As showing how internes (final year medical students) and young physicians are always on the lookout for cancer even in cases where the patients have entered hospital for treatment of other ailments, Dr. Howell says "We receive 6 to 12 cases a pear of breast cancer in our Xray wards at the Philadelphia General Hospital, in whose breasts the disease was not reported by the patient and was discovered by the internes in their routine physical examination".

It is this being on the lookout for cancer that makes the increase in cancer seem larger than it is but this is unimportant as we remember that cancer discovered early can be cured and lives saved.

CHAPTER XXIV

"Come, I want to show you my cabin," said Coates.

Star hung back. "It's—it's nice of you to show me around. But please don't bother to sail anywhere. I—I can see everything right here."

The crew had already started to unfasten the sails and weigh the anchor. The speed and precision with which they accomplished this was surprising, but not reassuring. Either they were excellent sailors or they had known exactly what was going to happen.

Coates laughed. Star felt uncomfortable as his eyes glinted at her in amusement. "Afraid I'll knidnap you?" he asked.

"No, only you're going to so much trouble."

"I would take a lot of trouble for you," Coates said in a low voice. His hand on her arm urged her forward. "Come on, the cabin won't bite you."

Star tried to stop the unreasoning impulse that swept through her as they started down the dark narrow companionway. The walls on both sides felt—she hesitated at the word even in her thoughts, but it was apt—they felt slimy! She tried to steady her voice, to sound gay and amused.

"Do those men up there really help you? They don't look a bit as if they are interested in science."

Coates' laugh was natural and appreciative. "I don't need scientists," he pointed out. "They may look like cutthroats to you, my dear, but they're darned good sailors."

Star remembered a book she had read, was it Treasure Island? where the sailors looked like pirates and cutthroats—and were! Here they looked just as evil and were merely an archeologist's "darned good sailors." How silly she was! At least Jack Coates was all right and she was staying on the schooner only a short time. With that thought in mind she stepped into the small room at the foot of the stairs.

"This is the mess hall for the officers," Coates explained with a smile. "That is, for the men and myself."

Star looked around at the greasy walls and the scarred table, at the broken and disreputable chairs that were huddled together along the walls. Even Coates, thin and excitable, looked far from being at home here. A line from an old song popped unbidden into her mind: "Pity the poor sailors....."

She smiled and Coates looked offended.

"Of course I don't know much about sailing. Still, I'm the Captain here; I give the orders." His voice was almost threatening. As Star looked at him sharply he moved away and opened a small door in the opposite wall. "This is my cabin."

Star followed him gingerly and stopped on the threshold. Even with her eyes accustomed to the darkness it was hard to see the dim interior. Two round portholes showed like two green eyes in one wall, but they were darkened by water and dimmed further by a crust of dirt. A streak of light showed across the ceiling. There was evidently a skylight, but the glass was broken and a ragged piece of canvas had been stretched across the bars. Coates appeared unaware of her critical scrutiny.

"Come in and sit down," he invited hospitably. "I'll get a light." He swore softly as his toe hit against some bulky object on the floor. "I'd like to show you on the map where we're going to look for our specimens. I forgot to have the skylight fixed," he added apologetically.

As the lamp flared Star thought that it would have been just as well to leave the cabin dimly lit. In the glare the place looked even more gloomy, and indescribably shabby. She saw for the first time that there were ragged curtains pushed back from the portholes.

Her thoughts wandered as Coates talked on about what he was going to look for and where he would start excavations. She was rather glad when he stopped. The story of ancient rites and torturous sacrifices that had seemed so intriguing aboard a safe modern ship, was too realistic when heard against this weird background. She managed to nod at appropriate intervals, but she was thinking vaguely, I can't stand here forever smiling and nodding and saying nothing.

"It must have been a beautiful ship—once", she managed finally.

The movement of the boat, slight as it was, threw her against the table. She withdrew her hand hastily from its surface—it was greasy too!

"This is still a good boat," Coates said loyally. "Here, you'd better sit down." He cleared the one chair by the amiple expedient of pushing a conglomeration of books and maps onto the floor. He settled himself on a chest against the side of the boat as Star sat uneasily on the edge of the seat he had drawn up to the table.

"The Merry Maid needs only a little paint and the old girl would look like a debutante. Do you know this boat was built fifty-three years ago?"

His eyes kindled at the thought, and for a moment even Star could imagine it clean and new and with shining sails as it slid down the ways.

"It was used for fishing off the Newfoundland Banks," Coates explained, and Star instantly identified the sickish odor that pervaded the place. "After that, she was sold to some rum runners. Then she had a hard life. She was caught by the Coast Guard and the owner shot—right in this room. I'll show you the design made by the machine gun when we get back on deck."

"A man was killed here?" Star stammered.

Coates nodded, and the distaste Star had felt for the boat deepened so she could scarcely pretend an enthusiasm in her host's further reminiscences.

"She was laid up for a time before the Museum bought her. That bunch of fossils wouldn't spend a penny on paint. I could take part of the expedition money, but, after all—"

His hand was laid briefly on hers. Star jumped to her feet and then tried to cover her startled movement with a laugh. "What—what's that hole?" she asked with forced interest. She peered at the dark oval set into the wall and half closed with a shutter-like panel. Coates picked up the lamp and flashed it inside.

"That's the bunk." He raised the light so that she could look at the boards which closed it in above. "See, there's a compass set in the ceiling and a rack for charts there on the side. Now do you believe I'm a real Captain?"

Star backed away hastily. His face had come uncomfortably close to hers. She stumbled over something on the floor and glanced down at it, first indifferently, and then with growing intentness. "That looks like my small suitcase!"

"I've got a little one too. I stumbled over it coming in. Well, shall we go on deck now? The sea's getting heavier. We must be sailing right along now."

"Yes, let's go up." Star hoped her voice didn't betray her anxiety. Coates might have a small case like hers, they were common enough. But it was incredible that his would have a scar on the side just as hers had—a peculiar long scratch that she had made when she was taking it out of the storeroom at the library just a few weeks ago.

There was no time to wonder how the bag had found its present resting place. All her thoughts must be centred on how she could get the bag—and herself—off the boat.

x x x

Gloria's shore trip with Barton Underwood had been anything but a success and when she returned to the Cartagena Barton was not with her. She paid off the driver and walked quickly toward the ship. She was so furious she wanted to stand like a child and scream and stamp her feet. It took all her will power to control herself and walk, her high heels tapping angrily, over to the ship's ladder.

Of all the miserable afternoons! She had endured Barton's dull chatter about what he wanted to buy for his sisters; she had even accompanied him on hot uninteresting excursions into small shops the guide had suggested. She had looked with growing weariness at doeskin and English wools and had sniffed obligingly at bottles of perfume.

When all the purchases were made at last, with Barton stupidly ignoring her hints for a handmade ring that had taken her fancy she had sighed with relief. During the next hour she expected that she could lead the talk to more personal matters. She had decided to refer again to her loneliness, to the difficulties of an attractive girl living without protection in a great city. It was a subject she had dwelt on feelingly during their trip across the Isthmus to Panama and Barton had seemed interested and sympathetic, but he had not suggested any remedy.

Indeed, she had found him eager to talk about everyone but themselves. It was all she could do to listen with a show of interest when he spoke of Elise Cattrell and the tragedy that had marred her life. As if any girl wanted to listen to that by the hour!

ENGAGEMENT ANNOUNCEMENT

Mr. and Mrs. Frank L. Shorey of Sidney, wish to announce the engagement of their eldest daughter, Muriel Evelyn, to Kenneth H., son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Yorke, Corbyville,. The marriage will take place quietly February 3.

ENGAGEMENT ANNOUNCEMENT

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Hagerman, Ivanhoe, announce the engagement of their daughter, Fanny Neva, to Mr. Harry F. Vandervoort, son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Vandervoort, Stirling.

Mr. Jack Rosevear spent the week end with friends in Lindsay.

Mrs. F. Gibbons, Peterborough, who underwent an operation in the Belleville General hospital on Saturday, is progressing favourably.

The home of Mrs. Jules Ethier, Deloro, was the scene of a delightful party on Friday night, when about thirty of her friends assembled to shower Mrs. Eleanor Watson, a recent bride, with beautiful gifts. The evening was spent in bingo and other games. Lunch was served by the Misses Evelyn Ethier and Doris Hogle, Belleville.

Some Socks Look Just Like This

Often Directions Appear No Better Than These to Bewildered Knitters

The following "instructions", contributed to the Ottawa Citizen, by a mythical lady, will be of interest to the thousands of Belleville knitters:

The following supplementary instructions are issued for the benefit and assistance of those loyal women who are actively doing their bit by knitting garments for the troops. For the advanced knitting of socks, the following directions are given in full:

1. Start knitting.
2. Knit two and two together.
3. Drop one — and there are now three left—therefore
4. Slip one, slop one, knit to and fro.
5. Heel and toe, 1, 2, 3, hop
   Before and behind hop,
   Weel may the keel row.
6. Knit one not two,
   Forget one, know two;
   Pick up one, drop it, undrop it,
   Damit, wherethehellisit?
7. To turn the heel
   Cast off two plain,
   Cast them on again.
   Now is the critical moment;
   Look carefully about, if all is well
   Cast off one
   Purl . . .
   Look again,
   Cast off, purl rapidly in all directions.
8. Breathe again.
9. After that it's all plain knitting—therefore
   Drip one, drop one, drop the sock,
   The sock is now grey, therefore,
   Continue knitting grey socks for 18 more rounds.
10. Finish off with buttons at heel and toe and button holes to correspond if possible.

N.B. — There should be holes at the top or elsewhere for inserting ribbons, feet, etc. If there aren't any you should start over again. If after all this the knitter finds that she is becoming teased, twilled, tousled and, in fact, practically worsted, she should, if a Christian, turn the other heel and knit on knotwithstanding. — MARY WOOLANSOCK, directress.

Women of Moose Enjoy Interesting Membership Dinner

At an early hour on Tuesday evening, the Women of the Moose, Belleville Chapter 435, were entertained to a membership dinner at the Delicious Lunch rooms. The members later repaired to the Moose Auditorium where the general meeting was called to order by Senior Regent, Mrs. J. Chapman. In spite of zero weather, there was a good attendance, with members from Smith's Falls, Cobourg, and Trenton. One new member was initiated into the Defending Circle. A letter of appreciation was read from the V.O.N. for service rendered to them.

The "Chapter Night Program" for January was in charge of the Membership Chairman, Mrs. C. St. Louis, who stressed upon the point, that Mooseheart is today what the members of the fraternity have helped to make it, through loyalty and generosity and that much can be done in our local community.

One minute talks were given by ten major committee chairmen on the subject, "Why I joined the Women of the Moose".

Mrs. L. Woodacre, Trenton, Ontario, was the winner of the Sunshine prize.

GOOD MANNERS

MRS. CORNELIUS BEECKMAN

Time to Retire

Dear Mrs. Beeckman

1—Should the guest or the hostess suggest when to retire for the night?

2—When clearing the table after dinner, what should be removed first?

Reader

1—It makes it easier for the hostess if the guest makes the suggestion about retiring, especially if the guest has the grace to sense "just the right time." However, if the hostess sees that her guest is uncertain that this privilege is hers, she may properly make the suggestion. For instance, she may say, "I know that you have had a long trip today, and you may be tired. Don't hesitate to tell us if you would like to go to bed early".

If you think you're being thoughtful in making the early-to-bed suggestion, and your suggestion is vetoed by your hosts, you will have to be very wise in trying to decide how seriously to take this veto. Your hosts may really wish to stay up later, or they may be trying to be polite. If you linger, you may be wrong in your interpretation. If you say "Good night", the chances are you'll be right.

This problem is more difficult on the first evening of your arrival for a visit. After that you can observe the wishes and habits of the household, and suggest your suggestion accordingly.

2—After the roast course, the used dinner plates are removed first, and then any serving-dishes that may be on the table. After the salad course, the salad plates are removed first then the bread-and-butter plates if these are on the table; then the salts and peppers, any unused silverpieces and nut dishes are taken off on a small serving-tray or plate. Next the crumbs are brushed from each place onto a tray or plate held under the edge of the table. Then the places are ready for the serving of the desert.

Secretly Married

Dear Mrs. Beeckman

We were married secretly several months ago, and we would like to announce our marriage. Kindly let us know what wording should be used on the announcement form, and what type of announcement we should use.

Is it proper to send one announcement, announcing the marriage and stating that we will be at our apartment after a certain date? How should the newspaper announcement read?

Grace

There are two schools of thought about the form of announcing a marriage that has taken place quite a time before the announcement is to be made. Some people think that the same form of announcement (the engraved form) should be sent out as would be sent out directly after a marriage ceremony had been performed. There is nothing incorrect about this, but it does call attention to the discrepancy in time.

Other people maintain (and I agree with them) that it is more consistent with the unconventionality of the wedding to make the announcement informally. Therefore, instead of sending formal announcements, they think it better taste for the couple, when they decide to announce their marriage, to tell their relatives and friends and to write to those too far away to be told by word of mouth. After all, these are the people most concerned with the news. After all, the news will spread rapidly enough!

In either case—whether formal announcements are sent, or notes are written— it isn't necessary to send an announcement to the newspapers, and this usually isn't done. The newspaper notice certainly does call attention to the tardiness of the announcement, both to those who know the couple, and those who do not.

I like very much the plan of giving a tea or other informal kind of party after the "informing" notes have been sent. This may be given either by the bride's mother and father in their home, or by the bride and bridegroom in their new home.

503 Births Recorded In City in Past Year

Belleville's population increased by approximately 223 persons during 1939, according to vital statistics released today by City Hall officials. Births numbered 503 while deaths were registered at 280.

November proved the most popular months for babies, fifty-four of both sexes being born in that month.

Dan Cupid got his heavy work in in April instead of the traditional June, thirty-six couples taking their vows during the month of showers. Two hundred marriages comprise the total for the year.

Blustery March took the heaviest toll of lives, thirty-five deaths occuring during that month.

Daughters of England Instal 1940 Officers

Pride of Belleville, No. 87, Daughters of England, held their installation of officers for the year 1940 in their lodge rooms at True Blue Hall on Monday evening, January 15th. The installing officer was Wor. Sis. E. M. Savage assisted by Sis. F. Lovering who acted as Grand Guide. The list of officers installed were as follows—

Past President—Sis. A. Smith.
Wor. President—Sis. A. Hilton.
Vice President—Sis. M. Taylor.
Chaplain—Wor. Sis. Ellarby.
Secretary—Bro. W. J. Savage.
Treasurer—Wor. Sis. R. Stapley
1st Guide—Sis. M. Revell.
2nd Guide—Sis. J. Parrish.
3rd Guide—Wor. Sis. A. Jordan.
4th Guide—Sis. M. Austin.
Ins. Guard—Sis. H. Stapley.
Physician Elected — Dr. G. S. Cronk.

Auditors—Sisters A. Jordan, M. Taylor, M. Revell.

Trustees—Sisters E. Ellarby and M. Austin.

The Worthy President on behalf of the Lodge presented Worthy Sister Stapley with a beautiful bouquet of 'mums and daffodils, as a mark of their appreciation for her untiring efforts and work connected with her office as treasurer during several years in that position. Worthy Sister Stapley was taken completely by surprise and thanked the Lodge for their kind consideration.

The Lodge having attained the 16th year of its institution the occasion was fittingly celebrated at the conclusion of business by a banquet, the husbands and friends of the members having been invited to attend. It was gratifying to see such a good number present. After Grace was sung all sat down to partake of the good things provided. Paper caps and favors were distributed which made a colorful display. After hearty appetites had been appeased to the full extent, Community singing was enjoyed with Sister Lovering at the piano. Then all sat down to Bingo each trying to win as many times as possible. The winners turned out to be Sister Parrish for the ladies, and Brother Savage for the gentlemen. The prizes for the best paper hats were given to Sister Taylor and Miss Lovering.

Great credit is due to Worthy Sister Hilton and all who helped to make the occasion the delightful success it turned out to be.

The midnight hour was drawing near when the gathering dispersed. With the memory of another good get together which all goes to help make life worth living. .

NEGLECTED CONSTIPATION SERIOUS FOR BABY

BABY'S daily movements are something of which absolutely accurate track must be kept. When he misses something must be done at once. Constipation is serious for baby.

Mrs. John T. Her Fiance Likes to Hear Her Sing

Dear Miss Fairfax

In the past month I've become engaged to the swellest fellow who is very fond of music, especially singing. I've sung for him, and he thinks I have a lovely voice, and would like me to take some training. However, my salary is too small to afford this luxury. How can I get some special training, without the expense of private lessons?

Patricia

Nowadays, most churches have a choir of mixed voices. Why not offer your services there? Or you might join a choral club or a singing society at the Y.W.C.A. Look in the Music Section of the Sunday papers, where you will often find notices of different choral unions, some of which are asking for more members. I am sure you won't have any trouble getting into any of these organizations.

I'm glad your fiance wants you to keep on with your singing.

He Wrote to Remind Her He Hadn't Forgotten

Dear Miss Fairfax

While I was a senior in high school I met a young man, who was a junior, and we went together until I graduated. He continued to see me at my home, and asked me several times if I could wait till he was old enough, to marry him, and I was willing to do that.

All at once he stopped coming. I don't know what could have happened, but he never came again. Then he sent me a Christmas card and on it he wrote that he hadn't forgotten me. Do you think I ought to write and thank him for the card? I haven't seen him for three years now, but I still love him and would be glad to have him come back. However, I don't want to seem forward. How can I get his friendship back again?

Wondering

I think it would be quite all right to thank the young man for the card and say something to the effect that you still remember how pleasant were your high school days. Don't make the note too strong or too sentimental. Men who have let a good deal of time slip by without writing or seeing a girl are apt to regard an ardent reply to a Christmas card as so much fly-paper. They are not for any immediate entanglements.

There's no telling what happened in that long period of silence. He may have fallen in love with someone else. May be he couldn't afford to marry and felt it unfair to you to keep up the friendship. Anyhow he's fluttered a faint signal which, as you still love him, it's all right to recognize and return. However, don't appear too anxious.

How Many Dates Should an Engaged Couple Have With Each Other?

Dear Miss Fairfax

Your column has often been of help to me in giving valuable information, but I've never seen a problem just like mine.

I'm engaged to the grandest fellow, and we are both very much in love. The question is: How often are we supposed to see each other? I'd like him to be here every evening, but I think that's too selfish, as I'm sure his mother and sisters would like to have an occasional evening with him. Am I right?

Marian

Someone has said: "When in doubt use common sense." I think it's very thoughtful of you to want your fiance to spend some time at home. Many young men have obligations, in the way of work to do in the evening, or family engagements, and it would be a mistake to insist on his putting these aside to be with you.

Then again, young folks who are engaged have many things to discuss: Budgets to plan, color schemes to choose, etc., so that they can't be kept apart very long at a time.

My suggestion is, even if there is nothing to keep you apart from each other, that it is a good plan to keep one or two free evenings a week.

DR. DAFOE'S COLUMN on the Quintuplets and the Care of Your Children

Congenital Dislocation of the Hip

Probably you have seen in the street a person walking with a peculiar rolling gait, one leg quite a bit shorter than the other, and have wondered what caused this defect. This in most cases is due to a condition which was there at birth and which wasn't discovered in time to prevent it from becoming a handicap for life. I refer to what we call congenital dislocation of the hip.

This isn't a good name for the trouble, but I can't think of a better one that isn't too long. The objection to the name is that it implies that the hip was dislocated when the child was born. This usually isn't true. The fact is that the head of the thigh bone and the hollow in the pelvic structure which should fit around this head to form a universal joint, were malformed at birth. The result was that as soon as the child began to move his legs around, the thigh bone wouldn't remain in the socket provided for it. It had a tendency to slip out, causing dislocation.

This condition is often difficult to detect early in the baby's life. Sometimes the only indication is that the child is able to swing one or both his hips around more freely than can an ordinary child. If when the young child throws one leg toward the other leg you can hear a sharp clicking sound, you have definite reason to suspect the existence of the defect to which I refer.

Sometimes the condition isn't detected until the child begins to walk. But then it is relatively easy to see there is something wrong. The child will adopt a queer sort of rolling gait, especially if only one side is affected. When he stands still he is apt to appear knock-kneed, the thighs being wider than usual but coming to the usual width at the knees. We find that this malformed hip condition is more common with girls than with boys and affects only one leg more often than it does both.

One of the Quintuplets, little Annette, had a malformation of the hip approximating the condition we are now discussing. We noticed that one leg swung differently from the other when she was between three and four months old. On examination we found, that the hip bone and the socket weren't properly formed. Considered that the Quints were at least, two months premature I suppose it shouldn't have been surprising for this condition to exist.

Fortunately, this malformation wasn't terribly grave. Ordinarily the treatment for it calls for a plaster cast, but little Annette was in no shape for such a thing. So we kept her in bed, as still as we could, and fed her plenty of bone-building vitamins—cod liver oil and fruit juices.

It was a revelation how quickly nature fixed that hip up. X-ray pictures showed us how the extra vitamins went to work to build the hip up to a normal condition Today you would never suspect from seeing her walk and run that Annette had had any such trouble. She is as active as any of them and there is not the faintest trace of a limp.

HOUSEHOLD HINT

Those quaint-looking wrappers, farthingales and camisoles that only recently inspired chuckles when unearthed from old trunks or pictured in old advertisements, are being gladly reclaimed by persons fortunate enough to own them. Since the cambrics, nainsooks and handmade laces of which they are made are once again fashionable, most of these garments can be ripped apart, given a good soap and water washing, and made into modern versions of the originals.

AIKEN'S W.M.S.

The January meeting of the Aiken's Women's Missionary Society was held on Wednesday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Bush with an attendance of 18.

Quiet music, with Mrs. Lee Grills at the piano and "Keeping Tryst," read by the president, Mrs. Thos. Irwin, opened the meeting.

"Joy to the World" was sung and Miss Jennie Moon, Mrs. Lee Grills, Mrs. Fred Moon, Mrs. (Rev.) Scott, Mrs. W. Bailey, Mrs. Sam Marshall and Mrs. C. McMullen read the Scripture.

The theme of the worship service being "The World Outlook of Jesus", passages were read depicting the contrast in the religion of peoples who have lost the "world outlook," with Jesus' vision which was as wide as the world. The teaching of Jesus is, in its very nature, universal in its appeal. The Lord's Prayer voices the needs of humanity. The love of God and love of man were to Him the sum of the Commandments and the infinite value of every human soul demands international brotherhood.

The annual reports of the various secretaries were given. The recording secretary, Mrs. Fred Westover, reported 22 members and six life members, with an average attendance of 17. Eighteen members subscribed to the Missionary Monthly during the past year. Any who are ill in the neighborhood, at home, or in hospital, are remembered as evidenced by the fine report given by the corresponding secretary, Mrs. Selburn Westover.

The treasurer, Mrs. Fred Moon, reported the society having raised $184.10 during the year.

Startling facts were brought before the members by Mrs. Perry Hamilton, in presenting "The Miracle of Modern India," a part of the first chapter of the Study Book, "Moving Millions." World news is bringing before us constantly, she said, the political situation in India. This chapter vividly presents this picture, taking the form of a discussion, one group presenting the claims of Indian Nationalists, and another the situation as it confronts the British government. The choices of an Indian Christian as set forth by Dr. Stanley Jones, with a plea that India be given by missionaries and by Indian Christians, Christ's gospel of the Kingdom of God on earth, closes the chapter.

Mrs. Hamilton also told of Narayan Tilak, a cultured scholar of India, who became a Christian and for twenty-one years served the Church of Christ in India, as pastor, college professor and writer of hymns for the new Christians. When Tilak died in 1919 there was held, at his request, in place of a funeral, a festival, when the strains of his finest hymns sounded the theme of his life. No. 279 as found in the Hymnary was read in unison at the conclusion of the talk by Mrs. Hamilton.

The installation of the officers for 1940 was conducted by the pastor, Rev. L. W. Scott. The hymn, "In Christ there is no east nor west" was sung and "a prayer in time of war" as written by Rev. Robert Haddow, was read and the meeting was closed with prayer by Rev. Scott.

A dainty lunch was served by the hostesses and a social half hour spent at the close of the meeting.

REVIVAL MEETINGS WELL ATTENDED

The Revival Crusade marches on at the Church of the Nazarene and is being conducted by the Olson Sisters of Long Island, New York. The inclement weather does not seem to be a hindrance to the attendance, for goodly numbers are attending nightly. The crusaders are vieing with one another as to whom will invite the most to attend the campaign. The three highest winners in the crusade will receive a love token on the last night of the campaign. Anyone desiring to be a crusader can come in and enter the race for the advancement of an old fashioned revival of religion. It is great to hear these people sing who are having a good time at the old-time revival meeting. Come and bring someone with you. Service is open every night excepting Saturday. Sister Mary gives a fifteen-minute prelude on her electric vibra-harp. She will play your favorite hymns and sacred songs. The meetings are being held in Dundas Street Mission.

Workmen's Compensation Bd. Record is Fully Explained

John Harold, Chairman of Board, Addresses Employers and Employees in Collegiate Auditorium

ORGANIZED 25 YEARS

The record of the Workmen's Compensation Board of Ontario during its twenty-five years of existence, is not only one of which the province might be proud, but one that is looked upon with deep emphasis by compensation boards of the world, Mr. John Harold, Chairman of that organization, Toronto, declared here last night.

Speaking before upwards of two hundred industrial employers and employees of the Central Ontario District, in the Belleville Collegiate Institute Auditorium, Mr. Harold declared, "nothing can approach us in our success, insofar as affecting employer, employee and the public in general is concerned."

"Previous to the organization of the Board, twenty-five years ago, there was a dark age in industry, when employees received no protection, and employers were always threatened with serious lawsuits," the speaker said in a highly interesting address in which he reviewed the work of the Board, explained its aims and benefits and drew a comparison with a number of similar American organizations.

Society Has No Secrets

A friendly society, one that is always in contact with people, has no secrets, observes an "open door" policy and goes out of its way to give people information, the Board, the speaker said, during its quarter-century of service has had accident claims amounting to $1,373,000.00 or an accident for every worker in Ontario.

Homes have been saved, workers given medical care and hospitalization, rehabilitation secured and partial and full disability paid. Out of this amount of money, 135 millions have been paid in disbursements or awards. Twenty-five millions of dollars now lie in a Pension Fund to take care of 10,000 injured workmen, Permanent disability cases or widows and children of workers killed or who died of industrial disease.

Pension System Explained

Explaining the Pension system of the Board, Mr. Harold pointed out, that the full amount of the pension is set aside to pay the recipient for life. The exact amount is placed in the fund based on the amount paid, the age and possibility of life of the recipient. Illustrating his point, the speaker declared that a widow of a man killed in 1926, who had 9 children will cost the Board in pension a total amount of $12,374. This amount has been set aside in full, and carries interest which helps make the payments.

The Board has no surplus fund, he said, it has however, a certain reserve fund in trust for employers, as working capital, of $2,200,000. Employers are charged the exact cost of accidents in their respective groups.

The Board has grown tremendously in the 25 years of its existence, Mr. Harold said. Fifty-five percent of earnings was the full compensation, with no medical aid or hospitalization, when it was first originated. Gradually partial medical aid, then complete medical aid and hospitalization was included. Since then, 20 million dollars have been expended for this purpose. The Board does not stop at cost for the best medical aid so that the worker can get on his feet as quickly as possible. "If this is not possible" he said, "then we endeavour to place him in some wage-earning capacity."

250 Accidents Daily

An average of 250 accidents daily from all industries, and parts of Ontario, reach the office, the speaker declared. "However, we have the finest organization of experts engaged to look after these claims. It is a tremendous problem, gathering all necessary information, but it is done with the least bit of trouble."

There are sometimes complaints, Mr. Harold declared, "but of over 1,300,000 claims, which can be opened at any time, not more than one per cent can be regarded as being not satisfied.

If complainants come into the board office and it is found that disability has increased, then extra compensation is paid.

The most outstanding feature of the Compensation Act is that the board has final powers of adjudication from which there can be no appeal. Its record of 25 years shows this is justified.

Employers' money has been used in a mutual insurance company set up within the board itself and the result has been wonderful financial benefits, the speaker pointed out. There are no percentage deductions below wages of $12.50 per week. Death benefits have been increased. Silicosis cost the board an average of $11,000.

"Of every dollar we collect from the employer, 96c goes to the worker or his benefit. It costs $1.04 in Ontario to get one dollar back to the claimant. A survey of other organizations revealed it cost South Africa, $1.55; Missouri, $1.95; Oklahoma, $1.95; Florida, $2.13; Tennessee, $2.50; Indiana, $2.58. We should be proud of our figures," he said.

Costs to Employers Vary

Comparisons of costs to employers in Ontario and New York were greatly varied, such as logging, Mr. Harold explained. In Ontario this industry cost the employer $5 on each $100. In New York it cost $18.60. Other industries vary greatly too, and under this high cost the amount of benefit is cut down because of the heavy burden to the employer. Exorbitant costs of claims and legal fees cuts down the benefit to a mere trifle in some parts of the U.S.A. "That is what we would have here if the Compensation Act had not been passed," he added.

"Two things go hand in hand," it was pointed out by Mr. Harold—"large benefits and low assessments. After twenty-five years there has been no suggestion to change the fundamental principles of the Act. No one will argue that the board should not have the responsibility of full adjudication. We do our best to arrive at a fair decision and while responsibility is a difficult one, we are at all times prepared to shoulder it in the interests of all."

Referring to accident prevention, Mr. Harold told his audience that the act provides for the formation of Accident Prevention Associations with the board providing the funds. "In this work" he said, "we are part of your work. It is our responsibility to see that we help you. But we need your help to do our part to heal injuries, and re-establish the worker in his job"

Accident prevention is doing a grand job in this district, the speaker declared. "I believe it is possible to cut down accidents 50 per cent. and if workers were in groups, to cut them down 75 per cent. A large Ontario industrial firm, he said, had reduced its accident costs from $3.94 on $100 in 1934 to a 25 cent rate this year.

He paid tribute to the inspector method in factories. "It has not only saved losses in injuries but also the loss of men to the plant and other cost that are incurred through accidents." It is the union of the employer and employee, and their mutual interests that is a great factor in the reduction of accident costs, he added.

Has Fine Record

Concluding, Mr. Harold told his audience that the last twenty-five years will live in history because no other organization in the world has a record that has so completely fulfilled the purpose of its founder, as the Workmen's Compensation Board. "We want to do our best to maintain that record, preserve its traditions, so that we can pass it on to future generations."

The speaker was introduced by His Worship Mayor Glen. E. Thompson, who in turn was presented to the gathering by Mr. J. H. Legate, Canada Cement Company's Point Anne superintendent. Mr. Norman Dean, W.C.B., statistician, was on the stage and offered to answer any questions asked. F. W. H. Brooks, district inspector officiated at a drawing in which five door prizes were given away.

A pleasant feature of the meeting and one enjoyed by all were several selections given by the Belleville Municipal Band under Lieut. Fred Jobson. A novel departure of this part of the program was the conducting of the band by Inspector Brooks, himself a bandmaster in Port Hope.

Previous to the meeting, W. C. B. officials and local Accident Prevention Association officers held an informal conference over dinner at the Dickens Tea-Shop.

Little Benny's Note Book

We was eating breakfist and pop started to laugh out loud to himself, saying to ma, Excuse my ribbald laughter, but I cant help it whenever I think of that goofy looking Horace Entwhisle showing up here last night with his head as bald as an egg after you insisting all these years that his hair was naturelly wavy and not frizzy.

Well what of it, everybody knows that time marches on, hair included ma said. Do you fondly imagine that your own hair hasn't undergone certain important alteration? she said, and pop said, I still retain a moderately luxurious growth around my ears, and that's sufficient for a modest man like me, but when I think of your curly headed boy friend, hahaha pardon my mirth.

And pardon mine when I think of the present aspect of your baby face girl friend Estelle Daggers, because I'm positive that she has 3 or more chins by this time and that the remainder of her is equally billowy in proportion, ma said, and pop said, Now that's hardly fair, if beauty was all Estelle had, as you have always claimed, it's hardly to be expected that nature would take even that away. I'll tell you what I'll do, I know she lives somewhere in town, I think she married a lucky chap named Crickledorf, or Van Eppen, or MacMiff or something of the sort, I'll look her up and we'll have her here for dinner, just as we had Horace Entwhissle, he said.

Why the idea such an idea, ma said. In the first place I didn't telephone Horace in cold blood, he called up himself out of a clear sky, she said, and pop said, Okay, but think how elated you'd be to see her with your own eyes just as wide and wavy as you imagine her.

I can feel equally elated by being just as certain of it in my mind's eye, because I know the type, thank you, and there will be no invitation, ma said.

Wich there proberly wont.

Flyers Trim Peterboro 2-1 With 2nd Period Offensive And Tie for Loop Leadership

Laurie Gibson Invincible as Petes Send Wave on Wave at His Citadel

IRVINE STANDS OUT

Fifteen Penalties Handed Out by Referee Armstrong With Flyers Drawing Seven

Unleashing a torrid second period attack that netted them two goals and victory, the R.C.A.F. "Flyers" moved into a tie with the Peterboro' Petes with a well earned 2-1 victory over the Liftlock City pucksters in Group No. 1 of the intermediate 'A' O.H.A. series at the Hume Arena here last night when as keen a sheet of ice ever afforded two hockey teams was given the contesting clubs. The victory for the birdmen gave them two group wins with a loss, which equalled the season's record of the highly heralded Petes.

Letting the Buckland-led Peterboro' pucksters carry the play for the greater part of the pastime, the Flyers seemed to bide their time to prove opportunists with a splurging second period attack that proved most prolific and netted the Holway-led sextette two goals and gave the homesters a decided advantage which they protected with fervor in the dying moments.

Petes Showed Speed.

The Petes carried too much speed in the initial frame and were seen to actually check the airmen at every turn of the game, but were continually thwarted from scoring by the sensational goal-tending of Laurie Gibson in the Air Force nets. There was no score in the initial frame despite the fact that both teams were handicapped by penalties which were naturally followed by power plays, but saw no scoring as both squads laid down a strong and irresistible defence.

Early in the middle session, however, "Red" Cameron carried the length of the ice and into the corner from where he cleared to the stick of Legris who promptly whipped the rubber into the Peterboro' net for the initial score of as closely checked a game as has been seen locally in many a moon. Inspired by their efforts the Flyers moved to the offensive and literally carried the play before them to have Gathercoll race into the Peterboro' zone and pick up a loose puck and score as his shot deflected off Ellis' leg into the Peterboro' net. The Air Force were most effective in this period as McLeod raced through to have Harding, the Peterboro' goalie, beat all of the way for a goal which ultimately was called back by Referee Armstrong as Gathercoll became apparently over-anxious and was slightly off-side. The middle session terminated with Gibson making several sensational saves after Higgins took a penalty, leaving the birdmen short-handed.

Gibson Invincible.

Early in the third period the Petes issued an ultimatum that they intended to carry the offensive into the Flyers' territory and continually bombarded Gibson, who was practically invincible. As the Petes moved five forward to the attack, however, Eddie Starr rapped the Petes' lone counter behind Gibson as he stood practically on the goal-line to whip home Jopling's forward pass and make the count 2-1.

Seconds later Lemieux took a penalty for slashing and a khaki-clad soldier leaped to the ice in excitement, but when he was joined by an Air Force air-craftsman, a subdued fistic encounter was soon subdued and peace was restored by Referee Armstrong before any major trouble resulted.

Lauris Gibson, the Flyers' veteran goalie, was beyond question the star of the game with his repeated and sensational saves as he literally rose to heights to thwart the speedy Petes. "Pops" Irvine, the veteran Air Force defenceman, followed Gibson in the honor roll with his sturdy defence and timely rushing. Irvine stood out as the star of the piece. Legris, Lemieux and Gathercoll all played timely hockey for the winners. Gardiner and Crowe carried the Petes' defence, with Starr, Kingdon and Blewett carrying the front line mail, as Tompkins skated far but missed many scoring opportunities.

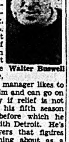
WALTER BUSWELL

Canadiens.



Walter Buswell

Last season Walter Buswell scored three goals for Canadiens, to set himself a new personal high for goals in a season. Of course he is a defenceman, but even most blue lines players better that mark, except that Walter sticks to protecting his goal instead of attacking, and many N.H.L. forwards will attest that he is one of the hardest men in the league to get around. He's the steady, dependable, durable player any manager likes to have playing for him and can go on playing indefinitely if relief is not available. This is his fifth season with Canadiens, before which he served out three with Detroit. He's one of those players that figures prove almost nothing about as a glance at his seven-year total shows: nine goals, 37 assists for 46 points, plus 154 minutes in penalties. Born in the city he is playing in, he started with St. Francis Xavier junior and senior teams, turning pro with Chicago Shamrocks in the American Association. Thirty-one years old. Despite his "Englishy" name he's a French-Canadian, in the true tradition of the team he is now playing with. Can fire phrases at you with equal facility in two languages.

BELLEVILLE "Y" WINS CAGE GAME FROM KINGSTON

Art Cole Scores 24 Points for His Team in 51-46 Victory

WIDE-OPEN GAME

Finlay for Kingston Was High Scorer With Sixteen Points

Paced by their veteran centre player, the Belleville "Y" won their initial game of the E.O.B.A. when Art Cole scored 24 points as the local cagers won over the Kingston "Y" on the Campbell Street Association floor last night by a 51 to 46 score.

Playing at practical even terms throughout the initial provincial basketball game of the current season, the Belleville cagers forged to a 31 to 24 advantage in the initial half and protected their advantage with offensive play in the last stanza.

Cole, with 24 points, led the scoring of the game with teammate Herb Burly getting ten points. For Kingston, Finlay, Sheppard and Monteith accounted for the greater number of the losers' points.

BARONS NOSE OUT SYRACUSE STARS

Cleveland Begins to Roll and Are Now Second in Their Division

(By the Canadian Press)

The Cleveland Barons are beginning to roll again and the team that was holding down last place in its section a week ago now is in second.

Champions of the International-American Hockey League last season, Cleveland broke a three-way tie for the second spot in the western division last night by nosing out Syracuse Stars 2-1 in the only game played.

Veteran Peggy O'Neil scored the goal that broke up a close game, scoring for Cleveland late in the second period. Cleveland's defence pair of Molyneaux and Robertson sent the Barons into the lead in the first period, with Molyneaux getting the goal.

In the second session Harry Foster scored for the Stars on a blueline shot after taking a pass from Doggie Kuhn but a three-way passing play among O'Neil, Blake and Hansen ended with O'Neil beating Goalie Billy Beveridge for the winning goal.

CORNWALL MAN JOINS RED WINGS

Stan Robertson, 21, Will Play Against Leafs in Toronto Saturday

Detroit, Jan. 17—(CP)—Manager Jack Adams of Detroit Red Wings announced last night that Stan Robertson, 21-year-old centre star with Cornwall of the Quebec Senior Hockey League, will join the Wings for their national league game against the Maple Leafs at Toronto Thursday.

Adams said that after the game Robertson probably will be shipping down to the Detroit farm at Indianapolis, where Herbie Lewis' International-American League Club is badly in need of replacements.

Ogdensburg Colts To Play in Auburn

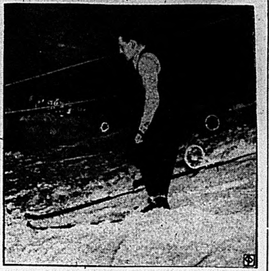
Ogdensburg, N.Y., Jan. 17—(AP)—George (Knotty) Lee, owner and manager of the Ogdensburg Colts, said today his Canadian-American League Baseball team will operate this year in Auburn.

The Auburn Falcon Club offer to take over the franchise has been accepted, thereby assuring the return of Auburn to the league after a lapse of a year.

Transfers of the Ogdensburg franchise followed decisions of Ottawa and Cornwall, Canadian clubs to leave the circuit during the war. Oneonta may replace Ottawa and Schenectady may obtain Cornwall's franchise.

BASIC SKIING

Stopping on a Slope



Tomm Murstad illustrates "putting on the brakes" on a hill

This is the third of six articles on skiing written for Central Press Canadian and this paper by Tomm Murstad, young Norwegian teacher and star who has won all the major amateur titles in Europe.

By TOMM MURSTAD

The legs ought to be in pretty good shape now, what with knee bends, leg thrusts and kick turns. Walking, if you've really been working at it, should have discouraged any pigeon-toed tendencies you may have had. The alternate movements of the ski poles cooperating with the easy, rhythmic glide of the skis has probably made you itch to try a slope. Go ahead. But pick out a comparatively gentle one. At this point there's only one thing to remember: keep the skis absolutely parallel.

At the top of the slope? All right. Push off with the ski poles and let her go. By keeping the skis fairly close together and definitely parallel you'll follow a straight line to the bottom—we hope.

Now go up and try it again. This time you'll notice that unconsciously your knees are bent just a trifle, that your arms are fairly close to your sides and the ski poles are carried so that they just clear the snow. The whole carriage of the body is easy and elastic with just the slightest hint of a forward lean of the body. That all comes from the sense of balance you've developed in other sports.

But what about slowing down or breaking the speed? The "snow plow" does that and its effectiveness depends upon you. In order to decrease the speed with which you're taking that slope, slide the ends of the skis wide apart which means that their tips will come almost together, forming a V. Keep this position strongly and steadily.

Notice in the illustration here that although my skis are widely separated, my feet are on an even line. Also notice the easy, erect position of the torso slightly bent forward from the hips. In skiing all degrees of bend of body come from the hips, never from the waist. The steeper the grade of the slope the more acute the forward bend of the body.

It's all a matter of balance based on the principle of keeping the body perfectly perpendicular to the slope.

Tomorrow Tomm Murstad will describe proper execution of the stem turn.

PLAYERS CANNOT BE SIGNED TO BLANK CONTRACTS

Judge Landis Makes Ruling After Handing Down Recent Decision

STATEMENT GIVEN

Secret Player Transfers Will Cost Club Committing Offence $500

Chicago, Jan. 17—(AP)— Kenesaw Mountain Landis, Commissioner of Baseball, in a new ruling today, warned that in every instance of secret player transfers each club concerned would be fined $500 and each club official or employee participating would be placed on the ineligible list.

Landis also ruled that players must not be signed to blank contracts and that a true copy of the contract must be given the player; also that players cannot be signed for other clubs, directly or indirectly, whether owned, affiliated or independent.

The Commissioner declared that "working agreements" must be executed by the club actually making them and cannot be executed in the names of affiliated or subsidiary clubs.

Tigers Not Affected

Detroit, Jan. 17—(AP)— Walter O. Briggs, whose Detroit baseball club lost 91 players when they were declared free agents by Commissioner Kenesaw Landis Sunday, said today he did not believe the team would be handicapped in 1940 by the decision.

Briggs' statement was sent from his winter home at Miami Beach, Fla., and issued by club officials here. It said:—

"I have received Commissioner Landis' recent decision. We have surely been fully penalized for any mistakes or wrongdoings within the organization. The cost of this is mine and will be properly taken care of.

"This decision will affect our minor league operations but I do not think it will handicap the Detroit Tigers this season. We are always in the market for seasoned ball players and we are willing to pay the best price for them.

"We shall now have to bend our efforts more in this direction. I think we can assure the fans of this—the best and most loyal baseball city in our country—of an interesting and competitive ball club for this year. This is the only way we can thank or repay them for their loyalty.

"There is nothing more to be said at this time."

CALLING 'EM

Between the Lines

with

Ken J. Colling

It's all even in the district O.H.A. group between the Flyers and the Petes, each having won over each other and in addition taken the Redmen for the proverbial ride. Last night the Holway-led sextette from the Air Force seemed to bide their time, set up a strong defence, with Laurie Gibson in the nets being the principal individual, and move to the front with a strong middle session attack that netted them two goals and a 2-1 victory over the Liftlock City squad. First and foremost there is no denying—the Petes were out to win and we have to give them the nod as being the aggressors in the first and third period, but when it came to scoring goals, the Air Force applied the pressure in the middle stanza to score two and win.

Actually the Petes carried more speed than the Flyers, but paced by the veteran "Pop" Irvine, the "Birdmen" played a more steady game which resulted in victory. Outside of Irvine the Flyers' defence was woefully weak which resulted in Gibson being called upon to make continual sensational saves and it is now admitted that Gibson's work in the Flyers' nets was actually the difference between victory and defeat as Laurie was sensational last night. Other Flyers who impressed were Legris, Lemieux and the slight Gathercoll, but Coach Holway has a problem on his hands to have more goals scored in his favour as Gibson and Irvine can't always hold up the picture.

We sat astounded at the speed exemplified by the Petes, especially in the first and third periods when they applied the pressure. Tompkins, a former Belleville product, missed several scoring opportunities. Eddie Starr, Bun Kingdon and Les Burton were actually flying on the blades and it was only the great work of Gibson that kept these kids from the scoring column. Defensively Crowe and Gardner mowed 'em down (as Charlie McCarthy would say), but despite the fact the Petes ridiculed Referee "Army" Armstrong, we are satisfied they were slightly or perhaps too zealous to pull the said "Charlie McCarthy" in the defensive respect.

The Petes introduced two new plays to the Belleville hockey fans. First they tried the new New York Ranger play when their team was short-handed by virtue of a penalty, namely moving four to the attack when short-handed. The result almost proved a boomerang but may develop. Secondly, we marvelled in their defensive play, as introduced by Coach Buckland. When the Flyers were on the attack, the Petes' defence moved out to meet the oncoming forwards in an effort to halt them, while the retarding forwards skated back behind the defence line to make-up a second line of defence, which is a play that has possibilities, providing the club putting it into practice has speed along the front-line, such as the Petes.

Driscoll, goalie for the R.C.A.F. "Bees," sustained a concussion and was rushed to the Kingston Hospital directly after Monday night's game at Gananoque. Driscoll slumped to the ice at the conclusion of the play and later became unconscious in the dressing room. It is believed he sustained an accidental blow on the head earlier in the game, which did not effect him until later. In the meantime, and while Driscoll is recuperating, Jack Christie, former Sudbury junior goal-tender, will replace Driscoll in the "Bees" nets when they meet the Gannanoque "Combines" Thurs. night. After their sound 11 to 0 defeat at the hands of the Gow-Hastie led Gananoque sextette Monday, the Air Force "Bees" have sent out an S.O.S. for additional players to bolster their roster and endeavour to climb back into the group race with a win over Gananoque here Thursday. If for no other reason however, local hockey fans should avail themselves of the opportunity to see that heralded Hastie-Gow pair in action at the Hume Arena Thursday night.

The Kingston scribe tells us that Smiths Falls has agreed to assume the R.C.A. "Signal" basketball playing dates in the E.O.B.A. The Signals were forced to withdraw from competitive sports recently, leaving a vacancy in the Eastern Ontario cage set-up. The "Railway Town" cagers are desirous of making trips to Belleville and the Air Force and also stated they would be willing to play their home games, versus the above two teams, on the Queens gymnasium floor, thus saving the local "Y" squad and the Flyers a lengthy trip to Smiths Falls. Doubtless their application to assume the Signals playing dates will be accepted all around, as it is many years since an Ottawa Valley sports team has appeared in Belleville. Incidentally the E.O.B.A. opened here last night when the Belleville "Y" paced by the elongated Art Cole, won their initial league game by the score of 51 to 46 in as sterling a game as one could wish for on a basketball court.

We wonder who the member of the R.C.A.F. "Flyers" hockey team was who made sure his "heart-throb" would be warm at all the season's hockey games this year and the novel wearing apparel he provided to assure the desired warmth?

SPORT SPICE — Many hockey players, who opposed the Belleville Redmen and the Flyers in a R.C.A. "Gunner" uniform last November in the Van Horne Memorial, were seen in action playing hockey in London, England, recently, when the Harringway Greyhounds beat the "Gunners" 8-5. ....Jack Belwa and Jimmie Hanlon of Kingston were two of the R.C.A. team, both of these players being well-known to Belleville puck opposition in years past .. .. Considerable military pomp and dignity was seen all through the game with many Canadian and British army officers present to add to the picture. ..There is happiness in the ranks of the Toronto Maple Leafs today as their chief goal-getter, Gordie Drillon is scheduled to return to N.H.L. action tomorrow night.....Can't say as we've seen Laurie Gibson quite as keen and alert as he was last night to finish off with.

HEATING HINTS
by James Stewart

ONE of the most common complaints voiced by home-owners is to the effect that the draft is so poor that the fire will not stay in. Usually this condition can be remedied by the location of the cause . . . and the cause nearly always lies in one of the five following places:

1.—A leaking chimney flue; this is sometimes caused by rust or careless joining of the flue pipe sections;

2.—Poor chimney construction; many times we find a chimney that is so narrow that it is practically impossible to get sufficient draft. Again we often find a decorative arch across the top of the chimney opening on the roof. This may be pleasing from a scenic viewpoint, but it prevents your fire from getting the proper draft (see illustration showing fourteen defects that may be found in chimneys)

3.—Fly ash (carbon) accumulation in the gas passages; this can be eliminated by having the gas passages, as well as the entire furnace, thoroughly vacuum-cleaned at regular intervals . . . at least once a year.

4.—The pipe projecting into chimney, beyond the wall surface; the flue pipe should be placed flush with the inside of the wall nearest the chimney opening;

5.—Turn damper rusted shut; naturally the turn damper in your flue pipe should be movable, so that when you turn the handle the disc inside the pipe will move.

If you have difficulty in locating the cause of insufficient draft, consult an expert. (18

For Thursday, January 18

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

VERY productive and enterprising conditions are presaged for this day, according to the lunar and mutual aspects. There may be much stress and excitement, probably in the effort to put over new and original programs. Innovation, radical change in methods and technique prove factors in promoting progressive propositions in which capital or influence from high places may be easily obtained on the basis of merit and practicality. The mind will be attuned to surprisingly novel and constructive levels in fresh fields.

Those whose birthday it is may look forward to a very progressive and productive year, with much energy and talent applied to putting over major programs. Originality, novelty and improved techniques will attract proper support and capital for promotion. The mind will be keyed to innovation and creative ability, receiving due recognition and profit. Personal affiliations also give happiness and gratification.

A child born on this day may have much creative ability and originality, with a definite trend toward the new, untried and novel or modern, in art, science, philosophy, invention or romance.

James H. Rutter Elected Warden Of Prince Edward

Picton, Jan. 17 (Special).—James H. Rutter, Reeve of Wellington, was acclaimed Warden of Prince Edward County by acclamation when County Council met here this afternoon. Though all members of the council received nominations for the office, all withdrew in favor of Reeve J. H. Rutter. In expressing his thanks for the honor, the newly-elected warden hoped that there would be the fullest co-operation during the year which he felt would be a difficult one.

It is the first time in eight years that Wellington has had the honor of having the elected warden of the county. Warden Rutter has served the village three years as Reeve.

Plea of Ill Health To Explain Liquor Stock Fails Accused

Magistrate J. L. Lloyd failed to become impressed with a story told in yesterday's County Police Court held at Bancroft when His Worship convicted Beatty Roberts, Bancroft resident of keeping liquor for sale, contrary to the L.C.A. Roberts was sentenced to serve two months in the common jail. The accused man was arrested recently by Provincial Constable Stanley Palmateer, Bancroft, when found to be in possession of 24 bottles of hard spirits and 12 bottles of native wine, the officer stated yesterday.

"I have been in ill health and my physician ordered me to consume as much liquor as possible, that's why I had such a large stock of whiskey on hand," stated Roberts, but his pleadings fell upon deaf ears as His Worship convicted the accused.

RIVERSIDE BOYS INCREASE MARGIN IN RURAL LOOP

Glen Ross Defeats Short-Handed Ivanhoe Crew to Tune of 7-2

FOXBORO DRAWS

Zion Hill Gives Foxboro Team Real Battle in 1-1 Draw

Stirling, January 17—(Special)—The fast skating "Riverside Boys" from Glen Ross moved further to the front, when they swamped the short-handed Ivanhoe crew to the tune of 7-2 in the first half of the regular double feature of the Centre Hastings Rural Hockey League in the Stirling Arena on Tuesday evening. Power and more power seems to be the thing, which carries the roaring "Riverdrivers" on their continued winning spree. In the second half of the twin bill, Foxboro and Zion Hill battled to a one-all tie after sixty minutes of real thrilling hockey. The league of the farm lads is off to a good start after two or three "weak years" and rumours that they intend moving to new quarters are entirely without foundation. Fans around Stirling district have come to know each of these players and look forward each night to their respective performances. Yet it seems that some "misinformed" enthusiast has intimated that they are about to move to new stamping ground. League officials are forever on the lookout for better conditions for these lads to get their chance and no better arrangement has ever been presented to the executive than those under which they are now playing. For that reason there shall be no move made to establish the league in any other part of the county and rumours to that effect are entirely without foundation.

Did Negotiate With Others

The recently published report that Central Hastings League was considering pulling stakes and moving to new quarters was false, and entirely unofficial. Officers of the League did negotiate with rink officials elsewhere but found the Stirling arrangements superior to those offered in other towns.

First Game

In the first game of last night's twin bill out at the Stirling rink "The Galloping Riversides" whipped the short-handed Ivanhoe crew 7-2 making their third straight victory of the season Armstrong rapped home the first counter after five minutes of play taking the pass from G. Fraser and G. Pyear accounted for the second tally taking the pass from Doug Martin. In the second period "Russ" Pyear made it three for Glen Ross with Armstrong getting the assist and with four minutes of the period left Armstrong scored the fourth goal of the game unassisted. Early in the final period Armstrong clicked again to put the Riversides four up, and hope for the Easterners went haywire, when MacDonald also rapped one past Delve. "Russ" Pyear clicked for the other counter and both Ivanhoe goals were scored by "Stew" Kerby in the last period.

Armstrong, Pyears and both Gerry and Russ went well for the winners with Stew Kerby being the standout for the Ivanhoe crew. In spite of the large number of goals scored against him, Delve displayed real improvement in the nets and with the team at full strength they can still give anyone in the group plenty of worry.

The line-ups—Glen Ross—goal—Hagerman; defence, Brown and Fraser; centre—Martin; wings—G. Pyear and R. Pyear; subs—MacDonald, Armstrong and Brooks.

Ivanhoe—goal—Delve; defence — A. Ray and A. Fleming; centre—Kerby; wings — Thompson and Woods.

Second Game

The best game of the twin bill by far was the keen display of real hockey by Foxboro and Zion as they battled sixty minutes to a one-all tie. With both teams practically at full strength they were evenly matched as the score indicates and both teams tried hard for the goal which meant a win. Outstanding in the play of this game were the performances of the respective goalies. Gifford really hit his stride for the first time this season, playing a bang up game and Normie Guay turned out some dandies at the other end of the rink.

"Gordie" Walt rapped home the counter for the "Foxes" after fourteen minutes of the first period. No further scoring was done until midway through the middle period, when Tom Bedford got the equalizer and the fast game ended with the score that way. Dickey, Simms, Brough and Ketcheson were the best for the "Irish" with Gifford a standout in their nets. Guay brothers "Normie" Gay, Thompson and Walt looked best for the "Foxes."

The line-ups—goal—Guay; defence—N. Guay, G. Walt; centre—Grant Wright; wings — Spencer and Thompson; subs—Gough, Defoe, G. Gay and J. Gay.

Zion Hill —goal —Gifford; defence—Dickey and Bedford; centre —Brough; wings—Ketcheson and Faulkner; subs — Simms, Ray, Tummon

Encouraging reports were received from the various departments showing splendid progress had been made last year in all phases of Sunday school work.

NORWOOD HELD TO 1-1 DRAW

Stirling Squad Snaps Long Losing Streak in Trent Valley Loop

Stirling, January 17—(Special) — Having knocked off the much feared Campbellford entry in the Trent Valley Loop Stirling Bombers have apparently hit their stride entertaining Norwood's snappy contingent in the local arena on Monday evening the local kids should have chalked up another win.

Smart combination plays were featured by the visitors who were apparently hampered by slow ice. Hill and Webb combined for their only counter and Fox in the Stirling nets robbed them of many good tries. Morton got the Stirling goal batting in a pass from Richardson and both teams tried all known tactics to break the tie which carried them into ten minutes overtime.

With their smooth combination play not getting results the visitors tried to lay on the beef and in this quarter they were more than matched for each penalty issued one was handed the opposing team and hefty bodying climaxed in a short battle which found Morton and Doyle in the cooler. The game was packed with thrills and the local lads who have finally emerged from a losing spree seem to be on their way up. They have plenty of what it takes and will be right in there trying all the way.

The Teams

Norwood — goal, McMaster; defence, Webb and Brady; centre, O'Leary; wings, Hill, Richardson; subs. Puffer, Rothwell, Puffer, Rodgers and Rodgers.

Stirling— goal, Fox; defence, Walker, Jones; centre, Armstrong; wings; Fraser and Barnum; subs — Morton, Richardson, May, Long, and Dainard.

Referee—Innes and Sells.
